Kay Corbin Reigns

A QUEEN IS CROWNED — Kay Corbin, A4, Maryville, Tenn., looks a little dazed as she stands on the steps of Old Capitol moments after being crowned Miss U of I. By Vicki King
In keeping with tradition, Kay Corbin, A4, Maryville, Tenn., shed some tears when she was crowned 1968 Miss U of I on the east steps of Old Capitol Friday night.

First runner-up was Kathy Devine, A3, Waterloo. The first runner-up was chosen this year due to the affiliation with the Miss Iowa Pageant. Other members of the queen's court are: Rande Schafroth, A4, Corning; Sally Stoker, A4, Davenport; and Kathy Wilcox, A3, Charles City.

A crowd estimated at 7,000 heard Hawk-eye Coach Ray Nagel's bargain that if "you do this well tomorrow at that game in that stadium over there, we'll give you a victory." Nagel was referring to the high-spirited cheers of the crowd at the pep rally.

Nagel introduced "one of the finest football players in the United States, team captain Eddie Podolak." Podolak, speaking for the Hawks said, "We promise you the best football game in Iowa history."

Following what was referred to by Homecoming General Chairman Robert Penwell, A4, Villisca, as the usual delay with the judges, the winners in the float competition were announced. The Sweepstakes trophy for the best over-all float was awarded to Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Upsilon for their float, "We Did It Before and We'll Do It Again." Their float depicted the football field at Pasadena. A girl stood on the field throwing roses to the crowd.

Kevin Hanick, A4, Bettendorf, announcer at the pep rally, told the crowd that in 1956, at their Iowa City opener, the Hawks beat Oregon State by one point and went to the Rose Bowl for the first time. Again this year, the Hawks opened the season with a one-point win over Oregon State.

Earlier, burst of fireworks had signaled the start of the parade, viewed by a crowd estimated at from 50,000 to 60,000 people. As the parade progressed, even the Shriners' firetrucks were unable to dampen the spirit of the crowd.

The Shrine units were out in full force for the parade, putting sparks in the eyes of the many little children along the route. Ski Scooters, Indians on small motorcycles and the Toonerville Trolley were among the many Shrine entries.

The 1968 Afro-American Homecoming Queen, Maxine Thomas, L1, Los Angeles, was followed by the members of her court, Karen Whitney, A4, Des Moines, and Kim Reeves, A2, Des Moines. They were preceded by the 1967 Afro-American Queen, Valerie Haughton, A2, Iowa City.

Since this is an election year, the Democrats and the Republicans took advantage of the opportunity to promote their candidates for various county and state offices. Several cars carried members of the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans organizations as well as candidates from the two parties.

In contrast to the cold and snow that greeted last year's returning alumni and fans, the weather Friday night was warm and mild.

As Drew Robinson, A4, Maquoketa, director of Pageant Board announced the new queen, Heidi Keir, G, Spencer, 1967 Miss U of I, crowned her successor. When asked to speak, Miss Corbin said she had planned nothing to say but, "I'm very honored to represent you all. Thank you."

Miss Corbin, who is majoring in psychology, was selected queen in an all-male vote on campus Thursday. She is interested in law and has a 3.16 grade-point average. Winning queen titles is nothing new for the 21-year-old blonde, who was crowned 1968 Greek Week Queen, 1967 Junior Interfraternity Council Queen, and was a finalist for Mecca Queen last year.

She has been active in Union Board and in her sorority, Pi Beta Phi. She was chosen Oracle Girl of the Month. The Oracle is a fraternity and sorority publication at the University.

Miss Corbin will be the official hostess for the 1968-69 school year. She will represent the University at the Miss Iowa Pageant to be held next June in Davenport. This is the first year the Miss U of I Pageant has been associated with the Miss Iowa Pageant.

The new queen did a monologue at the pageant last Saturday entitled, "Snoopy's O-Kay for Queen." In addition to Snoopy, her interests include sailing, riding, skiing, playing the ukulele, reading and dating.

The Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. of Cedar Rapids awarded the new queen a full-tuition scholarship. Pepsi has, for several years, been associated with the Miss Iowa and Miss America Pageants.

NYU Students Get 'Reinstatement' Of Black Militant

NEW YORK (AP) — About 100 black and white students took over and barricaded two New York University (NYU) buildings for several hours Friday, winning limited, unofficial reinstatement for a black militant who was ousted from the staff.

The revolt ended when the university agreed to rent campus space to the black militant, John F. Hatchett, and recognize him as a representative of black students at NYU. But it was stipulated that "he will no longer be speaking as a representative of NYU."

Hatchett, 37, was fired Thursday as director of NYU's planned Afro-American Student Center, after a speech to 700 students in which he called Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon "racist bastards."

Hatchett described his dismissal as a violation of "every principle of academic freedom and freedom of speech." Hatchett was hired July 24, despite protests from Jewish groups who said he had expressed anti-Semitic views in a magazine article last year.

Previously, Hatchett had been ousted as a public school teacher in Harlem for violating orders by taking a sixth-grade class to an antiwhite meeting, ostensibly to memorialize the assassinated Malcolm X.

NYU is a 137-year-old privately endowed institution with 42,000 students, about 2,000 of them black. It has a campus in the Bronx and another downtown at Washington Square in Greenwich Village.

The buildings seized at dawn and held until noon were a library and a student center on the Bronx campus. Several hundred other students demonstrated for Hatchett's reinstatement at the Washington Square campus, but no buildings were invaded.

Coffee, Music Ready, Waiting

Alumni and friends of the University making the Homecoming scene this weekend will have plenty to keep them busy — especially today.

The following is a list of Homecoming activity highlights.

'We're Having a Ball,' Apollo 7 Pilot Reports

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Three excited Apollo 7 astronauts flashed into space Friday, whipped through critical maneuvers and set up housekeeping in the first test of whether America's newest, biggest spaceship has the stamina to carry men to the moon.

"We're having a ball," reported veteran Command Pilot Walter M. Schirra Jr. as he guided Apollo through the first of its 11-day voyage 163 times around the earth.

He took time out for a hot cup of coffee and grabbed a quick lunch with his two co-pilots, Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham, each making his first space trip.

At about 6:30 p.m., Mission Control asked, "Does the spacecraft look good for 18 revs?"

Schirra answered loud and clear, "Eighteen revolutions a day."

With that, Mission Control gave them the go-ahead for another full day and they doffed their heavy spacesuits and bubble helmets and donned their light coveralls, breathing the oxygen in the cabin.

They moved freely about the cabin, discovered that their movements did not throw the craft out of position and used such newfound luxuries as hot and cold running water.

About nine hours into the flight and some 15 hours after their day began, Schirra reported Eisele was "attempting to settle down for a long winter's night." He was to sleep for seven hours, then Schirra and Cunningham were to sleep for a like period while Eisele took the controls.

The flight, quickly settling down into a routine, began with a wild ride aboard the most powerful rocket man has ever ridden.

Their hearts racing, the trio blasted off from Cape Kennedy, at 11:03 a.m. with their Saturn 1B rocket pouring out the furious power of more than a million pounds of blazing fuel.

Ten minutes later, they cut off the last of the engines and glided into a nearly egg-shaped path ranged from 140 to 163 miles above the earth, a shade higher than the planned 142 by 176 miles.

"She's riding nice, a little noisy now ... riding like a dream," Schirra reported from space on the first leg of the 4.5 million mile trip.

At 1:45 p.m., the crew of the Apollo 7 will connected to the silenced second stage of the Saturn 1B, began the crucial dump of surplus fuel in the rocket tanks. This set up the next maneuvers to be completed today when Apollo 7 attempts to track down the spent rocket and rendezvous with it.

The rendezvous is a vital element in the ultimate moon flight when the small space cab with two men aboard, fresh from the lunar landing, tracks down and docks with the mother ship orbiting the moon.

With the mission just three hours old, the crew kicked away from the emptied and now safe second stage of the rocket. Then the Apollo moved about 50 feet ahead, turned and faced the 58-foot rocket.

The astronauts looked into the gaping jaws of the second stage, one of the four panels not quite open.

"Ahh, look at it!" Walt Cunningham shrieked as one of his fellow astronauts laughed in the background. Cunningham apparently referred to the chaff-like debris and the open panels.

Panama Faces Possible Coup

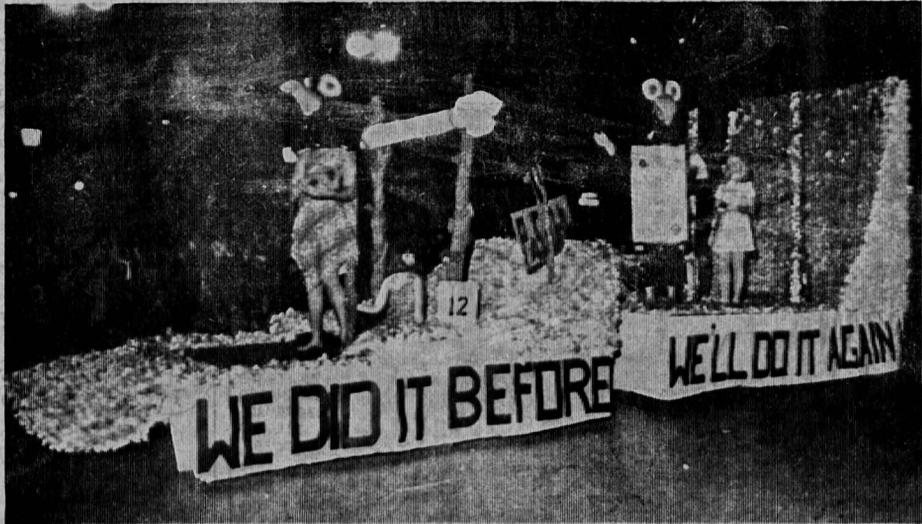

PANAMA (AP) — Truckloads of troops sped through the streets Friday night and shooting was heard in the area of the National Guard headquarters, indicating a coup might be in the making against the government of President Arnulfo Arias. He was sworn in only 11 days ago.

Arias, 67, had twice been overthrown as president in three decades. He was sworn in for his third term Oct. 1, after winning a clean-cut victory in elections last May.

The National Guard, Panama's only armed force, plays a major role in the nation's political life. Guard commanders have been at odds with Arias since he was first elected president in 1940.

Earlier Friday, Brig. Gen. Bolivar Valeriano, 52, commander of the guard for 17 years, had turned over his command to Col. Bolivar Urrutia, 49.

There had been considerable tension between Arias and the National Guard since the chief executive ordered a sweeping shakeup of officers who had opposed him in the May elections.

EVERYTHING'S COMING UP ROSES — A bed of roses was the motif of the winning float in Friday night's Homecoming Parade. The float was entered by Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Upsilon and was sponsored by Sanitary Farm Dairies under the theme, "We did it before, and we'll do it again." House Absentees Delay Congress' Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Absenteeism in the House blocked final adjournment of Congress Friday night, forcing it to return today in hopes of quitting then until Jan. 3.

Both the Senate and the House had completed all the business on the legislative agenda and the Senate had adopted a resolution calling for final adjournment at the end of the Friday session. The Senate then recessed hoping that the House would adopt the resolution and end the session.

But too many House members had scurried homeward after a 213 to 6 vote passed the $71.8 billion defense appropriation bill. Many of them, seeking re-election, were determined to keep week-end speaking engagements.

Senate approval of the defense appropriation, the largest single spending bill in history, quickly followed House passage.

The House couldn't act on the Senate's adjournment resolution because a quorum of 217 members was required to transact business.

Only 188 members were officially accounted for and after a two-hour delay while trying to track down absentees, the House leadership decided to call it quits and return today.

The members have three weeks for campaigning before the Nov. 5 elections in which all 435 House seats and 34 of the 100 Senate seats will be filled.

The session which started last Jan. 15 and was interrupted by several recesses was marked by some rare happenings.

There was a lock-in of House members and a sit-out of senators in the closing days, defeat of a major presidential nomination, a tax increase in an election year, an about-face on mandated spending cuts when they hit close to home and enactment of some historic legislation.

During the 10-months session, two public figures, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, were assassinated; an incumbent President declined not to seek re-election; violence erupted in the capital and in other major cities; casualty lists continued to flow in from Vietnam and two national political conventions were held.

Some of these events helped spur enactment of laws designed to prevent racial discrimination in housing, curb crime and beef up law enforcement, control traffic in firearms and protect major political candidates.

The 1968 Congress wrote mild ethics codes for its members, approved the biggest housing program in history, voted the lowest foreign aid appropriation in the 21-year history of the program, made record cuts in appropriations and enacted landmark consumer protection laws.

On the other side of the ledger, it shelved bills for election reforms, congressional reorganization and for free broadcast of political debates after starting them toward enactment.

The closing days of the session were marked by efforts to clear the way for broadcast debates among the major presidential candidates.

House Republicans staged a walkout when the bill came up in their chamber. It took a 32½-hour continuous session, second longest in history, to pass the bill. For the first time in modern history the speaker of the House finally ordered a lock-in of members to keep a quorum on hand to transact business.

It didn't take the Senate that long to kill the controversial measure. A sit-out of Republican senators prevented the presence of a quorum and the bill was sidetracked.

Perhaps President Johnson's most galling reversal of the year was the Senate's refusal to consider his nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice. A Republican-Southern Democratic filibuster caused the President to reluctantly withdraw the nomination.

Special Session For Treaty Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Friday he might call the Senate back into special session to ratify the nuclear nonproliferation treaty rather than wait until the new session in January, as Senate leaders plan.

The President said delays could force the United States into a dire dilemma if new nuclear powers emerge before the Senate acts.

Johnson taped for radio and television use his new appeal shortly before Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) told the Senate the pact to halt the spread of nuclear weapons would not be brought up in the current session.

A day for memories

In the midst of busy, organized and successful lives, throngs of University alumni returned to campus this weekend for Homecoming activities.

Homecoming is difficult to describe. It really is no different than any other weekend. Classes are held on Friday, a Saturday football game is scheduled in the at home category of the game lists, bars are overflowing, parking spaces are few and far between and the weather is unpredictable, but there is something in the air.

That something mixes every bit of magic, mystery and excitement that ever has been at the University with the magic, mystery and excitement of the present and of the future. The result is an exhilarating unexplainable newness based on the old.

Homecoming is so ordinary, but its name makes the weekend different. Alums pour in from all over the country to see the football team play. Old friends reunite and make the traditional comments about how he is still the same old Harry, even though he is twice as big the previous Harry and his bushy locks are thinning.

Sororities and fraternities hold open houses for parents and friends of present members, but the focus of these functions is on returning alums.

Departments and schools at the University hold get-together coffee hours for former faculty and students. The present is compared to the way it used to be, and the way it used to be is always better.

No matter how good the football team look, how beautiful the new Miss U of I is, how nice the new educational facilities are, how loud the students cheer or how well the cheerleaders cheer, things were always better before.

Because Homecoming is a time of memories. And memories or days gone by are always better than the real thing. When a man can dream or remember, the everyday problems of the world can be forgotten for a while. A dream or a memory is perhaps the most valuable tool in today's life.

So, welcome back, alums. Dream your dreams and recall fond memories of your days at the University. And students, live your Homecoming weekend to the fullest, for in a few years, you will return and will have the opportunity to create a wonderful weekend of memories.

The academic Skinner box

A capsule of understanding, intellect and action came to the University Thursday in the form of British economist Robert Theobald.

Theobald gave some of his own comments on the University's Code of Student Life conflict in a lecture Thursday night.

Although students sometimes feel as if they are strictly experimental models here, Theobald considers University Pres. Howard Bowen in a Skinner box along with students and faculty members.

Theobald said that if students did not support Bowen's adaptation of the Code, outside forces that oppose the University might use the conflict to destroy academic freedom here.

The idea of outside forces working to destroy academic freedom is frightening. Outside forces usually is interpreted to mean student radicals and outside agitators working for freedom. This name-calling usually comes from community leaders — those people who would be the ones to snuff out freedom of learning.

One of the primary ways the University administration could be penalized for allowing activities that support freedom to occur on campus would be through financial cuts. The University's budget will be reviewed by the state legislators during this year's session, and if the appropriation requests are considered too high or not entirely necessary, the funds for this school can be easily curtailed.

A safe generalization would be that people across the state, and particularly the state legislators, did not approve of the campus demonstrations here last year. Bowen must know this, and most of his actions since the demonstrations have been obvious attempts to make the University image palatable to the state's citizens.

Perhaps the assumption that students need freedom in their education processes is too advanced for this state and this institution. When the school's chief administrator has to spend time building the image of the school (perhaps a prettier image than exists) instead of administering, the problem of student academic freedom takes on a different hue.

Student freedom cannot be granted until there is administrative freedom. Bowen, instead of fighting pleas for independence and responsibility from students, could join the students and try to get independence and responsibility too. Freedom here is a concept that must exist from the top down.

'Nonsense-fallout is good for you

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — One of the things that Gen. Curtis LeMay said at this press conference last week was that Americans seem to have a phobia about nuclear weapons. This struck home because I have to admit I've had such a phobia for some time. But only after Gen. LeMay brought it up did I decide to do something about it. I went to see Dr. Adolph Straineduff, a psychiatrist who specializes in nuclear weapons phobias.

"On the couch," he said. "What seems to be the trouble?"
"Doctor," I said staring at the ceiling. "I have this fear of nuclear weapons. I know it's silly, but to me it's very real."
"Aha, very interesting. Ven did you first become aware of such a phobia?"

"I think it was around the time of Hiroshima or Nagasaki, I'm not sure which. I saw these photos of all these people killed and miles and miles of rubble, and suddenly I got this thing about atomic weapons."

Dr. Straineduff tapped a pencil against his knee. "So tell me, how does this phobia manifest itself?"
"In peculiar ways, Doctor. I get the feeling if I ever see a mushroom cloud I'm going to die."

"Very interesting, very interesting. You know it's all in the mind, don't you?"
"Of course. That's why I came to you. I don't want to do anything stupid."

Dr. Straineduff said, "You are a very sick man. You think that just because an atomic bomb killed a few thousand people 23 years ago, you are threatened. You are manifesting infantile repressed hostility toward the weapons of war. In psychiatry we call this a military-industrial inferiority complex."

"I know I'm sick. You've got to help me," I begged.

"All right. First you have to get over this absurd fear of nuclear bombs. You must think of them as just another weapon in our vast defensive arsenal. We have haff bowie knives and H-bombs, and in war, one is just as good as another. You're not afraid of a knife, are you?"
"Well, I don't think about it a lot."
"So why should you be afraid of an H-bomb? It's another form of a knife."

"I never thought of it like that."

"Okay, so now let's look at some facts straight in the eye. In Bikini we blew up 20 bombs in an experiment. So we thought everything would be destroyed; that's how stupid we were. Do you know that now after all the boom, boom, the place is flourishing and the rats are fatter than they ever was before?"

"It's good to hear."
"The coconuts are hanging from the tree, the fish are swimming in the lagoon and the voice of the trulle can be heard in land. The only things that don't seem to be doing so good are the land crabs."
"I don't like land crabs," I said.

"So, then you don't haff anything to vorry about."
Dr. Straineduff started playing with the hand grenade which was attached to his watch fob. "If you're going to be a happy, normal human being," he shouted, "you're going to haff to stop with all these guilty peace feelings."

He was stomping around the room. "So get out of here with your lousy phobias, and all this stuff about being afraid to die. If you're not willing to take a little fallout for the good of the country, then go back where you came from."

'Self interest is key' to U.S. 'benevolence'

To the editor:
Jo Reese's letter in Friday's issue of The Daily Iowan about the Afro-American Society's petition for Biafra is an educational experience. It reflects accurately where the interests of this "democratic, freedom-loving nation, friend of the sick and hungry" lie. But look at those interests: they really don't have much to do with freedom and certainly don't include friendship.

If confronted with its inaction on the Biafra issue, this government will mouth the same reason given in the letter for non-support of the petition, that there are too many political implications to become involved. But the United States didn't worry about political implications when it overthrew elected leaders in Iran in 1953 and Guatemala in 1954 and replaced them with dictators.

In Vietnam the United States has risked a nuclear war with China and the Soviet Union and killed a million Vietnamese in order to "save" them. But we are unable to send food to save two million Biafrans because we dread the possible anger from Nigeria and the minor protests from Great Britain that would result from that aid. The key to the problem is called self-interest. Vietnam can offer us bauxite, much-needed tungsten, markets, and a link in our military encirclement of China and Russia. Biafra, at least at this time, can offer us little.

Question, Miss Reese: What does the most powerful nation on earth do? Answer: It does what it wants to do regardless of political implications. Saving two million starving Biafrans is not included in the desires of those that hold power in this country.

'And now one of the year's really big races—'

—Draft Facts—

When dealing with the draft, put it in writing, keep copies

There are certain things about dealing with Selective Service that every registrant should know, regardless of his current draft status. The following list of suggestions is important for all registrants because they apply to the kinds of draft activity that nearly every registrant undertakes sooner or later: writing to his board, talking with his local board clerk, making a personal appearance, appealing, etc.

1. All transactions with your local board should be in writing, because oral transactions do not provide dependable evidence to substantiate a registrant's claim. This does not exclude conversations with local board clerks or secretaries, for instance, but the substance of such conversations should always be written down as soon as possible after the conversation has ended. Immediately after any conversation with a Selective Service official or employee, ask your local board clerk for a Report of Oral Information (SSS Form 119), write the substance of your conversation (using direct quotation as much as possible) on the form, and submit it for inclusion in your file.

2. Never rely on information received from a Selective Service official or employee. Local board clerks and secretaries are particularly notorious for giving out inadequate and erroneous information about Selective Service law and procedures, and since clerks and secretaries are only employees, not officials, of the Selective Service System, they are not responsible under the law for the (in)accuracy of information they provide.

It is not unusual for a board clerk to tell a registrant seeking information about conscientious objector status that he cannot qualify as a C.O. unless he belongs to a "peace church," or for a Government Appeals Agent to neglect to tell a registrant seeking information about the 2-S that he will lose his chances for a 3-A fatherhood deferment by requesting and receiving a 2-S. It is because of this unreliability of Selective Service officials and employees with regard to providing accurate information, that registrants should report any such oral information in writing and submit it for inclusion in their file.

3. Keep a copy of all correspondence with your draft board, and be sure that each item of correspondence shows the date on which it was mailed. Try to keep this material in one place, preferably in a file folder. If you deliver an item to your board in person, take an extra copy and have it date-stamped by the clerk or secretary; then put it in your folder. Never assume that any item of correspondence with your board is unimportant — keep a copy of everything. If you visit your local board area regularly, you should check the contents of your personal file with the contents of your file in the local board office, to see that the files match. A registrant can examine his file in the local board office at any time.

4. Everything sent to your draft board should be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested. When you receive the return receipt, attach it to your copy of the item sent to the board.

5. Each time you receive a notice of classification that you think is unfair, you can request a personal appearance and you can appeal from your board's classification. You should request the personal appearance first, not mentioning anything about an appeal, and if the board again denies you the classification you seek after your personal appearance, you should then request an appeal, which will be decided upon by a State Appeals Board.

6. There are two different time limits incorporated in Selective Service procedures. The most important of these is the time limit for requesting personal appearances or appeals: you have 30 days to make such a request. If you wish to take advantage of this appeal period in order to stall for time, you should wait until the 25th day or later to request an appearance or appeal.

If you need to fill out a Selective Service form in order to apply for a certain classification — for example, 3-A hardship deferment — you may have to return the completed form to your board within 10 days after it has been mailed to you. Selective Service Local Board Memorandum No. 72 defines how these time periods are measured: "When . . . a notice or information is filed with or submitted to the local board by mail, the date of mailing as shown by the postmark on the envelope and not the date it was received by the local board shall be used in determining whether the filing or submission is timely."

Since draft boards do not always mail items they send to registrants on the same date as that stamped on the items, registrants should keep the postmarked envelopes they receive from their boards, as well as the contents of the envelope.

7. If you are seeking a deferment that is often difficult to obtain — such as conscientious objector, 3-A hardship deferment, 4-F or 1-Y physical or psychological deferment — or if you are contemplating the possibility of eventual litigation, try to get the help of a lawyer who is knowledgeable about draft law and procedures. Letters written by a lawyer on behalf of a registrant can be helpful in influencing his local board to treat the registrant correctly and conscientiously.

8. Always seek competent draft counseling before conducting any important transaction with your local board. In general, there are two kinds of draft counseling available to registrants: (a) descriptive and (b) tactical. The first kind of counseling describes the technicalities of draft law and procedures by telling you what the formal criteria are for deferments, what steps you must take in applying for deferments, what the mechanics of an appeal are, etc. The second kind of counseling goes beyond the first to determine various strategies or tactics for obtaining deferments, what strategies or tactics are effective, how a registrant can delay or prevent an induction order, etc.

black&white by Dick Gregory From weariness to revolution

In his First Inaugural Address delivered March 4, 1861 Abraham Lincoln said: "This country, with its institutions, belongs to the people who inhabit it. Whenever they shall grow weary of the existing Government, they can exercise their constitutional right of amending it or their revolutionary right to dismember or overthrow it . . ."

It is a curious statement by one of our greatest Americans to be read at a time when the demand for law and order is being used to suppress the right of dissent.

A recurring question these days, which has become almost as popular in the national vocabulary as the cry for law and order, is "What do these revolutionaries want?" Black militants, New Left radicals and student revolutionaries are increasingly faulted for not having a blueprint for the kind of social and political order they envision. "These revolutionaries," people are fond of saying, "merely want to tear the country down but they have nothing to erect in its place."

It seems curiously interesting to me that no one asked George Washington and the Sons of Liberty what their Constitution would look like before the American Revolution. Certainly the Declaration of Independence was no blueprint for a reconstructed society. It was more in tune with Lincoln's suggestion that people sometimes "grow weary of the existing government." Such weariness produces an active alienation which demands the overthrowing or dismembering of that government. The Sons of Liberty undertook their Revolution seeking only to break the bonds of oppression inflicted by an unjust government. They had no idea whether or not they would win. It was a "do or die" struggle and overthrowing the existing government was the first step. Only after victory was theirs did the Sons of Liberty sit down to draw up the new governmental structure.

The weariness to which Lincoln refers is part of the natural process of evolution, which is slow and gradual change. The fulfillment of evolution is revolution, or quick change. When a woman becomes pregnant, the nine-month gestation period is part of the process of evolution. But at the end of the nine months, revolution — quick change — follows. And all the National Guardsmen or federal troops in the world cannot keep that baby from coming forth.

The revolutionary activity in America today is part of the same natural process. Once the idea of freedom becomes imprinted in the national body, the evolutionary process leading toward the fulfillment of revolution has already begun. If a woman wants an abortion, she must have it performed during the early stages of her pregnancy. The longer she waits, the greater the chance of death for both the mother and the child.

So it is also with a national body imprinted with the idea of freedom. America is already well into this pregnancy and to try to perform an abortion now, in the form of repression and thwarting of dissent, will surely mean death for both the mother country and her children.

It is frightening to see so many people attempt to resist the natural forces at work in the evolution of American society. Student radicals and revolutionaries are viewed with horror and their campus take-overs are termed disgraceful. But for years students have been going to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, during their spring vacation and rioting on the beaches. National consensus viewed these acts as just part of the process of kids growing up. It was the same when college students were conducting pantie raids, swallowing goldfish and cramming into telephone booths. Such acts were excused as the irresponsible foolishness which accompanies the growing up process.

Now that revolution is in the air on college campuses all over the country, national consensus is of a different sort. There is a general feeling that today's campus disorders should be thwarted and students disciplined. Yet college students today are asking, indeed demanding, more responsibility rather than engaging in irresponsible actions. College students are seeking the responsibility of self-governance and a voice in determining the forms which will define their education. They are refusing to accept an irresponsible role.

At the same time unions, for example, are demanding less responsibility; more money for a shorter work week. And in our increasingly leisure-oriented technological society, the union demand is just indeed. But the question remains: When will national consensus applaud the moral demands of college students to the same degree that it approves the economic gains of unions?

Soviet Intellectuals Slapped For Protesting Czech Action

MOSCOW (AP) — Three Soviet intellectuals were sentenced Friday to relatively light terms of exile from Moscow and two others were sent to labor camps for staging a public protest in Red Square against the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

After three days of testimony laced with denunciations of the invasion, the five were convicted of disturbing public order and slandering the Soviet Union. They had been arrested after demonstrating for about three minutes Aug. 25.

The organizers — Pavel Litvinov, grandson of Stalin's foreign minister, and Mrs. Larisa Daniel, wife of an imprisoned writer — were banished from Moscow for five and four years respectively. Konstantin Babitsky, a specialist in the history of the Russian language, was exiled for three years.

Their companions, Vladimir Dremlyuge and Vadim Delone, were sentenced to labor camps for three years and two years and 10 months respectively.

A relative of Litvinov said all five would appeal.

Twelve demonstrators were arrested, but only those carrying signs were held for trial. It was the only public protest to the invasion so far known to have been organized by Soviet citizens.

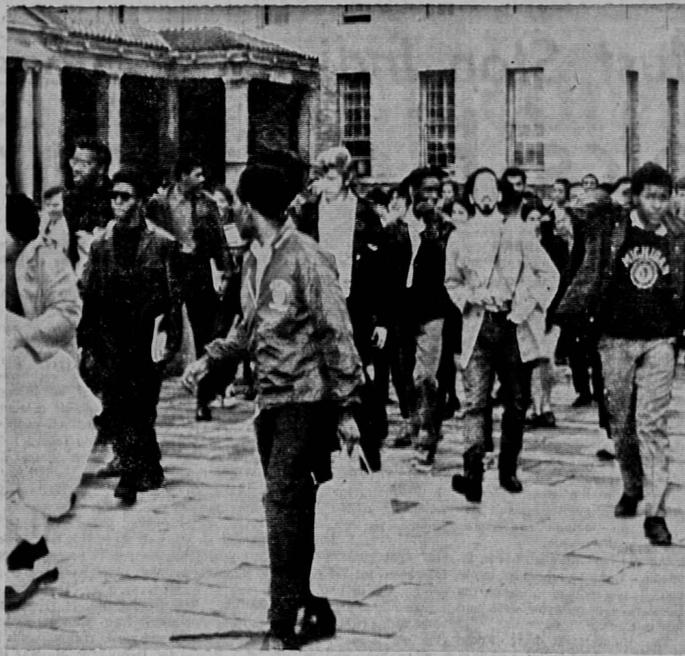

The prosecutor recommended that the court invoke the rarely used exile provision for Litvinov, Babitsky and Mrs. Daniel because they were first-offenders. The others had previous records, Delone for unauthorized demonstrating.

A court spokesman said the place of exile would be decided soon by the Soviet Ministry of Public Order. He did not name Siberia, but said the site would be far from Moscow and "not in a resort." The exiled persons would be forbidden to return to Moscow until their terms expire.

Friends and relatives of the prisoners were pleased with the exile verdicts. They had expected all five to get the maximum sentence, three years in a labor camp.

Western newsmen and the general public were barred from the trial. A relative who was in the courtroom throughout quoted Litvinov as saying in his closing remarks: "Freedom is important for all of us. The more freedom we have, the better off is our entire country."

9 Cubans Jailed For Terror Tactics

MIAMI (AP) — Nine Cuban exiles were jailed here Friday on federal charges of plotting terror attacks on ships and planes of Spain, Mexico and Great Britain as part of a nationwide anti-Castro vendetta by the group calling itself Cuban Power.

The man indicted as the leader, Dr. Orlando Bosch, seemed triumphant after his arrest by FBI agents. While being taken to jail under $50,000 bond, Bosch raised his handcuffed arms and made "V" with fingers of each hand as he shouted, "Victory for Cuban liberation."

Bosch and two of the nine were charged in the Sept. 16 bombing of a Polish freighter in Miami. The attack became an international incident.

The indictment also identified Bosch as the mysterious "Ernesto," the voice of Cuban Power who announced attacks sometimes before they occurred.

Bosch was charged separately with cabling threats to Harold Wilson, prime minister of Great Britain; Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, president of Mexico; and Gen. Francisco Franco, head of state in Spain.

All nine of those arrested Friday by FBI agents were charged with conspiracy to violate the neutrality of the United States by making war against another nation from U.S. soil.

In announcing the arrests, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said, "Cuban Power is a militant anti-Castro organization that has publicly claimed responsibility for various acts of violence against property of those nations that have continued to carry on trade with Cuba."

Some of the targets included consulates, offices of government airlines and companies that shipped mercy packages to families in Cuba.

The indictment, returned secretly in Miami Thursday by a federal grand jury, said all nine of those indicted had conspired with the Cuban Power group. Among the attacks claimed by Cuban Power were bombings of a cargo plane at Miami Airport, a British freighter at sea near Key West, and a Japanese freighter at Tampa, Fla.

A tenth man identified in the indictment, but neither charged nor listed as a coconspirator, was Ricardo Morales Navarrete. Morales had been arrested earlier by Miami police in connection with one of the 39 bombings that struck the city's Cuban colony.

An affidavit for a search warrant filed Thursday with U.S. Commissioner Edward P. Swan said Bosch had been identified as the man who delivered the telegram to Western Union June 6.

The affidavit also said Bosch had a portable typewriter believed to have been the one on which the telegrams were typewritten.

A warrant was issued granting permission for a search of Bosch's home, auto and the apartment of the only woman indicted in the group, Miss Aimee Miranda Cruz, 40.

The affidavit said a 57 millimeter recoilless rifle of Chinese manufacture, found in the water near the point from which the Polish freighter Polancia was shelled, had been assembled in Miss Miranda's apartment.

U.S. Attorney Donald Bierman, who presented the case to the grand jury, refused to disclose whether the typewriter had been found or further identified.

Andrews Jorge Gonzalez, 37, also was held under $50,000 bond on the conspiracy count, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

Also charged with Miss Miranda on the conspiracy counts were Marco Rodriguez Ramos, 24, Jorge Luis Gutierrez Ulla, 20, his father, Paulino Gutierrez, 45, and Jesus Dominguez Benitez, 27. They were held under bonds ranging from $2,500 to $10,000.

Dist. Judge William Mehrtens released Miss Miranda on a recognizance bond Friday afternoon, but denied defense requests for reduced bonds for the others.

HHH Campaign Grinds to a Halt At Flu Bug Bites

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, feeling weak and "kind of miserable" from what his doctor said was "intestinal flu," called off a campaign trip to Cincinnati Friday and took to his bed to rest for a major speech Saturday night.

The Democratic presidential nominee became ill during the day Thursday but completed his schedule, telling a Queens County Democratic dinner that night, he had "a stomach ache." The Cincinnati trip was cancelled at mid-morning Friday.

"He just feels achy and dragged out," Dr. Edgar Berman, the Vice President's personal physician, told reporters.

With two speeches including one at an outdoor street rally on his schedule, "it would have been a tremendous day in Cincinnati," the doctor said, emphasizing that, "he's not incapacitated in any way except that he feels lousy."

Throughout the campaign, Berman has described Humphrey's general physical condition as excellent.

Berman said Humphrey's temperature Friday morning was 99.4 and that he had prescribed an intestinal antibiotic and rest so that Humphrey would be in top shape Saturday for a nationally televised speech on law and order, scheduled to be taped in the morning.

Humphrey also plans to review a Columbus Day parade and to make appearances in New York's Harlem and East Bronx areas.

Hecklers Toss Wallace a Gift Of Food, Love

DENVER (AP) — A tomato and a hippie-type love medallion were thrown at George C. Wallace in Denver Friday, as shouting groups of dissenters wound up a day of otherwise nearly heckler-free campaigning across the Great Plains and Rockies.

Both projectiles landed short of the mark. At one point, Wallace walked to the edge of the platform and dared his hecklers to "throw another rock."

A crowd of about 10,000, most of them college age, were on hand for the American Independent presidential candidate's speech from the steps of the Colorado Capitol.

The tomato landed about 12 feet in front of Wallace. The medallion was thrown as Wallace walked from behind his bullet-proof lectern. It landed behind the rostrum.

Wallace blew kisses and traded taunts with one particularly noisy group up front, whose members chanted and jeered throughout his speech — which he cut short because of some of the worst heckling of his campaign.

Earlier in the day, large but unusually subdued crowds greeted Wallace. There were few hecklers before his overnight Denver stop.

Wallace attracted 4,000 people, about half of them college students, to the civic auditorium in Fargo, N.D., and 3,000 to a courthouse rally in Casper, a 40,000-population ranching and oil community.

Nixon Declares Federal Surtax Must Be Dropped

DALLAS (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said Friday that the 10 per cent federal income surtax is a war tax that "must be repealed" as soon as possible.

The Republican presidential nominee did not say when that would be.

Nixon said his Democratic rival, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, regards the tax as permanent.

Unless it is extended by Congress, the surtax will expire June 30.

The big show of Nixon's campaign for the 25 Texas electoral votes was an hour-long live television program Friday night carried by a hookup of 26 stations across the state and in Arkansas.

His major personal appearance was a rally at Southern Methodist University, which drew an overflow crowd of more than 10,000, most of them students.

At the rally, Nixon said there is "a big D" in the race for the White House — "The big difference between the candidates."

He accused Humphrey of having "a spending spree" record. Nixon said he would, as president, cut federal spending.

"One candidate says the 10 per cent surtax is here to stay," Nixon said in a statement issued in Dallas. "I say, this tax is a war tax and as soon as possible must be repealed."

In his rally speech, Nixon said nothing about the third candidate for president, George C. Wallace. He concentrated on Humphrey and said the Democrat is "shackled to the mistakes of the past."

LBJ Honors Truman, U.N.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — President Johnson spanned half the continent Friday for a triple-header ceremony honoring the United Nations and President Harry S. Truman's part in founding and supporting it.

Only hours after Congress made it all possible, Johnson flew from Washington to Kansas City and motored to the Truman Victorian mansion to:

- Sign a bill Congress passed Friday asking him to proclaim Oct. 24 as United Nations day, the 23rd anniversary of the day the U.N. charter went into effect.

Follow through by issuing and signing the U.N. proclamation and a companion one calling on all citizens "to give special recognition to the significant part which Harry S. Truman played in the creation of the United Nations and to recall those qualities of character, responsibility and leadership which caused him to support the United Nations in its efforts to keep the peace, and to promote the rule of law and the prevalence of social justice among all men."

There probably hadn't been as much presidential business transacted in Independence since Truman was chief executive. He is 84 now and has received numerous visits from Johnson in his lengthening years. Johnson's last visit was on May 3.

"President Truman," the resolution said, "never flinched in the exercise of United States responsibility in and through the United Nations.

"Had he not resolutely supported United Nations opposition to the attack on the Republic of Korea in 1950, other aggressive adventures would have been encouraged and the United Nations would be a far less effective body."

Truman, Johnson said, proposed U.N. control of nuclear energy development and projected the world organization into economic and social development in various ways.

Black Viet Toll Declines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The percentage of black servicemen killed in Vietnam has dropped slightly. Meanwhile, the percentage of blacks fighting in the war has risen a bit.

These developments are reflected in a new Pentagon summary of black participation in the armed forces. The summary, setting forth the situation as of mid-1968, became available Friday.

It shows, as of June 30, that 13.7 per cent of the 25,616 American troops killed in action from 1961 until that date were black. This represents a decline of .4 per cent from the 14.1 per cent level of black battle deaths reported up to the end of 1967.

The ratio of blacks serving in the Vietnamese war stood at 10.5 per cent of the total as of June 30. This was .7 per cent greater than the 9.8 per cent as of Dec. 31, 1967.

For purposes of this report, the Pentagon counts all of the fighting men in Vietnam, Thailand and aboard U.S. naval vessels in waters off North Vietnam. By that standard, there were 629,729 U.S. servicemen involved in the war as of June 30.

The Pentagon began making special studies of black participation in the war after some black leaders charged that black servicemen were bearing a heavier share of the fighting role proportionately than whites.

BIOGRAPHY OF A WINNER:

Rafer Johnson, shown winning a decathlon race at the 1960 Olympics in Rome, began his winning ways as a newspaperboy in Texas. After moving to California, he was a high school letter man in four sports, setting seven track and field league records. As a UCLA senior, Rafer was student body president in 1959. He had first broken the ten-event world decathlon record four years earlier. He placed second at the 1956 Melbourne Olympics, then took the 1960 decathlon gold medal. In 1962, Rafer Johnson became West Coast Director of People to People, and has since appeared in movies and been a network sportscaster.

NEWSPAPERBOYS GET AHEAD

This year, International Newspaperboy Day coincides with the opening of the 1968 Summer Olympics in Mexico City. So this is a fitting time to give some thought to the things that make America — and Americans — great. Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson puts it this way: "When I was carrying newspapers, I soon realized you've got to deliver in a way that's dependable. The job usually isn't easy, but no work worth doing is worth less than your best. America's newspaperboys are learning that it takes something extra to compete in today's world. I wish them success with this reminder: The winning formula is study, work, training to be ready."

The Treasury Department's U.S. Savings Bonds Division proudly joins in this traditional salute to the nation's newspaperboys. They've helped promote Savings Bonds and Stamps, and are buying Bonds themselves out of earnings — in many cases, to help pay for college some day. Newspaperboys know what's happening. And they'll help to make the future better for all of us.

—Must Stop Indiana's Offensive Attack—

Iowa Seeks Homecoming Victory

By CHUCK STOLBERG

If past performances are any indication of what to expect in a football game, Iowa's 57th Homecoming crowd should see quite a thriller at 1:30 p.m. today when Iowa takes on the Hoosiers of Indiana at Iowa Stadium.

With junior Mike Edwards, replacing McDowell, the Hawks will be starting nine sophomores. The offensive unit that led the Hoosiers to the No. 4 rating in the Associated Press Poll for the Big 10 championship in 1967 returns intact.

Leading the offense will be two juniors, quarterback Harry Gonso and halfback John Isenbarger. Gonso was the one who threw a touchdown pass in the last minute of play to beat the Hawks 21-17 in last year's match at Bloomington.

Including 59 solos, and is the Hoosiers' top all-around defenseman. The Hoosiers defense has given up a total of 1,162 yards in 257 plays 88 points in three games.

Probable Starting Lineups. IOWA Offense: Ends Bream (196) and Manning (193). Defense: Ends—Price (197) and McDonald (220).

Sacred Torch Opens Olympic Games

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico City, calm but under heavy guard, and gaily bedecked, stood ready Friday to give an enthusiastic welcome to the opening of the Olympic Games today.

Today it will be used to light the giant torch that burns throughout the Games following brilliant ceremonies Friday night at the spectacular pyramids of Teotihuacan in the suburbs of Mexico City.

Never has a Games been so ridden with controversies. They have centered on Mexico City's 7,500-foot altitude, on first the admission and then the expulsion of South Africa, then the threat of a boycott by black American athletes.

and other sports considered minor by Americans? The answer to the first question is that American domination in track and swimming may be the most overwhelming yet.

MAYO SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayo Smith, who engineered Detroit to its first American League pennant in 23 years, and Red Schoendienst, who directed St. Louis to its second straight National League crown, were named Managers of the Year Friday in the annual Associated Press poll.

It was the second straight year Schoendienst won the award in the balloting by the nation's sports writers and sportscasters. Smith succeeded Boston's Dick Williams in the American League.

Smith received 135 votes to 28 for runner-up Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees. Schoendienst also easily outpolled his nearest rival, getting 129 votes to 36 for Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs.

Ruggers Face Quad Cities. Iowa's rugby team will play the Quad Cities Sunday on the field behind the Stadium in Finkbine Park. The B team will play at 1 p.m. and the A team at 2 p.m.

Mikita Signs Hockey Pact. CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Hull was nowhere to be found Friday night when the Chicago Black Hawks opened the National Hockey League season against St. Louis but Stan Mikita was as he pulled off one of his 11th hour signings.

Mikita, 28, has won the NHL scoring championship the last two years along with the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player and the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship.

Wrestling Entry Blanks. Intramural wrestling entries can now be picked up in the Intramural Office, 113 Field House, any time before 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Cross Country Team Goes Against Northeast Missouri

Cross-country opens today's homecoming sports activities as Iowa meets Northeast Missouri at 10 a.m. on South Finkbine golf course.

The Hawks will be looking for their first victory of the season after losses to Illinois and Notre Dame.

Our first two meets were over a four-mile course, but the remaining meets will be five miles, Coach Francis Cretzmeier said Friday. "The team is rounding into condition and is ready for the longer distance." Northeast Missouri was added to the schedule after the start of the season, and Cretzmeier said he didn't have much information on them.

Parade Prize Goes to Float Full of Roses

A float that featured pretty, young coeds passing out roses and predictions of a Rose Bowl victory for the Hawkeye football team captured the sweepstakes prize for the best all-around float in the annual Homecoming parade Friday night.

The winning float was entered by Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Upsilon and sponsored by Sanitary Farm Dairies under the theme "We did it Before, and We'll do it Again."

The float showed a green football field with Pasadena written in the background of the float — a reference to the home of the New Year's Rose Bowl classic.

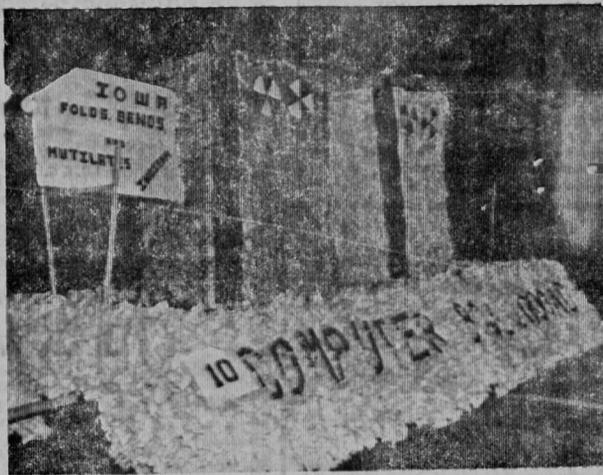

Other float winners were: Alpha Delta Pi and Sigma Pi, first in the beauty division; Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, second in the beauty division; the American Pharmaceutical Association, first in the humor division; Alpha Kappa Psi and Phi Gamma Nu, second in the humor division; Delta Zeta and Tau Kappa Epsilon, first in the originality department; and Currier and Hillcrest, second in the originality division.

Fourteen floats were entered in the evening parade.

Senators Being Elected Now— Grad Senate Creeps Along

By BARBARA MORES
The Graduate Student Senate is slowly—but surely—working its way to reality.

Only 15 of about 55 graduate departments that are to elect representatives to the new senate have submitted their election results to the organizers so far. But, according to Rosemarie Bank, G. Chicago, a member of the ad hoc committee responsible for the formation of the senate, other departments may have held their elections, but have not notified her.

One of the problems of electing representatives, according to Barbara Bank, G. Chicago, another ad hoc committee member, is those departments with inactive graduate organizations.

"It takes a long time to get organized and to inform all the students, especially the larger departments such as education with about 600 graduate students," she said.

Representation in the proposed Graduate Senate is based on one senator per 100 registered graduate students in each department. A department having a fractional number over 50 additional students is allowed another senator.

Although there are over 90 graduate departments, not all of them will be electing senators. Small departments have the option of electing their own or joining other graduate departments, Barbara Bank said. An example of this is the Recreational Leadership area joining the physical education department.

All departments are to submit their representatives by Monday to Rosemarie Bank, in care of the Rhetoric Program, along with name, address, phone number and procedures by which they were elected.

The first meeting will be largely to organize and to ratify a constitution, she said. The first meeting has tentatively been set for Oct. 29.

The graduate senate idea originated with a group of graduate students last spring who were interested in establishing an organization representing the interests of the graduate students. Students petitioned the University administration for control of that portion of their tuition that normally goes to the Student Senate to finance their own organization. The Student Senate receives 85 cents out of the $8 fee paid by each student to finance student activities and organizations.

Philip Hubbard, dean of academic affairs, told the students that the money had already been allocated to the 1968-1969 Student Senate.

After reading the drafted constitution and hearing plans for the organization, the deans of the Graduate College decided to give them funds and some advisory services. James Jakobson, assistant dean of the Graduate College, will be working with the senate.

Some specific problems and projects the Graduate Senate hopes to take under consideration this year are graduate student social facilities, eliminating taxes on teaching assistant's salaries, cooperative bookstore, cooperative housing and parking problems.

Dean A. H. Scaff, associate dean of the Graduate College, said the Graduate Student Senate is a good idea, although it won't solve all the problems of the graduates. He said it will, however, provide the machinery through which problems can be better represented and discussed.

Intensive Studies Offered In Foreign Governments

Students interested in studying foreign countries and foreign affairs may participate in the Foreign Studies program offered by the University.

The program is offered by the Center of International Studies, which is directed by James Murray, professor of political science. The program offers intensive cultural study programs for students interested in China, France, Germany and Austria, Japan, Latin America and the U.S.S.R.

After completing the program, the graduating student will receive a Foreign Area study certificate that will be included in his transcript.

The program is open to students of all majors who have attained the equivalent of three years of college study in French, German or Spanish, or the equivalent of two years of college study in Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese or Russian.

After a student has selected a country or region to study, a program adviser will recommend courses. A minimum of 18 hours of foreign study courses are required for a certificate. In addition, the student must have earned a grade point average of 2.5 in all the program courses.

Departments offering courses through the Foreign Studies program are: economics, Far East studies, geography, history, journalism, modern foreign languages, political science and sociology and anthropology.

Students interested in the program should first contact Prof. James P. Sandrock, chairman of the Department of German, 115 Schaeffer Hall, for information. Sandrock will then provide the student with an adviser who will assist in setting up a course outline.

After the initial contact with the adviser, the responsibility of pursuing the program is virtually the student's own. The program is considered to be only a supplement or addition to a major and not a substitute for major courses.

Approximately 30 students are currently involved in the Foreign Studies program. Five students received the Foreign Area study certificates at June graduation.

Sandrock said that departments involved in the program were considering adding studies of East Asia and of Africa to the program's curriculum.

The program has been in operation since the early 1950s.

Gun Permit Laws Seen Too Loose

DES MOINES (AP) — State Public Safety Commissioner Jack Fulton said Friday that Iowa laws concerning issuance of permits for concealed weapons "should be tightened."

He said a study by his department will determine recommendations to the 1969 legislature for changes in these laws.

Fulton said the legislature should also set severe penalties for persons making false statements when applying for a concealed weapons permit.

Persons now seeking such permits, Fulton said, are not required by present law to state a reason for wanting to carry a concealed weapon. Furthermore, he said that when reasons are given they are not sworn to and are seldom verified by law enforcement officers.

After reading the drafted constitution and hearing plans for the organization, the deans of the Graduate College decided to give them funds and some advisory services. James Jakobson, assistant dean of the Graduate College, will be working with the senate.

After a student has selected a country or region to study, a program adviser will recommend courses. A minimum of 18 hours of foreign study courses are required for a certificate. In addition, the student must have earned a grade point average of 2.5 in all the program courses.

Hughes Fires Back

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Harold E. Hughes said Friday he is still in favor of a halt in bombing of North Vietnam, and he thinks as many as 100,000 Americans could be withdrawn from Vietnam without hurting combat effectiveness.

Sidelined from his campaign for the U.S. Senate more than a week with bronchitis, Hughes answered charges from State Sen. David Stanley, his Republican opponent who claims the governor has "switched positions" on the Vietnam issue to gain more votes.

"My position hasn't changed at all," Hughes said, "and I will continue to be the same. . . ."

Stanley said recently his Democratic rival changed positions on Vietnam when he "wholeheartedly endorsed" Hubert Humphrey's views on the war.

The Democratic presidential nominee has said he would stop bombing North Vietnam as an "acceptable risk" for peace, but would expect the North Vietnamese to clear the demilitarized zone in response.

The governor, who had said earlier he wants an unconditional bombing halt, conceded that Humphrey's stand on Vietnam remains somewhat unclear. But he said "I think he meant that he would first stop the bombing, and that he would expect some response from Hanoi."

Hughes said that if his interpretation of Humphrey's Vietnam statement is not accurate, then the governor's endorsement of the stand "no longer holds true" because that would mean Humphrey is imposing a condition on a cessation of bombing.

MEETING THE PRESS, AGAIN — Mrs. Walter Schirra, wife of the Apollo 7 command pilot, watches as daughter Suzanne, 11, talks to newsmen and photographers record the event in Houston following the successful launch of the spacecraft Friday morning. Mrs. Schirra and the family have probably met with newsmen more than any other astronaut's family, since Capt. Schirra is now making his third flight into space. The couple's son, Walter III, is attending Stanford University and was not at home for the launch.

Astronauts' Relatives View Launching Of Apollo Craft With Mixed Emotions

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — The room, full of chatter moments before, was hushed as the voice of Mission Control counted: "Six...five...four...we have ignition."

Eleven-year-old Suzanne Schirra, who stayed home from school to watch her father shoot into space for the third time, could not hold back any more. She jumped up and clapped her hands in joy.

"Beautiful. Gorgeous," murmured her mother, Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Jr., wife of the Navy captain who is commanding Apollo 7. A few blocks away, at the home of Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, 4-year-old Jon J. Eisele pointed to the picture of the Saturn rocket on the television screen and said "that's where daddy is." As the rocket lifted off the pad, tears welled in his mother's eyes.

That is how it was at home — within a few miles of the Manned Spacecraft Center — as Schirra, Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham began a mission that sets the United States on the most ambitious space venture of all.

Cunningham's wife and their two children went to Cape Kennedy, Fla., for the launch.

Friended gathered early in the Schirra and Eisele homes.

Mrs. Donald Slayton, wife of the director of flight crew operations, spent the night and then made breakfast at the Schirra household. The wives of astronauts Alan B. Shepard, John Glenn and L. Gordon Cooper were at the Schirra home before the launch. Mrs. Robert R. Gilruth, wife of the space center's director, arrived soon afterward.

The guests at the Eisele home also included the wives of astronauts John W. Young and Thomas P. Stafford, as well as neighbors and the Rev. Bob Parrott, minister of the Seabrook Methodist Church.

"I think it was the most beautiful launch I've ever seen," Mrs. Schirra told newsmen afterward. "I'm so happy to have the program on the way again after the long wait."

This Apollo flight was delayed for more than one and one-half years by fire that claimed the lives of three astronauts. There was a poignant reminder of that tragedy at the Schirra home. The widow of Virgil I. Grissom, who was to have commanded Apollo 1, lives next to the Schirras. She was up early Friday, going about her normal tasks.

Mrs. Eisele's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hamilton, of Gnaadenhuten, Ohio, were staying with her.

"It sure went nice," said Hamilton, a retired machine tool factory worker. "I'm just tickled to death that it happened. We've been connected with this a long time, but it's never the same when it happens."

The Schirras' son, Walter III, is a freshman at Stanford University. He watched television with a group of friends.

Newspaper Boys Honored Today

Young men who sell and deliver daily newspapers throughout the United States and Canada are being recognized for their service today, Newspaper Boy Day.

In honor of these young businessmen, Gov. Harold E. Hughes has issued a proclamation setting aside the day in their behalf.

Newspaper Boy Day is an annual climax to National Newspaper Week.

"I've seen a lot of launches, but when I realize it's my father sitting up there, I really get a thrill," he said.

Mrs. Schirra said she was a little more apprehensive this time than on the two previous launches and was glad her husband announced that this flight will be his last.

"I think he's done enough," she said. "There are so many younger men who can do the job as well."

In Point Loma, Calif., a suburb of San Diego, the command pilot's mother, Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Sr., watched the shot on television and exclaimed, "It was beautiful, just perfect."

"This was a much better launch than the last two," she said, holding her husband's hand on the porch of their home. "It's like having your tooth pulled. You dread the first, but after that you get used to it."
