Johnson Blasts Media Censorship

Nicholas Johnson, a maverick member of the Federal Communications Commission who is a former Iowa citizen, lashes out at self-censorship in the mass media during a talk before the Iowa Civil Liberties Union in Shambaugh Auditorium Friday Night.

Media Self-Censorship Blamed for Lies, Death

Mass media self-censorship has resulted in the death of untold thousands of Americans, Nicholas Johnson, a member of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and a boyhood Iowa City resident, told an audience of 300 faculty members, students and Iowa Civil Liberties Union (ICLU) members here Friday night.

Johnson, speaking in Shambaugh Auditorium at the first meeting of the ICLU in the Iowa City area, said, "We are indeed living in an age when what American people don't know can kill them."

Johnson, a graduate of the University of Texas law school and a 1966 appointee to the FCC, said that the deaths of 35,000 Americans killed in Vietnam were due in part to what broadcasting networks had refused to tell the American people.

Johnson suggested that the show was taken off the air for political reasons. CBS has said that entertainment shows should not be allowed to criticize government policies, he said.

Harvard President Blasts Students, Defends Cop Use

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The president of Harvard University Friday defended his call for police to oust student demonstrators from a school building Thursday as 20 per cent of the Ivy League school's student body attended a rally to protest the action.

Pres. Nathan M. Pusey said the students had broken into confidential files and "did not intend to bargain."

The developments at Harvard marked a day of nationwide student disorders in which undergraduates at one school called for the resignation of the college president and youths at another revealed plans for a boycott of the student union.

At Harvard, Pusey said, "The occupiers had already begun to rifle and duplicate the faculty personnel files and financial records."

Some 400 police were called to clear University Hall. Almost 200 students were arrested and more than three dozen hurt.

Earlier, Franklin L. Ford, dean of the faculty, said reproductions of confidential documents — including some involving the Central Intelligence Agency — were published in an underground newspaper.

Ford said one of the letters stolen from the file was that of a Harvard headmaster informing Ford that he was a consultant to the CIA. Another was the copy of a proposal by Harvard to the CIA for a project to be carried out by Harvard.

The students took over the administration building Wednesday, aiming their protest at the university Reserve Officers Training Corp (ROTC) program.

The police action touched off a call for a three-day strike, beginning Friday, by students led by Students for a Democratic Society.

About 3,000 of Harvard's 15,000 students attended a rally at Harvard Yard Friday to protest the police action, but other students continued to attend classes at the Ivy League university.

The effects of the strike were not immediately measurable.

At Oberlin, Ohio, College, where students staged an all-night sit-in protesting the presence of Peace Corps recruiters on campus, the student senate asked for the resignation of Pres. Robert K. Carr and resolved to sever its working relationship with the faculty.

The Oberlin students also are demanding the reinstatement of SDS leader Jeremy Pisker, who was suspended earlier in the week, as well as more voice in the judicial process on campus.

At Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., an ad hoc committee of student leaders voted Thursday night to call a two-week boycott of the student union in protest against tuition increases.

A student spokesman said fellow students will be asked to boycott the union cafeterias, sweet shop, dining room, pool room and bowling alley.

The spokesman said expenditures could have been cut in operation of the university radio station and the Agricultural Extension Service.

Enemy Gunners Take Aim At Viet Provincial Cities

SAIGON (AP) — Pressing what appears to be a new thrust in the "spring offensive," enemy gunners shelled the Mekong Delta province capital Vinh Long Friday night for the second time in 17 hours.

That shelling and about 25 others featured in early reports today followed a sudden intensification of the previous night in attacks on towns and allied positions across South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 34 mortar rounds fell Friday night near the police station at Vinh Long, 70 miles southwest of Saigon, killing one civilian and wounding three.

The list of new overnight targets was expected to rise during the day. Early reports said overall damage and casualties were light.

Before dawn Friday, a barrage of more than 100 shells killed 15 persons and wounded 105 in Vinh Long, while northwest of Saigon rockets wrecked the center of Tay Ninh city, according to reports.

The Thursday-Friday shelling hit more than 45 positions, breaking about three weeks of comparative lull in the enemy offensive launched Feb. 23.

About one-fourth of the latest attacks were aimed at South Vietnamese provincial and district capitals.

U.S. military analysts have warned that such cities might be the target of any new phase of the enemy offensive. They said the object would be to disrupt government administration in the countryside.

The attacks did just that in Tay Ninh, 55 miles northwest of Saigon. Another provincial capital hard hit was Vinh Long, 65 miles to the south in the Mekong Delta. Nearly 100 persons may have been killed at Tay Ninh and 15 at Vinh Long. Casualty figures were incomplete for other shelling.

Associated Press correspondent George McArthur reported from Tay Ninh that one rocket blew up 200 tons of ammunition, turning the center of the city into smoldering ruins.

The rocket hit a large dump beside provincial military headquarters. The explosion set off a small dump a few hundred yards away, and a crimson fireball billowed over Tay Ninh.

The Viet Cong also launched a ground attack against Sa Dec. Field reports said three civilians and a number of popular force and local defense troops were killed. Five U.S. advisers were wounded.

There are about 25,000 American and South Vietnamese troops in areas around Tay Ninh, which is only a few miles from the main Cambodian border staging areas of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops.

During fighting last August and September, parts of Tay Ninh were infiltrated and occupied briefly by enemy forces.

Most of the attacks were concentrated in the Mekong Delta, long a Viet Cong stronghold. North Vietnamese recently have been reinforcing Viet Cong units there.

Several provincial and district capitals in the delta came under fire. Hardest hit was Vinh Long Province. South Vietnamese officials said that in addition to 15 killed, 105 persons were wounded in Vinh Long.

Two other provincial capitals shelled were My Tho, an important base 40 miles south of Saigon, and Sa Dec, 75 miles southwest of the capital.

Air Force ROTC Drops 8 Schools For Missing Quota

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced Friday it will close Reserve Officer Training Corps units at eight universities and colleges over the next three years because they are not turning out enough officers.

An Air Force spokesman attributed the low officer output of the eight schools to a lack of student interest and denied the Air Force is under pressure from anti-war groups or faculty members to leave the campuses.

Among the institutions affected is Boston University which, the Air Force said, is not expected to be able to meet the 15-officer minimum output this year.

The other schools, which have not been meeting that requirement for some time, are Butler University, Indianapolis; Capital University, Columbus, Ohio; Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa; Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago; Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio; Lawrence University, Wisconsin, Appleton, Wis.; and Tufts University, Medford, Mass.

The Air Force said the schools were among 18 which had been told in 1966 to raise their officer output. Most of the four-year colleges were able to raise their ROTC programs to the 15-officer minimum.

The action leaves the Air Force with 167 ROTC units on campuses. These will be able to meet the Air Force's annual requirement for ROTC-trained officers, a spokesman said.

'I Am No One' Woman Turns Out to Be Iowan

LAS VEGAS (AP) — A dazed woman, whose trance and inverted aliases baffled detectives more than a week, reunited with her husband and prepared Friday to return to her children in Iowa.

Dr. William B. Pike, a psychiatrist, said Mrs. Teresa Prohosky, 32, of West Liberty, Iowa, was released from a hospital Friday and would be under a doctor's care at home.

Mrs. Prohosky was found April 2 bound with adhesive tape, in a hypnotic trance and wearing a costume like a nun's habit at the Sal Sage Hotel. She identified herself as Eno Onmai but apparently had lost her memory.

Sal Sage is Las Vegas spelled backward and Eno Onmai is "I am no one," spelled backward.

Asked who bound her, she said, "Eno did it."

Police found a letter with her that said a Las Vegas entertainer's voice could bring her back to consciousness. The entertainer tried but could not help.

She was lucid when asked about the present, police said, but went back into a trance when asked about anything March 31 or before.

That was the day she sent her 11- and 14-year-old sons off to school, left a note saying she was leaving, and took a plane to Las Vegas. She and her husband, Marvin, were in Las Vegas earlier this year on an Elks Club tour.

Police couldn't establish her identity until she suddenly recalled the name of her sister, Doris Lindsey of Albuquerque, N.M. Mrs. Lindsey contacted Prohosky, who flew to Las Vegas.

City police said they were discontinuing their investigation because "We're satisfied this is not a police matter."

Lt. Doyle Hamilton said it appeared she wrote the letter herself, somehow bound herself with the tape and that her hypnosis appeared to be self-induced.

Mayor Neil Wicks of West Liberty said the "whole town" is puzzled and shocked by the case.

Penitentiary Guard Stabbed to Death

FORT MADISON (AP) — An Iowa State Penitentiary guard was stabbed to death Friday, and authorities were questioning a prison inmate in the case.

Warden L. V. Brewer said correctional officer Samuel Reed of Niota, Ill., was on duty in a cell house when he was stabbed. Reed, who would have been 48 years old today, died later at a hospital.

Deputy Lee County Atty. Michael Phelan said Edward Clark, 31, already serving a 40-year sentence for second degree murder in the stabbing of another inmate in 1965, was being questioned.

Brewer said Reed, a correctional officer since June 1, was stabbed with a makeshift boning knife with a four-inch blade.

Clark was sentenced from Polk County in 1960 to a 25-year term on a charge of robbery with aggravation.

He was sentenced to 40 years in 1965 for the slaying of Richard Rilea, 26, with a makeshift knife.

Egyptian Obstacle Seen

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Despite King Hussein's latest peace plan, diplomatic sources said Friday that Egypt gave a U.N. mediator a vague answer on whether Israel could use the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal in an over-all Middle East settlement.

Outlining his plan at the National Press Club in Washington Thursday, Jordan's king said one point was "guarantees for all the freedom of navigation through the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal." He said he was speaking for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser as well as himself.

However, the informants said, in reply to a recent question on the subject, Egypt promised freedom of navigation only through "international waterways in the area," without specifying which ones, and made that conditional on Israel's doing other things in return.

The question was one of a series that Gunnar V. Jarring, U.N. special representative in the Middle East, put privately to Egypt, Jordan and Israel last month on their attitude toward the Security Council's resolution of Nov. 22, 1967.

That resolution, laying down principles for settling the Arab-Israeli conflict, called for, among other things, guaranteeing freedom of navigation through international waterways in the area.

Jarring's question on that dealt specifically both with the canal, where Egypt has long barred Israeli shipping, and with the Strait of Tiran at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba, where an Egyptian move for a similar ban helped trigger the 1967 war.

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration, which so far has indicated only modest changes in the tax laws, is considering reducing sharply the amounts of high-bracket income that may be shielded from taxation.

Such a reform would make taxpayers out of thousands of persons with high incomes who have arranged their affairs so that little or none of their income is taxable.

The proposal currently is only a Treasury Department study, lacking official administration backing. But administration sources said Friday it is rising rapidly in official favor.

They said it could well emerge as one of the administration's formal tax legislation proposals when Treasury officials go before the House Ways and Means Committee April 22.

It already is being seriously discussed

Ah spring!

Spring vacation is the shortest vacation ever instituted. Even Thanksgiving break lasts longer in terms of accomplishment and unwasted time.

After finishing the fourth straight University spring break and accomplishing nothing for the fourth straight time, I am beginning to realize that spring vacations are a plot to weed out the strongest students.

Only those persons who are overly academically inclined could possibly come back to class with any sort of driving ambition. After all, it's baseball season, it's golf season, and the weather is beautiful.

To give a student one week of beautiful weather and then expect him to return to the University for two fun-filled months of midterms and finals is the most horrible form of mental torture ever instituted.

University administrators who plan vacation periods must rival the Nazis in deciding the cruelest things to do to people.

If spring in Iowa City, even without people here, is breathtakingly beautiful, just imagine what the students who have spent their week in some exotic place will have suffered when they come back here. Inhuman, absolutely inhuman.

There are two ways to remedy the problems with the University's spring vacation period.

First of all, spring vacations could be eliminated entirely. If this were the case, students would not have to be tempted by the beautiful weather, the opening of golf courses, the televised baseball games, the temptation to drive around all day and the definite aversion to books that comes with the first breath of fresh air.

The second, and far more reasonable solution to the spring problem would be to make the vacation a little longer. In one week, a student has the time to think about all the things he wants to do during spring. In two weeks, a student could do some of them and be better prepared to get back to classes.

To save minds, consciences and emotions, the University must do something about spring vacation.

'Local Sheriff' is unstrained humor without hysteria

Burt Kennedy, the director of "Support Your Local Sheriff," now at the Englert theater, is a director of the middle. And what I have reference to here is not his political but his economic position in the American film industry. Kennedy's projects are neither the poverty row features that fill up so many movie double-bills, nor are they the expensive and slickly produced films behind which are placed publicity and prestige. Yet Kennedy is one of the better directors in this country. His elemental western "Welcome to Hard Times" is one of the best of recent years, and his police drama "The Money Trap" was both real and powerful.

"Support Your Local Sheriff" concerns itself with the coming of law and order to a wide open boom town. Law and Order is represented by James Garner, and his relaxed and easy performance amid the broad farce of the film takes one back quite pleasantly to his days as television's "Maverick," and I hope that doesn't go back too far for too many of you. The film reminds one of a television show in many ways but that, I hope, will not be held against it. Its scope and physical location is narrow, Kennedy keeps his camera pretty concertedly on his players' faces, the humor is broad but genial.

What is best about "Support Your Local Sheriff" and was best about the more excellent television series of the now almost distant past, is its air of unstrained spirit and humor. The makers of the film seem to know where its comedy lies and with this assurance comes an absence of the hysteria that marks so much current film comedy. William Bowers' script has a nice deadpan quality about it and moves expertly from verbal to physical humor. There are a good many doubletakes registered by all involved, but the performances are everywhere subdued and expert.

The cast is fairly representative of the best in American comic character acting. Harry Morgan, the dumb sheriff of "The Film-Flam Man" once more demonstrates his mastery. He is joined by such fine performers as Henry Jones, Jack Elam and Bruce Dern. Joan Hackett does nicely as the mayor's daughter and Walter Brennan seems to have survived his television series without too much harm.

"Support Your Local Sheriff" is neither violent nor black comedy. There are a number of dead men in the film but the violence is always urbane and civilized. No, what the film is is the work of people who obviously enjoyed making it and the enjoyment comes through to the audience. One could do far worse than to support directors like Burt Kennedy. His craftsmanship, the craftsmanship of everyone concerned with this film, is not something we could easily afford to lose.

Sioux City Flood Fighters Breathe a Big Sigh of Relief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fatigued flood fighters in Sioux City appeared to have won the battle of the Big Sioux River Friday, and the Weather Bureau issued a more optimistic flood outlook for the Mississippi River.

The record crest of the Big Sioux at Sioux City — 11.7 feet over flood stage — poured into the Missouri River without eroding dikes guarding the city of 90,000.

Suburban North Sioux City, S.D., evacuated Wednesday as the river began spreading into its streets, remained under water, and there was no indication when residents might be able to return.

Rep. Wiley Mayne (R-Iowa) asked Gov. Robert D. Ray to declare the northwest Iowa counties of Woodbury, Lyon, Plymouth, Sioux and Cherokee a disaster area. Such a designation is necessary before those counties can receive state and federal disaster relief aid.

In eastern Iowa, meanwhile, cities along the Mississippi River continued efforts to shore up their defenses for flood crests expected between next Friday and May 3.

The Weather Bureau said crests well over flood stage are expected all along the river, but it said the peak levels should not be as high as originally expected.

Forecasters cautioned, however, that a significant amount of rainfall could push river crests above those predicted originally.

Widespread flooding continued Friday on the west fork of the Des Moines River in north-central Iowa, but most river communities were adequately protected by earthen and sandbag dikes.

Record overflows were reported along the west fork from Humboldt north into Minnesota. A large portion of Jackson, Minn., just across the Iowa state line, remained under water.

At Estherville, a dike was holding back the rising Des Moines River, but water flowed over the west approach to the Central Avenue bridge. About a dozen families have been chased from their homes. The river was expected to crest at 10 feet over flood stage there Sunday.

The river was rising slowly at Fort Dodge as it neared the 10-foot flood stage, but extensive flooding does not occur there until the river reaches 11 feet. Officials have placed some 10,000 sandbags to protect the Geo. A. Hormel packing plant.

The main concern at Sioux City, where the river dropped one foot overnight Thursday and was down to 10.15 over flood stage at mid-afternoon Friday, was whether the dikes would hold.

The swift current and tons of water exerted pressure on the levees, but the city's public service director, Michael Randolph, said the dikes "appear to be doing their job."

A National Guard unit and a Coast Guard unit left the city Friday, and city officials discontinued the call for volunteers to patrol the levees at night.

Wilson Bows To Pressure On 'Wildcats'

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson told a delegation of angry trade union leaders Friday that the government will enact labor reform legislation despite their protests.

The "state of anarchy" in industrial relations must be ended, the prime minister said. "Our intention is to go ahead with the legislation."

In a two-hour meeting with leaders of the Trades Union Congress, Wilson was accused of proposing the legislation as a political move. There is widespread feeling in Britain that the government should curb the rash of wildcat strikes that have brought chaos to some key industries.

The government's proposed legislation, to be introduced in the next session of Parliament this fall, calls for a 28-day cooling-off period to allow for negotiations in wildcat strikes and empowers the government to call a strike vote to make certain the wildcat walkouts are supported by a majority of the workers. Fines for unlawful strikes would be imposed by the courts.

In taking his stand, Wilson undoubtedly will further alienate union members.

But his firmness also could enhance his political stature in the country. He has been criticized frequently in recent weeks for a lack of decisiveness, and a opinion polls indicate a substantial lead for the opposition Conservative party.

Wilson referred to the Conservative lead when he told the union leaders: "I feel if we don't deal with the strikes we might have the Tories anyway. If you get the Tories you will get more penal legislation. Whether or not it is effective, you will have it."

Repairs to Wall To Cost $5,000

Repair to a collapsed retaining wall on North Dubuque Street will cost the city over $5,000, Ralph Speer, Iowa City public works director, said Friday.

The wall, located near the Sigma Chi, Sigma Pi and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity houses, fell more than a week ago.

Speer said the west southbound lane of North Dubuque Street will be closed for about two weeks until repairs are completed.

He said the wall had stood for over 50 years.

Prosecution Rests Its Case In Des Moines Murder Trial

DES MOINES (AP) — The prosecution rested its case Friday in the first degree murder trial of Michael Charles Niccum, 23, in the fatal golf club beating of Linda Boothe, 17.

The last witness called by Polk County Atty. Roy Fenton was Dr. Leo Luka, county medical examiner, who identified photographs of Miss Boothe's body taken at an autopsy.

Miss Boothe was found brutally beaten last Nov. 20 in the back room of the cleaning establishment where she worked. The head of a golf club was found lying on her chest. She died later at a hospital.

Defense attorney Anthony Critelli objected to the introduction of the photographs taken at the autopsy, saying their only purpose was "to inflame the passions of the jury." Judge James P. Denato overruled the objection.

Luka said death was caused by "multiple fractures of the facial bones and skull by bludgeoning." The injuries, he said, were inflicted by a blunt instrument which could have been the golf club head which has been introduced in evidence.

Roland Hoffman, an agent for the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation, said Niccum told him while returning from St. Louis, where Niccum was arrested Dec. 28, about events in the cleaning establishment Nov. 20.

He quoted Niccum as saying he went to the shop to see the manager, Rodney Sherman.

"He saw no one in the front office and he thought Sherman might be in the back room working on the books," Hoffman said. "When he got there he saw the body of Linda Boothe and a golf club shaft was leaning against the wall and fell into his hand. He said that got some blood on him."

Hoffman said Niccum related that he fled from the store after hearing some noise at the front.

U.S. to Close 59 Centers Of Job Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring congressional protests, the Nixon administration announced Friday the closure of 59 of the nation's 113 Job Corps Centers, including one at Clinton, Iowa.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told a news conference that the move does not represent "a wholesale slaughter" of the youth-training program.

"It is a question of rearranging the mix," he said.

Shultz said the shutting down of the old centers — most of them in rural areas — will be offset, somewhat by the establishment of 30 new inner-city and nearby training centers. Twenty-seven are confirmed and three others — not named — still are under consideration.

The old centers, Shultz said, will be phased out by July 1. "They won't be shut down overnight," another Labor Department official said. He added that the plan is to move trainees to alternate facilities.

Shultz estimated the reorganization will save about $100 million.

Though Shultz denied that the news conference he bowed to congressional pressures in decisions to close or leave open specific centers, he conceded that the pressures have been heavy.

He indicated he expects a tough fight on Capitol Hill but said he is prepared to stick by the decisions of his department and feels he can back them up with "the comprehensive data we have in hand."

Operation of the five-year-old Job Corps was turned over to the Labor Department in February by President Nixon. The transfer from the Office of Economic Opportunity will become fully effective after June 30. The Job Corps was criticized by Nixon during his presidential campaign.

Shultz said under the Labor Department, the training emphasis for underprivileged youth will be shifted from conservation work to industrial operations and job placement through the establishment of the 30 new city planning centers.

It had been too difficult, the Labor Secretary said, to place the trainees in jobs from the isolated conservation centers.

He said also the dropout rate had been high — 65 percent of the youths leave before graduation — and the training overly expensive.

Clinton Gets Bad Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials confirmed Friday the Women's Job Corps Center in Clinton, Iowa, will be shut down and revealed that an urban residential manpower center will be established at Davenport.

Rep. Fred Schwegel (R-Iowa) said the new manpower center will be located at Davenport or suburban Bettendorf and will have an initial enrollment of 25 young people.

The centers, being considered for 27 cities, will be a day-school type of operation designed to absorb some of the displaced job corps students on a less costly basis.

Schwegel said an initial appropriation of $140,000 has been approved for the center, which probably will be established in existing facilities in cooperation with the area vocational-technical school there.

The more than 900 enrollees at the Clinton center were busy Friday pooling their funds to finance telegrams of protest to President Nixon and congressmen.

A spokesman at the center said as many as 1,000 telegrams might be sent.

University Worker Injured in Crash

TIPTON — A University of Iowa employee was listed in good condition at Mercy Hospital Friday with injuries resulting from a one-car accident east of here on Interstate 80 Thursday night.

The Iowa Highway Patrol said Herman Wenman, 816 Talwin Ct., Iowa City, an assistant foreman at University Printing Services, suffered a broken leg when his small foreign car turned off on a scale exit and struck the scale shed.

'Awright, awright—let's have it'

Honest, readers, it's circulation, not the news staff

To write for The Daily Iowan, to make your association with the paper known at all, to honor of horrors, receive a byline, is to invite a pestilence worse than locusts. This is the considered opinion of one who has endured the onslaught for less than one year and is already fed up to her bippy.

I may just go over the hill, under the table, around the bend, and/or my arborvitae if one more person accuses me with "We haven't been getting our paper!"

I sympathize, neighbors, I really do. I haven't had a Daily Iowan stuck in my door once in the three years I've been a University student.

I have pried cola-sticky DIs from the desks in Schaeffer study hall, whisked them from the faces of unsuspecting snoozers in the Union and retrieved them section by section from wastebaskets the campus over.

I have even, on occasion, resorted to the radical action of going to the Communications Center and picking up a nice, fresh paper unsullied by previous readers.

I have never berated a reporter or editor for not getting my DI to me.

It would be the height of immodesty for one who contributes to the paper's content to also distribute it. Elsie the Cow doesn't see it personally that you get your ice milk and your yogurt every morning, Zsa Zsa Gabor doesn't tune up your transmission herself, dahlink.

The point is, there is a nice man at the Daily Iowan office who keeps our circulation going. Relieving arterial constrictions is his job.

His name is Jim Conlin, and you may call him at 337-4193.

Jim is the man to whom you address your request for a certain paper boy to be beaten to a creamy gruel if his habits don't improve.

It is true that being without a Daily Iowan for even one morning leaves a regrettable void in one's life. And it's flattering to a staff member that you think he need only say the word and your service will be healed. Unfortunately, his influence stops at the typewriter.

I, for one, only start the rumors. I don't spread them.

Italian Workers Strike Students, Police Clash

ROME (AP) — Clashes between police and bands of militant students broke out in Rome and Milan Friday after workers across the country staged a three-hour strike to express solidarity with citizens of Battipaglia who battled police Wednesday and Thursday.

The riot in Battipaglia left two dead and hundreds injured. It led to Friday's strike and disorders and to a political crossfire between Communists and government backers.

Parochial Busing Stalled in Senate

DES MOINES (AP) — A proposal to let parochial school children ride public school buses got caught in a legislative no-man's-land in the Iowa Senate Friday and apparently is dead until at least 1971.

Death of the proposal came on a parliamentary maneuver by its chief sponsor, Sen. John Walsh (R-Dubuque) which backfired.

Walsh attempted to tack the busing bill onto a relatively innocuous school bus safety measure as an amendment. The Senate promptly voted 26 to 17 to table the amendment.

Under parliamentary rules, tabling an amendment takes the main bill with it, and it now would require a two-thirds vote to get both the bill and Walsh's proposal back for further consideration.

FIRE Lt. Robert L. Hein was reported somewhat improved Friday although he still remains unconscious and in critical condition at General Hospital.

The 44-year-old father of 14 was among seven firemen and a construction worker injured in an explosion and fire Monday at Mercy Hospital here. Including Hein, six of the injured remain hospitalized.

An injured fireman's benefit fund sponsored by the Iowa City Jaycees had collected $1,260 Friday morning for the families of the firemen.

Mercy Hospital employees Friday joined a drive that began Tuesday to provide meals for Hein's 14 children.

Nixon Cuts Down Air Route Awards

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon scaled down sharply Friday the award of controversial transpacific air routes once approved by former President Lyndon B. Johnson, and eliminated proposed international operations by Continental and Braniff Air Lines.

Shortly after taking office, Nixon had ordered cancellation of the earlier awards, and held up related domestic route awards.

White House sources said he has concluded that transpacific traffic forecasts cited by the Civil Aeronautics Board during the Johnson administration were far too optimistic and that the Johnson decision "would have overburdened the Pacific with inflated route awards lacking an economic viability."

There had been public suggestions earlier of possible improper dealings between government and airline officials prior to the Johnson route decision.

A White House source said the new administration had looked into this matter and, "We found no evidence of any impropriety."

Liddy Blasts Mezvinsky

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa Secretary of Agriculture L. B. Liddy called Friday on State Rep. Edward R. Mezvinsky (D-Iowa City) to prove "irresponsible statements and charges" made against a meat inspection official.

"Legislative immunity is one thing, but some of the statements you made carried this beyond the realm of reason," Liddy said in a letter to Mezvinsky.

Mezvinsky charged Dr. Arnold Knobly, state meat inspection director, with using state funds to lobby for a weak meat inspection bill.

The legislator also called on Liddy to remove Knobly from office, but Liddy said Friday he would not consider such a request until Mezvinsky's charges were proven.

Mezvinsky claimed Knobly handed out petitions to meat inspectors along with instructions to have the petitions signed and mailed to lawmakers.

In response to Liddy's request for proof, Mezvinsky said Liddy ought to check the report with inspectors.

Police Arrest 4 in New York During 'Bomb Plot' Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of supporters of 14 persons jailed in an alleged bomb plot picked a courthouse and marched on the Wall Street district Friday, causing melees in which four persons were arrested.

Among two arrested inside the Criminal Courts Building was Abbie Hoffman, a leader of the so-called Yippies, who was among those indicted recently on conspiracy charges in connection with disorders in Chicago during the Democratic convention last August.

Hoffman and another man were grabbed by police in a crowd of about 200 jamming the corridor outside a courtroom.

Inside the courtroom, lawyers were arguing whether the bail of $100,000 each should be reduced. The 14, identified by police as members of the Black Panthers, are accused of plotting to set off bombs in department stores, a rail terminal and other sites.

In all, 21 were indicted in connection with the alleged bomb plot. Two were in jail in New Jersey and five were still at large.

A group of about 75 Panthers, headed by David Brothers, New York chairman of the Black Panther party, tried to get into the courtroom but were barred when they refused to submit to a search.

French Bomber Uses Booby Traps

LYON, France (AP) — Police have launched a determined effort to catch "the booby-trap maniac" whose bombs have killed two persons and maimed two in the countryside south of here.

Taking full advantage of human curiosity, the bomber disguises his explosives as canned food. He usually leaves them in abandoned barns or shanties that children like to explore.

Police issued a warning to leave all conspicuous "finds" alone.

One bomb found by police and disarmed showed the maker has a thorough knowledge of explosives. He places flashlight batteries in the emptied food cans, attaches them to a quantity of powder and surrounds the lot with nails or other bits of metal. A dangling type contact sets it off when jiggled or handled.

The bomber stops his work for several months after each explosion, police say.

NATO Ready to Talk—But on Its Own Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The NATO allies said Friday night they are ready to explore with Communist powers the possibilities for settling outstanding East-West issues. But they bypassed the Reds' bid for a general European security conference.

Reporting this at the windup of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's two-day 20th birthday meeting, U.S. diplomats said the Western allies did not want to reject directly the Communist Warsaw Pact Nations' proposal for a formal East-West conference on Europe.

But the NATO policymakers preferred a step-by-step approach toward solving specific problems rather than rushing into a big international conference, the Americans said.

These conclusions went into a communique that was shaped after many hours of argument behind closed doors.

The communique carefully avoided specific mention of the March 17 Warsaw Pact bid for a conference but gave the NATO view in these words:

"The allies propose, while remaining in close consultation, to explore with the Soviet Union and other countries of East Europe which concrete issues best lend themselves in due course to fruitful negotiation and early resolution."

The communique was drawn after President Nixon had conferred privately with the NATO foreign and military chiefs.

While the divided ministers were striving to reach an agreement on what to say, participants in the discussions told newsmen:

• One school of thought among the Western strategists holds that the Kremlin was more interested in propaganda than progress when the Warsaw Pact nations — NATO's Communist counterpart — called on March 17 for a general conference on European security.

British diplomats reported the Soviets had advised them that the United States and Canada would not be invited to such a European conference at the start. And that it would open on the basis of a divided Germany. Such conditions would be unacceptable to the Western allies.

• Other Western leaders, however, feel the Warsaw Pact proposal issued at Budapest last month shows a potentially more serious Communist interest in a European settlement. They see the Budapest appeal as freer of diatribe than past Communist offers, and as less burdened with clearly objectionable conditions.

Among two arrested inside the Criminal Courts Building was Abbie Hoffman, a leader of the so-called Yippies, who was among those indicted recently on conspiracy charges in connection with disorders in Chicago during the Democratic convention last August.

Hoffman and another man were grabbed by police in a crowd of about 200 jamming the corridor outside a courtroom.

Inside the courtroom, lawyers were arguing whether the bail of $100,000 each should be reduced. The 14, identified by police as members of the Black Panthers, are accused of plotting to set off bombs in department stores, a rail terminal and other sites.

In all, 21 were indicted in connection with the alleged bomb plot. Two were in jail in New Jersey and five were still at large.

A group of about 75 Panthers, headed by David Brothers, New York chairman of the Black Panther party, tried to get into the courtroom but were barred when they refused to submit to a search.

French Bomber Uses Booby Traps

LYON, France (AP) — Police have launched a determined effort to catch "the booby-trap maniac" whose bombs have killed two persons and maimed two in the countryside south of here.

Taking full advantage of human curiosity, the bomber disguises his explosives as canned food. He usually leaves them in abandoned barns or shanties that children like to explore.

Police issued a warning to leave all conspicuous "finds" alone.

One bomb found by police and disarmed showed the maker has a thorough knowledge of explosives. He places flashlight batteries in the emptied food cans, attaches them to a quantity of powder and surrounds the lot with nails or other bits of metal. A dangling type contact sets it off when jiggled or handled.

The bomber stops his work for several months after each explosion, police say.

NATO Ready to Talk—But on Its Own Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The NATO allies said Friday night they are ready to explore with Communist powers the possibilities for settling outstanding East-West issues. But they bypassed the Reds' bid for a general European security conference.

Reporting this at the windup of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's two-day 20th birthday meeting, U.S. diplomats said the Western allies did not want to reject directly the Communist Warsaw Pact Nations' proposal for a formal East-West conference on Europe.

But the NATO policymakers preferred a step-by-step approach toward solving specific problems rather than rushing into a big international conference, the Americans said.

These conclusions went into a communique that was shaped after many hours of argument behind closed doors.

The communique carefully avoided specific mention of the March 17 Warsaw Pact bid for a conference but gave the NATO view in these words:

"The allies propose, while remaining in close consultation, to explore with the Soviet Union and other countries of East Europe which concrete issues best lend themselves in due course to fruitful negotiation and early resolution."

The communique was drawn after President Nixon had conferred privately with the NATO foreign and military chiefs.

While the divided ministers were striving to reach an agreement on what to say, participants in the discussions told newsmen:

• One school of thought among the Western strategists holds that the Kremlin was more interested in propaganda than progress when the Warsaw Pact nations — NATO's Communist counterpart — called on March 17 for a general conference on European security.

British diplomats reported the Soviets had advised them that the United States and Canada would not be invited to such a European conference at the start. And that it would open on the basis of a divided Germany. Such conditions would be unacceptable to the Western allies.

• Other Western leaders, however, feel the Warsaw Pact proposal issued at Budapest last month shows a potentially more serious Communist interest in a European settlement. They see the Budapest appeal as freer of diatribe than past Communist offers, and as less burdened with clearly objectionable conditions.

Police Arrest 4 in New York During 'Bomb Plot' Protest

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of supporters of 14 persons jailed in an alleged bomb plot picked a courthouse and marched on the Wall Street district Friday, causing melees in which four persons were arrested.

Hein Reported Slightly Better

FIRE Lt. Robert L. Hein was reported somewhat improved Friday although he still remains unconscious and in critical condition at General Hospital.

The 44-year-old father of 14 was among seven firemen and a construction worker injured in an explosion and fire Monday at Mercy Hospital here. Including Hein, six of the injured remain hospitalized.

An injured fireman's benefit fund sponsored by the Iowa City Jaycees had collected $1,260 Friday morning for the families of the firemen.

Mercy Hospital employees Friday joined a drive that began Tuesday to provide meals for Hein's 14 children.

Nixon Cuts Down Air Route Awards

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon scaled down sharply Friday the award of controversial transpacific air routes once approved by former President Lyndon B. Johnson, and eliminated proposed international operations by Continental and Braniff Air Lines.

Shortly after taking office, Nixon had ordered cancellation of the earlier awards, and held up related domestic route awards.

White House sources said he has concluded that transpacific traffic forecasts cited by the Civil Aeronautics Board during the Johnson administration were far too optimistic and that the Johnson decision "would have overburdened the Pacific with inflated route awards lacking an economic viability."

There had been public suggestions earlier of possible improper dealings between government and airline officials prior to the Johnson route decision.

A White House source said the new administration had looked into this matter and, "We found no evidence of any impropriety."

Liddy Blasts Mezvinsky

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa Secretary of Agriculture L. B. Liddy called Friday on State Rep. Edward R. Mezvinsky (D-Iowa City) to prove "irresponsible statements and charges" made against a meat inspection official.

"Legislative immunity is one thing, but some of the statements you made carried this beyond the realm of reason," Liddy said in a letter to Mezvinsky.

Mezvinsky charged Dr. Arnold Knobly, state meat inspection director, with using state funds to lobby for a weak meat inspection bill.

The legislator also called on Liddy to remove Knobly from office, but Liddy said Friday he would not consider such a request until Mezvinsky's charges were proven.

Mezvinsky claimed Knobly handed out petitions to meat inspectors along with instructions to have the petitions signed and mailed to lawmakers.

In response to Liddy's request for proof, Mezvinsky said Liddy ought to check the report with inspectors.

Iowa's Baseball Team Faces Minot State in Doubleheader

The Iowa baseball team, trying to rebound from a week of rugged competition in Arizona, will meet Minot State in a doubleheader at 1 p.m. today at Iowa Field.

The Hawkeyes will take a 2-9 record into the contest — after winning only one in ten games.

GARY BRESHEARS Sports .314 Average in Arizona. Seven of those losses were to the University of Arizona, one of the nation's top rated college teams.

Iowa's hitting improved in the last few games at Arizona. Mike Wymore, senior first baseman from Iowa City who led the team in hitting a year ago, is leading the Hawks again this year with a fine .353 average. (Ted Welch is batting .400 but has only had five at-bats compared to Wymore's 34). Wymore's dozen hits include four doubles, two triples and a home run.

Gary Breshears, junior second baseman, owns a .314 average to rank second behind Wymore.

Pitchers Bruce Reid (1-2) and Mike Loose (1-1) have picked up the only two victories for Iowa. Reid leads the team in strikeouts with 16 and has the best earned run average with a 1.17.

Trackmen Meet Purdue

The Iowa track team, fresh from its spring training trip to Arizona, will entertain Purdue today in a meet scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

The Hawks participated in only one meet in Arizona. They finished fourth in a quadrangular that included Nebraska, Long Beach State and Arizona. Lone winners for Iowa were capt. Carl Frazier, who ran a 48.1 second 440, and Rich Gershenzen, who pole-vaulted 15 feet. The Hawkeye 440 and mile relay teams managed second place finishes but had fine clockings of 43.5 and 3:15.5 respectively.

Purdue's only outdoor action this spring has been the Kentucky Relays. The Boilermakers finished eighth in the Big 10 indoor meet, one place behind Iowa.

Hawkeye Ruggers to Battle For Conference Title Today

The Iowa rugby team will head for Ann Arbor, Mich., today with the intention of winning the Big 10 rugby championship. Coach Larry Mitchell says the Iowa ruggers have a very good chance of bringing home the title.

Michigan will be Iowa's first foe. Should Iowa win, the ruggers would face the winner of the Wisconsin-Indiana game. Mitchell said that Wisconsin, with one of the better teams in the country, would be the favorite. The finals will be Sunday.

Eight of the ten Big 10 schools will be represented with only Northwestern and Purdue absent. Iowa competed in the fall Big 10 championship and finished third.

Mitchell said it was "now or never" for the Hawks. Iowa started rugby in 1965 and now has a strong, experienced squad. Several of the players will not be back next year.

Devlin's 40-Foot Putt Ties Casper for Lead in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin sank a curling 40-foot putt on the final green Friday and moved into a tie with steady Bill Casper for the second-round lead in the 33rd Masters Golf Tournament.

Devlin's dramatic finish, made 20 minutes after Casper had finished a 71 round, gave him a 70 for the day and deadlocked the 36-hole lead at 137, seven under par.

"I knew what I had to do to get a tie — somebody told me Casper was in at 137 as I walked up the 18th fairway," the skinny Sydney pro, a former plumber's helper, said.

Devlin hit a good drive on the 420-yard uphill hole and then laced a second to the right of the green, avoiding a gaping trap. The ball rested at the back of the green, a discouraging distance from the cup.

But the ball never hesitated — and plopped into the cup. Six-foot-six George Archer and Dan Sikes were tied at 140, three shots off the pace, Archer shooting a 73 and Sikes scrambling home in 71.

Nearly a dozen players were tied at 142 with a traffic jam windup looming for the final two rounds today and Sunday, both to be shown on national television (CBS).

Scores generally ran higher than in the first round over the 6,980-yard, par 72 Augusta National Course and this was attributed largely to subtle pin placements.

The pins on many holes were hidden in corners, close to traps and near the water, and others were on ridges and only a few feet from the front of the spacious carpets.

"This is as difficult as I have ever seen the course," said Jack Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, who shot a 75, three-putting three greens on the back nine, for a 143 total.

"I've never seen the pins tougher," moaned Gary Player of South Africa, who managed a rallying 70 for 144.

Defending champion Bob Goalby, after going out in 35, dumped shots in the water three times in the space of three holes, getting two double bogeys, in shooting a jolting 76 for 146.

Lee Trevino, the laughing Mexican-American who holds the U.S. Open crown, three-putted five greens for a 74 and 146.

"I thought I'd be on my way home to see my wife," Trevino said.

The roof fell in on the great Arnold Palmer for the second year in a row. Pressing on almost every shot and battling the sands and rough, he skied to a 75 for 148.

He barely survived the midway cut reducing the field to the low 44 and ties and anyone within 10 shots of the lead.

He was one of five at 148 and became one of 48 qualifying to play the final two rounds today and Sunday. Palmer missed the cut last year.

Roberto de Vicenzo, the balding Argentine whose simple scorecard mistake a year ago cost him a tie and a chance to play off for the title, missed the cut. He shot a second straight 75 for 150.

The second round was played in humid 80-degree temperatures, the lush course made softer by overnight rain. However, the greens were fast and the pin placements tricky.

Miss Crump Takes Bad Racing Spill

MIAMI (AP) — Petite Diane Crump, first woman jockey to ride against men at a major American track, was knocked unconscious Friday when her horse went down in a bad spill in the fourth race at Gulfstream Park.

Miss Crump was aboard Misquoia when the horse appeared to clip the heels of Mickey Rabalero and Stumble. Misquoia fell, pitching the slender 20-year-old to the ground.

Putter Power ridden by Don Brumfield, fell over Misquoia, throwing Brumfield. Apprentice

Bobby Breen, on Bouncing Swifty, veered to the outside and also fell off.

Miss Crump came to in an ambulance as she was rushed to the first aid room at the track.

At the first aid room, Mrs. Betty Waterbury said Miss Crump's injuries didn't appear to be serious.

At the hospital emergency room, Diane said, "I was just starting to make my move." She said she couldn't remember what happened after that.

It's going to be a late spring before the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs wind up.

The young Los Angeles Kings made sure of that when they whipped the Oakland Seals 4-3 at Los Angeles Thursday night and tied the West Division's semifinal playoffs at 3-3.

The two teams in the expansion division will settle the issue in the seventh game at Oakland Sunday night for the right to meet St. Louis in another best-of-7 set for the championship of the West.

Then the ultimate winner will take on the survivor of the East's final between Montreal's defending champions and the hard-charging Boston Bruins for the Cup.

The Canadiens, tough as a bunch of paratroopers when it comes to the playoffs, hold a 1-0 edge over the big, bad Bruins in their best-of-7 set.

The champions came from behind to nip the Bruins 3-2 in overtime at Montreal Thursday night. It was the 10th straight playoff victory, including last year's games, for the Canadiens.

Former Iowa publicist Eric Wilson was named to the Helms Hall of Fame for College Sports Information Directors.

Wilson, who retired last year after 44 years as Hawkeye publicist, was one of 39 men selected for the honor. He will be honored when the college sports information directors hold their annual convention at Chicago in July.

A pioneer in college publicity, Wilson assumed his duties shortly after graduating from Iowa, where he was a Big 10 and NCAA track champion, and a member of the 1924 Olympic team. Other honors include the Arch Ward Memorial Award and membership in the Des Moines Register Hall of Fame.

Early Baseball Games Show There's Hope for the Hitters

NEW YORK (AP) — If Ted Williams can teach the Washington Senators to hit .361, even if it is for only three games, there is hope for the hitter in the new year of baseball expansion.

The scattered early returns, as nebulous as the presidential vote from the first hamlet in New Hampshire, hint that the domination by the pitchers might be ending.

It is foolish to pay serious attention to averages at this point because only 30 games have been played in the majors. But it is interesting to note that six clubs are hitting .333 or better,

Bucs Down Phils For 4th Straight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Moose pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to their fourth straight victory Friday with a five-hitter over Philadelphia, 7-1, on a 12-hit attack that included Jerry May's second home run.

An opening day crowd of 31,641 at Forbes Field saw Moose tighten up after yielding a home run to Johnny Callison in the second inning.

May's homer over the left field scoreboard opening the third tied the score, and the Pirates took the lead on May's single, a sacrifice and Matty Alou's single in the fifth.

Rookie Bob Robertson's single and Bill Mazeroski's sacrifice fly drove in the two runs in the sixth and a double by Alou and singles by Richie Hebner and Willie Stargell increased the margin to 6-1 in the seventh.

Moose helped send the Phils down to their fourth defeat when he singled in the eighth after Freddie Patek walked. Patek scored the final run on Alou's sacrifice fly.

Yanks Top Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Pepitone's four hits, including a two-run homer, and Roy White's two-run tie-breaking homer in the eighth led the New York Yankees to a 9-4 victory Friday over the Detroit Tigers.

White's drive into the lower right field stands, his second of the year, came moments after Detroit had tied the score at 2-2 in the bottom of the seventh.

Earl Wilson, who started for Detroit, allowed just two hits and struck out eight before Bobby Murcer singled and White followed with the homer, his second of the year.

New York's third run came in the eighth on a run scoring single by Bill Robinson and they scored four more in the ninth, including Pepitone's two-run homer.

Cubs Win Thriller

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Williams singled home Don Kessinger in the 12th inning Friday to give the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Kessinger walked with two out, stole second and took third on John Bateman's wild throw. After Glenn Beckert walked, Montreal brought in Dan McGinn to pitch to Williams, who singled to center breaking up the ball game.
