

The Lesbians' Life on Campus — 'Discreet' or 'Gay'

By SHARON STEPHENSON

Marsha and Sue live in a small three-room apartment tucked away in the corner of a large apartment complex in Iowa City. Like other University students, they worry about grades, course requirements, and budgeting money they get from home. Unlike other students, however, they have an additional worry because society has chosen to label and condemn the way they feel about each other.

Marsha and Sue are in love with each other. They are lesbians.

Since female homosexuals remain relatively discreet from society's view and from the view of other lesbians, estimates of their number in the University vary from 50 or more to a "large percentage."

These estimates evolved out of interviews with three girls who are lesbians, one girl who lived with a lesbian, one girl who had a single experience with a lesbian, and on the basis of questionnaires that were answered by five lesbians.

Lesbians in the University can be classified into two types: those who are "discreet" and live somewhat isolated lives; and the so-called "gay" lesbians who belong to a more organized community of homosexuals in Iowa City.

Neither discreet nor "gay" lesbians fit the common stereotype of a "butchy" lesbian who dresses in men's suits and talks in a deep, gravelly voice.

Discreet lesbians like Marsha and Sue live together as couples off-campus, in the dormitories and sorority houses, their relationship unknown to most of their "straight" or heterosexual friends.

Since there seems to be a minimum of permanency in the relationships of college-age homosexuals, Marsha and Sue say their living together does not necessarily constitute a homosexual "marriage."

"My conception of a marriage arrangement would be one in which the partners assume more definite male-female roles, such as one furnishing all the money and always driving the car, and the other assumes household duties such as cooking and washing," one girl explained.

Most college-age lesbians simply cannot afford to support a partner financially.

"Gay" lesbians also live together as couples or with a "straight" roommate in the dorms. They interact frequently with other members of the "gay" community, such as attending parties with both homosexual men and women from Iowa City and Cedar Rapids. "Gay" lesbians also maintain platonic relationships with homosexual men. They help each other move into apartments and have dinners together.

Adjustment to life at the University does not seem to be a problem for a lesbian, and one girl said she felt college life, especially dormitories, tends to encourage homosexuality. There are no official University regulations against homosexuality — although, certainly, University officials do consider homosexuality a problem and act against it whenever possible.

While there is always an unconscious fear of detection, rarely are lesbians harassed, according to the girls interviewed.

Prosecutions of lesbians under the state sodomy laws are virtually unknown.

One girl said she felt that, in a University community, people are more liberal, open-minded and willing to tolerate female homosexuality.

Any problems of adjustment seem to lie in the realm of the lesbian's self-conceptions.

To be a lesbian, a girl must accept herself as a homosexual, reject traditional mores and religious concepts, and have an availability of receptive females.

A lesbian must be willing to disguise part of her life, laugh at jokes about homosexuality, and lie with a straight face.

She must be willing to accept the fact that at any moment the nature of her love and sexual experiences may be exposed to friends, members of her family, or the University administration.

In making friends with "straight" people, she must either leave part of her life out of conversations or tell only those liberal enough to compassionately understand.

"Being homosexual doesn't affect my friendships because most of my friends don't know," one girl said.

Part of a widely held notion is that homosexuality and exotic sexual acts are synonymous. This is not always the case with lesbians.

One girl said she had known she was a homosexual since she was 12 years old, but did not get involved on a physical level until 13 years later.

The number of partners each of the lesbians have had also varied. One said she has had three different partners in the year she has been at the University. Another has had only one, while one lesbian lives with one girl and also has a relationship with another lesbian.

Lesbian relationships came at different points in the lives of the girls interviewed. For some it was their freshman year in college. For other it was the onset of puberty.

"I have always seemed to be attracted to girls in a much deeper emotional level than boys," one girl said.

"When I was a sophomore (in college) I had a very good friend. We loved each other and this was the natural outcome," another replied.

The beginning of a somewhat typical lesbian relationship was reported by a "straight" person who lived in a dorm room with a roommate who gradually became involved with another girl over a six month time period.

"It was a situation where two unhappy people got together, but seemed unaware of what was happening between them.

"It reminded me of the immature behavior of 12- or 13-year-old girls who are always writing notes to each other or walking down the street with their arms around each other.

"Some people thought they were just overly affectionate. But everything I knew about lesbianism told me I wasn't wrong."

In a situation like this, rumors spread

Spy Plane Crew Feared Lost; Search Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said late Wednesday that intensive search operations are continuing but concern has deepened for the lives of 31 men aboard a Navy reconnaissance plane shot down by North Korean fighters.

The Pentagon confirmed, after two days of studying the evidence, that the plane, an unarmed, propeller-driven EC121 electronics intelligence craft, was shot down Monday over the Sea of Japan.

"There is no word of any survivors," the Pentagon's statement said. But it added: "The search continues."

Search and rescue aircraft and ships now on the scene include fighter combat cover, the Pentagon said, and will be joined by two more Navy destroyers, the Sterlet and the Mahan.

Weather in the widening area of search operations was reported generally favorable.

President Nixon met for an hour with the National Security Council and later conferred for an hour and a half with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security adviser.

The White House press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, declined to speculate on whether a Nixon pronouncement on what appeared to be a new international crisis might be forthcoming. Ziegler said only that the President was following the situation closely.

Rogers noted that Nixon is holding a news conference Friday at which time "we will know the facts more precisely."

The Pentagon's chief spokesman, Daniel Z. Henkin, announced that "all evidence now available to us, including North Korean claims and debris sightings, leads us to believe that the aircraft was shot down by North Korean aircraft."

Henkin said the electronics-jammed plane never violated North Korean airspace.

The Pentagon's insistence that the plane had a legal right to be where it was indicated Nixon has made at least a tentative decision on the type of U.S. response to be made.

In answer to written questions, the Pentagon said there was no indication from radio transmissions or other means that the North Koreans had attempted to force the EC121 to land.

The plane's flight was scheduled to last 8½ hours. The Pentagon said there was no radio contact with the aircraft reporting trouble before it was lost.

Czech Chiefs Hit Reform Tactics

PRAGUE (AP) — In a stunning setback for Czechoslovakia's Communist reformers, the party's top leadership gave a clean bill of health Wednesday night to 10 important comrades who supported last August's Soviet-bloc invasion.

The party's Supreme Executive Committee declared the 10 had been "unjustly slandered" and added that many more party faithful in the lower ranks had been subjected to abuse and even terror.

Without accusing anyone by name, the committee made clear that it considered the anti-Moscow reformers to blame.

In a demonstration of solidarity with the party's beleaguered reformers, more than 2,000 students at Prague's Agricultural College struck their classes Wednesday.

The students issued a proclamation protesting government measures taken since the anti-Soviet demonstrations in March.

They protested too, "the strengthening of Soviet armed forces in Czechoslovakia and demonstration of military strength prior to an important party session."

The 190-member Communist Party Central Committee meets today in what many see as a trial of strength between the reformist leadership and the hard-line party members.

The strike proclamation was posted at the suburban university and in Wenceslas Square in downtown Prague. Later police tore it down.

"We regard Soviet foreign policy toward Czechoslovakia especially since Aug. 21, 1968, (the date of the Warsaw pact invasion) as a true cause of anti-Soviet actions," the proclamation read.

Athletics Board Probes Demands Voiced by Blacks

The Board of Control in Athletics met Wednesday night and was to discuss some of the problems mentioned by black athletes at a meeting with University representatives Tuesday night. However, no source could be reached for comment on details of the meeting.

The needs cited by the students centered on relieving difficulties in the social life offered blacks on campus, problems with studies, finances and the need for better counseling.

The students also expressed concern that the Afro-American House might be torn down to make room for a new parking ramp. A representative of the University said Wednesday night, however, that demolition of the Afro House was highly unlikely.

Earlier this year, a statement was released by Jerry Stevens, A3, Denver, president of the Afro-American Student Association, in which he said he spoke for black athletes in football, basketball and track in expressing general dissatisfaction with the athletic department. The statement called for negotiations to end what was described as "an intolerable situation" for black athletes.

Sirhan Jury Asks For Instructions On '2nd Degree'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's jury asked instructions Wednesday on a second-degree murder verdict against the young Arab assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. But the panel went to its hotel for the night without announcing a decision.

Earlier, a defense lawyer said the 25-year-old Sirhan envisions himself in some future prisoner exchange with the Arab world if he gets a life sentence for the June 5, 1968, shooting of Kennedy.

One of his three lawyers, Russell Parsons, told newsmen Sirhan regards himself as a hero in his native Jordan.

The defense claimed during the 14-week murder trial that the rabidly pro-Arab Sirhan regarded Kennedy as a supporter of the Israeli cause in the Middle East.

Second-degree murder is punishable by five years to life. The state asked a first-degree verdict, punishable by a maximum of death in the gas chamber, or alternatively by life imprisonment.

Judge Herbert V. Walker reviewed his original instructions regarding murder and its reduction in degree when there is a diminished mental capacity on the part of a defendant.

It was the first time the jury had returned to the court since receiving the case late Monday. Sirhan was brought down from his 13th floor jail cell for the session.

The judge read the jury a paragraph he said would explain better the point they were asking.

The instructions said if they found the defendant's mental capacity substantially reduced "to the extent that you have reasonable doubt you can not convict him of willful, deliberate murder in the first degree but you can convict him of murder in the second degree."

After hearing the judge, the jury returned to deliberations.

1st Degree Murder Verdict Returned in Niccum Case

DES MOINES (AP) — A jury of eight women and four men found Michael Charles Niccum, 23, guilty Wednesday night as charged in the murder of 17-year-old Des Moines school girl Linda Boothe last Nov. 20.

The jury, sent out to deliberate the case against Niccum at 2:07 p.m. Tuesday, delivered its verdict of first-degree murder at 9:05 p.m. in Polk County District Court.

At an interrogatory of Judge James P. Denato, the jury also found star prosecution witness, Thomas Logsdon, 17, guilty of complicity in Miss Boothe's death.

Denato set May 17 for further consultation with Niccum's attorneys prior to pronouncing sentence.

The jury, as instructed by Denato, had been given its choice of verdicts of first-degree murder, second-degree murder, manslaughter or acquittal.

Niccum, entered the warm, humid courtroom shortly before 9 p.m. to receive the verdict.

He consulted with defense lawyer Anthony Critelli briefly before the jury was brought in just after 9 p.m.

Niccum sat unemotionally as the verdict was read.

"We the jury find the defendant guilty of murder as charged," Denato said as he read the verdict.

Also in the courtroom were the parents of Miss Boothe, who was fatally beaten in a cleaning establishment in a Des Moines shopping center, and the mother of Niccum, Mrs. Jacqueline McKenzie of St. Louis, Mo.

Niccum's wife, Jacqueline, was not present.

Critelli said he was not surprised by the verdict, but would appeal it to the Iowa Supreme Court.

Senate Unit Approves $91 Million for Regents

DES MOINES (AP) — The powerful Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday approved a $91.8 million-a-year budget for the State Board of Regents, exceeding Gov. Robert D. Ray's recommendation by $303,030.

Some $600,000 recommended by Ray for Iowa State University was transferred by the committee to the University of Iowa.

The committee's proposed budget for the three state universities and schools for the deaf and blind falls some $30 million below the amount requested by the regents, however.

The University of Northern Iowa, youngest of the three state universities, received a $300,000-a-year boost from the committee because of its higher tuition and lower faculty salaries.

Some legislators expressed surprise that the committee exceeded the Republican governor's budget recommendations for the five institutions.

Sen. Joseph Flatt (R-Winterset), chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which studied the schools' needs, said he expects tuition hikes at the three universities.

"How far they go in raising salaries and beginning new programs will determine whether they raise tuitions," Flatt said.

He said the subcommittee report, which was adopted on a near unanimous vote of the whole committee, followed recommendations of the regents as to the allocation of funds among the schools.

"We told them how much money we had and let them decide where it should go," said Flatt.

The $300,000 boost for the University of Northern Iowa, however, came at the initiative of the subcommittee, Flatt said.

Allocations to individual institutions are somewhat different than those recommended by the governor.

The budget will cover the 1969-71 biennium.

Following is the rundown, listing the committee's recommendation first and the governor's proposal second:

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA
General — $32,537,000; $32,246,800.
University Hospitals — $8,700,000; $8,700,600.
Psychopathic Hospital — $2,043,000; $1,954,600.
Bacteriological Lab — $727,000; $687,350.
State Hospital School — $1,350,000; $1,208,900.
State Sanatorium Oakdale — $1,549,000; $1,506,450.
Total — $46,906,000; $46,304,700.

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY
General — $25,634,000; $26,376,400.
Agricultural Experiment Station — $3,825,500; $3,763,250.
Cooperative Extension Service — $3 million; $2,929,100.
Total — $32,459,500; $33,068,750.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN IOWA
Total — $10,059,000; $10,063,300.

IOWA BRAILLE AND SIGHTSAVING SCHOOL, Vinton
Total — $810,000; $682,100.

IOWA SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF, Council Bluffs
Total — $1,445,500; $1,261,150.

REGENTS CENTRAL OFFICE, Des Moines
Total — $110,500; $107,470.

"At this late hour, only two verdicts were available — either this verdict or a hung jury," he said.

"The fact that the jury was out for 30 some hours indicates that there was serious question in their minds," Critelli said.

"We feel we came a long way with the Michael Charles Niccum case," he said.

Logsdon had testified Niccum planned to kidnap, rape and kill the pretty blonde girl and entered the cleaning shop with that in mind. When Niccum returned he had blood on his hands, face and clothing, Logsdon said.

Niccum, however, testified it was Logsdon who went into the shop alone, carrying Niccum's blackjack and pistol. He said that when Logsdon didn't return, he went inside and found Logsdon standing over the brutally beaten girl.

Breakfast with the Panthers

Pete O'Neal, a leader of the Black Panther chapter in Kansas City, chats with children eating a free breakfast the Panthers provided. O'Neal said similar programs are under way in other cities, including Des Moines. "Children can't learn anything while their stomachs are growling," O'Neal said. Food and money for the program in Kansas City are contributed by merchants. There is no comprehensive breakfast program in Kansas City schools.

News in Brief

ALSO IN THE NEWS LAST NIGHT:

SAIGON — Two rocket barrages hit Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, and Vietnamese officials said initial reports listed six persons killed and 40 wounded.

NEW ORLEANS — A sagging, 14-day-old teacher strike that failed to shut down the New Orleans public school system was called off.

WASHINGTON — Newspaper editors appear evenly divided over whether unilateral withdrawal of some U.S. troops from South Vietnam would hasten or hinder negotiations toward a political settlement of the war.

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, faced with the first military crisis of his administration, said he is "not pessimistic" about the country's will and determination to retain its military strength. Speaking to an audience of 5,000 Republican women, the President never mentioned the pending question of a response to the shooting down by North Korea of an unarmed Navy reconnaissance plane with 31 men aboard.

TOKYO — North Korea's defense minister declared Thursday that the case of the downed U.S. Navy plane demonstrates the United States wants to ignite a new war in Korea. "It shows that a war may break out again at any moment owing to the aggressive maneuvers of the U.S. imperialists," said Gen. Choi Hyun, the defense minister.

GENEVA — Pope Paul VI will make an unprecedented visit in June to Geneva, the city of 16th century Protestant reformer John Calvin, to address the International Labor Organization and visit the World Council of Churches.

Grad Assistants to 'Strike' Monday

Graduate Assistants Union members voted Wednesday night to begin picketing Old Capitol Monday and to continue their picketing "indefinitely." There will be no work stoppage, however.

Meeting in the Chemistry Building, the Union's steering committee chairman, John Schacht, G, Iowa City, presented the picketing proposal as a resolution to 50 members and potential members of the University's local of the American Federation of Teachers. Schacht's resolution came after a speech by another steering committee member, David Gross, G, Orono, Maine, who relayed Pres. Howard R. Bowen's responses to demands the Union had presented Bowen a week ago.

Gross said Bowen had given Union members "absolutely nothing" when steering committee members had asked him if he would meet their monetary demands.

The demands include increased pay, free tuition, and dependency allowances for graduate assistants.

Gross said a demand for equal pay for assistants performing equal work within departments was the only demand on which Bowen and Union members "seemed to come to some kind of understanding."

Concerning the other demands, Gross said that Bowen's general statement was that he really didn't have the power to make decisions on those matters — that those decisions were up to the heads of individual departments.

Gross was referring to demands for an appointment renewal policy which would give graduates already holding assistantships priority in having them renewed; just suspension and dismissal procedures; and more freedom for teaching assistants in planning the courses they teach.

Gross said that union members were in "no way treated by Bowen as labor union members. We were treated in a friendly manner, but just as if we were a bunch of people who happened to be there telling him what we thought. There was no indication on Bowen's part that we were there to bargain," Gross emphasized.

Gross also said that when he asked Bowen how he felt about labor unions, Bowen responded very strongly, saying that he didn't want to say.

"I found this to be a very strange remark coming from a labor economist," Gross added.

Bowen had asked the Union members to keep their conversation "off the record." However, Gross said, he explained to Bowen that the discussion would have to be aired at the next union meeting (Wednesday night). Gross said steering committee members made no promises to keep the conversation off the record.

"These are the same tactics Bowen used at Grinnell six years ago, to smash union organization there," said Larry Hoffman, G, West Branch. Hoffman, who had helped organize a graduate assistants union at Grinnell, said that Bowen had also asked them to keep any conversations with him off the record.

"It's a crafty move on his part," Hoffman said. "The way to approach him is to be just as rational as he is."

"He'll always try to pass the buck and get off the hook, blaming someone else, like the legislature or deans or department heads," Hoffman said.

"He'll tell you he's taking a study and then go out and interview three workmen outside the administration building and he'll write to department heads and find out if there's any trouble in their departments."

"Of course these people will come back and say everything is fine and rosey," Hoffman said.

"Bowen's response will be that he's keeping maintenance people's salaries down and that way your salaries are what they are," Hoffman added.

In other business, the union's steering committee also proposed a constitution which was accepted unanimously by the members. A slate of officers, presented by the steering committee, to guide the union until October, was also unanimously accepted.

Officers include: John Schacht, G, Iowa City, president; Tom Cullen, G, Storm Lake, vice president; Dorotha Dilks, G, Iowa City, secretary; and Jack Viren, G, Moline, Ill., treasurer.

King, Ghandi - 2 symbolic leaders

By N. BHASKARA RAO
Last of a Series

At this point, perhaps I should also refer to what Bennett had written in a way contradicting Reddick. "King was not overly impressed by the Muste lecture. Though he loathed war, he believed that the 'turn-the-check and love-your-enemies philosophy' was only valid in conflicts between individuals and not in bone-deep disagreements between racial groups and nations."

Nevertheless, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. never seems to have remembered his "social obligation" Reddick was referring to nor did he entertain the idea of applying his newly found philosophy until the day he was called upon. Like Mahatma Gandhi, King also had a generally optimistic view of the world. Like Gandhi, he had a pervasive faith in the ultimate success of his cause.

It might be surprising to note that for all those "Saul Alinsky-Brand" community organizers, Gandhi did all the "preliminary investigation and research" that is prescribed for a successful community organizer. In fact, Gandhi was shy and mild in public speaking until fully involved, he mobilized people, organized and established many organizations, perhaps more than any one else in public life.

In Gandhi's case we can always find his zeal to serve, help and do good to people. Even while he was in school in Porbandar, his mind was bent on "reform." His burning zeal for service even when he was young was later solicited through his principles such as "leadership comes through service."

About organization, Gandhi wrote, "I have my own organization, myself. I am a man possessed by an idea. If such a man cannot get an organization, he becomes an organization." But all those who possessed an idea did not become organizers or leaders. Nevertheless, all those who had become leaders or organizers sure have an idea whether it was inherent or acquired. Even those who have ideas may not have occasion or opportunity to put their ideas into deeds. And some may not know how to apply or use their ideas when they come to reality.

Fortunately, King was not in the last category of ideologists or theoreticians. King did not create; he was at first a creature of idea and later its guide. Nor, as Bennett has said, did he "seek leadership in Montgomery; leadership sought him." To sum up, in Benjamin May's words, King's "rise to world renown was just an accident."

At the time of his boycott, it was widely believed that King was selected to head the newly formed MIA because he was new in the community and not identified with any local groups. This way, in contrast to Gandhi who was not only experienced but involved in everything he organized, King was dragged into local affairs for his aloofness from the local conflict situation. It could further be said that Gandhi came onto the scene while doing organizational work and King for not getting involved. That is why perhaps Bennett wrote, "The things King did not do during this period (before Montgomery bus boycott) were far more important than what he did." Thus, King was a pastor first, then black leader and finally a sophisticated organizer.

Gandhi wrote that "every movement passes through five stages: indifference, ridicule, abuse, repression and respect." In a similar approach, King wrote that a "methodology and philosophy of revolution is neither born nor accepted overnight. From the moment it emerges, it is subjected to rigorous tests, opposition, scorn and prejudice."

Both Gandhi and King were guided by their capacity to think sincerely, observe clearly and act courageously as well as patiently. They both stood for certain common causes of the downtrodden as well as for a new order based on love and nonviolence. Both of them had dramatic encounters that were highly appealing and satisfying to their audience.

An organizer or a leader might become symbolic among masses in different ways: by his ideas; dress; style of life; by symbolizing what the masses might like them to do, by playing dramatic acts; by suffering; by getting public sympathy; by innovating new ideas and practices out of the old beliefs and aspirations; and by continuously advocating them. By doing all or some of these things, the organizer would be able to stir up people and mobilize them for a common cause. That was what both Gandhi and King did.

To a great extent, both Gandhi and King were symbolic leaders and were successful in combining organizing with symbolic leadership. Both men had functions and responsibilities far beyond their organizations and their structures. Yet they could perfectly fulfill all of them.

Gandhi's simplicity of life, dress, language, sexual restraint, rigorous food habits, style of mass contact, constructive program and religious institutions produced an image that was symbolic to Gandhi alone. Complementing these features, he had his extensively-used non-violent actions, such as sit-ins, civil disobedience, boycotts, strikes, demonstrations and fasting. Gandhi truly represented his people's "soul" and symbolized all factions.

In the case of King one finds his dramatic encounters with police and boycotts, his unique way of interpreting God with new meanings, his style of life, and his way of symbolizing the black aspirations. His slogans, such as "Give us the ballot," "One hundred years ago," "Freedom now," "I have a dream," "mountain top" and "promised land," made headlines across the nation.

Everett Hagen writes that "innovation consists of organizing reality into relationships embodying new mental or aesthetic concepts, the new relationships serving the purpose of the innovator better than the old. Analytically, and also in the sequence, innovation involves two steps: arriving at a new mental conception and converting it into action or into material form."

This definition well fits in describing Gandhi and King as successful innovators as well as symbolic leaders. The influence of the press and other media of communication in making King a leader, an organizer and a symbolic leader was more evident than in the case of Gandhi. Gandhi was symbolic more for his deeds, appearances and his social and political innovations. The media played a dominant role in shaping King's personality and programs from the very beginning — his involvement in the Montgomery bus boycott. Gandhi mostly depended on his own weekly newspapers to convey messages to the masses. King, in addition, had the advantage of television for instantaneous communication across the nation. As Reddick pointed out, King was in many ways a creature of mass communication.

No funds—education suffers

In the most recent edition of the Chronicle of Higher Education, a list of appropriations to state colleges and universities was presented.

Most state legislatures are now considering the budget requests of their state schools. It has been suggested by various sources that all state schools will suffer in money allocations because of the recent upsurges in campus demonstrations.

The Chronicle article only lists six states that have completed allocation hearings so far, but these six states do not indicate a substantial lowering in school allocations. In fact, the six indicate quite the opposite — a two-year tabulation of appropriations that totals an increase of 27.5 per cent. These six states — Indiana, South Dakota, Utah, Kentucky, Mississippi and Virginia — report of total increase in money allocated to state schools of 284.5 per cent for the past decade.

Keeping in mind that the Iowa legislature will be budgeting money to the three state universities for a two-year period, take a look at some increases for one year of operating expenses granted by four of the six states:

- Indiana increased allocations to its schools by 14 per cent.
- South Dakota increased allocations by 7 per cent.
- Kentucky increased allocations by 29 per cent.
- Virginia increased allocations by 58 per cent.

Even more telling, however, are the allocation figures for two of the University's fellow-Big 10 schools. The Indiana legislature granted $62,934,000 to Indiana University and $51,090,000 to Purdue University for the coming year.

The proposed budget askings of the regents for the two-year operating funds for the University was $108,965,000 — well in line with the funds granted to Indiana University and Purdue. However, Gov. Robert D.

Ray has proposed that only $86,158,000 be given to the University for the 1969-71 biennium.

It doesn't take a mathematical genius to divide the Ray figure by two and come up with his suggestion of $43,079,000 in operating funds for the University for the 1969-70 fiscal year and the same amount for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

That figure, according to University Pres. Howard R. Bowen, falls about $10 million short of the minimum operating expenses for the University.

Unless the legislature adds about $10 million to the biennial allocation suggestion of Ray, the University will have to raise the cost of tuitions, board and room and what ever else it can find to maintain minimum operations.

In addition, by trimming the budget to the fullest extent, the University is cutting out many planned expansion projects in the area of physical expansion and service expansion. The University could lose from $12 to $14 million in federal grants for building projects simply because it is unable to scrape up the funds for a matched funding project.

But, I suppose, the most tragic aspect of the legislature's pending cuts in appropriations is the effect on higher education in Iowa.

When Purdue will receive about $8 million more and Indiana University will receive about $18 million more than the University for one year of operations, it leaves little doubt that the educational opportunities of the University will not be as great as Purdue's or IU's.

Higher education requires adequate funding if it is to succeed. The pending legislative appropriations to all three state universities are far from adequate. There seems to be little doubt that with severely cut allocations, the three Iowa universities will have to drop out of the race for competitive, quality education.

Ungodly legislation

A Republican-sponsored bill called the Election Reform Bill will be given a public hearing this morning — at 7 a.m.

The ungodly hour of the hearing is indicative of the ungodly nature of the bill itself. For, you see, one of the prime parts of this bill would be aimed at the student vote — setting residence standards that would keep most students from voting in the towns where they attend college.

Consequently, if students have to vote in their home towns, most voting would be by absentee ballot. The process of absentee voting is time consuming and complex. It would be easier to not vote than to vote, and, undoubtedly, fewer students would take the time and effort to vote absentee.

Although it is impossible to try to analyze the logic behind a Republican legislator's actions, one could guess that the legislators are not happy with the actions of students. After all, if University students had not worked and voted for Ed Mezvinsky (D-Iowa City), he might not have been elected. And if Mezvinsky had not been elected, the legislators and their lobbyist friends would not have received so much publicity and no one would be griping about unsafe meat standards.

After all, you must be careful of students — give them full voting privileges and they might elect someone who wants to clean up the legislature!

Grad answers DI story

To the editor:

In your misguided report on the Black Panther support rally sponsored by the Iowa City Peace and Freedom Party (which I believe, like the Students for a Democratic Society, is one of the only relevant and legitimate organizations actively combatting racial oppression of black people by the white "Negro" power structure in this avowedly racist nation), you emphasized my denial of organizational racism by the Panthers and, conversely, the irresponsible apathy of "white, liberal instructors."

I would like to make it clear that both points are of no real concern to me or other activists in the black liberation struggle.

What I did attempt to emphasize was:

1. The revolutionary nationalist's concern with creating a new social order in the black community (according to Mrs. Martin Luther King) that will legitimately speak to the real needs of impoverished black people. A conservative "Negro" civil rights organization, the National Council of Negro Women, has estimated that two million black children suffer unjustifiably in the most affluent society in the history of man from malnutrition and ill-health. The Des Moines Panthers were attempting to raise funds to begin a free meal program for black children. It is necessary to point out that this should be the responsibility of states and national welfare officials.

2. That revolutionary nationalists recognize the basic humanity of every man, woman and child in America; but that we believe that our first responsibility, loyalty and energy must be directed toward the creation of a humane society in the black community since it is completely obvious, some 100 years after the Emancipation Proclamation, that neither white American leadership or the average white citizen is primarily concerned with alleviating in any significant sense the social, economic and political oppression which ravages the black community.

3. I emphatically indicated my dissatisfaction with the unconstitutional, immoral, racist (the United States would most certainly not engage in gas graining and napalming of Eastern European peasants) and aggressive nature of our military policy in Vietnam. With literally thousands of ill-clothed, ill-housed and unemployed poor people in our urban areas, our fantasyland Congress is busily preparing to appropriate billions of much-needed dollars for an unjustifiable and insane Anti-ballistic missile system. National sickness in American filters down from the very top echelons of the politically privileged and powerful in this "Christian-democratic" nation.

4. Finally, as long as the acceptable policy in this decadent society is one of SAC-bombing brown babies in Vietnam, starving black children in Harlem, St. Louis or Mississippi, I have no intention of denying any racist or revolutionary attitudes of any black liberation organization or individual.

If we must be identified as racists, revolutionaries or anarchists in expressing our dissent, then I very happily and self-righteously report that I am a racist, revolutionary, anarchist and any and all other designations unreconcilably opposed to the mainstream of this hypocritical society.

to him in his chosen field.

Over the years the College of Liberal Arts has sometimes been criticized for relying too heavily on graduate assistants in its instructional program. This office has always defended our program because we believe that on the whole graduate assistants have done a very good job of teaching and in turn have received valuable experience. In other words we feel that the kind of program we have had in the past has been mutually beneficial. I sincerely hope that this kind of relationship between undergraduate instruction and graduate education can continue in the future.

Sincerely yours,
Dewey B. Stuit, Dean

Dean Stuit's letter on TAs called 'unacceptable' by grad

To the editor:

I have received from Dean Dewey B. Stuit a letter which I assume is intended as a reply to my initial open letter in The Daily Iowan and to a subsequent letter in which I again stated my concern for teaching assistants in the College of Liberal Arts as follows: "My major concern, as I indicated in my initial letter, is the (near-) poverty of many of the teaching assistants in your college. Since you are in a position to exert some influence in their behalf, I along with much of the rest of the University community, am wondering whether you are willing to do so, and if so how."

Dean Stuit's letter follows:

Dear Mr. Rettig:
The compensation received by a graduate assistant includes not only his actual stipend (plus a complete or partial tuition scholarship in many cases) but a substantial subsidy in the form of high-priced graduate education. The cost of instruction at the graduate level is estimated to be about two and one-half times that of undergraduate instruction. Despite this fact, the graduate student who pays his full fees is at present charged only $40 more per year than an undergraduate. As a practical fact, therefore, the University is subsidizing the education of the graduate student to a much greater extent than it is the education of the undergraduate. Furthermore, teaching experience is regarded by most departments as an important part of the training of the graduate student. Total compensation of the graduate assistant, therefore, consists of his stipend, subsidized instruction, teaching experience, and in a number of cases, full or partial tuition scholarships.

I do not wish to leave the impression that we should not work for higher stipends for graduate assistants. We should, and we are. At the same time I feel it only fair to point out that the graduate student is not simply a working employee; he is a student working for an advanced degree which will be of material benefit to him in his chosen field. Considering the directions of the question posed above in the quote from my second letter to Dean Stuit, his reply is at best unclear, at worst irrelevant. The closest he seems to come to even acknowledging this question is in the first two sentences of his second paragraph. As far as answering this question, however, these two sentences are far from helpful.

As in previous statements by Dean Stuit on this matter, I find much in his reply that is puzzling. I do not understand, for example, the concept of "subsidy" for graduate students in the form of high-priced education. I would assume that the main reason for the difference in cost of instruction between undergraduates and graduates is that graduates are taught by "regular" faculty members whose salary is at least three or four times that of teaching assistants (who, as it has recently been learned, teach 75 per cent of all man hours taught) in the first two years of instruction in the College of Liberal Arts. The cost of undergraduate instruction, therefore, is substantially lower than graduate instruction mainly because undergraduates are taught by underpaid teaching assistants rather than by the more costly "regular" faculty members. When such an overwhelming percentage of undergraduate teaching is done by teaching assistants who are in many cases underpaid and overworked, it seems to me to be somewhat more accurate to describe the situation as one of exploitation, rather than subsidization.

Space does not permit me to discuss some of the other puzzling statements in Dean Stuit's letter (e.g. the nature of the "mutually beneficial" relationship between the teaching assistant and the College of Liberal Arts, the nature of the "teaching experience" received by the graduate assistants in many departments, etc.), but I urge all readers who are not clear about various aspects of this policy statement to communicate their thoughts to Dean Stuit. I should add, however, that the Dean has made it quite clear, that any written communication in the form of an open letter in The Daily Iowan is totally unacceptable.

Ray Signs into Law 2 Urban Renewal Bills

DES MOINES — Gov. Robert D. Ray signed into law Wednesday two urban renewal bills which may enable Iowa City to get its renewal program underway once again quickly.

One measure modifies the conflict of interest clause in the present urban renewal law, and allows councilmen with property interests in the renewal area to vote on the project as a whole, but not on matters pertaining directly to their property.

Murder Charged In Baby's Death

BURLINGTON (AP) — A murder charge was filed Wednesday against an Ottumwa man in connection with the death of an 18-month-old boy.

The information filed by Des Moines County Atty. Alan Waples alleged that William Edward Miller, 21, killed Jeffrey J. Rose "with malice aforethought."

Miller was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily injury after the infant was taken to a Burlington hospital Saturday.

Harvard to Vote on ROTC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Protest and disorder persisted on major college campuses Wednesday, ranging from a strong move to end secret research at Stanford to an assault on the president's office at Queens College.

At Harvard, the faculty prepared to vote today on a resolution that would virtually abolish the Reserve Officers Training Corps program, and at Columbia black students called for a one-day strike, also today.

The National Student Association said Wednesday it is challenging in federal court the constitutionality of legislation that would authorize colleges to cut off federal aid to students who engage in disruptive protests.

At Stanford in Palo Alto, Calif., the Faculty Senate voted in favor of adopting a university policy against secret research.

Kenneth S. Pitzer, Stanford president, endorsed the vote, saying: "It is entirely reasonable to press toward the elimination of secrecy."

This action came as students continued a sit-in begun last Wednesday in Stanford's Applied Electronics Laboratory on campus, where classified military research is conducted.

Queens College students in New York City, escalating a week-long sit-in, tried to break into the office of the president, Joseph McMurray, and other offices. Officials barricaded the doors with desks and filing cabinets, one professor said.

Murray's office said the students did not get into his office but did break into several others.

The students were demanding withdrawal of criminal trespass charges against 38 students and a faculty member arrested in an April 1 sit-in. The administration announced Wednesday that it was dropping charges against three students who were allegedly involved in the ouster from campus of a General Electric Co. recruiter. The April 1 sit-in was a protest against action taken against the three students.

One faculty member in the president's office, Nathaniel Siegel, sociology chairman, said by telephone there were about 100 students in the building.

"They may well starve us out," he said. "But most of us are overweight, anyway."

Harvard remained quiet.

A special meeting of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences scheduled a meeting Thursday to vote on a motion calling for a drastic restructuring of the Harvard ROTC program.

The details of the motion are so restrictive, a spokesman said, that the military might find it unacceptable. The ROTC issue has become a central factor in the student protest and a strike, in its fifth day Wednesday.

The Columbia Students' Afro-American Society announced plans for a one-day strike on the Morningside Heights campus. Earlier, 16 black students walked out of the Columbia admissions office, ending a sit-in that began last Monday.

Museum Power Flexes Muscles

A committee of students which was asked to come up with a creative message to help promote the opening of the University's new Museum of Art thinks it has created an appropriate slogan.

The committee this week began distributing lapel buttons which carry the inscription, "Museum Power."

The new museum opens the first week in May.

Club Aids Fire Fund

A club at West High School has donated a check for $150 to the Injured Firemen's Benefit Fund.

Steve Dicken, president of the Industrial Education Club, presented the check to Russell Slade, chairman of the fund drive. The fund was begun by the Iowa City Jaycees after an April 7 fire at Mercy Hospital in which seven firemen were injured.

The fund for the firemen now stands at $1,637.20.

Two firemen still remain hospitalized. Fire Lt. Robert L. Hein, 44, is listed in critical condition at General Hospital. He is the father of 16 children. Listed in good condition at Mercy Hospital is R. Craig Waddell, 25.

The money collected by the students at West High was to go for a weekend field trip to Chicago.

Circumstances prevented the club from taking the trip, so the money was donated to the fund.

Petersen Named KICR Manager

Bill Petersen, A2, Clinton, has been chosen manager of KICR radio station for the 1969-70 school year.

Associated Residence Halls (ARH) approved the appointment of Petersen in a meeting Wednesday night following the recent resignation of former KICR manager Darwin Paustian, A3, Davenport.

UI Considering Offer On Lab School Tuition

University officials have yet made no response to an offer made Tuesday by the Community Board of Education to raise the tuition it pays on pupils attending University Schools. The offer ups tuition from $128 to $220 per pupil.

To date, the school district has been getting state and county equalization aid of $220 per pupil for each student in the district who attends either public or University laboratory schools. The district has been paying tuition of $128 a pupil on those students attending University Schools. This difference of $92 has been, in effect, profit for the school district.

The State Board of Regents instructed University representatives last week to ask the school district to start paying tuition equal to the aid it was receiving plus an additional percentage of the per pupil cost.

The tuition hike proposed by the school district is something of a compromise on the regents' demand.

A factor in the decision was the possibility of both Regina Catholic High School and University Schools closing.

School Supt. Buford Garner said that the district would not be seriously inconvenienced should one of the schools close, provided the other remained in operation until 1971, when a new junior high school is ready for use.

School board members voiced concern over the possibility of the schools' closing, however.

The University Schools building is old and getting too small and has serious problems with its physical plant, according to Robert T. Davis, secretary of the school board. Davis said he doubted that a tuition raise could provide more than temporary relief of the problems.

Regina has financial trouble that could eventually force it to be closed.

Representatives of University Schools requested in February a tuition raise for next semester. Board members Russell M. Ross and William Phelan were selected at that time to consult with University officials on the issue.

The school district paid tuition last semester on approximately 520 pupils attending University Schools.

The Israeli jets hit Arab positions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israeli jets hammered suspected Arab guerrilla pockets in Jordan Wednesday while a new artillery duel broke out across the Jordan River cease-fire line.

The Israeli planes strafed and bombed positions which Israel charged fired mortars and bazookas on troops in the Beisan Valley south of the Sea of Galilee. Witnesses said the planes scored direct hits.

Israeli artillery returned the ground fire, and a spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties. It marked the second day of fighting in the valley.

Marijuana Charge Dropped Against Cedar Rapids Man

District Court Judge William R. Eads dismissed Wednesday a charge against a Cedar Rapids man for possession of marijuana.

Jeffrey R. Weber, 23, was arrested on Oct. 18 and charged with possession of marijuana after the car in which he was a passenger was stopped by police for speeding.

According to police, they discovered a sack containing marijuana while searching the automobile.

Asst. County Atty. John W. Hayek requested dismissal of the case after the court ruled Monday to suppress evidence which the state sought to introduce.

Eads sustained a motion by the defense counsel, William O. Gray and Frank Mitvalsky of Cedar Rapids, to exclude the marijuana allegedly in Weber's possession at the time of his arrest as evidence in the case.

Eads based his decision on what he termed illegal search and seizure. According to Eads, police exceeded their authority in searching the automobile.

Eads commented that search of a car and seizure of contents following an arrest for speeding constituted illegal search and seizure by the police.

Hayek stated that introduction of the marijuana as evidence would have been essential to any further prosecution by the state.

A similar charge against Weber in Police Court will probably be dropped.

Daniel Gerovich is free on $7,000 bond on charges of possession of prescription drugs, and violation of the state narcotics act. Douglas Gerovich is free on $2,500 bond on charges of improper registration and possession of drugs.

The nominations for Theta Sigma Phi woman of the year are due Saturday at 615 South Capitol.

The nominations for coed of the year are due at 5 p.m. Monday in 205 Communications Center.

The woman and coed of the year will be announced at Donald Kaul's speech, which begins at 8 p.m. April 24. Tickets to Kaul's speech are available at $1 in the Union Box Office.

An invitational reception will follow the speech in the Union Lucas-Dodge Room.

5 of 6 Teams Seem to Have Intramural Crowns in the Bag

With only 5 of an original 22 intramural sports activities remaining on this year's intramural calendar, it appears that five of six intramural leagues have their total point championships pretty well wrapped up. Latest point standings made available by the Intramural Office indicate that five of the six league leaders have an edge over their nearest rival by at least 100 points.

The Quadrangle League is the only league in which it appears the total point championship will go down to the wire. A mere 44 points separate the top four teams in that league. Chambers leads the way with 492 points, Hempstead follows with 467, Briggs is third with 450 and Cummins is fourth with 448.

These point totals include touch football, outdoor and indoor volleyball, tennis singles, golf, swimming, basketball, bowling, handball singles and doubles, table tennis singles and doubles, wrestling, badminton singles and doubles, and billiards singles and doubles. Softball, tennis doubles, squash, (all in progress) and track and canoeing (held later next month) will round out the intramural year.

Delta Upsilon social fraternity, Phi Epsilon Kappa professional fraternity, Fenton of Hillcrest, Floor 6 of Rionow I and Floor 4 of Rionow II all have commanding point leads in their respective leagues.

Delta Upsilon has a 108-point advantage over its closest pursuer in the Social Fraternity League. The DU's have 806 points (tops in all leagues) while second place Sigma Alpha Epsilon has 698. Delta Chi is in third place with 538.

Phi Epsilon Kappa professional fraternity has the largest lead of any of the present leaders. The PEK's, with 724 points, have a 205-point edge over runnerup Alpha Chi Sigma, with 519. Delta Sigma Delta follows them with 370.

Fenton is the leader in the Hillcrest League with 654 points. Thacher is next with 551 and Vander Zee is third with 485.

Floor 4 has a 152 point margin over Floor 4 in their fight for Rionow I League honors. Floor 6 has 706 points, Floor 4 has 554, while Floor 3 is in third with 337.

Floor 4 leads the way in Rionow II with 632 points. Floor 2 is 146 points behind with 486 points and Floor 6 is in third position with 389.

By MIKE EBBING
"Great potential" would be one way to describe Iowa's offensive football unit for next year.

With much of the talent returning that boosted the Hawkeyes near the top in Big 10 offense last year, one would think that the offense should be pretty well set. However, Ray Nagel, now beginning his fourth year as head coach, thinks differently.

"There could be some interesting offensive changes in 1969," Nagel said Wednesday at a press luncheon preceding the start of spring drills.

"We'll spend more time in practice doing things offensively than defensively," said Nagel. "Most of our defensive players are back and that area is pretty well set and it should show some improvement."

Bad weather forced the start of spring drills to be pushed back to Friday, the day they were originally scheduled to start. Nagel said the squad had hoped to get started Wednesday, but heavy rains prevented it.

Nagel's problems on offense — if you can call them that — are not a shortage of players, but instead stem from the fact that there is an abundance of talent.

Major losses to the Hawks' offensive team were tailback Eddie Podolak and receivers Al Bream and Barry Cress. Those three players were among Iowa's top four receivers last year. Ray Manning, who led the team in that department last year, is back at tight end.

Nagel said that the two most likely prospects to fill Podolak's vacancy were Dennis Green and Bill Powell. Green, who was sidelined for most of last year with an ankle injury, is expected to be back at 100 per cent.

"I think we've got one of the finest fullbacks in the country returning at fullback in Tim Sullivan," said Nagel. "He's as good a blocker as any I've ever seen."

Nagel believes his quarterback situation is as good as any college team in the nation. Larry Lawrence, who had a tremendous sophomore year, will be back at the No. 1 spot with senior Mike Ciek providing talented back-up depth.

"Although we don't plan any drastic changes this year," Nagel said, "we will be trying several different players at different positions — especially in the first week of spring practice."

Nagel said there would definitely be no chance that Lawrence and Ciek would appear in the lineup at the same time. Podolak was switched from quarterback to tailback early in the season last year to make room for Lawrence and some thought the same switch might occur between Lawrence and Ciek.

"Larry's not the same type of runner as Ed," said Nagel, "and I don't think he would help us much at tailback. I do plan on using both Larry and Mike a lot at quarterback, though."

Several players will be in the running to fill Cress' vacated wingback spot. Kerry Reardon, who was fifth in receiving as a sophomore, appears to be the likely choice.

"Our wingbacks could run more this year than in the past," said Nagel. "It all depends on how they come along in the spring. Two sophomores — Levi Mitchell and Rich Solomon — are also wingback prospects."

Split end Don Osby appears to have the best chance of any sophomore of making the starting unit.

Punting chores will again be handled by Reardon, although Nagel said the team could use some depth in that area.

"Last year, Podolak was our backup punter," Nagel said, "and I don't think we have any strong punters coming off the freshman team."

Although the defense is long on experience, Nagel said that many promising sophomores should provide some competition for the regulars.

The newcomers on defense with the most potential, according to Nagel, include tackles Bill Windauer and Wendell Bell, guard Jerry Nelson and end Tom Wanat. Nagel said that senior Chris Hamilton and sophomores Tim Shelton and Alan Schaefer have the best shot at Steve Wilson's vacated safety spot.

"Larry Ely and Mike Phillips should give us good experience at linebacker," Nagel said. Kickoff and extra-point specialist Marcos Melendez returns to give Iowa a solid kicking game.

Many of the Hawkeyes sidelined last year with injuries should be back at full speed. Bill Sheeder, who was lost for the season in the first week of practice last year, should be in good shape this spring. Sheeder is listed as a linebacker, although Nagel says he doesn't know exactly where he will play.

Senior offensive tackle Paul Leavelle, who was out for the season after a knee injury early last year, is back and ready to go. Offensive guard Charles Legler, who hurt his ankle in a tobogganing accident this winter, will participate in spring drills on a limited basis.

On the casualty list this spring is John Fontes, a sophomore linebacker, who will not participate because of a knee injury. His brother Wayne, who is one of Nagel's assistants, is also temporarily out of commission with a back injury that occurred while playing basketball.

Three athletes won't participate in spring practice for what Nagel has called "personal reasons." They are veterans Charles Bolden and Greg Allison and Jim Kirby, a speedy transfer student.

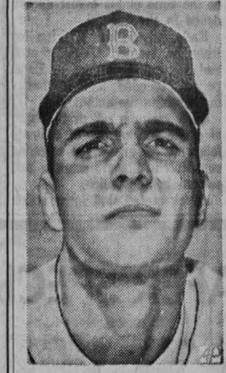

Nagel said he would concentrate mainly on blocking and tackling in the spring and not so much on kicking and punting.

"Most of the work," said Nagel, "will be with the newcomers."

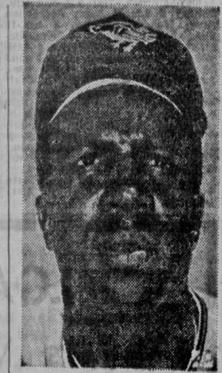

The Hawks are allowed 20 spring practice sessions and Nagel said they would try to work out on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

The spring drills will end May 17 with the annual intrasquad game.

Conigliaro, Robinson Show Signs of Making Comeback

TONY CONIGLIARO

FRANK ROBINSON

Both on the Road to Recovery

BOSTON — Frank Robinson and Tony Conigliaro, two of baseball's top sluggers, are showing signs of recovery from the eye problems which have plagued them for the past two seasons, but neither sees a real similarity in the cases.

"I have sort of an idea what Conigliaro went through, but I can't really know the extent of it," Robinson said before their teams met at Fenway Park Wednesday in the finale of a three-game series.

"His was much more serious," said the Baltimore right fielder who is off to a brilliant start this year after suffering through the worst season of his career in 1968.

Robinson, who suffered a head injury in a baserunning collision in mid-1967, came back late that season but still couldn't see properly and had double vision at times.

"Last year that was gone, but I still had trouble seeing things clearly," said the only man ever to win Most Valuable Player honors in both leagues.

This season he says he's 100 per cent again, and the early evidence backs him up, as he has already smashed four homers, driven in 10 runs and hit .412 in his team's first eight games.

Conigliaro, whose career was feared ended when he had to sit out almost a season and a half with impaired vision after an Aug. 18, 1967, beating, also says his eyesight is now 100 per cent again.

Conigliaro hasn't demonstrated his recovery quite so convincingly as Robinson as yet, but the young slugger did lead the Red Sox in home runs during the exhibition season and also hit one on opening day. He has played regularly and hasn't had any apparent problems seeing the ball either at bat or in the field.

Knicks May Lose Frazier in Playoffs

NEW YORK — Walt Frazier may be lost to the New York Knickerbockers for the critical playoff game with the Celtics in Boston Friday night in the Eastern Division playoff final of the National Basketball Association.

The Knicks announced Wednesday that the 6-4 guard from Southern Illinois pulled a groin muscle in the final minute of Monday's game at Madison Square Garden, won by the Knicks 112-104.

The Celtics lead in the series, three games to two, and need only one more victory to go into the NBA championship series against the Western winner.

League Presidents Propose Revised World Series Shares

NEW YORK (AP) — World Series winners in 1969 will receive a guaranteed minimum of $15,000 and losers will get at least $10,000 on the basis of 32 shares for each club.

Joe Cronin, American League president, and Warren Giles, National League president, announced the agreement by which the minimum guarantee for the World Series winners will be $484,000. That would figure to $15,000 on the basis of 32 full shares.

The players of each of the two clubs losing the divisional playoffs will receive a minimum of $5,000 under the new plan. The winners, of course, will go into the Series where they will be eligible for the money. Under the new agreement, the first three teams in each of the four divisions will get a share of the Series' player pool.

In 1968, the Detroit Tigers received $10,936 each for beating the St. Louis Cardinals who got $7,079.

The increase in the guaranteed money for the Series makes baseball's postseason payoff compare more favorably with pro football. The winners of the Super Bowl get $15,000 each and the losers $7,500.

With the 1969 expansion, each of the two major leagues now has 12 clubs divided into two six-club divisions. The two National League division winners will play a best of five series to determine the loop's representative in the World Series. The same format will hold true in the American League.

As in the past, the World Series will be a best-of-seven affair. Under the old rules of baseball, the World Series players were guaranteed a minimum of $250,000 from the Series to be split 60 per cent for the winners and 40 per cent for the losers. The new plan will raise the guarantee to $800,000 for the two teams, $482,000 for the winners and $320,000 for the losers.

In addition, a guaranteed minimum pool of $320,000 was created for the players of the two clubs losing the two best-of-five divisional playoffs.

The gate receipts of the World Series will continue to be allocated substantially as in the past with 15 per cent of the balance into the player pool. Seventy per cent of the player pool goes to the two Series teams to be split on a 60-40 basis and the balance is distributed among the players of other clubs down to the third place finisher in each division.

In addition, one half of the gate receipts from the first three of each of the divisional playoffs will go into a new playoff pool. This will be divided with 30 per cent to the winners and 20 per cent to the losers who would get a minimum of $5,000.

Golf Team Meets 2 Foes at Home

Iowa's golf team plays its first home match at 1 p.m. today against Missouri and Simpson on the South Finkbine course.

Iowa won one of three matches against Arizona during the Hawks' spring trip.

Coach Chuck Zwiener said Wednesday that he thought the squad had improved considerably during the trip.

"Our highest score today was a 77 and our lowest was a 74, so we're in pretty good shape," said Zwiener.

Phil Aldridge pulled an upset against Arizona when he beat Arizona's Drue Johnson, an NCAA finalist last spring.

Either Aldridge or Jim Carney will play the No. 1 position today with Bob Mulert, Brad Schuchat, Ron Lightner and Pat Stopoulos rounding out the squad.

ORIOLES WIN 11-8—
BOSTON (AP) — Baltimore pounded out 16 hits and outlasted Boston Wednesday 11-8 in a game called by rain in the bottom of the eighth despite a spectacular debut by Red Sox rookie Billy Conigliaro, who hit two homers in his first major league start. Seven home runs were hit in the wild game.

Iowa Letterman's Club Conducts Fund Drive Friday for Bud Suter

The Iowa Lettermen's Club will conduct a "Bud Suter Fund Drive Day" Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:25 p.m. at four downtown Iowa City locations.

Suter, co-ordinator of athletic relations for the University and secretary of the "I" Club, is recovering from a recent kidney transplant operation. The lettermen will be stationed at the following locations Friday to collect donations: the southeast corner of Clinton Street and Iowa Avenue, the southeast corner of Clinton and Washington Streets, the southwest corner of Washington and Dubuque Streets and the northeast corner of College and Dubuque Streets.

Suter received the transplant from his son, Bill, on March 20, at the University of Wisconsin Hospital. He had been a patient at Veterans Hospital in Iowa City for a year and a half prior to the operation. During this time he spent two 12 to 15 hour periods a week on the Kidney Dialysis machine.

The cost of the operation, hospital expenses and recuperation is extremely high.

Suter joined the University

Rookie Carlos May Paces Sox in 5-2 Home Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie Carlos May slammed two homers and Buddy Bradford belted one in the Chicago White Sox' home-opener triumph over the Kansas City Royals, 5-2, Wednesday.

The White Sox unveiled the first outdoor artificial infield turf in the majors, but it played a minor factor on offense, while perhaps contributing to five double plays.

Kansas City's Joe Foy, former Red Sox third baseman, belted a two-run homer off winner Joe Horlen in the first inning for a 2-0 Kansas City lead.

Then 20-year-old May slammed Dave Morehead's first pitch for a homer into the left field stands. May chased Morehead in the fifth with a homer over the 400-foot mark in centerfield after Sandy Alomar walked for a 3-2 White Sox lead in the fifth.

Bradford also slammed a two-run homer after Duane Josephson singled with two out in the sixth. Bradford's blow came off Dave Wickersham.

CUBS BLANK CARDS, 1-0
ST. LOUIS — The Chicago Cubs continued their hot streak Wednesday night by edging the Cardinals, 1-0, behind the pitching of Ferguson Jenkins. The Cubs have now won eight of their first nine games.

CORRECTION
The Infernos soccer club's "B" match against Iowa State will be at 2 p.m. Saturday, not Friday as was reported in Tuesday's Daily Iowan. Anyone interested in playing in this contest should attend an Infernos practice today or Friday at 3:30 p.m. west of the Field House — or call team captain Denis Songolo, 338-9504.

the Daily Iowan SPORTS BRIEFS

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks have become the first pro basketball team in an organized league to play before a million or more spectators in one season.

The Knicks said Wednesday that Monday's capacity crowd of 19,500 for the playoff game with Boston — the club's 14th sellout and seventh in a row — boosted the record-breaking attendance to 1,017,835 for home and road games.

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight players from the early days of football have been selected posthumously for the National Football Hall of Fame.

They are William "Pa" Corbin, Yale center, who played in 1886-88; Knowlton Ames, Princeton fullback, 1886-89; George Brooke, Swarthmore fullback 1889-92 and Pennsylvania 1893-95; Paul Bunker, Army tackle and back, 1900-02; Wally Steffen, Chicago halfback, 1906-08; Arthur Wheeler, Princeton guard, 1892-94; Jimmie Johnson Carlisle, 1903; and Arthur Poe, Princeton end, 1897-99.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Betting odds which had opened at 10-6 favoring welterweight champion Curtis Cokes dwindled to even money Wednesday for his 15-round title defense against Mexico's Jose Napoles Friday night. The trend was attributed to an influx of boxing fans from Napoles' adopted Mexico.

There will be no television or radio broadcast of the Forum fight.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., was named Fighter of the Month by Ring Magazine Wednesday for his lopsided victory over Buster Mathis.

Quarry also was boosted from No. 4 among the heavyweight contenders to No. 3 moving ahead of Sonny Liston. Mathis, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was dropped from sixth to seventh.

Floyd Patterson, the former two-time champion, was dropped out of the ratings because of inactivity.

NEW YORK (AP) — The British have withdrawn their challenge for the America's Cup in 1970, apparently because of economic factors, the New York Yacht Club announced Wednesday.

The Yacht Club revealed no details beyond saying that the Royal Yacht Club had decided not to challenge, but experienced observers abroad have speculated that present economic conditions in England were the influencing factor.

The withdrawal of the British still leaves the French and the Australians vigorously preparing for the elimination trials preparatory to the 1970 Cup match, probably the most famous yacht race in the world.

The British last challenged for the Cup in 1964, their representative, the Sovereign, losing four straight races to the American defender, the Constellation. The United States never has lost the series since it was started in 1851.

Casper, Nicklaus Co-Favored In Champions' Tournament

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus ruled the co-favorites Wednesday in an elite, 28-man field assembled for golf's $150,000 Tournament of Champions.

The 72-hole test begins today over the fiercely tough La Costa Country Club course, a sprawling, 7,200 yard, par 72 layout that features deep, clinging rough and mammoth greens.

"That rough is really something," said Casper, a two-time U.S. Open champion who finished in a tie for second in the Masters.

"I only played nine holes," Masters champ George Archer quipped. "Then I had to stop and sharpen my wedge. Gets dull from all that grass-cutting."

Casper and Nicklaus were installed as 4-1 choices by Las Vegas bookies, with the 6-5 Archer next at 6-1. Arnold Palmer, like Nicklaus a late arrival, was listed at 7-1 with PGA champion Julius Boros and Gene Littler, the season's leading money winner each at $1.

Other top choices include U.S. Open Champion Lee Trevino, British Open Champ Gary Player of South Africa, lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand and long-hitting Tom Weiskopf.

Iowa-Cornell Game Canceled

For the second consecutive day, rain and wet grounds forced the cancellation of the Iowa-Cornell baseball doubleheader Wednesday. The games will not be rescheduled because of the Hawks' busy slate.

Due to repair work on the infield, the Iowa field could not be covered with the protective tarp. Head Coach Dick Schultz said that had the field been covered, the doubleheader probably could have been played.

Iowa has four games scheduled this weekend. The Hawkeyes meet Monmouth College in a doubleheader on Friday, and will take on the Creighton Blue Jays in a twin-bill on Saturday.

Schultz said that all freshmen interested in trying out for the fresh baseball team should meet with Steve Hirkko at the Iowa Field at 4 p.m. today.

Teens Wed In Pregnancy Face Conflict

Teenagers who marry after pregnancy are often victims of society's conflicting standards, says Edith Zober, assistant professor of social work.

Society expects marriage after pregnancy, Prof. Zober observed, but at the same time it may punish the teenagers who do marry by preventing their participation in school athletics and extra-curricular activities, or denying them a chance to attend graduation ceremonies.

In spite of this conflict, and the traditional difficulties attending marriage at an early age, Prof. Zober found that principals, guidance counselors and others believe students "solve the problem" of illegitimate pregnancy by getting married.

She interviewed nine married teenage girls attending an experimental "continuation school" to work toward high school diplomas, and found that eight of them would not choose marriage again as a "solution" to the problem.

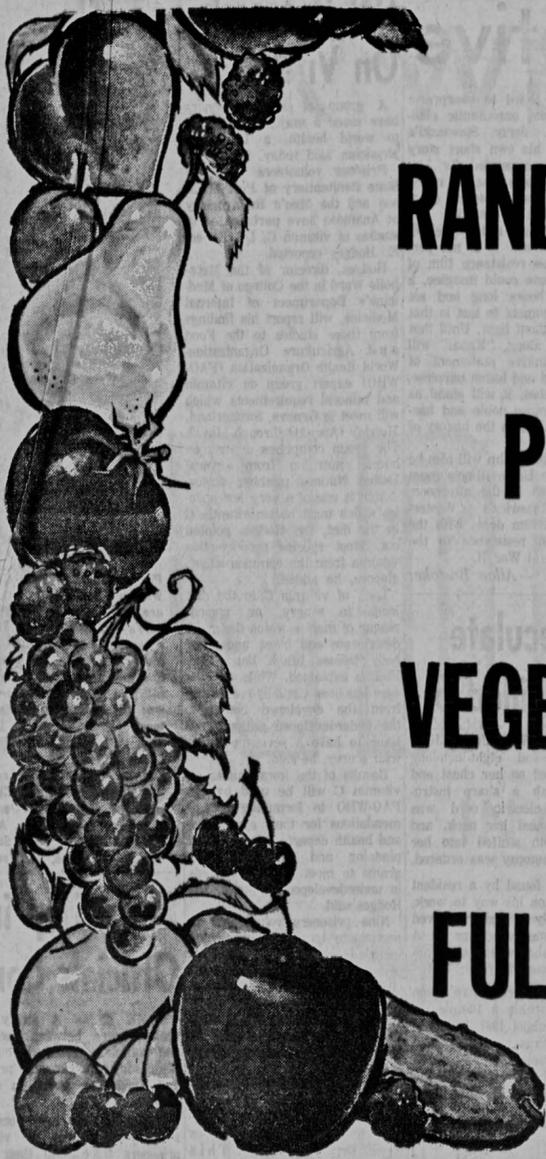

Among the disadvantages to their forced marriages was missing the educational and social benefits of going to school. One girl said, "I didn't get through 10th grade and you've got to have education. My daughter will be smarter than me when she's in the 11th grade."

Other disadvantages were the couples' immaturity, their unreadiness to assume marriage responsibilities, and the problems of two teenagers trying to get along with each other.

Girls who are married as teenagers could benefit from continuation schools by learning skills that would be helpful to them as homemakers and others, said Prof. Zober. Young couples could also use help to finish high school, and some kind of marital counseling to help them defeat the odds of unhappiness and divorce which come with a teenage marriage, she said.

She concluded, "In addition to recognizing that the young couple has married under unfavorable circumstances, and that efforts toward prevention of illegitimate pregnancy are necessary, more attention needs to be devoted to this group."

Prof. Zober is an instructor and educational coordinator at the Sch. of Social Work's Des Moines Teaching Center on the Drake University campus.

Iowa Senate OKs Tax Repeal Bill

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill repealing the state's 3 per cent tax on advertising and new construction was sent to the Iowa House Wednesday after passing the Senate 44 to 14.

Included in the measure is a promise to give cities up to $3 million of the taxes collected up to July 1, the date repeal will take effect.

Sponsors of the measure said taking the levies off would improve Iowa's economic climate. But opponents said the tax burden merely will shift to "the little guy."

Democrats, who nearly voted as a block against repeal, charged the Republican majority had made a "deal" with advertising interests and contractors.

Senate Republican Leader David Sanley of Muscatine acknowledged there was "an agreement" that the advertising interests and construction firms affected would pay the estimated $10 million to $14 million due since October if the tax were lifted July 1.

The tax as enacted by the 1967 legislature went into effect on advertising, new construction and some 40 other services in October 1967.

Film Depicts Polish Resistance

'Kanal' Is Brilliantly Descriptive

This Thursday's Union Movie, to be shown in the Illinois Room at 7 and 9 p.m., is "Kanal," the second film in Andrzej Wajda's brilliant post-war trilogy of the Polish resistance in World War II. The trilogy's third film, "Ashes and Diamonds," was shown by Cinema 16 last semester. If the earlier "Kanal" is not as complex and polished a film, it is nonetheless a most powerful and pure one.

The time is 1944 and the Warsaw uprising of the resistance against the Nazis is in its last days. The film concerns itself with the retreat of a group of these remaining patriots into the sewers of Warsaw. Here they both reveal themselves and meet their final defeat. While the narrative is one of inevitable doom the film is an anguished affirmation of its people's endurance and nobility.

The film opens with an incredible shot, a continuous track of the camera along with the men as they trek through the rubble and litter that is for them the landscape of their lives. As they crouch behind walls, avoid the enemy's fire, hurry on toward their inevitable end, the tone of the film is immediately set. What happens later, the courage, the madness, the love, all flowers from the landscape of that first shot.

The men and women of the film are a fairly diverse group. The first part of the film sketches them in quickly. We learn only what is essential to know before they enter the sewers. And the world they enter in the sewers is even stranger and otherworldly than the ruins above ground. A character describes it as Dante's Inferno, and if the literary reference seems rather obvious inside the film it is still an apt description.

Wajda's main triumph is in the depiction of that world under the earth, a weird and terrible labyrinth of shadows, mist, echoes, confinement and fears. People hurry by in a panic over the supposed presence of gas and disappear. A man steps into the light of an open drain and a grenade is dropped down the chute. A message of love is written on the sewer walls.

Michigan Police Speculate Maniac May Have Killed 5

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — The discovery of the partly clothed body of a 13-year-old girl led police to speculate Wednesday that a sex maniac may have murdered five girls in this area in the past two years.

in Ypsilanti's West Junior High School, had eight-inch-long gashes carved on her chest and stomach with a sharp instrument. An electric cord was wrapped around her neck, and a white cloth stuffed into her mouth. An autopsy was ordered.

Three have been slain within the past month. "There are similarities between this and some of the other killings," said William Delhey, Washtenaw County prosecutor.

The body, found by a resident of the area on his way to work, was clad only in a short-sleeved blouse and was lying face up. A black strap shoe was nearby, another shoe down the road.

The latest victim was 13-year-old Dawn Basom, Ypsilanti, whose body was discovered along a lonely dirt road about three miles north of Ypsilanti Wednesday morning. She had been reported missing by her mother about 12 hours earlier.

Four other girls have been found slain within a 10-mile radius since August 1967. Three of the five victims were murdered in the past month. One had been shot to death, two were stabbed and one died of a skull fracture.

Prisoners Aid UN Research On Vitamin C

A group of Iowa prisoners have made a major contribution to world health, a University physician said today.

Prisoner volunteers from the State Penitentiary at Fort Madison and the Men's Reformatory at Anamosa have participated in studies of vitamin C. Dr. Robert E. Hodges reported.

Hodges, director of the Metabolic Ward in the College of Medicine's Department of Internal Medicine, will report his findings from these studies to the Food and Agriculture Organization-World Health Organization (FAO-WHO) expert group on vitamin and mineral requirements which will meet in Geneva, Switzerland, Monday (Apr. 21) through May 2.

The group comprises experts on human nutrition from several United Nations member states. Man is one of a very few species which must obtain vitamin C in the diet, Dr. Hodges pointed out. Most species produce this vitamin from the common sugar, glucose, he added.

Lack of vitamin C in the diet leads to scurvy, an ancient plague of man in which the gums deteriorate and bleed and other body tissues break down, Dr. Hodges explained. While the disease has been virtually eradicated from the developed countries, the underdeveloped nations continue to have a severe problem with scurvy, he said.

Results of the Iowa studies on vitamin C will be used by the FAO-WHO to formulate recommendations for their agriculture and health departments to aid in planning and developing programs to meet nutritional needs in underdeveloped countries, Dr. Hodges said.

Nine prisoners volunteered to participate in the studies which included experimental induction of scurvy, Dr. Hodges said, without any promise of shortened sentences or other reward. Their diets had no vitamin C and scurvy symptoms appeared after 90 to 120 days, Dr. Hodges explained.

Since only vitamin C was missing from their diets, the symptoms were fewer and less severe than those seen in spontaneous cases, Dr. Hodges noted. This probably was because persons with spontaneous scurvy also have other nutritional deficiencies, he explained. After vitamin C was restored to their diet they made a complete recovery, Dr. Hodges said.

The studies of vitamin C deficiencies were supported, in part, by a grant from the Office of the Army Surgeon General.

Youth in Murder Trial 'Mentally Incompetent'
DES MOINES (AP) — Donald F. Gulling, 16, of Des Moines, was found by a Polk County jury Wednesday to be mentally incompetent to stand trial for the murder of a teenaged girl.

The youth was charged with murder in the Nov. 6, 1968, stabbing of Linda Jean Terry in the girl's home.

Her body was found in an upstairs bedroom, and Gulling was picked up a few hours later by an Iowa Conservation Commission officer while walking along a road near Indianola.

Two psychiatrists told the jury in written statements that Gulling is incompetent to stand trial. Judge Leo Oxberger ordered the teenager held in the county hospital pending transfer to the Iowa Mental Security Hospital at Anamosa.

The women have completed a six month pledge program consisting of learning military tradition, marching, and doing service projects. The women were: Marjory Allen, A2, Kalamazoo, Mich.; Pam Austin, A2, Ottumwa; Kathleen Coen, A2, Iowa City; Lynn Collison, A2, Marshalltown; Janell Crouch, A2, Des Moines; Carol Edwards, A2, Sioux City; Jo Fotis, A2, Fort Dodge; Sharon Gossman, A2, Waterloo; Linda Knight, A3, Des Moines; Jeannine Kuyper, A2, Des Moines; Pat Lang, A2, Mequon, Wis.; Pat Lorenzen, A2, Moneta; Kathy Miller, A2, Sioux City; Bar Olson, A2, Lake Forest, Ill.; Barb Peterson, A2, Western Springs, Ill.; Sue Phillips, A2, Houston, Tex.; Kathi Silagy, A2, Elgin, Ill.; Mary Margaret Smith, A2, Des Moines; Sheri Storey, A2, Des Moines; Miss Taylor; and Jane Wallace, A2, Newton.

Riots Stop in Italy's Prisons; Officials Consider Reforms

ROME (AP) — A shaky unspoken truce between convicts and officials restored calm Wednesday in riot-torn prisons and broke the tension in other prisons.

The 300 convicts who remained in a table cell block in Milan stayed quiet. So did 250 left in Turin's 12-year-old prison.

No new disorders occurred after police drove 100 rioting prisoners back to their cells Wednesday morning in Brescia. In Ivrea 50 prisoners ended a hunger strike that lasted through the night. They walked back into their cells after the Turin district attorney promised to pursue their demands for reforms.

Far to the south of the Adriatic coast the prison in Bari grew quiet after police subdued 150 rebellious convicts Tuesday night. The Bari prison infirmary and a tailor shop were chafed by fires set by inmates.

The prisons in Milan and Turin, ripped apart by rioting in the space of revolts that began Saturday night, stood semidead. Two thousand of their inmates were taken by train and ship to other jails.

Other prisons hit by work stoppages and protests in defiance of guards include those at Florence, Padua, Udine, Treviso, Reggio Emilia and Bergamo.

Bowen Home Site for Tour
The homes of University President Howard R. Bowen and five University faculty members have been chosen for the 1969 United Nations Association (UNA) house tour, which will be held May 18.

Up and down Italy prisoners demanded a reform of the penal code. They wanted bigger, warmer cells, more time outdoors, permission to write more often to family and friends, better food and generally "more humane treatment."

The tour, which is in its 10th year, is sponsored by UNA to finance activities of the Iowa City chapter, including a tour of the United Nations building and Washington, D.C. for 36 high school students.

Government officials, and prison wardens met to consider ways to meet the demands as how to guard against another string of revolts. In Milan a Turin committee studied plans to erect new jails to replace those wrecked during the riots.

Mrs. Frank Seiberling, who selected the homes for this year's tour, said they reflect the personalities of their occupants.

California Prof To Speak Here
Ruth L. Huenemann, professor of public health nutrition at the University of California, Berkeley, will be the featured speaker at the annual home economics spring banquet at 6:30 p.m. in Iowa Memorial Union Ballroom April 23.

Besides Bowen's home at 102 E. Church St., homes in the 1969 tour include those of: Wayne Begley, assistant professor of art, 1 Fairview Knoll; Forest Evashevski, director of athletics, 620 S. Summit St.; Albert B. Hood, professor of education, 26 Rocky Shore Drive; James B. Lindberg, associate professor of geography, 225 Richards St.; and Robert H. Oehmke, mathematics professor and chairman of the mathematics department, 24 Lakeview Knoll.

Sponsored by the University chapter of the American Home Economics Association (AHEA), the banquet will also include the presentation of awards to outstanding home economics students.

June Draft Call Lowest for 1969

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon asked the Selective Service System Wednesday to draft 25,900 men in June. A total of 23,900 will go to the Army and the remaining 2,000 to the Marines. It will be the lowest draft call so far in 1969, comparing with the high of 33,700 inductees sought in February. At the same time, the Pentagon said increased voluntary enlistments by physicians and optometrists will allow a reduction of almost one half in planned inductions of medical men this year.

Prognosis for Homosexuality 'Cure' Poor

rapidly and the girls are finally confronted with accusations of homosexuality by other members of the dorm floor. Instances of lesbianism are sometimes reported to counselors who are in turn saddled with the responsibility of quieting the rumors and counseling the parties involved.

The lesbian can end up on a psychiatrist's couch in an attempt to understand her emotions.

Some lesbians profess a desire to go "straight." Others don't consider homosexuality a problem, reject psychiatric help, and say they could change to heterosexuality at any time.

The prognosis for homosexuality is poor. Even Freud said it was incurable. Edwin Schur, in his book "Crimes Without Victims," states: "There is definitely no sure and simple cure for homosexuality, and the dominant view is that in most cases therapy at best can only make the patient a better-adjusted homosexual."

A poor prognosis doesn't keep lesbians from trying for a "cure," however.

"I really tried to go 'straight' and as a result spent the most miserable year of my life torn by my intellect and my opposing inclination," one girl admitted. "At the end of a year, the psychiatrist said intermittent homosexual relationships would not hurt my onward heterosexual development." But, she added, "I guess what I have now is more than intermittent."

Another girl said she first sought help when she was 19, six years after her first homosexual experience.

"I went to a Catholic priest who referred me to a gynecologist. It was then I found out there was no cure for me and that I was to have the divine privilege of 'carrying a cross' the rest of my life and Jesus would love me for it. I just had to learn to live with it," she said.

For some, another aspect of lesbianism is a persistent search to find some underlying cause for homosexuality. Most have rejected the notion of hereditary factors, and look to family backgrounds for possible clues.

Speculations on the causes of lesbianism vary from Freud's notion of an "Electra complex" to others postulated in decades of psychiatric and sociological literature.

Robert Callaghan, associate professor of psychology, has defined the cause of homosexuality as being similar to a neurosis, a character disorder, and due to a lack of maturation.

A January, 1966, Time magazine essay reported that consensus is that homosexuality is caused psychically through a disabling fear of the opposite sex.

"The origins of this fear lie in the homosexual's parents — the mother either domineering or contemptuous of the father or feeling rejected by him. It is a case of arrested development, a failure of learning, and a refusal to accept the full responsibilities of life," Time said.

Several lesbians interviewed speculated on other possible causes.

"Psychologists would attribute it to my having no father image for years and then a bad relationship with my stepfather, a strong attachment to my sister and having a strong and dominant mother," was one reply.

"My father wanted a son," another said. "He was drafted three weeks after I was born. When he returned I was a three-year-old individual. A brother was born and jealousy developed. I tried to become a little boy for Daddy, and this he rejected."

When a lesbian's parents or other members of her family find out about her homosexuality, they are disillusioned, confused, and wonder where they went wrong.

"Mother was the only one really upset and has tried persistently to get me to change, stop my relationship and see a psychiatrist," one girl said.

"Mother knows of my 'latent homosexuality' only," another replied. "She mopes about it and wonders 'what we did wrong' and says if she had it to do over again, she'd abort me."

After psychotherapy and pressure from family and friends to go "straight," the lesbian often decides she would be happier giving in to her inclination and rejects attempts to change. Accepting the fact that she is a lesbian does not come easy.

"How would you like to discover at the tender age of 13 and much to your horror, that you were always 'falling in love' with the wrong sex?" one girl asked. "And you come from a family where psychological guidance is as accepted as fortune telling."

"What do you do? You sit and wait, being 13, and surmise that you'll probably outgrow it — 'cause that's what the books say."

"But you don't outgrow it and you begin to worry as your crush on your best friend graduates to another crush on another best friend, and another and another. So you try to date, and a going out with boys makes you sick at your stomach and nervous; so you stay home."

"And the whole damned thing makes you feel dirty and ugly and like some kind of a freak. And you hate society and God and Mommy and everybody else because you are 'different.' All you ever really wanted to be, you see, was good and noble. And this, you feel, is against all that you think is good and noble.

"So you search and search and finally you reconcile yourself, because you finally discover that the cursed feeling won't go away and you're going to die with it. And the priests and doctors and shrinks (psychiatrists) all look at you and say: 'Sorry, Charlie — inferior tuna.' And you wish you could die."

"But, of course, you have to go on. And one day you no longer feel upset about what you are. It becomes a part of you whether you decide to do anything about it or not."

Aside from its strong censure, society hasn't really been trying to do anything about lesbianism either. While attitudes toward homosexuality are slowly changing, the laws in 49 states and the 10 Commandments are not.

Illinois is the only state where homosexual acts between consenting adults is no longer a criminal offense.

Ask a lesbian what she wants society to do about her sexual preference and she will say change the laws, change attitudes, and accept me like anyone else.

But people coming from Christian backgrounds where they are taught that sex is for procreation rather than pleasure, know that she is not "just like everyone else."

Working against these attitudes, how would a lesbian go about making an effort to change state or criminal codes?

Demonstrations staged by homosexuals for civil rights in more liberal areas than Iowa have largely been ineffective.

One girl compared a homosexual's plight to that of the black who is also working against deep-seated prejudice.

She said blacks demonstrate, and people understand what it is they are asking for because of greater exposure to the problem. The black says he has nothing to lose, she added.

But in the case of homosexuality, where society has largely tended to ignore the problem, the lesbian has everything to lose.

Those interviewed said they are relatively happy now by being left alone. To expose themselves would be to set themselves up to ridicule and condemnation, and put their future jobs in jeopardy.

Does the University have a responsibility to shield members of its community from homosexual advances by having them move out of University housing?

The girls interviewed said they have never been forced into a homosexual relationship. They said that the new partners they meet through intramural sports, in the dorms or other places already have a tendency toward lesbianism.

Time magazine took the stand that growing permissiveness about homosexuality and a hedonistic attitude toward all sex have helped "convert" many people who might have repressed an inclination in another time and place.

The future for college-age homosexuals is uncertain.

Some say that through their lesbian relationships they have overcome emotional immaturity and feel prepared to enter a future heterosexual relationship. They want to get married and have children "as soon as the right man comes along."

Others will be camouflaged among the one to 2 per cent of American female population that the late Dr. Alfred Kinsey estimated are exclusively lesbians.

They prefer to love members of their own sex and think it is the only way they can face the world.

One lesbian quoted the following Zen epigram as the way she felt about her partner:

"Seeing the smile in your eyes I have forgotten that people die."

International Week at West

A public relations official of the U.S. State Department will discuss Vietnam Friday morning with West High School students during the school's International Week.

He is Francis W. Carpenter, chief of public affairs activities in the Vietnam Bureau of the Agency for International Development. He has served on the staffs of the last four U.S. ambassadors to the United Nations and lectures frequently about the U.N. His book, "Men in Glass House," concerns the representatives to the United Nations.

He worked for the Associated Press for 26 years and was secretary of the United Nations Correspondents Association for six years.

As a part of the week-long focus on international affairs at West High, University professors and students will present the Arab side of the Arab-Israeli conflict at 8:15 a.m. today and the Israeli side at 1:45 p.m.

Also today, a University professor will discuss the Sino-Soviet dispute and a film on the atomic bomb will be shown at noon.

Peter Snow, associate professor of political science, will explain the rebellion in Latin America Friday at noon and will compare the situation there with that in Vietnam, Winnetka Hagens, G. San Francisco, will also discuss Vietnam.

International Week has already included a lecture on overpopulation and a discussion on Biafra led by Dee W. Norton, associate professor of psychology, and by a Biafran student at the University.

Three Iowa City doctors discussed their work on the USS HOPE and two University students described their experiences with the Peace Corps in Samalia and in India.

Twelve foreign exchange students spending the year in various Iowa cities were special guests for International Week. They attended classes and addressed students.

A Fun Night Carnival will be held Saturday to raise money for the West High American Field Service Program. Students raised $125 Wednesday by selling Friendship Bonds. Asst. Principal James E. Ferguson said the bonds were "token contributions" to the American Field Service. The sale will continue today. The foreign exchange student to West High School this year is Lyn Owen from Swaziland.

International Week is sponsored by the Student Council of West High.

Now Ready--- YOUR ANNUAL NEWSPAPER

THE WORLD IN 1968

History as we lived it...

by the Writers, Photographers, and Editors of The Associated Press

THE WORLD IN 1968

HISTORY AS WE LIVED IT

For all its hard back cover and slick paper, THE WORLD IN 1968 can well be regarded as the annual edition of your own newspaper.

In fact this handsome volume was prepared by our chief source of national and international news, The Associated Press, and was written largely by the skilled correspondents who in the first place reported the year's outstanding news.

Unlike any other annual, it gives breathtaking immediacy to the 12-month period's unparalleled events.

Its hundreds of news pictures in color and black and white form an outstanding collection available no place else.

Whether you want it for reference or as a help to your children in their school work, or for just plain enjoyment, you should not miss the opportunity of ordering now.

THE WORLD IN 1968 volume contains:

- 300 pages, page size 9½" x 12½"
- 140,000-word text on outstanding news events of the year
- 240 photographs, 60 of these in full color
- 30-page almanac containing world chronology, the world's top stories and newsmakers, U.S. economic and sports statistics.

The price is only $3.50--comparable bookstore value $7 to $9.

House OKs Remap Plan as Democrats Object

DES MOINES — The Iowa House finally approved a plan to strip itself of 24 members Wednesday after 20 hours of warnings by Democrats that courts would not accept it.

The vote was 83 to 41.

"The job of this legislature is going to be thrown right into the lap of the court," declared Rep. Michael Kennedy (D-New Hampton).

Democrats accused Republicans, who control the House, of making massive changes in a bipartisan commission's reapportionment plan, just to suit Republicans.

"No matter what had happened on apportionment in Iowa, someone would have taken it to court," said Rep. Ralph McCartney (R-Charles City), the GOP floor leader.

Democrats claimed that in juggling House districts to help themselves, Republicans violated the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" principle.

All Democrats voted against the plan as revised by the Republicans, and three Republicans deserted their party to vote against it as well.

They were Reps. John Mendenhall (R-New Albin), Lester Freeman (R-Spirit Lake) and William Winkelman (R-Lorville).

The Republican revisions drastically redrew voting districts in southwest Iowa and affected other major urban and rural areas as well.

Lawmakers who would have been thrown into the same districts under the commission plan in some cases were switched to other districts under the Republican plan.

During the marathon debate extending over a two-day period, Republicans had little to say about the changes they were proposing.

However, at midafternoon Wednesday, just before a vote was taken, several Republican leaders rose to defend the changes they made in the commission's plan.

Rep. Andrew Varley (R-Stuart) pointed out that Republicans had never directly or indirectly implied they would accept the commission's plan without changing it. But he praised the commission's work.

"The commission accomplished a great deal," Varley said. "They got us to a starting point. 'We've undertaken a Herculean task.'"

He said that eventually legislative reapportionment may be done by computers under court jurisdiction, but right now it is still a legislative matter.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where considerable objection is expected from senators.

Ray said reports indicate the

Governor to Inspect Iowa Flood Defenses

likelihood of serious flooding on the Mississippi, and "we are hoping the preparations will help keep damage at a minimum."

He said he will make stops in McGregor, Marquette, Guttenberg and Dubuque.

As Ray announced his weekend plans, the mighty Mississippi was more than a foot over flood stage at Dubuque and families were being evacuated from East Dubuque, Ill., and Prairie du Chien, Wis.

Dubuque officials said some flooding probably would begin in the city's industrial-business south end, which is not protected by dikes, this weekend.

If Senators Are Subsidized, 'Why Can't the Poor Be' Too?

WASHINGTON — A welfare mother suggested to the Senate hunger committee Wednesday that if the federal government can subsidize a U.S. senator and others not to produce crops, "Why can't the poor be subsidized not to produce hunger?"

Testifying at a hearing in a movie theater in the heart of a Washington black slum, Mrs. Marty Green told the committee: "No longer will we see our children go hungry. The war on hunger has just begun."

Her reference to Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), one of the country's biggest cotton producers, was based on his participation in federal programs that pay him for taking land out of production.

Mrs. Frieda Jackson, a welfare recipient with 10 children, contended that many children who should be getting free lunches don't.

"Our children can not learn to read and spell and be American citizens as they should be if they don't have food," she said.

Mrs. Mosella Johnson spoke without notes. "I didn't write out testimony because I don't have to put on paper what I live with every day," she said.

"I'm not going to see my children hungry." But her welfare payments are not enough to provide food and a special diet, she needs because of illness, she said.

"Please give them to me," she pleaded.

Mrs. Johnson said present requirements forbidding welfare payments when an able-bodied male resides in a house have the effect of forcing husbands to leave.

"They can't support their families so they walk out," she said.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), who presided at the hearing in the absence of ailing Sen. George S. McGovern (D-S.D.), said, "There is no room for that in our society. This has been a very forceful reminder for all of us."

Sen. Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) said it is obvious that a major increase in federal spending is needed.

Schools to Get Library Award

The former editor of the Times of London, Sir William Haley, and Paul F. Johnson, state superintendent of public instruction, will participate in the presentation of a national library award to the Iowa City School District at the Union Tuesday.

The school system will receive the award in recognition of "significant improvement in elementary library services."

The $2,500 Encyclopedia Britannica award will be given by Haley, who is now editor-in-chief of Encyclopedia Britannica. Award applications were filed by 97 entries from 39 states.

Haley will tour some of the libraries of district schools and is also expected to visit the School of Journalism at the University.

Hearings Ordered in Trucking Cases

AMES — A public hearing for five trucking firms to show cause why their permits to move oversize or overweight loads on the highways should not be revoked was ordered Wednesday by the State Highway Commission.

The commission, however, modified its rules to make individual hearings in permit violation cases discretionary instead of mandatory, after receiving a new list of 112 other alleged violators.

The hearing is the first under a law passed by the 1967 legislature authorizing the commission to suspend, modify or revoke permits of trucking firms to move oversize or overweight loads on the Iowa highways if they fail to comply with permit terms.

SHOPPER TESTS PROVE SAVINGS UP TO 15% AND MORE... COMPARE!

THE ITEMS PURCHASED WERE COMPARABLE AND OF HER OWN CHOOSING.

SHE SHOPPED EAGLE AND SPENT $32.28 AS COMPARED TO $37.75 AT ANOTHER SUPERMARKET.

PROOF YOU MAY REDUCE YOUR WEEKLY FOOD BILL UP TO 15% OR MORE!

MRS. JUDITH WEIR OF THE IOWA CITY AREA TEST PRICED EAGLE!

"I saved $5.47"

Shopping tests like Mrs. Judith Weir's are proof Eagle tells it like it is. Mrs. Weir shopped Eagle and another store of her choice, purchasing comparable items of her own choosing at both stores. The register receipts from the two stores confirmed savings at Eagle. Mrs. Weir saved $5.47, that's 14.5% less than what the comparable items cost at the other supermarket. (Test Price Eagle today you'll be glad you did.)
