Ky Says Saigon Willing to Bend Little Chance for Breaking Block Indicated in His Stand, However

PARIS (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky declared Monday night South Vietnam is willing to make "more concessions" to speed the peace talks here, but his stand on the other side's basic demand indicated little chance for breaking the deadlock.

After an hour-long meeting with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, chief of the U.S. delegation, Ky told an impromptu news conference at his official residence that he is willing to meet privately with the North Vietnamese — as distinct from the National Liberation Front.

But, he said, he is unwilling to meet the demand of Hanoi and the NLF that political and military problems be considered indivisible at the conference discussions. Hanoi and the front give equal priority to political and military questions, but insist they be discussed simultaneously.

"We can discuss no political problems before a ceasefire, or the end of the fighting," Ky said. He insisted that military problems such as mutual withdrawal of foreign troops be discussed first and then, "once the war of aggression has ended, we will have to discuss many other problems."

This is the reverse of what his antagonists demand, and if neither gives ground, the talks will appear to have reached a dead end, at least for the time being.

Ky was asked about an interview with Tran Buu Kiem published by the leftist publication Le Nouvel Observateur in which the NLF chief of delegation hinted he opposed re-establishment of the demilitarized zone for fear that the NLF would be crushed without a full measure of Hanoi's aid.

"I am glad to hear that," Ky replied.

"For months and years they always claimed they were the real majority in South Vietnam and we were the puppets; that without the Americans we were nothing. Now we challenge them to permit foreign forces to withdraw on both sides and let us meet face to face. If what they claimed is true, what are they afraid of?"

YAF up in Arms Over Symposium On Student Power

The campus Horbert Hoover Chapter of Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) is trying to organize a picket line to protest against the speakers at a Student Power Symposium to be held on campus Wednesday and Thursday.

According to Iowa YAF Pres. Cletus Uhlenhopp, A4, Aplington, a member of the campus chapter, the local group is "greatly upset" that student funds and tax money are being appropriated to sponsor the speakers: Tom Hayden, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society; Harry Edwards, the organizer of the unsuccessful black boycott of the Olympics; and De Vere Pentony, the dean of social sciences at San Francisco State College.

The symposium is co-sponsored by Union Board and the University Lecture Series.

A press release prepared by the group and signed by Uhlenhopp; Sam Kramer, A4, Des Moines, the executive secretary of Iowa YAF; and Michael Hetherington, A3, Davenport, president of the campus club, states the group's objections.

"We are amazed that much needed educational funds are utilized to sponsor revolutionaries," the release states. The group objects most to Hayden's appearance, according to the press release.

Uhlenhopp said Monday night that the group does not object to the amount of money that Hayden is being paid, but the fact that the money is being appropriated without students' consent.

Uhlenhopp said that if the speakers were being brought to campus by a private organization, YAF would have no objections.

Hayden usually receives $1,500 for each lecture, Uhlenhopp said. He added that he had tried to contact the chairman of the University Lecture Series to check the amount Hayden was to be paid here, but had not been able to contact him.

Dave Stock, L1, Odebolt, chairman of the Union Board Symposium Committee, told The Daily Iowan Monday night that the cost of the entire symposium would be just about $1,500, however, Stock said that Hayden would be coming to the University for practically nothing, since the $1,500 figure covers all traveling expenses for the three symposium participants, publicity, use of University facilities and other expenses.

The group has sent registered letters to each member of the State Board of Regents and 25 state legislators of both parties. Uhlenhopp said that many of the 25 legislators who had been contacted would be on campus during the symposium.

The registered letters contain a statement of the group's objections to the speakers, an explanation of what the symposium is going to be and a dossier on each speaker.

The local chapter has contacted the four other YAF chapters in the state about the planned symposium, according to Uhlenhopp. He said that all four had expressed interest in a state-wide publicity campaign against the "misuse of funds." State wide membership of YAF is about 200, he said.

The YAF press release says that the group objects to Hayden and Edwards because both have "instigated riots and advocate or condone violence if it will serve their ends."

Hawkeye Area Civil Liberties Union Elects 10 Members to Its 1st Board

The new Hawkeye Area Civil Liberties Union elected its first board Monday night. The Iowa City-based organization, which covers a nine-county area, is a new chapter of the Iowa Civil Liberties Union. It adopted its constitution and by-laws in October.

Elected to two-year terms were John M. Ely Jr., Cedar Rapids, former state senator from Linn County and now a buyer for Quaker Oats Company in Cedar Rapids; David H. Vernon, dean of the College of Law; William E. Connor, professor of medicine; C. William Heywood, professor of history at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon; and Mrs. Burns Weston, Iowa City, an instructor at Area 10 Community College.

Elected to one-year terms were Mrs. Oluf Davidsen, Iowa City; R. Fred Dumbaugh, a Cedar Rapids lawyer; Mary Kauppi, G. Iowa City; Michael J. Brody, associate professor of pharmacology; and Lane Davis, professor of political science.

The 10 board members were elected at a meeting at the home of Samuel C. Paterson, professor of political science, 431 Summit St. They were elected from a slate of 16 members of the Iowa Civil Liberties Union chosen by a nominating committee and by petition.

The board will hold its first meeting at 1 p.m., Feb. 15, at the People's Unitarian Church, 600 3rd Ave. SE in Cedar Rapids. An open luncheon will be held at noon preceding the meeting at Bishop's Buffet in Cedar Rapids.

The Way It Was at Registration

It was another one of those days at Registration Monday — one of those days of indecision, doubt and frustration. Here, Patricia Hayek, A3, Milwaukee, checks over her computer cards as she completes the registration process and prepares to begin the year's second semester. ## Boris Karloff, Monster Par Excellence, Dies at 81 After Long Career as Actor

LONDON (AP) — Boris Karloff loved children. Nothing pleased him more than letters he received from youngsters expressing compassion for him as king of the screen monsters.

A gentle, sensitive English actor known to millions around the world primarily for his movie role as Frankenstein's monster, Karloff once remarked that such fan mail was a compliment.

"I've been working for years on horror films and I know that children love them," he said. "It really isn't horror to them, you know. It's exciting adventure. . . . Too many similar pictures today simply rely on shock. That's bad."

Ailing for three months, Karloff died peacefully of a respiratory ailment in a hospital near London Sunday. He was 81.

A veteran of more 130 movies, he was actively engaged in filmmaking until last year.

"He always said he wanted to work until the end and this is what he did," said his widow, Evelyn Helmore Karloff.

A one-time Hollywood story editor, she said Karloff caught a cold in New York on his way home from working in California last November.

He entered the King Edward VII hospital at Midhurst, Sussex, and had been under treatment there since.

Karloff's real name was William Henry Pratt. He was born in the London suburb of Dulwich Nov. 23, 1887. His father, James Pratt, was an official in the British Indian Civil Service.

The youth was given an expensive education in preparation for the British consular service, but cut loose from his family at the age of 21 and emigrated to Canada.

After working on a farm and as a truck driver he joined a theatrical company and adopted the name of his maternal grandfather — Boris Karloff.

He became a movie monster by chance. He was in Hollywood in 1931 playing a small part in a film when a producer asked him if he'd like to play a monster. "A monster indeed!" said Karloff. "But I didn't look a gift horse in the mouth. I needed to eat and I took it."

Karloff played the monster in three Frankenstein films in the 1930s — "Frankenstein," "Bride of Frankenstein," and "The House of Frankenstein."

Karloff, despite the guise he presented, was so fond of children that at one point in his long career he switched from horror films to telling bedtime stories to children in a New York radio show. He drew rave notices when he appeared in a revival of Peter Pan on Broadway in 1956.

Although long a resident of Hollywood, Karloff maintained his British citizenship and returned to Britain to live in 1959.

In recent years he lived with his wife in an apartment in London's Chelsea district and in a cottage near London.

Irish Judge Stymies British Attempt To Get Back Man Who Helped Spy

DUBLIN (AP) — An Irish judge refused Monday to hand over to British justice the Irishman who helped Communist master spy George Blake escape from a London prison.

Judge Kevin O'Keefe held that the crime committed by Sean Bourke was a political offense.

Bourke wanted to embarrass the British government "and no doubt he did," O'Keefe said.

Bourke, 34, walked from the Dublin High Court surrounded by well-wishers and declared he was going to have a glass of stout.

"A great day for Irish independence," he said. He was freed on bail in case the government appeals to the Supreme Court. It has 10 days to do so.

Bourke became something of a local hero after he returned from Moscow Oct. 22 and boasted that he had helped Blake escape from London's Wormwood Scrubs Prison two years earlier. Blake, now in Moscow, was serving 42 years for spying, one of the longest prison terms in modern British history.

Bourke had first met him while serving seven years in Wormwood Scrubs for mailing a bomb to a British policeman.

British authorities asked the Irish government to extradite Bourke for aiding Blake's escape. After a hearing lasting nearly two weeks, O'Keefe refused to grant the extradition order.

Under Irish Law, no one can be extradited to stand trial for a political offense. O'Keefe, conceding that the legal definition of political offenses was hazy, said Bourke could go free because helping Blake escape was "an offense connected with a political offense."

Bourke argued that he was not a Communist and had helped Blake escape only because "he was languishing in prison with 42 years facing him and he was just another human being."

The judge accepted this argument as he said Bourke was not trying to aid the Soviet Union — even though this made it more difficult to establish a political motive that would save him from extradition.

Antiblack Racism Decried by Griffin In Lecture Here

Antiblack racism is so much a part of white Americans that it affects their senses of sight and hearing, author John Howard Griffin told a University audience Monday night.

Griffin, a white man who once had his skin darkened and travelled the South as a black man, described his experiences in the book "Black Like Me."

He said Monday he has since heard many expressions of disbelief that he could pass for black because his eyes are light and "he didn't know how to speak Negro."

He said the many who ask those questions overlook the fact that the country is full of blacks with light eyes and whose speech sounds nothing like that of Uncle Remus.

Griffin concluded that human senses accommodate themselves to prejudice of groups instead of perception of the qualities of individuals.

Griffin's appearance was sponsored by the Center for Labor and Management.

Israeli Air Raids Stir Verbal Flack Iraq, Jordan Both Claim 2 Kills; Tel Aviv Denies Losing Any Jets

BEIRUT (AP) — Israeli planes went into action over Jordan Monday touching off rival Iraqi and Jordanian claims that the forces of each shot down two aircraft.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv denied that any planes were lost. "Two jets went into action today and two returned," he said.

What actually happened was clouded in the claims and denials from both sides.

A military spokesman in Baghdad said 14 Israeli jets struck at Iraqi forces of the Saladin Brigade in Jordan and said Iraqi groundfire brought down two planes aflame in Israeli-occupied Golan Heights. Baghdad radio said one Iraqi soldier was wounded slightly in the alleged attack.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv denied the Iraqi charge altogether.

About 20,000 Iraqi troops have been stationed in Jordan since the June 1967 war.

A Jordanian spokesman in Amman said three Israeli jets had circled over Jordanian positions in the Irbid district. He said groundfire downed one near Tiberias and the other on the Golan plateau.

At this point, Tel Aviv said only two jets had struck across the Jordan River and both had returned to the base.

The Israelis said their planes were sent over Jordan shortly after an army patrol was fired on near Neve Ur, a border settlement nine miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

For about 15 minutes, the planes strafed the Jordanian desert village of Mansiyya from which the army said the Israeli patrol was fired upon.

Jordan charged that several fields in the area were set ablaze by napalm.

It marked the first time that Israel had reported a jet attack on Jordan since Jan. 16.

There were flareups elsewhere. The Israeli settlement of Zar'it, 12 miles east of the Mediterranean and a few hundred yards from the border of Lebanon, came under Lebanese fire briefly. An Israeli spokesman said the fire was returned.

Plane Crew Talks Youth with Knife Out of Hijacking

(See Related Story Page 8)

MIAMI (AP) — A knife-wielding young man was talked out of forcing a National Airliner to Cuba Monday, several hours after an Eastern Air Lines jet with 93 people aboard was hijacked to the Caribbean island.

Airline officials said Miami police met National Flight 11 from New York and arrested a man Dade County sheriff's deputies identified as Michael Peadar of Cold Springs, N. Y., and his unidentified girl friend.

The pair was turned over to the FBI who refused comment on all queries.

Deputies said the youth, who they said told them he was a student at Dutchess Community College at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., had a knife and aerosol can of mosquito repellent.

Deputy Butch Sumblin quoted the pilot of the National plane, Capt. Harry Davis, as saying he "doubted the boy had the nerve" to carry out the hijacking.

National officials said the youth had forced his way into the cockpit of the plane, which left New York at 12:37 p.m., when he was talked out of his plan. They said he was not armed when he was met by deputies at the airport.

It's Nixon's turn

(EDITOR'S NOTE - The following editorial was written by Edmund A. Gullion, a former United States Ambassador and currently dean of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, Medford, Mass.)

In the old days the warp and woof of diplomacy were the exchanges between the professionals: what Ambassador X told Foreign Minister Y, all reported under the seal of discretion. This was diplomacy, and if the public penetrated the mysteries the temple was profaned.

That those days are gone was dramatized by a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee in a recent hearing concerned with what is called "public diplomacy." The subcommittee was interested in ways in which countries speak to each other and the world through many instruments, public and private, and with many voices.

Recently Yugoslavia appealed to world opinion when it feared the Soviet Union intended to make it another Czechoslovakia. The Israelis and the Arabs have warred even more with words than with arms to justify their positions. And we all witnessed the impact of protests and political campaigning at home on events in Vietnam.

Journalists, businessmen with interests abroad, employes of such varied overseas operations as the Peace Corps and the Navy, tourists: all have as much influence as diplomats on what others think and do about us and what we think and do about them.

Some questionable conclusions have been drawn from these facts. One is that it is crucial that other peoples and governments like us. A second, that the proliferating growth of communications and foreign travel leads to better understanding.

As to the first, we should remember the essentially transitory nature of many opinions expressed about the United States. Foreign reactions to such excesses as crime in the streets certainly create problems, but hark back to European attitudes about the Sacco-Vanzetti case or the American folly in trying to legislate prohibition. These instances of mass distaste for American phenomena now are something for the history books. They have been succeeded by other cases and other periods in which American prestige stood high. It is, let us conclude, more important that others respect us, and our intentions, than that they like us.

As to the second, it is just not true that more communication must lead to more understanding. In fact, the surging current of broadcast words and pictures and newsprint occasionally staggers the mind, wearies the attention and escapes the span of comprehension.

And as people get more and more crowded on this shrinking planet, the frenzied growth in communications seems as likely to fan tension as it is to create harmony. Certainly, the wave of riots which has raced around the world owes something to the infection of communications.

Since we do not seem to have understood that communications can boomerang as well as benefit, perhaps we should do more studying of them. In the educational world there should be more centers where policymakers, journalists, diplomats and businessmen can study public diplomacy.

Whatever we as a people are able to do about these situations much will depend on our new president. The President is a great many things. He is the most powerful man in the world, and he is also the leading practitioner of public diplomacy. Each president, in his way, modernizes the presidency. As Richard Nixon takes his turn we will do well to consider the impact of communications and upon one another and to fuse them in achieving the objectives of American foreign policy.

Thanks, Mr. Zima

Second semester signifies new courses to study, new paths of knowledge to plow through, new student leaders, and, this semester, the selection of a new president for the University.

We at The Daily Iowan will also have new experience during this semester. On May 15 a new staff will take over. But before the new staff takes over, The Daily Iowan will have a new publisher.

William Zima, our publisher, has resigned and taken a full-time teaching position in the School of Journalism. He will be replaced by John Zug, a former city editor of the Des Moines Register.

We wish to thank Zima for his tireless effort to understand us, offer us constructive advice when we seemed not to want it, and back us up when we needed his help. Zima has seen us through both the best and worst of times, and we appreciate it.

Kaleidoscope

N. Bhaskara Rao

Evidently, yet another round of controversy over the Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) system - a program supposedly already under way - seems to be in the offing in this country.

Reportedly, Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) is going to take issue with the Nixon Administration on three aspects of the ABM system building program - cost, reliability, and safety involved in building these thermonuclear weapons.

The proposed program, it was reported once again last week, is aimed at placing anti-ballistic missiles (fitted with nuclear warheads) around 20 American cities.

Whether built by the Soviet Union or the United States, three aspects of thermonuclear weapons make them nuclear war a peril to the very existence of humanity. These are: (1) the enormous destructive power of a thermonuclear explosion; (2) the relative cheapness of nuclear rocket weapons; and (3) the practical impossibility of effective defense against a massive nuclear rocket attack.

Once the stage of research and development is passed, mass production of these missiles is not at all difficult. The technology, tactics and counter-tactics of attack have now far surpassed the technology of defense, in spite of the development of highly maneuverable anti-missile missiles with nuclear warheads and so forth.

Yet another important aspect, more evident in the case of these thermonuclear weapons, is that every time one country adds more weapons - offensive or defensive - the other countries do the same thing, and vice-versa. This is the so-called "action-reaction phenomenon." It keeps going on, fueling the arms race.

To discourage any further buildup of thermonuclear weapons, noted Soviet scientist Dr. Andrei D. Sakhatov (he signed petitions on behalf of dissident Soviet writers recently) suggested last year a U.S.-Soviet coalition and reappraisal of their respective policies toward each other.

He cautioned the world that "the Soviet Union will poison the United States with its wastes and vice versa" by embarking on mass production of missiles. Perhaps it is time for the leaders of both the United States and the Soviet Union to seriously consider Dr. Sakhatov's plea for a new cooperative approach to international affairs.

Mutual limitation of both intercontinental ballistic missiles and anti-ballistic missiles is what is urgently needed on the part of the two major world powers to assure and show the way towards peace to the rest of the world.

Unfortunately, so far no discussion of any sort has taken place between the two big powers on that subject. The issue should be given the highest priority in any likely future summit meeting between Moscow and the new administration in Washington.

UI Hillel director defends Israel's attack on Beirut

To the editor:
As the world pours out its wrath about retaliation; as the United Nations is tied up in discussion about the legality of an attack upon Beirut; as men of conscience begin to view the terrorists, whose sworn purpose is to push Israel into the sea; as romantic heroes; as a world which stood by as six million Jews were marched off to their deaths, watches again and again commits that grave error of valuing law more than lives, planes more than people, terrorists more than men fighting for survival; as all of this goes on in the higher offices of national and international politics, we are brought face to face with reality.

Once again overt Anti-Semitism and genocide are reigning supreme. Nine Jews viciously murdered ostensibly for espionage; five other non-Jews also spies; 50,000 onlookers cheer as these murders take place. And the reaction from that world: "Bad," "Wrong," "Unfortunate," but of course it is internal - internal politics of a sovereign nation. And there is precedent for this. We didn't interfere with the internal politics of the Nazis. Our only reason for involvement was Germany's imperialism. But the destruction of Jews - their gassing and burning - that is an internal problem. And besides which, it is only 14 men. Can we allow ourselves to get involved for only 14 men. And when tomorrow it is 65, still it is far from what it was in Germany and occupied Europe.

Israel is warned not to retaliate! France continues its arms shipments to Iraq; no embargo, no criticism. Iraq maintains sizable troops in Jordan on the Israeli border; no complaints, no criticism, no embargo. And the world declares its concern about the Middle East. A potential powder keg! Tension mounting! It has to be watched! The Church itself is worried. Maybe the Arabs are right?

The strange case of James Earl Ray: a trip to Toronto—and 2 new aliases

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

PART NINE
The shot that mortally wounded the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was fired at 6:01 p.m., April 4, 1968, so far as the most careful checking can determine.

Within minutes, police combed the immediate area, going toward probable vantage points, especially toward a roominghouse less than 100 yards away. Witnesses thought the shot came from there, and two occupants of the roominghouse soon told of hearing the sound of a rifle shot coming from the hallway bathroom. The man they said had apparently emerged from the bathroom - which had a window affording a direct line of fire to the motel balcony where Dr. King stood - went down the hall and out of the building, carrying some sort of package.

That was the last anyone remembers seeing him in the vicinity of 422½ S. Main St., Memphis. Where did he go? How did he manage to vanish so quickly and completely?

Investigators, once they found the abandoned white Mustang in Atlanta, were able to go back bit by bit, finding who had owned it, who bought it, where it had been serviced, and so on. But now the chore was to discover what it could tell about where its driver had gone. How did it get to Atlanta? Could anyone safely say it was abandoned by the man who was to become known as Eric Starvo Galt-Harvey Lowmyer-James Earl Ray?

The owner of the Atlanta roominghouse could not say whether "Galt" had returned to the room anytime before 10:30 a.m. Friday, April 5. That was when he came in to pull the linens and found a note regarding the TV set.

Had anyone in flight wanted to head to Canada from Atlanta, he would have had a choice of three Greyhound buses to Toronto, among other points. It is a scheduled 35 hours, and by taking the 10:30 p.m. bus, a traveler would arrive in Toronto at 9:30 a.m., April 7.

Stranger in Toronto
In the Huie-Ray account, Ray reportedly reaches Canada on April 6.

It is known that on April 8, 1968, James Earl Ray certainly was embarked on his final Canadian odyssey.

It was on this day that a man wearing dark-rimmed glasses, a burgundy sports jacket and tan raincoat came to 102 Ossington Ave., in a working class section of Toronto largely inhabited by Italians, Hungarians, Poles, Lithuanians and Chinese.

Mrs. Leda Szpakowsky, the landlady, showed him a room on the second floor. It had a large bay window overlooking the street, a double bed, TV with rabbit ears antenna, three wood chairs, a chest of drawers, a food cabinet, a dinette table, two color depictions of Jesus Christ, and a wall decoration saying "Home Sweet Home."

The man said he was a real estate salesman. He paid the rent of $10 in advance, left and returned in the early evening with a small overnight bag.

His name?

"Paul Bridgman," said the man. He was a quiet, mannerly lodger, said Mrs. Szpakowsky. He would go out a little before 9 a.m., return before noon, leave in the early afternoon and return after dinner time.

His movements during these hours and days are not clear. One man thought he may have been the person who came to the Toronto Amateur Athletic Club, which is across the street from the roominghouse at 102 Ossington. The club man said such a man had inquired about a steam bath and shower but left when the telephone rang and he went to answer it.

Aliases From Library?

He may have been in the Public Library on College Street, looking through bound volumes of back-dated newspapers, such as the Toronto Telegram of Nov. 11, 1932, and the Toronto Daily Star of Oct. 8, 1932. The Toronto Telegram of that date carries the birth announcement of one Paul Edward Bridgman, who now is a consultant in the Toronto School System. The Daily Star of that date carries the birth announcement of Ramon George Sneyd, a constable in the Toronto Police Department.

When and where did he pick up the name "Paul Bridgman"? If somehow he had gotten to Toronto early Friday, April 5, 1968, presumably he could have found it in the library newspapers that Friday or on Saturday. The library is closed on Sunday. If he had not arrived until Monday, April 8, when could he have gotten the name, since he used it in renting his room? It is not known whether anyone at the library ever saw anyone answering his description either before April 8 or in the eight days following.

(The birth announcements carry some very essential information - such as the maiden name of the mother as well as the name of the father. This is the sort of information needed when one applies for a passport.)

And "Paul Bridgman" clearly had a passport on his mind on April 11. On that day, he came to Mrs. Mabel Agnew's Arcade Photo Studio on Yonge Street. She personally took passport photos of "Paul Bridgman."

She would not say when he picked them up, but did say "our pictures are always ready in 20 minutes to a half hour."

Five days later, Mrs. Yee Sun Loo, landlady of a roominghouse at 962 Dundas St., which is one of the main thoroughfares which cross Ossington Avenue, received a call from a "Ramon George Sneyd" who telephoned to inquire about a room.

A Trip To London?

That same day, April 16, "Ramon George Sneyd" walked into the Kennedy Travel Bureau on Bloor Street. He asked Miss Lillian Spencer, the office manager, about travel to London and also completed a passport application. As one of his next-of-kin he listed "Paul Bridgman."

He presented a duplicate birth certificate in the name of Sneyd, three passport photographs and an $8 fee. Normally, such an application requires the name of another Canadian citizen who has known the applicant at least two years, but in Canada this can be satisfied by the applicant swearing an oath that the information is true.

"Sneyd" ordered a round trip 21-day excursion ticket from Toronto to London, at a charge of $345 Canadian or $319.50 in U.S. currency.

The next day, Henry Moos of the Kennedy Travel Bureau routinely notarized the passport declaration that the applicant was a Canadian citizen. It was sent off to the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa, with the request that the application be expedited because "Sneyd" was anxious to take a trip.

TOMORROW: A shadowy suspect takes a trip to London.

Are courts being too soft on the victims of crime?

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON - There is so much talk about crime in the streets and the rights of the criminal that little attention is being paid to the victims of crime. But there is a current of opinion that our courts are being too soft on the victims, and many of them are going unpunished for allowing a crime to be committed against them. One man who feels strongly about this is Prof. Heinrich Applebaum, a criminologist who feels that unless the police start cracking down on the victims of criminal acts, the crime rate in this country will continue to rise.

"The people who are responsible for crime in this country are the victims. If they didn't allow themselves to be robbed, a problem of crime in a country would be solved," Applebaum said. That makes sense, professor. Why do you think courts are soft on victims of crime?"

"We're living in a permissive society and anything goes," Applebaum replied. "Victims of crimes don't seem to be concerned about the consequences of their acts. They walk down a street after dark, or they display jewelry in their store windows, or they have their cash registers right out where everyone can see them. They seem to think that they can do this in the United States and get away with it."

"They should know better," I said. "Look at the way we pamper the victims of crime in this country. As soon as they're hit over the head we call an ambulance and take them to a hospital. If they've got Blue Cross or a hospital plan, most of their bills will be paid. They know they'll get workmen's compensation while they're recovering. What have they got to lose by becoming victims of a crime?"

"You speak as if all the legal machinery in this country was weighted in favor of the victim, instead of the person who committed the crime."

"It is," Applebaum said. "While everyone is worried about the victim, the poor criminal is dragged down to the police station, booked and arraigned, and if he's lucky he'll be let out on bail. He may lose his job if his boss hears about it, and there is even a chance that if he has a police record it may prejudice the judge when he's sentenced."

"I guess in this country people always feel sorry for the victim than they do for the person who committed the crime."

"You can say that again. Do you know that in some states they are even compensating victims of crimes?"

"It's hard to believe," I said. "I say throw the book at anybody who's been robbed. They know what they were getting into when they decided to be robbed, and they should pay the penalty for it. Once a person has been a victim of crime and realizes he can't get away with it, the chances of his becoming a victim again will be slim."

"Why do people want to become victims of crime, professor?"

"Who knows? They're probably looking for thrills. Boredom plays a part, but I would think the biggest factor is that victims think they can still walk around the streets of their cities and get away with it. Once they learn they can't, you'll see a big drop in crime statistics."

"You make a lot of sense, professor. Do you believe the American people are ready to listen to you?"

"They'd better be, because the criminal element is getting pretty fed up with all the permissive coddling of victims that is going on in this country."

Intelligence Officer Of Pueblo Testifies

CRONADO, Calif. (AP) — The lieutenant in charge of the Pueblo's intelligence section testified secretly Monday about what happened the day the ship was captured by North Koreans.

Lt. Stephen R. Harris took more than an hour longer than the Navy expected before a closed session of a court of inquiry investigating details of the capture.

"They're asking more questions than we thought they would," a Navy spokesman said when asked about the session. He referred to questioning from counsel and five admirals on the court.

"They've gotten into the events of the 23rd," the spokesman said, referring to Jan. 23, 1968, the day the Pueblo was seized off the coast of North Korea and her men taken to a North Korean prison.

Harris, 31, spent more than two hours in a secret session last Thursday. The Navy said at that time he was testifying on the "operations and missions" of the intelligence ship.

But the Navy declined to go into detail on any of Harris' testimony, saying it was classified in the interest of national defense. He was to testify publicly later in the week.

The Navy summoned Rear Adm. G. L. Cassell to testify in open session when Harris finished. Cassell was assistant chief of staff for operations for the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet when the Pueblo was seized.

The 50-year-old officer is presently deputy commander of Naval Striking and Support Forces, a NATO command in Southern Europe.

During Cassell's duty at Navy headquarters in Hawaii, the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet got urgent pleas for help from the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, as the North Koreans opened fire.

Davenport Police Voice Complaints

DAVENPORT (AP) — Police Monday presented a list of six grievances to Davenport Mayor John H. Jabens, who said he would comment on them today.

Officers Charles Wright, president of Local W of the Iowa State Policemen's Association, and Jay Spurrier, secretary-treasurer of the organization, signed the letter to the mayor and asked for a meeting with him.

The police complained that Chief Les Jurgens and certain other members of the department took time off for holidays they had not worked and that the chief allowed credit union business to be conducted during duty hours by the secretary-treasurer of the credit union.

Hickel Inspects Off-Shore Oil Slick

Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel makes a flying inspection Monday of the huge oil slick which is spreading off the southern California coast, fed by an undersea leak. Seen are the Channel Islands, south of Santa Barbara. Hickel told newsmen he would ask oil companies to voluntarily stop drilling in the channel.

$30-Billion Price Tag Envisioned For Rebuilding of South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The 10-year cost to make South Vietnam self-supporting will be about $30 billion, according to an economic report being prepared for President Nixon and President Nguyen Van Thieu.

A big portion of the money would have to come from the United States although some would be raised by Saigon, some from private enterprise and some from other nations, notably Japan.

The report, based on the assumption of peace in Vietnam, is the work of a team headed by David E. Lilienthal and Prof. Vu Quoc Thuc, a respected economist now minister of state in the South Vietnamese Cabinet.

It was prepared over the past two years by the Development and Resources Corp., a consulting firm headed by Lilienthal, and about 55 South Vietnamese specialists of various sorts under Thuc. Lilienthal in earlier years served as chairman of both the Tennessee Valley Authority and the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The report is to be submitted to the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments shortly. Although it has not been made public, Lilienthal disclosed its general approach in the quarterly Foreign Affairs and experts in Saigon and Washington are familiar with most details of the 700-page study.

In his article Lilienthal said the "gap" between public and private investment and the amount of necessary foreign aid was $2 billion. Experts who have seen the report feel this figure is extremely low. They say it is a hard nosed, workable study that found South Vietnam's basic economic foundations surprisingly strong despite the ravages of war. Nonetheless, the report does not soft-pedal the difficulties that the nation will face.

It says that the first three years must emphasize basic reconstruction, roads, agriculture and education. It then specifies some 35 economic projects to be started within the next two years.

One of these is the vast plan for development of the Mekong River's potential in South Vietnam, Thailand, Cambodia and Laos. Another is the restoration of lines to power stations in the central highlands which can be put back in production quickly.

The cost of the Mekong project is conservatively put at $400 million and much of this is expected to come from Asian nations. Japan has voiced a willingness to make a substantial contribution in money and experts.

A Vagrant's Bindle Turns up a Bundle

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — To the police, Joseph Dunbar Wight was a vagrant, a man without a permanent address — and $187,118.62 in his pockets.

But Wight, 74, called himself "just an unfortunate stranger," a "traveling man" who frequented bus stations because, "Rooms are scarce, you know."

Wight, formerly of Baltimore, was arrested at a bus station Sunday morning and taken to jail for booking. When told to hand over his possessions, he smiled and produced what he called his "private capital."

In several wallets, police said, was $187,118.62. In cash.

Patrolman Jerry Peters, who arrested Wight, said he saw the man in a bus station eight or 10 times late at night during the past two weeks.

"He needed a shave, would produce no identification, and was dirty," Peters told Municipal Judge Henry Esteva Monday. "He was wearing about seven layers of clothing."

Wight, a member of the family that once controlled the Sherwood Distillery Co., makers of Maryland Rye years ago in Baltimore, appeared in court in a jacket with an imitation fur collar, dark trousers and torn bedroom slippers.

"I'm just an unfortunate stranger here," Wight told the court. "I'm not classified as a vagrant. I'm not a convict. Rooms are scarce, you know."

"My trust officers in Baltimore wanted me to let them reinvest my money with the condition I could maintain control, but it was growing so much I was unable to keep control," he said. "So on June 1st, 1961, I converted all my assets into cash and left."

"I have no luggage, no bag," he told the judge. "Just me. Traveling man."

Wight said he had traveled back and forth between bus stations in St. Petersburg and a nearby Tampa for about two weeks.

"I buy a ticket and spend my money there. They can't object to that," he said.

"Technically you are guilty because you have no permanent address," the judge explained. "It is very dangerous for you to walk around with all that money, especially since I understand there has been some publicity."

Esteva ordered Wight held for psychiatric examination and said the money would be held for safekeeping.

SIRHAN TRIAL COSTLY — LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Sirhan Bishara Sirhan case cost Los Angeles County $370,416 through Dec. 31, a county supervisor said Friday. Sirhan, 24, a Jordanian, is charged with murder in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy last June 5. His trial is in recess until Friday.

THE RABID REVISER

(Record Review appearing every other Tuesday in the Daily Iowan. Watch for it!)

THE MASON WILLIAMS EAR SHOW, ON the Warner Bros. — Seven Arts Label, is a welcome sequel to his MASON WILLIAMS PHONOGRAPH ALBUM. The new album contains several familiar songs if one has a habit of watching the Smother's Brothers t.v. show; in addition to BAROQUE-A-NOVA, a one time Top Forty hopeful. William's artistry and versatility is demonstrated in the silly, but catchy CINDERELLA-ROCKEFELLA to the poignant, SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE WORLD. All in all about thirty minutes of original, different, very pleasant listening that is highly recommended for any listening taste. The album title is most appropriate.

PRESENTATION OF THIS COUPON ENTITLES BEARER TO A TEN PERCENT DISCOUNT ON THE PURCHASE OF ANY ONE OF OUR ALREADY DISCOUNTED ALBUMS IN OUR ENTIRE STOCK. THIS IS IOWA BOOK'S WAY TO APOLOGIZE FOR THE RECENT MANUFACTURER'S PRICE INCREASE ON RECORDS. ONE COUPON PER ALBUM. OFFER IS VOID AFTER FEB. 6, 1969.

HELP YOURSELF. Tom Jones on the London Label. This album is an interesting blend of CW and Pop. It features HELP YOURSELF, another Top Forty item, and several other selections from Tom's recent t.v. Special. These cuttings demonstrate the Jones' magnetism and gives the listener an insight as to why this talented young man has earned a regular t.v. music series. Not only does Tom Jones successfully blend Pop and CW, but his warmth and personal magnetism transcend the stereo speakers and permeate your living room. His version of ELUSIVE DREAMS is an emotion charged rendition. He easily swings into HELP YOURSELF. The invitation offered by the title song is laughingly enhanced by a free and easy rhythm. Mr. Jones is one of the few major talents who defie most attempts at classification. He is equally adept in ballads, swinging, country and pop. He may not be the ideal vocalist for a steady diet, but definitely a pleasant change.

PEOPLE GET READY for the Chambers Brothers. A Vast! Recording. The wailing harmonica, the gently nurturing electric guitar, the gravelly blend of four voices extoll their origin from southern Mississippi. They talk of picking cotton and working in the fields and their large family. Their songs speak of their roots. When these boys sing the blues, they really know what they're singing about. The funky, mournful harmonica and the rich blend of voices are a result of yesterday's world and today's promises; a combination that produces good listening and salable music.

ARRIVAL OF A YOUNG GIANT, Craig Hundley Trio, World Pacific Records. To borrow a line from an early Mamas and Papas album, "If you can believe your eyes and ears!" Play the album but don't read the jacket blurbs. Is that Brubeck, or maybe even Shearing. Those cuts are terrific. Sure we've heard ELEANOR RIGBY and THE JET SONG, but ARRIVAL! It's fresh, new and vibrant, yet contains familiar phrasing. The bass is fascinatingly exact, the drummer is really alive and where did that pianist come up with a Bach Fugue for FLY ME TO THE MOON? Surely this group has been around for quite awhile, seasoned professional jazzmen all! Oh, yea? Well read the jacket now friend, these are mere kids. The pianist is fourteen, the drummer fifteen, and the bass player an ancient twelve. But, oh, what sounds, style and musicianship. The trio is the newest thing to hit jazz, since Gary Burton was the new Vibe Man in Town. This recording is heartily recommended for any Jazz buff who wishes to hear a new, fresh, exciting and almost unbelievable approach to music. The Trio, as a whole, is truly an ARRIVAL OF A YOUNG GIANT.

A good cry cleanses the soul

After all is shed and done, your soul may be saved... but your contacts need help. They need Lense. Lense is the one complete contact care... preparing, cleansing, and soaking. There was a time when you needed two or more different lens solutions to properly prepare and maintain your contacts. No more. Lense, from The Murine Company, makes caring for contact lenses as convenient as wearing them. Just a drop or two of Lense coats and lubricates your lens. This allows the lens to float more freely in the eye, reducing tearful irritation. Why? Because Lense is a compatible, "isotonic" solution, very much like your eye's natural fluids. Cleaning your contacts with Lense relays the build-up of foreign deposits on the lenses. And soaking your contacts in Lense between wearing periods assures you of proper lens hygiene. You get a free soaking-storage case with individual lens compartments on the bottom of every bottle of Lense. It has been demonstrated the improper storage between wearings permits the growth of bacteria on the lenses. This is a sure cause of eye irritation and in some cases can endanger your vision. Bacteria cannot grow in Lense because it's sterile, self-sanitizing, and antiseptic. Lense... the solution for complete contact lens care. Made by the Murine Company, Inc.

Namath Wins Hickok Award Surging Hawkeyes Try for Share Of Big 10 Lead Against Purdue

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Namath, who led the New York Jets to the American Football League championship and to the Super Bowl victory over the Baltimore Colts in a big upset, was named winner Monday night of the 19th annual S. Rae Hickok Pro Athlete of the Year Award.

The 25-year-old passer nosed out Denny McLain, Detroit's 31-game winning pitcher, by four points — 321-317 — in the closest margin in the history of the Pro Athlete of the Year poll.

For his victory, Namath received outright the diamond-studded, gold-buckled belt that goes with the award.

The Golden Link award, given to athletes who starred before the Hickok competition came into being, went to Bronko Nagurski, the great Minnesota football full-back who later played with the Chicago Bears.

Celtics' Coach Russell Begins Rehabilitation

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell, player-coach of the National Basketball Association's Boston Celtics, begins rehabilitation treatment today for severely strained ligaments in his right knee.

Russell hurt the knee Sunday while the Celtics were struggling to ward off their ultimate 95-94 loss to the New York Knicks. With only 12 seconds left in the game, the 6-9 Russell dove in to score on a twisting layup. Then he collapsed to the floor and writhed in pain as the game's closing seconds slipped away.

Russell, who missed every field goal attempt if tried in the first 7 minutes 10 seconds of the game, finally scored on a lay-up by Mike Maloy.

Iowa's pressure defense was at its best in the first 10 minutes of the half and the Wildcats were missing easy shots from as close as three to five feet from the basket.

By MIKE EBBING
CHICAGO — Iowa's basketball team, who received a shot in the arm here Saturday with 76-61 upset over fourth-ranked David-

Purdue surged into the lead at 4-0. Iowa is in third place with a 3-1 mark.

The game begins at 6:30 Iowa time and will be televised by Channel 2, WMT Cedar Rapids. The Hawks showed no signs of ill effects from their two-week layoff as they raced to a 17-2 lead over the stunned Wildcats.

Davidson, who missed every field goal attempt if tried in the first 7 minutes 10 seconds of the game, finally scored on a lay-up by Mike Maloy.

Iowa's pressure defense was at its best in the first 10 minutes of the half and the Wildcats were missing easy shots from as close as three to five feet from the basket.

The tight defense, however, took its toll as Coach Ralph Miller had to pull John Johnson from the lineup after the 6-7 center drew his third foul midway through the half. Following Johnson's departure, the Hawks had their own scoring problems and Davidson was quick to retaliate. After the Wildcats tied the game at 32 all with two minutes to go, the Hawks lost their lead for the first and only time of the night.

Trailing 34-32 at intermission, the Hawkeyes again caught fire as the second half opened with a nine-point scoring spurge to put the Hawks in command 41-34. Davidson never again seriously challenged the Hawks, who now stand at 10-4 for the season.

Glenn Vidnovic, with another yeoman performance at the free-throw line, took game scoring honors with 23 points. Johnson was next in line with 18. Chad Calabria had 12 and McGilmer 10.

As the season progresses, opposing coaches are learning more and more that it's hard to beat the Hawks unless you keep Vidnovic from the free-throw line. The 6-5 stringbean connected on his first 11 tries to give him 29 straight before missing his final attempt.

For the year, Vidnovic is well on his way to being the best free-throw shooter in Iowa history. He now has made 105 of 116 attempts for a sparkling .905 percentage. Also within his grasp is the Big 10 season free-throw record held by Indiana's Jon McGlocklin in 1965. McGlocklin connected on 36 of 39 attempts for a .923 mark. Vidnovic is currently setting the pace in the conference with a .938 clip (30-32).

Calabria kept his free-throw string going (21 straight) with a 2-2 night at the line and McGilmer, who hit five field goals, still has 15 straight.

The Hawks will be spending very little time in Iowa City this week. The team registered Monday morning for second semester before leaving to Lafayette for the first of two straight conference road games. Iowa travels to Illinois Saturday afternoon in the other contest.

The Boilermakers are the top offensive team in the Big 10, averaging better than 95 points a game. Iowa is runner-up with an 87.3 average.

Rick Mount, who is after his second straight scoring title in the conference, is setting the pace again this year with a 31.0 average. The 6-4 junior guard was held to a career low of 20 points against Ohio State.

Mount suffered a minor leg injury late in the Buckeye game and had to sit out the overtime. Purdue's sports information director, Karl Klages, reported Monday that Mount has only a leg cramp and should be at full capacity for the Iowa game.

Top Baseball Players Issue Boycott Threat For Spring Training

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball moved closer to the first strike in its 100-year history Monday when the Players Association agreed to boycott spring training sites until their dispute with the owners over their pension fund is settled.

The action — the most militant stand taken during the four-month-old dispute — comes just 10 days before the Chicago White Sox are scheduled to become the first team to open their training camp, and less than a month before the traditional March 1 opening date.

At the end of a four-hour meeting attended by approximately 125 players, including stars such as Bob Gibson, Jim Bunning, Maury Wills, Brooks Robinson, Ernie Banks, Mickey Lolich, Joe Torre and Rusty Staub, the players issued a statement that said:

"Resolved that the players fully support the actions and policies of their negotiating committee in the current benefit plan negotiations and reiterate their support of the policy that players should not sign individual salary contracts and should not report to spring training sites until the negotiations are satisfactorily concluded."

Although the players have been urged before not to sign, this was the first time they had been told not to report to spring training until the impasse was resolved.

Asked how many players had not signed their contracts, Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, replied:

"There are very, very few established players who have signed. A conservative estimate would be that 90 per cent have not signed, and the figure probably would be higher."

Miller also said the players, through their negotiating committee, had reached general agreement that players who usually go to spring training sites earlier than required on their own should not do so this year.

The boycott threat, of course, raises the specter of empty training camps when they open, or camps filled largely with minor leaguers.

The dispute between the owners and the players revolves largely around the pension plan.

The owners have agreed to increase the total monies contributed $1 million to $5.1 million a year, but Miller pointed out the issue was not primarily one of money.

He said the main issue was the players' right to radio and television revenue. And the statement issued after the meeting supported that by saying:

"The players . . . stated that the current impasse is a direct result of the roadblocks thrown down by the owners representatives in an attempt to break with the past."

"The most important of these roadblocks is the position taken that the funding of the benefit plan should be completely divorced from national radio and television revenue even though the two matters have been directly tied for the last 22 years."

Asked if the problem could be solved before the traditional March 1 training date, Miller said he thought that still was possible, but added:

"We have not had a single proposal from the owners side on this. They have had only one position: No — all references to broadcast rights must come out."

Under the current pension plan, a player in the majors for five years may get $250 a month in pension benefits if he chooses to take it at the age of 50. If he waits until he is 65, the pension would be $643 plus social security.

Search Continues For Commissioner

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Baseball owners will try again to pick a new commissioner today, but the prospects of an election are not considered bright because of the jealousies between the two major leagues.

Charles (Chub) Feeney, vice president of the San Francisco Giants, has been the National League choice since the prolonged Dec. 20-21 do-nothing meetings in Chicago.

Mike Burke, president of the New York Yankees who withdrew in Chicago after some early ballots, apparently is back in the running again as an American League candidate.

Unless the two leagues can get together on a change in the rules, it is not likely that a successor to William D. Eckert will be named at this time. Eckert resigned under pressure at the annual baseball meetings in San Francisco in December but is serving until his successor is picked.

Under the rules, a commissioner must get a three-fourths vote — 9 out of 12 — in each league.

Although most of the owners who spoke out in San Francisco favored a baseball man for the job, the failure to elect one of their own at this Florida meeting may well send them searching for an outside figure of national stature. That was what happened last time when they came up with Eckert, a retired Air Force general.

The woods are full of candidates. Among those who received votes at the December meeting were Feeney, Burke, Lee MacPhail, vice president of the Yankees; Joe Cronin, president of the American League; Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee, former counsel for the players; Supreme Court Justice Byron (Whizzer) White; Bob Reynolds, president of the California Angels; Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians; and Frank Cashen, executive vice-president of Baltimore.

Redskins Juggle Coaches; Lombardi's Fate Not Certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins juggled their coaching job in the air Monday. At the end of a day of cloudy confusion, Green Bay master Vint Lombardi wasn't Redskin coach and part owner — but Otto Graham was still Redskins' coach and general manager — but he wasn't expected to be for more than another day or so.

Only minutes after Lombardi announced in Green Bay that he had accepted the post of "Washington coach, general manager and executive vice president, the Redskins' club president, Edward Bennett Williams, told a news conference there was nothing to announce yet.

"We have had conversations looking toward his coming to Washington. I can't say anything more to you on this subject," Williams said.

As for Graham, the club president said flatly, "Otto Graham hasn't been dismissed."

In Palm Desert, Calif., the vacationing Graham interrupted his golf game only long enough to smile and say, "No comment."

Williams, unsmiling, was brusque at his news conference. He turned away questions and abruptly stalked out less than five minutes after the session began.

Lombardi, who guided Green Bay to five National Football League championships in his last seven seasons as coach, is tied to Green Bay as general manager on a contract running through 1974.

The Packers' executive board met throughout the day without reaching a decision on whether to free Lombardi to take another coaching post.

Emerging from a session with the Packers' executive board, Lombardi told newsmen that a "substantial position of equity" was the deciding factor in his acceptance of the Redskins post just one year after he decided to give up coaching the Packers and concentrate on administrative duties as general manager.

"Like anyone else, you always hope to own something at one time or another," said Lombardi, "and if it is in a field that you know best, it's always a plus."

Lombardi came smiling from the session with the board and said, "I have asked for my release. Everything is fine. There's no problem with the board. I've just got a contract. I'm waiting for them — for their move."

But Olejniczak told newsmen shortly after, "This is not an orinary matter to consider. The Packers executive committee wants to give it full consideration.

"After all, there is only one Lombardi."

At Washington, Lombardi reportedly has been offered a 13 per cent share in the Redskins, made available by the estate of C. Leo De Orsey.

He would be offered, as well, a challenge in returning to the field, and he took note of it Monday.

"The challenge is not in maintaining," he said, "but in creating."

His problem to rejuvenate the downtrodden Redskins isn't much different than the task faced by the one-time member of Fordham's famed "Seven Blocks of Granite" when he stepped from a plane in Green Bay a January day in 1959.

The Packers' 1958 team had won just one game.

Lombardi, in the dual role of head coach and general manager, set about to dispel the image of a loser. His 1959 club won seven and lost five and the Lombardi dynasty was under way.

Starting in 1965, the Packers captured three successive NFL championships, finishing with Super Bowl triumphs in 1966 and 1967.

In dramatic fashion, Feb. 1, 1968, Lombardi announced that he was giving up coaching but would continue as general manager.

He turned the coaching reins over to the Packers' skilled defensive coach Phil Bengtson.

With quarterback Bart Starr and others frequently sidelined with injuries, the Packers staggered to a 6-7-1 season last year.

Blindness Doesn't Handicap Builder of Midget Race Cars

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Norm Smizer is blind, but it hasn't stopped him from doing a job most men would normally find difficult — building midget race cars.

"Sometimes the work is more than hard, but if I can't drive them, then the next best thing is working on cars," says the amazing 58-year-old Smizer, who lives in neighboring Delair, N.J.

Smizer sometimes spends 12 hours a day rebuilding intricate motors for three-quarter midget cars in a garage underneath his home. He does all his fine measuring with a braille micrometer, which was obtained for him by the New Jersey Foundation for the Blind.

Smizer sometimes has help from Doug Craig, a Levittown, Pa., industrial contractor, who drives three-quarter midget cars as a hobby. But many days Smizer is alone.

"This is my life and I just love it," says Smizer. "The only trouble now is that help is hard to find so I have to do most of the work myself."

The Silver Spring, Md., financier has proposed selling the National Football League team for about $15 million to Leonard Tose, a trucking executive from Norristown, Pa.

Already blind in his right eye after a cataract operation 10 years ago, Smizer developed a cold throughout his body at Indianapolis last year. The medication he received after returning home was apparently too strong, and it resulted in a detached retina in the other, causing total blindness.

If anything, the tragedy gave him more courage.

With the help of Craig, Smizer tools his own in his workshop. He buys second, then rebuilds them from top to bottom.

SPORTS BRIEFS

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks, hockey's super star, had the wires removed from his broken jaw Monday and was able to eat solid food or the first time in 40 days.

However, the Golden Jet has to eat only with his right hand for a while. His left hand was cut and needed stitching in a freak mishap during the Hawks-Montreal game in Chicago Stadium Sunday.

Teammate Ken Wharram, leaping over the bench dasher to enter the game early in the first period, accidentally stepped on Bobby's left hand as Bobby sat beside him. The slate blade severed a blood vessel. Bobby sat out the rest of the game as the Hawks lost 6-4.

Bobby's jaw was fractured Christmas day when he caught an elbow from Toronto's Mike Pelyk. With his jaw wired shut, he was able to partake only of liquids.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jerry Wolman, struggling to pay off heavy debts, is expected to ask U.S. District Court today to approve conditional sale of the Philadelphia Eagles football team.

The Silver Spring, Md., financier has proposed selling the National Football League team for about $15 million to Leonard Tose, a trucking executive from Norristown, Pa.

Griffith Wins Birthday Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith, the former welterweight and middleweight champion, celebrated his 31st birthday Monday night by pouncing out a unanimous 10-round decision over rugged Andy Heilman of Fargo, N.D., at Madison Square Garden.

It was the favored New Yorker's second straight triumph over the Dakota Kid. Griffith beat Heilman in a 12-rounder at Oakland, Calif. last June 11. Griffith weighed 156 1/4 pounds to Heilman's 161. Referee Jimmy Devlin and judge Al Berl each had Griffith the winner in rounds 8-2. Judge Jack Gordon had it 7-3 for Griffith. The Associated Press had it 8-2 for Griffith.

The victory earned Griffith a Feb. 24 shot in the Garden with Stan Hayward of Philadelphia who won a disputed decision over Griffith in Philadelphia last Oct. 29.

Starr Praises Jets' Namath

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Bart Starr, Green Bay Packers' quarterback, says the New York Jets' Super Bowl victory might have resulted from "as shrewd a piece of psychology as pro football has ever seen."

The Jets upset Baltimore 16-7 in the Jan. 12 game. Starr said pre-game pronouncements made by Jets' quarterback Joe Namath might have goaded Baltimore into killing mistakes.

"It isn't my style but you can't fault Namath for doing it," Starr said Sunday during an interview at the National Sporting Goods Association convention. "Everyone has his own way of doing things."

Starr said Namath, in openly predicting a victory by minimizing the abilities of Baltimore quarterback Earl Morrall, the Colts' defense and their personnel over-all, made himself the focal point of Baltimore's wrath and might have caused the Colts to forget their primary objective.

Glass to Resign At Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Larry Glass announced Monday that he will resign as head basketball coach at Northwestern University at the end of this season, his sixth with the Wildcats.

Northwestern has a 2-4 Big 10 record and 10-6 for all games. In five previous years at Northwestern, Glass' teams compiled a 52-64 record.

Kentucky Tops Auburn
LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky blew an 11-point lead and overcame a 42-point performance by John Mengelt Monday night to hand Auburn a 105-93 Southeastern Conference basketball defeat.

The Wildcats, ranked fifth in the nation, had their troubles until the final 12 minutes of the game, when they broke away from a 64-64 tie and were never headed after that.

State to Fight Bid For Tax Injunction

The City Council learned Monday that the state plans to fight a joint petition filed by the city and Johnson County for an injunction against increased property evaluation ordered by the state. City Atty. Jay Honohan told the council members at an informal meeting that the state planned to offer resistance not only to the local petition, filed in Polk County District Court, but also to similar petitions filed by about eight other counties. He said he did not know how strenuously the petitions would be objected to.

(Injunctions have been granted on the same issue to 47 counties, which filed soon after State Revenue Director William H. Forst ordered the property assessment increases for all 99 counties.)

The hearing will be sometime within the next two weeks. Mayor Loren Hickerson told the council that he and three other members of the city administration would be going to Chicago Wednesday to talk with officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

CAB Examiner Proposes New Omaha Airline Routes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Operating Rights recommended Monday new routes for three trunk airlines and two regional airlines to serve Omaha, Neb., and its principal markets.

In a position statement to examiner Richard A. Walsh, the bureau said it would support the proposed route awards because of the need for competition in each market involved, and because of the opportunity to strengthen the subsidized local service airlines.

Walsh will consider the bureau's viewpoint in preparing his own initial decision for final action by the Board.

Roy Nerenberg, bureau counsel, proposed these route awards to:

- 1. American Airlines — routes between Omaha and Des Moines and New York-Newark to the east, and San Francisco-Oakland-San Jose to the west. Also, between Omaha and Chicago, with two stops required on Omaha - Washington - Baltimore route.
2. Trans World Airlines — routes between Omaha and Des Moines and Washington-Baltimore, and Los Angeles. Also between Des Moines and Chicago, with two stops between Des Moines and New York.

Hayakawa Accuses Militants Of Using Tactics of Nazis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Student militants are using tactics that helped the Nazis rise to power in Germany, acting Pres. S. I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State College told Congress Monday.

But while Hayakawa defended his use of police to pacify his strike-torn campus, he said also, "In a sense, the issues behind most present troubles are valid." He advocated better educational opportunities at all levels "even at enormous expense."

Hayakawa told a House Education subcommittee that "revolutionary" groups like Students for a Democratic Society have a basic purpose "to create doubt on the ability of administrators to administer, of governments to govern."

This is the sort of thing Adolf Hitler's followers did when they were brawling street groups, Hayakawa went on. "They created doubts about the ability of courts to administer the law's officials to function, government to govern," he said. "When enough people are disillusioned about the ability of government to govern, the time is ripe for a dictator..." Hayakawa said. "There is no SDS dictator in the wings that I know of but creation of doubt is an important goal for them."

Just 1 More Juror to Go And Shaw Trial Begins

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — One alternate juror was chosen Monday in the Clay Shaw trial, making it one to go before Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison starts unfolding his conspiracy case.

Sworn as the 13th juror and first alternate was John Joseph Beilman Jr., 26, who works for a microfilm manufacturer.

More than 1,000 prospects filed through the courtroom in the first 12 days of jury selection for Shaw's trial on a charge of plotting to murder President John F. Kennedy five years ago.

Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. has summoned another 150 veniremen for today in his third special call for jurors. Selection of a 12-man jury was completed Saturday.

White House Laying Plans For Nixon Visit to Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is laying plans for a working visit to western Europe this spring and the White House indicated Monday it might come before the end of March.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that at present "there is no firm date set or an itinerary set or a final commitment made to go."

But he said also "the President is hopeful that the trip can be arranged."

The problem seems to be largely one of fitting together a schedule for Nixon and heads of NATO nations.

Ziegler ruled out any extension of the trip to the Soviet Union or other countries in Eastern Europe.

Ziegler said that over the weekend there were exploratory discussions with European governments he did not name regarding such things as itinerary and scheduling. And he added "it is hopeful that a final decision on the matter of a trip would be made and the trip would occur prior to the NATO meeting here" April 10 to 12.

The reference is to a session of NATO foreign ministers and if the trip were to wind up before April 10, it would have to begin at least by late March.

Although there was no apparent link with the projected Nixon journey, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia in Moscow carried Monday an article commenting hopefully on possible changes in U.S. policy in Europe.

Nikolai Polyakov, a leading Izvestia commentator, wrote, "The possibilities are widening of moving the ice from around the European policies of the United States."

Nixon scheduled his second news conference for 10 a.m. (Iowa time) Thursday with live radio and television coverage permitted, but there was no indication whether he might be ready to announce European travel plans by then.

There may be some discussions about it in a regular meeting of the National Security Council today. But Ziegler said one of the priority topics again will be the troubled Mideast.

While overseas travel got priority in questions tossed at Ziegler during his morning session with reporters Monday, the President was concentrating on domestic matters at a meeting of the Council on Urban Affairs under the direction of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. It was the council's second meeting.

Nixon also called out of the White House again on one of his expeditions to federal departments and agencies for get-acquainted chats with the top echelons of administration officialdom.

The Departments of Housing and Urban Development and Agriculture were picked for Monday.

And over the weekend, Nixon got out the second and third in a series of orders to Cabinet officers, agency heads and special advisers asking them for reports and recommendations on possible changes to improve domestic programs ranging from agriculture to education to poverty and telecommunications.

Fifteen directives went out, on top of 14 others issued last Wednesday. In some instances, Ziegler said, Nixon set deadlines for replies. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare was more involved in the latest batch than any other agency.

The President wants some advice on reorganizing federal educational activities, on creating what Ziegler called a tutoring plan using students as teachers through creation of a National Student-Teacher Corps.

Nixon announced one appointment during the morning, of Mrs. Rita Hauser, New York attorney, to be U.S. representative on the Human Rights commission of UNESCO — the United Nations economic and Social Council.

She was at the White House and said she would be leaving Feb. 14 to head the U.S. delegation to the commission's annual meeting in Geneva.

There was another appointment that wasn't announced at the White House but in Albany, where the New York State Education Commission confirmed that Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. has been appointed assistant secretary of health, education and welfare and U.S. commissioner of education.

MIAMI (AP) — A Newark-to-Miami jet with 93 people aboard went winging to Cuba Friday, the 12th plane hijacked to the Caribbean this year.

The plane, Eastern Airlines Flight 7, touched down in Havana at 12:27 p.m., an hour and 40 minutes after Capt. Jack Moore radioed: "It looks like we're going south of Miami today."

"These hijackers are coming out of the woodwork," said a harried Eastern official. "And they won't stop coming until Fidel Castro starts sending them back."

A State Department official said the Boeing 727 Whisperjet and crew was expected to return to Miami before evening. A plane was to be sent to Varadero, Cuba, to pick up the passengers, he said.

Cerro Gordo Farmers Launch Court Attack on Tax Boost

MASON CITY (AP) — Sixteen Cerro Gordo County farmers launched a full-scale court attack Monday on state law and Revenue Director William H. Forst to beat down property valuation increases for tax purposes.

In a 21-page petition filed in District Court here, the farmers claimed that a 1967 law requiring that all property be assessed at 27 per cent of market value is unconstitutional.

They also asked the court to rule invalid the methods used by Forst in ordering valuation boosts in 71 of Iowa's 99 counties last November.

A Polk County District Court order has prevented the valuation increases from going into effect in 48 counties this year, but the farmers said they want them also barred from the books through 1971.

The 16 plaintiffs, members of the Cerro Gordo County Land Taxpayers Association, objected to a state-ordered increase of 35 per cent in the valuation of farm land and buildings in Cerro Gordo County.

Some school districts in Cerro Gordo County extend into neighboring Floyd and Franklin counties, the farmers contended, but those two counties did not receive similar property valuation orders from Forst.

"Until the Department of Revenue applies in each county in Iowa uniform rules for valuating and assessing property, these plaintiffs as well as other owners of property in Iowa will sustain irreparable damage," the suit said.

The farmers also took exception to the 1967 property valuation law, which they claimed "permits the applying of different methods, modes or standards to market value of the same class" and "this will result in discrimination and inequitable valuations."

Hijack: 'It Looks Like We're Going South of Miami Today

MIAMI (AP) — A Newark-to-Miami jet with 93 people aboard went winging to Cuba Friday, the 12th plane hijacked to the Caribbean this year.

The plane, Eastern Airlines Flight 7, touched down in Havana at 12:27 p.m., an hour and 40 minutes after Capt. Jack Moore radioed: "It looks like we're going south of Miami today."

"These hijackers are coming out of the woodwork," said a harried Eastern official. "And they won't stop coming until Fidel Castro starts sending them back."

The plane was 111 miles east of Charleston, S.C., when word of the hijacking was sent to the FAA Air Traffic Control Center in Jacksonville, Fla. Aboard was a crew of six and 87 passengers — including Allen Funt, originator of the "Candid Camera" television program. With him were his wife, their two children and a nurse, and a film crew.

A State Department official said the Boeing 727 Whisperjet and crew was expected to return to Miami before evening. A plane was to be sent to Varadero, Cuba, to pick up the passengers, he said.
