Sour Grapes — Free for the Asking or Smashing

Sam Kramer (left) of Elma, executive secretary of Young Americans for Freedom, and Cletus Uhlenhupp, A4, Aplington, state YAF president and chairman of United Republicans of Iowa, a campus group, help pass out what were described as California table grapes in the Field House during the second day of Registration Tuesday. California table grapes are the object of a nationwide boycott called by the United Farmworkers Union, whose members are striking vineyards for union recognition. Most students walked between the free-grape table, which was being manned by members of both the YAF campus chapter and the United Republicans and members of the Young Democrats handing out leaflets in support of the boycott. Most students took neither grapes nor leaflets, but some ate grapes while others took grapes and smashed them to show support for the boycott. Kramer said the two conservative organizations were against the grape boycott because its success would force workers to join the union.

Arming Campus Cops OK'd by Iowa Senate

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill to allow campus security guards at state universities to exercise police powers breezed through the Iowa Senate Tuesday and appeared to face only minor opposition in the House.

The measure, as passed on a 48 to 9 vote in the Senate, would authorize the State Board of Regents to "deputize" security guards, thereby permitting them to carry sidearms and make arrests.

A half dozen amendments offered by Democrats who feared a "police state" atmosphere at the universities were brushed aside by the Republican-controlled Senate.

Rep. Ralph McCartney (R-Charles City), the House majority leader, said the measure "has a very excellent chance" of receiving approval in the lower chamber.

"I would be very much surprised if it didn't go through the House," said Rep. William Gannon (D-Mingo), the House minority leader.

The measure was proposed by the State Board of Regents, which governs the University of Iowa at Iowa City, Iowa State University at Ames and University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls.

Most legislators agree the bill is aimed at discouraging potential disturbances at the schools. The regents said that city, county and state authorities had to be called in to quell an unruly demonstration on the Iowa City campus in 1967 because security guards were not equipped to handle it.

Sen. Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque), the Senate minority leader and one of those who voted against the bill, said the regents need "old-fashioned discipline" against students rather than a stronger security force.

"Let's get the old belt out," he said. "We need discipline — not badges or sidearms."

Sen. Arthur Neu (R-Carroll) said a stronger security force would lessen the need for help from civil authorities during student demonstrations and in other cases of law violations on campus.

"There is an obvious hostility between students and civil police," Neu said. "Do you think the students would resist being clubbed by campus police less than being clubbed by civil authorities?" asked Sen. Gene Glenn (D-Ottumwa).

"I just believe they are not as likely to be clubbed by a security force which is responsible to the president of the institution," replied Neu.

An amendment offered by Sen. William Denman (D-Des Moines) which would have required security guards to undergo law enforcement training before they could exercise police powers, was voted down, 31 to 26.

"When you are dealing with riots, you've got to have trained men," Denman said. "Nothing will make a demonstration worse than one gun-happy cop."

The measure does require that the guards eventually take courses at the Iowa Law Enforcement academy.

Another amendment, turned away on a 37 to 21 vote, would have given the state commissioner of public safety veto power over the regents' decisions on whom to deputize, and another rejected amendment would have limited the number of campus officers given police authority to 20 at any one institution.

Sen. Don Weimer (D-Cedar Rapids) offered an amendment which would have limited the number of campus officers given such authority to 20 at any one institution.

Weimer said that he had been misled as to the purpose of the bill during preliminary debate in the Senate.

"I had thought it was for the purpose of curbing campus violence," Weimer said, "but actually it is designed to solve one problem — to give the universities an adequate police force with adequate training."

The campus police need not number more than 20, Weimer said, because they will be performing only "the normal police business of checking buildings, looking behind bushes and shining flashlights in parked cars."

His amendment, however, failed on a standing vote.

Voting against the bill itself were Sens. Frommelt; Denman; Glenn; Weimer; Charlene Conklin (R-Waterloo); Lee Gaudineer (D-Des Moines); Eugene Hill (D-Newton); Chester Hougen (R-Cedar Falls); and Alan Shirley (D-Perry). Four senators were absent.

Union to Go 'Wet'; Beer, Liquor OK'd For Triangle Club

By CHERYL ARVIDSON

A University faculty club Tuesday night earned the honor of being the first group to crack the beer barrier at the Union.

By a 3 to 2 vote, the City Council approved applications for a Class B-Club beer permit and Class A liquor permit for the Triangle Club, which has its facilities on the second and third floors in the old Union section.

Since the Triangle Club leases its facilities from the Union and is, therefore, independent from the Union, no approval of the licenses was required by the State Board of Regents.

At present, no beer or liquor can be served in the Union building to either students, faculty members or persons attending conventions. But now the faculty members will be free to drink in the Union, and the possibility of student drinking has become a reality. Students of legal age accompanying members of the Triangle Club as their bona fide guests could be served.

Councilmen Robert J. (Doc) Connell and Robert Lind Sr. voted against the licenses.

Connell said he would have favored the licenses had he been sure that the liquor and beer consumption could be limited to just the Triangle Club membership and guests.

Connell, and several speakers during a public discussion period, cited doubts about the use of liquor in the Triangle Club facilities by conventions and institutes using the Union.

Lind objected to the permits because he said he saw no reason why the University should get into business that the city can handle.

The Triangle Club should be getting into the beer and liquor business in about two weeks, according to Neil Salisbury, club president. Salisbury, who is an associate professor of geology, said that the Coca Cola Company was building bar facilities for the club.

According to Salisbury, a minor technicality may hold up sales for a short time. Club members decided on credit instead of cash sales, and the members are now waiting for credit cards.

Salisbury said that the acquisition of liquor and beer licenses was "a very necessary thing for the survival of the faculty club."

The Triangle Club has about 280 members, 270 of whom are full-time University faculty members. For dues of $20 a year, members are entitled to use the club facilities.

Members of the club voted Nov. 26 to seek the licenses. At that time, the vote was described as "overwhelming, almost unanimous."

City Clerk Glen Eckard plans to send the club's license requests to Des Moines this morning. After state approval, the club is free to go into business.

Included in the club's application was a stipulation to allow city police to enter the premises at any time without a warrant to check for violations of the permits.

During public discussion of the permits, Scott Swisher, 917 Bowery St., said the granting of the permits would put the University into the "booze business."

Swisher suggested that the council defer action on the matter until an open meeting could be held, the new president of the University is selected and the regents approve the concept of alcohol in the Union.

Fred Morrison, assistant professor of law and treasurer of the club, said the club was not going to run a full-time bar.

Morrison said the bar facilities would probably be used during lunch hours, early evenings, football weekends and nights following basketball games.

When the decision to apply for its permits was made, R. E. Waide, assistant director of the Union, said the club would have no problems getting a license because of its independence from the Union.

Hypothetically, he said, any student group could form a private club within the Union and apply for beer and liquor licenses.

Although the question of beer sales in the Union has come before members of the regents, no action has been taken. The Triangle Club's permits specify that only members and their bona fide guests will be able to use the bar facilities.

Student Power Symposium to Begin Amidst Sniping from Left and Right

By CHARLA COLE

A symposium on student power will begin here today amid attacks from a rightwing campus group alleging misuse of University funds.

Cletus Uhlenhupp, A4, Aplington, state president of the group which opposes the symposium, Young Americans for Freedom (YAF), said Tuesday that the group opposed using money from taxpayers and from student funds to bring people to campus who "have called for the violent overthrow of the United States and its institutions."

James N. Murray, professor of political science and chairman of the group organizing the symposium, said the symposium was designed to analyze student power — "not to encourage or discourage student power, but to examine it."

The symposium is sponsored by Union Board and the University Lecture Series.

Participating in this analysis will be Tom Hayden, one of the founders of the left-wing Students for a Democratic Society; Harry Edwards, former San Jose State College instructor who attempted to organize a black athletes boycott of the 1968 Summer Olympics; and De Vere Pentony, dean of social science at San Francisco State College.

Murray said the speakers were chosen because they "have something to contribute to understanding student power."

In answer to Uhlenhupp's charge that the symposium was going to be "one entire biased fraud" because no dissenting views were to be presented, Murray said that the symposium was not supposed to be a discussion of the "right versus left" question.

"We are presenting both sides of the confrontation," Murray said, "because the confrontation has been between the administrations and the students, and the student right was involved only coincidentally."

Murray said the decision to sponsor the symposium came because student power seemed to be the subject most relevant to students today.

Open opposition to parts of the symposium has also come from the left on campus. The campus chapter of SDS is planning to distribute leaflets at all sessions of the symposium, explaining how its members' position on student power differs from that of Hayden and Jerry Sies, A4, Iowa City a member of a panel chosen to question the symposium speakers. SDS members feel that Sies, who is supposed to represent the local left, does not represent their group or its sentiments.

SDS member Bruce Clark, A3, Des Moines, said Tuesday that he thought the student power concept had become too limited and should expand to include all facets of the University.

However, Clark said the symposium was a neutral thing to him, "it may or may not enlighten."

YAF, according to Uhlenhupp, will encourage its members to attend the symposium and to ask questions during the final session. However, he said, YAF would not demonstrate or picket, as the group had earlier announced.

SDS will pass out leaflets but, according to Clark, will not stage a major demonstration.

Following is a program for the symposium on student power to be held in the Union Main Lounge today and Thursday. Larry Barrett, program director of WSUI, will moderate all the panels. After each speech, panelists will quiz the speaker for 35 to 45 minutes.

TODAY:

3:30 p.m. Speaker: Hayden, "Student Power: What Is It?"

Panel: Willard Boyd, University vice president; Carl Varner, student body president; Shelly Blum, LI, Iowa City, 8 p.m.

Speaker: Pentony, "An Administrator Looks at Student Power."

Panel: Philip Hubbard, dean of academic affairs; Howard Ehrlich, professor of sociology; Sies.

THURSDAY:

3:30 p.m. Speaker: Edwards, "Student Power and Black Power."

Panel: Phil Jones, coordinator, Martin Luther King Scholarship Fund; John Wahle, chairman, political science; Dee Norton, professor of psychology.

8 p.m. Question and Answer Session.

Senator 'Shocked' By Students' Role In President Hunt

By a Staff Writer

DES MOINES — A southwest Iowa state senator interrupted a Senate debate Tuesday to express his "shock" that the State Board of Regents was going to consult with students in picking University of Iowa Pres. Howard R. Bowen's successor.

The debate he interrupted concerned a Board of Regents bill to permit the regents to deputize campus security officers at state universities.

The senator, Vern Lisle (R-Clarinda), told the Senate that he thought the regents were "looking for trouble" in asking for student participation in choosing a new president.

Lisle said that letting students help select a new president was like letting a student driver pick a new chief of the State Highway Patrol.

"What if they would suggest an H. Rap Brown or Stokely Carmichael?" he asked. He said that students seemed to be looking for an excuse to demonstrate and insist on unreasonable demands.

Lisle said that "by coincidence, there is a group of outside radicals visiting the campus today. Maybe they have come to help in choosing an impossible candidate."

Lisle was referring to the three speakers who will be featured at a Student Power Symposium today and Thursday. They are Tom Hayden, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society; Harry Edwards, an organizer of the abortive black boycott of the Olympics; and De Vere Pentony, dean of social science at San Francisco State College.

Lisle said he wondered how the regents intended to keep the students from insisting on a president who is acceptable to a revolutionary group.

The regents have agreed to a three-member student committee, headed by Student Body Pres. Carl Varner, to assist them in screening candidates for the office.

Regents Chairman Stanley Redeker of Boone said Tuesday night that he was acquainted with Lisle's statement and had no comment.

Donald Johnson, chairman of the University Faculty Senate and professor of political science, said that he also had no comment concerning Lisle's statement. The Faculty Senate is also to help in the selection of the new president.

Sies, 4 Others Arrested For Union Gate-Crashing

Five persons — three of them students — were arrested at the Union Tuesday evening after they entered a dance in the Main Lounge and refused to buy tickets.

Those arrested and charged with disorderly conduct by city police were: Jerry Sies, A4, Iowa City; Janice Wilkinson, A1, Iowa City; Larry LaRose, A1, Arlington Heights, Ill.; Debra Jones, 19, of 106 Gilbert St.; and John Hart Jr., 19, of 115 E. Fairchild. Sies was held on two charges.

Sies, who telephoned The Daily Iowan from police headquarters, gave the following account of the incident:

The five entered the Main Lounge, where a rock group, the Rumbles, were playing at a Union Board dance, and told a ticket taker that they had no tickets and would not buy any. "This is a free concert," Sies said he told the ticket taker. Admission price for the dance was 75 cents.

After about 15 minutes, a uniformed Campus Security officer approached the five and told them that if they did not leave he would be forced to have them arrested. The group left the Ballroom and were discussing what to do in the Ballroom lobby when a plainclothes Campus Security officer, Bud Moore, and two Iowa City patrolmen arrived. Moore ordered the five arrested. The uniformed Campus officer suggested that the two girls be let go but, Sies said, Moore insisted that charges be pressed against all five.

All five were outside of the Ballroom at the time of the arrest, Sies emphasized.

Moore and the two city policemen were present at the Union due to an earlier incident allegedly involving the five.

According to Don Baird, head custodian at the Union, Sies and the others were in the Gold Feather Room throwing around ice from soft drink cups. Baird said he asked them to stop and leave. As he was leaving the group, Baird said, he was hit by a "big gob of ice" on the back of the head.

Baird then called Campus Security and Iowa City police to lodge a complaint. The second disorderly conduct charge lodged against Sies was in relation to the ice-throwing incident.

Union officials were unavailable for comment on either of the incidents Tuesday night.

The arrest of the five for the gate-crashing on the Union dance recalled a similar incident involving two students who were arrested at a concert by the Led Zeppelin, a rock group, in the Union several weeks ago.

David Sundance, G, St. Louis, and his wife, Barbara, A4, were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and resisting an officer after they refused to leave the concert when ordered to by Union officials. The Sundances had not bought tickets, had openly entered the Ballroom, where the concert was being played, and had refused to buy tickets or leave, protesting that music should be free.

Senate Picks 2 Students To Help Find President

The Student Senate chose two undergraduate students Tuesday to sit on a panel that will advise the State Board of Regents on the selection of a new president for the University.

Jim Robertson, A4, Iowa City, and Randy Swisher, A4, Atlantic, were chosen by the senate from a slate of five submitted by Student Body Pres. Carl Varner, who will head the committee. A fourth student will be chosen by the senate at a special meeting Monday from a list of graduate students to be submitted by the Graduate Student Senate.

A vigorous and lengthy debate over the role of the grad senate in choosing the an advisory panel. However, the regents requested Tuesday that another student be chosen because the names of four faculty members have been submitted to the board by the Faculty Council as an advisory panel.

In other action, the senate postponed the date of the all-campus elections indefinitely. The elections were originally scheduled for March 5. The Housing Committee of the senate will hold an open meeting at 2 p.m. Monday in the Union Activities Center to consider a report on election procedures submitted to the senate by the Elections Board.

The senate rejected the recommendation of its personnel committee on a nomination to fill a vacancy on the Traffic Court. Several senators refused to approve any more personnel committee rec-advisory panel occupied the first part of the senate meeting. The grad senate is not a recognized student organization. Some senators questioned its right to participate in the choice of a panel.

Other senators opposed the participation of the graduate group because of the loss of time in the final choice of a panel. The panel is scheduled to have its first meeting with the Board of Regents Feb. 18.

The senate's final decision was to allow the grad senate to nominate a slate of graduate students when it meets on Thursday. The senate will then interview the nominees at its Monday meeting and decide on the fourth student to sit on the panel.

Robertson is majoring in psychology and religion. He is a student senator and a member of the University Council on Teaching. Swisher is majoring in political science. He is a former student senator, former member of the Cultural Affairs Committee and the Central Party Committee and a member of the executive committee of the Human Relations Laboratory.

Robertson and Swisher were chosen from among five candidates. The three other nominees were Jill Wiley, A4E, Cedar Rapids; Morris Davis, G, Bronx, N.Y.; and Robert Lehrman, G, Cedarhurst, N.Y. A sixth candidate, David Gray, G, Miles, removed himself from the slate prior to the voting.

Originally, the Board of Regents had asked for three students to be named as ommendations until applicants were brought before the senate for personal interviews.

The senate approved the removal from the senate roll of three of its members who have exceeded the five absences allowed in the senate by-laws. Cindy Dierks, A2, Monticello; Bruce Nieman, G, Iowa City; and Tom Van Gelder, A3, Grundy Center, are the three unseated senators.

The Personnel Committee announced that two vacancies exist on the Committee on Student Conduct, one on the Committee on Student Life and one on the Recreation Committee.

Kennedy Leads Fight Against Missile System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) led an assault by bipartisan Vietnamese war policy dissenters Tuesday on the Republican administration's indications it may go ahead with a thin-line antiballistic missile system.

Kennedy, the assistant Democratic leader, said that the Sentinel ABM system, which Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird indicated he wants to build, offers no defense against sophisticated Soviet missiles, is outmoded by Chinese weapons developments, and may cost in the end $60 billion.

Foggy thinking award

Sometimes it's tough to figure out which campus extreme — the far left or the far right — is the silliest; today's prize for foggy thinking, however, goes to the far right, as represented by the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF).

The local YAF chapter has issued a vigorous protest against speeches by three men invited to the campus as part of the symposium on "student power" scheduled to begin today.

The three men are Tom Hayden, a founder of Students for a Democratic Society; Harry Edwards, organizer of the abortive black boycott of last year's Olympics; and De Vere Pentony, dean of social sciences at San Francisco State College and a noted left-wing critic of U.S. policies.

"We are amazed that much needed educational funds are utilized to sponsor revolutionaries," the YAF's press release said. The group also charged that Hayden and Edwards have "instigated riots and advocated or condoned violence if it will serve their ends."

Aside from the fact that YAF seems to have committed textbook libel or slander against Hayden and Edwards, the group has not stopped to think about the consequences of the action they demand, which is cancellation of those three speakers.

YAF says these three men preach violence and revolution, ideas that could corrupt or prostitute our minds and therefore should not be allowed on campus.

The question is not necessarily who should be prohibited from speaking on campus but who should do the prohibiting, and why. YAF objects to the use of student fees to pay the expenses of the speakers, since, the group says, students had no control over who was selected to speak (despite the fact the committees sponsoring the event are chosen by Student Senate). But who will make the selections, and on what basis? Shall we eliminate all speakers from the campus whose ideas are "dangerous" or disapproved of by the majority of students or administrators or state legislators? Would Pres. Howard R. Bowen be given sole responsibility to determine what the students should hear and what they shouldn't hear? At that point, any notions about "academic freedom" and free expression would go out the window.

There is a little item in the American tradition called "freedom of speech." It ought to be honored by modern society more than it is now—and certainly honored, in spades, in the groves of Academe. It was really quite cagey of this nation's founders to include that ideal in the Constitution — for it is not just a right, it is a weapon and a protective device in a very curious way: it protects and stabilizes society from injurious forces by giving those injurious forces enough rope to hang themselves with. It has to do with something called the "free marketplace of ideas."

That idea is a good deal more important than Union lectures or the YAF's disapproval; it's more important than new buildings, higher salaries for professors, or juicy research grants; and it is certainly more important than a $1,500 lecture fee. That little idea—freedom of speech—is worth every penny that's needed to keep it going, and worth every effort to protect it on our part because we are citizens and especially because we are part of a university community.

It is odd that a group with the name "Young Americans for Freedom" should be so determined to oppress a vital freedom, but perhaps that isn't surprising. Sometimes it seems that some of the people who put high-sounding labels on themselves like "Young Americans for Freedom" or "Students for a Democratic Society" are less interested in either freedom or democracy than their labels imply.

Take advantage of Dean Huit

All during first semester, M. L. Huit, dean of student affairs, sat in a little room in the Union, several hours a week, all by himself.

This semester he's moved to Burge Hall, and will probably sit there all by himself again, from 2:30 to 5 p.m. every Tuesday.

His purpose in sitting there is to talk to students, but students won't talk to him. It seems that students don't know he's there, or are afraid to talk to a real dean, or think their problems are not worthy of his consideration, or just cynically assume that he can't or won't do anything worthwhile or specific.

Students often get the feeling that the University is so bound up in its own red tape that it doesn't even know students are around. Although that seems to be generally true, for once someone has cut through a couple of strands of that red tape, poked his administrative head out, and said, "Look over here, you can talk to me. I can help you."

Aha the cynics say, he wouldn't really help me. But Dean Huit is giving us the chance to find out, from 2:30 to 5 p.m. every Tuesday in Burge Hall, and perhaps we ought to take advantage of that chance. He might not be able to change your grades for you... but then again, he might.

The strange case of James Earl Ray—

Ray was penny-ante—till April, 1968

By BERNARD GAVZER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

PART TEN

In Washington, D.C., the FBI issued a fugitive warrant for the arrest of one Eric Starvo Galt. He was described as a man with a "rural" way of speaking; a taste for vodka and beer; and a preference for country and western music. He was said to "have a nervous habit of occasionally pulling at an ear lobe with his hand. His left ear protrudes further from his head than his right ear."

The complaint charged:

"On or about Mar. 29, 1968, at Birmingham, Ala., Eric Starvo Galt and an individual whom he alleged to be his brother, entered into a conspiracy which continued until on or about April 5, 1968, to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate Martin Luther King Jr. in free exercise or enjoyment of a right secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States; namely, the right to freely travel from state to state. In furtherance of this conspiracy, Eric Starvo Galt did on or about Mar. 30, 1968, purchase a rifle at Birmingham, Ala. . . ."

Photographs of the wanted man showed a man with his eyes closed. He was wearing a dark or black suit jacket that was cut so much of a white shirt could be seen, the sort of jacket that might go with a tuxedo. The black bowtie added to the idea that it was a tuxedo-style jacket. A second version of the same photograph was distributed, this time with eyes painted in by an FBI artist.

(There is a real Eric S. Galt. The full name is Eric St. Vincent Galt. He is a man of 54 and an employe of Union Carbide in Toronto. This Galt was found to be a law-abiding, responsible citizen.)

He had no idea how anyone came to be using his name. An avid scuba diver, he had traveled to U.S. shore areas on vacations. But how anyone could have had access to his papers or to information about him, he could not fathom. He abbreviated his middle name, St. Vincent, as St. V., making little circles for the periods. One reading the signature could interpret it as saying "Starvo."

A Lot Of Aliases

The next day, April 18, at Mrs. Szpakowsky's roominghouse, her young daughter answered the phone and a man asked for "Paul Bridgman." He was not home, she said. No message was left.

Over on Dundas Street, "Ramon George Sneyd" saw Mrs. Yee Sun Loo and gave her $9, a week's rent, in advance, and said he'd be moving in later. He did, on April 19.

And now, the alias "Eric Starvo Galt" is officially discovered. In Washington, D.C., the fingerprints are matched and there is no mistake about it: the wanted man is James Earl Ray, an escaped convict from the Missouri State Penitentiary. He had been serving 20 years for armed robbery and as an habitual criminal. He had already served seven years when he escaped April 23, 1967.

In St. Louis, at "The Grapevine" tavern on the South Side, John Larry Ray heard the news stoically. It was on the radio. His brother was wanted for one of the sensational killings of our time. He went on serving his customers.

"But I was kind of surprised," John Larry says. "Personally, I got doubts myself that Jimmy did the actual killing. He wasn't the kind of guy who broods a lot, and he wasn't a political guy."

"If I had to see a reason, and there was no money involved, then I can't see Jimmy doing it. He was no racist. My brother, Jerry, will tell you the same thing."

Did It For Money?

Jerry, who was working as a maintenance man at Sportsman Country Club near Northbrook, a Chicago suburb, said James "was never a man of violence."

"Look at all the money he came into all of a sudden. Buying Mustangs, taking dancing lessons, taking trips to Mexico," Jerry said.

But John Larry and Jerry are hardly the best authorities regarding James Earl. "I ain't saw Jim on the outside since 1949. Only on the inside," admits John Larry, who entered Menard Prison in Illinois June 1, 1953, on a 5 to 10 years sentence for motor vehicle larceny. He was known as John Ryan, Inmate No. 23401. He was released Feb. 1, 1960.

Jerry entered Menard Feb. 26, 1954, on a 2-to-5 for larceny, under the name Gerald Ryan. Before then, he had been at St. Charles Reform School in Illinois. He was paroled from Menard Dec. 12, 1955, and returned as a parole violator Aug. 1, 1958. He was discharged May 6, 1960.

Brother Jim had been elsewhere most of the time since 1949. So there were few and rare occasions for the brothers to see or know one another, especially as free men.

At the Missouri State Penitentiary in Jefferson City, Mo., it was approximately 3:25 p.m. on Sunday, April 23, 1967, when Lt. William R. Turner, Control Center Desk Officer, was told there had been an escape from the institution.

Escaped in Bread Box

The formal count at 5 p.m. showed that Inmate James E. Ray, No. 00416, assigned to the Main Kitchen on the 11 a.m.-7 p.m. shift, had not reported for work at 11 a.m. He was missing from the 5 p.m. count. A search was made of the grounds and walls, inside and out, without result.

Ray, according to Huit, claims to have got out at approximately 8:30 a.m. when a guard nodded and he sprinted 75 feet from the kitchen loading dock to the 23-foot wall, at a point where there is a tunnel through it.

Ray supposedly hoisted himself atop a pipeline and from this starting point of about 6 feet up the wall, managed to get sufficient hold in crevices by using a four foot rod to hoist himself in stages over the wall. The rod has a hook on the end and is used in the kitchen to move hot pans in large ovens.

"Ray is covering up," says Fred Wilkinson, Missouri State Director of Corrections. "We discovered very early in the game that he was aided in the escape by another inmate. We know who that inmate is and he is still in prison. Regardless of what Ray says now, we are satisfied that he got out hidden in a bread box."

Wilkinson and others previously reconstructed the escape as having occurred in this way: An inmate helped him get into a 3x5 bread box, squishing the loaves as he got in, and then covering him with bread. The box was placed on an open state truck for a two and a half mile trip to the Renz farm, which is a prison farm.

Other Convicts Kept Quiet

The 3x5 bread box was hauled to the Renz farm where the prisoners noticed the squashed and ruined bread, but said nothing. They had enough bread for the day and so no issue was made of it. However, if they did know it was part of an escape, they probably would not have said a word because the inmate code is to seal lips on any escape attempt.

"There is no question about the state of the bread. A man had been in the bread box and we are certain it was Ray," says Wilkinson. "Also, even on a Sunday morning there is a lot of movement around the loading dock with at least five or six trucks there. He couldn't have run across the yard without being spotted."

The saga of Ray's life and the hard-luck family from which he emerged now began to unfold.

James Earl was the first of nine children. One was to die in a fire, another in a car which plunged into a river, James Earl and his two closest brothers, John Larry and Jerry, were eventually to know lives behind the walls of penitentiaries. James Earl, disgruntled at being shifted out of the Military Police when in the army in the late 1940s, opted for a bad discharge and was released for "ineptness" for military service. His career as an armed robber and burglar seems to have been a remarkably inept one since his record shows a record of apprehensions, convictions and prison sentences. But no one has accounted for the successful stickups, which he surely must have had.

Earlier Escape Attempts

The caper that failed and put him into Missouri State Penitentiary for a 20-year stretch was the Oct. 10, 1959, armed robbery of a Kroger Supermarket in St. Louis. Ray and a companion got $120 from the cash register, after failing to get the manager to open the store safe, and were photographed in the process. In the getaway, they were pursued by another customer, who saw them switch cars. Ray's car was spotted on a street, and within minutes the police were on him.

On the day he was being taken to court for sentencing, he attempted to get away from deputy Sheriff Earl Riley by leaping into an elevator on the third floor of the city jail. He failed to close the outside door so the elevator wouldn't move. Riley went into the elevator, cuffed Ray and brought him into court, where he drew 20 years for armed robbery under the Habitual Criminal Act. On Mar. 17, 1960, he entered the big pen at Jefferson City.

James Earl Ray, Inmate No. 00416, tried to escape soon after he entered. He tried scaling a wall. It was futile. That's the kind of gesture that usually ends in death because the wall guards are generally sharpshooters, and have some very heavy firepower if they need it.

Nearly six years after he entered, he tried again. On Mar. 12, 1966, he and another convict, Joseph Seibert, put dumbbells in their beds. Seibert was found quickly. But not Ray. It took two days to locate him. He was found hiding in a ventilator shaft.

This break attempt resulted in his being shipped to the Missouri State Hospital at Fulton, Mo., in Sept., 1966, where he was placed under five weeks observation.

Ray Suffered Neurosis

Dr. Henry V. Guhlman Jr., a psychiatrist at Fulton, was to report later in a story copyrighted by the Chicago Daily News that psychological testing of Ray showed he was an "obsessive-compulsive personality" beset by fears that he would come to harm. There was "no evidence of delusions, hallucinations or paranoid ideas," he said.

By this time, the Ray family had been further wounded by tragedy. Ray's brother, Franklin, drowned in 1963 when his car plunged into the Mississippi River across from Quincy, Ill.

Returned to Jefferson City, Ray also returned to thinking about how to get out. He succeeded on April 23, 1967. The fugitive flyer he headed: "WANTED ESCAPED CONVICT" stipulated a $50 reward for his arrest and detention. It wasn't distributed until May 17, nearly a month after he was gone. This was mailed to almost all major police jurisdictions in the nation.

The Sunday morning Ray vanished was the start of new and unusual — for him — luck in getting around and keeping out of trouble. He went on foot for the first four or five days and finally got to the St. Louis area where a friend — so far, not publicly identified — took him to Edwardsville, Ill., where he got a bus for Chicago. The Huit-Ray story is that Ray had saved or otherwise collected $300 in prison and came out with the money in his shoe.

Sets Out For Canada

Ray next returned to the St. Louis area and spent almost a week with friends in Quincy, Ill., and again went to Chicago, then coming back to East St. Louis, where he was to get a .38 pistol from a friend. From there, he set out for Canada, driving a 1962 red Plymouth which he reportedly bought in East St. Louis. He reportedly earlier had a 1960 Chrysler, picked up in Chicago for $100.

Ray arrived in Montreal on July 18 and got a room for $75 a month at Har-K Apartments, 2589 E. Notre Dame St. So far as is known, he remained in Montreal until Aug. 21, 1967.

During that time, he enrolled in a correspondence course in locksmithing from a New Jersey school. The FBI reportedly has evidence he used the name "Galt" in applying. He also was running short of money, and according to the Huit-Ray story, obtained $800 in the armed robbery of a Montreal brothel.

Ray Headed South From Montreal

where he purportedly met the mysterious "Raoul" — and arrived in Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 25, whence began the episode involving the purchase of Paisley's white Mustang and the subsequent travels to Mexico and Los Angeles and New Orleans and Los Angeles again, then the journey in which he is "Eric Starvo Galt" in an Atlanta roominghouse and becomes "Harvey Lowmyer" when a rifle is bought in Birmingham and allegedly "John Willard" when he is in the roominghouse at 422 1/2 S. Main St., a place with a vantage point to strike down the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

'Watch those bread crumbs — bread costs money'

Reader thinks abortion law wouldn't be 'blessed event'

To the editor:
THE SCENE — COMEDY OR TRAGEDY?

Ostentatiously affectionate young married couple, already parents of two small children ages 5 and 2 1/2 (Properly and evenly spaced). Wife and mother: "Oh darling, I've got good news for you. I saw my obstetrician today and she confirmed that I am going to have a baby. I have already phoned Mother and she is coming right away to take care of the children while I'm in the hospital. Arrangements have already been made for my admittance to the hospital. I'm so happy this is now possible, aren't you?" Husband and father: "Yes, dear. It makes all the difference in the world." Child returns home from kindergarten at about the same time his grandmother arrives. Soberly, W&M explains to the two youngsters why grandmother has come to visit them. "You might have a new baby brother or sister, but I'm going to the hospital now and the doctor will perform an abortion (she used the word because it was the right one and she wanted to rightfully educate her children on the subject of sex and its subsequent consequences and privileges as a dutiful W&M) which means that I won't be bringing any new baby home." Children, in unison: "We're so glad you're doing this. We won't have to feel the new baby is so special and that you are giving more attention than you are to us," copying the example of children like those they see in TV commercials.

The usual congratulatory cards are received by the hospital patient. Elated friends and relatives gather around her bedside to share the happy parents' joy. The kindergarten reports to his teacher that there won't be any upcoming event such as a new brother or sister arriving as might have been because mama went to the hospital already and the doctor cut it out of her.

Proud H&F has delivered to W&M one red rose, the red symbolic of the blood shed during the surgical procedure to accomplish such a heartrending heroic deed.

Certain falls amid the plaudits of the populace! Several subjects receiving prominence in the press have prompted the above, namely criticism of the Pope's ban on contraceptives, the need for sex education and its inclusion in school curricula, and the movement to reform abortion laws.

Where do you fit into the picture? I wish to go on record as opposing passage of the Ely abortion bill that may come up again in the current Iowa legislative session.

Actor misquoted in Saturday's DI

I want to apologize publicly to Aaron Favors for misquoting him in Saturday's issue of The Daily Iowan, in a story about (the Iowa City Community Theatre Production of) "A Raisin in the Sun." The blame is entirely mine, not The Daily Iowan's.

The quote should have read as follows: "Although the goal of the black man is no longer considered to be joining the white community (as is shown in the play), the drama does have timely features."

Sirhan, Mother Testify; Defense Motion Nixed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The tiny gray-haired mother of the man charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy testified Tuesday that as a housekeeper she never earned more than $1,800 a year for her immigrant family, then added softly:

"I thank God that he gave me the strength and I thank you nice people also that I never got hungry and have a roof over my head."

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, and his 55-year-old mother, Mary, both testified briefly in support of a defense motion to quash the grand jury murder indictment against him on grounds makeup of the jury is unbalanced.

The judge denied the motion in a one-minute afternoon court session.

Said Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker: "The motion will be denied on two grounds. I do not believe it is relevant to these proceedings, and secondly as to merits."

Court was adjourned until 9:30 today when the jury will be sworn in and selection of six alternate jurors begun.

Sirhan, poised and speaking clearly but with a touch of accent of his native Jordan, testified tersely in confirming his own income figures: 1965, $384.90; 1966, $2,212.46; 1967, $432.96; 1968, $752.35.

The money, he said, came from jobs at a drive-in, a motor service firm, a ranch, a construction firm and a food store.

The defense presented testimony that the grand jury was mostly made up of people in professional sales or managerial jobs with college educations, and had no members under 30 or poor.

Mrs. Sirhan, who has been in court almost daily since her son went on trial charged with murder in the gunshot slaying of Kennedy last June, provided the surprise with her "thank you" remarks.

The Sirhan family including the father, came to this country from Palestine in 1957 but the father returned. Mrs. Sirhan, four sons and a daughter who since has died eventually settled in nearby Pasadena.

Sirhan was smiling and jaunty when he entered court, dressed neatly in a gray suit. During five minutes on the stand he replied mostly "yes" and "yes sir" to questions from defense and prosecution.

Asked his age, he said: "I'll be 25 next month."

"Did you turn over your money to your mother?"

"Part of it."

But details of why Liao Hocht defected and which agency is responsible for him were cloaked in mystery.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey at the State Department refused to describe Liao's professional skills in the Chinese diplomatic service.

Presumably he would return to Paris some time after the holiday, which begins Feb. 17.

This coincided with wide-spread rumors of a reshuffling of South Vietnam's Cabinet under President Nguyen Van Thieu and Ky. Speculation centered about roles for such figures as Duong Van "Big" Minh and Tran Van Don in a new government.

Minh, who is popular in Saigon, held power briefly after the 1963 overthrow of the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem. Don is regarded as a supporter of Ky.

The sources reported only that Ky — who is coordinator of his delegation to the Vietnam peace talks and does not attend the sessions in person — likes to spend the Tet holiday with South Vietnamese troops.

Paris (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky plans to leave Paris temporarily and return to South Vietnam in time for the lunar new year (Tet), diplomatic informants said Tuesday.

China Seeks Concessions For Better U.S. Relations

TOKYO (AP) — China watchers believe that any steps the Nixon administration takes to improve relations with China will fall unless the United States agrees to withdraw its forces from Formosa.

President Nixon is reported planning to propose to Peking some relaxation of travel and communication restrictions as a first move in a thaw of relations.

Nixon's diplomatic probe is expected to be made when suspended ambassadorial meetings are resumed in Warsaw, at China's suggestion, Feb. 20.

China watchers noted that in calling for the renewed talks, Peking in an official Hsinhua (New China) news agency dispatch, Nov. 26, said it would not be satisfied with "side issues."

Saying China has repeatedly told the United States that it will never "barter away principles," the agency asserted: "If the U.S. side continues its current practice of haggling over side issues, no result whatsoever will come of the Chinese-U.S. ambassadorial talks no matter which administration assumes office in the United States."

Some officials in Washington grasped at Hsinhua's statement that the United States should agree to reach an agreement with China on the five Peking principles of peaceful coexistence. They saw this as a possible sign the Chinese want better relations.

The principles are respect for territorial integrity, noninterference, equality, nonaggression and living together in peace.

These officials, however, ignored the first part of Hsinhua's declaration which said: "First, the U.S. government undertakes to immediately withdraw all its armed forces from China's territory, Taiwan (Formosa) Province and the Taiwan Strait area and dismantle all its military installations in Taiwan Province."

Pacific Oil Slick Drifts Around Game Area

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A 10x20-mile oil slick fed by an ocean-floor gusher completely surrounded Anacapa Island Tuesday and drifted within two miles of this resort city's beach and yacht basin.

Winds which had been pushing the slime out to sea calmed, allowing tides and currents to carry it toward the Southern California coast.

Rocky and barren Anacapa, a national monument and game preserve, seemed to float in a sea of oil that imperiled hundreds of seals that use it as a refuge.

A few miles to the west, a portion of uninhabited Santa Cruz Island was awash with oil, still gushing up at a rate of 21,000 gallons a day from an underwater well that blew out a week ago.

The two islands are part of a chain 20 miles offshore that rim a deep Pacific Ocean channel opened to oil drilling by the federal government last February.

Wildlife authorities feared the oil slick — appearing from the air like a giant ink blot spreading from the well six miles offshore — might endanger hundreds of grey whales which ply the channel each winter en route to breeding lagoons in Baja, California. Nearly 30 of the 40-foot-long mammals were spotted Monday, surfacing in the blackened waters to breathe.

Meantime, drilling in the Santa Barbara channel remained suspended indefinitely as officials conferred on new regulations to prevent future pollution.

The operations were shut down Monday at the request of Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, who flew over the spreading slick and later reported "the pollution is more severe than I anticipated."

The one exception to the shutdown was a second well at the gusher site, being drilled in an effort to relieve underground pressure forcing oil upward through a crack in the ocean floor.

Baseball Names Interim Head

MIAMI — Bowie Kuhn, the National League's attorney, was named commissioner of baseball on a temporary basis Tuesday.

Kuhn's appointment as commissioner for a one-year term at $100,000 a year was recommended by the Baseball Planning Committee and approved unanimously by the owners.

The committee said Kuhn was the only one considered for the temporary post.

Kuhn's primary duty during the next year will be to work with the planning committee on a restructure of baseball, such as combining the league offices into one headquarters.

Purdue Tops Iowa, 99-87

By MIKE EBBING

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Purdue, lead by a career-high performance by Rick Mount, gained a little breathing room in the big 10 race here Tuesday night with a hard-fought 99-87 victory over Iowa.

The Hawks closed the gap to four points late in the game, but the shooting heroics of Mount and Herman Gilliam proved to be too much for Iowa, now 3-2 in the conference and 10-5 overall.

Mount topped his previous high of 43 points when he connected on a layup with 38 seconds left in the game. The bucket gave the junior from Lebanon, Ind., 45 points, including 21 of 31 field goal attempts for a sparkling .677 percentage.

Gilliam, a 6-3 senior guard, added 26 points to give the two scoring stars a combined total of 71.

The Hawks made a game out of it after Glenn Vidnovic and Dick Jensen each connected on a pair of free throws and Chad Calabria added a field goal to cut the Boilermaker lead to 81-77 with just 5:26 left.

Ben McGilmer added two free throws after Mount hit a driving layup to leave the Hawks in striking distance at 83-79.

The next time the Boilermakers brought the ball up, however, proved to be the deciding factor. Mount found the range on a 20-foot jumper and was hacked by Vidnovic on the play. Vidnovic left the game with his fifth foul and 23 points for Iowa scoring honors.

To add the damage, Mount turned it into a three-point play and the Boilermakers advanced their lead to 86-79. In the final three and a half minutes, Purdue outscored the Hawks 13-8 and the Boilermakers are now the team to beat in the conference with a 5-0 mark.

Vidnovic almost proved too much for Purdue to handle as he went to the free throw line 13 times and swished every attempt. His 13-13 night at the line eclipsed the Iowa record of 12-12 set by Sam Williams against Ohio State in 1967.

Vidnovic upped his league-leading conference free throw mark to an amazing .958 (43-45). The Big 10 record is .923 (36-39) held by Indiana's John McGlocklin in 1965.

Jensen was next in line for the Hawks with 20 points. John Johnson added 18 points, McGilmer 14 and Calabria 11.

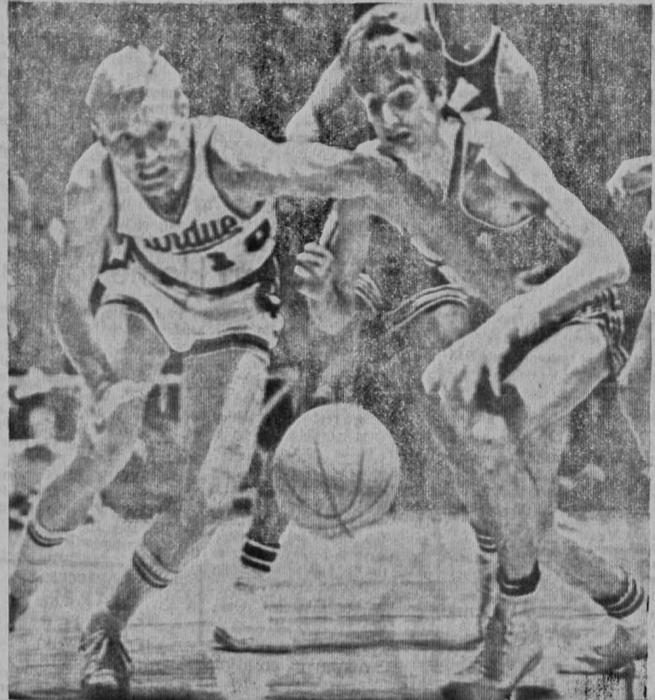

McGilmer also had a hot night at the free throw line with 6 of 6 to give him 21 straight. Calabria lost his string of 21 when he missed his first attempt. Vidnovic, now working on a new string, connected on 29 straight before he missed his last attempt against Davidson Saturday.

Mount and Gilliam proved to be a two-man team for Purdue in the opening 10 minutes of the first half as they accounted for the Boilermakers' first 28 points. The first Purdue player other than Mount or Gilliam to break into the scoring column was Bill

Career High 45 Points for Mount—

Purdue's sharpshooting guard Rick Mount (10) goes around Iowa's Glenn Vidnovic to grab a loose ball Tuesday in Lafayette. Mount scored a career high 45 points in leading the 9th ranked Boilermakers to a 99-87 victory over the Hawks. Vidnovic topped the Iowa scorers with 23.

Keller, who connected on a free throw with 10:22 left in the half. Mount finished up the first half displaying the technique that won him the conference scoring crown last year. He poured in 22 points and Gilliam added 16 at intermission.

Purdue shot a blazing .611 percentage from the field in the first half and finished with a highly touted .587 mark. The Hawkeyes did some torrid shooting also with .509.

The Hawks led only three times in the game at 2-0, 6-4, and 7-6, before Purdue surged to a 15 point lead (41-26) with only 5:22 left in the half. The Boilermakers went on to take a 51-39 lead into the dressing room.

Purdue's first half scoring spree took place after Calabria went to the bench with three fouls. At that time, Purdue led by only four at 20-16.

The loss dropped the Hawks down into a third place tie with Illinois — a tie that will be broken Saturday afternoon when the Hawks venture to Champaign.

Purdue, which jumped up to ninth in the latest Associated Press ratings, travels to Evanston Saturday for a game with Northwestern.

Ray Defends Medicaid from Fraud Charge

DES MOINES — Gov. Robert D. Ray said Tuesday county officials are to blame if ineligible persons are receiving public medical assistance under Iowa's troubled Medicaid program.

The governor emphasized, however, that he is not ready to condemn the Medicaid program simply on the basis of allegations of fraud by a state representative.

Ray met privately with Social Services Director Maurice Harmon to discuss the multimillion-dollar medical aid program Tuesday morning.

Rep. James T. Klein (R-Lake Mills) charged in a House speech Monday that the program may be "the most gigantic swindle on the public purse we have seen in years."

Klein said an investigation of the Medicaid program in Winnebago County indicated that many persons receiving the free medical aid actually are not eligible for it.

"I don't think you can draw wide conclusions based upon a weekend investigation in one county," said Ray.

And the governor pointed out that county officials — not the State Department of Social Services — determine who is eligible for the program.

"I'm concerned any time there is fraud," Ray said, "but if it does exist, it's been permitted by local people."

Harmon told the governor that his department is investigating Klein's allegations but "no state department has the personnel to interview everybody who applies for welfare."

In fact, Department of Social Services officials reported Tuesday that, under federal regulations, they have checked only 150 Medicaid recipients a year to see if they qualified for the program.

The Medicaid rolls normally number some 18,000 Iowans.

SLEEP SPECIALIST TO TALK—A specialist in the study of sleep, Dr. William C. Dement, professor of psychiatry at Stanford University, will present a lecture at 4:10 p.m. today in the Medical Amphitheatre at General Hospital.

Police Chief Denies Charge

DAVENPORT — Police Chief Les Jurgens denied Tuesday an allegation that he has taken time off as compensation for holiday work which he did not actually perform.

The grievances were submitted by Local 2 of the Iowa State Policemen's Association, and Jurgens said they would meet with spokesmen for the association to discuss the complaints.

Aside from the holiday complaint, the local claimed the secretary-treasurer of the credit union has conducted union business on police time, Jurgens has prohibited use of a certain type of cold weather jacket, the chief determines promotions on his own, he forbids patrolmen specialists from showing their rank on uniforms and he has assigned only one man to the narcotics detail.

The chief said a second man will be trained for narcotics work, he has no objection to patrolmen displaying an appropriate insignia of rank and the cold weather jacket prohibited by him is one of poor quality.

He also said the secretary-treasurer of the credit union was not to his knowledge doing a union bookwork on police time.

Student Drawing to Be Shown

"Wedding Portrait," a drawing by Leonard Lasansky, A4, Iowa City, has been chosen for an exhibition which will be circulated for two years by the Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition Service.

John Canaday, art critic for the New York Times, chose 50 works for the exhibition from the 23rd American Drawing Biennial at the Norfolk, Va., Museum of Arts and Sciences, where the Lasansky drawing went on exhibition Sunday for the first time.

Canaday also listed the drawing as one of the 20 best works in the Norfolk exhibition and recommended it for purchase. He was the one-man juror of selections and awards for the Norfolk show. The Norfolk Museum has purchased "Wedding Portrait" for its collection of American drawings.

"Shotgun Wedding," a life-size multi-figure drawing by Lasansky, is now being shown in the

Lasansky is the son of Mauricio Lasansky, professor of art.

Art Professor to Spend Spring on Mississippi

During the second semester, John Schulze, professor of art, will make a photographic study of life along the Mississippi River and along the Gulf coast as far south as Yucatan. He is among several faculty members granted research assignments for the semester. Schulze plans to publish a book of photographs comparing primitive aspects of life in this country and in Mexico and showing changes in both areas in recent years.
