10 Senators Ask Limits On Guns—Tightest Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten senators introduced Wednesday a compulsory firearms registration and licensing bill that goes far beyond the gun control legislation sought by President Johnson.

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings (D-Md.), chief sponsor of the bill, told the Senate he also would ask for a congressional investigation of what he called the gun lobby.

In a related development, Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson announced new postal regulations designed to tighten up the traffic in firearms.

Under the new postal rules, Watson said any package containing guns would be accepted for mailing unless it was clearly labeled "Firearms."

Further, he said, delivery of mailed firearms would be held up until the chief law enforcement officer of the community to which the package was addressed was notified.

Watson also announced that all sawed-off shotguns and short-barreled rifles were being banned from the mails under the "concealed weapons" regulation.

Exception will be made in the case of weapons addressed to authorized persons such as law enforcement and military officers.

Watson outlined the new steps in a speech at the National Press Club. He said he was urging private express companies to follow the Post Office lead in helping local law officers keep track of gun shipments.

Tydings, who is a member of the Judiciary Committee, told the Senate he would ask that the proposed gun lobby investigation be handled by the Judiciary Committee's juvenile delinquency subcommittee.

This would put it under the direction of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.), an advocate of tighter gun controls and a sharp critic of the National Rifle Association. Dodd is chairman of the subcommittee.

Tydings said "the gun lobby, led by said Washington lobbyists of the National Rifle Association, the Minutemen and other extremist groups, has without the slightest twinge of conscience" opposed all effective firearms measures.

The public is entitled to know whether these organizations are registered as lobbyists and what lobbying they have engaged in, he said.

Tydings also said he has asked the Internal Revenue Service why the NRA "remains unregistered and untaxed." He said the NRA spends a large percentage of its annual $5.7 million budget for "lobbying against the public interest."

Harold W. Glassen, president of the National Rifle Association, told a news conference that gun registration would be another step in what he called "obviously a plan to disarm American citizens."

At Least 6 Die In Plane Mishap

NEW DELHI (AP) — A Pan American Airways Boeing 707 jet liner, groping its way in for a landing in a rainstorm, caught fire and burned this morning at Calcutta's Dum Dum airport. First reports said six of the 63 persons aboard died.

According to government-run All India Radio, the Pan Am jet, inbound from Bangkok, broke out in flames in the rear area at about the same time as it landed. Emergency vehicles swarmed to the spot where the plane stopped rolling but flames destroyed the plane.

Pan American officials were still attempting to prepare a passenger list. They said they had no immediate information on names of the injured or dead. At least two persons who survived the blazing landing are reported in serious condition.

In New York, a Pan American spokesman said the occupants included 53 passengers and 10 crew members. Of the 53 passengers, five were company employees traveling as passengers, the airline said.

Right To Dissent At Stake In Spock Trial, Lawyer Says

BOSTON (AP) — Defense lawyers said Wednesday America's right to dissent over the war in Vietnam is at stake in the anti-draft conspiracy trial of Dr. Benjamin Spock and four others.

Counsel for all except Spock gave closing statements on the 17th day of the trial. They denied that the defendants "conspired" against the Selective Service system, or "induced" young men to refuse to serve in the military.

"Is a public press conference evidence of criminal conspiracy?" asked James D. St. Clair, lawyer for Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr.

Barnard Sees Blaiberg; Condition Is Improved

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard returned Wednesday from Europe and rushed to the bedside of his heart transplant patient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who is suffering from hepatitis—a liver ailment.

Groote Schuur Hospital had reported earlier Wednesday that Blaiberg's condition was slightly improved and the hepatitis was no worse. Barnard declined to give further information.

"Make no mistake about it — there is a step-by-step move afoot to accomplish the ultimate deprivation of the American right to keep and bear arms," Glassen said.

The NRA president also said he doesn't believe the postmaster general has the authority to hold up mail delivery of guns particularly into states that have no laws restricting purchase of firearms.

The bill, entitled a Gun Crime Prevention Act, would give the states a chance to pass their own laws, but in any state that failed to do so, the proposed federal legislation would apply.

All persons who wanted to own, borrow or otherwise possess a firearm would have to obtain a license. It would be illegal to sell or transfer a firearm or ammunition to a person who did not have a license.

Violations would be punishable by a $10,000 fine and 10 years' imprisonment.

Joining with Tydings in sponsoring the bill to require the registration and licensing of all firearms are Sens. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), Daniel B. Brewster (D-Md.), Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), Jacob K. Javits (R-N. Y.), Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.), and Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio).

Also Sens. George Smathers (D-Fla.), Walter F. Mondale (D-Minn.), and Vance Hartke (D-Ind.).

Poor Marchers Resume Protests, Endure Elements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demonstrators endured drenching rains in an all-night vigil at the Department of Agriculture Wednesday as the Poor People's campaign renewed its attack on hunger in America.

The protest was the first major demonstration by the campaign in more than a week.

About 350 persons marched on the agency. One-fifth continued the vigil outside the department after nightfall.

About 100 women split off to stage their own march on the U.S. Capitol, marked by a brief police encounter when the women ignored orders to break into small groups as they approached the grounds.

Police moved in to cut the double line of women into three separate groups to comply with a law forbidding demonstrations on the Capitol grounds, then followed the women wherever they went. Most of the protesters wandered about the grounds for an hour, then marched back to join the Agriculture Department vigil.

Singing "Johnson, you can't jail us all," the women said they were protesting a bill in Congress that would prevent an extension of the Poor People's permit to camp near the Lincoln Memorial. The permit runs out June 16.

The women also had intended their separate march to show they had support from suburban Washington women. But their leader, Miss Linda Cushman of New York City, said about 40 suburban women went home because the march was late in starting.

Campaign leader Rev. Ralph Abernathy led the march of about one mile from the encampment, Resurrection City, to the Agriculture Department.

Meanwhile, the Interior Department issued a permit for a June 19 mass rally in Washington in support of the Poor People's Campaign.

Sterling Tucker, newly named director of the march and rally, indicated at a briefing for reporters that a realistic goal for participants would be something less than 100,000.

The 1963 civil rights March on Washington, to which the planned demonstration has been compared, drew an estimated 200,000 people.

"Perhaps the worst that can be said of him is that he saw war, too, and tried to stop it," he said of the Presbyterian minister.

"It is likely that a clergyman, chaplain to one of the major universities of the world, with a distinguished military record, (formerly) a trusted employee of the CIA, would enter a conspiracy?" St. Clair asked.

Coffin sought to "petition the government" to challenge the draft at an anti-draft rally last Oct. 20 outside the Department of Justice in Washington, he said.

"Are they all conspirators?" he asked of the several hundred demonstrators.

Of a similar demonstration last Dec. 5 in New York City, the lawyer said "even Mayor Lindsay had more to do" with it than did Coffin, who was not present.

Both demonstrations form key elements of the government's case. Spock, 65, and Coffin, 43, are on trial with Harvard graduate student Michael Ferber, 23; writer Mitchell Goodman, 44, of Temple, Maine; and Washington research director Marcus Raskin, 34.

Wallace Offers Solution To Crime: Enforce Law, Control Reds Not Guns

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Alabama's George C. Wallace said Wednesday the government should register Communists, not guns, and the way to abolish crime is by law enforcement.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A threat on the life of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace was telephoned to city police headquarters today shortly after his arrival here to campaign for president.

his opposition to federal gun control legislation.

McCarthy Stand Could Split Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy held out the possibility of a post-convention split Wednesday by saying it would be "very difficult" for him to back Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey if Humphrey maintains his support of U.S. Vietnam policy.

Resuming his presidential campaign a week after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the Minnesota senator said he doubts the accuracy of tabulations showing Humphrey well in the lead in terms of firm delegate strength for the party's August nominating convention.

"I don't think these counts are accurate," he said. "I don't think the delegates have really made up their minds yet."

McCarthy said his efforts from now on, in what he termed "a limited campaign," will be directed at delegates and at party officeholders, both as to the issues and "what candidate is best likely to be able to carry those issues to the country."

McCarthy said discussions are under way to win support from Kennedy's delegates.

Carrier, Oil Ship Collide At Sea

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston-based carrier USS Wasp and the fleet oiler Truckee collided at sea about 75 miles off the Virginia Capes Wednesday, the Navy reported.

The spokesman at the First Naval District said there were no personal injuries but the starboard side of the Wasp and the port side of the Truckee were damaged.

The ships were engaged in a transfer of aviation gasoline at the time of the collision, the spokesman said.

Both ships headed for their home ports under their own power, the Wasp to Boston and the Truckee to Norfolk. The Truckee is expected to arrive in Norfolk early today and the Wasp in Boston later in the day.

Atlantic Fleet Headquarters at Norfolk said there would be no further information released on the collision Wednesday night.

and an appeal to black voters. This was the second stop in an 11-city southern fund-raising trip.

Local authorities, Wallace said at an airport press conference, should decide about gun control.

"They ought to abolish crime by putting people in jail," he said. "I'll tell you what's brought more crime than guns: It's the Supreme Court of the United States . . . and those in high places."

Wallace said decisions of the court in recent years had tied the hands of law enforcement. Yet, he said, the court is "subject to public opinion," and he cited as proof the tribunal's recent stop-and-frisk ruling in favor of police.

If elected, Wallace said, he would ask Congress to enact measures nullifying Supreme Court edicts which restrict law enforcement.

Wallace, who once stood in a doorway to block black students at the University of Alabama, declared that he is not a racist as he has been labeled by some critics. "Law and order" is the best answer to racial problems, he said.

"I want to do for the Negro what the government ought to do," he said when asked what platform he offered for the average black voter. Specifically, he mentioned a need to disperse industry and population from urban centers and to retain the poor and illiterate in trade schools.

Rockefeller Gets Warm Reception From School Kids

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, first major campaigner to visit here since Robert F. Kennedy's assassination, waded smiling into a crowd of 300 at a school Wednesday—and got a warm welcome.

"Candidates must go out among the people like Sen. Kennedy, who gave his life for the people," he told a class during an unscheduled visit to the predominantly black district of Watts.

In a busy day of appearances, the contender for the Republican presidential nomination also said that if one of the television networks offers time, he would "accept immediately, I'm ready," an invitation to debate former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon is regarded as the GOP front runner.

In New York, Nixon turned down the governor's challenge.

A spokesman said the former vice president believed such a debate "would only serve the Democrats by promoting divisive tendencies among Republicans."

Nixon has been on a brief vacation in the Bahamas.

Rockefeller was accompanied by two New York state troopers, at least half a dozen Secret Service men, and an undisclosed number of local policemen.

His guards became separated from him by a few feet after he waded into a throng of youngsters at Centennial High School. But there were no incidents among the tightly-packed group, just friendly shouts and greetings.

Rockefeller was making a scheduled tour of the Watts Manufacturing Co. when 16-year-old Francine Sheppard asked him to cross the street and visit the high school.

Not everyone was overjoyed by his impromptu action. The assistant principal, Robert F. Smith, commenting on the confusion that resulted said: "It was a real dumb thing to do."

Saigon Shelling Hurting Peace Talks, U.S. Says

PARIS (AP) — The United States warned North Vietnam Wednesday that the enemy shelling of Saigon could have "the most serious consequences" for Vietnamese peace talks here, and that "the prospects for progress" now are largely in the hands of Hanoi.

In a give-and-take session, the eighth in this first month of the conference, the United States demanded that North Vietnam "recognize the realities of the situation" and be prepared to make some gesture toward peace.

There was no visible progress at the session, which lasted 3 hours and 50 minutes. For the second time, a week-long recess was agreed, at the insistence of the North Vietnamese.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, the chief U.S. negotiator bore down on the shelling issue.

"I have stated before the views of my government concerning these terrorist attacks upon Saigon," Harriman told the chief Hanoi delegate, Xuan Thuy. "Today I want to be sure you understand that this is a situation which could have the most serious consequences for these talks."

Once again, both Harriman and Thuy made public lengthy statements at the close of the session. A North Vietnamese spokesman said Thuy accused Harriman of "distorting the facts in order to confuse the public."

But Thuy did agree to "take under advisement" a U.S. proposal to halt the propaganda aspects of the possession statements, and to give a reply at an "appropriate moment."

William J. Jordan, the U.S. spokesman, said he could not judge whether this represented progress, but that it was the first time the Hanoi side had agreed to study the American proposal.

Harriman vigorously condemned the North Vietnamese for the attacks on Saigon. He said "high-ranking defectors have informed the public that the current offensive was planned and directed by North Vietnamese generals," and that the attacks were carried out with North Vietnamese rockets and mortars.

The North Vietnamese, he said, responded

Viet Cong Warn Of More Terror, Military Reports

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnamese military that the Viet Cong threaten to intensify their terrorist shelling of Saigon with 100 reported during a lull in hostilities today round barrages starting next Monday.

The military spokesmen said the word had been spread by the Viet Cong in leaflets that the near-nightly shelling would go on in this fashion.

The guerrillas mortared an ammunition dump near the capital before dawn today and shelled two province capitals but gave Saigon one of its quietest nights since beginning the shelling on May 5.

The reports of heavier barrages to come could be aimed at spreading fear in the already edgy city, where recent night shelling has killed scores of civilians, and at influencing the Paris peace negotiations.

Area Schools' Problems With Accreditation Aired

Lack of sufficient local autonomy and general education provisions at two area community colleges led to the loss of the schools' accreditation, the Board of Regents and the Board of Public Instruction were told Wednesday.

Norman Burns, executive secretary of the North Central Association (NCA), the agency that accredits Iowa's colleges and universities, spoke at a joint session of the two boards here and elaborated on previously cited reasons for the loss of accreditation at community colleges in Burlington and Mason City in March.

Burns stressed that the NCA does not attempt to tell a state how to organize its institutions. Each area college, however, should have substantial autonomy to carry out the general purpose of the institution within a general state organized framework, Burns said.

Burns called for the area college's latitude on matters concerning curriculum. A college's control over such matters would best serve the students attending the college and the area in which the college operated, he said.

Burns said area colleges should choose their own staff, but the colleges should operate under some general state guidelines. Rigid certification of staff members is undesirable, Burns said.

A college's loss of accreditation is cumulative, Burns said, and no single factor causes the accreditation loss.

The NCA is not adverse to vocational stress in area colleges, Burns said. He said the NCA considered vocational education an important part of an area college, but the amount of vocational training an institution offers should be consistent with the role the college serves in its community.

Burns said, however, that any program of education which led to some sort of certification ought to provide some sort of general education to better ed to U.S. restraint in limiting the bombing of the North since March 31 by intensifying their own "military, subversive and terrorist efforts in the south."

"We have been unable to detect any sign of any restraint on North Vietnam's part," Harriman said. "This intensification by North Vietnam creates serious doubts that completely stopping the bombing of the North would evoke acts of good faith on the North Vietnamese side."

Court Martial Set For Iowa Citizen Opposed To Draft

The mother of a 21-year-old airman from Iowa City who is to face court martial proceedings Tuesday expressed surprise Wednesday night when informed of her son's plight.

"We've never heard anything about this," Mrs. J. Newman Toomey told The Daily Iowan. "I've never been so upset in my life."

The Toomey's son, Terence, has been charged with violating a general regulation and promoting disloyalty and disaffection among the civilian population in connection with an anti-draft demonstration on April 2 in Albuquerque, N. M., the Associated Press reported.

The Toomey youth, a former student at the University, is stationed at Kirkland Air Force Base in Albuquerque.

The Air Force, in making the announcement of the court martial proceedings, said Toomey participated in the anti-draft demonstration in full uniform and carried a sign which bore the statement, "Hell no. Don't Go," in front of a military induction center, the AP reported.

The Toomeys live at 1409 Keokuk St. The elder Toomey is an attorney.

Later Wednesday night, the elder Toomey said he had been in contact with his son's wife in Albuquerque but had been unable to reach his son.

Toomey said his son apparently was well supplied with legal defense—two Air Force lawyers and several volunteer civilian lawyers. He said it was too early to tell what kind of a chance his son had.

Toomey is a veteran of World War II and a former-area justice of the peace.

Hostages Freed, Inmates Give Up

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Twenty-one hostages, after 28 hours under the guns of four long-term inmates, walked free and unharmed from the U.S. Penitentiary here Wednesday.

Shortly after the hostages were released, upon settlement of a list of grievances submitted by the inmates, the FBI arrested the fiancée of one of the four and charged her with smuggling the pistols, ammunition and four hacksaw blades into the maximum security prison on Sunday.

Arrested was Arlene Anna Granito, 25, a native of Newark, N.J. Miss Granito told reporters Tuesday she moved to Atlanta in early April to be near her fiancée, Ralph M. Lepiscopo.

Area Schools' Problems With Accreditation Aired

prepare an individual for his work.

The general education aspect of vocational education should be given sufficient, but not primary, emphasis in a vocational course program, Burns said.

He suggested a ratio of 4 general education to 4 vocational or technical training in a curriculum program.

Thomas Loudon, a regent from Keokuk, raised the possibility of separating the vocational operations of an area college from the junior college operations. He asked whether an area college separated in this manner could receive partial accreditation.

Burns said that the NCA would not accredit such an institution since the NCA views the operations of the whole institution in giving an accreditation rating.

Selby Ballontyne, superintendent of the Area 10 Community College in Cedar Rapids, said the limitations of funds severely affected an area college's general education course curriculum.

Ballontyne said that state and local funds were not available for general education courses. If an area college does not have enough money, he said, the general education courses are dropped.

Members of the two boards agreed to study the role of area colleges further to decide on the steps necessary to regain the accreditation of the two community colleges.

The accreditation denials of the Mason City and Burlington schools are currently under appeal. A decision on their appeals will be delivered June 22 by an NCA appeal board.

The Board of Public Instruction has control over the state's community colleges. The regents, while not directly connected with the colleges, are concerned with the accreditation of the colleges since it effects transfer students from the community colleges to other state institutions.

Bus subsidy dispute is only part of transportation problem

Another chapter in the continuing story of "Will Iowa City get satisfactory, permanent bus service" was written this week — and the conclusion is not in sight.

At a city-University meeting Tuesday, City Manager Frank Smiley revealed that Lewis Negus, head of the Iowa City Coach Co., had met with City Atty. Jay Honohan to discuss a new contract and subsidy arrangement for the bus company. It was the first time since March that serious contract talks had taken place.

When the city and University cut off their $5,000 monthly subsidy to Negus' bus line, Negus raised his fares from 10 to 15 cents and warned that he might either raise fares again or stop service altogether if he didn't show a profit by summer — which is his option, since he is not presently under any contract or franchise to the city.

The situation is complex. As long as Negus continues to operate his private system, the city can't request federal funds to operate a municipal transit system. Negus will continue to operate his company as long as it shows a decent profit, but the bus routes and stops don't seem to be satisfactory for students who are unable to drive to campus every day.

There is a chance that the city will resume its subsidy of the Iowa City Coach Co. — they may even buy new buses for Negus, if he is willing to manage a municipally-operated system — and either fares could be lowered or service extended. But that doesn't seem too likely in the near future.

The significance of the bus service conflict is that it is yet another facet of the problem of transportation in Iowa City. The problem of getting from homes to downtown is especially acute for students. Here's a sample of the situation that could face students by next fall:

- The bus system may have deteriorated or disappeared completely, or the fares may have risen to 20 or 25 cents.

- The city may have reduced the number of parking meters in the downtown area or reduced the maximum amount of time on any meter to less than one hour.

- The University may have made it next to impossible for the majority of students to park in its lots or metered spaces — and the number of spaces may have been cut drastically either to give more to faculty and staff parking or to make way for new construction.

As it is, finding a parking space in downtown Iowa City is a harrowing experience. Next year, it will be worse: the University is growing, as is the city, and a cutback in bus service may force some people to drive every day who formerly took a bus.

The city is planning a new parking ramp on College Street, but construction probably won't begin until October or later, and there is a good chance that, when and if the ramp is completed, it won't really take up much of the slack.

The University, if it is interested in having its students attend classes, therefore has three alternatives:

- Buy bicycles for all students who live five blocks or more from the central campus area;

- Buy two or three blocks of downtown land for the construction of University-owned parking ramps — available to all students with cars.

- Convince the city that it should give Negus a big subsidy, so he can increase service and lower fares to 10 cents again, and increase the University's own share in the subsidy — or, perhaps, take it over entirely, to set up the most convenient routes for University students, who could pay discount rates for one- or two-semester fare cards.

The second alternative, when the expense is considered, is as ridiculous as the first, since building more parking ramps would probably encourage just that many more people to drive cars rather than walk or ride the bus.

President Bowen has expressed a desire in the past to convert the University into a pedestrian campus, where cars are not permitted, and students walk to class through spacious lawns and quiet, landscaped quadrangles. It is a pleasant idea, except for the fact that the University has 18,000 students and is growing every year; the present campus buildings are spread far and wide, from East Hall on Iowa Avenue to the College of Law overlooking Riverside Drive; and most students live off-campus, in Greek houses on both sides of the river and in apartment complexes built on the farthest outskirts of Iowa City and Coralville.

The transportation situation demands more attention from the University — and more money, unfortunately — than any plans to clear the campus of all cars.

And something should be done, whatever the best solution might be, right now, before the situation gets any worse.

'Senator, will you please put down the magazine?'

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — "The Subcommittee on Violence will come to order. Will someone please turn off that television set?"

"Sorry, I was fascinated by a commercial of two people kidnaping a car dealer and stealing the car. It's rather an extraordinary way to sell cars."

"Huh? Oh — excuse me. Look at this. Here is a carbine for sale by mail for only $26. How the blazes do they do it?"

"Probably some foreign make. My constituents are furious at the flood of foreign guns coming into this country."

"I don't blame them. If you're an American gun lover, the least you can do is buy American."

"Gentlemen, can we call this meeting to order? We're trying to get to the causes of violence and . . ."

"Listen, before we start, I saw a movie the other night and found it damned interesting. It was a cowboy picture and it may have had a little too much blood for everybody's taste, but I never saw anything so realistic."

"Talk about realism. Did you see that shot of the soldier on the news last night on TV just as he got hit and . . ."

"This meeting must come to order immediately. We are here today to discuss the causes of violence in the United States."

"May I ask a question? Will we be done by four? If I don't get home early my wife will kill me."

"Knowing your wife, she would, too."

IN THE GROOVE— Tjader, Szabo, McFarland— a quiet, important happening

By G. R. KISSICK

For The Daily Iowan

One of the most important and yet quietest happenings on the jazz scene this year was the realization of a life-time ambition for Cal Tjader, Gary McFarland, and Gabor Szabo. These three major jazzmen have left their respective recording companies to form their own—Skye Records. Their success was celebrated by the blossoming of an exotic three-petaled flower, i.e. a new release by each of these three artists. Each petal guarantees a beautiful high.

Cal Tjader, noted for the Latin jazz of "Soul Sauce," continues in the same vein in "Solar Heat" (SK-J). Tjader describes the title song as "Rock-Latin-Boogaloo-Cha-cha". The album contains a couple bossa novas ("Amazon" and "Felicidade"), a Tjader mambo ("Mambo Sangria"), a couple McFarland originals where Gary's vibes join Cal's ("Eye of the Devil" and "Fried Bananas"), and others—the most beautiful being "Ode to Billie Joe."

Gary McFarland, an innovator in voicings, raises the human voice to the sublime in the Lennon-McCartney tune "Here, There and Everywhere." The whistle (but not the common everyday whistle) is frequently in evidence in this

"May I repeat, gentlemen, we're here to discuss violence. Let's not get off the track."

"Well, can we get on with it? I've got an election coming up, and if I don't murder my opponent in the primary, I'm a dead duck."

"Let's not talk politics now. We have to think of witnesses we want to call."

"I hope we come up with something concrete because I have to give a graduation speech and I've been beating my brains out trying to think of something to say."

"If you don't beat your brains out, the students will do it for you."

"Very funny."

"We're getting off the subject again, gentlemen."

"I'd like to say one thing before we get started. We can't keep the secretaries on the committee late unless we can escort them home by the police."

"I'm not sure the police will agree to that."

"But how are we going to get the report out on time?"

"We could work Saturdays."

"That's no good. I'm going hunting on Saturday."

"We'll face that problem when we come to it."

"I believe that the first thing we should do is write a preface to the report deploring violence."

"That's a stupid idea."

"Don't call me stupid unless you want to step outside."

"Order, order! Can't we keep our feelings under control?"

"If I'm going to work on this committee, I demand respect."

"Drop dead."

"It looks as if we're not going to get anywhere today. Let's adjourn until tomorrow."

"Good idea. It will give us a chance to read up on why people are always resorting to violence."

What is 'The Bag' about? 'Everything,' says the author

By ROBERT COOVER

Visiting Lecturer, Writers Workshop
"The Bag" by Sol Yurick, Trident Press, New York, 1968, 476 pages, $6.95. Available at Iowa Book & Supply Co.

"What's a bag?" Sol Yurick once asked himself in a published interview. "A set of social attitudes with an emotional investment. An old lady who has seen better days. A bagman is a collector of graft. . . sort of external revenue. Bags are the unit of measurement by which junkies measure their level of involvement. Who's out of the bag? No one. The bag's a Klein bottle of a superior order (I suppose there's something more subtle in topology that I mean) where the inside is contiguous with the outside and so one is in it no matter where one is at. It is also used in the sense of having a bag on, which means intoxication, which is, on the one hand, possibly ecstatic, and on the other hand, possibly poisoned."

In Yurick's third novel, "The Bag," the old lady who has seen better days is urban America, and Yurick's saga of her degradation and rejuvenation (if that's what's happening) is surely the greatest Portrait of a Lady of all time.

When Yurick visited the University during the Modern Letters Conference on "The New Novel" in October 1967, someone asked him what his next book was about; his reply was simply: "Everything." But like all good realists, he has actually produced a kind of social allegory in which isolated qualities are clustered about entities known as "characters."

And so one can say that it is the story of the Unreachables, the hardcore welfare clients of the ghettos, and especially big black ageless Minnie D., heroine of Yurick's first published story, "The Annealing" (Noble Savage 2, October 1960), and her children, notably the junkie Alonso and the artist Hinton, central character in Yurick's first published novel, "The Warriors" (Holt, Rinehart, & Winston, New York, 1965).

It is also the story of the people who exploit the Unreachables, people like slum landlord Meyer Faust, escape from Poland and the German ovens, whose dream in life is to win the Sons of Charity award, and whose principal achievement is to steal Family Court supervisor Eve Carmichael away from his lesbian psychiatrist daughter Clara; people in publishing like Enshel and Victor and Philidor for whom it's all good coo; politicians like Sen. Roy Bleakie, dynamic lawyer for the defense in Yurick's second novel, "Fertig" (Trident Press, New York, 1966), now running for the White House by way of the "disenchanted and disenfranchised."

And it's about the young revolutionaries, white and black, and about the people in welfare who "service" the Unreachables, and the Task Force that distantly studies them, and coos and kids and "the private sector" and hires and technocrats. And above all, it's the story of novelist and essayist Sam Miller and his gradual transmutation into Unreachable Mr. Alpha, a total radicalization through engagement — of flesh, mind, and spirit — with the Lady. Yurick immerses — not so much by the force of his public personality nor by the beauty and clarity of his prose (in fact, he is somewhat clumsy in public and often dense and diffuse in his prose) — but by the overwhelming power of his prophetic vision. He is immensely knowledgeable, compassionate, aware, profound, complex. And he is creating the Great Epic of our times.

Black militant mourns Kennedy

To the Editor:

It is at a time of great sorrow that I write this letter. To think that America has suffered the loss of three great men in the past five years is a tragic affair.

To think that unspeakable tragedies such as these are a result of the SICK American society is that much more hard to bear. SUCH A SICK SOCIETY SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO EXIST.

Commissions cannot fill the void left by the death of Senator Kennedy. Words cannot express the sorrow felt by many Americans — the thoughts that leaders of men cannot exist for fear of bullets and death. HOW CAN THE AMERICAN SOCIETY EXIST?

A white man again has allegedly assassinated a leader. Yet, I still cannot be a racist. I must still be militant — I must dedicate my life to combating the SYSTEM and reforming the SYSTEM so that it will be safe not only for myself but also for the children this generation will produce.

We must band together in this hour either to reaffirm a faith in this WEAK system or else WE MUST BAND TO-GETHER TO BAN THE SYSTEM THAT ALLOWS SUCH ACTIVITIES.

We cannot be safe as Americans, Afro-Americans, or citizens of a racist society built on the principles of assassination and genocide of the capable leaders of the American tradition.

I cannot condone such activities. AMERICA cannot condone such activities. AMERICA MUST COME AROUND — WE MUST COME AROUND! If not, America will come down on its own principles.

I now dedicate myself to such ends.

under the tea by Mike Lally

Things to do around Iowa City this summer:

- Pay fifty cents to go swimming in a public pool.
- Hear Paul Goodman, author of "Growing Up Absurd" and other books, speak at the Union, 8:00 p.m. Monday the 17th.
- Go over to somebody's grandmother's place and eat stale candy.
- Quote from Pound's Cantos: "There is no greater incomprehension/Than between the young and the young."
- Try iced tea and see.
- Donate food and clothing to the Poor People's Campaign at the Trinity Episcopal Church.
- Leave for Washington, D.C. and the big rally on the 19th.
- Go swimming where it is neither profitable nor allowed.
- Try to repay the wall-eyed stare of a Kafka with the Kafka-eyed stares of our walls.
- Start going to Kenney's.
- Consider why we are hated.
- Quote from George Seferis, the Greek poet: "Because we have been bound, because we have been scattered, /And have struggled with difficulties described as non-existent, /Lost, then finding again a road full of blind battalions, /Sinking in marshes and in the lake of Marakthon, /Shall we be able to die in a normal way?"

Extradition Action In Britain Begins

LONDON (AP) — The British government started speedy official action on a formal U.S. request Wednesday for the extradition of James Earl Ray to stand trial in Tennessee for the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

By the end of the day the application had cleared its first legal hurdle at the British Foreign Office.

But court formalities and appeals, if the 40-year-old escaped convict chooses to use them, could delay Ray's return up to six weeks or even longer.

The petition handed in to the Foreign Office by U.S. Consul General Jack Herfurth contained a summary of some of the evidence against Ray in King's murder at a Memphis motel April 4. It also contained information on his escape from the Missouri State Prison while serving an armed robbery charge.

The U.S. government is seeking extradition on both counts and must satisfy a British judge that both would also be crimes under British as well as U.S. law. The petition also contains fingerprints and other material to identify Ray as the man now being held under round-the-clock guard in London's Wandsworth Prison. Officially he is being held here as Ramon George Sneyd, travelling under a Canadian passport issued in that name and charged with passport offenses as well as carrying a loaded gun.

Within hours after receiving the petition, the Foreign Office certified that the request fell within the terms of the 1931 extradition treaty between the two countries.

It then was sent to the Home Office, roughly comparable to the U.S. Justice Department. There lawyers started a preliminary screening to ensure it established a case against Ray, as required by British law.

The Home Office said that if the petition is in order it should be in the hands of Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Frank Milton sometime today.

Under normal procedure, Milton would study the petition and schedule a hearing about a week after receiving it.

If Milton grants extradition, Ray has 15 days to appeal to the High Court, and another 14 days to take the case to the House of Lords if his lawyers want to challenge the order on a point of law.

Ray's court-appointed British lawyer refused all comment on his case.

So long as Ray is held here on passport charges, British police have legal authority to investigate his movements during his three weeks in London prior to his arrest Saturday as he tried to board a plane for Brussels, Scotland Yard is doing that.

The police investigation, carried out at the request and with the cooperation of the FBI, appears directed at determining whether evidence of a conspiracy to kill King can be turned up in London.

Fuel Tax Collection, Refunds Up This Year

DES MOINES (AP) — State Treasurer Paul Franzenburg said Wednesday Iowa's motor fuel tax collection and refunds were higher the first four months of this year than a year ago.

Collections for the four-month period totaled about $31 million this year and $28 million in 1967, Franzenburg said. Refunds totaled $4.6 million through April of this year and about $3 million at the same time last year, he added.

ASP Theater To Tour State This Summer

Action Studies Theater, a trunk-theater group that will travel throughout the state to perform in minority group neighborhoods this summer, will meet at 8 tonight in the Union Grant Room. Students interested in participating in the group may attend.

Sponsored by the Action Studies Program (ASP), the group will travel to minority neighborhoods in Davenport, Waterloo and Des Moines to perform works by Afro-American authors for junior-high school students. The group's purpose is to stimulate interest in theater and Afro-American literature.

The group will also attempt to set up reading and tutorial programs for young people in these neighborhoods.

According to George C. Hoyt, associate professor of business administration and a member of the ASP steering committee, participating students may be able to earn independent study credit for their work.

Employment Sets Record; Jobless Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Record high employment and a 15-year low in unemployment last month reflected continued strength in the nation's economy, the Labor Department reported Wednesday.

A total of 75.9 million Americans were at work — a few thousand more than the previous high in March — while 2.3 million were jobless in May, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The national jobless rate remained for the second straight month at 3.5 per cent of the civilian labor force, matching the lowest figure since the 1953 economic boom after the Korean war.

The number of jobless actually dropped about 150,000 in May and there was a rise of some 600,000 in the labor force to a total of 78.2 million. But after seasonal adjustments the unemployment rate remained stable.

Average earnings of some 45 million non-supervisory workers also climbed to a record high of $2.82 an hour and $106.03 a week. That was up 2 cents an hour and up $1.59 a week from April. It was $5.48 a week above a year earlier.

However, earlier government figures showed much of the wage gain was canceled out by sharply rising living costs.

The unemployment rate for nonwhite workers, mostly blacks, edged down from 6.7 to 6.4 per cent — lowest since 1954 — but was still double the 3.2 per cent rate for white workers. The rate for blacks has been double the rate for white workers for the past 15 years.

Of the total 2.3 million employed last month, 466,000 were nonwhites and about 100,000 of these were black teenagers.

Johnson Pledges To U.N. To Seek End To Arms Race

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Johnson, in a surprise appearance before the United Nations General Assembly Wednesday, pledged that the United States will press all efforts to end the nuclear arms race.

The President delivered a U. S. plea for advances in disarmament minutes after the 124-nation assembly endorsed by an overwhelmingly majority the U. S.-Soviet draft treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

He called the action of the assembly "the most important international agreement in the field of disarmament since the nuclear age began" at the end of World War II.

Then, looking forward to future progress in disarmament, the President pledged that the United States shall "as a major nuclear power, promptly and vigorously pursue negotiations on effective measures to halt the nuclear arms race and to reduce existing nuclear arsenals."

Specifically, the President pledged that the United States would begin "early discussions on the limitation of strategic offensive and defensive nuclear weapons systems."

In his prepared text he said this would take place in the 17-nation disarmament committee in Geneva but this part was not in the speech he delivered. There was no immediate explanation for the deletion.

It was in Geneva that the U. S. - Soviet treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons was worked out in months of negotiations.

Britain took part in the treaty drafting, and joined the United States and the Soviet Union in urging its endorsement by the United Nations.

France, also a nuclear power, stayed aloof from the Geneva talks, and abstained in the assembly vote on the resolution commending the treaty. China, the fifth nuclear power, but not represented here, has assailed the treaty as a U.S.-Soviet plot aimed at establishing a nuclear monopoly.

The vote on the resolution was 95 to 4 with 21 abstentions. The no votes were cast by Albania, Cuba, Tanzania and Zambia. Among the abstainers was India, which has expressed concern over China's nuclear arsenal.

France Orders End To Radical Groups

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's government Wednesday ordered seven radical student groups dissolved and banned all street demonstrations in a bid to halt the bloody rioting that has shaken France.

Four student organizations in Paris canceled a demonstration they had arranged for Wednesday night, apparently indicating the firm action might succeed in restoring a measure of order after nearly six weeks of sporadic turmoil.

Striking employees of the state-run radio and television networks called off a proposed peaceful rally of radio and television listeners and viewers they had scheduled to support their demands for news reporting without government interference.

The ban on demonstrations was announced after a Cabinet meeting at the Elysee Palace, De Gaulle's home. It is to remain in effect until the end of the campaign for election of a new National Assembly June 23 and 30.

The wave of social unrest claimed its fifth fatality. A 49-year-old worker died from a fractured skull suffered during a pitched battle Tuesday between police and strikers at the Peugeot auto works at Sochaux, 220 miles southwest of Paris.

Information Minister Yves

Guena announced the government's decision to dissolve the radical groups. He also said that any attempts to demonstrate will be "pitilessly dispersed" by the police.

The seven groups, Guena said, are small anarchist, Trotskyite and pro-Peking organizations of militants.

Among them is the radical March 22 Movement of Daniel Cohn-Bendit, a firebrand admirer call "Danny the Red," who was in London to appear in a British Broadcasting Corp. television show called "Students in Revolt."

Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin told the Cabinet another of the groups, the Revolutionary Communist Youth organization, was a movement of several hundred Trotskyite students with close ties to Rudi Dutschke's German Socialist Students.

Marcellin said 30 foreigners, including 12 West German students, have been expelled from France for taking part in the riots in Paris and other cities and 22 more arrested Tuesday night in Toulouse will be expelled shortly.

Death Find In Ray Trial Hit By ACLU

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union urged Dist. Atty. Phil Canale Wednesday not to seek the death penalty for James Earl Ray, charged with murdering the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

The ACLU request noted its traditional opposition to capital punishment but also pointed to "serious constitutional questions" raised by a recent Supreme Court decision.

The reference was to a ruling that the death penalty could not be handed down in cases where prospective jurors who do not believe in capital punishment are excluded from the panel.

Ray, accused of shooting King as the civil rights leader stood on a motel balcony here April 4, is being held by British authorities in London, pending action on a U. S. request for extradition.

Meanwhile, Boston attorney F. Lee Bailey expressed concern at a news conference here that the attorneys picked to defend Ray and Sirhan B. Sirhan will run a big risk of getting shot.

Police Probing Armed Robbery At George's Inne

Police said late Wednesday that they have no new leads on the identity of the masked gunman who robbed George's Gourmet Inne, 420 E. Burlington St., of about $70 earlier in day.

The gunman, according to assistant manager Jack L. Barr, 1409 Sherman Ave., entered the restaurant at 12:20 a.m., waved an automatic pistol and said "This is a stick-up, it's real."

There were about 12 customers in the restaurant at the time of the robbery.

The gunman was described as being five feet, eight inches tall and slender, and having sandy hair and acne. He was wearing a dark green, three-quarter-length coat.

Player Says He Can Upset Casper In U.S. Golf Open

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player threw down the gauntlet to favorite Bill Casper while the stock of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer dipped Wednesday on the eve of the 68th U.S. Open golf championship.

"I think I can win it," said Player, the calculating little internationalist from Johannesburg, South Africa, who feeds on bananas, raisins and sub-70 rounds.

"I've refound that putting touch that deserted me in the Masters."

"It's Gary's kind of course and mine too," acknowledged Casper, after he and Player had teamed for a nine-hole final tune-up over the relatively short but exacting Oak Hill Country Club course.

"This is not a course that can be overpowered. You have to outthink and outsmart it. Ben Hogan would do great here. So should Player."

The 36-year-old Casper, winner of four tournaments and nearly $125,000 so far this year, has been made a firm 6-1 favorite in the four-day tournament, starting at 7:30 a.m. EDT today.

The 150-man field—132 of the world's top pros and 12 amateurs—go off at eight and nine-minute intervals.

Wednesday's final practice was interrupted shortly after noon by a flash downpour. But the forecast for today and the weekend is for fair weather and seasonal temperatures.

Player, 33, who has won every major professional crown and captured the Open in 1965 at St. Louis, moved into the No. 2 favorite's spot on the strength of two brilliant sub-par rounds in practice.

He fired a 63 over the 6,962-yard, par 70 layout Friday and on Tuesday, in the last full day of serious practice, posted a 67. No one has been close to those figures.

Player is rated a 7-1 choice, followed by the defending champion, Nicklaus, and Tom Weiskopf, 8-1; Palmer, Roberto De-Vincenzo and Lee Trevino, 10-1; Bob Goalby, Bob Lunn and Bruce Devlin, 12-1.

Lunn and Trevino are members of golf's new breed—bold, long-hitting youngsters threatening to take over the $5.5 million professional tour.

Lunn, 23, son of a San Francisco policeman and former public links champion, won the Memphis and Atlanta opens in succession last month. Trevino, a rugged, 28-year-old Mexican-American, has won close to $55,000 on the tour.

"It's always tough for a newcomer to win the Open," said Casper. "I don't say one of them can't, but the odds are against it."

Casper will be seeking his third open triumph.

Downpour Delays Tennis Tourney

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — The start of the $32,000 U.S. pro tennis championships was washed out Wednesday as a heavy downpour flooded Longwood's grass courts.

The Daily Iowan SPORTS BRIEFS

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants of the National Football League traded defensive back Henry Carr, a former Olympic sprint champion, to the Baltimore Colts Wednesday for linebacker Barry Brown. Both are 25 years old.

Carr played three seasons with the Giants. He intercepted seven passes, four of them in 1966 when he returned one 101 yards for a touchdown against Los Angeles, third longest touchdown interception in NFL history.

The 6-3, 190-pounder won two gold medals in the 1964 Olympics. He captured the 200-meter race and ran on the winning 800-meter relay team.

Brown, a 235-pounder from the University of Florida, played two seasons with the Colts, mostly as a reserve corner back.

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Paul Brown will bring about 120 players to the camp of his new Cincinnati Bengals, the American Football League's 10th team, when camp opens July 5 at Wilmington, Ohio College.

The San Diego Chargers also will open camp the same day at Escondido, Calif., Houston, Kansas City, Oakland and the New York Jets will report July 10, Boston and Denver July 15, Buffalo July 20 and Miami July 22.

In most cases the rookies will report first and the veterans will follow from three to 11 days later. Buffalo, however, will bring rookies and veterans to camp on the same day at Bladell, N.Y.

Cincinnati, as the new expansion club, will be holding its first camp. The only club to shift training sites is New York. The Jets are moving from Peekskill, N.Y., to Hempstead, N.Y., where they will work on the Hofstra University campus.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers placed veteran infielder Eddie Mathews on the disabled list Wednesday.

A team spokesman said Mathews has been undergoing treatment in a Detroit hospital for a herniated disc in his lower back and has not been responding to treatment. This is the first time in the 37-year-old Mathews' 18-year major league career that he has been on the disabled list.

MONTREAL (AP) — Bobby Orr, the Boston Bruins' all-star defenseman, underwent successful surgery at Toronto General Hospital Wednesday for removal of cartilage in his left knee.

Milt Schmidt, general manager of the National Hockey League club, said he was advised by telephone immediately after the operation on his 20-year-old player that it was a complete success.

Tigers Continue Hot Streak; Lolich Stars In 2-1 Victory

DETROIT (AP) — Dick McAuliffe's tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning and Mickey Lolich's five-hit pitching gave the torrid Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over Minnesota's skidding Twins Wednesday night.

The victory was the third straight for the American League leaders and the eighth in their last nine games. The Twins have dropped five in a row.

With one out in the eighth, McAuliffe drilled a home run into the lower right field seats, snapping a 1-1 deadlock. His eighth homer of the season was the Tigers' third hit off southpaw Jim Kaat—and their first since the second inning.

The Tigers took a 1-0 first inning lead after McAuliffe led off with a single and Kaat, 3-3, walked Mickey Stanley and Jim Northrup. McAuliffe scored on Willie Horton's sacrifice fly.

Cesar Tovar drew a walk in the Twins' third, took second on a ground out and scored the tying run on Tony Oliva's single to right.

Santo Helps Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo hit his 10th homer and drove in another run with a double Wednesday as Ferguson Jenkins broke a long losing streak with a 4-1 victory for the Chicago Cubs over Cincinnati.

Jenkins, loser of six of his last seven starts, yielded a leadoff homer to Tony Perez in the second, and then blanked the Reds the rest of the way on a total of five hits.

The Cubs jumped on Jim Maloney for three runs in the fourth inning when Santo, following a leadoff single by Glenn Beckert, and a walk to Billy Williams, pumped a drive which hit the catwalk fence in left field and bounced back into the field for a double.

Beckert and Williams thought the blow was a homer and as a result only Beckert scored. However, a fielder's choice, Lou Johnson's double and a wild pitch gave the Cubs two more runs in the fourth.

Santo's two-out homer off Maloney in the sixth gave the Cubs a 4-1 lead.

Perez' homer increased his league-leading RBI total to 40.

Jarvis Wins 7-1

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves battered St. Louis pitching for 13 hits Wednesday night and beat the Cardinals for the first time in 11 games 7-1 behind Pat Jarvis' three-hitter.

The Cards had won all six meetings with the Braves this season and the last four of 1967.

Jarvis, 6-4, knocked in two runs with a pair of singles, Tito Francona had a homer and two singles, Marty Martinez clubbed two doubles and a triple and Hank Aaron walloped his 11th homer to pace the Braves' attack on Nelson Briles, Pete Mikelsen and Hal Gilson.

Francona's second homer of the season in the second inning began the scoring off Briles, 7-5. The Braves scored four in the third when Martinez tripled, Jarvis singled, Felix Millan doubled and Aaron slugged a two-run homer.

Martinez doubled and Jarvis singled him across in the fourth, knocking out Briles.

Johnson Speech Center To Be Dedicated Saturday

Dedication ceremonies for the University's Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Center will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the parking area west of the new building located south of the Hospital School.

Dance Concert To Be Given Here Saturday

Don Redlich, New York dancer whose concerts have been described by New York critics as "engrossing and exciting, highly theatrical and superbly danced," will present a program Saturday as a feature of the University's Fine Arts Festival of 1968. Tickets for Redlich's dance concert, to be given at 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium, are on sale to the public at $1.50 each.

Redlich is known as an expert in all areas of dance. He studied modern dance with Hanya Holm, has appeared in Broadway musicals, has given many dance concerts, and is also identified with the avant garde in modern dance.

Redlich became an expert gymnast and studied tap dancing while in high school. He graduated from Winona (Mich.) State College, spending several summers during his college years studying modern dance with Hanya Holm in Colorado Springs, Colo.

While doing graduate work in theater and speech at the University of Wisconsin, Redlich directed and choreographed an integration of movement and speech to Archibald MacLeish's "Fall of the City." He went to New York City in 1954 with scholarships at both the Martha Graham School and the Hanya Holm School, and soon was performing in the off-Broadway production of "The Golden Apple."

He performed with the Juilliard Dance Theatre and spent nine months with the show "Plain and Fancy" on Broadway and on tour, and later appeared in "Frankie and Johnny."

Redlich has appeared in a number of television specials, including "Aladdin," "Pinnocchio" and "The Dybbuk."

After making his New York City concert debut in 1958, Redlich presented concerts in Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Richmond, Va. He since has appeared frequently as a soloist in New York City.

Redlich has spent summers since 1963 teaching and choreographing at the University of Wisconsin. He also has taught modern dance at the Hanya Holm School of Dance, at Adelphi University and Sarah Lawrence College.

Elina Mooney, also a New York City dancer, will assist Redlich in the concert. Their program will include eight numbers which have won critical acclaim in Eastern dance centers.

Prof To Attend Parley Probing Heart Transplants

Dr. Lewis E. January, professor of internal medicine at the University, will participate in a special conference on the problems of heart transplantation in Geneva, Switzerland, today and Friday.

January, who is chief of the University Cardiology Division, is among three scientists from the United States invited to the conference, which was called by the Council for International Organizations of Medical Sciences.

The conference will consider immunological and clinical problems of heart transplantation, the definition of death and the moral and legal aspects of heart transplantation.

Shut-Street Plan Meets Roadblock Put Up By Zoners

Residents of Lexington Avenue who have been petitioning to have their street closed, ran into a barricade at the Planning and Zoning Commission meeting Tuesday night.

Residents along the street have petitioned the City Council to barricade the street across the middle so "joy-riders" would stop speeding over the double-dip hills on the street.

But city zoners voted against the scheme Tuesday after Chairman Allan D. Vestal made a motion for disapproval. Vestal said that other alternatives should be considered before the street was barricaded.

Residents who spoke to the commission said that if the street were vacated, city vehicles would lose time having to turn around half-way down and the street would be a hazard for fire trucks which had successive calls on the street.

In the event of bad weather, dedication ceremonies will be held in the Union Main Ballroom. Dr. James C. Hardy, associate professor of speech pathology and audiology, is chairman of the dedication program committee.

Tours of the $2 million facility will be held from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and from 12:30 to 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend the dedication and visit the facility.

The dedication address, "Human Communication," will be given by Dr. Richard L. Masland, professor and chief of neurology at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University. Masland was director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness from 1959 to May, 1968.

Master of ceremonies will be Dr. James F. Curtis, professor and head of the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology. The Rev. Evans A. Worthley, minister emeritus of the Unitarian Universalist Society of Iowa City will give the invocation.

Pres. Howard R. Bowen will give the welcome and accept the building from Stanley F. Redeker, Boone, president of the Board of Regents.

A tribute to the late Professor Wendell Johnson, internationally known University speech pathologist who died in 1965, will be made by Duane C. Spriestersbach, University vice president for research and dean of the Graduate College. Mrs. Johnson will be present at the unveiling of a plaque in honor of her late husband.

Johnson, one of the world's foremost authorities on stuttering and language behavior, held B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from the University. He was president of the American Speech and Hearing Association in 1950, and was founder and chairman of the American Speech and Hearing Foundation.

A member of many professional organizations and adviser to numerous national and international health and vocational rehabilitation groups, he was the author of 10 books, more than 150 articles, and 100 book reviews on speech pathology, semantics and communication processes. He also directed the preparation of some 150 graduate student theses and dissertations.

A man who helped countless stutters through clinical work, teaching and research, Johnson had conquered a severe stuttering problem of his own. He came to the University at the age of 20 as a student member of the first group of stutters in a pioneering research program of the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology.

Masland, who will give the dedication address, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and was head of neurology at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine before joining the National Institutes of Health.

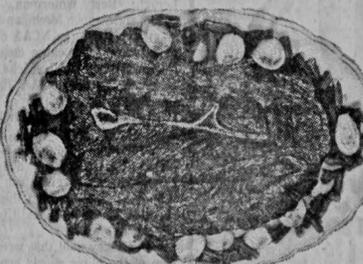

He has served as a member of the board of trustees of the American Academy of Neurology; president of the American Epilepsy Society; vice president of the American Neurological Association; is now a member of the policy committee of the World Federation of Neurology; and has held numerous other posts in professional and voluntary health organizations.

Among the many honors and awards Masland has won, was a citation from the American Speech and Hearing Association in 1967 for his distinguished service to the profession in initiating speech and hearing as a major area of concern to the National Institutes of Health.

Smith Reveals Unapproved Scalise Purchases

DES MOINES — The attorney general's office during the tenure of Democrat Lawrence Scalise purchased equipment and drapes worth more than $3,000 without State Executive Council approval, according to State Auditor Lloyd Smith. Smith said all purchases by state offices must have prior approval of the Executive Council. He said the purchase was made in October, 1966, during the last months of Scalise's term.

Hawks' Happenings

The fourth annual wrestling clinic, directed by Hawkeye wrestling Coach Dave McCuskey, will be held at the University next month in two separate sessions. The sessions are scheduled for July 14-19 and July 21-26.

The clinic is open to any wrestler with at least one year of high school eligibility remaining. McCuskey reported recently that more than 150 wrestlers had already signed up for this summer.

McCuskey and his assistant, Gary Kurdelmeier, have compiled an impressive list of instructors for the sessions which includes:

Kirakuz Iwano, Greco-Roman and free style champion of western Japan who now wrestles for Carleton College; Jim Nelson, Carleton coach who has spent a year in Japan gathering material for a book on wrestling; Jerry Leeman, former NCAA champion and Olympian and now coach at Lehigh; Bert Waterman, Yale coach and former Michigan State star; Ken Kraft, an NCAA champion before he became coach at Northwestern; Ralph Rieks, Big 10 champion and NCAA finalist at Iowa; Ron Meleny, Belle Plaine coach who starred for Iowa State; Dave Natvig, coach of many state champions at Waterloo East; Keith Young, a three-time NCAA champion whose Cedar Falls team won the class AA state championship this year; Joe Fitch, coach at Humboldt, the class A champs; and Clyde Bean, who has produced many state titlists at Iowa City.

McCuskey said that wrestlers interested in attending either session of the clinic should contact him or Kurdelmeier at the University. All coaches and officials are also invited to attend.

Three outstanding Iowa athletes, Carl Frazier, Rollie Kitt and Donn Hausen, have recently been honored by a vote of their Hawkeye teammates.

Frazier was voted 1969 track captain. Although he has placed in the Big 10 championship 600 and 660-yard races, he is best known for his performances on the mile relay team. He was a member of the championship 1967 team which won the Big 10, National Collegiate and U.S. Track and Field Federation titles. He has run the 440 in 46.5 seconds as a member of the relay team.

Kitt was elected captain of the 1968 cross country squad. He ran on the 1966 Iowa cross country team which won the Big 10 title. He also was winner of the Big 10 3,000-meter steeplechase track championship in 1967.

Members of the Hawkeye baseball squad voted Haugen the team's most valuable player in 1968. Haugen had a 5-2 record that was highlighted by a 3-hit 6-1 victory over Northwestern and a 1-0 decision over Illinois, a game which he allowed only two hits in 10 innings. He also had 41 strike-outs in 43 innings and a 3.51 ERA.

The Hawkeye College League will open its second season at 6:30 tonight at Iowa Field. The Iowa City team will entertain the Midwest Janitors, a Cedar Rapids team.

Iowa baseball Coach Dick Shultz is commissioner of the 4-team organization. The two other teams in the league are Marengo and Mays City Lanes from Cedar Rapids.

Iowa City also has a doubleheader at Marengo Sunday before returning home to play Mays City Lanes Monday night.

Although it will be about three months before the Iowa Stadium is again filled with hopeful Hawkeye fans, schedule posters will soon be present in the windows of business establishments across the state.

This season's poster has an action picture of Hawk quarterback Ed Podolak passing to fullback Tim Sullivan in the Texas Christian game last year.

A 10-game home-road schedule, along with ticket prices, are shown on the black and gold poster. More than 3,000 are being dis-

Grid Star Red Grange Still Youthful At 65

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Harold "Red" Grange's number comes up today — his Social Security number, that is. The Galloping Ghost of Illinois football immortality will be 65 years old.

"I knew it was coming," Grange said, "but I was sort of putting it off. I was hoping the whole thing would go away."

Actually, the one-time scourge of the gridiron has been retired for a couple of years, except for a bit of promotional work for a brewing company. He has been transformed, by easy stages, into the squire of Indian Lake Estates in central Florida.

His spacious, airy home, wide open to the breezes that drift across flat cattle country, has a screen-enclosed swimming pool, planters bright with tropical flowers and plenty of chaises into which Old 77 can plop down and relax when the urge hits him.

Grange mows his own lawn and contents himself with gravitating between the golf course a half-mile away, his two boats docked in a channel leading to a lake and his television set where he watches football and baseball games.

He isn't an avid golfer like most of his neighbors.

"I play for fun and exercise," he said, "but the game lacks something. It would be better if once in a while someone came up from behind and tackled you just as you were hitting the ball."

Forty-four years after he electrified the sports world by running 92, 70, 57 and 42 yards for touchdowns in the first quarter of a Big 10 championship game with Michigan, Grange still is in great shape.

He is close to his old playing weight of 170 pounds and his hair is still red except around the edges. He looks 10 years younger than his age.

In 13 years of high school, college and professional football, Grange carried the ball 4,013 times for an average of 8.1 yards and 531 touchdowns.

NHL Begins Annual Draft

MONTREAL (AP) — The Oakland Seals claimed Carol Vadnais from the Montreal Canadiens Wednesday as the first pick in the annual draft of players in the National Hockey League.

To make room for Vadnais on their roster, the Seals dropped Larry Cahoon from their protected list and he was immediately purchased by Montreal.

Detroit drafted Brian Conacher from the Toronto Maple Leafs, who in turn bought Gary Marsh from the Red Wings.

Pittsburgh drafted Charlie Burns from Oakland and the Penguins then sold George Konik to the Seals.

Toronto drafted Larry Mickey from the New York Rangers and sold Larry Hillman to the Minnesota North Stars. The Rangers filled their roster again by buying Bill Pledger from the Minnesota.

Giants Beat Bucs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hal Lanier scored from second base with the winning run on Bill Mazerowski's error with two out in the seventh inning Wednesday, helping the San Francisco Giants to a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh.

Mazerowski's misplay sent Jim Bunning, 3-8, to his sixth straight defeat and only his second in nine lifetime decisions at Candlestick Park.

Willie Mays doubled home the Giants' first run in the opening inning and scored the tying run in the sixth after some alert baserunning. Roberto Clemente hit his ninth homer in the third after Maury Wills' single for the Pirate runs and Jim Ray Hart homered for the Giants in the eighth, his 12th.

St. Louis drafted Jacques Plante from the Rangers. Plante is a former Montreal star.

Philadelphia claimed Don Buchanan from Boston and the Bruins exercised their right to purchase Jean Gauthier from the Flyers.

Chicago, Boston, New York, Los Angeles and Montreal all passed on the first round.

Minnesota and St. Louis were the only two clubs to draft in the second round, the North Stars taking Fern Rivard, a goaltender, from Philadelphia and St. Louis claiming Myron Stankewicz from Los Angeles.

In the third round the Flyers claimed Larry Hale from Minnesota and the North Stars then exercised their right to purchase Bill Sutherland from the Flyers.

Mental Health Facilities Lacking

By CINDY HOWELL
In 1959 the Johnson County Home for the Insane was a simple frame building with the cells enclosed by wooden slats and iron bars.

In 1968 Johnson and the surrounding counties have no community facilities of their own for the care of mentally disturbed residents other than a county home to which they may be sent after having received treatment elsewhere. Instead the counties rely on the University's multi-functional State Psychopathic Hospital.

Johnson, Cedar, Iowa and Washington counties have failed to build their own needed community health services because they depend on the hospital, and, according to Richard P. Vornbroch, chief of social services at the hospital, as a state-oriented institution the hospital has difficulty meeting the local community's consultative and out-patient needs.

In a survey taken by the Iowa City League of Women Voters, 61 professional people who would have contact with mentally ill persons were interviewed. Forty-eight thought there was a need for additional mental health facilities in Iowa City. The city has only one private psychiatrist.

According to Mrs. Hannah Weston, director of the League, comments on disadvantages of using the Psychopathic Hospital for local problems included the limited time of faculty and staff, long waiting periods, difficulty securing long-term treatment and insufficient follow-up after basic treatment.

One of those surveyed said that the lack of local facilities meant that the jail must sometimes be used to temporarily contain mentally disturbed persons.

The League, the Johnson County Action Program, the Mental Health Study Committee of the Johnson County Council on Social Planning and other agencies, groups and individuals are studying the possibility of developing a four-county mental health center.

Although nearly a third of its patients come from within a 70-mile radius, the hospital serves the entire state by providing facilities for training, research and treatment. As a part of its treatment program the hospital sees about 2,000 adults each year on an out-patient basis. There are beds for 60 adult and 22 child in-patients. About 450 adults and 50 children are treated each year as in-patients.

The Mental Health Study Committee, now headed by the Rev. William Weir of the Unitarian Universalist Society, has been gathering information on the problem since their appointment by the county in November.

Weir said that the community must be able to treat people early, when the problem is less severe. A community mental health service could treat 300 to 400 new cases a year that are not being treated now, he added.

Among other phases of their study, the committee sent representatives to study the Scott County Mental Health Center, established in 1949.

They recently sponsored a workshop to examine the local situation. Sixty people, including four supervisors from the counties involved, listened to an address at the workshop by Dr. Paul E. Huston, who is director of the Psychopathic Hospital, head of psychiatry in the College of Medicine and director of the Iowa Mental Health Authority.

The committee will present its findings today to a steering committee which includes community leaders of the four counties. Their job will be to take action on the findings of the Mental Health Study Committee.

"We must not let the County Boards of Supervisors think that our needs are being met by the Psychopathic Hospital," Weir said.

As of June, 1966, Iowa had 19 community health centers that saw 9,449 patients in the preceding year. As the four counties close to the Psychopathic Hospital have come to depend on it, so do counties surrounding the four state mental health institutes maintain a keen need mental health programs by their similarly dependent relationships, according to Vornbroch.

Such centers are funded mainly by local sources, with three of them in the past two years qualifying for and receiving some temporary funds from the federal government. Possible sources of funds for a community center to be located in Johnson County would include community chest, service clubs, up to a half mill tax levy allowed by law, a local mental health association and federal funds.

The committee has declared that it will work in cooperation with the Iowa Mental Health Authority, which is ready to give advice and consultation to such efforts.

WOODN'T YOU KNOW IT? MOSCOW

— Five days after the Soviet press leaped editorially on failures of the ministry of timber, pulp, paper and wood processing industry, the government announced it has been divided into the ministry of timber and wood processing industry and the ministry of pulp and paper industry. The government gave no reason and did not say what happened to N.V. Timofeyev, head of the old ministry.

Support Raised For Countryman In Senate Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Supporters of former Atty. Gen. Dayton W. Countryman of Nevada are promoting him as a possible Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Bourke B. Hickenlooper.

Countryman confirmed Wednesday that nomination papers were being circulated to place him on the primary election ballot.

Countryman, who was narrowly defeated in a bid for the GOP senatorial nomination in 1960, refused to comment on whether he would enter the race. He promised a statement later this month.

The move to push a Countryman candidacy was disclosed after newsmen received a biographical sketch and picture of him in the mail.

Three Republicans — State Sen. David Stanley of Muscatine, former Congressman James Bromwell of Cedar Rapids and Des Moines insurance man William Plymat — are seeking their party's nomination for the Senate.

Hickenlooper, a Republican, is retiring.

School Board Adopts Negotiations Policy

The Iowa City Community Board of Education adopted a policy statement on board-teacher negotiations Tuesday night.

Teacher-board contract and salary negotiations broke down temporarily in early March. The teachers asked for and were refused a salary base increase of $600. The teachers threatened to refuse to sign contracts for the 1968-1969 school year if the increase was not made.

On March 21, the board adopted a base salary of $6,000. The Iowa City Educator's Association (ICEA) agreed to accept the $400 raise.

Tuesday the board agreed to accept the ICEA as the only representative of certified employees in the district. It also accepted a negotiations committee composed of three ICEA representatives, three from the board, the superintendent of schools and the president of ICEA.

Other provisions of the statement are:

- Either the teachers or the board may call in consultants to settle negotiation breakdowns.
- A teachers' group with more than one third of the district's employees as members may challenge the ICEA as sole authority.

The board also approved a contract to purchase a nine-acre tract in the northeast part of the city for the construction of an elementary school.

The contract is subject to revision until a written agreement with the owners of the property is reached.

Cost of the tract will be about $75,000. If voters approve a new bond issue, the school will be open in September, 1970.

Signals Indicate Soviet Bomb Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seismic signals which indicate that the Soviet Union set off a nuclear test blast Tuesday were reported by the Atomic Energy Commission.

It said the signals were equivalent to those of a nuclear test in the low yield range — a blast force equivalent to less than 20,000 tons of TNT. A similar test was reported April 24.
