Faculty Unit Asks Graduation Tuition Based on Income
A gradual tuition plan, proposed to be implemented informally during Thursday's student senate meeting, would allow students to pay for part of their education based on family income. However, the system would not mean that the University must meet all debts but that the students would make up for any income they receive through their parents' incomes.

In the past, the student senate has proposed having a reserve to fund the proposal, but this year the budgetary committee has turned down the request.

The initiative was brought up by the faculty unit in the Governing Board, which was seeking a way to help low-income families afford tuition for the upcoming year.

In addition, Sutton said that the university wants to subsidize groups which do not receive state aid.

Also listed in the legislation is that the funds from the An- nual Officers' Conference will go to the appropriate groups.

The funds will be used to reduce the cost of tuition, and the move is not expected to receive much support from the faculty.

"It is a time like this," the chief justice-designate's father said, "when we can't afford a bribe, but..."

When asked why he joined the court, Burger said, "I've been on the bench for 15 years."

As the state council reorganized the University, the Senate has emphasized the financial burdens the students have faced, and the move could have been better used to reduce the cost of tuition and the funds could have been better used for the sake of the students.

"This is my first chance to help the community," Burger said. When questioned about the possibility of being re-elected to the court, the chief justice-designate said that he would not run for office.

4 Quad Advisers
In Beer Trouble
By JOHN PETERS
Four of the University's dormitory advisors were involved in a beer shooting at the arena last weekend.

The decision to propel the recommendation was made at the beginning of a meeting of the Senate and the students' residence halls, said Wednesday.

The recommendation would result in a financial penalty for those advisors who did not receive the global penalties.

John, who was a special adviser at the university, said that he realized the problem prior to the vote and has been working on the problem for the last year.

Prince May Still Try
For Slams at Belmont

NEW YORK — Majestic Prince, the surprising, out-on-a-limb filly who has defied the odds on the way to winning four of five Grays this season, may yet try for an upset of Triple Crown legend Ron Turcotte — this time in California.

The 20-year-old filly, who last year was a leading contender to win the Kentucky Derby and Preakness and who was a close-up third in the Belmont, is currently being trained at Del Mar, the San Diego area race track. Majestic Prince was gelded at Del Mar and is now training in the same barn as Turcotte's other horse, Zany Hanover, a 4-year-old gelding who won the Preakness last year.

If Majestic Prince can win the Preakness, she will be the first filly ever to win the Triple Crown. The last horse to win the Triple Crown was Affirmed in 1978.

Prince in Search of a Crown

Majestic Prince, handled by assistant trainer Mike Bum, takes a look around the barn area after a workout at Santa Anita. The filly is being trained by Harry M. Butterworth, who has been working with Majestic Prince since the horse was a weanling.

"He has never been more comfortable," Butterworth said. "He's a real good horse, and he's going to get even better.

"We were going to ship him to California because he had some minor trouble at the Preakness, but we decided to stay here and train him in any other way. He's had some ups and downs, but you can't think about him like that, he's just a horse.

"Of course, we want to win the Triple Crown, but we're not going to put all our eggs in one basket.

"We're just going to enjoy the experience, and we'll see how it goes."

Biafra: Where the People Have Known Only Total War

By RICK JOHNSON

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) The University of Michigan student's group was preparing for a midnight demonstration on campus when campus security officers discovered the plans for a pickup truck that contained a cache of weapons and what appeared to be a gunpowder mixture.

The group had been planning to drive to Biafra, the breakaway region of Nigeria, to join the liberation struggle. The demonstration was aimed at raising awareness about the plight of the people in Biafra, which has been under siege by the Nigerian army for several months.

Ombudsman Proposal Affirmed Under Faculty Study

By ELAINE SCHRODER

The University of Michigan's new ombudsman proposal has been approved by the faculty study committee.

The proposal would create an ombudsman to help students resolve conflicts with university administrators.

The ombudsman would be an independent, neutral figure who would provide a confidential and informal means for students to discuss grievances with university authorities.

The proposal was backed by a majority of the student body and supported by the faculty study committee.

The ombudsman would be appointed by the Board of Trustees and would serve a five-year term.

Members of the Community Board of Education got a brief overview of the school district's fiscal year from John T. Allison, presented by mobile phone. This was the first of several meetings of the board in the district's 215 schools. The board was established to review and evaluate the budget process and to recommend ways to improve it. The board was also responsible for approving the school district's budget and for monitoring its implementation.

The board's responsibilities will include:
- Reviewing and evaluating the district's budget process
- Recommending ways to improve the budget process
- Approving the school district's budget
- Monitoring the implementation of the budget

The proposed budget for the 2023-2024 fiscal year is $6.5 billion, an increase of $370 million over the previous year. The increase is due to higher operating costs, including salaries and benefits for teachers and staff, and increased costs for transportation and maintenance. The proposed budget also includes funding for new programs and initiatives, such as a focus on student mental health and well-being.

The board will consider the proposed budget at its next meeting and will vote on it in the coming weeks. The budget will then be presented to the full Board of Education for approval.
