DO IT YOURSELF PROJECT — Painting the walls of the College of Dentistry's Department of Orthodontics Friday are Linda Tapps, 220 Finkbine Park, an assistant in orthodontics, and Paul Hermanson, D2, Mason City. About a dozen faculty members, secretaries and dental assistants are helping in the repainting project, which includes the lab, clinic and office. They are also updating eight old dental units and putting formica on lab benches and file around the sinks. They said they decided to do the remodeling themselves because of "a shortage of funds and the rapid growth of the orthodontics department." — Photo by Dave Luck

Vietnamese War Now the Longest U.S. Ever Fought

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong shells fell on Saigon and struck a merchant ship in the Saigon River today, the day that the Vietnamese war became the longest war in American history. There was a lull in ground combat across the country.

The latest bombardment in the series of enemy terror barrages against the capital included seven rounds that fell harmlessly in the river on the city's southeastern side. One round hit the British ship London Statesman near Tan Thuan Bridge, causing some damage, and shrapnel from the blast killed a Vietnamese civilian in a nearby junk.

Today marked six years, six months and one day since the first American soldier was killed by enemy bullets in Vietnam. More than 25,000 Americans have been killed since then and the U.S. commitment has grown until there are now 535,000 U.S. servicemen in the country.

The Vietnamese war has lasted one day longer than the American Revolutionary War.

In other developments, U.S. sources said Friday that misinterpreted radar blips and the sighting of "flying lights" may have caused reports that enemy helicopters were operating around the demilitarized zone.

The sources said it was highly probable that American planes and artillery mistakenly attacked allied ships last weekend that may have appeared on radar scopes to be low-flying helicopters. A U.S. patrol boat was sunk and American missiles damaged an Australian destroyer.

The U.S. Command had no further comment and a spokesman said an investigation was continuing.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported today three other enemy shellings around the country. Light casualties were reported in the bombardments of a government military headquarters at Duc Hoa, 12 miles west of Saigon, at My Tho, in the Mekong Delta, and on a district headquarters in Darlac Province in the central highlands.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command said 10 enemy artillery rounds that hit the American base at Dong Ha below the DMZ Thursday caused heavy loss of ammunition stores. Casualties were reported.

American pilots, pressing the bombing campaign over the southern panhandle of North Vietnam, reported that heavy raids above the Mu Gia Pass Friday killed some 100 North Vietnamese soldiers. The announcement of a death toll was unusual, as U.S. sources have generally included only damage estimates in reports on the raids over the North.

South Vietnamese sources claimed that 12 Soviet-made helicopters were shot down by American jets and artillery. But intense air reconnaissance has turned up no reports of wreckage.

Apparently in doubt about the presence of the helicopters, the U.S. Command has ordered its fighter-bombers and artillery to hold fire in the area to avoid hitting allied surface vessels.

During the period of the reported enemy helicopter activity, the U.S. cruiser Boston, the Australian destroyer Hobart, two U.S. Navy Swift boats and a Coast Guard cutter were fired on off the coast near the demilitarized zone.

The Australian ship was hit by three Sparrow missiles from an American jet plane and two crewmen were killed and seven wounded.

A Swift boat was sunk and five crewmen are missing. A U.S. spokesman said it was hit by unidentified aircraft that could have been either American or North Vietnamese.

Surcharge Bill Sent by Senate To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completed congressional action Friday on a 10 per cent income tax increase, first such boost since the Korean War, thus ending months of wrangling at the Capitol.

President Johnson is expected to sign the measure into law promptly although he has made it very clear he does not agree with the federal spending restrictions tied to the tax hike.

The Senate cleared the bill to the White House by a 64 to 16 vote, a bigger margin than even its sponsors had predicted. The House passed it Thursday night, 288 to 150.

The 10 per cent surcharge is retroactive for individuals to April 1 and for corporations to Jan. 1. It expires for both on June 30 next year unless extended by Congress.

Individuals will begin to feel the increase in withholding from their pay checks in the first pay period 15 days after the measure is signed. The withholding rates will be increased 10 per cent.

Only those in the lowest brackets — single persons with $1,000 or less of taxable income and couples with $2,000 or less — will not have to pay the surcharge.

Rusk Asks Hanoi for Sign Of Readiness to Slow War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk called on North Vietnam Friday to give some indication — directly or indirectly — of readiness to scale down the war, including a halt to rocket attacks on civilians in Saigon.

At his first news conference in almost six months, Rusk agreed with Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford and peace negotiator W. Averell Harriman that there have been "some bits and straws in the wind in the last day or two" that showed signs of progress in the Paris talks. But Rusk cautioned, "It would be a mistake to go beyond straws in the wind."

Displaying a noticeably less optimistic tone than did Clifford at a news conference on Thursday, Rusk cautioned that it was still too early to say whether the Paris talks would succeed or fail.

"We have not yet taken giant strides . . . we have not begun to break through yet on the substance of peace," he said.

Rusk said President Johnson's order of March 31 limiting the bombing of North Vietnam had not brought restraint from the other side.

On the contrary, he said, infiltration in April and May was at record levels and "we have seen the indiscriminate bombing of the civilian population of Saigon."

Refusing to speculate on how long the United States would continue to observe its bombing restraint, Rusk called for a de-escalation on the ground.

"It could be done by some indication either directly or indirectly that such a step is being taken by the other side," he said. "But I would not want to speculate how long the present situation can last."

Rusk met newsmen several hours before Harriman was due to fly in from Paris for consultations on the course of the negotiations.

Rusk opened his conference by announcing that the nuclear nonproliferation treaty would be signed July 1 in Washington, Moscow and London. He said the United States would like to find some way in talks with the Russians to avoid new expenditures and new dangers in the nuclear field.

Although he is still running a slight fever, Rusk said he would attend the NATO spring meeting in Iceland to discuss such questions as a reduction of both allied and Communist forces in central Europe and other issues.

Although taking a conciliatory tone, Rusk denounced East Germany's "un-

Bonn Proposes Shuttle Service By Air to Berlin

BONN (AP) — West Germany has proposed a British and U.S.-operated passenger air shuttle service to West Berlin to enable Germans to avoid the annoying new East German fees on land travel, the Transport Ministry said Friday.

A spokesman said Pan American World Airways and British European Airways have been asked to study the possibility of hourly, around-the-clock flights between Berlin and Hannover, the closest major West German air terminal. Cut-rates fares would be subsidized by the Bonn government.

A reply is expected Monday from the two airlines, the only two companies presently using Western allied rights to the Berlin air corridor for the Berlin-Hannover route.

The government dismissed as unfounded reports that Foreign Minister Willy Brandt had been warned against stepping up Berlin air traffic by Pyotr Abramov, Soviet ambassador to East Germany. The two talked for more than seven hours last Wednesday in East Berlin.

The air corridors between Berlin and West Germany have been under Soviet American, British and French control since World War II. German airlines are not allowed to use them.

justified, provocative measures that run counter to long-standing international agreement" restricting motor traffic entering and leaving Berlin.

Rusk decried what he called reckless cuts in U.S. foreign aid by Congress, which he said could seriously injure U.S. foreign policy.

On the efforts to get the 82 surviving crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo returned to the United States by North Korea, Rusk said it was unlikely that military action could get them back alive.

He said the United States offered to investigate the Pueblo affair, with the United States acting in accordance with the facts it determined.

This was rejected by North Korea, he said, adding that the United States would continue its efforts to free the men.

U.S., Viet Negotiators Disagree On Progress

PARIS (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese peace negotiators found a new point of disagreement Friday — on whether their six weeks of talks had made any progress.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman flew off to report to President Johnson, telling newsmen that there had been progress by "bits and straws." In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk backed him up.

But Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, could see no such sign. No progress has been made, he told a news conference, because the United States has not stopped bombing North Vietnam and therefore the conversations could not go on to other matters.

They also disagreed on who was escalating the war.

Harriman said the North Vietnamese had made a great mistake in escalating the war. The North Vietnamese, he added, had escalated just when the United States de-escalated.

Le gave figures on recent U.S. air attacks which he said "unmasked the U.S. argument on supposed restraint or de-escalation." U.S. air raids had averaged 152 a day in May and rose to 170 a day in the first half of June, he asserted.

Harriman and Rusk mentioned the coffee breaks at the weekly Paris meetings. The breaks have now lengthened to 40 minutes of private talk. Harriman noted that they had become less formal and added that they could build a basis for serious private discussions.

The U.S. delegation takes the stand that real progress can be made only in talks which are not described in detail to newsmen afterward.

Harriman has proposed that both sides give up the practice, begun at the start of the conference, of distributing texts of their formal statements made at the start of each meeting. Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese delegate, has not yet replied.

Le said that he would tell reporters what was said by the chief delegates during the coffee break next time — "if I am informed." After Wednesday's meeting he said he had sat with U.S. spokesman William Jordan and they had talked about the merits of French, Vietnamese and Cambodian tobacco.

Thailand's New Constitution Baptized in Students' Blood

BANGKOK (AP) — Thousands of youths, many in short pants and carrying schoolbooks, overran police barricades and marched on Parliament Friday to protest the arrest of a former politician who was making a public test of free-speech guarantees in Thailand's day-old constitution.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Shouting, stonethrowing Brazilian students battled police in downtown Rio Friday after smashing windows at the U.S. Embassy. One policeman and two students were reported killed in the city's third straight day of violence.

Ambulances raced through the city taking scores of police, students and bystanders with gunshot wounds and bruises from stones and clubs to hospitals. More than 100 persons were said to have been arrested. Some were turned over to the military for questioning.

The march developed into a demonstration against, among other things, Thailand's commitment of troops to the allied side in Vietnam and visits to Bangkok by U.S. servicemen on leave from the war.

The students, most from the University of Thammasat, stoned police and pushed past barricades on the Pan Fah Bridge, a block from Government House. Then club-swinging police, acting under martial law still in effect after 10 years despite the new constitution, broke up the demonstration.

A police line was reinforced by six water cannons filled with yellow dye. Several students were clubbed to the ground. No arrests were reported.

The outbreak, the first of its kind here since political riots of 1958 precipitated a military coup by the late Field Marshal Sarit Thanarat, came 24 hours after King Bhumipol Adulyadej signed the new constitution into law.

Triggering the student march was the arrest of a former member of Parliament who, in a test of the freedom of speech clauses, started to address a crowd in a park at the front of the university. Police seized him and hustled him away.

Hughes, at ISU, Says Iowa Afraid Of Race Problems

See Related Stories Pages 2, 3

AMES (AP) — Racial discrimination and prejudice exist in Iowa just as they exist in Alabama, Gov. Harold Hughes said Friday.

The difference is one of degree, not of kind, Hughes told an Iowa State University seminar on the role of the mass media in race relations.

Hughes said "vast" numbers of Iowans living in rural areas have no contact with blacks and members of other racial minorities. The black population of Iowa is less than one per cent, he added.

The governor met earlier with members of the Black Student Organization, which recently charged that the school's athletic council has discriminated against black athletes.

Hughes said he would meet with Iowa State's Pres. Robert Parks and the council and urge them to resolve their differences.

The governor accused many Iowans of "sleeping" through a social revolution of civil unrest "like Rip Van Winkle."

"You won't be able to sleep through it, and if you do, what a nightmare you're going to have someday," Hughes said.

He said Iowans are afraid to "go and see" racial problems.

"Hell no, they don't like us," he said. "We've ground them into the ground for 100 years."

Hughes said he would call on churches, welfare agencies and private resources to alleviate racial problems in the state.

Warren Reported Quitting As Supreme Court Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren is resigning after 15 controversy-filled years, it was learned Friday. During those years the Supreme Court repeatedly buttressed the rights of black Americans, persons accused of crime, and city-dwelling voters.

An authoritative source reported that Warren submitted an undated resignation to President Johnson on June 13, but the White House declined comment. Warren himself remained out of reach of reporters, as he has done throughout most of his court tenure.

Presidential press secretary George Christian refused also to discuss a report that Associate Justice Hugo Black, at 82 the dean of the court, also may be leaving the bench soon.

The 77-year-old jurist's leading role in historic decisions promises to give him rank among the court's leading champions of minorities and individuals in their collisions with old rules and practices.

By reason of those rulings, black children previously restricted to racially segregated schools now sit with whites; police have had to revise their dealings with those suspected of crime; lower courts are under tighter rules especially in the field of confessions; and the urban population has gained a stronger voice in statehouses and in Congress.

Along the way Warren found time to head the commission set up by President Johnson to investigate the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. And there was more controversy, still continuing, over that commission's finding that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, committed the murder.

Still further dispute was generated by rulings of the Warren-headed court that backed up the rights of accused Communists. The principal ruling on that subject threw out the requirement that party members must register with the government.

Warren's impending retirement from the $40,000-a-year lifetime post immediately generated speculation about his successor — along with some suggestions that the chief justice hastened his departure so the job can be filled by Johnson before he leaves office in January.

Perhaps most prominent among the guesses is the name of associate Justice Abe Fortas, a Johnson appointee and, as a Washington lawyer, a long-time adviser to the President.

Another name in the speculation is that of Arthur J. Goldberg, who left the Supreme Court under White House urging to become ambassador to the United Nations, a post he is leaving soon.

Also figuring in the talk is the name of Associate Justice William J. Brennan who almost always has been found on Warren's side in major court rulings.

Warren was nominated for chief justice by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1953 after 19 years as prosecuting attorney in California's Alameda County, four years as the state's attorney general, an unprecedented three terms as governor, and an unsuccessful race as Thomas E. Dewey's running mate against Harry Truman.

Warren never had sat as a judge until he donned the Supreme Court robe. Eisenhower picked him as "a good Republican" for the office and there was general surprise when he quickly turned out to be a leading liberal in his rulings.

Warren has been the principal target of criticism by opponents of all such court findings but he has consistently declined to answer critics.

"I just don't discuss it," has been his standard reply to questions.

THE ANSWER IS BLOWING IN THE WIND — Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy and his daughter, Ellen, have their hair tossed about on their arrival at St. Paul-Minneapolis airport Friday. McCarthy was in town to attend the Minnesota State Democratic-Farmer-Labor party convention this weekend. At another Democratic convention Friday, in Indiana, a fistfight broke out on the convention chairman's platform after delegates had rejected a motion to substitute pro-McCarthy delegates in two congressional districts for the four uncommitted delegates chosen in caucuses earlier.

Red tape in the 'multiversity': how to drop and add a course

I went through a horrible experience today. I tried to drop and add.

This sounds like a simple process. One that should be easily understood and accomplished by a senior at this school. I got my little green drop and add slip, stamped it with my own personal ID number and proceeded to search out instructors. I found the instructor of the course I was adding, who is also my advisor, so I figured I had two-thirds of the process done. I then searched out the instructor of the course that I was dropping. This was a little more difficult. Of course, I could have gone to the class that I was dropping for his signature, but the main reason for dropping that course was that I couldn't get up in time for the course. Therefore, I decided that I would find him at a better hour.

I found him Friday, the last day to drop and add without paying a $4 fine. He signed my slip with no questions asked. I happily skipped across the Pentacrest with my destination University Hall, Registrar's Office. I arrived there and turned in my slip. Unfortunately, my slip was not accepted. It lacked the signature of some anonymous figure in 116 Schaeffer Hall, the assistant dean and associate director of the Liberal Arts advisory office, Hugh Kelso.

Kelso has an important job. He signs slips okaying the adding of courses of the many students in Liberal Arts. Kelso doesn't know me, and I don't know him. But still, he has the final say as to whether I can add a course.

I can understand why the signature of the instructors of the courses I drop and add are necessary. I can see the advantage of the signature of my advisor, since in the setup of the University, my advisor is supposed to know me, know why I am at this school and help me choose the right courses to take, drop or add if necessary.

But I can't understand why a man in the liberal arts advisory office has to sign this slip. So I asked him, and lo and behold, he couldn't really tell me either, to my satisfaction.

Kelso said that he had to sign my drop and add slip so that my degree would be of value to me. The University can't allow students to drop and add at will. But he would sign my slip, he said. In fact, he would sign any student's slip if that slip had the signatures of the instructors who were involved in the switch.

The uniqueness of this situation is that the slip would never be accepted in the office of the registrar if the instructors' signatures were missing. So really, what is the necessity of another step of red tape that does nothing.

But I had Kelso sign it. And now my degree will be of value, to say nothing of my schedule being realistic. But it is the fact that my degree will be of value that really excites me. Wheee.

Summer in Iowa City? Forget it

A summer in Iowa City is certainly a wonderful experience. Although it appears that there are not many people out on the streets, actually there are undiscovered thousands here.

All the people you don't see on the streets are hiding in homes, offices or apartments that have air conditioning. The "stay with your air conditioner" game is something like survival of the fittest. The only way to survive in Iowa City is to have an air conditioner.

Once a person has an air conditioner, the person never ventures out into the world for a long period of time.

Have you noticed? Very few people smile when it's hot outside. Everyone seems to be in a hurry. This is a very reasonable response to the situation. Most people are in a hurry to get what they have to do done as fast as possible so that they can return to their air conditioning or try to find out where there is a cool spot to stay.

Classes are especially wonderful in the summer. Areas with machines are air conditioned on a top priority basis. Areas with students are treated on a second rate basis. If the class is comprised of less than four students, the room is bearable. But with more than four people in any room, breathing becomes a challenge, not a necessity.

There is no spark of ambition present in the summer, no desire, no nothing.

And yet, Iowa City continues to exist. People continue to think that they have to work, live and be nice to each other.

Forget it.

Rydell's 'Fox' is 'elegant jewel' of cinematic art

Mark Rydell treats the cinema as though it were an elegant jewel, not a tawdry imitation. "The Fox" is a story that deals with revolting extremes of human behavior. Yet director Rydell shapes a strange love story that is uncommonly sensitive and poignant.

He is also extremely aware of his audience. He knows that we blissfully waddle in a hypocrisy that worships and fears sex and condemns and ridicules homosexuality. "The Fox" exposes that hypocrisy. But it does so by slowly building an undercurrent of conflicting emotions that catches us unprepared and insecure. The effect is permanent.

Jill (Sandy Dennis) and Ellen (Anne Heywood) have bought an isolated farm in New England. Together they have constructed their own world, with its own objects and concerns, in an attempt to irrevocably seal themselves from the outside world.

Each girl assumes a role which she faithfully plays.

Ellen is the provider. Dressed in oddly attractive work clothes, she hunts and runs the farm. Jill, highly sensitive and nervous, does the housework, handles the budget and cares for Ellen. This partnership, though basically innocent, is tainted from the beginning by our uncomfortable sense that these girls are driven by frightfully hidden desires.

And indeed they are. They have created this cocoon because each is deathly afraid of sexuality. Jill tells about her experience with a boy in school, saying that she felt as though she were being molded, like a piece of clay.

Ellen is torn by violently conflicting feelings. Essentially she fears sexuality. But she desperately wants satisfaction. There is a scene in the bathroom where Ellen satisfies herself.

Watching this powerful sequence, we too are torn because she at once attracts and repulses us. Her masculinity draws her not only to herself, but also to Jill, who is unaware of the complexity of their relationship.

This quiet, potentially violent world is punctured by two invaders — the fox and Paul. The beautiful fox destroys the serenity of the night. And Paul destroys the serenity of the girls' carefully guarded home. Even though the parallels between the two are clear, they never become over-simplifications. They serve as meaningful reflections of one another.

When Jill warmly receives Paul (Keir Dullea) into the house, Ellen feels threatened by him. The possibility of his taking Jill from her leads to her deep contempt for him.

But suddenly Ellen realizes that Paul actually wants her.

Paul revitalizes her. His attention (and a proclamation of love) assures her of her own femininity and gives her the hope of a life that is not steeped in the depravity she felt herself heading toward. But now Jill is threatened by Paul; the triangle is twisted. Her own fears push her toward a physical desire for Ellen. The intensity of this reversal ultimately destroys the relationship between Ellen and Jill.

Despite the complexity of these relationships, the film is not burdened by a dense psychology. Rydell realizes that cinema is art, not science. Consequently he demonstrates psychology through the actions of his characters and the intricate inter-relationships of his images. Because we constantly respond emotionally and intellectually to the development caused by these actions and images, we can actually experience the characters' psychology in a way that science never allows. . . . This is the greatest virtue of "The Fox."

This way of handling psychology has an interesting effect on Paul's characterization. He is never actually developed as a character, neither his motivations, nor his past are important. He is simply a catalyst that invades the secret world of Jill and Ellen, shatters their freedom, and drives them to a desperate lesbianism and destruction. Paul himself exists as a force more than as a human being. This may seem disappointing, but actually it gives him his mysterious and threatening power.

Even though the cinema is the newest and most popular art form, it does deserve integrity. Rydell gives it that. His sensitivity to this story creates a rare authenticity and power. He has made "The Fox" into a superb motion picture.

Out of fear, two girls build a self-enclosed world that is tormented by a complex sexuality. Their vulnerable creation is invaded and torn apart. After they fail to mend the wounds, one of them is destroyed. And the other resigns herself to a continuation of life — as beautiful and haunting as the last image of the fox's ice-covered, rotting face.

—Reed Marionettes Here—

Aladdin, Genie Star Today

The Arabian Night Tale, "Aladdin and His Lamp," will be presented at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. today in Macbride Hall Auditorium by a nationally known puppet troupe, the Reed Marionettes.

Aladdin is the story of a penniless boy who becomes a prince after finding an enchanted lamp complete with genie.

Edith and Robin Reed, who have been in the puppet business for over 18 years, use one-third life size marionettes and lavish setting in their productions. The show includes flying carpets, a secret cave of jewels, and tricky illusion scenes as Aladdin's rags are changed to riches within seconds.

The Reeds create most of their elaborate productions at their home studio near Wales, Wis.

The family program, sponsored by Summer Union Board, costs 50 cents. Tickets will be available at the door 30 minutes before each show.

A LAD AND HIS LAMP — Puppets representing Aladdin and his own personal genie are the stars of the Reed Marionette's show which will be presented at Macbride Hall auditorium two times today.

Army Sees 'Plot' to Dupe Guardsmen

FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP) — The Army is investigating the possibility some Iowa National Guardsmen may have been duped into signing a letter protesting the quality of combat training at Ft. Carson.

The post information office said Friday some of the guardsmen didn't know they were signing such a protest. Two other petitions, neither complaining about training procedures, were being circulated as the protest letter was being prepared, the officer said.

A spokesman said some of the signers of the letter thought they were signing petitions to provide commissary, dispensary and base exchange privileges for their dependents at the Sioux City, Iowa, Air Base. The Air Force has granted this request.

Others thought they were signing a petition to improve entertainment at the noncommissioned officers club, the spokesman said.

He said signatures on the letter of complaint were collected on blank, lined note paper.

The letter, which was sent to Iowa Gov. Harold Hughes and members of the Iowa congressional delegation, said the Iowa troops, who were called to active duty May 13, were being trained by persons unqualified to prepare them for combat.

The Ft. Carson spokesman said he did not know if the possibility of a plot to deceive signers was included in the inspector general's report. However, he said the possibility of deception by two or three men is being looked into.

Sgt. Loy G. Dunn, 25, a squad leader from Sioux City, said he found his signature on the complaining letter "after I was shown a different letter last week."

Black Poetry To Be Read At Reservoir

Two University professors, three graduate students, and an Iowa City minister will read Afro-American poetry on a lawn overlooking the Coralville reservoir Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Clinton Oliver, visiting professor of American civilization, and John Huntley, professor of English will present some of their favorite poems. The other readers are Frederick Woodard, G. Davenport; James Rogers, G. St. Louis; David Grant, G. St. Louis; and William Weir, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Society.

Most of the readings will be from Langston Hughes, James Weldon Johnson and other Afro-American poets. Rogers will also read some of his own work.

The reading will take place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seiberling, near North Liberty, just off Highway 218.

Rides may be arranged during class breaks Monday and Tuesday in 104 English-Philosophy Building or by calling Weir at 338-9612.

'U.S. Is Free' Just a Myth, Black Asserts

AMES (AP) — The black man is not free in America and that this country is free is a myth, a spokesman of the National Association of Colored People said here Friday.

Robert L. Carter, of New York, general counsel of the NAACP, spoke on racial discrimination at a mass media seminar at Iowa State University.

"A second myth is that there has been progress in the last 70 years in race relations. There has been virtually no progress," Carter said.

He said unemployment which is critical at all levels for blacks has "much more to do with lack of education than with discrimination."

He said that public construction projects are discriminatory in that they hire many men from craft unions, which themselves discriminate.

Carter said de facto segregation in public schools exists because there is "an unequal allocation of educational resources," adding that he expects a rash of lawsuits in the next few years because of "this unequal allocation."

Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown represent the thinking of many trained and educated blacks, Carter said.

All Staters Play Sunday

Over 400 junior high and high school students will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Union Main Lounge.

The students are participating in the 19th Annual All-State Music Camp which began Sunday and will run until Friday on campus.

The camp, which is under the direction of Frank Piersol, director of University Bands, has concentrated on private and group instruction in band, choral and orchestral music.

One hundred and fifteen students are participating in the Black Band for students in grades 8 through 10, with 155 students in the Gold Band for older students. There are 100 students in both the chorus and orchestra. Many students are registered for more than one of the groups.

Sunday's concert will feature both bands, the chorus and the orchestra. Another concert is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Main Lounge.

Both concerts are being held in conjunction with the University's 30th Annual Fine Arts Festival.

French Campaign Draws to a Close

PARIS (AP) — France's National Assembly election campaign, which opened in an atmosphere of death and violence two weeks ago, drew to a close Friday night without excitement or tension.

Government sources feared President Charles de Gaulle might be denied the massive support he has demanded because more than a million Frenchmen are on vacation and abstentions could be higher than usual in Sunday's first-round balloting.

Opinion polls indicated no major shift in the intentions of voters who gave the Gaullists and their allies a one-seat majority in the assembly in the March 1967 election.

Published statistics suggested the Gaullists might enlarge their holdings slightly and that the Communists might win a few seats from the non-Communist left.

Analysts did not foresee a political upheaval even though the elections follow a long convulsion of strikes and civil disorder that brought the Fifth Republic to a virtual standstill.

The campaign had been expected to be crucial for the 10-year-old regime of De Gaulle, who called on Frenchmen to rally to his side to prevent "totalitarian communism" from taking over.

Neely Will Study Transcript Of Burt Hearing Before Ruling

A continued, closed preliminary hearing for Gregory Burt on two counts of manslaughter and operation of a motor vehicle while intoxicated ended Friday.

The hearing in Iowa City Police Court had been continued from June 17.

Burt, 21, of West Des Moines, was charged with the three counts after the traffic deaths of two University students May 23. Burt allegedly was driving the car that police say hit and killed Mary Sue Miller, A3, Randolph, and James Vanek, G, Denville, N.J., as they walked south on North Dubuque Street.

Judge Marion Neely said he would not make a decision on the case until he has read the transcripts of the hearing and several court case decisions pertaining to the case. Burt's attorneys will provide the case briefs.

If Neely decides there is sufficient evidence to justify trying Burt, he will move the case to Eighth District Court.

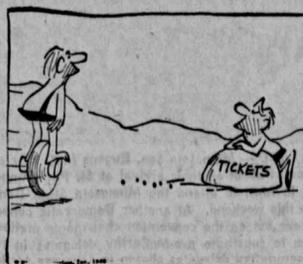

Friday morning Iowa Highway Patrolman John Wauters testified for one hour.

On June 17, the hearing lasted for two and one half hours.

Burt was charged with OMVI May 24. County Atty. Robert Jensen, who is prosecuting the state's charges against Burt, later added the two counts of manslaughter.

Burt was released on $500 bond after he was charged with OMVI. He was released again on $2,500 bond for each count after he was charged with manslaughter.

"It was a great comeback," were the words of Iowa Track Coach Francis Cretzmeier Thursday night after he watched Larry Wiecezorek place third in the 5,000 meter run at the AAU championships in Sacramento, California.

In so doing Wiecezorek joined Hawkeye teammate Mike Mondane in qualifying for the U.S. Olympic trials June 29-30 in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Mondane qualified last weekend in the national collegiate championship meet at Berkeley, Calif. He placed sixth in the 400-meter dash with a time of 46.2 seconds.

An athlete must finish at least sixth in one of these two meets in order to qualify for the trials.

Wiecezorek had to drop out of the 5,000 meter run at Berkeley, apparently because of some physical ailment. This marked the first time in his career that he has not finished a race.

"I was really hoping Larry would get back in shape," said Cretzmeier Thursday night. "He ran a terrific race tonight."

Mondane also was impressive in the AAU meet. He was the second best qualifier Friday in the 400-meter run with a time of 46.4 seconds. His time was only three-tenths of a second behind winner Wayne Collett of Southern California.

Hawkeye fans will have an opportunity to view the two Iowans Sunday at 4:00 p.m. Iowa time on ABC's Wide World of Sports. The 90-minute program will present taped films of the AAU meet.

Two Hawkeye gymnastics stars, Neil Schmitt and Bob Dickson, will compete in the regional trials for the U.S. Olympic gym team next month.

Both Dickson and Schmitt are all-around performers and will enter the meet at Northwestern State College of Natchitoches, La., July 12 and 13.

The two Hawkeyes have scored heavily in all-around and individual event competition in 1967 and 1968 when they helped Iowa win and tie for the Big 10 team title. Also, they have both been chosen on all-America collegiate teams.

In 1967, Dickson was runner-up in both the U.S. Gymnastics Federation (USGF) all-around competition and in the 1967 Big 10 all-around. He won two Big 10 first places in the horizontal bar and placed second in the NCAA horizontal bar competition in 1967.

If Dickson and Schmitt qualify, they will be eligible for a semifinal tryout meet Aug. 15-17 at Penn State University.

The selection of the U.S. team for the Mexico City Olympics will be made at the final trials Aug. 28-31 at Los Angeles.

A total of 88 awards have been presented to University athletes in spring sports, according to Director of Athletics Forest Evashevski.

Evashevski released the list of winners Thursday. Of the 88, 57 were major letter winners. These included 25 in baseball, 19 in track, seven in tennis and six in golf.

Also, minor letters went to two members of the Hawkeye golf team.

Freshman numerals were awarded to nine baseball players, two golfers, six tennis players and 12 tracksters.

USTFF Submits 'Super Group' Idea

DES MOINES (AP) — The outgoing president of the United States Track and Field Federation (USTFF) said Friday his group favored "in principle" establishment of a super group to govern the sport.

The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley, S.J., of Los Altos, Cal., said he thought the Amateur Athletic Union would balk at the idea, however.

Father Crowley made his remarks at close of a two-day meeting of the governing council of the USTFF.

He said an agreement by the AAU to formation of a super group governing track would force the AAU to surrender its international franchise.

The "super group" is the essence of a recommendation set forth by Sen. James B. Pearson, (R-Kan.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee in pending legislation.

It would be composed of an 11-member board, including two members from the AAU and two from the USTFF.

Father Crowley said the AAU would oppose the "super group" because it doesn't want to lose its franchise with the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF).

The "super group" would regulate track and field in the country except for competition in the Olympics and the Pan American Games.

Father Crowley said the USTFF, while awaiting disposition of its six-year-old current

Dog Days Come Again

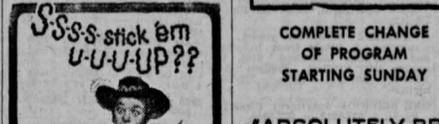

It should be paradise for dog lovers Sunday as the Hawkeye Kennel Club presents its 6th annual Dog Show at the Johnson County 4-H Fairgrounds, one mile south of the Airport on Highway 218. The show will run from about 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. with judging starting promptly at 8 a.m.

Club Pres. Dick Hyman calls this year's show "the biggest ever" and says he has an advance registration of 1,004 entries. This is a 50 per cent increase over last year and makes the local affair the second largest dog show in Iowa.

The show is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club. There will be 985 dogs representing 94 separate breeds competing in confirmation and 86 dogs vying for honors in 5 different obedience classes.

Okker Upsets Laver in Open

LONDON (AP) — Tom Okker, Dutch amateur, pulled off the biggest upset of open tennis Friday by defeating Rod Laver of Australia, the world's top money winning professional, 6-4, 6-4 at London's Queen's Club.

The 24-year-old left-hander completed the humiliation of the pros in the open London Grass Courts championship in which 12 pros started in men's singles and all were eliminated — seven by amateurs.

In today's final Okker will meet United States Davis Cupper Clark Graebner of New York, who defeated Russia's Alexander Metreveli 6-4, 6-2.

Laver picked up $120 as a losing semifinalist. Had he taken the title he would have won $1,200.

Graebner toned down his big service against Metreveli and relied more on slice but still won comfortably. The American lost his service only once, when he was leading in the first set at 5-2.

Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., outgunned Winnie Shaw of Britain, from the baseline, 6-4, 6-4 to reach the final of the women's singles.

Ann Haydon Jones, the British professional, defeated Margaret Smith Court of Australia 4-6, 6-4, 6-3. That means today's final will be a repeat of the French title round two weeks ago when Miss Richey beat Mrs. Jones in a long three-setter.

Okker made one more big dent in the battered image of professional tennis. Laver had not lost to an amateur in two previous open tournaments.

Three factors helped to upset Laver — Okker's speed, his top spin forehands and some unorthodox low volleys from the back of the court.

Nelson Becomes Boys' Golf Champ

Mike Nelson of Burlington continued his superb short game and beat Bob Thaler of Cedar Rapids 1-up Friday to become the Iowa boys' golf champion.

Nelson, 17, had a two-hole advantage after 15 holes at the South Finkbine Golf Course and clinched the title with a par on 18.

Thaler rallied with a birdie on the par four 16th hole and halved the 17th with Nelson.

Nelson's victory round was a three-over-par 38-36-74.

Hughes to Talk to Officials About ISU Black Demands

AMES (AP) — Gov. Harold Hughes said he would talk with administration officials after a closed-door session Friday with black athletes who threaten a boycott of Iowa State University.

The athletes have said they would withdraw from the university and surrender scholarships if eight "grievances" are not dealt with to their satisfaction by the ISU administration by Aug. 1.

A spokesman said representatives of the Black Students Organization met Wednesday night with ISU Pres. W. Robert Parks and said, in their opinion, "received little satisfaction."

An ISU vice president said Friday after the meeting that Hughes expressed sympathy with the athletes' complaints and said he "would see what he could do."

At a press seminar later, Hughes was asked by Bruce Ellis, Black Students' president, what the governor would do if all 86 black students at ISU were to leave. Hughes said he would discuss the matter with each side and told Ellis he would talk to Parks and press for an early meeting of the Iowa State Athletic Council.

The Athletic Council, which received the complaints May 20, issued a statement on June 5 that it could find no evidence of racial discrimination.

The black athletes' grievances include one claiming that a black coach should be hired in each major sport and that a black administrative officer should be included in the athletic department.

They also ask that head baseball Coach Cap Timm be fired and that basketball Coach Glen Anderson and trainer C. Robert Billings be dismissed if they "don't change their attitudes toward black athletes."

The black athletes also said they should be referred to as "blacks or Afro-Americans" and that the term "Negro" no longer applies.

Devlin Increases Lead In Canadian Golf Open

TORONTO (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin, tramping through a steady drizzle, fired a two-under-par 68 for 135 Friday and a three-stroke lead at the halfway point of the $125,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship.

"I don't know why, but I seem to play better in the rain," Devlin said. "My depth perception is better for one thing, I can see the flags better. I think everybody can."

Tied for second at 138 are Ken Still, Tacoma, Wash. — he shared the first round lead with Devlin — and lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand. Still went to a 71 on the 6,792-yard par 70 St. George's Gold Club course, while Charles had a 68.

Mac McLendon, Don Bies and Australian Bruce Crampton are tied for fourth at 139. All three had 68s.

Defending champion Billy Casper, the year's leading money winner had a 71 and was one of a large group at 140. Others included Fred Martin, R. M. Sikes, Lou Graham, Jack Ewing, Rives McBee and Tom Weiskopf.

Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player rushed back into contention, but Arnold Palmer continued to have his troubles. Palmer, still bugged by a balky putter, took a 73 for 149.

Nicklaus and Player closed in with 68s, Nicklaus for 141 and Player for 142.

Al Balding of Toronto, a tour regular, had a second round 70 and was the low Canadian at 141.

Canadian George Knudson had a hole in one on the par three, 146-yard sixth hole en route to a 69 for 144, well back in the pack.

City Peace and Freedom Club Slates Fund Raising Party

By DENNIS BATES
The Iowa City Peace and Freedom Club organizing committee made plans for a July 4 fund raising party at a meeting in the Union Friday night. The funds will be added to those already obtained in an attempt to reach a $5,000 campaign goal.

The club is patterned after the Peace and Freedom Party of California, in order to "act as a democratic radical opposition" to the existing political parties. In California, individual clubs act autonomously in determining the issues for each area. It is as yet undetermined if the Iowa organizations will follow that pattern.

Representatives from the California party, John Haag and Jane Gordon, told the committee how their organization had been successful and then suggested methods to get the Iowa City club "off the ground."

Haag, who is running for state senator on the Peace and Freedom ticket in California, emphasized the need for funds. He suggested that movies be shown to raise funds.

Sailor Wins Sea Battle, Makes Land

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Bearded adventurer Hugo Vihlen won his lonely, 85-day fight with the open sea Friday, sailing his dinghy-sized boat across the vast Atlantic from Africa. But the swift current of the Gulf Stream, a mighty river in the sea off the Florida coast, dashed the air line pilot's hope of sailing his six-foot April Fool into his home port.

Swept along by the Gulf Stream, Vihlen was unable to make land at Homestead, south of Miami, and finished the final 25 miles of his 4,500-mile odyssey aboard a motor launch with his wife and son.

Vihlen left Casablanca on the coast of Africa March 29. He had hoped to reach Homestead by June 12.

Spock Seeks New Trial In Draft Case

BOSTON (AP)—Counsel for Dr. Benjamin Spock and two other men convicted last week of conspiring to counsel young men to avoid the draft filed motions Friday for a new trial.

Leonard B. Boudin, attorney for the famed 65-year-old pediatrician, said his client was not "confronted with the witnesses against him" and "not informed of the nature and cause of the accusation."

The motion also renewed Boudin's request for dismissal. Counsel for Mitchell Goodman, 44, an author of Temple, Maine, and Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student, also filed motions for new trials.

Spock, Goodman, and Ferber were convicted June 14 with Yale University chaplain William Sloane Coffin, Jr., 43, of conspiracy to urge young men to contravene several Selective Service regulations.

Coffin did not join in the motion for a new trial. A fifth defendant, Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research analyst, was acquitted.

The four, who are scheduled to be sentenced by U. S. District Court Judge Francis J. W. Ford July 10, face maximum sentences of five years in prison and $10,000 fines each.

Lawyer Denied Talk With Ray

LONDON (AP)—British officials were reported Friday to have turned down a request by James Earl Ray's American lawyer for an interview with him.

Arthur J. Hanes Sr., former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., arrived Thursday and said Ray, accused killer of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., had written asking him to serve as his defense lawyer if he is extradited and stands trial for murder in the United States.

Informed sources said Ray's British lawyers approached the Home Office and presented Hanes' request to interview him in prison. The Home Office, which is responsible for law enforcement in Britain declined permission.

Mayors Support Annual Sessions

The Large Cities Group of the League of Iowa Municipalities mapped a multipoint program for which it will seek backing from legislative candidates and the public.

6 Candidates OK'd, Enter School Race

Six area residents threw their hats into the ring for this fall's Iowa City Community Board of Education election simultaneously Thursday night.

The candidates for the two four-year terms on the board are Russell M. Ross, University Heights, a professor of political science at the University; William J. Ambrisco, 2815 Brookside Dr., co-owner of S. T. Morrison Co.; R. Kent Angerer, 1231 E. College St., general manager of River Products; and John E. Moore, 3000 Brookside Dr., director of financial aids for the University.

Candidates for the board's one-year term are: Dr. Raymond F. Sheets, 323 Koser Ave., professor of internal medicine at the University; and J. William Osborne, 815 14th Ave., Coralville, professor of radiation research at the University.

All six candidates won the endorsement of the Bipartisan School Board Nominating Committee at its meeting Thursday night. The election, which will be held Sept. 9 to fill the three seats, is open to any candidate, not just those endorsed by the committee.

Life of Sirhan's Attorney, Police Chief Threatened

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The life of the new attorney for the alleged assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has been threatened, the lawyer's investigator said Friday.

The police chief said whatever precautions are necessary will be taken to protect attorney Russell E. Parsons, 69. Parsons succeeded the public defender's office this week as counsel for Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, Jordanian immigrant indicted on charges of murdering Kennedy.

Parsons' chief investigator, Michael A. McCowan, a private detective, said the threats had been by both telephone and mail. McCowan said the FBI had been notified. The FBI declined comment.

Police Chief Tom Reddin said security precautions for Parsons would be based on how seriously the lawyer takes the threats.

The chief said he has received some threats on his own life in connection with the Sirhan case but said he has taken no extra precautions. He said the threats came to his office and were "very low, very infrequent."

Reddin also told a news conference that the accused youth's father, Bishara Sirhan, 55, of Amman, Jordan, has expressed a desire to come to the United States to see his son.

Reddin said his department still is looking for a mystery woman in a polka dot dress in connection with the slaying. Apparently he was unaware that police earlier Friday had canceled an all-points bulletin for the woman.

Homicide Capt. Hugh Brown, who signed the cancellation, refused to say why, citing a Superior Court order restricting comment on the case.

'Warlord' Testifies Of Ranger Arming

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Blackstone Rangers, a street gang in Chicago, were armed by revolutionaries and prepared to join a national black uprising, investigating senators were told Friday.

George Rose, described as a former Ranger warlord, testified that other Ranger leaders told him that at a meeting in Philadelphia in April 1967 with members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), the Chicago gang learned of a plot to assassinate "all the nonviolent civil rights leaders of the country."

Rose was under questioning by members of the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee concerning an Office of Economic Opportunity grant for the Rangers and another Chicago black gang.

He said gang members turned down an offer by two white men to give the Rangers guns and money if they would paint red hammer and sickle insignia on downtown Chicago buildings.

But Rose said the Rangers accepted a later offer from black militant groups to arm themselves and wait for a general uprising.

Rose said the Rangers were contacted by such persons as Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown, both leaders of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Ambrisco, 2815 Brookside Dr., co-owner of S. T. Morrison Co.; R. Kent Angerer, 1231 E. College St., general manager of River Products; and John E. Moore, 3000 Brookside Dr., director of financial aids for the University.

Candidates for the board's one-year term are: Dr. Raymond F. Sheets, 323 Koser Ave., professor of internal medicine at the University; and J. William Osborne, 815 14th Ave., Coralville, professor of radiation research at the University.

All six candidates won the endorsement of the Bipartisan School Board Nominating Committee at its meeting Thursday night. The election, which will be held Sept. 9 to fill the three seats, is open to any candidate, not just those endorsed by the committee.

Warlord Testifies Of Ranger Arming

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Blackstone Rangers, a street gang in Chicago, were armed by revolutionaries and prepared to join a national black uprising, investigating senators were told Friday.

George Rose, described as a former Ranger warlord, testified that other Ranger leaders told him that at a meeting in Philadelphia in April 1967 with members of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), the Chicago gang learned of a plot to assassinate "all the nonviolent civil rights leaders of the country."

Rose was under questioning by members of the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee concerning an Office of Economic Opportunity grant for the Rangers and another Chicago black gang.

He said gang members turned down an offer by two white men to give the Rangers guns and money if they would paint red hammer and sickle insignia on downtown Chicago buildings.

But Rose said the Rangers accepted a later offer from black militant groups to arm themselves and wait for a general uprising.

Rose said the Rangers were contacted by such persons as Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown, both leaders of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating
