Kangaroo Court Pulls No Punches—You're Guilty Until Proven Innocent

By CATHERINE BORCKARDT

The Daily Iowan was severely tried Monday night at the law students' annual Kangaroo Court. Judges Steve Rosenberg of Des Moines, Steve Jacobs of Davenport, and John Diehl of Coralville, all senior law students, presided at Doc's Annex tavern. Some charges against plaintiffs other than the DI included impersonation of Professor Irwin Corey, the comedian, and the drinking of a certain beer. Maxine Thomas, L1, Los Angeles, was accused of being the most attractive girl in the College of Law. The court, where all defendants are found guilty, is held near the beginning of the year because by midterms and finals the law students will be hard at work, according to one of those present. Kangaroo Court and the black canes carried by seniors are part of a tradition. At one time in the distant past, during the Homecoming game, law students would throw their canes over the goal post, and if they were caught on the way down it was an omen that the student would pass his bar exams, according to David Vernon, dean of the College of Law. On the judges' first pitcher, the proceedings were straight. Prosecutor Rod Joslin, L3, Rock Island, Ill., began, "If it please the court. . . ." He was interrupted by Chief Justice Rosenberg and told, "It pleases the court for you to shut up and pass my beer." By the time the judges were quaffing their fourth pitcher, their decrees were less well-ordered. When the defendant was called to the stand, Rosenberg announced, "Class closed. Let's hear your plea." Darrell Morf, L3, Fredericksburg, stood on his chair to be seen over the heads of the crowd of about 100 as he paid his penalty. Morf shugged two small draws in seven seconds, most of which slowly seeped into his gray sweatshirt or ran down his neck in the night's finest display of imbibing technique. Several DI reporters were charged with press brutality, and convicted without ap peal. A pitcher of beer was forfeited to the judges, one of 12 pitchers counted. Kangaroo Court will continue tonight and Thursday. On Thursday night, certain College of Law professors will be subpoenaed to appear. It extends this ban to rifles and shotguns and also covers sales of all kinds of ammunition. Besides the prohibition on interstate mail order sales, the bill regulates sales of firearms by mail within a state by providing for a seven-day waiting period and the filing of an affidavit of eligibility by the purchaser. Over-the-counter sales to non-residents would be prohibited except that a person could buy a long gun in an adjoining state if he qualified under the laws of both states. The measure would become effective on Dec. 16, the same date as the section of the crime control bill curbing handgun sales. One exception is that a ban on imports of all surplus military weapons would be effective immediately upon enactment. ## Agreement Reached On Gun Control Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees agreed Tuesday on a bill to prohibit interstate mail order sale of all firearms and ammunition.

The compromise measure also includes a general ban on over-the-counter sale of firearms to nonresidents of a state and prohibits sales of rifles and shotguns to persons under 18 years of age. Persons under 21 already are banned from buying handguns.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.), who fought against the ban on mail order sales of ammunition, refrained from signing the conference report. He said he wanted to see its provisions reduced to writing first.

Other senators who have opposed gun control legislation, such as James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), were absent and also did not sign the report, raising some question whether they would fight its adoption.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.), chief Senate sponsor of the legislation, hailed the compromise as "a milestone."

And Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), chairman of the House conferees, called it a thorough-going and comprehensive gun control measure.

For the most part, the conferees took the strongest provisions of the separate bills previously passed by the Senate and the House.

The measure supplements a section of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act passed earlier in the year banning interstate mail order sales of handguns.

It extends this ban to rifles and shotguns and also covers sales of all kinds of ammunition.

Besides the prohibition on interstate mail order sales, the bill regulates sales of firearms by mail within a state by providing for a seven-day waiting period and the filing of an affidavit of eligibility by the purchaser.

Over-the-counter sales to non-residents would be prohibited except that a person could buy a long gun in an adjoining state if he qualified under the laws of both states.

The measure would become effective on Dec. 16, the same date as the section of the crime control bill curbing handgun sales.

One exception is that a ban on imports of all surplus military weapons would be effective immediately upon enactment.

The Senate-passed bill provided for outlawing interstate mail order sales of all types of ammunition, but the House had exempted ammunition for rifles and shotguns.

Another difference involved additional penalties provided for carrying a firearm in the commission of a federal felony.

The conference committee agreed on an additional penalty of one to 10 years for a first offense, but with the provision that this could run concurrently with the penalty for the crime itself and sentence could be suspended.

For a second offense the additional penalty for carrying a firearm while committing a federal felony would be five years to 25 years but this too could run concurrently.

The conferees modified a House provision to exempt from the legislation the National Board for Promotion of Rifle Practice, which is closely associated with the National Rifle Association.

Under the compromise, the Secretary of Defense would be authorized to extend exemptions for organizations engaged in the civilian marksmanship program but the individuals involved would have to be qualified by law to purchase firearms. Under the legislation, interstate mail order sales would be limited to licensed manufacturers, importers, dealers and collectors.

Violations would be subject to 5 years' imprisonment or a $5,000 fine, or both.

Faculty Support For Student Code Asked by Bowen

Pres. Howard R. Bowen, in his annual address to the faculty, Tuesday came out in defense of the controversial Code of Student Life.

Speaking in Macbride Auditorium, Bowen urged the faculty to read the document and submit suggestions for its improvement.

But, he said, "I want to make it clear that the code as published is now in force and will continue to be until it is revised and the revisions published."

He said that the regulations in the code would apply only when a student's misconduct affects some University process or function.

Because the rules were "stated clearly and therefore rather badly . . . they give the impression of a harshness which a careful reading dispels," he added.

On the subject of academic freedom, Bowen said students and faculty must all live "exactly according to the principles of a house of intellect." He said there was "abundant evidence that the historic autonomy of universities is once again in jeopardy." The principles to be followed include those of responsibility, freedom, law and due process, he said.

Bowen said he would "make no apology for our housing rules and would defend their continuance." He said that, in his judgment, a strong case could be made "on educational and practical grounds for undergraduate students to live for a time in organized housing as part of the University community."

Bowen also referred to the University's current building plans, to various fundraising plans and to the budget. He also told the audience that even though enrollment has risen to somewhat over 19,500 students, there has been a significant gain in the faculty-student ratio, as "the faculty has expanded proportionately a little more than the rise in enrollment."

Schwengel Urges Nixon to Adopt 'Forthright' Stand

Rep. Fred Schwengel, Republican from Iowa's First District, addressed the Young Republican Club Tuesday night by telephone because he had been locked—literally—all day in the House Chambers in Washington, D.C.

The Republicans in the House of Representatives Tuesday employed a rarely used parliamentary device. According to Allan Schimmel, a legislative aide of Schwengel, congressmen attending Tuesday's session were not allowed to leave the House floor. Schwengel, from Davenport, is opposed in the November general election by Democrat John Schmidhauser, a professor of political science at the University.

Schwengel told the Young Republicans that he had been talking with two members of Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon's staff Tuesday in an attempt to convince Nixon that he should adopt a more "forthright" position on Vietnam.

Schwengel said that his comments had been well-received.

Schwengel said that his suggestion for a more "forthright" position included three main points:

1. That Nixon should come out against search and destroy missions in favor of a seize and hold operation.

2. That control of the pacification program in South Vietnam be taken from the military of South Vietnam and given to civilians.

3. That a commission to initiate land reform and to stop corruption in South Vietnam should be formed.

"I favor as soon as possible the establishment of an all voluntary army in the United States," Schwengel said.

He said that the present Selective Service System is unfair, very discriminatory and in "need of a drastic overhaul."

Schwengel said that it would take from two to five years to change to a volunteer army. He said that a large number of military personnel could be replaced by civilians in career jobs.

"An all voluntary army is possible if the military's wages are increased to that of civilian jobs," Schwengel said.

"Many people are losing confidence in our system of government, because the leadership is unable to lead," Schwengel told the group.

Schwengel ended by adding that he was in favor of lowering the voting age to 18.

Slaying of Washington Black Sparks Brief, Violent Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angry blacks poured out the main business street of Washington's northwest black district Tuesday night in a brief but violent protest over the fatal shooting of a black man by a white policeman.

One major fire was reported and the crowd stoned firemen and broke scores of shop windows before a massive show of force by riot-trained special police units brought calm.

No arrests were reported and there were no injuries except one fireman overcome by smoke.

Tear gas was used sparingly in the section, scene of last April's riots following the murder of the Rev. Martin Luther King. Officers said they used gas to chase off the roofs persons who were hurling objects to the streets below.

One incident of looting was reported, but officials said the main damage came from broken plate glass windows and the fire, which gutted an auto parts store.

Officers said the trouble started several hours after a white motorcycle policeman shot and killed an unidentified black man who allegedly resisted arrest for a pedestrian traffic violation.

"That's the only thing I can connect it with," said Lt. J. E. Lockhart of the 13th Precinct.

Police said motorcycle Patrolman David L. Roberts, 30, drew his gun and fired after the man he was trying to arrest assaulted him. The man, unidentified and described as between 20 and 30, was pronounced dead at Freedman's Hospital.

Roberts also was taken to a hospital. Witnesses told reporters the dead man had first tried to get away from the patrolman, then turned on him and hit him in the face and body.

The shooting occurred on 14th St. just north of U Street, near the now burned-out headquarters of the Poor People's Campaign and a block south of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee headquarters that was the scene of a gunfight last month.

Richard A. Lahr, administrative assistant, commenting on the transportation policy of the local school district, said the district is required to provide transportation only to those elementary students living more than two miles from school, and high school students living more than three miles. Seventy-five Coralville students do not meet these qualifications. Lahr said, however, that it was within the discretionary power of the Board to provide transportation for elementary children who live less than two miles and high school students who live more than two but less than three miles away. This type of action would satisfy the complaints of Coralville students.

The cost of transporting the Coralville students would cost the district an additional $4,617 yearly. The district is now transporting the Coralville students because of road construction in the Iowa City — Coralville area. But the Coralville School bus route will end as soon as construction is complete.

The Board agreed to consider the recommendations and make a decision later.

Black Students Repeat Boycotts Around Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Dissident black students bolstered their demands for more black teachers and supervisors in Chicago schools by staging walkouts at several high schools for the second day Tuesday.

Student boycotts also occurred at an elementary school on the Northwest Side.

A group of 300 black students from Austin High School on the West Side marched some five miles to the downtown office of the Board of Education.

Representatives of the dissident students went into the Board of Education offices to discuss their demands while the majority of the students paraded around the building under the watchful eye of 25 policemen.

No incidents were reported.

Earlier, police were summoned to Austin when a group of white youths marched in front of the school chanting, "White power, Wallace." Austin has 1,189 black students among its enrollment of more than 3,500.

Task force police also stood watch at Morgan Park High School on the South Side when black and white students staged a confrontation in front of the school.

Five students were arrested after a lunchroom scuffle Monday at Morgan Park which has more than 1,000 black students, representing 39.2 per cent of its enrollment.

Officials said Tuesday that black students at Austin, Morgan Park and Harrison, the third school hit by walkouts, were angered because Afro-American history classes have not been incorporated in the schools' curricula.

Harrison has an enrollment of 3,300 students, about two-thirds of them black. It has a staff of 150 teachers, 20 of whom are

N.Y. Rebel Educator Fired

The Board of Education reassigned McCoy to its central headquarters and also relieved seven of the eight principals in the black and Puerto Rican Ocean Hill district.

The UFT, whose 55,000 members are predominantly white, had accused McCoy and the principals of "direct defiance of the city and the Board of Education."

The eighth principal in the district was transferred at his own request, School Supt. Bernard Donovan said.

Over the weekend, the school board had suspended the 19-member local governing board of Ocean Hill for its refusal to return the 80 ousted teachers to their regular class assignments.

Donovan was ordered to assume direct supervision of the Ocean Hill Schools.

Donovan told a news conference McCoy was transferred out of the district because he had insisted on obeying the suspended local board rather than the Board of Education. And the superintendent said the seven principals also had indicated defiance of the Board of Education.

An off-again on-again UFT strike previously closed most of the city's 900 public schools for 11 classroom days since the fall term began Sept. 9. The walkout came to an uneasy end Sept. 30.

Uniformed police were massed in the Ocean Hill-Brownsville area as the district's eight schools opened for Tuesday classes. Some officers, clubs held with both hands, were formed in double lines. Others were stationed on rooftops. A police helicopter circled overhead. However, the only demonstration in the racially tense area involved about 80 persons, and no disorders were reported.

The latest crisis in the decentralization row in Ocean Hill was intensified when McCoy carried out his previously announced plan to sideline the 80 teachers. In so doing, he ignored a mandate of the Board of Education, which ordered the ousted teachers returned to their original teaching posts.

One of the ousted teachers assigned to Ocean Hill's Junior High School 271 said they had been put to work evaluating text books "just to keep us busy."

Another of the teachers quoted a non-union replacement teacher as saying inside the school: "Pigs! We have to sit in the same room with pigs."

'Backlash' to Activists On Campus Predicted

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A leading American educator Tuesday forecast the possibility of a campus reaction across the country against student activists who disrupt college and university functions.

Otis A. Singletary, executive vice chancellor for academic affairs at the University of Texas, said in an interview that heretofore silent students in the moderate center who feel their rights to an education are being denied in the confrontation between activists and administrators may insist on being heard.

"A general backlash from these students is possible," Singletary said. "There are many signs of a strong reaction on the part of the great mass of moderate students against disruption on the campus."

Singletary later addressed a special meeting in Denver of college and university trustees and regents called to consider the crisis on American campuses stirred by student activism.

The meeting is sponsored by the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges, composed of the people who control the purse strings of American higher education. Some 200 colleges and university trustees are attending the conference to hear opinions from college administrators and from student activists themselves.

Singletary told the trustees student activists can be broken down into three categories: (1) Radicals who genuinely believe American society and institutions are corrupt and should be done away with; (2) Liberal reformers not opposed to the American system as such but in favor of specific changes in college and university functions; (3) Black students concerned with specific demands for the blacks on campus and in the American society.

"The great majority of American students," Singletary said, "are not activist about anything."

He said that the activists are likely to have their greatest impact in the field of liberal reform of university and college institutions.

"In any case," he added, "my best advice in present circumstances is to get ready for trouble."

Only hours before Singletary spoke, a student group at the University of Colorado in nearby Boulder offered evidence that his prophecy of a student counter movement may come true.

The group, calling itself NEVER for "New Emergency Against Violence and Expressed Revolution," staged a walkout at a meeting of the radical Students for a Democratic Society.

Leader of the group, 22-year-old Harv Margolis of Cranford, N.J., said members of the newly-formed association are "tired of the violence on campus and tired of violent groups on campus."

Coralville Residents Petition Board To Initiate Bus Service for Students

The Iowa City Community Board of Education heard arguments Tuesday night concerning the lack of school bus transportation for students residing in Coralville. Coralville residents presented a petition with 1,125 signatures to the board. The petition requested the board to take action which would provide bus transportation for Coralville students. Hazardous walking conditions were cited as the reason for the request.

Robert L. White, a Coralville resident, expressed concern over the lack of sidewalks, and in many instances, the lack of

Viet Question Raised By Catholic Instructor

BALTIMORE (AP) — A young Catholic teacher testified Tuesday he helped burn draft records to raise an outcry against the Vietnam war and to "do a tiny bit to stop the machine of death I saw moving."

David Darst, a 26-year-old teacher of the Christian Brothers order in St. Louis, Mo., said he wanted to raise an outcry because "I saw a very clear crime, very clear unnecessary suffering, very clear wanton slaughter."

Help save Biafra

The University's Afro-American student organization is in the process of circulating a petition protesting the starvation and casualties in Biafra.

The petition, which has been signed by 50 townspeople so far, will be available for students to sign on Thursday. Students wishing to sign the petition, which will be sent to Gov. Harold Hughes, will find the petition in the Union Gold Feather Room lobby.

The petition reads as follows: "Today in eastern Nigeria, a civil war between the federal authorities and secessionist Biafra is presently ravaging a formerly dynamic and progressive nation. Senator Edward Kennedy has cited reports of four million refugees ('Casualties some ten times greater than those in Vietnam') and over a million children and thousands of others dying of starvation.

"We, the undersigned, urgently request that our government begin immediate mass shipments of food and medical supplies to help relieve this inhuman suffering."

In this basically middle class oriented society, it is easy to ignore the surrounding problems and just concentrate on personal gains and satisfaction.

In fact, the traditional parental comment, "Eat your dinner, dear, people all over the world are starving" becomes more a comic quip than a statement of world problems.

But, while we are all content in Iowa City, people are starving in Biafra and other places. The children who have died in Biafra are not to be laughed at or ignored.

A nation as rich in economic and social resources as the United States cannot turn its head and ignore poverty and despair. If students at the University find the thought of starving people in Biafra a little nauseating and very unnecessary, they can voice their dissatisfaction and call for action by signing the petition.

A signature on a petition does not necessarily insure action, but at least it indicates that the person would like something done about a situation. Talk is cheap, and action, any action, is what counts. — Cheryl Arvidson

'4-1-4' deserves support

Student Senate Tuesday night investigated and debated the merits of a bill calling for a 4-1-4 plan for academic year organization.

The 4-1-4 plan is a system that divides the school year into two four-month semesters with a month of independent study in between.

Colleges and universities that use the 4-1-4 plan of study have several variations in the use of the independent month of study. Generally, no classes are scheduled, and the student has the option of how to use the month.

Some schools give the student the opportunity to work on a thesis or special project for credit in his major. Other schools offer the time to work in interest areas outside the major area of a student. Occasionally, schools allow students to take one or two intensive classes or seminars not offered during the regular academic year. Another possibility is independent research or study during the month in areas of classwork in the second semester.

One of the obvious advantages of a 4-1-4 plan is that students conclude the first semester of college study at about the time Christmas vacation begins. Here, a student must carry his studies over a Thanksgiving and a Christmas break and through January before finals. January is usually a terribly dull month around the University, and first semester always seems terribly drawn out and hard to finish compared to second semester.

Aside from this time advantage, a 4-1-4 plan frees a student from the traditional approaches to education. Classwork for one month is suspended. A student is able to delve into a creative and interest-oriented plan of study.

A month of study, free from the monotony of class work and specific time tables for required study time, would give students the opportunity to explore areas that interest them without having to sacrifice time from required course work.

Instead of having to indefinitely postpone or postpone until summer special work or research in areas of interest, a student would have the time necessary to satisfy his curiosity and quest for additional information.

In a straw poll taken at Registration this fall, a majority of students favored the 4-1-4 approach. While not only being popular with students and faculty members alike, the 4-1-4 plan is a progressive addition to a college curriculum.

Although the implementation of a 4-1-4 plan would not be immediate, with student and faculty support and pressure, the administration might consider implementation faster than if the issue were to be proposed and not pushed.

This plan deserves the support of all students and faculty interested in a new and more individually suited approach to learning.

'Voting in streets' on fall's agenda for antiwar groups

By College Press Service
NEW YORK — With the Presidential elections less than one month away, leftist student and peace organizers across the broad spectrum have begun planning a "fall election offensive," opening a new phase in the national protest of the electoral system which began in Chicago last month and which will continue through the inauguration in January.

The National Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam (known as "Mobe" for short), a loosely formed organization which in the past has coordinated many of the mass antiwar demonstrations and which earlier this year called for the protest in Chicago, is the one group so far to become specific about its plans.

Mobe leaders say they are calling on students to "find new ways of voting this year — in the streets rather than in polling places" since voting for one of the three major candidates gives no chance to vote for ending the Vietnam war now.

At an initial planning session last week in New York, Paul Potter, a former president of Students for a Democratic Society who is now on the Mobe steering committee, said his organization is aiming at a series of national, "decentralized" protest activities "leading up to, but not including, a disruption of polling places."

The thrust of the activities, he said, will be to link the continuing war in Vietnam with the concept that our present political system, rather than dealing with the situation, tends to perpetuate it. The program's main features are to include:

- On the weekend prior to the elections, possible presentation of antiwar generals at public hearings at which the issues surrounding the war would be presented, combined with —

- Delegations of antiwar demonstrators visiting the nation's "35 key military bases," located mostly in the East and South, staging marches and "love-ins," concluding with —

- The declaration of November 2 as Vietnam Sunday and urging clergymen opposed to the war to speak out against it to their congregations;

- The organization of mass rallies on the eve of election day supporting a boycott of the elections as irrelevant and illegitimate, combined with activities the following day, including —

- Mass demonstrations at polling places of the major candidates plus various other activities, including leafleting and guerrilla theatre performances, at other polling places all across the country.

"The important point about Mobe's planning," Potter said, "is that it provides a chance to reintroduce the war in Vietnam as an issue nationally."

The gathering, attended by about 20 people, marked the first such meeting in the city of radical campus and peace groups interested in protesting the elections, but already the lines of political difference could be seen emerging.

Jeff Shero, editor of the New York underground newspaper, "Rat," objected to so strong a connection between the elections and the war. "We should try to tie the protest more to the ongoing demands of the movement," he said, without becoming more specific. "The war is kind of an old issue."

Objections were also raised to the idea of counter-election polls at which persons opposed to the three major candidates could cast their vote at an alternative polling place set up for the day by the protesters.

"That tends to give the idea that we just don't have a choice this time," Shero said, "When in fact we've never had a choice."

Other speakers emphasized the need for clear explanation of why the election protest is being staged. While supporting the proposal for a boycott, one activist contended, "This is going to be the first day of the rest of the movement. We have to give people good reasons for what they're doing."

Jeff Jones, an SDS member, told the group that the New York regional assembly last weekend was to have discussed the possibility of calling for a student strike prior to the election day in which students stop attending classes in order to participate in activities opposed to the elections. That same proposal will probably be discussed next weekend at an SDS national conference in Boulder, Colorado.

Students, Mobe says, are "drawing the connections between war and society as they see the relationship of their universities to both the war and the federal government." On election day, it urges them to center their activities on "pointing out the ties that exist between the war machinery and the universities, through all-day teach-ins, confrontations with draft boards or other actions aimed at forcing universities to end military research." Students are also urged not to attend classes on November 5.

There was also some unspecific talk about the possibility that high school students from several New York public schools would walk out on election day in protest. That day is normally a city-wide school holiday, but this year the day off has been cancelled because of the teachers' strike.

The political discussions and planning sessions will intensify in the coming week as the various groups begin firming up their plans. Potter said Mobe would begin releasing publicity on its plans this week.

Beneath Columbia's calm, 'confrontation' rumbles heard

EDITOR'S NOTE: As students across the country settle down to the fall semester's classes, speculation is running wild about what will happen at Columbia University, after last year's headline-making rebellion. Students and administrators want to know what's up with Columbia's "New Left" — in case they have to face similar situations at their own campuses. College Press Service correspondent Bill Freeland takes an interpretive look at the prospects for fall: will Columbia be peaceful, or will there be a replay of last spring?

By BILL FREELAND
College Press Service

NEW YORK — A mid occasional outbreaks of violence and periods of fitful decision, the elements of a new confrontation at Columbia are quietly beginning to build.

A few weeks ago, in a relatively peaceful action, campus radicals led by Students for a Democratic Society closed down the opening day of registration. Then two weeks ago activities escalated when seven people were arrested by city police on the opening day of classes, following a noisy march and a brief stoning of the university's chief administration building.

In the process, the participants, many of them veterans of last spring's rebellion, have begun to rediscover their former militancy. But the search for that more elusive commodity — a strategy that can transform these random actions into a sustained "revolutionary" movement — still continues.

Thus, for many people, the struggle at Columbia is in transition. The immediate task is to recoup the strength won in the spring, refocus attention on the items through new sets of confrontations and hope that out of all this a new direction will emerge.

But the revolution, in contrast to its supporters, did not return from summer vacation invigorated. The voice of God (or some other charismatic figure), for example, has not been raised in condemnation of the administration for its alleged racist and imperialist policies at any of the rallies. What's more, those speakers who have addressed the crowds have so far been unable to capture the attention of the mass of campus moderates, whose support six months ago was largely responsible for the continued success of the strike. Meanwhile, the administration, though slandered daily by its detractors, has moved effectively to cool the dissatisfaction through a series of conciliatory actions offering reinstatement to 42 suspended students and asking the city to drop charges against the nearly 400 students arrested.

Radical leaders, reacting against this new tactic, at first sought to create some kind of immediate confrontation in an attempt to bring at least the excitement, if not the substance, of the previous struggle into the present events; but here, the administration has shrewdly backed off.

"No repression whatsoever," acting president Andrew Cordier has promised. True to his word, the only police attending rallies these days are those wearing business suits — or beads.

In this period of temporary calm, the activists are conducting a careful re-evaluation of their movement's present status, while seeking a consensus on where it should go from here.

In the interim, a number of things have once again become clear: Crowds do not necessarily represent concern. Confrontation is not always creative. Rebellion doesn't always result in revolution.

On the border questions of strategy, however, the radicals remain openly divided. A small but vocal minority of SDS, mostly members of its labor committee, argued long, and at the time persuasively, that the campus struggle should be linked this fall with the plight of the city's working classes. That position was eventually defeated in favor of keeping the focus centered on the university, but as one student said, "We exhausted ourselves settling it."

The same lines of division have been evident in recent discussions of future actions. Labor committee supporters are backing a proposal for a mass trial at which both the striking students and the administration would present their cases before a jury composed of students, faculty and members of the Morningside Heights community. If the administration refuses to appear, the radicals would present charges anyway in a mock tribunal which would lead ultimately to a finding of guilt and "expelling and stopping the trustees."

Below the confused surface, however, one can clearly detect a growing sense of urgency in students and an increased willingness to take more desperate actions.

That certainly is the pattern emerging in developments at Columbia. The current administration policy of non-confrontation, which at first seemed to undermine the militancy of many students, now seems to be having the opposite effect. Two weeks ago students were willing to stone a building, whereas the week before they stopped at simply blocking a doorway.

Thus spontaneously and without any real direction, the students are drifting on a collision course with the university. Eventually the administration will be forced to make a response.

There are signs that the administration's present soft-line policy has not been a total success. Many students remain angered by the city's refusal to follow through on the university's request to drop some of the charges. District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, who has so far blocked that move, the students point out, is after all, also a university trustee.

One issue that seems to be picking up more support is the question of university expansion into the community. A major catalyst in the spring uprising was the attempt to stop construction of a gym on a portion of a public park in Harlem.

One of the concessions won by the students was the temporary halt of those plans. But meanwhile the university is moving swiftly on plans to develop a 40-block area north of the campus which will displace nearly 10,000 low-income residents to make room for a manufacturing-research complex which will include middle-income housing almost exclusively. Equally questionable is the fact that the contract to build the $180 million project has been let to contractor Percy Uris, another university trustee.

"Is it any wonder that the youth have lost all respect for their elders, for law and order, when for as long as they can remember all they've witnessed is a monumental bickering over the Negro's place in American society and the right of people around the world to be left alone by outside powers?"

... Old funny-styled, zipper mouthed political night riders know nothing but to haul out an investigating committee to look into the disturbance to find the cause of unrest among the youth. Look into a mirror! The cause is you, Mr. and Mrs. Yesterday ...

The above is quoted from Eldridge Cleaver's "Soul on Ice," and seems appropriate now, during the investigations in Washington by the House UnAmerican Activities Committee into the recent "disturbances" in Chicago. According to an AP news story in Friday's issue of The Daily Iowan the chairman of the subcommittee wanted to bring out evidence about "financing of the Chicago disturbances and connections with foreign Communist powers," and claimed testimony had cited 21 Communists as participants in the "disorders" but he refused to identify any of them by name.

If this sounds like "Mr. and Mrs. Yesterday" and a return to the Joe McCarthy era of the fifties it's no accident, because "Mr. and Mrs. Yesterday" are the ones who run such circuses as the House UnAmerican Activities Committee. Despite the fact that the median age of present-day America is 28, among House and Senate chairmen it is 67, and many are well over 70! Add to this the fact that though the South has only one-fifth of the U.S. population, men from Southern and border states run 11 of the 16 Senate committees and 14 of the 20 House committees. This is called "representative government."

In "Soul on Ice" Eldridge Cleaver expresses hope in the future because he believes today's youth are overcoming the hangups that still retard "Mr. and Mrs. Yesterday." It may mean the salvation of this nation if he is right, but as of today "Mr. and Mrs. Yesterday" are still running the show.

Reader says 'bravo' to Jose's 'Banner'

To the editor:

Right now, patriotic citizens everywhere are discussing one of the most important issues of our time: what to do about Jose Feliciano's flagrant disrespect for our beautiful and musically perfect National Anthem! Just because he feels compelled to sing with sensitivity and warmth, does he have to sing the "Star Spangled Banner" with this same honest enthusiasm?

He should know the Americans love the security of tradition and that every American is an expert when it comes to the performance of the "Star Spangled Banner." The whole trouble is that the American public is used to hearing and singing the S.S.B. completely devoid of any and all emotion. This can easily be proven at any football game. The next time the band is about to perform the "Star Spangled Banner," watch the people around you.

Why should Feliciano be any different than the rest of us? Just because he is a singer who has gained his reputation by re-arranging mediocre rock and folk songs into rewarding musical experiences, does this give him the poetic license to try and work similar miracles with our National Anthem? It all boils down to one point: what is patriotism? Is a person patriotic who bravely plods through the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" with all the grace and sensitivity of a quarterback rushing through a line; or is a person patriotic who challenges the rules of tradition, and decides to execute the National Anthem in a manner which, to him, suggests the very epitome of expression, and sings the Anthem with every ounce of love and emotion he feels for a great country? I can only say, Bravo, Feliciano!

'Chirity for fortunate as well as unfortunate'

To the editor:

In the Saturday edition of The Daily Iowan, Mike James, a national leader of the SDS was quoted as saying, "The idea is about touching, feeling, and loving our brothers. If one man doesn't eat three times a day and another has $25,000 then the second man has something that belongs to the first."

I assume that "touching and feeling" is referring to homosexuals. As to "loving our brothers," he seems to mean "a friend in need is a friend indeed." Also, a man whose products are exploited and disposed of by others is a slave — and whether a man is eating two meals a day or two meals a week, misfortune is no claim to slave labor. So, if Mike James and other members of the SDS want "brotherly love" rather than a shotgun, baby, they had better quit promoting "legalized robbery," and start promoting voluntary charity with the same degree of passion not only for the unfortunate, but for the fortunate as well.

Senators Hear '4-1-4' Plan

Dan Cambridge
The "4-1-4" plan, a system of academic scheduling allowing for an interim period of independent study between regular semesters, was officially introduced to the Student Senate Tuesday night.

The plan was explained to the senate by Sen. Jim Robertson, A4, Iowa City. Robertson outlined a plan that would call for two four-month academic semesters separated by one-month interim period. The first semester would begin in early September, ending with the beginning of Christmas vacation. The interim period would span the month of January, and the second semester would finish the year in June.

According to Robertson, the interim period would allow students to pursue studies which they could not take up during the regular academic semesters. Students could concentrate on special fields in their major areas or study subjects for which they would normally have no time, he said. Robertson also said that although several small colleges such as Grinnell and Cornell have interim programs, no major university possesses such a program. The "4-1-4" program was the subject of a bill submitted to the senate by Robertson and Student Body Pres. Carl Varner. The resolution called for the senate to endorse the "4-1-4" program and work with the administration to implement it. The resolution was referred to the Academic Affairs committee for study.

In other business, the senate passed a bill requiring student members of student-faculty committees to be limited to membership on one committee. Also passed was a bill authorizing the personnel committee to appoint representatives to attend the Iowa City Council meetings.

The senate approved an allocation of $400 for the expenses of five senators who will travel to a conference on cooperative housing in Washington, D.C. this weekend. The conference will concern cooperative bookstores as well as housing. Senators attending the conference are Rita DeMarco, A2, Palatine, Ill.; Erica Schrauer, A4, Katonah, N.Y.; Jim Sutton, G, Iowa City; Lyman Piersma, A3, Inwood; and Jim Dougherty, A2, Anamosa.

The senate granted, on the recommendation of the housing committee, a charter to The Association of Collegiate Veterans, an organization for former members of the service. The resignation of two senators, Paul Eisner and LeRoy Searle, was also announced. The personnel committee indicated that it would announce interviews for senate seat vacancies this week.

Senators absent were Cindy Dierks, Tom Van Gelder, Tim Finn and Julie Wlach. Finn and Miss Wlach sent substitutes.

Apollo 7 Astronauts Enter Last 72 Hours of Countdown

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Apollo 7 astronauts honed flying skills inside a mock spacecraft Tuesday as tracking stations hummed around the world in preparation for Friday's scheduled three-man blastoff.

If the 11-day Apollo 7 flight, scheduled to blast off at 10 a.m. (Iowa time) Friday, is successful, Apollo 8 may attempt to orbit the moon 10 times during the Christmas season. That mission is an important rehearsal of the lunar landing scheduled in 1969.

Even as Apollo 7 countdown moved into its last 72 hours, technicians prepared to roll yet another Apollo-mission rocket to the launch pad today for a possible manned flight around the moon in December.

HERKY DROPS IN—The notion of the Hawks being on top is the theme of this year's Homecoming Monument, being erected now on the Pentacrest. The brainchild of a civil engineering student, Joe Meade, E4, Iowa City, the monument is comprised of a 4-foot-square tower rising 36 feet into the air and coming to a point at the top. The Herky Hawk will ride on tracks up and down the tower. At the bottom of the tower, Herky picks up a dummy of a Hoosier football player and carries it to the top of the tower. Herky then drops the Hoosier and the cycle begins again. The tower, Meade says, represents the rebuilding of the Hawks as a Big 10 football power.

Homosexuals Offered Program for Treatment

Young men with homosexual problems and preoccupations are being offered help under a treatment program which the Department of Psychiatry has been developing for the last two years.

The results of the program, according to a psychiatrist professor, have been encouraging. The psychiatrist, who asked that his name not be used, said the goals of the treatment program have included counseling, developing insights into the causes of homosexual problems, helping young men with the problem to better organize their lives and learn to live with their problem and/or helping to bring about a change in sexual orientation.

Another goal has been to develop a better understanding of the causes of homosexuality and to evaluate more carefully the effectiveness of treatment, not only in terms of change in sexual orientation, but also in terms of decreased nervous tensions, increased self control, and increased ability to concentrate, develop a more meaningful relationship with others and live a more meaningful life, the professor added.

At times, not everyone who desires treatment can be included in the same year that they apply for treatment, the psychiatrist said. In these instances, those who have been waiting for treatment the longest will be included first.

The psychiatrists participating in the study are concerned only with developing a better understanding of homosexuality and helping the young men who desire treatment, he said. They are not, he emphasized, concerned with administrative considerations.

The program is strictly voluntary and strict professional confidence is maintained.

The psychiatrist explained that his reluctance to have his name used was in line with this concept of strict confidence. He said he didn't want the names of doctors associated with the program to be known to the general public — for the purpose of insuring secrecy for patients seeing the doctors.

Individuals who desire further information may write to Box 154, 500 Newton Rd., or call 353-3067, preferably between 1 and 2 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Czechs Ready to Sign Pact Legalizing Soviet Presence

PRAGUE (AP) — A Czechoslovak government delegation arrived in Moscow Tuesday night to negotiate a treaty legalizing the occupation of their country by a Soviet-led force of Warsaw Pact nations, Czechoslovak sources reported.

Their arrival was confirmed as the Presidium of the Czechoslovak Communist party approved commitments made in Moscow last week by party chief Alexander Dubcek, the news agency CTK reported. They included promises of further limitations on Dubcek's liberal reform program and agreement on the continued stay of some of the occupation troops.

A communique on the Presidium meeting, which brought together Dubcek and his chief assistants, said the Presidium "approved the procedure of the Czechoslovak delegation" at the Moscow talks. This shunted to one side reports that the party leadership would rebel against the harsh Kremlin demands.

Although Czechoslovakia agreed at last week's talks in Moscow to a tightening of press controls and partial return to Soviet-style communism, the Presidium emphasized that the party "must continue all the positive features" of its popular reform policies launched last January.

Amendments Win Support

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The five proposed constitutional amendments on Iowa's general election ballot got a big boost Tuesday when they won the endorsement of the Republican and Democratic candidates for U.S. senator and governor.

In a joint statement issued through the Iowans for Better Government Committee, the four candidates said the amendments "are necessary steps to improve and strengthen state and local government."

The amendments would authorize annual legislative sessions, require reapportionment of the legislature, give the governor item veto power, give home rule to cities and authorize legislators to set their own pay.

The four candidates are: Republican David M. Stanley and Democrat Harold E. Hughes, campaigning for the Senate; and Republican Robert D. Ray and Democrat Paul Franzburg, campaigning for governor.

Candidates to Meet Voters

The Iowa City League of Women Voters will hold a candidates meeting from 7:30 to 11 p.m. Thursday at Southeast Junior High School.

Eight candidates for local, state, and national office will attend the meeting. They are Democrat John Schmidhauser and Republican incumbent Fred Schwengel, candidates for U.S. Congress, First District; Democrat Mrs. Minnette Doderer and Republican D. C. Nolan, candidates for State Senator; Democrat Joseph Johnston and Republican incumbent Earl Yoder, candidates for State Representative, District one; and Democrat Edward Mezvinsky and Republican Frank Bates, candidates for State Representative, District Two.

Republicans Delaying Action On Bill for Televised Debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans forced the House to a record 23 roll calls Tuesday in a noon-to-midnight attempt to block action on a bill that would permit televised debates between major presidential candidates.

Making repeated demands that a quorum be certified — a House stalling tactic equivalent to the Senate's filibustering — the Republicans sustained a wearying marathon not duplicated since 1965, when 22 roll calls were reached in a protest of rules changes.

The record fell at 11:50 p.m., as the Democratic leadership, equally determined to get the debate bill up, held the House in session and vowed to stay all night if necessary.

The deadlock continued despite a personal visit from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in an effort to loose the jam.

The bill would suspend the equal-time provisions of the Communications Act. Without the suspension, the television networks would be forced to provide equal time for all declared candidates for president if they permit any to debate.

Humphrey said the bill should be passed quickly so he and Nixon could hold at least three debates before the Nov. 5 election.

Iowa Picked Over Hoosiers, Boilermakers Over Buckeyes

CHICAGO (AP) — One of the golden threads in the Turban broke last week, preventing a clean sweep. The mistake was picking against Purdue and that will not happen again, not this season.

So, it was six out of seven last week and 23-4 on the season for an .852 average. Let's go again:

Iowa 31, Indiana 28 — Going against the odds in this one. Both teams can score and both can be scored upon. Also it's time for the young Hawkeyes to show improvement on defense.

Purdue 24, Ohio State 21 — The oddsmakers like Purdue by more than two touchdowns and it well might be if Buckeye defenses collapse. OSU ends Bruce Jankowski and Jan White could cause Purdue secondary trouble if Rex Kern gets time to throw the ball. They might even force Leroy Keyes to play some defense.

Michigan State 21, Michigan 14 — The improving Spartan defense will get a formidable test from Wolverine star Ron Johnson. Michigan State is knocking on the door of the top ten and could get there with a triumph over Michigan.

Minnesota 14, Illinois 7 — Illinois showed improvement against Indiana. But it would be asking too much for a triumph at Minnesota. Gophers have the manpower and want this Big 10 opener badly.

Notre Dame 35, Northwestern 14 — The Irish would like to post a bigger score than Purdue's 43-6 count over the Wildcats. But the Irish defense doesn't figure to keep any team under two touchdowns.

Utah State 21, Wisconsin 13

SPORTS BRIEFS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers have bought the contract of veteran guard Johnny Egan from the Milwaukee Bucks.

The Los Angeles club gave an undisclosed amount of cash and a high future draft choice for Egan, who went to Milwaukee in the expansion draft from the Baltimore Bullets this year.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians said Tuesday they have traded Eddie Fisher to the California Angels for Jack Hamilton in an exchange of right-handed relief pitchers.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — San Francisco 49er quarterback John Brodie will begin working out with the club today and should be ready to start Sunday against the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League, Coach Dick Nolan said Tuesday.

Brodie injured his throwing arm in the fourth quarter of a game with the Los Angeles Rams last week, but has improved enough so the 49ers can count on his being available Sunday, Nolan said.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A wet track held practice to a minimum Tuesday as NASCAR's Grand National entourage began preparations for Sunday's 500-mile, $111,800 stock car race at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Qualifying for starting positions begins today.

Cale Yarborough, a member of Ford's six-car team, holds the National 500 qualifying mark, 155.395 m.p.h. for the 1.5-mile trioval. But Donnie Allison, another Ford driver, turned four laps at 159.208 here in May to win the pole for the World 600.

LONDON (AP) — American pro Billy Casper said Tuesday he has applied for membership in the British Professional Golfers Association and would like some time to play a whole season on the British circuit.

Casper, 37-year-old former U.S. Open champion and the leading money-winner on the U.S. tour, said, "I simply like playing golf in Britain. I like the people in the game and the way you get on and play it."

Grid Officials On Hot Seat

NEW YORK (AP) — The college football campaign is only one-third gone, but already game officials have received almost a full season's share of complaints.

John Bateman of Rutgers, Bob Hagan of Rice, Bob Ward of Maryland and Murray Warmath of Minnesota have been among the most vehement.

The nature of their complaints in chronological order were:

Sept. 21 — Washington runs off seven plays in the final 11 seconds, climaxed by Ron Volbrecht's 51-yard field goal, for a 35-35 tie with Rice.

"Our kids deserved a better fate, than to be beaten by the timekeeper," said Hagan. "They should give him the game ball and erect a statue to him. If the timekeeper had not bled the clock, if he had not cheated, we would have won."

Sept. 28 — Minnesota bows to Nebraska 17-14 and the game ends with the Gophers on the Nebraska 36 after the referee fails to stop the clock following a Minnesota first down.

"I'd like to know what their explanation is," growled Warmath. "You'll have to ask them. I don't think they know the rules."

Oct. 5 — Rutgers loses a touchdown when a 80-yard punt return is nullified by a clipping penalty and then loses the game to Cornell 17-16.

"Mistakes by the officials cost us the game," Bateman exploded. "The clipping call can in no way, from no angle, be accurate. In the minds of our players, this game was taken away from them."

Oct. 5 — A controversial pass completion at the Maryland 10 in the final minute sets up a Duke field goal and a 30-28 triumph. It was Maryland's 16th straight loss.

"I think I took a rooking," Ward complained. "They're taking bread out of my mouth."

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The World Series returns to spacious Busch Stadium for a sixth game today with Ray Washburn trying to close it out for the St. Louis Cardinals against Denny McLain, Joe Sparrma or Earl Wilson of the Detroit Tigers.

Mayo Smith, manager of the Tigers, said he would not reveal the name of his starter until after he reached the ball park today. The Tigers had remained at Tiger Stadium Tuesday morning before flying back to St. Louis where the Series will be concluded.

McLain, a 31-game winner in regular season who has lost twice in duels with Bob Gibson in the first and fourth games, 4-0 and 10-1, said he would be ready to try again after taking a shot of cortisone in his aching right shoulder Monday.

Smith's decision is complicated by physical problems encountered by McLain and Wilson.

Wilson started Saturday's third game but pulled a hamstring muscle in the back of his right leg. McLain, who pitched in last Wednesday's opener and again Sunday, had complained of a sore shoulder.

But after throwing for 13 minutes Tuesday, McLain told coach Hal Naragon, "I haven't been able to do this for two months."

The 24-year-old right-hander referred to the way he popped the ball into Naragon's glove while warming up.

"It feels real good," McLain said afterward. "I'm ready to go tomorrow if he wants me to."

Wilson threw for 10 minutes and said his leg felt much better than it had Monday. He didn't, however, seem as optimistic as McLain.

Sparrma is the only one of the three who hasn't had any ailments, but he also probably would pitch only if the other two couldn't.

Leading by three games to two, the Cardinals need only to win one of two at home to become the first National League team to win two straight Series since the 1921-22 New York Giants.

The Cards worked out in Busch Stadium on Tuesday, confident they could wrap it up.

Washburn is the 30-year-old right-hander who had a 14-8 season and then won the third game Saturday 7-3, although he was knocked out in the sixth inning. He has made a fine comeback from shoulder trouble that kept him on the disabled list during most of the 1964 season.

If the Cards fail today it will be up to Gibson to do it again Thursday. Gibson already has won a record seven straight Series games and holds the all-time single game Series record with 17 strikeouts.

Only three clubs have come back from 3-1 deficits to win. They were the Boston Red Sox of 1903 when it was a best-of-9 series, the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925 and the New York Yankees in 1958.

Kansas State Next for ISU

AMES (AP) — Iowa State's football team drilled for an hour and 50 minutes Tuesday afternoon in the rain while preparing for a Saturday game at Kansas State.

"Kansas State is a potentially explosive team that can score on you from anywhere on the field," Cyclone Coach Johnny Majors warned.

Majors said sophomore tailback Jock Johnson has recovered from a knee injury that idled him in a game last week against Colorado but declined to say whether Johnson will be with the top unit.

Fullback Benny King shifted to Johnson's position against Colorado. Sophomore Roger Guge, who ran at fullback, included a 23-yard touchdown run in his rushing total of 78 yards on 11 carries.

AP Honors McCullers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dale McCullers, Florida State's defensive live wire from Live Oak, Tuesday was named as The Associated Press' College Line-man of the Week.

"If I've ever coached an All-America defensive player, he's it," says Coach Bill Peterson. "It was the greatest game I've even seen a linebacker play."

The game was Saturday night's FSU 20-14 victory over Texas A&M in which McCullers, playing despite the flu, made 20 unassisted tackles, helped on five others and forced one fumble.

In three games this season, McCullers has made 47 tackles and recorded 23 assists.

Two kinds of men make good CPAs.

1. Guys who like to have a boss.
2. Guys who like to be the boss.

If he wants to, a CPA can join almost any kind of business. Or a large accounting firm. Then he'll have a boss.

Or he can start his own practice and work for himself. Then he'll be the boss.

Or he can form a partnership with other CPAs. That way he'll be one of the bosses.

You can select courses that will help you earn your CPA certification soon after college graduation. Or you can do graduate work. Ask your faculty advisor about it.

You may wonder if you have the right temperament. Being able to work with all kinds of people helps. So does an ability to analyze and solve diverse problems. (A CPA's work these days is seldom routine.) And you should be the kind of person in whom people can put their trust and confidence.

HE'S THE FIRST — Denny Green, shown here against Notre Dame, became the first Iowa player to gain admission to the 'Hawk Club'. Green earned his hawk (the decal on his helmet) for his outstanding play in Iowa's first three games.

Green 1st in 'Hawk Club'

By MIKE EBBING
If you were one of the 58,043 fans in Iowa Stadium Saturday and you were able to observe more than the often-used scoreboard, you probably wondered why an Iowa player was running around with a hawk on his helmet.

To clear up any doubts in your minds, the player was sophomore tailback Denny Green and the hawk on his helmet signified his membership in 'Hawk Club'.

You say you're still a little confused. Well, Green is one of Iowa's finest young prospects since the great Willie Fleming of the late fifties. In three games, Green is Iowa's leading rusher. He has gained 258 yards on 39 carries for a 6.6 average. He has also scored five touchdowns, ran back eight kickoffs for 177 yards and caught four passes for 63 yards.

Fleming was a sophomore standout at halfback on Iowa's national champion team in 1958. Currently, Green is far ahead of Fleming's pace. For the entire season, Fleming scored nine touchdowns and gained 420 yards. The 185-pound speed-ster from Harrisburg, Pa., is a good bet to break Fleming's record and should have a few more records to his credit before he leaves Iowa.

You say, "That is impressive, but what in the hell does the hawk on his helmet mean?"

Displaying a hawk on the helmet of an Iowa football player, according to Coach Ray Nagel, is quite an honor.

"It is something we just started this year," said Nagel Tuesday. "A player is credited for an outstanding job by receiving a letter. For example, if a player does an outstanding job rushing, he may get an 'H'. Eventually, his goal is for all five letters in the word 'Hawks'. When he earns the five letters, he then receives a Hawk decal for his helmet and becomes a member of Hawk Club.

Green is currently the only Hawkeye bearing a hawk, although Nagel said that many other players were close. Senior safety Steve Wilson and senior end Al Bream are only one letter short after the Notre Dame game. Green also picked up another letter in that game and is on the way to earning a hawk for the other side of his helmet.

Four Hawkeyes are two letters short. They are tackle Melvin Morris, linebacker Mike Phillips, guard Greg Allison and defensive back Charles Bolden.

A list of the criteria for gaining a letter is posted for the players in the Hawkeye locker room. "These are not simply given away," said Nagel. "I think the rules are strict enough that each player will have to earn his hawk."

One thing is certain, Green fits the bill perfectly as the first member of Hawk Club.

Miller Will Replace Laaveg In Hawkeye Offensive Line

Jim Miller, former Regina High School all-stater will probably get his first starting assignment of the season for Iowa Saturday.

Miller, a 225 pound sophomore will replace Paul Laaveg at quick tackle for the Hawks when they meet Indiana in their Homecoming game.

Laaveg tore his achilles tendon against Notre Dame and will definitely miss the Indiana game and might be lost for the season.

Dave Clement, a 6-foot 203 pound sophomore, out all year with a shoulder dislocation, returned to practice Tuesday. He is listed as the Hawks number 2 linebacker and should see some action Saturday, according to Coach Ray Nagel.

Ed Podolak, the Hawks starting quarterback, and Tim Sullivan, their starting fullback, will both return to action Saturday. Both were held out of the Notre Dame game as a precautionary measure. Podolak has been bothered by a head injury and Sullivan had a hip injury.

Nagel, in an effort to hold the Hawks in complete seclusion as they prepare for their opening Big 10 game, has closed all practices to the press, as of Tuesday. This is the first time all year that Nagel has banned the press from Iowa practices.

Tennis Pros Out of Opens In U.S. in '69

NEW YORK (AP) — The executive directors of the National Tennis League and World Championship Tennis said Tuesday it is doubtful that their professional players would participate in open tournaments in the United States in 1969.

Larry Tubelle of the National Tennis League and Robert Briner of World Championship Tennis League said their groups and the United States Lawn Tennis Association had failed to agree in three major areas.

Among the undecided issues is the question of registered players — players who are eligible for prize money without effecting their amateur status. The professionals say such players should not share in the prize money allocated for the pros.

Players signed by the National Tennis League include Australians Ron Laver, Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle.

All U.S. Olympians in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The United States team in the 1968 Olympic Games opening Saturday swelled to its full complement of 393 Tuesday with the arrival of the star-studded swimming team and members of the weightlifting wrestling squads.

In the group were 68 swimmers — 39 men and 29 women — given a good chance of carrying off at least 20 gold medals in the competition which runs from Oct. 17 to Oct. 26.

Swimming ends the day before the curtain is lowered in this colorful international competition which has attracted a record number of more than 7,000 athletes from 117 nations.

The competition gets underway a week from Thursday in the pool not far away from where a 20-year-old Mexican girl, Norma Enriqueta Basilio, will officially light the Olympic torch in the 80,000-seat stadium Saturday.

Meantime, other American teams were out for daily workouts in areas surrounding spacious Olympic village. Coach Hank Iba's basketball squad staged a secret practice at the beautiful copper-domed stadium. The United States never has lost a game in Olympic competition. As workmen put the finishing touches on the big main stadium, the U.S. track and field team worked out on the practice track located adjacent to Olympic Village.

There were numerous soldiers stationed at key points around the stadium but there was little talk of the disturbance which rocked this beautiful city a week ago.

Purdue Keeps Top Spot In AP Poll; USC 2nd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS 31-14 triumph over Mississippi State.

Purdue continues to lead The Associated Press' major college football poll by a wide margin but another would-be successor is just around the corner.

The top-ranked Boilermakers, who nudged Notre Dame from second place to fifth with a 37-22 victory Sept. 28, travel to Columbus, Ohio, Saturday for a tussle with fourth-ranked Ohio State.

Purdue got 35 of 37 first-place votes in this week's balloting and piled up 736 points to 660 for Southern California and 492 for Penn State. The latter two teams both received one first-place vote as the top three showed no change in position from the previous week.

Ohio State, however, climbed from sixth to fourth after beating Oregon. Notre Dame remained fifth. Kansas jumped from eighth to sixth and Florida fell from fourth to seventh despite a Louisiana State rose from 10th to eighth, idle Nebraska slipped from seventh to ninth and Tennessee, 15th last week, rounded out the Top 10.

The second 10 in order are Houston, Michigan State, Mississippi, Arkansas, Syracuse, California, Georgia, Stanford, Florida State and Oregon State.

The Top 10, with first-place votes, records and total points awarded for first 15 picks (on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1) are:

- |                            |     |
|----------------------------|-----|
| 1. Purdue (35) 3-0         | 736 |
| 2. Southern Calif. (1) 3-0 | 660 |
| 3. Penn State (1) 3-0      | 492 |
| 4. Ohio State 2-0          | 424 |
| 5. Notre Dame 2-1          | 401 |
| 6. Kansas 3-0              | 398 |
| 7. Florida 3-0             | 369 |
| 8. Louisiana St. 3-0       | 276 |
| 9. Nebraska 3-0            | 244 |
| 10. Tennessee 2-0-1        | 183 |

University Offers French Studies Abroad

By LINDA GYLLSTROM
Would you like to put away your books, take a swim at a beach in Normandy, window shop along the Champs Elysees or watch the sun setting over the Alps?
All this is possible if you do not put your books aside, but instead concentrate on your French language studies and apply for admission into the new French studies abroad program.
University officials interested in the possibility of sponsoring a foreign studies abroad program, began conferring in the fall of 1967 with the University of Illinois, which had already completed the groundwork for such a program. By Christmas, arrangements with Illinois were completed, and final confirmation for exchanging students with the University of Rouen, France, was made in January, 1968.

Prior to this year, University students wishing to study abroad had to make arrangements through other universities. To do so they had to transfer registration from the University to the college that sponsored the program.
This program, the first studies program abroad to be officially sanctioned by the University, is open to all students of colleges and universities throughout the country.
Although possessing aspects of a romantic adventure, the program emphasizes academic excellence and proficiency in French.
Participating in this year's program are nine University students and twenty-four students from Illinois, now undergoing a five week orientation and intensive language study course in Grenoble, France.
In order to qualify for the program, a student must have attained a cumulative grade point of 3.0, have completed the third year composition and conversation course in French, have taken at least one semester of introduction to French literature and have attained a level of maturity that will enable him to profit from the experience of living and studying abroad.
Any student is theoretically eligible for application to the program; however, he must be proficient enough in French to be able to undertake courses at the university level which will be taught exclusively in French. Studies at Rouen are considered an extension of the University, therefore, a student may earn as many as 30 semester hours of credit during the academic year under a grading system comparable to that at Iowa.

Courses available to students include French language and literature, studies in social science, music and the arts.
Living arrangements are coordinated by Bruce Mainouse, chairman of the Illinois French department; one assistant from the University, Joseph Uris, G. New York; and one graduate assistant from Illinois.
Students may live in French homes, dormitories or in private apartments. Placement with French families is considered to be the most economical and fruitful for the student.
Participants in the program this year left New York, Sept. 10, and arrived at LaHarve, Sept. 19. From there they traveled to Grenoble for intensive studies. They will soon travel by bus to Rouen, the old capital of Normandy.
Several excursions to historic and pictorial areas around Rouen have been planned by the universities. However, students are free during vacation periods and on weekends to do their own exploring. Paris is only a short drive away.
Through a cooperative effort by the universities, the basic cost for the student, including room, board and traveling expenses, has been approximated to be the same as the cost of an academic year in Iowa City.
Forty students will participate in the program next year. Students interested in participating in the study program may contact Prof. John Nothnagle, 13B Schaeffer Hall either in person or by mail.
The application procedure includes filling out a form, presenting a college transcript, three letters of recommendation, photographs and a medical and dental health statement.
Applications are then reviewed by a selection committee consisting of two faculty members from the Illinois and University departments.
The various other foreign language departments are following the progress of the experimental French program with the hope of eventually sponsoring similar studies in Spain, Italy and Germany.
The success of this program may mean wide opportunities in the future for serious undergraduate students to complete courses in a European university that will be applicable to a degree.

New Party Organized 'To Win, Not Protest'

A branch of the New Reform party, a nationwide political party organized by Washington political scientist Marcus Raskin, is being formed in the Iowa City area, according to David Vogel, G. Bakersfield, Calif.
"The New Reform party is a serious political organization interested in winning elections, not protesting," said Vogel, who is the University representative for the party.
Vogel emphasized that the purpose of the party is not to try to reform the Democratic party.
According to Vogel, the New Reform party takes a stand on national issues similar to that taken by Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.) in his campaign for the presidential nomination, which he lost to Hubert Humphrey.
Vogel said that candidates of the New Reform party are now on the general election ballot in 19 states. Most of them are local.
But, he added, "The party is interested in things other than politics."
He said that the party planned to form a legal aid society made up of people in the party concerned with working in ghetto areas in cities.
"We will help any worthwhile, charitable organization by offering volunteers and possible financial aid," Vogel said.
Vogel said that he had applied for formal recognition of the New

Youths to Get Largest Share Of Treasure

Reform party by the University. An organizational meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Wesley House, 120 N. Dubuque St.
GUTHRIE CENTER — Lawyers for 12 youths who found buried money on a vacant lot in Bayard more than three years ago agreed here Tuesday to settle for 40 per cent of the treasure for their clients.
Judge Robert O. Frederick of Winterset, who heard the District Court case involving more than $11,500 in old coins and currency, ruled the youths are entitled to the largest share of the treasure's net value.
Frederick ruled also that Mr. and Mrs. John Rosenbeck of Bayard, owners of the property on which the money was found, are entitled to 30 per cent.
The other court claimant to the money was Lois Tallman of Guthrie Center, a niece of the late Mary Beardsley, who was the property's former owner.
Judge Frederick said Mrs. Tallman's attorneys, Robert Y. Taylor and Robert E. Feilmeyer of Guthrie Center, also agreed to settle on 30 per cent.
The treasure's worth will be determined at a public auction of the money in Bayard, the judge said.
Kenneth Christensen of Guthrie Center was appointed referee of the auction. No date for the auction was set.
"It's a compromise," Frederick said in respect to the division of the money.
He said much of the treasure, found June 1, 1965 as the youths dug in preparation for building a clubhouse, is in gold coins.
"Some of the goldpieces go back to the 1850s," he said.
"Most of the gold coins have been appraised, as I understand it, at close to three times their face value."

Debate Teams Travel For Season's Openers

The University debate teams will open their new season away from home this weekend.
The varsity team will travel to Rockhurst College, Kansas City, Mo., to participate in a tournament that is one of the strongest of the season, according to Robert L. Kemp, instructor in speech and debate team adviser.
They will debate the National Debate topic "Resolved: That Executive Control of Foreign Policy Be Curtailed."
Members of the varsity team are Randy Mott, A3, Keokuk; Steve Koch, A3, Perry; Richard Edwards, A2, Newton; and Mark Hamer, A4, Cedar Falls.
The other group will go to Grinnell College, Grinnell, for a symposium and discussion. The subject to be discussed is "What Should Be the Scope of Executive Control of United States' Foreign Policy."

EAR CONFERENCE SET—

Speech problems in hard-of-hearing children, dizziness and ear infections will be among topics for discussion at a conference on otology to be held here Friday. Other sessions will consider the assessment of facial injuries, dental problems for the general practitioner, and cleft palate problems. Faculty members for the conference will be from the Department of Otolaryngology and Maxillofacial Surgery at the College of Medicine.

Services May Be Charged In Union's Newest Shops

Hair cuts, shampoos, shaves, permanents, wig cleaning and setting can now be charged on a student's University ID card in the barber and beauty shops located on the ground floor of the Union.

Three full time barbers are employed in the shop. Persons may walk in for service or call for appointments.

The shop, newly opened this fall, offers various types of barbering services from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. With an ID, students may charge hair and personal grooming items such as razors, blades, manicure implements, shampoo massage brushes or combs.

A beauty shop in the adjoining room offers services that may also be charged to the student ID card.

A specialty of the shop includes the cleaning and setting of hairpieces, wigs and falls.

Jan Shafer, manager, said such supplies as hair spray, conditioners, brushes, combs, rollers, wigs, wiglets, falls and hairpieces can be ordered and also charged to the ID.

Service is now available on a walk-in or appointment basis. The shop is open 1 to 5:30 p.m. on Monday, 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Saturdays.

Leasee of the two shops and manager of the barber shop is Ron Huff, who originally owned a barber shop in downtown Iowa City Huff's shop burned in the Strand Theater fire. He officially opened the Union shops Sept. 5.

Relatives Hunt Sick Fugitive After Wife Found Murdered

TISHOMINGO, Okla. (AP) — Male members of a Chickasaw Indian family scattered into the roadless hills of southeastern Oklahoma Tuesday to seek a fugitive relative and his 4-year-old son before the man dies from lack of medication.

The fugitive, Loy Factor, 43, of nearby Fillmore, has eluded bloodhounds, airplanes and hundreds of searchers since fleeing into the woods last Wednesday, taking his frail son with him.

McElroy Factor, a brother of the hunted man, arrived in Tishomingo from his home in Dallas, Tex., about 1 a.m. Tuesday and began gathering the relatives for a conference which lasted till dawn. They decided to go into the hills and caves after him.

Police believe the wanted man is armed with a "cheap .22 caliber pistol."

The search centered in a six by three mile area. Five families who live on the periphery left their homes until Factor is found.

Factor's stepdaughter, Deborah, 14, and the five younger children who fled from Factor are now at the home of their maternal grandmother in Ada where the frightened girl is given medication nightly so she can sleep.

"I have a pretty good feeling that he's done something with my little brother," she said. "Just like it was with Mama. I had a feeling he'd done something with her. Now I feel it about my little brother."

But her hopes were rising for some sort of encouraging word, because she knows the relatives of her father.

"I feel better," she said. "They know the country good. They know just about where he could hide."

At the time he disappeared, doctors estimated he could last five days without medication before suffering symptoms of his illness. That was eight days ago.

Officers said the woman had been strangled. A murder warrant was issued for Factor.

Factor, who lost one leg to rattlesnake bites in the same hills where he is hiding, suffers from diabetes and is subject to epileptic seizures.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched another unmanned earth satellite Monday in its Cosmos series — the third in the past six days. A brief announcement on Cosmos 246 did not, as usual, specify its mission but said only it is engaged in space research.

Graffiti Is Alive and Well in the Union

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL — Lynn Soloway, G, Cleveland, sips coffee in front of the Graffiti Board in the Union Gold Feather Room and seems to be oblivious of the various words of wisdom, pieces of advice and general witticisms which adorn the board. The large piece of plywood was erected in the Union to let students express their innermost thoughts — some of which apparently include "Arthur Godfrey for President" and "God is alive and disguised as Richard J. Daley." The dark spots on the board are where Union officials used paint to block out some thoughts which didn't seem appropriate to the decor and decorum of the Union.

Israel Ready To Negotiate In Arab Issue

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Israel advanced Tuesday a nine-point plan for peace with the Arabs that stressed readiness to negotiate immediately the issue of permanent boundaries, but made clear its intention to retain the Old City of Jerusalem.

In a policy speech to the 125-nation General Assembly, Abba Eban, the Israeli foreign minister, proposed also an international conference of Middle East countries to set up a five-year plan for solution of the Palestine refugee problem. He said the conference could be called in advance of peace negotiations.

The Arab nations, with support of the Soviet Union, have been demanding that Israel give up Arab territory won in the war of June 5-10, 1967, at the first priority in arranging a permanent peace settlement.

The United States has been putting its hopes for a settlement on the private negotiations being conducted by Gunnar Jarring of Sweden, the peace envoy of Secretary-General U Thant.

Eban expressed Israel's willingness "to seek agreement with each Arab state on secure and recognized boundaries within a framework of peace."

He suggested that "a new effort be made in the coming weeks to cooperate with Ambassador Jarring in his task of promoting agreement on the establishment of peace."

Eban also proposed a non-aggression pact between Israel and the Arab states, the setting up of open frontiers and free navigation in the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

He proposed that Israel and the Arab states endorse the principle of recognition of sovereignty for all states in the area. He also repeated Israel's offer to negotiate the safeguarding of Holy Places in the Old City, won from Jordan in the brief 1967 war.

Where have all the heroes gone?

A young woman cries out her agony to
The Brooklyn sky
As good citizens dim their lights
So they may watch unseen
The late show in the streets.
A pregnant mother is harassed by hoodlums
While spectators stand mutely by.
And the young men?
The young men stand aside
Too smart to get involved.
In the current lingo they "keep their cool".
Well, listen here
No great civilizations have been built
By men who kept their cool . . .
No frontiers conquered
No revolutions waged
No brave new societies forged
By men who kept their cool.
All of mankind's shining achievements
Have been propelled into being
By hot-blooded young men, fired by an idea.
When the heroes take to the sidelines
Civilizations decline and disappear.
Right now this country needs heroes
To stick out their necks
For better schools
Better housing
Better jobs
Better government.
It's up to you to take it on.
You are our life insurance.

Draft Board Selection Hit at Ames

AMES (AP) — About 85 persons marched without incident through downtown Ames Tuesday to demand greater representation of the city on the Story County Selective Service Board.

Carrying banners demanding "Peace in Vietnam" and "Democratize the Draft," the group marched quietly from the Memorial Union on the Iowa State University campus to the draft board office.

The march was organized by a group called the Committee for the Fair Selection of Draft Board Members, which includes four Iowa State faculty members, four students and two Ames members.

Yummy, Yummy, Yummy, I've Got 1401 in My Tummy

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Patients in Research Hospital and Medical Center now look forward to starting their evening meal with a glass of refreshing 1318.

That's followed by some tempting 5157 with a bit of 2188 and 1401 on the side, topped off by a fluffy piece of delicious 7106.

It's an electronically planned meal, part of a system unveiled today as what spokesmen called the nation's first commercially available large-scale feeding program entirely controlled by computer.

Translated from computer code, the dinner cited consists of pineapple juice, chicken fried steak, mashed turnips, apple cranberry salad and butterscotch pie.

Patients notice little difference with the new system, but the hospital staff does.

Dieticians in the 517-bed hospital communicate by a printer keyboard through a telephone link with an IBM System 360 computer housed in the Midwest Research Institute about four miles away.

The computer is loaded with a list of all 2,500 foodstuffs in the hospital pantry, 800 recipes and 700 inventory items. The machine balances each dish for nutritional value, repetition rate, food cost and other factors. Each item is prepared exactly the same way every time, thus allowing exact control.

Based on six years of research supported by federal funds at Tulane University, the computer-controlled mass feeding program enables Research Hospital personnel to plan a three-week cycle of meals in minutes — a job which formerly took them 80 hours.

"The assurances of proper nutritional levels in every diet," said Jack Bowman, hospital food services director, "means that each patient receives the best possible nourishment at a savings that helps keep down the total cost to the patient."

IN A CRISIS, it takes courage to be a leader . . . courage to speak out . . . to point the way . . . to say, "Follow Me!" In a crisis, it takes action to survive . . . the kind of decisive action that comes from a man of sound instinct, as well as intelligence.

If America is to survive this crisis . . . if the youth of America are to inherit a sane and even promising world, we must have courageous, constructive leadership. The kind of leadership that only George C. Wallace—of all Presidential candidates—has to offer. That's why young Americans who really think support Wallace.

THEY KNOW that it takes courage to stand up for America against the pseudo-intellectual professors, the hippies, the press and the entire liberal Establishment. And they've got that courage.

Thousands and thousands of tomorrow's leaders—the thinking young men and women of America who have courage and who are willing to act—are joining YOUTH FOR WALLACE. You should join, too.

There are no dues. Send in the coupon to receive your membership card, the YFW Newsletter and a copy of "STAND UP FOR AMERICA," the story of George C. Wallace.
