

Paris Talks To Proceed Unchanged

Nixon Will Not Send Delegate 'til Jan. 21

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon conferred with U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman Thursday, and said afterward he will not send an interim observer to the Paris peace talks to insure continuity in the quest for a settlement in Vietnam.

Harriman emerged from the meeting to tell newsmen: "I got the impression that he will send an observer, but I don't know who he will be or when he will come."

However, Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's spokesman, said Harriman apparently got the wrong impression. Ziegler issued this statement:

"There will be no observer sent to Paris by President-elect Nixon between now and Jan. 20. Ambassador Robert D. Murphy is, and will continue to be, Mr. Nixon's foreign policy observer and he will continue to carry out this responsibility in Washington, D.C."

"Following the inauguration, Mr. Nixon will, of course, send a representative to Paris."

Ziegler's statement came aboard a Nixon flight to Los Angeles, after he had talked to the president-elect. The statement was issued from Nixon headquarters in New York.

Harriman said he and his deputy, Cyrus R. Vance, will be replaced by new negotiators in Paris after Nixon takes office Jan. 20.

Harriman, 77, added that he will be leaving the assignment around that date. Vance, he said, may remain a little longer "but not for an extended period of time."

Nixon had disclosed earlier that there had been discussions on assigning Henry Cabot Lodge to serve as Paris negotiator in the new administration. Lodge, Nixon's vice presidential running mate in 1960, is currently the U.S. Ambassador to West Germany.

Harriman said that he saw no evidence that Nixon will alter the emphasis of U.S. policy. He said that he did not believe there will be any noticeable change from Jan. 20 to Jan. 21.

Harriman said the discussion covered issues in the negotiations and personnel in the U.S. delegation to the peace talks.

While the top U.S. negotiators will be replaced with the change in administration, Harriman said Nixon indicated he would like to retain diplomatic and military experts now serving in the delegation.

Nixon saw Harriman before flying to Los Angeles to attend a dinner honoring James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Roman Catholic archbishop there.

The assignment of Alan Greenspan, 42, an economic consultant, to work as an observer at the Bureau of the Budget prior to the inauguration, was announced Thursday.

New Bridge Opening Ends Traffic Problem

Iowa City's first twin span bridge over the Iowa River opened Tuesday, unsnarling what had been almost daily traffic congestion at the Grand Avenue-Riverside Drive intersection since construction began last spring.

Until Tuesday, only two lanes carried State Highway 1 across the river from Riverside Drive to Burlington Street. The opening of the new span and widening of Burlington Street on either side of the new bridge makes the state highway four-lanes from the south city limits as far as Burlington's intersection with Gilbert Street.

The new span was built by the State Highway Commission.

Jury Finds Leader Of Gang Guilty In Contempt Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeff Fort, a leader of a Chicago street gang, was convicted of contempt of Congress Thursday and ordered jailed to await sentencing.

Fort, vice president of the Blackstone Rangers, a black group, was convicted after two days of trial by a jury that included nine blacks.

He was charged on two counts of contempt for refusing to answer questions put to him by senators at a July 8 hearing of the investigations subcommittee of the Senate's Government Operations Committee.

Maximum penalty is one year in prison and $1,000 fine on each count.

Fort was represented in U.S. District Court by Marshall Patner, the Chicago attorney who advised him not to answer questions of senators probing possible misuse of federal funds in a project aimed at rehabilitating the Rangers and members of a second Chicago gang.

The senators said they wanted to question him about his knowledge of the use of a $227,341 Office of Economic Opportunity fund, which was intended to set up education and job training programs for gang members.

Fort served as chief of one of four centers established under the grant.

Linkletter Talks on TV, Morals, Politics in U.S.

By KATHY OGILVY

Television personality Art Linkletter told an audience of about 900 people Tuesday night that the quality of radio and television programs was determined more by their profit to advertisers than by their artistic or intellectual appeal.

"Radio and television are basically advertising agents, and the programs that stay on the air are not those that are the most interesting, entertaining or well-produced."

"The programs that stay on the air the longest are those that deliver the most viewers at the lowest cost for the advertisers," said Linkletter, who spoke in the Union Ballroom.

Linkletter is not only a well-known television entertainer, but also a successful businessman. He serves as an official of more than 20 companies and corporations. He spoke before a varied audience of college students, children and older adults on the topic "The Tube" and American Manners, Morals and Politics."

He displayed a forceful and cheerful personality as he kept the audience laughing with anecdotes about his childhood and career in radio and TV. He appeared youthfully dressed in a suit with a red and navy blue polka dotted handkerchief and tie.

Linkletter compared TV today to a "vast department store."

"There is plenty to be seen if you are an intelligent, selective viewer," he said. Linkletter said that he was very favorably impressed with the effect television had on the children of today.

"TV has been like a great window on the world for children," he said. "It helps improve their vocabulary and grasp of three-dimensional ideas."

Linkletter said that he thought television news was designed to be quick, dramatic and sensational.

"If a person doesn't read a newspaper or magazine, he won't get a good aspect of news because there is simply not enough time for in-depth coverage on TV," he added.

The Nixon-Kennedy television debates of 1960 marked the beginning of TV's vital importance in American politics, Linkletter said.

He mentioned his role as one of Richard Nixon's TV advisers during the recent presidential campaign.

"I believe that the correct use of TV helped Nixon win," he said. "It should be used as an interviewing medium whenever and wherever possible."

"TV has gone about as far as it can go, except for more specials," Linkletter concluded.

He predicted that TV-telephones will be used extensively in the next five or seven years.

"Someday," Linkletter added, "ladies will even be able to do their shopping at home through the use of electronic devices connected to each television set."

French Auto Workers Walk Off for More Pay

PARIS (AP) — Workers at five Renault auto plants walked off their jobs Thursday demanding higher wages and protesting Charles de Gaulle's taxes and belt-tightening for consumers to bolster the franc.

In a Paris suburb some student leftists joined a workers' march. But police details stayed clear and there were no incidents.

A spokesman for the government-run company said 13,500 workers took part in the four-hour walkouts. This was a little more than 20 per cent of the 61,500 workers in plants at Boulogne-Billancourt outside Paris, in Le Mans, Flins, Sandouville and Cleon.

Student Strikers Repelled By Cops on S.F. Campus

Racial tensions ran high in four separate incidents on both coasts Thursday, with the month-old student strike at San Francisco State College escalating into near violence as students confronted armed lawmen.

On the other side of the nation, three members of the militant Black Panther party were arrested in Jersey City, N.J., on charges stemming out of a hit-and-run sniper attack on a police precinct. It was the firing of a Black Panther teaching assistant at San Francisco State which began that school's troubles in early November.

In New York City, a Fordham University dean whose office was taken over by protesting black students Wednesday suffered a heart attack and was listed in critical condition.

And in Boston, a teachers group called for a boycott of the predominantly black Martin Luther King middle school after pupils rampaged through the building, beating one teacher and reportedly wrecking several classrooms.

Student strikers stormed the San Francisco State Administration Building Thursday morning and tried to get at Acting Pres. S. I. Hayakawa, but were

CSC Urged to Snub Code Trials by CSL

The Committee on Student Life (CSL) Thursday recommended that the Committee on Student Conduct (CSC) refuse to hear any judicial cases brought before it under the new Code of Student Life.

At a meeting in the Old Capitol House Chamber, the CSL moved to urge the CSC "to refuse to hear any charges brought against students or student organizations on the basis of the present code, or . . . acquit students and student organizations of any charges brought against them."

The CSL is the second organization to urge the CSC not to hold trials under the new Code. The Student Senate voted Tuesday night to forbid student members of CSC not to participate in any trials. The senate threatened to recall any student member who participated.

The CSL recommendation, proposed by Laird Addis, associate professor of philosophy, comes just before the trials of three students — Jerry Sies, A4, Iowa City, Ken Wessels, A3, Dyersville, and Dan Cheeseman, A4, Elkader — who participated in Oct. 28 and Nov. 1 rallies on campus, which were allegedly in violation of the code.

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) a Student Senate-chartered campus organization, was also charged.

A first vote on the measure was even, 3 to 3. Wessels, a member of the CSL, abstained on the first vote. He later reconsidered and voted for the motion.

After the motion had carried by a 4 to 4 vote, a heated discussion began. Bill Rosebrook, L3, Ames, argued strongly against the proposal.

Student Body Pres. Carl Varner, an ex officio member of the CSL, was the most vocal supporter of the proposal. He said that if student-faculty organizations did abdicate, Pres. Howard R. Bowen would be forced to judge the cases and would, in doing so, have to either deny his spoken liberal positions on the rights of students by enforcing the Code or to do away with the Code.

Rosebrook said that, by passing the proposal, the CSL would appear to be urging that the entire Code be declared null and void, although many of its sections were originally advocated by the CSL in its code proposal of last spring.

Addis replied that although some sections of the Code were acceptable, he thought both the CSL and the CSC should oppose the objectionable sections with full vigor. He compared the Code to legislation of a dictator. Addis said he would feel no obligation to obey a dictator, even if some of his laws were righteous.

The question was called a third time, and this time it passed by a vote of 5 to 3, with a committee member who had been absent during the first and second votes now taking part and joining the majority.

In the first vote, Addis, Varner and Carl Stuart, A4, Graettinger, supported the proposal, while Rosebrook, Louane Newsome, associate professor of library science, and Maureen Kirby, A3, Strawberry Point, opposed it. In later votes, Wessels and Charles Derden, A4, Waterloo, also supported the motion.

It was resolved to send the proposal to James Curtis, professor of speech pathology and chairman of the CSC.

The committee also moved to recommend to Bowen a new version of section 17 of the Code, proposed by Rosebrook.

If accepted, the new section 17 would make punishable "any other conduct or action (than those outlined in the first 16 sections of the Code) in which the University can demonstrate a clear and distinct interest as an academic institution and which seriously threatens any educational process or other legitimate function of the University or the health or safety of any member of the academic community."

Rosebrook said that the proposed section would sufficiently limit the power of the University by the inclusion of the phrases, "seriously threaten" and "clear and distinct interest."

The current section 17 says, in effect, that anything a student does, anywhere on or off campus, whether or not such action is related to any University interest, "is relevant and shall be considered in determining a student's fitness as a member of the academic community."

CSC Sets Date For 1st Hearing

By DUANE SWINTON

The Committee on Student Conduct (CSC) has set Wednesday as the date for the first hearing to consider charges against a student accused of violating the new Code of Student Life.

The committee will hold the hearing to consider charges brought by the Office of Student Affairs against Jerry Sies, A4, Iowa City. Sies has been accused of violating five sections of the Code in connection with two rallies held on campus earlier this fall.

The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Senate Chambers of Old Capitol.

The CSC also set Dec. 17 as the date to consider charges of violating two sections of its code against Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

The dates were set at a CSC meeting Thursday. No date has been set to consider similar charges brought by the Office of Student Affairs against Dan Cheeseman, A4, Elkader; and Ken Wessels, A3, Dyersville.

The CSC decided to hear the Sies case after reserving for itself the right to decide whether it has the jurisdictional power to judge cases under the new Code.

N. William Hines, professor of law, said that the committee had been aware of criticism of the Code and expected to hear arguments concerning the validity of the Code during the hearings.

Seven of the 11 CSC members have been selected to serve on the panel that will hear Sies' case. They are: James F. Curtis, professor of speech pathology and CSC chairman; Cleo Martin, instructor in rhetoric; William F. Ames, professor of mechanics and hydraulics; Hines; Gary Lane, L3, Riverside; William Newbrough, G, Des Moines; and Gary Musselman, G, Coralville.

The Student Senate Tuesday night passed a resolution threatening to recall student members of the CSC who do not refuse to participate in the trials. But indications are that enough students would sit on the panel, Hines said, provided that they were allowed to reserve the right to later decide whether the CSC has the jurisdiction to judge cases under the new Code.

The Senate is responsible for nominating students to serve on the CSC, although final approval is made by University Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

There are five students on the committee, and any judicial panel must include three of them.

Lane, one of the students appointed to the panel by Curtis, said he would probably sit on the panel, but Newbrough, another selected student member of the panel, said he was still undecided. Newbrough said he wanted a chance to study the Senate's action more extensively.

Musselman, the third student member of the panel, was not reached for comment.

Exactly what would follow if three students did not agree to serve on the panel is not definite. But Hines said that he doubted any faculty members of the panel would proceed with the hearing if three students were not on the panel.

In reference to a resolution passed by the Committee on Student Life Thursday night that asks the CSC not to hear cases concerned with the Code, Hines said that the committee would probably consider postponing the hearings if changes were going to be made in the Code "in the very near future."

But Hines added that there has been no indication of such a change as yet.

Model U.N. Conference Will Begin Here Today

Delegations from 12 colleges in 4 states will be on campus today for the fifth annual Eastern Iowa Model United Nations sponsored by CIRUNA.

Approximately 140 people will attend the three-day event, which begins with registration at 9:30 a.m. today and lasts for three days. Colleges in Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Nebraska will be represented.

James Murray, professor of political science, will give the keynote address at 1:30 this afternoon in the Union Main Lounge. The subject of Murray's speech will be "The U.N. in a Changing Time."

The delegations, each representing one nation of the U.N., will meet in caucuses after the keynote address until 4 p.m.

Then the first session of the General Assembly will begin. Delegates will discuss the question of seating Red China.

Members of Security Council nations will meet in separate sessions to discuss issues presented on the floor of the General Assembly.

Special committees will meet from 7 to 12 p.m. to discuss possibilities for U.N. peace actions in Vietnam, population control and a peace settlement in the Middle East. Other topics listed include peaceful uses of outer space, the Republic of South Africa's white supremacy policy and possible U.N. actions in Eastern European crises such as the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Saturday sessions, lasting from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., will include further discussion in the General Assembly and Security Council about questions presented Friday.

A dinner and dance are scheduled for 7 to 12 p.m. Saturday at the Ramada Inn. Colwyn Williams, professor of international relations at the University of Saskatchewan, will speak at 8 p.m. on "The Restless Generation Faces the U.N."

A fourth session of the General Assembly will meet at 1 p.m. Sunday in the New Ballroom for final discussion. Arthur Goldberg, former U.S. Ambassador to the U.N., will give the closing address at 2:30 p.m.

General Strike Paralyzes Rome

ROME (AP) — A 24-hour general strike paralyzed Rome Thursday. But throughout the rest of Italy, three weeks of Communist-led turbulence that had brought the country to the edge of anarchy halted with astonishing abruptness.

Easing of workers' demonstrations for higher wages and student disorders raised hopes that the government crisis, now in its 16th day, was nearing an end. Premier-designate Mariano Rumor resumed meetings with the leaders of the three parties of his proposed center-left coalition amid growing signs he might have a cabinet lined up by the weekend.

The reason for the sudden calm was clearly a growing fear among Communist tacticians that the chaos tormenting the country was building to a dangerous flash point.

Arrested were Isaiah Rowley, 24, and Charles Hicks, 36, both of Jersey City, and Victor Perez, 19, of Brooklyn, N.Y. Rowley identified himself as New Jersey minister of defense for the Panthers.

In New York, a Fordham University spokesman said Martin J. Meade, 37, dean of student affairs, awoke suffering chest pains Thursday morning at his Harrington Park, N.J., home. Meade was taken to Englewood Hospital and placed in an intensive care unit, the spokesman said.

About 20 black students invaded Meade's office Wednesday afternoon and barricaded the door, although Meade said later he had not been detained against his will. The students sought a hearing for demands that black students not be penalized for dissent.

In Boston, Louis Vangel, executive secretary of the Boston Teachers Union, notified administrative officials that teachers would not report for classroom duty today.

The latest outbreak in the dominantly black school in the Roxbury section began with a series of false alarms at mid-morning. As the pupils rampaged through the building, most of the teachers locked themselves in their classrooms.

repelled by six policemen with drawn pistols and Mace repellent.

Several hundred police who had been held in reserve off the campus quickly cleared the quadrangle outside of about 2,000 persons in a club-swinging struggle.

Twenty-six persons were arrested, including Carlton Goodlett, a black publisher; and the Rev. Jerry Pederson, Lutheran chaplain at Ecumenical House, staging center for the demonstration. At least 30 persons were treated for minor injuries.

As the crowd of about 150 that had burst into the Administration Building fled in confusion, one of them dropped a brief case.

Out popped a .45 caliber automatic. Inside the case were batteries and wires.

About 200 other police, stationed off the campus, quickly arrived.

Hayakawa reopened the strife-shaken college Monday.

In connection with the Jersey City Black Panther arrests, police said they confiscated a "small arsenal," including guns, ammunition, explosives and plans for making bombs.

Commenting on the arrests, Mayor Thomas J. Whelan said, "The Black Panthers are through in Jersey City."

CSC's responsibility

The controversy surrounding the Code of Student Life — and the circumstances under which it reached its present form — has been well heated since September, but the recent charges brought by the administration against three students and SDS seem about to bring the whole kettle to a boiling point.

The Committee on Student Conduct (CSC) is in an unenviable position. A wagonload of official and non-official student groups have expressed dissatisfaction with the Code, from one entire floor of Rienow II dormitory and a group of French and Italian Students to the Student Senate, the New University Conference, the American Association of University Professors' local chapter and even the Committee on Student Life itself.

Although it is untenable to argue that the Code, even as altered by the administration, is "illegal," the Code is certainly a breach of academic freedom and a foreboding sign that student participation in the running of this University is willfully ignored by the administration.

For CSC to accept the Code as its standard for meting out "punishment" to the three students involved as well as SDS would be to court disaster. As much as we will defend SDS' right to remain on campus without official harassment, it must be admitted that SDS is "looking for trouble." And administrators at this University, previously noted for their somewhat wishy-washy attitude toward the local New Left, don't look as if they're going to back down now; they would lose what little prestige or authority that they now retain.

That means trouble ahead. And we don't want the same kind of trouble we had on Nov. 1 and Dec. 5 last year. We don't want police on this campus or legislative interference in campus affairs that should be the prerogative of the members of the University community.

For the sake of the University, and for the sake of the efforts of those making sane attempts to liberalize the oppressive Code, CSC must find some way to postpone hearings or discard charges against Sies, Wessels, Cheeseman and SDS. With "campus riots" making headlines all over the nation, this is no time for Iowa City to boil over.

Grad's game view blocked by pillar

To the editor:
I feel compelled to comment on Iowa's game with Northern Michigan Wednesday night. Because I left campus for Thanksgiving, it was my first opportunity to see the Hawks — and my first opportunity to see the seats I purchased for the season. Fortunately for Ralph Miller, the Hawks are far superior to the seats.

My first impression of $12 season tickets for students at the University was that the system was the work of a mercenary sub-group in the Athletic Department. After seeing the seats they were selling at that price, my opinion of the Athletic Department is not quite so flattering.

None of the three schools I attended as an undergraduate sold student basketball tickets at that high a price, and none sat the ticket holders behind a pillar nearly as wide as the perception of half the court. If the argument is that we see a better quality of basketball, let me assure you that none of these three schools ever fielded a team as poor as Northern Michigan's.

I cannot blame Ralph Miller or the Hawkeyes for the facilities in which they must play. It certainly isn't Miller's fault that the fieldhouse was built prior to the conception of architecture. Serious thought and consideration by the powers that be is in order, however, so that the University might build a new fieldhouse. At least then the $12 price of the ticket might be rationalized to be paying for the new facility.

Just one last word for these readers who were not "fortunate" enough to get season tickets. Chances are that you have a better view of the game at home — on the radio.

NUC urges CSC to reject charges

To the editor:

The New University Conference urges the Committee on Student Conduct to refuse to consider any charges brought before it under the Code of Student Life. The Code has been rejected by every major group of concerned faculty and students who have studied it. It is in contradiction with another statement endorsed by the University, namely the NSAAUP Joint Statement on Rights and Freedoms of Students. In addition, Pres. Bowen's promulgation of the repressive sections of the code by fiat, without re-submitting them to the committee he himself appointed to draft the code, is sufficient reason alone for denying the validity of the code. Finally, the code is an oppressive document unacceptable in today's university.

For all of these reasons, the Committee on Student Conduct should recognize that it has no valid set of rules by which to judge students, and can only refuse to consider any cases brought before it under the code.

Adopted unanimously

Student bothered over repair costs

To the editor:

As a student who has recently had minor repairs made on his automobile by a local dealer, I can understand why some people in a fit of anger are calling for repairs on the automobile repairs industry. After having recently paid $91.79 to have a muffler and tailpipe installed and an engine tune-up, the tailpipe broke loose within a few days and my car has stalled at stop signs about a half dozen times — something that my car had never done in the past.

It is disturbing to know that at least one Iowa City automobile dealer is helping to give the industry an unsavory reputation with its incompetent and expensive service department.

Instead of calling for legislative action and regulation of the industry, I think it would be more effective locally for students to reveal to The Daily Iowan any instances of incompetence they have encountered from local merchants dealing in any product or service. This would be most helpful in organizing an economic boycott against those selfish merchants who deserve this treatment.

Bad publicity and a dearth of consumers can hit a businessman where it hurts — in his pocketbook. Hopefully, then, if he has any sense, he will make the necessary reforms.

The Great Mass Ax Murder Hoax — A Jean Dixon 'Prediction' Squelched

By DAVE DIERKS

Rumors reportedly stemming from predictions made by the noted clairvoyant Jean Dixon involving murders of coeds from several Midwestern campuses were termed "completely unfounded" Thursday by one of Mrs. Dixon's secretaries.

The secretary told The Daily Iowan in a telephone interview Thursday, that Mrs. Dixon never made any such prediction involving murders of college students. Jean Dixon is a noted clairvoyant, who resides in Washington, D.C., and has written several books about her predictive powers.

Rumors surrounding the alleged prediction of Mrs. Dixon had been growing recently on campus, to the extent where many coeds were becoming alarmed.

The fact that the false predictions did upset many coeds is reflected in a memo that was posted on a Carrie Stanley bulletin board just before Thanksgiving vacation by Barbara Cochran, women's residence halls adviser.

The memo, sent to all advisers in women's residence halls, stated that the Dixon prediction was indeed a complete fabrication. The posted note marked the first official move by any campus official to calm the jittery nerves of coeds who had heard the rumor.

The initial rumors sprang up last month when word came that Jean Dixon had predicted a mass murder of several coeds at a "Midwest university with the name of the school the same as the city it was located in." The first rumor was met with laughter from some and uneasiness from others.

The latest edition of the prediction, broke out here Wednesday, when it was related that Jean Dixon had appeared on the "Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson recently and predicted there would be an ax murder involving eight people in University Heights, Iowa.

One of the "Tonight Show" aides said in a telephone interview with the DI Wednesday that Mrs. Dixon had not appeared on the show "in months" and that she had never made any sort of predictions involving murders when she was on the program.

Apparently, the first rumor was "created" by a group of coeds at a small Illinois college.

Other girls at the school, upon hearing the rumor, wrote letters to their parents expressing their uneasiness.

Then, in an effort to quell the rumors and ease the nerves of their daughters, several of the parents called a popular Chicago radio program, "The Walls Phillips Show," a broadcast which specializes in morning "dial-ins."

A secretary to Phillips, Karen Forberg, told the DI that Phillips then called Jean Dixon personally and received her assurance that the prediction was indeed totally an unfounded rumor.

Evidently, the rumor was too good to be passed up by students from other colleges listening to the program, as afterwards different variations of the rumor began cropping up on campuses from Michigan to Arizona.

Mrs. Forberg called the spreading rumors, "an excellent example of mass hysteria."

The "hysteria" reached a peak at the University of Illinois campus earlier this year, when a rumor involving a mass murder of several coeds had begun circulating. Campus police were called out to "stand guard" at the women's dorms on the supposed night of the murder.

In Iowa, the rumors have been more acute than in other parts of the country. Mrs. Dixon's secretary said. Reports of rumors dealing with mass murders have been heard at Coe College in Cedar Rapids and at Drake University in Des Moines.

To sum up all, Jean Dixon has never predicted an ax mass murder at a Midwestern university.

Girls can now put away their pocket knives, give the baseball bats back to their brothers, and go out on blind dates without any fear.

Princeton Editors Try to Take The 'Blind' out of Blind Dates

PRINCETON, N. J. — The editors of Princeton University's intellectually oriented student newspaper turned Cupid Thursday.

They published a slim volume for selective suitors containing brief biographies and snapshots of 1,500 coeds at eight exclusive women's colleges.

The book, entitled "Who the Girls Are" and priced at $2 a copy, is a sequel to their often ridiculed, but avidly read 1965 edition of "Where the Girls Are."

If history repeats itself, "Girls" will be a best seller in college bookstores.

The 112-page manuscript, the editors solemnly explained, not only furnishes valuable data about the girls — the beauties and prudes — but also intends to abolish the old-fashioned custom of the blind date.

Peter G. Brown, a junior from Erie, Pa., who edited the volume, declared:

"This little book does no less than spell the demise, the defeat, the absolute abolition of that atrocious anachronism, the blind date. In fact, the purpose of 'Who the Girls Are,' is to take the blind out of the blind date."

The new edition also includes capsule descriptions of the eight schools — Bryn Mawr, Goucher, Mount Holyoke, Skidmore, Smith, Sweet Briar, Vassar and Wellesley colleges.

The comments on the schools also referred to the availability and usage of marijuana on the campuses. John Stossel, business manager of the newspaper, The Princetonian, and supervisor of the project, said this was "regrettable in that it may offend certain people."

"Changing times and student social mores dictated that we include information on the campus drug scene at the colleges studied," said Stossel, a senior from Wilmette, Ill.

Health Board Seeks Views

Opinions from five agencies are being sought by the Johnson County Health Board before it takes a stand on the Coralville sewage dispute.

The City Council has requested that the board determine whether farmers downstream from a proposed Coralville sewage plant were adequately protected from the plant's discharge.

The council voted Tuesday to delay signing an agreement that would settle a long standing Iowa City-Coralville annexation dispute until the board had considered the problem.

The board has turned to research completed by the engineering departments of Iowa City and the University and the Johnson County Regional Planning Commission, the Conservation Commission and the Soil Conservation Service as a basis for the opinion.

Board Chairman James L. Shive, Solon, said in an interview that the five opinions were to be presented to the board before its special Dec. 17 meeting.

At that 4 p.m. meeting, the board hopes to agree on a recommendation to submit to the council, which will meet at 7:30 the same night.

Coralville must begin construction on the plant by Jan. 30, 1969, to comply with a resolution passed at a public hearing held in Coralville Wednesday night.

Dedication Set For West High

West High School will hold its official dedication and open house Sunday afternoon.

Dedication ceremonies are scheduled for 2 p.m. and are to include the laying of a cornerstone and a formal presentation and acceptance of the new building.

The open house is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. and last until 5 p.m. All portions of the building will be open to the public during these hours and several West High students will be present to give guided tours.

Several school officials and student leaders are scheduled to participate in the dedication ceremonies. Buford W. Garner, superintendent of schools; Henry W. Piro, president of the Community Board of Education; Edwin K. Barker, West High principal, and the presidents of the school's junior and senior high councils are scheduled to assist in the dedication program.

The construction of the high school was completed shortly before classes began there this fall.

Civil Rights, Poverty Aide To Speak on Social Change

Norman Hill, former program director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), will speak on "Organizing for Social Change" at 8 tonight in Macbride Auditorium.

Hill is presently associate director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, an organization formed to advocate a coordinated effort between the fields of civil rights and rights of the poor. His speech will be part of a three-day Midwest Regional Conference of the National Federation of Student Social Workers.

Workshops will be conducted Saturday afternoon in the Union. They will deal primarily with social workers' adaptation to changing social situations in the nation today.

In one workshop, a discussion will be held on the New Reform Party — a new political party oriented to the views of Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.). Discussion will include an explanation of what the party is and where it is headed.

Another topic of discussion will be "Social Work and the Black Community," which will focus on the role of the white community in relation to the black community.

Active involvement in campus issues, such as the current debate on the new Code of Student Life by students in social work, will be covered in another session.

The conference will be sponsored by the National Federation of Student Social Workers and the Action Studies Program.

UI Planning Group Debates Proposed Swimming Pool

A series of objections to a proposed recreational swimming pool were heard Thursday in a meeting of the Campus Planning Committee.

After discussion of two sites for the pool, which has been approved by the State Board of Regents, the committee voted to require the Recreation Committee to prepare and submit a report discussing the need for such a pool.

The idea of a swimming pool on the east side of the river is about three years old. Two sites for the pool have been suggested. One is on North Capitol Street behind Burge Hall, and the other is north of the Union in an area now occupied by the temporaries.

Both sites were objected to by committee members. The North Capitol site was criticized because of its distance from the Women's Physical Education building. Women's gym classes would use the new pool. The Union site was criticized because many committee members thought the land could be better used.

Merritt C. Ludwig, vice president for planning and development, said campus planning consultants recommended that the building more than 25-feet tall should be constructed north of the Union. In the consultant's opinion, a taller building would obstruct the view across the river.

During the site discussion, the question of need for a swimming pool arose and prompted the committee's vote to hear the Recreation Committee's recommendations. The Recreation Committee initiated plans for the pool. An $18-million addition to University Hospitals was also discussed. The proposed addition, to be constructed south of the present structure, would be financed by revenue bonds and a federal grant.

The addition would include ward areas, outpatient care centers and operating rooms.

Those Walls of Ivy . . .

The first step in the Close Hall ivy transplant was taken when Richard York (left) of the Physical Plant snipped a few shoots for relocation in Coralville. Watching him is Fred Pownall, director of publications and printing service from 1928 to 1956 and now director emeritus. Pownall called the ivy "nature's response" to the unsightly appearance of the building.

Entire South Viet Delegation Ordered to Join Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — South Vietnam Thursday ordered its whole negotiating team, including Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, into Paris Sunday to join the talks on ending the war. But a Viet Cong official predicted procedural snags may hold up the start of four-way talks.

And North Vietnam's chief delegate, Xuan Thuy, told newsmen he thought that President Johnson and President-elect Richard M. Nixon "basically resemble each other," that U.S. policy in Vietnam continues to be one of aggression. He alleged American bomb attacks against the North and said they were becoming "more serious."

Both the South Vietnamese and American delegation have been expressing hope that the conference would get started next week, at least to write its own procedure. Peacemaking has been delayed one month because of the Saigon government's boycott, which now has ended.

Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, deputy leader of the U.S. delegation, with the North Vietnamese had been businesslike and he hoped the expanded talks "will get under way the first part of next week."

State Units Given Job Bias Deadline

DES MOINES (AP) — A deadline of one month was imposed Thursday on state agencies for reports on hiring practices of contractors of state business.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission said the reports will include the number of nonwhite persons employed by the contractors.

Without the reports, said commission member Dr. Donald Boles of Ames, "we could go on for two years and every agency could be acting illegally."

Close Hall Ivy Won't Be Lost

Many harsh things have been said about Close Hall, the unsightly University building now being razed after standing for 78 years. But a little bit of its most handsome feature has been retained and is alive and well in Coralville.

An ivy transplant operation was performed by a crew from Physical Plant last month. Some shoots from the Boston ivy vines that have covered the east wall of Close Hall for 40 years were moved to the new printing service offices in Coralville.

The operation was requested by John E. Simmons, director of publications and printing service, whose offices and production plant were moved in August from Close Hall to a location on Second Avenue. Simmons said the transplant would enhance the appearance of the south side of the new building, facing the Rock Island Railroad tracks, and would also provide printing service employees with a sentimental reminder of Close Hall, the architectural curiosity that housed them for so long.

In an interview in the last days of Close Hall's existence, Fred Pownall, who was director of publications from 1928 to 1956 and is now director emeritus, expressed his fondness for the ivy and called it "nature's response" to the ugliness of the structure.

Simpson, Gilbert and Keyes Lead AP All-America Team

NEW YORK (AP) — "A blinding flash at the moment of truth!" The writer was paying tribute to Chris Gilbert, Texas, whirlwind tailback a few weeks ago. But the description also fits O. J. Simpson and Leroy Keyes, Gilbert's running mates in The Associated Press' All-America backfield, to a T.

history to ramble for more than 1,000 yards in three consecutive seasons, were among 22 1968 standouts named to the All-America Team Thursday.

Terry Hanratty, Notre Dame's brilliant quarterback, joined the three stellar running backs in the first team backfield.

Completing the first team of offensive unit were tight end Ted Kwalick of Penn State, split end Ron Sellers of Florida State, tackles Dave Foley of Ohio State and Mike Montler of Colorado, guards Charles Rosenfelder of Tennessee and Jim Barnes of Arkansas and center John Dixon of Oregon State.

Ends Ted Hendricks of Miami, Fla., and John Zook of Kansas, tackles Bill Stanfill of Georgia and Joe Greene of North Texas State and middle guard Ed White of California make up a formidable defensive front five.

The linebackers are Steve Kliner of Tennessee, Dennis Onkatz of Penn State and Mike Widger of Virginia Tech. Georgia's Jake Scott, Missouri's Roger Wehrli and Washington's Al Worley man the defensive secondary posts.

Simpson, Keyes, Sellers and Hendricks are repeaters from the 1967 all-America first team. Scott and the three linebackers are the only juniors on the squad. The rest are seniors likely to be snapped up quickly in the forthcoming professional draft.

The mere mention of Heisman Trophy winner Simpson's name begs comparisons with great college backs of past years, including Jimmy Brown and Gale Sayers. The 205-pound Trojan horseman, who set single season records for rushing yardage, 1,709, and carries, 355, scored 22 touchdowns and led Southern Cal to the Rose Bowl, comes out on top more often than not.

Gilbert a bantam ball-toter at 5-11 and 190 pounds, paced the Longhorns' high-powered attack by gaining 1,132 yards to take the No. 3 spot on the all-time career rushing list.

Rushing Exploits Of '68 Collegians Were Best Ever

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1968 college football season produced the greatest ball-carrying exploits in the game's history and out in front was Heisman Trophy winner, O. J. Simpson of Southern California.

Simpson erased the rushing records of football greats and overshadowed such immortals as Red Grange and Tom Harmon in piling up 1,709 yards.

This figure gave Simpson the season's individual rushing championship and also aided in making him the all-purpose rushing leader of 1968. Counting punt and kickoff returns and yards in pass receiving, Simpson had an overall mark of 1,966 yards.

Simpson won the rushing title for his second straight year but failed in a bid for the scoring crown won by Jim O'Brien of Cincinnati, a pass-catching end, who led with 142 points. Simpson was second with 132.

Statistics compiled by the national Collegiate Sport Services showed Eugene Morris of West Texas State in second place in individual rushing with 1,571 yards, followed by Paul Gipson of Houston, 1,550, and Steve Owens of Oklahoma, 1,536. All gained more yards on the ground than any football player in the previous 20 years.

Fencing Season Opens Saturday

A new season for the Iowa fencing team begins Saturday, and new Head Coach Richard Gibson feels chances are slim for equalling last year's 12-7 overall record and fourth place finish in the Big 10 Championships.

Inexperience is the biggest handicap to the Hawks this year, as the team lost five lettermen through graduation, including all-time Iowa dual meet victory record-holder Kent Grieshaber. In addition to these losses, two-year letterman Doug Corey decided to pass up his last year of eligibility in order to graduate in February.

Five returning lettermen make up the nucleus of this year's team, which will depend heavily on sophomores.

Fencing competition is separated into three weapon divisions; sabre, epee and foil. The sabre team will be led by co-captain and two-year letterman Nile Falk, who had a 29-24 dual meet record last year and finished fifth in the Big 10 finals. Two-year letterman Roy Ritzmann, 17-33 last year, junior letterman John Rasmussen, and Jim Wilt-gen and Paul Hutson round out the sabre team.

The epee team will be led by senior co-captain John Schweppe, who finished eighth in last year's Big 10 meet and had a 21-20 dual record. Other names to watch for on the epee team are two-year letterman Bill Waltz (11-13), Ivan Webber and Marty Fritz.

With Doug Corey's decision not to compete this year, the foil team will be the weakest of the three. There are no returning lettermen in foil competition. Sophomores Barry Chapman, Frank Noyt, Terry Baner and Mark Stodola are currently top candidates for spots on the team, while senior Bob Rosenthal and junior Bill Lagle are also trying to win starting positions.

Saturday's meet here against Iowa State and Cornell will be the first for Richard Gibson as years coach, Cap Hermann, who competed on the Iowa fencing team from 1954-56, repalced last year's coach, Cap Hermann, who accepted a coaching position in Davenport.

How to brew the King of Beers.

Ever wonder how Anheuser-Busch takes the choicest hops, rice and best barley malt—and turns it into the King of Beers?

Best way to find out is to visit one of our breweries for a first-hand look. (The pleasure will be mutual.)

Meanwhile, purely in the interest of science and higher education, here's a quick cram course.

1. At the lautering tanks, we cook malt and rice to produce a clear amber liquid called wort.
2. Then to the copper brew kettles, where choicest imported and domestic hops are added to the wort—which is cooked again.
3. Now, after cooling, the wort flows into our own patented fermenters, where brewers' yeast works to ferment natural sugars into alcohol and CO₂. This is where wort becomes beer.
4. Most beers are finished now. Not Budweiser. We ferment it again, this time in special glass-lined tanks partially filled with a dense lattice of beechwood strips. (This is where Beechwood Ageing comes in. It's a costly extra step, but we think the difference it makes in the taste and clarity of Budweiser is worth it!) We add a little freshly-yeasted wort to start the second fermentation, and let it "work."

5. The final step. The Budweiser flows through a series of finishing filters just before we package it for you in barrels, cans or bottles.

If that sounds like anybody could brew Budweiser, forget it. It takes a special kind of brewery (we have the only six in the world that will do), a brewmaster who puts his heart and soul into brewing the King of Beers, the choicest ingredients (the cost of which keeps our treasurer awake at night), and thousands of brewery workers who know Budweiser is the best reason in the world to drink beer.

Next lesson? Well, we were going to tell you how to drink Bude. But you know that.

Like to know more about brewing in general and Bud in particular? Write for our free booklet: "Choicest Hops" Box 8798 Jefferson Memorial Station St. Louis, Missouri 63102

What to say after you give the button

Nothing. Absolutely nothing. There's no need for words. The "I AM LOVED" button is only a symbol (and free of charge, at that), yet it says something special about someone special.

It tells the world who belongs to whom. It lets you know there is someone there . . . someone who cares. Who could put in words the nice, warm feeling you get from such a shy little button?

But it is, after all, only a button. A reminder. A starter. A staller.

What true love, lasting love, needs is something more permanent. For this we suggest Wells "I AM LOVED" jewelry for both men and women, jewelry in real silver and gold.

Or there are Wells "I AM LOVED" fragrances for that particular person in your life. Gaily packaged in stripes for the men, polkadots for the girls, they give an air and a flair to your sentiments.

When you come in for your button you will have a chance to see the range of earning, charms, pendants and pins for her . . . the key chains, idents, money clips, tie tacs, cufflinks for him.

Let your nose lead you to the "I AM LOVED" fragrances . . . cologne and after shave for men in both Bronze and Lime . . . purse, spray and decanter sizes of perfume for an exceptional enchantress.

If you would put a price on love, you can find your particular degree of intensity anywhere between $4.50 and $15 in the fragrances; $5 to $25 for the jewelry.

What price love? It's up to you, starting with the "I AM LOVED" button which is not for sale. It's free. Just remember the button says volumes. The jewelry and fragrances say it eloquently.

Big 10 Football Attendance Hits Record Total

CHICAGO (AP) — Big 10 Conference statistics released Thursday showed football attendance slipped slightly on averages this fall even though rising to a record total.

Figures released by the league office showed 3,141,837 for 56 Big 10 games, the largest attendance in conference history. The game average was 56,104, however, a figure down 1.6 per cent from 1968 and 4.7 per cent from the record average set in 1964.

Thanks mainly to Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State, which averaged 8,427 for six home games, total attendance topped the old Big 10 record of 3,080,445 set last year.

Although seating at conference schools was increased by 160,000 for the entire list of games, attendance averages were down at four schools.

Northwestern averaged 38,784 at home, Wisconsin 45,559, Illinois 45,563 and Michigan only 67,991 in its 101,000-seat stadium, conference figures show.

The record average of 58,889 was set in 1964 came during a 49-game conference schedule.

Largest crowd of the season was an overflow 102,785 for Michigan's Oct. 12 game with Michigan State at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Champion Ohio State and Purdue set school single-game records, the undefeated Buckeyes at 85,371 against Michigan and Purdue at 63,204 against Indiana.

Baseball Disagreements Rage On

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The negotiator for baseball's owners denied Thursday that delaying tactics had been used in pension discussions with rebellious players but ignored allegations that the players were being coerced into signing contracts.

John Gaherin, the owner's negotiator, brushed aside the statements made Wednesday by the Players Association by issuing a statement over his signature that said, in part:

"The only part of the statement by the players which warrants comment at this time is the charge that the club owners' negotiating representatives have been engaged in delaying tactics."

Gaherin pointed out that since Oct. 23 there had been eight bargaining sessions — the next is scheduled in New York next Tuesday. He said that represented one bargaining session every four days, "just about the normal pace for negotiations of this nature."

The statement issued by the players contended that the owners had been engaging in delaying tactics by not beginning negotiations until late October and "have refused to make any substantive proposals made by the association."

At the same time, the hotly-worded statement that raised the prospects of a player strike alleged that some players were being pressured into signing their contracts. A strike threat is the weapon the players are using.

Reardon Sets Scoring Run Record

CHICAGO (AP) — Big 10 Conference statistics released Thursday showed Iowa sophomore Kerry Reardon with the longest scoring play of the football season.

The play, covering 95 yards, was a kickoff return against Northwestern Nov. 9 in Iowa City.

Iowa's Ed Podolak set a Big 10 record with an average of 16.84 yards for 19 running and passing plays against Northwestern.

Chemist Testifies In Dancer's Case

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — George Jaggard, nationally prominent chemist from Philadelphia added his endorsement Thursday to a report indicating the presence of phenylbutazone in Dancer's image after he won the Kentucky Derby.

Jaggard also attempted to pin down the time that the medication would have had to be administered in order for it to show up in the urinalysis.

He told the Kentucky Racing Commission that the medication must have been given not less than 16 hours and not more than 32 hours before the sample was extracted from Dancer's image on the evening of May 4, which was Derby Day.

Andante

In her opening work, the Beethoven, excited passages were very, very agitated, her passionate passages very, very warm.
Perhaps many subtleties of the piece were overlooked in favor of the more outgoing performance in which her musical expression was matched by an imposing physical countenance. Her gestures were never unmusical but, rather, were simply a physical extension of her musical interpretation.

Lamar Crowson pianist, played very well and matched the playing of Miss Du Pre in a generally very sensitive accompaniment. Only rarely, as in the final moments of the Beethoven, did they have trouble in maintaining rapport.

In the Bach suite her rhythmic freedoms seemed to hinder the music seriously. In the Prelude and the more stylized dance movements (the Allemande and the Courante) her rhythmic license seemed to destroy any basic pulse and it was hard to "get with the music."

After all, it is hard for a listener to perceive subtle changes in the basic pulse if the pulse itself is not clear. On the other hand, the more dance-like movements, with their simpler and clear-cut rhythmic patterns, did not suffer as much from all the rhythmic give-and-take.

In the Debussy sonata, the cello and piano were both coaxed into some very nice sonorities and at times reflected a careful atten-

Three exhibitions listed on the University monthly calendar for December will not be held during the month.

An exhibition of prints by Michael Elvestrom, G. Battle Ground, Wash., which was scheduled for Dec. 1-17, has been moved to Wesley House at 120
N. Dubuque.

Paintings by Michael Meyers, Iowa City graduate student, will be shown Jan. 3-16 instead of during December. An exhibition of framed scrolls by Yoshitoshi Mori, Japanese artist, will be shown Jan. 16-29. This show is circulated by the Japan Society of New York City.

Both exhibitions will be hung in the Terrace Lounge of Iowa Memorial Union and are sponsored by Union Board.

From this reviewer's seat, her manner of playing was most suitable for her encore — the slow movement of a Rachmaninoff sonata. Probably no small connection is that her teacher is the eminent Russian cellist Mstislav Rostropovich. Of course this is immaterial to the music, which came soaring out in a broad and sweeping interpretation that seemed just right.

Miss Du Pre is quite British:
like most British performances I have seen, her presentation was full of life, combining with enthusiasm, and direct in its appeal.
The love of the music and her belief in what she is playing came across to the audience of 1,100 very strongly. Her ability to communicate and her sincerity in playing mark her as a great artist.

The Daily Iowan Entertainment

A good stripper is Always 'on the move'

She doesn't mind being considered a "stripper" and yet she dislikes the use of "suggestive" stage names.

By her own admission, she is one of very few entertainers to retain the simplicity of a real name, Rebecca. Others go by such wishful fabrications as Satin Lace, Smoky Fire, and Candy Barr.

Miss Rebecca, a native of Memphis, Tennessee, is an "exotic dancer" appearing at Babb's Coral Lounge, where she was "booked" recently by a Los Angeles agency. She arrived from Los Angeles only three days ago.

The agency which handles her, she said, is but one of many entertainment agencies around the country. She happens to be working here because she was assigned a particular "territory," the Midwest. Other "territories" include the South and New England.

That such an organization exists may come as something of a surprise. But being handled by an agency is only half of it, she said. She's also union.

She and most other nightclub entertainers belong to the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA), which sets a minimum wage and specifies working conditions just like other unions. She said that Kennedy's Lounge and Babb's are union shops and that an exception to union membership in those places is made only for go-go girls, several of whom have been local students in the past.

In spite of all the formalities, she has complete freedom when working. "You can do anything you want to, although you may regret it later."

She said that her main concern is cutting her act too short or being "too sensual." What she can do or show varies from state to state.

She draws a distinction between what she can do and show because often the laws regulating each are not comparable.

In some places restrictions on nudity are minimal while such things as conversing with the audience or "lewd" behavior are banned.

She considers California the most liberal and Connecticut the most conservative. Iowa, she feels, is fairly conservative, requiring pasties or mesh bras be worn, as well as G strings.

Miss Rebecca has been "everywhere" in her three and a half years of professional entertaining, starting in legitimate dance.

She worked Broadway for some time in revues until she decided there was more money in traveling from place to place.

Traveling is her major dislike about her profession, which she says brings her to new towns and faces she's never seen before.

"But traveling is essential because your popularity increases by your scarcity." She added that "no one wants to see a girl they've seen a dozen or two dozen times before."

She enjoys her work "to a point." She said she likes "playing up" to an audience because "the audience is what makes your act good."

As a matter of course, she says she gets quite a few propositions, most of which she "sloughs off." She blamed most of this on "misinterpretation."

She doesn't care, however, what the audience thinks of what she does, it being simply a matter of viewpoint.

She thinks nightclub entertainment is declining, which she blames partly on television. Asked if she thought the girls might gravitate to the newer theater whose restrictions on nudity are disappearing — a recent example is Broadway's "Hair" — she said she didn't think so.

"To be in a play you have to know more than how to take your clothes off; you have to know how to act," she added, however, that the cast of "Hair" made no pretenses about being "sensitive" when they disrobed.

If there are few other outlets for entertainers, then where do the girls go? "Some of the stars are still performing. A good stripper never dies — she just fades away."

Miss Rebecca plans to work until she "gets tired of it" or marries.

— William Lloyd Seavey

For my next number—

Miss Rebecca, captured here during her act at Babb's, will be in Iowa City for two weeks. In tours as a nightclub entertainer she says she has traveled "everywhere" and considers Iowa one of the more conservative areas in appreciating her talents.

Play the 'Directors Game'

There is a theory or point of view that the director is the real artist in the creation of a film in the same way that a writer is responsible for a novel. Films are, to be sure, made by many people; they are a collaborative effort. Yet for a movie to have the kind of coherence required of any real art, there has to be a controlling sensibility at work.

The best films, however, do seem to be the product of certain recognizable talents. And if one admits this, one is immediately entitled to play what one leading American film critic called "the Directors Game" in which the few fine movies in any given year can be determined and will be directed, with the exception of a few first films by newcomers, by men who have proven their talent and whose total career output exhibit certain thematic and formal consistencies.

Let me start with the players in my own version of the game. Some of their names will be known to you others will know only their films. Many, and such is the unfortunate state of film in this country, will know neither. But to proceed: Orson Welles ("Citizen Kane," "Touch of Evil"); Alfred Hitchcock ("Vertigo," "Marnie," "Psycho"); Arthur Penn ("The Left-Handed Gun," "Bonnie and Clyde"); Stanley Kubrick ("Lolita"); Sam Peckinpah ("Ride the High Country," "Major Dundee"); John Boorman ("Point Blank"); Samuel Fuller ("Underworld U.S.A."); John Frankenheimer ("The Manchurian Candidate"); and Don Siegel ("Madigan," "Flaming Star").

At the Union, the weekend movie is John Frankenheimer's "Seven Days in May," and the Englert's new attraction is Don Siegel's "Coogan's Bluff." "Seven Days in May" is quite instructive. Although a bad film, it still shares many of the characteristics of the brilliant "Manchurian Candidate." Both are political fantasies about conspiracy, both have an at times documentary feel for the texture of public political life in this country. The difference between the films is the difference between the screenplays for George Axelrod in the case of the latter and Rod Serling in the former. Serling's pieties give the film a jumpishness quite unlike the fantastic inventiveness and wit of "The Manchurian Candidate."

To put such emphasis on the script is not a contradiction of the preeminence of the director. It is rather to assert that the art of the director involves the manner in which he either uses or circumvents the script. It is the literary approach to film indeed which can only hear the words spoken from the screen and fail to see what the director has done with them. Films are often meditations on their scripts as much as works made from them.

As for "Coogan's Bluff," due to this newspaper's schedule cannot review it in any length until Tuesday, so let me really play "the Directors Game" and recommend it sight unseen. I will be I am sure a film of a least occasional brilliance, and in these days in Iowa City that cannot afford to be passed up.

— Allan Rostoke

You've seen CARE photos of hungry children. Think What happens after the hungry are fed? Whatever it takes to help the children and their parents grow self-sufficient.

Health. Education. Food production. Job training. Better communities. All these are in today's CARE packages.

We can't wrap the know-how CARE gives to each project. Or the operating cost support from local governments. Or, most of all, the efforts of the people you help. They match your gifts with their labor, with any materials available, with their hearts and hands and will.

Sirhan Trial Reset for Jan. 7

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trial of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was postponed Thursday until Jan. 7.

Prosecution and defense attorneys approved closed circuit televising of the proceedings into an auxiliary press room.

The trial had been scheduled for Monday. The delay was to permit a new member of the defense team, veteran criminal attorney Grant B. Cooper, to familiarize himself with the case. He just wound up participation in another trial.

Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker, who will preside in the case, announced that he probably would let husbands and wives visit jurors on weekends.

He earlier had said he would sequester — that is, lock up — the jury after each session. The trial is expected to last at least two months after a jury is selected.

The television setup — a concealed camera in court, with receivers in an auxiliary courtroom on another floor — was necessary because of a shortage of seating in the main courtroom. There will be no public television.

Sirhan, a 24-year-old Jordanian, sat quietly through the proceedings. He is accused of shooting Kennedy and wounding five others June 5, just after Kennedy claimed victory in California's presidential primary election.

Asked if he approved appointment of Cooper as one of three defense attorneys, Sirhan replied, "Very much so, sir."

He also said he had no objection to a trial delay or to televising. The prosecution objected to a delay.

"The case has previously been continued to allow for full time for preparation," said a co-prosecutor, Deputy Dist. Atty. John E. Howard. He said the prosecution was "prepared to go to trial at this time."

Arms Detection Unit Urged

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States proposed Thursday establishment of an international network to monitor planned nuclear underground explosions with the aim of improving detection techniques.

William C. Foster, the chief U.S. disarmament negotiator, made the proposal in the General Assembly's main political committee. He called it "the kind of practical effort required to make serious progress in the field of arms controls and disarmament."

Underground nuclear tests are not covered by the limited test ban treaty of 1963, and the United States has insisted that fool proof detection is essential for agreement on an over-all test ban treaty.

While Foster made clear the United States did not regard the problems involved in reaching agreement on a total test ban pact, he said an international study of underground tests could have significant value.

Foster said that in order to meet the desire for advancement in seismic technology the United States was proposing that some underground explosions be conducted to serve as a basis for worldwide seismic investigation.

LONDON (AP) — Pop star Robin Gibb of the Bee Gees Wednesday married the girl he pulled out of a train wreck a year ago. Bride Molly Hullis, 21, met Gibb, 19, two years ago when she was a receptionist. A year ago they were travelling on a train that crashed, killing 49 passengers.

Killing of 3- and 4-Year-Old Charged to Girls, 11 and 13

NEWCASTLE, England (AP) — Two girls, aged 11 and 13, were accused Thursday of murdering two little boys "solely for the pleasure and excitement afforded by killing."

Prosecutor Rudolph Lyons described the case before Justice Sir Ralph Cusack as "possibly without precedent."

Contrary to usual practice in British courts, the names of the accused children and the victims were made public.

Norma Joyce Bell, 13, and Mary Flora Bell, 11 — unrelated but next-door neighbors — pleaded innocent to charges of murdering Brian Edward Howe, 3, and Martin George Brown, 4. The girls, guarded by policemen, sat on bench seats in the court instead of being put in the usual prisoners' cage. Their parents sat behind them.

Cusack, hearing the case with a jury of seven men and five women, told them the trial would probably last several days.

Lyons said of the girls: "They are charged with two murders within the space of just over two months, murders committed by asphyxiation solely for the pleasure and excitement afforded by killing."

Lyons said the two girls were inseparable companions.

He said that Mary, though younger and smaller than Norma, has "possibly the cleverer and more dominant personality, a girl with remarkable knowledge of the world."

The Lyons said Martin was found dead in an abandoned house across the railroad tracks from the homes of the two girls and in an area used by local children as a playground.

The possibility of murder was not considered until the death of the second boy, Lyons said.

A day nursery near the girls' homes had been broken into and notes were found, obviously written by children.

One note read, "We did murder Martin Brown." Another warned, "You had better watch out, there are murders about . . ." A third said, "I murder so I may come back."
