Grad Teachers Threaten To Picket over Demands

Sixty graduate assistant members of an American Federation of Teachers local voted Monday night to present seven demands to University Pres. Howard R. Bowen after the Easter break.

If the demands are rejected, the assistants plan to picket classroom buildings.

The assistants said they would use the expected rejection to build sympathy among graduate assistants and extend the union membership. Of 1,301 graduate assistants at the University, about 200 are union members.

The union, which was organized last fall, received recognition from the American Federation of Teachers earlier this month.

Their demands call for:

- More pay. A 6 per cent raise across the board, but no less than $3,000 salaries for half-time, $2,000 salaries for third-time appointments.

- The pay raise would mean a total $400,000 payroll increase.

- Free tuition for graduate assistants.

- Dependency allowance.

- Within departments, equal pay for graduate assistants performing equal work.

- Administration declaration that policy within departments should be that graduate assistants have priority in having appointments renewed each year, so long as they are performing satisfactorily in their work and studies and that enforcement or appeal machinery of some kind be set up.

- Just suspension and dismissal procedures.

A suspension and dismissal procedure is expected to clear the faculty senate shortly. Union members indicated they considered the faculty plan, adopted with graduate assistant consultation, as just.

- More freedom for teaching assistants in planning the courses they teach.

Debate arose over the tactics of confronting the administration without the power to strike and without a large membership. Opponents said the union would have nothing to fall back on if its demands were rejected.

Those in favor of the confrontation said they would gain publicity and support from non-members if the demands were rejected.

Assistants will begin today to distribute petitions among grad assistants enlisting support for the pay increase demand. Organizers said their names would provide support for the union in the discussions with Bowen.

Two committees were named. One will write a constitution for the union. The other, a negotiating steering and organization committee, will meet with Bowen and be responsible for signing new members.

If the demands are rejected, the union has scheduled a mass meeting for graduate students April 16 when they will discuss tactics.

Final Tribute to Eisenhower Paid; Journey Home Begins

Eisenhower Lies in State

WASHINGTON (AP) — A train carrying the body of Dwight D. Eisenhower pulled out of Washington late Monday night on its way to Abilene, Kan., where the old soldier, president and statesman will be laid to rest Wednesday.

The departure of the train was a quiet anticlimax to the grandeur of the day — a day highlighted by the majesty of a state funeral for the hero of World War II and the 34th president of the United States.

In the vaulted grandeur of Washington National Cathedral, mourning leaders of America and other lands prayed Monday to the God who "maketh wars to cease" for the eternal peace of Eisenhower.

The majesty of state funeral, and the simpler tribute of Americans who had

So were Belgium's King Baudouin, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi of Iran, Prince Georg of Denmark, dozens of others from abroad.

Then the benediction, spoken by the Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton, bishop of Washington:

"Unto God's gracious mercy and protection we commit Dwight Eisenhower."

Finally, the congregation rose to sing "Onward Christian Soldiers," and the funeral was at an end.

Mrs. Eisenhower wept during the service, her emotions breaking for the first time her public mask of controlled grief.

Nixon, showing his grief, stared downward as the service concluded.

When the congregation rose for the final hymn, Mrs. Eisenhower was slow getting to her feet. Her son, John, reached down to help her. She sang for a time, but stopped, hands shaking.

Then, slowly, the pallbearers carried Eisenhower's coffin to begin its final journey. A great bell high in the tower of the cathedral tolled, the Marine Corps Band played "Army Blue."

A crowd of perhaps 1,000 people waited nearby to watch the procession and the dignitaries come and go.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson and his wife were at the funeral, one year to the day after the speech in which he renounced the Democratic nomination for another term in the White House.

Harry S. Truman, the only other living former president, was in Key West, Fla., unable because of age and health to attend.

The Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, minister of the National Presbyterian Church which Eisenhower attended while president, led the mourners in a responsive reading of Psalms.

In a pastoral prayer, Elson asked for "eyes to see and spirit to feel the unbounded spirit of thy servant, Dwight David."

Representatives of more than 120 nations were among the 2,107 people invited to the funeral. Among them were 18 heads of state or government, one of the greatest assemblages of world leaders in the history of Washington.

But for 20 hours, through a cold night, a sunny but chilly morning, and into the afternoon, the ritual of national farewell to the 34th president of the United States belonged to the everyday American.

Some 50,000 of them were estimated to have come to the Capitol where Eisenhower's body lay in state.

After the pomp and ceremony was over, the long journey by rail began — in an aged railroad baggage car, newly painted but flaked with rust, halfway across the nation to Eisenhower's burial on the Kansas prairie of his boyhood.

Classes Halt, Offices Close During Funeral

University offices closed and classes were suspended from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Monday in observance of a national day of mourning for Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The free hour was scheduled so students and staff might watch the former president's funeral service on television.

Iowa State University, Ames, and the University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls, also closed down for an hour at 3:30 Monday afternoon.

filed past the flag-draped coffin in the Rotunda of the Capitol, offered a nation's farewell to the 78-year-old Eisenhower, who died Friday of congestive heart failure.

The 2,107 seats in the main chapel of the vast, Gothic cathedral were filled by the might of the nation and the world. The medaled tunics of royalty shone amid the somber dark suits in the congregation.

One among the invited was missing: Milton S. Eisenhower, 68, youngest brother of the late president, take. ill three hours before the service.

The younger Eisenhower was reported resting comfortably at Walter Reed Army Hospital. He was said to have been feeling dizzy, but there was no word on the nature of his illness.

From the high altar, the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the Episcopal cathedral, read the words common to every Christian funeral: "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

Mrs. Eisenhower, veiled in black, took a handkerchief from her purse, wiped her eyes, as the funeral service began.

She averted her gaze as military pallbearers carried the soldier's coffin to a bier at the foot of the altar. At times during the service, she lowered her head.

President Nixon and his family were among the mourners for his former chief. President Charles de Gaulle sat erect, in uniform at the rites for the man who directed the liberation of France during World War II.

The premiers of Germany and of Italy, the foes of the allies in that conflict, were there.

Public Hearing Slated On Parking Proposal

A public hearing will be held Wednesday to discuss the revised parking proposal for the campus for the 1969-1970 school year.

The Parking and Security Committee will entertain comments and criticisms of the plan beginning at 1 p.m. in the Old Capitol House Chamber.

The present plan under discussion was drawn up as a result of criticism leveled at the first proposal in a public hearing on March 13. Parking Director John D. Dooley, who drew up both plans, said he tried to take this criticism into account in the latest proposal.

Elements of the new proposal include an increase in student meter rates, faculty-staff parking stickers and storage lot fees. It also calls for the initiation of a shuttle bus system and the addition of another storage lot. Under the plan, persons who buy stickers for the storage lots would be able to use the bus system free of charge while those not having these stickers would be charged 10 cents per ride.

The committee has not yet taken any action on the proposal, pending the outcome of the hearing Wednesday.

Freeing of 8 Suspects Stirs Criticism in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — A judge's release of eight men police wanted held in connection with an inner city shootout in which one policeman was killed brought these developments Monday:

- Contempt proceedings against a prosecutor.

- Criticism by two police organizations.

- Talk of a possible investigation by the state bar association.

Carl Parsell, president of the Detroit Police Officers Association, said the action of Recorder's Judge George Crockett in releasing the men, among some 100 persons arrested after a policeman was killed Saturday midnight, "has given people a free license to shoot policemen . . . without fear of punishment."

Crockett, a black, ordered the men released because he said they had not been advised of their right to call attorneys before being given a nitrate test to determine whether they had fired guns.

Authorities later said some of the tests had been positive and that the quick release hampered their investigation.

The suburban Pontiac Police Officers Association also issued a statement supporting a possible state bar investigation of Crockett. Gilbert H. Davis, president of the state bar association, had said earlier his organization may look into Crockett's handling of the case.

In the Saturday night incident, Patrolman Michael Czapski, 23, was killed and his partner, Patrolman Richard Worobec, 28, seriously wounded as they investigated a group of a dozen armed blacks they had seen leaving the church where a rally of a separatist organization, Republic of New Africa, was in progress.

Four others, all blacks, were wounded in the gunfight which followed Worobec's radio call for help. Another black woman suffered a broken leg.

Crockett cited Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan for contempt of court after the two had an angry exchange of words when the prosecutor tried to keep one of the men in custody.

Meanwhile, the pastor of the New Bethel church, where the incident began, said: "I'd rent the church again to the same group if I'm assured they don't have guns."

The Rev. C. D. Franklin, father of singer Aretha Franklin, told a news conference, "I do not denounce these people. Their goals are the same as ours, only they approach them from different directions."

Blacks at the scene denied they had fired on police from within the church. Muta Ali, 27, of New York, said: "They came in like mad dogs and started shooting from the side and the front at the same time."

Ray Trial Judge Dies in Chambers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The judge who presided over the James Earl Ray case since last summer died of an apparent heart attack in his chambers Monday.

Shelby County Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle, 60, was found slumped over his desk. He was pronounced dead on arrival at a Memphis hospital.

Battle accepted Ray's March 1 plea of guilty to the murder of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., and sentenced Ray to 99 years in the Tennessee state penitentiary in Nashville.

While Ray entered a guilty plea to the King slaying, he later said he was pressured into doing so and would seek a review of his case.

Under Tennessee law, it would have been Battle, as the judge who passed sentence, who would grant such a review.

Council Expected to OK Parking Lots

The City Council is expected to put into action tonight a plan for constructing five new downtown parking lots before a ramp is built.

The proposed lots would provide about 600 new spaces along Burlington and Van Buren streets at a cost of $1 million. Construction would be financed by parking meter revenues.

Councilmen agreed 4 to 1 at their informal meeting Monday afternoon to include on tonight's agenda a resolution implementing the plan. Councilman Robert (Doc) Connell, who favors construction of a ramp instead of more surface lots, opposed scheduling the vote for tonight.

According to the parking plan, compiled by Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., of Chicago, the new lots would be available later this year.

The plan also called for construction of a 500-space parking garage on College Street, a project which has now been deferred indefinitely.

The council also agreed, on City Manager Frank Smiley's recommendation, to comply with a request from the University that the city treat sewage from the University's Oakdale complex for six months.

The University had contracted to have Oakdale's sewage treated at a Coralville plant now under construction. However, construction of that facility was delayed by court action while Iowa City and Johnson County sought assurances that outflow from the plant would not be harmful to crops or drinking water.

The plant is expected to be ready for operation in about six months. In the meantime, provided the council gives formal consent, Iowa City will treat Oakdale's sewage and meter the flow for billing purposes.

Public Works Director Ralph Speer said he did not anticipate any problems caused by the sewage treatment.

Items on tonight's council agenda include:

- A resolution approving the final plat of the Sycamore Mall Shopping Center to be constructed on the city's southeast side. The Planning and Zoning Commission recommended council approval of the plat at its March 25 meeting.

- A resolution awarding a contract for tree spraying to combat Dutch Elm disease. Councilmen balked at the size of the only bid submitted — $14,137 — and it is considered likely they will reject it tonight.

That bid, submitted by Noel Tree Service of Iowa City, is $4,000 more than what the council expected to pay. Only $6,800 is budgeted for tree spraying, but the council had agreed to spend $2,000 to $3,000 more when it decided to change from DDT spray to the costlier — but safer — methoxyachlor.

Plans were to take the extra funds from the city's $20,000 contingency fund. However, Smiley warned that taking enough money from the contingency fund to meet the Noel bid would not leave enough for emergencies.

Instead, Smiley recommended that the council consider helicopter spraying instead of the ground spraying service Noel would provide. Smiley said air spraying could treat as many trees in a day as ground spraying could in three to four weeks — and at less cost than ground spraying.

The helicopter spraying method was earlier rejected because of what Mayor Loren Hickerson called "public relations problems," specifically the residue air spraying leaves on cars. Smiley suggested the council might investigate providing free car washes for owners of cars stained by residue from the spray.

Urban Renewal Plans Here Cost $359,883

Urban renewal planning here has cost $359,883.96, City Clerk Glen V. Eckard said Monday.

To this figure will be added the cost of a recent unsuccessful appeal to the Iowa Supreme Court in which the city lost a fight to reinstate the renewal program. The project had been voided in a Johnson County District Court decision which ruled that some councilmen had interest conflicts in the renewal area.

The entire amount was furnished by the federal government, Eckard said. The city will not have to repay it unless the — planning — a prospect which now seems unlikely.

Most of the money was paid to consulting firms doing renewal planning for the city.

Spring cleaning

Each year, Daily Iowan editors clean off the tops of their desks for April Fool's Day. This year, we found some interesting and valuable items that we would like to give to some of the more articulate and important members of the University in connection with news events of this year.

We forfeit the following:
A book, "No Comments for Every Occasion," written and edited by Howard R. Bowen to Dean Willard Boyd as he takes over as University president.

A copy of Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People" to Dr. Roger Augustine.

A bag of unpaid parking tickets from 4-hour meters to John Dooley, director of parking lot operations. After circling the campus for five days in search of a parking space, we have given up and will be forced to deliver this award by mail.

A "Long Live the President" bumper sticker to Jim Dougherty.

A book of government food stamps found on the withered body of a graduate teaching assistant to Dean Dewey B. Stuit.

Two tickets to the Led Zeppelin concert to David and Barbara Sundance.

Silver bullets and little black masks to all the campus security officers.

A clawless rat to the Union food service.

A free copy of the Hawkeye to all graduating seniors.

The "Bay of Pigs" award for successful operations to Francy Horn and elections board.

An honorary membership in the ROTC Black Beret detachment to Jerry Sies for outstanding participation in the annual Military Ball.

An autographed picture of the Central Party Committee executive committee to members of Student Activities Board.

And to the Iowa legislators, who have given persons pieces of their minds so freely this session, we would like to return the pieces they have given The Daily Iowan and the University. The legislators need all the minds they can get.

Kaleidoscope

N. Bhaskara Rao

President Dwight Eisenhower was the most civilian-minded military man in this century to head a democratic country. With his death the world has lost one of the stalwarts of the 20th century world politics.

Although General Eisenhower was often identified with the Republican party, in practice he was a bipartisan man. He rightly believed that people in this country have the good sense to place patriotism and human understanding above the arrogance of personal prejudice.

In an article published in the April issue of the Reader's Digest, Ike warned the nation of the dangers of extremism. Advocating a "middle-of-the-road" moderate policy, he wrote, "Today's extremists clearly possess a potential for serious harm to the nation."

Referring to the young, the late president wrote: "I am proud of the way many of you have involved yourself in public affairs, particularly in this last election. It will soon be your country to run, and you should be interested and personally involved."

The Iowa legislature does not seem to be doing all that it could do in bringing the young into the political process. However, the state Senate, although it does not seem to have wholeheartedly supported the move to lower the minimum voting age to 19 from 21, deserves commendation for the initiative it took last week towards that end.

But the House of Representatives seems determined to bog down the issue with the backing of hard core extremists in the State Legislature.

A recent Harris Survey reveals not surprisingly that the young and the blacks are the two groups who participate least in the U.S. political process.

Some of the opponents of the bill to lower the voting age in Iowa, now before the House, are reported to have been advocating that those under 21 are not yet prepared to meet the responsibilities that go with voting privilege.

Philosophy professor Huston Smith of MIT finds that "today's students are older, not in age but in maturity — roughly two years more mature." They are not only more mature, but are also experienced, he said. "Having traveled more and been bombarded from infancy by radio, television and cinema, they are more experienced generally."

Some of the conclusions General Eisenhower has expressed in his article, probably the last one he wrote before his death, sound as if he was pointing at some of the Iowa legislators.

Instead of saying that young people are turning their backs on the society they are inheriting, and by that indirectly encouraging them, is it not time for elders in the state legislature to do something before the young really turn their backs.

Reader gives T-group ideas

To the editor:

On The Daily Iowan's T-group series: The author was "kind enough" to consider me a major source of information, so the public has a right to know something of my background.

First, while I have been involved in a number of T-groups and broader sensitivity training labs, had training within the framework of two human relations programs as a group leader, been an assistant leader in a program for juvenile delinquents and done some unpublished research on that program, I am not in my own opinion qualified to be a T-group trainer. This at once gives evaluative background on me and gives some idea of my standards. Second, while I do a great deal of reading in this area, I do not feel that reading is sufficient; it must be preceded by the training.

Turning to the article, I do not recall if I cited Campbell and Dunnette; I tend to doubt that I did. However, if I did cite a study, it was as an example and certainly not as a definitive finding. There is far too much material in this field to allow the luxury of a one-shot evaluation. Also, in the printing, a point from the article could be interpreted as my second argument; my second point being that training may be unrealistic.

Finally, the author cites only one of my three requirements for good training conditions. They are:

A. The quality of trainers as stated and presence of backup treatment for emotional disorders

B. Proper screening of participants and periodic assessment during the training sessions

C. A flexible program capable of offering alternative directions (by more cognitive materials, learning exercises, instruments for interpersonal feedback) in case of need

While to a degree, B and C hang on trainers' qualifications, they also reflect planning, community resources, and a constant interaction with other programs.

Last let me make one political statement. I feel that all "interpersonal" professional services by social work, psychiatry, and psychology, should be properly controlled by a profession oriented law.

Called 'fiscally sound'—

Housing rule upheld

To: Whom It May Concern

From: Committee on Student Conduct

This case was heard on March 17, 1969. The several issues presented in this case were deliberated and decisions on these issues were reached at a meeting held on March 20, 1969. A draft of the opinion incorporating these decisions was distributed to the panel on March 25, 1969. The final draft of this opinion was formulated on March 27, 1969, differs in no substantive respect from the earlier draft, and the decisions therein stated are those that had been reached on March 20, 1969.

On March 26, subsequent to the hearing of this case and the panel's deliberation concerning the issues, Pres. Howard Bowen raised serious questions concerning the authority of the Committee on Student Conduct to review the validity of University regulations. However, in view of the president's announced intent not to reverse Committee actions in cases it has already heard, the Committee is releasing this decision without consideration based on the president's recent statement of University rule making policy. Before deciding further cases of this nature the Committee plans to engage in discussions with President Bowen concerning the interpretation and possible modification of the Judicial Structure to Handle Student Misconduct at the University of Iowa.

STULTS CASE OPINION

This case arises from charges brought by the Office of Off-Campus Housing against Kenneth Stults charging him with violation of Section 2 of the Housing and Hours Regulations of the Code of Student Life, 1968-69. Section 2 is the University approved housing regulation. Stults admits that he is in violation of the rule as it appears in the Code of Student Life, but he challenges the validity and enforceability of the rule. Stults contends that the rule was promulgated without significant student participation, and that it serves no legitimate university interest. A hearing on these issues was held on March 17, 1969, by the Committee on Student Conduct.

Student Participation in the Formulation of the Approved Housing Regulation

The first challenge to the University approved housing regulation is that it was promulgated without significant student participation and that therefore it violates Section VI.A. of the Joint Statement of Rights and Freedoms of Students which has been adopted by the University. In CSC Decision No. 1, this Committee held that the Joint Statement's requirement of "significant student participation" provides a standard by which the enforceability of student conduct regulations may be tested. The Committee held that significant student participation in policy formulation means "at a minimum, an opportunity for students to play a meaningful role in the formulation of recommendations to the University administration, and the opportunity to justify a and advocate their recommendations to the appropriate administrative officials in the event the recommendations are rejected." It should again be stressed that the concept of significant student participation as interpreted by the Committee in no sense requires that University regulations must be in accord with prevailing student sentiment to be enforceable. All that is required is that prior to the adoption of University rules affecting student conduct, a procedure exists whereby student representatives are afforded a fair opportunity to make their views known and to advocate their positions. If after providing such an opportunity for participation, the University chooses to adopt policies and promulgate rules not consistent with the student views expressed, these policies and rules are unassailable on grounds of lack of significant student participation.

In order to determine the validity of the approved housing regulations, the Committee, in applying this significant participation standard, has reviewed the record of events preceding the appearance of the regulation in the 1968-69 Code of Student Life.

In January, 1967, at the president's request, the University Housing Committee undertook an extensive study of various aspects of student housing at the University. The Housing Committee, consisting of four students and four faculty members, conducted surveys, visited other campuses and held at least one public meeting. The Committee presented its findings and recommendations on housing to President Bowen in August, 1967. Among these recommendations, a proposal was made for the elimination of approved housing. (Report of University Housing Committee, Aug. 11, 1967, pp. 11-13).

In the fall of 1967 the Committee on Student Life (CSL) had begun rewriting the Code of Student Life. There was some feeling on the CSL that it was the specific task of the University Housing Committee to make recommendations on approved housing policy. However, Dean Philip Hubbard reported that it was also to be considered by the CSL. (CSL Minutes, Oct. 4, 1967.) On Nov. 30, 1967, upon the request of Bowen, the President appeared before the CSL to discuss University housing policy. At the meeting the President submitted a proposed statement of policy, "The Relation of the University of Iowa to its Students with Special Reference to Student Housing." (Item 11 at p. 5 of the Statement recommended the continuation of "approved housing" at the University.) After the President presented his report, the remainder of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of the report with considerable time given to reviewing the concepts of approved housing. (CSL Minutes, Nov. 30, 1967.)

In January, 1968, the President requested a joint meeting of the Housing Committee and the CSL. Hubbard presided in the absence of Bowen. The issue of approved housing was again discussed and a broad housing program was sketched out. One aspect of the plan was to modify approved housing requirements in 1969, but to maintain the present rule for the academic year 1968-69.

In preparing the final draft of the Code of Student Life, 1968-69, the CSL adopted an approved housing policy which is essentially identical to that which appears in Section 2 of the Housing and Hours Regulations of the Code of Student Life, 1968-69. Although the Committee on Student Conduct is aware that some confusion existed concerning the respective jurisdictions of the Housing Committee and CSL, it is the opinion of the Committee that throughout this process there was significant student participation and that there was substantial communication and exchange of ideas between the student representatives of the housing committee and the CSL with the president and members of the administration. Argument has been made that the president's appearance coerced the CSL to make its recommendation, and that thus he curtailed student participation. The record does not support this assertion, and we are not inclined to speculate as to which of a variety of reasons led the CSL to make its recommendation continuing approved housing.

We find the substantive portions of Section 2 of the Housing and Hours Regulations to be a valid and enforceable student conduct regulation.

We note in passing the discrepancy between the CSL recommendation and Section 2 of the Code as published in regard to the attainment of age 21 during the semester or the school year. Because Stults will not attain age 21 by the end of this school year, we feel it unnecessary to consider this matter further.

The last sentence of Section 2 provides that failure or refusal to comply with the regulation is cause for cancellation of registration. In reviewing the record we find that although the CSL considered this provision, it was stricken from the CSL's final draft which was submitted to the president in June, 1968. Over the summer this provision was added to Section 2. There is no evidence that there was ever any student participation or discussion in the addition of this sentence to Section 2. We find this sentence invalid as violative of the requirement of significant student participation.

However, even if we were not stricken on this basis, we hold that it is an invalid extension of the jurisdiction of the Office of Student Affairs in student disciplinary matters, as set forth in the Judicial Structure to Handle Student Misconduct at the University of Iowa. This document defines the jurisdiction of the Office of Student Affairs and the Committee on Student Conduct. It provides that the Office of Student Affairs can apply sanctions up to and including disciplinary probation but that it must refer cases where suspension or dismissal would be a likely sanction to the CSC (Judicial Structure Document, Section A.1.) In Section A.1. this document provides that the CSC "will hear all cases involving possible suspension or dismissal of the student from the University of Iowa for disciplinary matters." The preamble of the judicial structure document provides that this structure applies to "the violation of student non-academic responsibilities as set forth in the University of Iowa Code of Student Life." Violation of the approved housing regulation is just such a non-academic violation, and the Judicial Structure document is applicable to the adjudication of the offense. Accordingly, the highest sanction available to the Office of Student Affairs is to place the student on disciplinary probation or refer the case to the CSC where sterner measures may be taken.

We reject the distinction argued between cancellation of registration as "administrative action" and suspension or dismissal as "disciplinary action." Cancellation of registration for violation of the approved housing regulation amounts to suspension if the student subsequently becomes reregistered and to dismissal if he does not. The selective labeling of some violations of the Code of Student Life as inviting "administrative action" opens the door to capricious and arbitrary administrative action. That door has been closed by the adoption of the Judicial Structure document with all its attendant safeguards for a student facing the possibility of termination of his status as a student at this University, and with its provision that the ultimate sanction will only be applied by the CSC, a student-faculty committee. Furthermore, it is instructive to note that a sanction of suspension or dismissal requires five votes of the seven-member hearing panel. The summary cancellation of registration provision of Section 2 of the Housing and Hours Regulations is wholly antithetical to the policies and regulations of the Judicial Structure document, and as such, is invalid.

Policies Underlying the Approved Housing Regulation.

At the hearing, the Committee on Student Conduct was presented with several arguments principally concerned with the issue of whether the approved housing regulations represented "good university policy." There seems to be some notion abroad in the University community that the Committee sits as a superlegislature to review and if necessary reformulate University policy. Such is not the case. The function of the Committee is judicial, not legislative. Our basic task is to find the rules that are applicable in disciplinary matters and to assure that those rules are fairly applied in a given case. We expressly disclaim any role in the formulation of University policy, and we have no intention to pass judgment on the wisdom of University policy underlying the regulations at issue in this or any other case.

Although we will not determine whether the policies underlying a rule are wise or whether the rule is the best way to achieve desired ends, we will hear arguments that the rule is invalid for failure to serve any legitimate University interest. In other words, the Committee will act to protect students against the enforcement of disciplinary rules that are completely arbitrary and capricious in the sense that they bear no reasonable relation to the legitimate educational purposes of the University. In affording this protection the Committee applies a "legitimate interest" test: Is there any rational basis for the rule in terms of the legitimate objectives of the University. This standard is closely related to the well established due process principles developed by the courts in reviewing university rules.

Applying that test to the approved housing regulation, the Committee finds that the rule serves a legitimate fiscal interest of the University. A relatively few years ago there was a serious shortage of student housing. Even though crowding in the dormitories was the rule, persons were sometimes prevented from enrolling at the University because they could not find housing. In the face of such shortage and substantial annual increases in the number of young people seeking entrance to college, one of the most critical problems confronting college and university administrators was that of adequate housing for students. In the State Board of Regents institutions of this state, the only practical means for financing an expansion of university housing was by issuing bonds which were to be amortized by future income for dormitory fees. The recent boom in private housing construction in Iowa City has reduced the student housing shortage. However, the University's fiscal obligation will continue until the bonds have been paid in full. On effect of the regulation requiring certain students to live in approved housing is to provide some assurance that dormitory income will be sufficient to meet this obligation. It is claimed by the University administration that this rule is necessary for that purpose and there appears to be sufficient evidence to support this claim. These obligations do exist and the functioning of the University requires that they be honored. We find this constitutes a "rational basis" for the approved housing regulation.

Having found this interest in support of the regulation, we need not search further. However we are mindful of the dispute over this regulation, and we would urge that the appropriate University bodies, especially the CSL, review the philosophy and policy underlying the rule. The Committee found relatively unresponsive the University's attempts to justify its approved housing regulations as administered on the grounds that they promoted student health, safety and educational objectives.

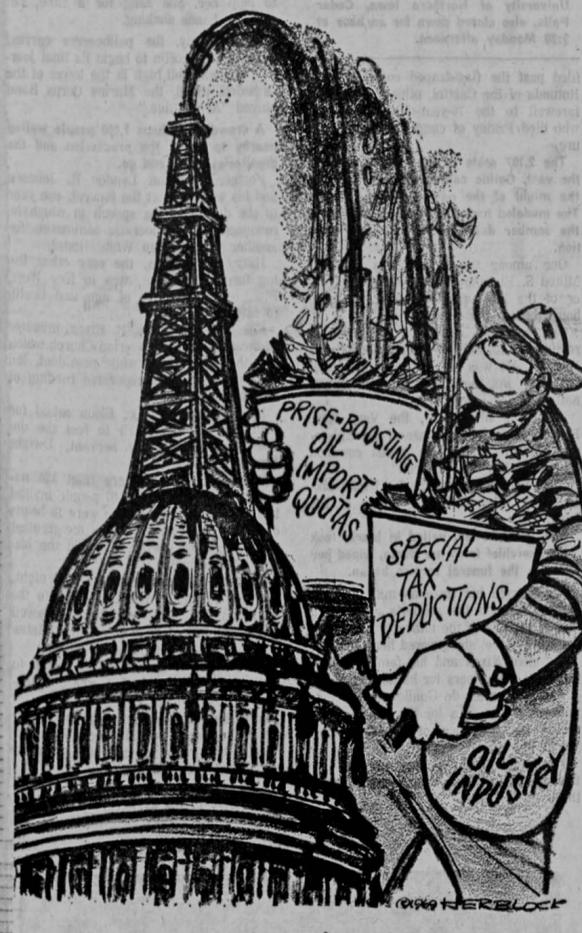

This Committee is particularly concerned with the fact that the approved housing regulation is extensively violated and that many students have and will continue to violate it. To the extent that this undermines the whole structure of University conduct regulations without serving a well-founded need, we do question the wisdom of the regulation.

Sanction Applied by the Committee to Stults

Stults' violation is admitted, and we have upheld the substantive portion of the approved housing regulation. All that remains is a determination of the sanction to be applied.

The Committee is impressed with the fact that Stults deliberately sought prosecution under Section 2 of the Housing and Hours Regulations in an effort to test his good faith belief that the approved housing rule was not an enforceable university regulation. Therefore, it is the decision of the Committee that Stults should be placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the academic year, but that he be allowed to continue his present residence. He will attain age 21 during the fall Semester 1969-70, so further disciplinary action appears unnecessary.

However, now that the validity of the approved housing rule has been tested and determined, the Committee serves notice that future violations will not be treated so leniently. The Committee is reluctant to announce a disciplinary policy in advance of hearing the facts of a particular case. However, future violations of the approved housing rule are very likely to result in suspension of the violator for such period as he continues to reside in approved housing.

Group Plans to Earn Money To Fight Hunger by Walking

By PAUL FARRENS
Thirty University and Iowa City high school students met Sunday afternoon in Rienow II Lounge to discuss plans for a 27-mile walk to fight hunger, planned for May 11.

Jim Hanks, A1, Chicago, publicity chairman of the group, said he expected that 5,000 walkers will start on a 27-mile route through the Iowa City area.

The Iowa City march is one of 100 walks scheduled this year in the United States. This walk will provide all members of the Iowa City community with an opportunity to show their concern for a problem which requires the effort of those able and hungry about the problem of hunger in the world, Hanks said.

Each person who walks in the event has the responsibility of finding sponsors to pay him by the mile. Each walker will try to get as much money as he can per mile.

Death Penalty Hit By Hawkeye CLU

Opposition to the return of capital punishment in the state has been expressed by the Hawkeye Area Chapter of the Iowa Civil Liberties Union.

The group's board of directors stated in a resolution Saturday that the death penalty has not been proven to be an effective crime deterrent. The directors also urged that all efforts to bring capital punishment back into force be opposed.

Benton, Cedar, Iowa, Johnson, Jones, Keokuk, Linn, Muscatine and Washington counties are included in the Hawkeye Area Chapter.

Bridge over Iowa River Closed over High Waters

The only bridge over the Iowa River between highways 218 and 149 has been closed because of rising waters.

The Dupont Road, which lies between Cou Falls and County Road E, has water up to the deck. The southern approach to the bridge is now underwater.

It is not known if there has been any damage to the bridge itself.

EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING AWARD

Sponsored by Standard Oil Company (Indiana)

Recipients Must Be Teachers of Undergraduates Nominated By Student or Faculty Member

Nomination Forms In All College Offices. Return To Office of Student Affairs.

DEADLINE FOR NOMINATIONS EXTENDED TO APRIL 14.

Checkpoints will be set up at various points along the route to stamp walkers pledge cards, provide food and drink, and transportation and medical assistance.

The students have formed the Iowa City Walk for Development, an ad hoc committee, headed by Steve Andrie, A3, Cedar Rapids, which is recognized by the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation. The organization says its purpose is to combat the immense and rapidly growing problem of hunger and socially related inequalities in the world today.

From the money raised, 42.5 per cent will be used in international projects. Part of the money will help set up an agricultural instruction program based in Colombia to serve nine South American countries. The rest of the money will provide scholarships for the people of the Republic of Burundi in Africa through the World University Services.

Another 42.5 per cent of the money will be used in the local area. Part of this money will help the migrant workers of Muscatine and the other portion of the money will be used in Iowa City for a yet undetermined project.

Hearing Delayed In Narcotics Case

A preliminary hearing for a Davenport man charged with possession of narcotics was continued in Police Court Monday until 8:30 a.m. April 7.

The hearing, for Charles Vinton, 25, was postponed at the request of his attorney, Phillip A. Left, and the County Attorney's office.

Vinton was arrested and charged on March 18 after he was spotted on the river bank behind the Union smoking what police claimed was marijuana.

Vinton is being held in Johnson County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Coralville Police Probe Pop Machine Breakins

CORALVILLE — Police here are investigating two pop machine breakins in which a total of $17 was reported lost over the weekend.

About $15 was taken from the Super Spray Car Wash, 101 Second Ave., and about $2 was reported stolen from the Lantern Park DX station located at Highway 6 and Fifth Street.

Police said a pry bar was used to gain entry into the machines at both places.

Bly to Present Reading Here

Robert Bly, a poet zealous in his opposition to the Vietnam War, will read his poetry at 7:30 tonight in Shambaugh Auditorium.

In 1967, Bly refused a $5,000 grant from the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities saying, "Since the Administration is maiming the entire nation . . . it is insensitive, even indecent, for that Administration to come forward with money for poetry. There could be no honor in such an award."

Bly, who received his M.A. from the University in 1956, has published two volumes of poetry: "Silence in the Snowy Fields" and "The Light Around the Body."

Bly has translated Scandinavian and Spanish poetry into English to supplement his income from poetry readings.

His second collection poems received the National Book Award for poetry in 1968. Bly turned the $1,000 prize over to the war resistance movement.

As editor of "The Sixties," a poetry quarterly, Bly has at times been a great critic of American poets and their efforts. Still, he has found time to praise and encourage such poets as James Dickey, James Wright and Denise Levertov.

Reception Set For Galbraith

The local chapter of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) will hold a reception for John Kenneth Galbraith, national chairman of ADA, after Galbraith's speech tonight.

Tickets for the reception, at $2.50 each, are available from Mrs. Donald Volm, 338-5689, and Mrs. Michael Brody, 338-2239. The reception will be held in the Triangle Club at the Union.

Galbraith is scheduled to speak on "The New Industrial State: Case, Criticisms, and Consequences," at 8 tonight in the Union Main Lounge.

A seminar sponsored by the Department of Economics will feature a talk by Galbraith at 2:30 today in Phillips Hall Auditorium.

'Brown Power' Cry Growing

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A demonstration in Del Rio, Tex., indicates that Mexican-Americans, with a new cry of "Brown Power," are becoming more militant in seeking civil rights.

The demonstration Sunday was pegged to a protest against dismissal of a group of poverty workers but turned into a statement of the demands by Mexican-Americans for equality.

A new element appeared Sunday in the form of the militant Mexican-American Youth Organization (MAYO), which sponsored the demonstration.

The militant Mexican-Americans have distinctive wearing apparel, the serape, a Mexican shawl.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez (D-Tex.) claimed that Cuban-trained revolutionaries infiltrated the ranks of the demonstrators.

Del Rio officials stated that 5 per cent or less of the 1,200 to 4,000 demonstrators were Del Rio residents. The lower estimate is that of police and the higher figure is from demonstration leaders.

The demonstrators found a cause in the shutdown of VISTA — the domestic Peace Corps — in Del Rio.

County commissioners said they didn't want the program because the VISTA workers mixed into local politics.

Gov. Preston Smith had no choice and asked the federal government to close the office.

They also ask for bilingual education in Lousing, police treatment and admission to eating and entertainment places.

Schools — some authorities say — inability to speak fluent English is a continuing job handicap.

'Negatives' Has Grim Fascination

"Negatives," which can be seen today and Wednesday at the Iowa Theatre, is a film which falls victim to its own formula. It sets up a situation, introduces a new element into that situation and then shows the fairly predictable results.

Theo is a young man who owns an antique shop. His father is in the hospital near death. Theo himself is living with a young woman named Vivian. Their relationship is one of games, of masquerades they play with themselves. Vivian has cast Theo as Dr. Crippen the famous Victorian murderer who killed his wife and fled England with his mistress. Vivian sees herself as the mistress, although given Theo's seeming weariness of the game and Vivian's domination of him, she could as easily be seen as Crippen's wife.

Into this world of floating identities and stimulated sensuality comes a German female photographer. She spies on Theo and Vivian and then introduces herself to Theo. She it seems, has cast him in a different role than Crippen. For her he is Baron von Richthofen, the World War I airplane ace. The photographer, Winegard, moves in with Theo and Vivian.

Theo is used by both women. He is Vivian's fool, the ineffectual and brow-beaten husband and doctor. For Winegard he is an experimenter, someone she seduces into performing for her benefit. In the end Theo accepts the role of the war hero. He buys a plane, a symbolic one-steater. When Vivian attempts to intrude on his new singular dream game, he beats her. Rejecting her and Winegard, who leaves her photographs as mementos of their time together, he suffers an ambiguous death, winding up sitting bolt upright in his plane with blood trickling down from the corners of his mouth. It is Richthofen in every detail.

Peter Medak has chosen to direct "Negatives" both slowly and deliberately. From the first scene, with its lingering closeups of the characters and the objects that are so much a part of their costume drama, we are in the presence of a quite formal and rigid visual style. Medak's use of soft-focus, dramatic high and low camera angles, quick-cutting (when Winegard takes pictures and at the end when the events of the film flash past Theo just before his "death") all add up to a heaviness that is never oppressive but does add considerably to the film's sense of a ritual being played out both for the characters and the audience.

Despite this, and despite the somewhat slow pace of the whole, "Negatives" manages to build up a certain intensity and excitement. The three principals are all well played. Peter McEnery plays Theo with a fine sense of his weakness and desperation. Glenda Jackson emphasizes Vivian's coarseness and need. Diane Cilento's blonde vamp is easily the most grotesque of the threesome and is depicted accordingly. The film's fine color photography does well by them and their surroundings.

What "Negatives" lacks finally, however, is a faith in its own power. It ventures only fitfully into the realm of obsessive sensuality. Medak's approach remains too clinical, he observes the sex from too safe and cold a distance. Theo's dreams lack the surreal power that a master director like Bunuel could give them. Nor is the film's violence ever really unleashed.

"Negatives" is an interesting film. If its plotting is very calculated, it also has a certain grim fascination about it. Had the film been written and directed by people as possessed as the characters it might have been really brilliant indeed. As it stands it is still a film that deserves your time and at moments your enthusiasm.

Photographer Talks of His Work

Wynn Bullock, famous photographer, makes a point during an interview with The Daily Iowan. Bullock was on campus last week for the Refocus film festival and some of his pictures were displayed in the Union.

Bullock Talks of Photography As Response of the Senses

By DAVE LUCK

Photography has advanced so fast that it is impossible for us to carry on an intelligent dialogue about it, according to Wynn Bullock, a noted photographer and one of the speakers at Refocus.

Bullock, who did not become seriously involved in photography until after he was fifty, presently has his work in "The Family of Man" photo exhibition and displayed in museums across the country. He spoke here Thursday for the Refocus film festival, and some of his pictures were on display.

To talk about photographs, said Bullock, we must learn to speak specifically in terms of how we respond to photographs instead of in generalities. He said that we must learn to separate our senses, especially the visual and tactile senses which are used in photography.

Bullock, who applied many of his theories while teaching photography at the Chicago Institute of Technology, describes a photograph as "a symbol of the original object or happening." This symbol, said Bullock, contains certain elements and the success of the photograph depends on how effectively these elements are used.

An important concept, he said is space. "What you see, you see in terms of spatial dimensions and if you are to deal directly with what you are perceiving, everything has to be described in terms of space."

Even light, one of the most important elements of photography, is thought of by Bullock as a physical object that can be controlled according to spatial characters.

Bullock's fascination with light was one of the things that influenced his decision to become a photographer. He "discovered" light during his younger years, while touring Europe as a concert singer. At the time he was living near the Louvre in Paris and became interested in the modern impressionistic painters. He became an amateur photographer but did not give up his music career until the Depression forced him to return to the United States and go into business.

Bullock said, "Music was in me naturally... business was just necessary... but I had an urge that I didn't really realize." Eight years later, while attending the University of Southern California Law School, he followed this urge and walked out of class, leaving all his books behind, to enroll in the Los Angeles Art Center School to study photography.

After leaving the Art Center School Bullock became a commercial photographer. He did not do any aesthetic photography until about 1950 when his business became successful enough for him to leave its operation to others.

Edward Weston, one of Bullock's friends and himself a well-known photographer, did much to influence his work. But, Bullock began to feel that there was something missing in Weston's work and started to develop his theory that things are not just objects, but rather events with dimensions. To Weston's dimensions of edge, plane and thickness he added the dimension of time, which gave his photographs the character of change and activity.

Bullock said that he liked the student work on display at Refocus because he felt the students all had a personal statement to make and all were experimenting. He said he felt there was a difference between instruction and education. Instruction tells you what to do, while education is thinking for yourself independent of others, he said.

"Being able to express yourself in your own way is important for creativity," he added.

SENIOR WINS AWARD—James Robertson, A4, Burlington, has been selected to receive the 1969 Don G. Mullan Award. The $75 award is made annually to a senior student who exemplifies the qualities of leadership and loyalty to the University of the late Don G. Mullan, a 1908 graduate of the College of Law. Mullan practiced law in Sioux City from 1908 to 1932 and in Odebolt from 1932 until his death in 1954.

Alcindor Rejects ABA Bid; Talks to Begin with Bucks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lew Alcindor, UCLA's basketball superstar, decided Monday to turn down an American Basketball Association offer said to be $3.25 million over five years and begin negotiations with Milwaukee of the National Basketball Association, one of his advisers said.

Sam Gilbert, a Los Angeles contractor and adviser to the 7-1 1/2 three-time All-American, said Alcindor "decided to fulfill his moral obligation given in New York to the Milwaukee club."

The decision came after ABA Commissioner George Mikan telegraphed Alcindor, apparently offering a lucrative contract with the New York Nets. Neither Gilbert nor Alcindor would reveal contents of the telegram.

Gilbert said private negotiations on an NBA contract would begin today or Wednesday. These conferences apparently will be held to iron out final details of what is reported to be a $1 million-plus offer.

The younger ABA had hoped to sign Alcindor to give the struggling league a boost.

HAWKS PLAY LUTHER—

The Iowa baseball team has a doubleheader scheduled with Luther College at 2:30 today, weather permitting, at Iowa Field. The Hawks' game with Wartburg was cancelled because of cold weather Monday.

NHL's Penguins Fire Veteran Pilot Sullivan

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Coach Red Sullivan of the Pittsburgh Penguins, only expansion team never to make the National Hockey League playoffs, was fired Monday.

"It didn't come as a shock," the 39-year-old Sullivan said. "Everywhere I went for the past month it was in the newspapers."

The announcement was made at a meeting of the club's board of directors, but General Manager Jack Riley said he told Sullivan Sunday night.

"It was decided by the board of directors that a change should be made," Riley said. In two years, the Penguins finished in fifth place and the club had been taking a beating at the gate.

Riley said Sullivan was offered a job as director of scouting for the Penguin's professional leagues. He said Sullivan was asked for a few days to think the offer over.

A new coach probably will not be hired until after the June amateur and professional hockey drafts, Riley said.

It was the second time the often fiery coach has been dropped by a NHL club. He was fired by the New York Rangers about three years ago when he couldn't produce a winner.

The Penguins this season barely managed a tie for fifth place with Minnesota on the final day.

Sullivan says he won't give up hockey.

"I have 20 years in professional hockey and I'm not about to throw it out the window. I'm going to stay in hockey. The scouting job is a very important job."

Infernos Shut Out Quad Cities Club

Iowa's soccer club, the Infernos, raced to a convincing 4-0 victory Sunday over the Quad Cities International Soccer Club at Davenport.

The victory boosted the Infernos into a tie for first place in the newly formed Upper Mississippi Soccer Alliance. Other teams in the league include Iowa State, Central College, Cedar Rapids, Des Moines and Waterloo.

Luis Vargas led the way for the Infernos, scoring three of their four goals. The other goal was tallied by Lansing Brown, who controlled the ball deflected by the goalie and rammed it home from one yard out.

Captain Rod Phillips had praise for goalie Bill Taylor, who easily handled the Quad Cities' surprisingly few shots (six) in the entire match. Phillips also credited Bill Zager, Rich Johnson and Denis Songolo for their fine defensive work.

The Infernos do not see action again until a meeting with Iowa State at Ames, April 13. Regular practices will be held today and Friday at 3:30 p.m. in the field directly west of the Field House.

Ali Bows to Muslim Leaders, Abandons Talk of Comeback

MIAMI (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali says he will bow to the wishes of Muslim leaders and give up talk of a comeback, the Miami News reported Monday.

Ali was slapped down by Elijah Muhammad, head of the Muslim sect, after Ali said he wanted to fight again in order to pay some of his bills.

"He's got a right to spank all of us," Ali told News Sports Editor John Crittenden in a telephone interview. "I'm his humble servant. What I said was out of place."

Elijah's chastisement of his best known convert was swift and public.

In this week's edition of the Muslim newspaper, Elijah said Ali's return to the ring was "against the writings of the Holy Koran." He said, "This statement is to tell the world that we, the Muslims, are not with Muhammad Ali in his desire to work in the sports world for the sake of a little money."

"And that's that," Ali told Crittenden. "What he says will suffice." Criticism of his comeback desire has caused no split with the Muslims, Ali said.

Ali, who won the title in 1964, hasn't fought since March, 1967. He later was stripped of the title after being convicted of draft evasion.

Calabria Selected To Scholar Team Of Big 10 Players

CHICAGO — Iowa's Chad Calabria and Illinois' Dave Scholz led the list of the Big 10 all-academic basketball team announced Monday. The two were the only unanimous choices on the first team.

Calabria, a junior guard from Alliquippa, Penn., won honorable mention in the all-Big 10 selections this season. He maintains a "B" grade average as a business major.

Scholz, who has scored 1,459 points for the Illini, was named to the academic team for the third straight year by a panel of 27 Midwest sports editors and basketball writers.

Other members of the first all-academic team are Denny Pace of Illinois, Larry Oversek of Minnesota and Craig Barclay of Ohio State.

Two other Iowa players, Frank Nelson and Tom Schulze, were named to the third team.

Strellner provided the tourney with one of its major upsets earlier Friday night. Strellner, unseeded in the tournament despite a 11-1 dual-meet record, pinned top-seeded Charlie Shivers of Oklahoma in the quarter-finals. Strellner was then knocked into the consolation round when he lost in the semifinals to Iowa State's Chuck Jean, the eventual 177 titlist.

Though Mihal and Strellner were the only Hawks to place in the meet, several others advanced far in the tournament and, according to Coach Dave McCuskey, gave a good account of themselves.

Joe Wells (160), 167-pounder Steve DeVries, and heavyweight Dale Stearns all advanced into the quarter-finals before being eliminated. Wells and Stearns lost in their consolation quarter-final matches and DeVries was forced to forfeit his match due to a neck injury suffered in a previous match.

Of Iowa's 11 entries into the meet, 10 won first round matches. Only five of those advanced into the quarter-finals, and of those five, Mihal and Strellner were the only ones who made the semi-finals.

McCuskey said Monday that he was very proud of all the boys on the team and that everyone wrestled well.

"Finishing seventh out of the 110 schools entered isn't too bad," McCuskey said. "There were a lot of good wrestlers there. There were more and better wrestlers than I'd ever seen before at any national meet. Considering the competition, I think we did a real good job."

McCuskey was surprised at the ease with which Iowa State ran away with the championship since the Cyclones only placed third in their conference meet two weeks ago. Oklahoma and Oklahoma State both finished ahead of Iowa State in the Big 8 Conference Meet and the two were expected to battle it out for the NCAA championship.

Instead, Oklahoma finished a distant second to the Cyclones with 69 points and Oklahoma State limped home sixth with 51 points. Oregon State had 38 points to edge Big 10 Champion Michigan State with 57 points for third place.

Iowa State's three champions were 137-pounder Dan Gable (champion at 130 last year), 167-pounder Jason Smith, and 177-pounder Jean. Gable was voted the meet's outstanding performer and there are not many who would deny that he deserves the award. All Gable did in the meet was pin all five of his opponents in the combined time of 20 minutes and 19 seconds. Gable has 23 pins in his 25 matches this year and has 145 straight victories in high school and college competition.

"Iowa State did a whale of a job," McCuskey said. "That Gable is really something. I don't think I've ever seen anybody pin that many people in that short of a time."

The Hawks lose three of their top wrestlers through graduation in June but McCuskey said that Iowa would still have a strong nucleus with which to start rebuilding. Mihal, Strellner and Stearns are the wrestlers who will have to be replaced next season.

"We've got quite a few boys coming back next year and there are a lot of good freshmen and sophomores coming up," McCuskey said. "We should be right there again next year."

Ruggers Score 2 Victories

The Iowa rugby team continued on the winning trail in convincing fashion Saturday and Sunday. The A team clobbered the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee 22-0 Saturday and the C team came back the next day to grab

St. Ambrose 23-3.

The A team used a 30-yard run by Ken Grieshaber and a six dash by Rick Doty to take a 14-0 halftime lead.

Grieshaber and Doty also accounted for the first two scores of the second half with Kekke converting on the first for a 14-0 lead. Gary Warnock the ruggers' inside center, scores next for the Hawks with Kekke converting. Grieshaber then got the final Iowa score after being set-up by Kekke.

The Sunday game was unique in that the Iowa B team played the first half and the C team took over for the remainder against a St. Ambrose team that was playing only its second game of rugby.
