Sirhan Trial Sputters To a Start

Motions by Defense Slow Down 1st Day

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's trial on a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy sputtered through opening-day legalities Tuesday with the defense obtaining a day's delay.

The delay will give Sirhan's lawyers time to write out a request to set aside his plea of innocent and obtain a new list of prospective jurors.

His lawyers were denied a request for two juries, one to decide Sirhan's guilt or innocence, the other to set the penalty if he is convicted.

They also were denied a 30-day delay to prepare the motion on his plea and the jury list.

"It would be silly to deny he did it," one Sirhan attorney, Grant B. Cooper, told newsmen after the hour-and-a-half court session.

The slight, 24-year-old Jordanian, accused in the fatal shooting of the New Yorker last June 5 at the Ambassador Hotel, was led by sheriff's deputies into the eighth-floor courtroom after an elevator ride from his heavily-guarded, 13th-floor cell.

Neatly dressed in a gray suit, white, buttoned-down shirt and blue tie, he waved to his attorneys and sat next to them at the left end of a long counsel table.

At the rear wall directly behind him, his stocky mother, Mary, and dapper brother, Munir, 21, occupied two of the courtroom's 75 spectator seats.

The proceedings opened at 9:42 a.m. and ended at 11:15 a.m. Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker ordered a postponement until 2 p.m. today.

The defense proposal for a 30-day delay came when attorney Cooper asked that Sirhan's plea of innocent be set aside "for the sole and only purpose of making a motion to quash the indictment."

He said some jurors might be able to try Sirhan on the question of his guilt or innocence, but might have inflexible opinions about the death penalty.

Lynn D. Compton, chief deputy district attorney, argued that "We have one trial here. The jury is going to be asked to decide his guilt or innocence and punishment. Nothing is indicated here to deviate from standard formula."

"The law is a living, growing thing," Cooper replied. "What the law was yesterday is not necessarily the law today."

Walker denied the separate-juries motion but told Cooper that after Sirhan's guilt or innocence is determined he again could make the motion for a separate jury to determine penalty.

Walker also turned down a Cooper motion that prospective jurors be interrogated with written questions.

The trial began with a closed session at Cooper's request in Walker's chambers, with prosecution and defense counsel and Sirhan present. It lasted 50 minutes, but its purpose was not explained in court. Attorneys for both sides said the judge ordered them not to discuss it.

Sirhan is charged with shooting Kennedy and wounding five bystanders just after the senator proclaimed his victory in California's June 4 Democratic presidential primary.

Bystanders seized Sirhan after shots rang out as Kennedy walked through a crowded kitchen area of the hotel.

College Power to Expel Reviewed by High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—The tidal wave of campus disorders swept up to the Supreme Court Tuesday in the form of a plea that the justices limit the power of college officials to kick out student protesters.

The novel appeal, filed by lawyers for 10 ousted college students, asks the court to require administrators to give fair and impartial hearings to students facing expulsion.

"Affected are the interests of nearly four million college students and over 800 public institutions of higher education," the appeal asserts in trying to whet the justices' appetite to enter a new zone of controversy.

Not since 1934, when compulsory ROTC was upheld, has the court heard a fight between a college student and his institution.

The appeal takes the tack that student demonstrators are exercising their right to free speech. Consequently, the theory runs, a student threatened with punishment for demonstrating is entitled to the parallel right of a trial-type hearing.

The case stems from a massive demonstration at Bluefield State College in Bluefield, W. Va., in October 1967 to protest what the demonstrators claim were racially discriminatory practices.

Some 200 students, most of them blacks, marched back and forth during halftime of the homecoming football game. They carried placards and denounced school officials.

At the end of the game, a federal court in West Virginia found, they followed Wendell G. Hardway, the college president, to the parking lot and rocked and beat on his automobile.

Two days later, the 10 students were told by Hardway in a letter that their "riotous" behavior had menaced him and other spectators and that they were, therefore, immediately suspended. They were told they could appeal to a faculty committee.

The 10, through the American Civil Liberties Union and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, claimed the 14th Amendment's due process clause guarantees students facing expulsion the right to bring a lawyer to the hearing and the right to cross-examine witnesses.

Speaker of House In Maryland Wins Governor's Office

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Marvin Mandel was awarded an easy first-ballot victory by a joint session of the General Assembly Tuesday to become the 56th governor of Maryland.

Within minutes, the former Democratic House speaker moved across the hall to the Senate chamber.

There, flanked by former Democratic Gov. J. Millard Tawes and Republican Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew, whom he succeeds, the oath of office was administered by Chief Judge Hall Hammond of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

The whole process — from Agnew's farewell message at noon until the 48-year-old Mandel was sworn in — took less than four hours.

As the roll call ended on the first ballot, Mandel had 123 votes to 29 for Republican Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, his closest opponent.

But three Republican legislators took advantage of the opportunity to change their votes before the official tally was announced, so the final vote was recorded as 126 for Mandel and 26 for Morton.

Mandel's election followed a farewell address by Agnew, who becomes vice president of the United States Jan. 20. "We have moved Maryland out of the past into the present and even several paces into the future," he said.

Soviets Ready Plan To Cool Middle East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a move to cool the Middle East crisis, the Soviet Union was reported Tuesday night advancing a plan to have the U.N. Security Council post a new peace-keeping force on the Arab-Israeli borders.

The plan envisioning an over-all Arab-Israeli peace settlement was given to the United States, Britain and France late last month.

Diplomatic sources at U.N. headquarters in New York gave these emerging details of the yet unpublished plan:

- Israel would withdraw from all the territory it took from Egypt, Jordan and Syria in the war of June 5-10, 1967.

- Old Jerusalem would be internationalized under U.N. trusteeship. Other territory would revert to original owners through negotiation.

- The withdrawal would be carried out in stages co-ordinated with reciprocal actions by Arab countries.

- For example, Israel would pull back part way in Egypt's Sinai Desert and Egypt would let Israeli merchant ships through the Suez Canal and the Strait of Tiran; Israel then would pull back farther and Egypt would drop its belligerence toward Israel.

- Finally, a U.N. force would be stationed on both sides of all Arab-Israeli frontiers and demilitarized zones would be established on both sides of those frontiers.

The 1967 fighting started after Egypt ordered a U.N. emergency force out of Sinai and then declared a blockade of Israeli shipping through the Strait of Tiran, Israel's outlet to the Red Sea and Indian Ocean.

- The security council would create the force, small countries would contribute troops to it but the big powers would help finance it and stand ready to back it up with military action of their own.

- All Arab refugees made homeless by the 1967 war would be allowed to return to their homes; among the old refugees, those from the 1948 Arab-Israel war, Israel would take back a token number and the rest would be compensated, with the big powers bearing much of the financial burden.

Israel opposes a peace settlement imposed by the Big Four powers. It wants the Arab states to enter into direct negotiations and sign a formal peace treaty.

Israel also has made clear it would put scant trust in any proposals advanced by the Soviets or its one-time friend, France.

In Jerusalem, the Israeli Foreign Ministry bitterly attacked France's new decision to halt all shipments of military equipment to Israel.

"This eliminates France's chances of being one of the factors able to fill a positive task in the Middle East crisis," the ministry said.

The French embargo was welcomed in Arab capitals.

Among other things, it would stop shipments of spare parts for Israel's air force, a force made up mostly of French-built Mystere and Mirage fighter planes.

In Paris, Soviet Ambassador Valerian Zorin said the United States should follow France's example in cutting off arms to Israel. The Soviets have restocked Egypt's and Syria's arms stores since the 1967 hostilities.

On Dec. 27, the United States announced it had closed a $200-million deal to sell 50 Phantom F4 jet fighters to Israel, with deliveries to begin late this year.

A day later, Israeli commandos attacked Beirut International Airport, Beirut, Lebanon, in retaliation for an attack by two Arab terrorists on a commercial Israeli airliner in Athens, Greece.

Repercussions from the Israeli strike continued to shake the half-Moslem, half-Christian Lebanese government.

Lebanese Premier Abdullah Yafi submitted his resignation to President Charles Helou on Tuesday, saying a new government was needed to hold the country together.

In Sidon, a Lebanese city of 80,000 near the Israeli border, a general strike closed down shops, factories, schools and transportation. Supporters of the strike were demanding a tougher stand against Israel.

Until the Dec. 28 Israeli attack on Beirut's airport, Lebanon had remained relatively aloof from the Arab-Israeli struggle.

The Israeli-Lebanese border was reported quiet Tuesday, although both sides have beefed up forces along the frontier.

Anticancer Drug Shows Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government scientists reported Tuesday exciting developments in controlling certain transplant animal cancers with a new drug. They said they plan further experiments with it as a possible new weapon against human cancer.

The National Institutes of Health researchers say they hope to try the new injectable synthetic chemical against such solid, slow-growing tumors in man as lung cancer and breast cancer which have not responded well to other anticancer drugs.

Until now, nonsolid cancerous conditions — such as leukemia — have been virtually the only responders to chemical attack. Surgery and radiation have been the main means of attacking solid tumors, and scientists have long sought drug weapons.

The researchers stressed that while the animal experiments are encouraging — including some at least temporary disappearance of malignancy — there is no guarantee the drug will be useful against cancer in man.

Post Office Invents Quickie Seat Belt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department said Tuesday it has developed a new type of vehicular seatbelt for its drivers some of whom have to leap in and out of cars and trucks as much as 250 times a day.

The seat belt was developed by postal engineers and features a one-handed buckling operation taking only three seconds or less, about half the time required now.

Police Break Up Demonstration On S.F. Campus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police herded some 300 screaming demonstrators off the San Francisco State College campus Tuesday afternoon. The demonstrators — striking union teachers and striking minority students — earlier had come to blows among themselves over tactics.

The 18,000-student college has been in violent turmoil since the Black Students Union called a strike Nov. 6. The blacks were joined by the Third World Liberation Front and Students for a Democratic Society.

The American Federation of Teachers (AFT), claiming to represent more than a quarter of the 1,000 faculty members, went on strike Monday.

The two groups, with sympathizers from the city and from other colleges, made common cause in fairly peaceful picketing Monday and most of Tuesday at the college entrance.

Tuesday afternoon some 300 rushed onto the main quadrangle and began a chanting march.

Richard Draper, an instructor, ordered the demonstrators to keep quiet. Getting an obscene response, he withdrew some 40 teacher pickets. The student demonstration grew.

There were tugging matches and fists flew as teachers tried to retrieve AFT picket signs from students.

About 100 police marched in, quickly split the throng and drove everyone back out to an adjacent street. A few bottles were thrown aimlessly.

The college was closed by violence in mid-November, but was reopened under police guard Dec. 2 by its new acting president, S. I. Hayakawa.

It was closed again prematurely Dec. 13 for the Christmas holidays and reopened Monday.

Gov. Ronald Reagan said it would be kept open, at bayonet point if necessary.

Dr. Spock Back in Court

Final arguments in the appeals of baby doctor Benjamin Spock and three others convicted on antidraft conspiracy charges were presented Tuesday in the First Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston. Shown entering the court are Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student, who is one of those convicted; and Spock and his wife.

An unrealistic ban

A work committee from the Committee on Student Life (CSL), meeting just before vacation, authorized several changes in the Code of Student Life.

One of these changes would allow students 21 and over to consume alcoholic beverages in University approved housing and on campus.

This change must be approved by the entire CSL and by University Pres. Howard Bowen before it would be effective, however, such a change has been long fought for around the campus.

The demand that students neither keep nor consume alcohol in dorm rooms, in approved housing and even in University buildings is unrealistic, as anyone who has spent time in a dormitory can attest to. No alcohol in sorority or fraternity houses or other approved housing is equally a fallacy.

Some University rules are so openly and continually violated that they become jokes. The alcohol ban is a rule of this type. Students, 21 or not, are drinking and will continue to drink in University structures.

In fact, it is a real challenge to find a hiding place for a bottle in a dorm room. This hiding place must be easily accessible but must also be impossible to discover if the dorm room is searched by eagle-eyed advisers.

Actually, not very many dorm advisers care at all. Sure there is a University rule against alcohol, but the quantity of alcohol consumed and the quantity of alcohol available makes it virtually impossible to crack down on specific violators since nearly every resident has had the opportunity to drink in a dorm room and most have taken that opportunity.

As visitation rules become more liberal, alcohol becomes more prevalent. But after all it is better to be drinking in a dorm room than out in a deserted parking lot or back road somewhere.

Of course, liberalizing the University drinking rule will cause some problems. In a situation where, for example, two of three roommates are 21 and the third is under age, of course the underage roommate would have access to alcohol. But he probably would have access to alcohol if he wanted it anyway.

CSL should advocate the work committee's suggestions. The concept of drinking in University structures is neither heathen nor revolutionary.

Lifting the ban on alcohol in University approved housing facilities would simply bring theory in line with practice. — Cheryl Arvidson

Playing in the snow

Anticipating parking problems from the recent four inch snow that covered Iowa City, the University Physical Plant was on its toes Tuesday morning clearing the student parking lots.

The Physical Plant, acting with flawless accuracy, plowed piles of snow in front of, behind and around every car that had been parked in the library lot. Not only did the Physical Plant choose the perfect time for plowing snow (9:30 on Tuesday morning is notorious for its lack of classes) but they also managed to totally complicate the parking lot.

Once the cars were parked, just let the students try to walk out of the lot. Massive mounds of snow blocked every possible exit, and the best way to get out of the lot was through the snow rather than over it.

Of course, the parking lot clearance could have come at some more opportune time — like on Monday afternoon at about 4:30 p.m. — but that would have taken some of the fun away from snow clearance.

And students' convenience should never stand in the way of Physical Plant's enjoyment.

Just imagine

Imagine, if you will, the University ever becoming as involved in student and teacher frustration and dissent as San Francisco State College.

Of course, with all the snow here, it's hard to imagine San Francisco at all. But just for the time being:

Imagine disgruntled faculty members screaming at students and asking them to boycott classes in support of a more liberal approach to education and a more liberal administration.

Imagine Pres. Bowen dismissing classes early for any reason — Homecoming and the Hong Kong flu couldn't even faze the ever-operating schedule of University classes.

Imagine Pres. Bowen setting styles for the campus coeds. The president at San Francisco State, S.I. Hayakawa, can do it with cute little hats. What would Bowen use?

In fact, imagine a campus that is alive and awake and aware. Imagine students and faculty both actually caring about the education being offered, that is, caring enough to try to do more than talk about it.

'It is useless to single out any individual' —

Black athlete's letter to the editor drew a white's anonymous, unfriendly reply

To the editor:

I wrote a letter to The Daily Iowan which was published on Dec. 19. It was a response to an article by The Daily Iowan entitled "The Black Athlete at Iowa." I hesitated in submitting the letter because it dealt directly with a specific situation, that of the black athlete. Few people other than black people, whose situation is the same whether in or out of sports, understood the position of the black athlete.

How did I justify the sometimes harsh opinions I expressed? I was asked what good my letter did me and if anyone had picked on me. I was told how wonderful it would be if we saw one another as men instead of either black or white.

I suddenly realized that it was not necessary for ME to justify my condemnation of the situation of black people in this country. My judgment is just. All that remains is for sentence to be passed and executed.

Black people did not create the situation where it became necessary to deal with men as either black or white. Black people have been in this country for centuries. We did not come voluntarily seeking freedom or wealth. Black men came to this country packed in the holds of slave ships like chained beasts. Untold numbers of us were thrown overboard. Black people have been whipped, castrated, hung and dismembered throughout the history of this country. Black churches have been bombed, black women have been ravaged.

It is useless, in the final analysis, to single out any individual and question him. What we are dealing with is systematic dehumanization of black people. No black man is free or at peace when black babies are starving or black women dying in childbirth from lack of adequate medical facilities.

It is equally useless to say that progress has or is being made. I know I should be free. I will be free. I don't need another law GIVING me MORE freedom passed tomorrow when one was passed yesterday, last week, last year and last century. Can you dig where I'm coming from, black brothers? Any country, any institution or any individual who deprives or is instrumental in depriving black people of their inherent rights must pay his dues immediately. None has the right to deprive any individual the right of opportunity to exercise his rights and abilities.

Some of those who read my previous letter agreed with my conclusions. Some read it and with the usual disapproval called black people, not just me, NIGGERS.

But regardless of your feelings, emotions or opinions, "Don't you ever hit a black person again."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jerry Stevens gave us a copy of the following letter, which he said was sent to him personally in response to his first letter printed in the Dec. 19 issue of The Daily Iowan. The letter was typed on the Union's Iowa House stationery and was, needless to say, unsigned.

Dear Faggot, I.e., fucked up nigger, In my opinion you are the biggest troublemaking bastard I have ever seen. Why don't you take your Afro haircut and go back to Denver. The Iowa track team needs you like (sic) it needs a javelin catcher — in other words (sic) you are one of the few blacks recruited here with "average ability" (and I question that). Keep making trouble and you had better start carrying a gun!!

P.S. If the black athletes went to class and studied instead of expecting a gift, maybe a few of them would graduate from here.

'The pill' and its problems in Iowa City —

Has 'the pill' caused birth rate drop? Probably not, but its use is on the rise

EDITOR'S NOTE: Although the use of "the pill" was legalized for birth control use eight years ago, several questions still remain as to its use, its effectiveness, and its safety. How do these questions affect Iowa City, and in particular the University community? Daily Iowan reporter Mitsuyo Higa went to University Hospitals to find out, and learned about a number of the problems that "the pill" causes hospitals and private physicians. First part of a two-part study.

By MITSUYO HIGA

The advent of "the pill" has been hailed as a possible answer to the population explosion since its use was made legal in 1961. Eight years later questions still remain as to what specific effect "the pill" has brought about in the University community.

It is certain, however, that the introduction of oral medication as a means of contraception has created new problems for physicians, both public and private, and created new dimensions of concern particularly for the University Health Service.

The birth rate of the United States has shown a constant curve downward since the advent of the pill. The number of live births in Iowa City as well as Johnson County decreases each year even though the total population of Iowa City and Johnson County increases.

Statistical data indicate an average decrease of 37 births for each year since 1961, whereas about 2,000 persons are added annually to Iowa City's population (including an annual increase of 1,000 University students).

The implication is that the pill has taken a toll in birth rate reduction. Local physicians, however, are reluctant to attribute this phenomenon solely to the effect of the popular use of the pill.

An official of Student Health said the phenomenon of decreased birth rate and increased total population is a general trend of the entire nation.

Dr. Lowell R. Hughes, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology, said recently that it was extremely hard to determine the effect of the pill alone on the decrease in the number of live births at the local level.

The birth rate in Iowa today is not as low as during the depression years. Dr. Hughes said, in the 1930s the annual birth rate was about 1.5 per cent of the population. Birth rates balanced off in the later part of the 1940s and steadied around 2.4 per cent in the earlier part of the 1950s.

Decline Started In 1957
In 1957, three years before the pill went on the public market, the birth rate of the United States began to decline, according to Dr. Hughes. In 1966, the birth rate of Iowa was about 1.8 per cent and that of Johnson County was 2.3 per cent.

"As far as the younger generation is concerned, Johnson County in general has an expected higher birth rate than neighboring counties because of age differences in the composition of its population," Dr. Hughes explained.

According to the 1960 census, about 50.4 per cent of the 53,663 Johnson County population was in the age bracket of 15 to 49 years old, whereas 41 per cent fell in the same age bracket in Clinton County, which had about the same population as Johnson County in 1960.

As to the question of family planning projects, Dr. Hughes said that no federal or state sponsored program was in practice in Iowa, though any physician was allowed to provide counsel and contraceptive prescriptions upon the request of the patient.

The only volunteer organization working on a family planning project is the local chapter of Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Planned Parenthood of Iowa, whose units are in Des Moines, Keokuk, Burlington, Muscatine and Sioux City.

Quite a few people in Iowa are obtaining information concerning contraceptive devices from these units, according to Dr. Hughes.

Planned Parenthood of America is a voluntary organization which carries on a program of family planning, treatment for infertility, and education for marriage and parenthood.

UI Hospital Provides Aid
In conjunction with general hospitals in Waterloo and Cedar Rapids, and Visiting Nurses Associations in Iowa City and Davenport, the staff members of Obstetrics and Gynecology at University Hospitals provide their patients, (most of whom are on welfare programs) with birth control counsel and contraceptive prescriptions upon their request.

In Johnson County, said Dr. Hughes, most people are obtaining prescriptions and materials concerning birth control methods primarily from private physicians.

Private physicians in Iowa City are not eager to discuss this issue. Several flatly declined any comment at all. The extent that private physicians are playing a role of counseling birth control methods in Iowa City remains in the realm of conjecture.

From the available data, it seems that more people prefer the pill to other contraceptive devices. The number of patients who were referred to the University Hospital from all over the state and received counsel regarding birth control methods and ultimately chose other kinds of contraceptive devices is relatively small compared to the number of patients who chose the pill as their contraceptive.

In 1965, 33.5 per cent of 1,272 patients who gave birth at University Hospitals received birth control information and left the hospital with pills and foams, the latter to be used only for the duration of breast-feeding.

In 1967, the number of patients who chose pills over other contraceptive devices increased even further. Of 1,458 patients referred to University Hospitals, 53.4 per cent left with pills and foams, whereas the number of patients who chose other contraceptive methods remained relatively low.

In 1965, only 3.3 per cent of the 1,272 who gave birth at University Hospitals and received contraceptive counsel refused to accept any kind of device. Two years later the number of patients who refused the same offer decreased to 0.4 per cent of the 1,458 patients.

Attitudes Are Changing
As to people's attitudes toward contraceptive devices, Dr. Hughes said that he noticed quite a difference within the last few years. "It used to be up to the physician to provide advice and to prescribe contraceptives," said Dr. Hughes. "Not many patients used to bring this matter up. But shortly after the introduction of the pill, there were obvious changes in people's attitude toward seeking an appropriate use of contraceptive methods," Dr. Hughes said.

"There is more openness and willingness among patients today," said Dr. Hughes, "to obtain information concerning contraceptive devices." "Patients ask us more specific questions, mainly related to the use of the pill, than they did several years ago," Dr. Hughes said.

- Authorized payment of $8,000 to the developers of Westgate Subdivision for extra-wide paving on the subdivision's streets.
- Under normal procedure, subdivision streets are paved by the developer and deeded over to the city. However, when a subdivider paves streets wider than the required width, he is entitled to reimbursement. A new city ordinance will do away with future reimbursements of this type by regulating the width a developer may pave subdivision streets.

Apollo 9 Set For Feb. 28

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency Tuesday officially picked 10 a.m. (Iowa time) Feb. 28 as the "go" date for Apollo 9, the next step toward the hoped-for landing of men on the moon this year.

It will be an earth orbit mission of 10 days with orbits as far out as 312 miles, and as near as 125 miles with the first walk in space from an Apollo spacecraft, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

Party Asks for Demotion Of Top Czech Progressive

PRAGUE (AP) — The Presidium of the Communist party's Central Committee recommended a downgrading Tuesday for Josef Smrkovsky, one of Czechoslovakia's most outspoken progressives.

The question of Smrkovsky's political future has led to threats by some unions that they would strike if Smrkovsky was demoted. Making him deputy chairman would remove him from the big four of party chief Alexander Dubcek, President Ludvik Svoboda and Premier Oldrich Cernik.

Public fears about the popular Smrkovsky's possible ouster mushroomed last month into a broader drive for continuation of reform policies the Soviet tanks were sent in to crush last August.

Professor Resigns Position On Student Conduct Group

William F. Ames, professor of mechanics and hydraulics, has resigned from the Committee on Student Conduct (CSC), it was announced at a Faculty Council meeting Tuesday.

Ames' term was due to expire in 1970. Ames was a member of a subcommittee of seven CSC members selected to participate in the upcoming hearings.

with the federal government. Wahlke said the committee had voted to create the post of an ombudsman to deal with grievances that might arise among members of the University community.

Ames told The Daily Iowan Tuesday that he submitted the resignation, which is effective immediately, for personal reasons. He did not say whether the resignation had anything to do with the upcoming trials of three University students and a University organization for alleged violations of the Code of Student Life.

The council also tabled discussion of a complaint from an unidentified faculty member regarding the improper use of campus mails. The member had written the council objecting to the use of the campus mail system for the distribution of NUC's publication, Broadside.

Iowan Wins Residency Fight

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — University of South Dakota law student Maynard Mohn, a native Iowan, has won his fight with the Board of Regents to be classified as a South Dakota resident.

Mohn will be listed as a resident student retroactive to September 1968, the regents said Tuesday.

The action reduces Mohn's semester tuition fee from $30 to $11 a credit hour.

The regent's action does not necessarily mean that other students from other states will be eligible to be classified as South Dakota residents, said Richard Gibb, state commissioner of higher education.

Mohn produced detailed information to back up his contention and it is doubtful other students could qualify, Gibb said.

Mohn last summer filed a suit in U.S. District Court contending the regents had violated his constitutional rights in refusing to reclassify him as a resident.

The case was dismissed in August.

The regents refused to grant Mohn a hearing in August, contending he didn't go through the proper channels.

However, the regents later granted him a hearing and said they changed their decision after receiving additional information from Mohn.

Self-Defense Lessons Given In Coralville House of Karate

By JOANNE WALTON

You say you received a bottle of after-shave lotion for Christmas that has such an effect on women you don't feel safe on the streets anymore? You didn't receive any after-shave for Christmas, but you still don't feel safe on the streets?

For a price, the House of Karate will help you.

The House of Karate is really a trailer. If you're talking karate, this trailer is a "dojo," or place for learning the art of weapon-less self-defense. This particular "dojo" is located on the Coralville Strip, behind Henry's Drive-In.

Karate is an Oriental unique form of defense in which body contact is kept at a minimum. Unlike judo, jujitsu or sumo wrestling, which all depend on diverting the attacker's own strength so that it works against him, karate consists of a series of short, powerful and well-directed blows. During practice, the punches and kicks are pulled before they hit, in order to prevent injury.

The form of karate taught at the Coralville "dojo" is Tae Kwan Do, the Korean style that is most popular in the United States. It is taught by Choong Sun Choi, a native of Seoul, Korea, and holder of a fourth degree black belt in Tae Kwan Do.

Beginners in karate wear a white belt. As they master karate techniques, they progress to yellow, green, blue and black belts. In addition, there are eight degrees of black belt proficiency.

K. S. Shin, U.S. director of the Kyokushin Kaikan Power in the World, was a special guest of the House of Karate Tuesday. The Kyokushin Kaikan is an international federation based in Tokyo which receives the test score — and a $10 fee for processing the score — when a student of the House of Karate finishes a 90-day course.

It was a Kyokushin Kaikan director who taught karate to Sean Connery for his movie role as James Bond.

Royce McCray, who with his brother Warren, sponsors and manages the House of Karate in Coralville, says the sport is not dangerous and does not require a physical examination before being undertaken.

Agnew Predicts His Image As 'Neanderthal' Will Fade

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew predicts that after a year in office it will be difficult for people to think of him as "the Neanderthal man."

He said the thought of suddenly becoming president doesn't scare him.

"I fully feel," Agnew said, "that by the time a year has gone by and I'll have been functioning in this expanded vice president's role that's been given me, and particularly in regard to intergovernmental relationships with the cities, that what I do and what I stand for is going to be so obvious that it's going to be very difficult for the people who are attempting to cast me in the role of the Neanderthal man to continue to think that way."

The vice president-elect said, however, that he was so "depressed" by criticism at one point during the campaign that he wondered if he could get up the next day and go through it. He said he decided he had to "develop a little skin," and had no trouble after that.

Agnew made his remarks in an interview televised Tuesday night on the CBS program "60 Minutes." It had been recorded a week ago in Washington.

Agnew was asked if he might feel at all like former President Truman felt at the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, that "the sun and moon and stars had fallen on him."

"I'd like to say — I'd like to appear supermodest and say yes, but I can't in good conscience," Agnew answered. "The biggest fright I ever had in government," he continued, "was the first office I went to, since then it's been on a more serious nature and expanded basis, additional responsibilities but the name of the game in government is basically the same." "So you feel —" he was asked. "I'm equipped to handle this job," Agnew interrupted.

Agnew conceded that he contributed little to recent foreign policy discussions with President-elect Nixon and other top persons. He also admitted he had been hurt badly during the presidential campaign by what he said.

Recently, the top figures in the incoming administration gathered in Key Biscayne, Fla., to discuss foreign policy. Agnew, among them, was asked about it.

"I don't think I made too much of a contribution, I'm no expert on foreign policy, I've read a lot recently on it," he answered. "I was there to learn and I learned quite a bit," he added.

Aside from the White House, Where Will Nixon Call Home?

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon has not yet decided where he will cast his ballot in the next election — whether New York, Florida or California will be his voting residence after he enters the White House.

Ronald L. Ziegler, his press assistant, said there is a fourth possibility, too, that Nixon might break with tradition and make Washington, D.C. his legal residence.

"It hasn't been decided yet," Ziegler said, and probably won't be until after the inauguration on Jan. 20.

Nixon now is a resident of New York, but is selling his apartment at 810 Fifth Ave. Ziegler said the sale has not yet been completed.

The president-elect is a native of California and plans to make his summer White House on the southern coast of that state.

He is a Florida property owner now, having purchased two adjacent homes on Key Biscayne. Nixon Tuesday named Hendrik S. Houthakker, 44, a Harvard University professor, to be a member of the Council of Economic Advisers.

That completes the lineup of that advisory group headed by Paul W. McCracken, Economist Herbert Stein is the other member.

McCracken also has been the supervisor of 22 task forces which have been studying national problems and issues for Nixon.

The chairmen of those panels are to come to New York Friday and Saturday to meet with the Nixon Cabinet members responsible for the area they have studied.

Houthakker — his name is pronounced How-thek-ker — said he expects to be concentrating on international economics. For the past year, he has been on the staff of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers.

Pueblo Crew to Face Inquiry

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The 82 surviving crewmen of the USS Pueblo will leave the naval hospital as soon as intelligence debriefings and medical examinations are finished, the Navy said Tuesday.

Some of the crewmen will be lodged at the Coronado Naval Amphibious Base, site of the upcoming court of inquiry, and others at the North Island Naval Air Station, a public affairs officer said.

Pueblo men who have homes in the San Diego area, including Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, Pueblo skipper, will be permitted to live with their families, the officer said.

The court of inquiry will convene after intelligence debriefings are finished to examine the Pueblo's seizure last January and the 11-month imprisonment of the crew in North Korea.

Pueblo crewmen will be given a week's leave after the debriefings, the Navy said, but there was no word on when the interrogation by intelligence officers would be concluded.

Led Zeppelin consists of four of the most exciting musicians performing in Britain today. They are Jimmy Page, leader of the group and lead guitarist; John Paul Jones, bassist, pianist, organist, arranger; John Bonham, drums; and Robert Plant, lead vocal and harmonica.
Jimmy Page is a former member of the Yardbirds, the group that spawned the careers of two other great musicians, Eric Clapton and Jeff Beck.
John Paul Jones is considered one of England's finest arrangers as well as an outstanding bass player. He is the arranger of Donovan's "Mellow Yellow", "Sunshine Superman", and "Hurdy Gurdy Man", and of the Rolling Stones' "Shes A Rainbow." Drummer John Bonham created a sensation with his drum solos while accompanying Tim Rose on his British tour in early 1968. Vocalist Robert Plant is considered one of England's outstanding young blues singers, and has been involved in singing blues since he was 15.
The pulsations surrounding Led Zeppelin have intensified ever since the group recorded its first (and as yet unreleased) album, which was produced by Jimmy Page, just a month ago in London. Top English and American rock musicians who have heard the tracks have compared the LP to the best of Cream and Jimi Hendrix, and have called Led Zeppelin the next group to reach the heights achieved by Cream and Hendrix. This Led Zeppelin LP will be released by Atlantic early in January.

Interest Rate Up To Record High

NEW YORK (AP) — Leading banks boosted the prime interest rate to a record 7 per cent Tuesday in another effort to slow the surging economy by making it more expensive to borrow money.

It was the second increase in this rate — the interest charged, by solidly rated borrowers such as corporations — since Dec. 18 when it went up to 6 3/4 per cent from 6 1/4 per cent.

These three rates are the highest that American borrowers have had to pay in a century.

While the prime rate applies directly to big borrowers, the higher interest charges sooner or later will seep down to the consumer who buys and finances a house, an automobile, a refrigerator or furniture, or obtains a personal loan.

An economist said, "The whole family of interest rates is structured upward by an increase in the prime rate."

The new upward move in the prime rate was initiated by First National City Bank of New York — one of the country's three biggest banks.

Other big New York banks quickly followed and were joined by others in Philadelphia, Birmingham, Atlanta, Boston, San Francisco and elsewhere.

The stock market slumped in reaction to the money squeeze. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 10.94 points to 925.72. This average — a widely watched barometer of stock market activity — has skidded steadily since it reached its 1968 high of 985.21 on Dec. 3.

Brokers attribute the stock market decline in part to fear of a credit crunch such as developed in 1966 when the lack of lending money put a crimp in the economy.

It had been thought by many government and private economists that the 10 per cent income tax surcharge imposed last July 1 would cool an overheated economy and stem the persistent inflationary trend.

This hasn't resulted to the extent envisioned.

O'Brien to Leave Position As Democratic 'Mastermind'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien, who helped mastermind the Kennedy-Johnson election victories and Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign last fall, announced Tuesday his resignation as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

O'Brien accepted the chairmanship at Humphrey's insistence last August with the understanding he would serve through the election. However, he has been under considerable pressure from many leading Democrats including the President to stay on.

But he said in a letter dated last Saturday to Humphrey, as his party's titular leader, that both professional and personal reasons compelled him to accept what he termed an outstanding opportunity in business. He said details would be announced later.

Humphrey said in reply that he sincerely regretted O'Brien's decision to resign but that he fully appreciated his reasons for doing so.

O'Brien's resignation is effective Tuesday, when a successor is to be elected at the first meeting of the Democratic National Committee since Humphrey's narrow defeat by President-elect Nixon.

A close associate of Humphrey said the vice president had not made any final decision but that he would recommend a successor to O'Brien. The associate said Humphrey, who is expected back in Washington from Norway tonight, planned to consult with party leaders before making a decision.

Sources reported three leading possibilities for the chairmanship: Sen. Fred R. Harris (D-Okla.), co-chairman of Humphrey's pre-convention campaign; Rep. James G. O'Hara (D-Mich.), chairman of the Democratic Study Group in the House who headed the vice president's campaign in Michigan; and former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, another top Humphrey campaign aide.

The new chairman's primary concern will be working with state and local Democratic leaders to repair party machinery that fell into disuse during the Johnson administration.

The new chairman will also inherit the task of naming two special committees to reform party rules and procedures for a selection of 1972 convention delegates. O'Brien said he would forward recommendations on the makeup of the committees.

LAWRENCE F. O'BRIEN Resigns Chairmanship

Rogers Asks GOP Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — William P. Rogers, designated as secretary of state in the new Cabinet, asked Republican senators Tuesday for patient understanding and support of what he said may be long negotiations to end the Vietnam war.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, reported this after a closed session.

Rogers was quoted by Allott as saying the American effort at the Paris conference could be weakened by any demands for a "hurry up" settlement.

"He said the new Republican administration's aim is to end the war as quickly as possible," Allott told newsmen. "But he indicated this will require some difficult negotiations."

Earlier, after a meet-the-Cabinet breakfast with GOP House members, Rogers had expressed hope that new administration's appointees will not be tagged as "hawks" or "doves."

"Labels of that kind are really destructive," he said.

Rogers made this response when he was asked to comment on reports that he is a hard line anti-Communist and that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, designated by President-elect Nixon to take over as chief Paris negotiator, is a hawk on the Vietnamese war.

Robert H. Finch, designated by Nixon as secretary of health, education and welfare, told reporters after a 2 1/2-hour session of the new Cabinet with senators that he is discussing school integration guidelines with members of Congress.

Finch said he wants their opinion and those of others before he formulates any policy on enforcement of school integration orders. Nixon indicated during the campaign that he doubts the wisdom of withholding funds to enforce integration.

Finch said there is "violent controversy" over the question of busing school children "particularly among the Negroes."

Coed Slain

The body of Jane Britton, 22 Harvard graduate student, and the daughter of James Boyd Britton, administrative vice president of Radcliffe, was found Tuesday in her fourth floor apartment. A medical examiner ruled her death a homicide. He said her head had been battered by a blunt instrument. Police were questioning a male friend of Miss Britton's who found the body. Sydney Officials, Girls Clash On Question of Mini-Bikinis

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—How many inches of cloth constitute decency or indecency in a woman's bikini?

This is the question on Sydney's beaches, among the most eye-filling surf-and-sun arenas in the world.

Local authorities ruled recently that mini-bikinis must measure at least two inches wide on the sides of the hips. A woman wearing any smaller piece of cloth might be charged with indecent exposure or ordered off the beach or both.

The edict delighted beach inspectors who promptly got out their steel measuring tapes and leaped to their jobs with new zeal.

But the Council of Civil Liberties warned, "A beach inspector who measures the costume while the girl is in it can be brought up for technical assault — possibly indecent assault."

Harlan Is Refused Payment by State

DES MOINES (AP)—The city of Harlan suffered another defeat at the hands of state government Tuesday when Attorney General Richard C. Turner said the city could not recover the costs of providing information to Iowa's Board of Regents regarding a new college in western Iowa.

Harlan officials submitted a bill for $3,744 to the regents to cover the costs to topographical surveys, soil samples and options taken when Harlan was being considered a possible site for the school.

However, the regents selected Atlantic as the site and they turned to Turner after receiving the bill from Harlan.

"Apparently only the hope of being selected the prime site for the new state institution and good will sufficed when the community undertook the responsibility," said the attorney general.

"Consequently, there appears to be no basis upon which such items can be made a contractual obligation."

Grad Student Wins Election With Only 1 Vote—His Own

It took only one vote to elect Richard Bartel, G. Kalona, as Sharon Township's first Justice of the Peace in 50 years — and it was his own vote.

"I went in to vote," Bartel said, "and I noticed that there were no justice of the peace candidates on the ballot, so I wrote my name in."

That was the only vote cast for Justice of the Peace in rural Sharon Township, located along Highway 1 about five miles east of Kalona. DeLores Rogers, said that although he had received more votes than anyone else, state law required a candidate to receive at least five per cent of the vote or a minimum of five votes to be declared elected.

Then Bartel consulted his attorney and found out that the law requiring five votes applied only to primary elections.

His attorney said that state law required only a majority of the votes and that one vote was enough to elect him.

However the county auditor was still reluctant to certify his election. She referred the case to Iowa's secretary of state who asked for a ruling from the state attorney general.

His ruling said in effect that one vote was a majority and that Bartel had won the election.

So Bartel filed the $2,000 bond required of justices of the peace and was sworn in for a two-year term.

Bartel, a graduate student in civil engineering, said that he was interested in highway safety and that he hoped to gain experience as a justice of the peace.

He missed a chance to double his vote total, however.

"Why didn't you tell me you wanted to be Justice of the Peace?" his wife asked. "I would have voted for you too."

South Vietnamese Marine Is Suspect in Tri Assassination

SAIGON (AP)—A suspect in the assassination of Education Minister Le Minh Tri has been arrested, informed sources said Tuesday night. They described him as a South Vietnamese marine who was discharged last March when he suffered a combat wound.

A government spokesman asserted again, as he had Monday when Tri was killed by a bomb, that the assassination was the work of Communists. But this time he emphasized it was only his personal view.

However, since the suspect is an ex-marine, new speculations are being made about motives for the bombing of Tri's car on a crowded Saigon street corner.

Many government and military officials said Tri's murder was political, and not necessarily the work of the Viet Cong. For some time Tri has been caught up in political controversy.

The sources said the discharged marine was arrested in military uniform. They added he had in his possession the minister's automobile license number and notes about his daily movements.

Tri, 46, a U.S.-educated physician, died 11 hours after the blast destroyed his car, killed his driver and injured three persons.

Senate President Nguyen Van Huyen declared he was certain that the Communists were to blame, calling the bombing part of a terror operation against leading South Vietnamese personalities.

However his National Assembly counterpart, Speaker Nguyen Ba Luong, said that he believed Tri's murder was political. Tri's educational policies had been sharply criticized in the assembly.

The U.S. Command said 70 tons of munitions and weapons and 112 tons of rice have been found in nine days of sweep operations designed to keep the enemy off balance and prevent a new offensive. Most of the seizures were in the area around Saigon.

An ambush patrol of the U.S. 25th Division caught enemy forces in the darkness early Tuesday near Cu Chi, 19 miles northwest of Saigon, and killed 12, the U.S. Command said.

Just to the north in rubber plantation country, enemy gunners hit a U.S. artillery camp near Dau Tieng with a light rocket and mortar barrage Monday, wounding several soldiers.

The Viet Cong entered an undefended village Monday 36 miles south of Saigon and took away 150 villagers. A government official said they apparently were impressed to dig entrenchments and to carry ammunition.

On the political front, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky denied he was the author of a plan to split the Vietnamese peace talks into three sections to exclude the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Under the reported plan, the United States, South Vietnam and North Vietnam would discuss military questions in Paris. Representatives of South Vietnam and North Vietnam would meet in a neutral ship off Vietnam to discuss relations, and the government and the front would meet in Saigon to discuss political and security plans.

Senate Chiefs Deny Rumor Of Filibuster Rule Change

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders of both parties discounted Tuesday the rumor of there being a chance of changing rules to make it easier to cut off filibusters.

"As far as I'm concerned, we are going to resist any rules changes," Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told newsmen.

Dirksen, the Republican minority leader, said he thought most of his GOP colleagues shared his view that the present rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting to end debate should be retained.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he was in favor of permitting debate to be shut off by a three-fifths majority of senators voting.

He said he believed this change would be adopted if it could be voted on.

However, Mansfield said he agreed with those who contend the Senate is a continuing body with rules carrying over from one Congress to the next. Dirksen said he did too.

If this is the case, a two-thirds majority would be needed to break a filibuster by those opposing a change in the present debate-limitation rule.

Bipartisan advocates of changing the two-thirds rule contend that at the start of a new Congress the Senate can adopt its rules by majority vote, and it is not bound by past rules.

Efforts to make this argument stick have failed in the biennial battles over the filibuster rule that have marked the opening of Congress in recent years.

Senators Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) and Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) leading the assault on the present rule, said they hoped for a ruling from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Senate's presiding officer, that the Senate is not a continuing body.

If Humphrey so rules, however, it would not resolve the dispute since the ruling could be appealed to the full Senate.

Interest Rate Up To Record High

NEW YORK (AP)—Leading banks boosted the prime interest rate to a record 7 per cent Tuesday in another effort to slow the surging economy by making it more expensive to borrow money.

It was the second increase in this rate—the interest charged big, solidly rated borrowers such as corporations—since Dec. 18 when it went up to 6 3/4 per cent from 6 1/2 per cent.

These three rates are the highest that American borrowers have had to pay in a century.

While the prime rate applies directly to big borrowers, the higher interest charges sooner or later will seep down to the consumer who buys and finances a house, an automobile, a refrigerator or furniture, or obtains a personal loan.

An economist said, "The whole family of interest rates is structured upward by an increase in the prime rate."

The new upward move in the prime rate was initiated by First National City Bank of New York—one of the country's three biggest banks.

Other big New York banks quickly followed and were joined by others in Philadelphia, Birmingham, Atlanta, Boston, San Francisco and elsewhere.

The stock market slumped in reaction to the money squeeze. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 10.94 points to 925.72. This average—a widely watched barometer of stock market activity—has skidded steadily since it reached its 1968 high of 985.21 on Dec. 3.

Brokers attribute the stock market decline in part to fear of a credit crunch such as developed in 1966 when the lack of lending money put a crimp in the economy.

It had been thought by many government and private economists that the 10 per cent income tax surcharge imposed last July 1 would cool an overheated economy and stem the persistent inflationary trend.

This hasn't resulted to the extent envisioned.

O'Brien to Leave Position As Democratic 'Mastermind'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lawrence F. O'Brien, who helped mastermind the Kennedy-Johnson election victories and Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign last fall, announced Tuesday his resignation as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

O'Brien accepted the chairmanship last August with the understanding he would serve through the election. However, he has been under considerable pressure from many leading Democrats including the President to stay on.

But he said in a letter dated last Saturday to Humphrey, as his party's titular leader, that both professional and personal reasons compelled him to accept what he termed an outstanding opportunity in business. He said details would be announced later.

Humphrey said in reply that he sincerely regretted O'Brien's decision to resign but that he fully appreciated his reasons for doing so.

O'Brien's resignation is effective Tuesday, when a successor is to be elected at the first meeting of the Democratic National Committee since Humphrey's narrow defeat by President-elect Nixon.

A close associate of Humphrey said the vice president had not made any final decision but that he would recommend a successor to O'Brien. The associate said Humphrey, who is expected back in Washington from Norway tonight, planned to consult with party leaders before making a decision.

Sources reported three leading possibilities for the chairmanship: Sen. Fred R. Harris (D-Okla.), co-chairman of Humphrey's pre-convention campaign; Rep. James G. O'Hara (D-Mich.), chairman of the Democratic Study Group in the House who headed the vice president's campaign in Michigan; and former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, another top Humphrey campaign aide.

The new chairman's primary concern will be working with state and local Democratic leaders to repair party machinery.

ery that fell into disuse during the Johnson administration.

The new chairman will also inherit the task of naming two special committees to reform party rules and procedures for selection of 1972 convention delegates. O'Brien said he would forward recommendations on the makeup of the committees.

Rogers Asks GOP Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—William P. Rogers, designated as secretary of state in the new Cabinet, asked Republican senators Tuesday for patient understanding and support of what he said may be long negotiations to end the Vietnamese war.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, reported this after a closed session.

Rogers was quoted by Allott as saying the American effort at the Paris conference could be weakened by any demands for a "hurry up" settlement.

"He said the new Republican administration's aim is to end the war as quickly as possible," Allott told newsmen. "But he indicated that the administration would not be as quick as possible."

Earlier, after a meet-the-Cabinet breakfast with GOP House members, Rogers had expressed hope that new administration's appointees will not be tagged as "hawks" or "doves."

"Labels of that kind are really destructive," he said.

Rogers made this response when he was asked to comment on reports that he is a hard line anti-Communist and that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, designated by President-elect Nixon to take over as chief Paris negotiator, is a hawk on the Vietnamese war.

Robert H. Finch, designated by Nixon as secretary of health, education and welfare, told reporters after a 2 1/2-hour session of the new Cabinet with senators that he is discussing school integration guidelines with members of Congress.

Finch said he wants their opinion and those of others before he formulates any policy on enforcement of school integration orders. Nixon indicated during the campaign that he doubts the wisdom of withholding funds to enforce integration.

Finch said there is "violent controversy" over the question of busing school children "particularly among the Negroes."

Sydney Officials, Girls Clash On Question of Mini-Bikinis

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — How many inches of cloth constitute decency or indecency in a woman's bikini? This is the question on Sydney's beaches, among the most eye-filling surf-and-sun arenas in the world.

Local authorities ruled recently that mini-bikinis must measure at least two inches wide on the sides of the hips. A woman wearing any smaller

Harlan Is Refused Payment by State

DES MOINES (AP) — The city of Harlan suffered another defeat at the hands of state government Tuesday when Attorney General Richard C. Turner said the city could not recover the costs of providing information to Iowa's Board of Regents regarding a new college in western Iowa.

Harlan officials submitted a bill for $3,744 to the regents to cover the costs to topographical surveys, soil samples and options taken when Harlan was being considered a possible site for the school.

However, the regents selected Atlantic as the site and they turned to Turner after receiving the bill from Harlan.

"Apparently only the hope of being selected the prime site for the new state institution and good will sufficed when the community undertook the responsibility," said the attorney general.

"Consequently, there appears to be no basis upon which such items can be made a contractual obligation."

piece of cloth might be charged with indecent exposure or ordered off the beach or both.

The edict delighted beach inspectors who promptly got out their steel measuring tapes and leaped to their jobs with new zeal.

But the Council of Civil Liberties warned, "A beach inspector who measures the costume while the girl is in it can be brought up for technical assault — possibly indecent assault."

That was the only vote cast for Justice of the Peace in rural Sharon Township, located along Highway 1 about five miles southwest of Iowa City.

The inspectors complained, "How can we do our duty?" It is summer here, and there are sometimes 25,000 girls on Bondi Beach. Many of them are pointing.

"I think it is dreadful," said Marijka Vos, a 20-year-old Sydney model with a 36-24-36 figure. "There is no freedom left in the world."

Marijka, who says she wants to expose as much of herself as possible to the sun, often goes to the beach wearing a minuscule white piece of cloth tied by strings.

"When the inspector comes, I put on a two-inch belt which I carry with me," she said.

Brian Davidson, about fifty, an inspector at Bondi Beach for 29 years, expressed a charitable viewpoint.

"The mother makes the bathing suit and the father drives his daughter to the beach," he said, "so the parents must approve."

"My job is to keep people from drowning. I wouldn't think of throwing one of the girls off the beach. They're too bloody nice."

Grad Student Wins Election With Only 1 Vote—His Own

It took only one vote to elect Richard Bartel, G. Kalona, as Sharon Townships' first Justice of the Peace in 50 years — and it was his own vote.

"I went in to vote," Bartel said, "and I noticed that there were no justice of the peace candidates on the ballot, so I wrote my name in."

Richard Bartel Elected by One Vote

That was the only vote cast for Justice of the Peace in rural Sharon Township, located along Highway 1 about five miles southwest of Iowa City. After the election, Bartel checked with the Johnson County auditor to see whether he had been elected. The auditor, DeLores Rogers, said that although he had received more votes than anyone else, state law required a candidate to receive at least five per cent of the vote or a minimum of five votes to be declared elected.

Then Bartel consulted his attorney and found out that the law requiring five votes applied only to primary elections.

His attorney said that state law required only a majority of the votes and that one vote was enough to elect him.

However the county auditor was still reluctant to certify his election. She referred the case to Iowa's secretary of state who asked for a ruling from the state attorney general.

His ruling said in effect that one vote was a majority and that Bartel had won the election.

So Bartel filed the $2,000 bond required of justices of the peace and was sworn in for a two-year term.

Bartel, a graduate student in civil engineering, said that he was interested in highway safety and that he hoped to gain experience as a justice of the peace.

He missed a chance to double his vote total, however.

"Why didn't you tell me you wanted to be Justice of the Peace?" his wife asked. "I would have voted for you too."

South Vietnamese Marine Is Suspect in Tri Assassination

SAIGON (AP) — A suspect in the assassination of Education Minister Le Minh Tri has been arrested, informed sources said Tuesday night. They described him as a South Vietnamese marine who was discharged last March when he suffered a combat wound.

A government spokesman asserted again, as he had Monday when Tri was killed by a bomb, that the assassination was the work of Communists. But this time he emphasized it was only his personal view.

However, since the suspect is an ex-marine, new speculations are being made about motives for the bombing of Tri's car on a crowded Saigon street corner.

Many government and military officials said Tri's murder was political, and not necessarily the work of the Viet Cong. For some time Tri has been caught up in political controversy.

The sources said the discharged marine was arrested in military uniform. They added he had in his possession the minister's automobile license number and notes about his daily movements.

Tri, 46, a U.S.-educated physician, died 11 hours after the blast destroyed his car, killed his driver and injured three persons.

Senate President Nguyen Van Huynh declared he was certain that the Communists were to blame, calling the bombing part of a terror operation. . . . against leading South Vietnamese personalities.

However his National Assembly counterpart, Speaker Nguyen Ba Luong, said that he believed Tri's murder was political. Tri's educational policies had been sharply criticized in the assembly.

The U.S. Command said 70 tons of munitions and weapons and 112 tons of rice have been found in nine days of sweep operations designed to keep the enemy off balance and prevent a new offensive. Most of the seizures were in the area around Saigon.

An ambush patrol of the U.S. 25th Division caught enemy forces in the darkness early Tuesday near Cu Chi, 19 miles northwest of Saigon, and killed 12, the U.S. Command said.

Just to the north in rubber plantation country, enemy gunners hit a U.S. artillery camp near Dau Tieng with a light rocket and mortar barrage Monday, wounding several soldiers.

The Viet Cong entered an undefended village Monday 36 miles south of Saigon and took away 150 villagers. A government official said they apparently were impressed to dig entrenchments and to carry ammunition.

On the political front, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky denied he was the author of a plan to split the Vietnamese peace talks into three sections to exclude the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Under the reported plan, the United States, South Vietnam and North Vietnam would discuss military questions in Paris. Representatives of South Vietnam and North Vietnam would meet in a neutral ship off Vietnam to discuss relations, and the government and the front would meet in Saigon to discuss political and security plans.

Senate Chiefs Deny Rumor Of Filibuster Rule Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders of both parties discounted Tuesday the rumor of there being a chance of changing rules to make it easier to cut off filibusters.

"As far as I'm concerned, we are going to resist any rules changes," Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told newsmen.

Dirksen, the Republican minority leader, said he thought most of his GOP colleagues shared his view that the present rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting to end debate should be retained.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said he was in favor of permitting debate to be shut off by a three-fifths majority of senators voting.

If Humphrey so rules, however, it would not resolve the dispute since the ruling could be appealed to the full Senate.

posing a change in the present debate-limitation rule.

Bipartisan advocates of changing the two-thirds rule contend that at the start of a new Congress the Senate can adopt its rules by majority vote, and it is not bound by past rules.

Efforts to make this argument stick have failed in the biennial battles over the filibuster rule that have marked the opening of Congress in recent years.

Senators Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) and Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) leading the assault on the present rule, said they hoped for a ruling from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Senate's presiding officer, that the Senate is not a continuing body.

If Humphrey so rules, however, it would not resolve the dispute since the ruling could be appealed to the full Senate.
