Pentagon Hit

WASHINGTON — A House-Senate economic subcommittee accused the military Tuesday of wasteful purchasing practices it says have artificially inflated the budget and lined the pockets of defense contractors.

And the subcommittee said it is disturbed by evidence that the Pentagon considers "cost control as an antisocial activity."

'Flunkers' Jailed

CEDAR RAPIDS — Nine young persons were arrested Tuesday after a disturbance broke out on the Coe College campus stemming from the annual "Flunk Day" celebration.

Officers said a total of 250 persons took part in the melee, which lasted about three hours. Bottles were thrown, some streets barricaded and rolls of paper were ignited, police said.

"Flunk Day" is an annual celebration during which students at the private college attend parties rather than classes.

Charges stemming from the disturbance included resisting an officer, disturbing the peace, consuming beer in public and obstructing streets.

'Rockefeller, No'

BOGOTA — Student disorders broke out in Bogota and other parts of Colombia Tuesday in protest against a visit by Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The New York governor arrived in Bogota from Washington after conferring with President Nixon during the morning.

Police reported students burned a U.S. flag in Bogota and set a bus afire in Barranquilla. Cars were reported stoned in Barranquilla and in Monteria, capital of Cordoba State, 350 miles northwest of Bogota. One hundred persons were reported injured in clashes across the country.

Groups of students tried to block Bogota streets, shouting anti-U.S. slogans and waving placards reading, "Rockefeller Go Home," even before Rockefeller left Washington. Police quickly dispersed them. Five policemen were injured by thrown rocks, police said.

Viet Vote Nixed

PARIS — South Vietnam's chief negotiator, Pham Dang Lam, indicated Tuesday that his government is unwilling to hold early elections as part of a deal to end the Vietnamese war.

Lam told a luncheon of the Anglo-American Press Association that South Vietnam's constitution does not provide for election of a president and National Assembly until 1971. He said the constitution is not negotiable at the Paris talks.

In his eight-point peace plan, President Nixon suggested elections be held under agreed procedures "as soon as possible" after an international supervisory body could be set up. This has caused some concern among Saigon officials.

Nixon Proposes Postal Revamp

WASHINGTON — Declaring "tradition is no substitute for performance," President Nixon asked Congress Tuesday to scrap the historic Post Office Department and establish a government-owned, self-supporting corporation to handle the mail.

The alternative, Nixon said, is a continuation of huge annual postal deficits, constantly increasing rates and threats of mail delays and breakdowns.

Nixon's proposal would replace the department with a corporation administered by a nine-member board of directors and operated like a private business.

It would be known as "the United States Postal Service."

The plan was announced by Nixon and Postmaster Gen. Winton M. Blount at a White House news conference. Blount spelled out details at a separate briefing for newsmen.

Both Nixon and Blount appealed for bipartisan support and the postmaster general claimed a "very good reception" from congressmen who were briefed in advance.

Regents Approve Tuition Increase

University Students to Be Paying $125 More a Semester Next Year

By LARRY CHANDLER

DES MOINES — The Board of Regents Tuesday raised tuition rates of the three state universities in response to requests by the university Presidents.

The tuition raise for most students at the University of Iowa will be $125 per semester or $250 per year.

The raises were passed after a heated discussion over the feasibility of a graduated tuition plan and the necessity of raising the tuition.

The final plan was to raise the tuition by the amounts requested by the president, but to label part of the raise a surcharge to imply it is a temporary measure.

The motion accepting the tuition increase and instituting the surcharge passed by a 5 to 2 vote. Regents Stanley Richards of Red Oak and William Quarton of Cedar Rapids cast the negative votes.

The regents decided that each of the universities was to have a base "tuition" rate of $432, an increase of $62 over the current rate. In addition, the students will pay various sums — $188 a year at the University — labeled surcharge on bills.

The surcharge plan was introduced by University of Iowa Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

This means that the official "tuition" increase according to the regents is only $62.

Regent William Quarton of Cedar Rapids questioned whether the tuition should be increased.

Quarton said, "I think it's too much," and he added that he thinks most of it "is a permanent thing."

Quarton questioned the logic of the university presidents supporting the tuition raise.

He said that the reason stated for the tuition raise was to keep the salaries of the faculty sufficiently high so that the universities don't lose their good faculty to competing schools in other states.

But Quarton questioned why the tuition should go up so much. He said that other universities were raising faculty salaries but their tuition is not going up as much as Iowa's.

"Iowa's universities may end up with the biggest faculties and the smallest number of students," Quarton said.

Board Pres. Stanley Redeker of Boone said that other states allocated more money to their educational institutions than did Iowa.

Discussion of the question was started in the morning, when Richards proposed that faculty salary increases at the Universities be postponed.

The three university presidents all disagreed with Richards.

Bowen said that the board "should not let a temporary situation tear down the excellent build up over a century." Bowen said the cost of inflation should not be shifted back on the teachers.

Richards replied to Bowen that all the burden should not be put on the students.

Iowa State University Pres. Willard Parks said that all the load was not being absorbed by the students, but that faculty and staff were absorbing part of the burden because of lower salary increases than originally expected.

University of Northern Iowa Pres. J. W. Mauker said that holding the line on salaries would be "completely demoralizing to the faculty."

Mauker said that the state had made the decision to increase the tuition through the legislature's action.

The university officials assured the board that the students who could not afford to come back because of the increases in tuition would be assisted by increased financial aid.

A graduated tuition plan was discussed by the regents but was shelved in favor of the increased financial aid.

Graduated tuition is a plan in which students pay an amount of tuition based on their parent's income. If their parents' income is high, the student has to pay more tuition than a student whose parents' income is low.

Parks reported that 35 per cent of Iowa State students receive financial aid now, and that this number will be increased.

Bowen said that student financial aid will be increased at the University of Iowa by $1.1 million next year.

Parks said he thought that the university presidents were painting "too rosy" a picture.

He said, "We are pricing some kids out of the market in our school."

Hot and Humid

Generally fair today and continued quite warm and humid, with highs in the 90s. Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday with a chance of showers or thunderstorms tonight possibly continuing into the morning. Cooler Thursday.

Minutes After the Blast

Within minutes of the explosion of a propane tank at Capitol Propane Gas Co., 729 S. Capitol St., firemen were battling flames, fighting a successful battle to keep other highly volatile fuel oil and gas tanks from going up. The explosion occurred at just about 11 p.m. Tuesday night and within a half hour the fire was under control.

Fire companies from throughout Johnson County were called Tuesday night to fight a blaze touched off by an earth-shaking explosion at Capitol Propane Co. Inc., 729 S. Capitol.

As The Daily Iowan went to press, the fire was reported under control, but firemen were standing by to insure that four gasoline storage tanks in the area did not explode. The blast occurred at 10:59 p.m.

Initial reports put the cause of the blast on excess gas from a storage tank seeping under a warehouse on the Capitol Propane lot. Fire Chief Dean Beebe said the storage tanks had been filled earlier in the evening by a delivery truck and that one tank had probably been overfilled. None of the four storage tanks were ruptured by the blast or the fire.

The warehouse was extensively damaged in the blast, and the pump house serving the tanks was destroyed. Scattered fires occurred in the wooded areas around the tanks, and the area is strewn with oil drums and wrecked autos.

One man was injured in the explosion and taken to General Hospital, where he was being treated for burns on his face and hands.

Hospital officials identified him as Jesse Youngblood, a 62-year-old scissors grinder from Ames.

At 1 a.m. hospital officials said that Youngblood had been admitted to the Hospital for the night with head and hand burns, but was in fair condition.

Police reports said Youngblood had been sleeping on the Iowa River bank under the Benton Street bridge at the time of the blast.

John Perry, 23, 610 S. Madison St., who lives about a block and a half from the sight of the explosion, was on the scene within a few minutes of the explosion.

When he arrived at the scene, flames were shooting up 75 to 100 feet and were orange and yellow and giving off a thick black smoke.

He saw a man, later identified as Youngblood, tumbling away from the explosion area. The man's clothes were blown to pieces and he mumbled, "get me to a doctor," Perry said. The man appeared to be in shock, Perry said.

Perry said Youngblood was not near the riverbanks, but near the buildings. He said Youngblood told him he was walking between two of the storage buildings at the time of the blast.

The major fear of firemen was that the four storage tanks would explode. Firemen apparently used water on the blaze in an attempt to "float" the flames away from the storage tank area.

Holderness Trial To Center Around Key 'Confession'

The first-degree murder trial of Laurence Paul Holderness opened Tuesday, with the prosecution saying it would present as evidence a confession by Holderness.

William Tucker, special assistant county attorney, told the jury that the state would introduce a statement by Holderness in which he said he had pushed Mrs. Mary Stanfield and struck her with a tire iron on July 5, following an argument.

The defense said it would call psychiatrists as witnesses, and said it would question whether Holderness was capable of waiving his "Miranda rights."

The "Miranda rights" require authorities to warn persons being questioned in connection with crimes that what they say may be used against them in court, and they may remain silent, are entitled to legal counsel, and that if they cannot afford a lawyer one will be appointed.

One of the two defense attorneys, Willard Freed, emphasized to the jury that the testimony of state's witnesses would be heard first, and the defense would present its case afterward.

Authorities said Mrs. Stanfield, 81, of 444 Second Ave., died after being beaten about the head with a blunt instrument.

Neighbors of Mrs. Stanfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fuhrmeister, 438 Second Ave., both testified that they had seen a car identical to one Holderness drove parked outside the Stanfield home on July 5. Fuhrmeister found the woman's body about 7:30 a.m. July 6.

Holderness was arrested in Granbury, Tex., by FBI officers on July 11.

He is pleading innocent to the murder charge.

An Hour After Blast

Within an hour after the explosion which touched off a scorching blaze at Capitol Propane Gas Co., on South Capitol Street near Benton Street, firemen had the situation well under control and the fire was all but extinguished. The big fear during the tense hour following the explosion of a propane gas tank was that other tanks would be set off. Firemen were successful in keeping that from happening.

- The graduated tuition concept was dropped by the Board of Michigan State on May 17, 1969. Fall 1969 tuition has not yet been determined.
- Blanks indicate tuition not yet determined because no appropriation yet passed by Legislature. All states so marked have indicated tuition increases will be necessary if appropriations are insufficient.
- These are recommendations of the Legislature Joint Finance Committee, not yet passed. The formula has been to charge undergraduate residents 20 per cent of the total cost of operation (excluding capital). The Joint Finance Committee recommended that this go to 22½ per cent in 1969-70 and 25 per cent in 1970-71. It also recommended that the non-resident undergraduate percentage be 100 per cent.

$73 Million Budget OK'd For University Next Year

A preliminary 1969-70 operating budget of $73,528,000 for all aspects of the University and its related health service units was approved Tuesday by the State Board of Regents. The total includes $45,630,000 for the University's general educational program and $27,898,000 for the health units.

The budgets are based on the University portion of the legislative appropriation made to the regents of 1969-71 by the General Assembly. The budgets include income from the appropriations, student tuition, University Hospitals, earnings where applicable, reimbursed overhead from federal contracts and research grants and other income. For the next biennial period, the University and its affiliates received a state appropriation of $93,812,000, compared with an original request for $121,640,000.

In the general University fund, exclusive of health service units, the two-year appropriated amount is $65,074,000 compared with an $87,301,000 request.

Counting all sources of funds, the general University and the state health service agencies have combined preliminary budgets totalling $152 million for the two-year period which begins July 1, 1969 and ends June 30, 1971. The regents had sought sufficient state funds to provide the total University with a new biennial operating budget of $169 million. In the present biennium, the total operating budget — which represented a "starting base" for a new biennium — is $132.2 million.

The 1969-70 fiscal year's preliminary budgets for University Hospitals and other health-related service units are: University Hospitals, $21,137,600; Psychopathic Hospital, $2,408,508; State Bacteriological Laboratory, $862,401; Hospital School, $1,378,360; State Sanatorium at Oakdale, $1,728,762. As with the general University budget, these budgets provide for increased salary funds, for a few new staff positions, and for some increases in general expense. In some instances, however, expenditures for equipment and repairs, replacements, and alterations to physical plant will be less than in the present year.

In preparing the general University educational fund budget, University officials began with the 1968-69 budget of $41,355,000 and doubled it to obtain a biennial footing. To this "starting base" of $82.7 million, minimum additions needed to maintain quality over the next two years were added. These additions for the first year, 1969-70, are:

$1.4 MILLION more for salary funds for academic personnel and graduate teaching assistants, to a base of some $28,527,000, including employment benefit contributions;

$500,000 more for salary funds for non-academic personnel, to a base of approximately $5.7 million, including employment benefit contributions;

$1.2 MILLION more for the general instructional fund to meet anticipated enrollment increase expense, but with no new academic programs, probably only five new faculty positions, and limited general expense increases in some but not all of the colleges;

$1,121,000 more for student aid exclusive of federal loans and work-study funds.

Two major categories in which the University normally would make additions show no increases for next year. These are the equipment category, including items purchased for classrooms, laboratories, and offices, and the repairs, replacements and alterations category for updating and maintaining academic buildings.

The general University fund budget does not include the operations of the University housing system, intercollegiate athletics, and other auxiliary agencies, which are self-supporting from income. Likewise excluded are capital expenditures — monies used for new academic buildings and equipment.

Sources of income for the general education budget next year are $30.9 million from the $65-million biennial state appropriation, $12.8 million from student fees, $1.7 million from the federal government as reimbursed overhead, and $80,000 from all other sources. In the second year of the biennium, 1970-71, the University expects to apply the remaining $34 million of state funds and only slightly greater amounts in the other income categories for an estimated budget of $49.5 million.

The budget for next year also includes the addition of $100,330 for implementing recommendations of the University Committee on Human Rights pertaining to staffing a program in Afro-American Studies, additional staffing of the Educational Opportunities Program, and providing the University share of support for a State Board of Regents Equal Opportunity Officer to work with contractors and suppliers in assuring equal work opportunities for contracted jobs at Regent institutions.

The University expects about 600 more students next fall, who must also be provided for in the second year of the biennium, when still another 700 new enrollees are expected.

Bowen on the New Budget: 'No Retreat to Mediocrity'

The University of Iowa is one of America's most distinguished institutions of higher education. Of the more than 2,000 colleges and universities in the United States, it is among the top 20 or 30. It is a member of the prestigious Association of American Universities. It is an eminent center of learning which has been built up by great sacrifices and energetic leadership over more than a century. We, the faculty and students who are the temporary custodians of a heritage, must not allow this institution to deteriorate because of a combination of financial exigencies which have happened to strike most colleges and universities this year. These exigencies include a plateauing of state, federal and foundation funds at a time of rapid inflation, and a decline in public confidence in universities for well-known reasons. The financial problems are the fault of no one individual or group but are the outcome of a set of circumstances which we must live through as gracefully as possible and without violating our stewardship.

A university is not merely the classes, grades and credits which a student happens to encounter. It is a complex of closely related and interdependent educational, research, and public service activities, an environment for learning, a community of persons who are dedicated to learning. Everyone who is a member of the University, and opens himself to the manifold opportunities it offers, partakes of a rich environment of art, books, lectures, discussion, and laboratories.

He associates with people of many interests and backgrounds. He partakes of a total environment, not merely of particular parts of it. Because the activities of the University are so interrelated and pervasive, it is difficult to segregate the cost of particular functions such as undergraduate education or scientific research. Such segregation is at best highly arbitrary. The product of the University is a joint product. Virtually nothing takes place that does not influence the total environment and that does not affect the experience of all the students.

The support of the University derives from many sources: state government, Federal government, foundations, corporations, individuals, fees for services rendered, income from investments, and student tuitions and fees. The financial problem is to secure enough funds from all these sources to keep the community alive and progressive. Any failure of one source of funds places a heavier load on others.

The breakdown of the income and the expenditures (page 2) shows the sources of these for recent years and a tentative budget for 1969-70. These figures refer to the whole University—all activities and all funds. Several conclusions emerge from these figures. Funds from non-state sources have accounted for more than half the total income. Student fees have supplied a very small fraction of total income, especially when expenditures for student aid are subtracted from the income from student fees. Administrative and general expense are a negligible percentage of total expenditures.

Careful studies have been made over five years to identify possible economies in operation that would not cripple the institution. Some have been found and acted upon (e.g., Occupational Therapy), but most on examination are found to be illusory or trivial in amount. The University of Iowa has never been adequately financed in relation to its mission. It has succeeded by avoiding proliferation of programs (e.g., in exotic foreign languages), holding down costs (e.g., in maintenance of physical plant), and allowing valleys as well as peaks in the level of maintenance of various programs. But Iowa is generally recognized in education circles as an institution that has accomplished much with limited resources. The dollar at Iowa has been stretched.

The preliminary biennial budget summary (page 2) shows proposed increases in the General Educational Fund for the next biennium. These increases include only (a) necessary salary adjustments for faculty, teaching assistants, and non-academic staff, (b) amounts needed to meet commitments to permanent faculty whose Federal grants have been cut, (c) amounts needed to meet inflationary increases in the prices of what we buy, and (e) funds for operation of new buildings, and (f) substantial sums for additional student aid. There are no new programs, and virtually no new faculty or staff (net) except as new designated grant funds may be received.

While the budget is austere, it is one which will maintain the established excellence of the University. The administrative officers have no intention of allowing deterioration to set in. This will continue to be a good university for students to attend and for faculty and staff to serve.

There is to be no backsliding, no attrition, no gradual retreat into mediocrity. The cost of rebuilding after a period of deterioration would greatly exceed the cost of holding fast to what we have.

There is no long-run economy in letting a great institution run down hill. The only economical policy is to maintain it and if possible to make it stronger. That is what my colleagues and I intend, that is why we are asking every department and division to practice rigid economy and that is why we are asking students and their parents to increase their contribution in fees. We do so with no apologies and with considerable confidence that the decision is right under the circumstances. Obviously, we regret the circumstances, but we do not intend to shrink from our clear duty.

Special attention is being given to student financial aid.

Studies of the income of our students indicate that most can manage the increased tuition without undue hardship. In affluent America, where family incomes are increasing at the rate of 5 per cent a year or more, a $200 or $300 annual expenditure is manageable for many students and their families. But we have included in the already large budget for student aid $5,314,000 in 1968-69, an addition of more than $1,000,000 so that genuinely needy students will be able to continue their education. Studies are in progress regarding graduated tuition, though it should be recognized that this is no panacea, only one particular method of allocating a portion of sums available for student aid.

ROTC VOTE SET—GRINNELL — Grinnell College faculty members will vote this week by written ballot on whether they want academic credit for Air Force ROTC courses ended in 1970 or in 1972. The faculty had voted on April 7 for a Sept. 1, 1970 cutoff date, but at another meeting May 19 it favored the Sept. 1, 1972 date. Between those two votes, the Air Force had announced it would withdraw its ROTC program from Grinnell by 1972.

Ray Hits Tuition Hike

DES MOINES — The tuition increase approved earlier in the day by the State Board of Regents for its three state universities is not justified, Gov. Robert D. Ray charged Tuesday.

The regents "are going to justify any increases to the students, the parents, the public and their governor," Ray said in a news conference.

Pointing out that the regents' budget for the 1969-71 biennium was 12 per cent higher than the preceding biennium, Ray defended his budget for higher education. "I did place the priority on education," he said, adding that "most people felt it was substantial under the circumstances" — the governor's campaign pledge was not to increase taxes.

Ray noted that taxes were increased in almost every area by the 1967 legislature and he believes, after campaigning throughout the state, that the people of Iowa did not want and wouldn't tolerate another increase in taxes.

Ray said that consequently the legislature could not allocate all the money various agencies requested.

The regents had requested 75 per cent more for the coming biennium than they did for the previous one, Ray noted.

leges, giving aid to community colleges and giving new bonding power for construction to the regents.

The legislature's approval of a long-range construction plan for the next 10 years will give the regents $93 million.

The bill would give the regents $7 million dollars in cash appropriations for construction and power to bond for another $16 million during the next biennium. The other $70 million would be appropriated or bonded during the next eight years.

The regents had requested $75 million for construction during the biennium.

Ray said the legislature had provided a "substantial increase" in aid for community colleges, adding that schools for vocational training had been neglected for too long.

The legislature also has allocated $1.5 million for aid to students attending private colleges. Ray said the tuition grant plan should help "take some of the pressure off state schools" and give students a choice on what school they want to attend.

There is no substitute for four-year schools, he said. The governor defended an anti-riot rider which the legislature attached to the regents' appropriations bill which would require immediate dismissal of any student or faculty member convicted of various "riot" offenses.

He said the measure, which he had originally said he might veto, was acceptable to him because of its due process clause. The rider establishes an appeal procedure which would allow a dismissed person to be reinstated upon a decision of administrators.

Regents OK Sutton

Student Body Pres. Jim Sutton will appear before the State Board of Regents at its meeting here June 26 and 27.

Sutton will be allowed a 30-minute presentation and can bring a group of students with him.

Sutton had asked to appear before the regents to discuss the tuition raise, priorities on student financial aid, faculty work loads and "University operating inefficiencies" in a letter sent to the regents.

When the matter of Sutton's request came up during the regents meeting in Des Moines Tuesday — at which time a tuition increase was approved — some regents questioned whether Sutton would still want to attend the June meeting.

The board decided to let him attend anyway because some of the subjects in his letter are still open for discussion and because he went through the proper channels to request the hearing. The regents requested that Sutton give them as much written material about his presentation as he can before the meeting. They also requested that University administrators receive copies of the written material so they will be prepared to make comments.

Board member Jonathan Richards of Red Oak cast the only vote against allowing Sutton to appear. The six other members present all were in favor of the appearance.

Richards said that, since the tuition raise had already been passed, there was no need for Sutton to appear.

In later discussion of the resolution allowing Sutton to attend, Richards questioned whether this wouldn't appear like tokenism, and not like a meaningful presentation.

Other regents countered that Sutton would have adequate time for his presentation.

'Paper Prostitution' Of Playboy Cited

MONTEZUMA — Playboy Magazine was cited "prostitution on paper" Tuesday as eight Grinnell College students testified at their District Court trial on indecent exposure charges.

The eight were among a group who stripped off their clothes to protest what they called Playboy's exploitation of sex during an explanation of the "Playboy philosophy" by a representative of the magazine Feb. 5 on the campus.

"Playboy Magazine is a money changer in the temple of the human body," testified Mary Y. Malcolm, 21, of Oklahoma City, Okla. "They use women's bodies to sell the magazine and to sell the products advertised."

Money and how to avoid spending so much of it were the major topics of Tuesday night's meeting of the Iowa City Community Board of Education.

Business Manager John Gillespie presented four items for which contracts are to be awarded following a public hearing June 17. They were:

- Resurfacing the City High School parking lot, estimated at $16,000.
- Replacing the roof at Lincoln Elementary School, estimated at $6,000.
- Repainting the interior of Central Junior High School, estimated originally at $8,000; revised at $15,000.
- Restoring surface of playing field at West High School, estimated originally at $30,000; revised to $35,000.

Total cost for the four projects was previously estimated at $60,000, which was included in the proposed budget presented last week to the board.

With the new estimates, the total comes to $72,000. The board passed a resolution to accept the items and set June 17 as the date for a public hearing. The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the board's meeting room. Bids for the various contracts will be opened then.

In discussing the proposed 1969-70 school budget, the board decided that some cuts must be made. Board member John E. Moore said he felt the board could not take the responsibility of cutting various items from individual departments. He said the board should merely advise these departments on expenditure cuts, letting them decide themselves what could be deleted.

Gillespie said approximately $87,000 had been cut from the budget while it was still in the planning stages. He pointed out that, because of allocations for personnel and debt payments, only about $292,000 remains from which items may be deleted.

The budget totals $10,997,628, an increase of 23 per cent over the 1968-69 budget.

The board decided to continue discussion of the budget at next week's Tuesday meeting. The finalized budget must be sent to the county auditor by July 15.

$7.7 Slated for Student Aid

The University is scheduled to provide $7.7 million for student aid in the 1969-70 academic year.

The student aid figure — made up of $6.3 million in scholarships, fellowships, and grants from all sources, and an estimated $1.4 million in federal loan and grant funds — includes an increase of $1,121,000 over the 1968-69 academic year. However, the University expects cuts of up to $400,000 in the amount available from the federal government for National Defense Education Act loans, educational opportunity grants, health professions loans, and work-study funds.

The $6.3 million figure includes state appropriations for aid, gifts and endowments. Included in the $1.1 million increase for student aid are an additional $615,000 in scholarship funds for undergraduates and graduate students, $379,909 in unspecified funds to meet contingencies, and $126,091 for the Educational Opportunities Program to aid 115 students in the program.

For the second year of the biennium, 1970-71, University officials tentatively plan to add another $1,145,000, exclusive of federal loan funds.

In the 1968-69 academic year, approximately 3,600 of the 19,506 students at the University received some type of student aid, ranging from small fellowships to large awards on purely academic merits, to other scholarships, grants, and loans that are awarded to students in good academic standing on the basis of financial need.

University officials also have taken steps to try to free approximately $100,000 of the general University budget for student aid for 1969-70. This is contingent, however, on the federal government's ability to lend to the University the money to be used as the University's matching share for federally backed student aid programs.

Chamber OKs Renewal

The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce came out Monday in favor of urban renewal sponsored by federal aid.

The vote of the Chamber's 20-member Board of Directors was not unanimous, but Keith Kaffer, executive vice president of the organization, said he could not reveal the vote tally or the names of those who dissented.

The board said that while it endorsed the recent decision of the City Council to use federal money for urban renewal projects, it reserved the right to approve or disapprove individual projects that the council might propose later on.

Both the Chamber of Commerce and city councilmen said the approval of the federally-funded renewal program meant only that they favored public over private sponsorship, and did not indicate that they had approved any specific project.

Hoffmans' Bail Paid but He's Still in Jail

CHICAGO — Edward Hoffmans, 31, of Iowa City, remained in Cook County Jail Tuesday while his bond was being processed.

Bugs gave no indication as to when Hoffmans would be released after bail had been paid.

"It does not necessarily have to be an immediate release," he commented. "It all depends on what Hoffmans does after the payment."

Hoffmans was one of 18 persons arrested after a break-in at Chicago's largest Selective Service office.

He is charged, along with the others, with arson, burglary, and criminal damage to property.

Student, Staffer Facing Charge

A University student and a staff member were each charged by city police Monday with disorderly conduct, after unrelated incidents.

Marvin S. Brummel, 26, a research associate in biochemistry, was arrested about 11:45 a.m. at College and Clinton streets. Brummel, of 927 20th Ave., Coralville, is free on $30 bond. The circumstances of his arrest were not revealed.

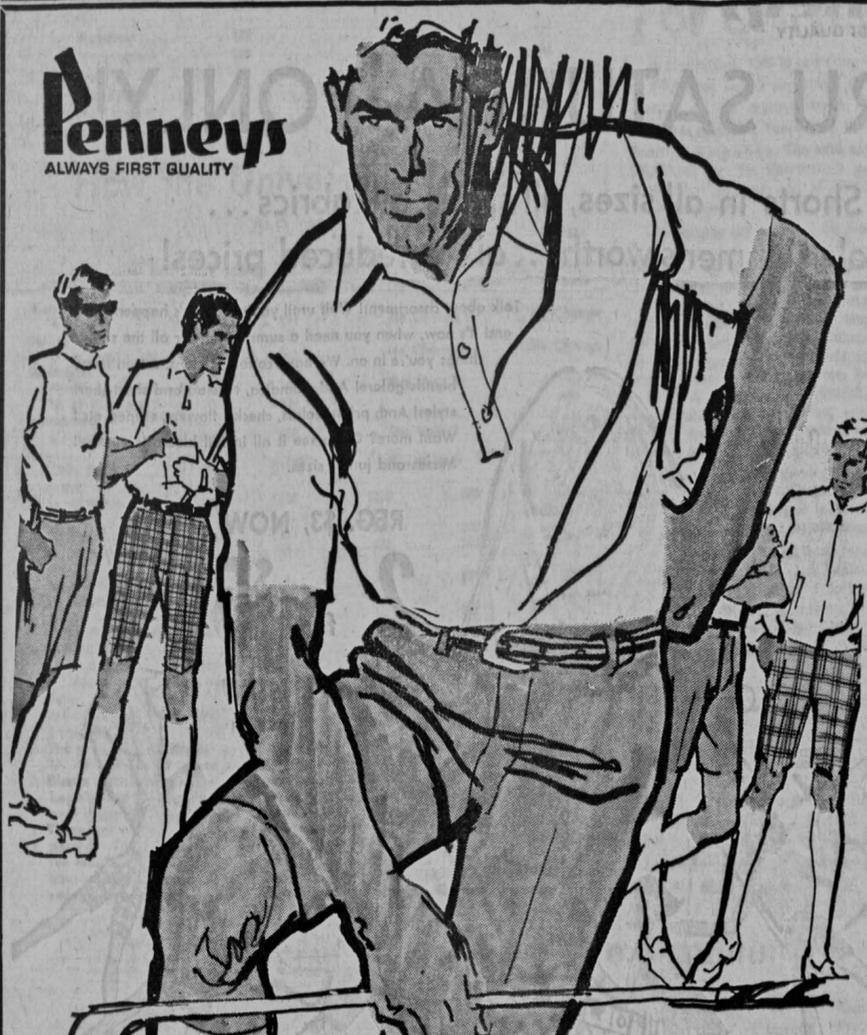

Dennis D. Smothers, 41, Iowa City, was arrested in connection with a window peeping incident about 2 a.m. in the 400 block of North Linn Street. Smothers was released on signature bond.

Recruiting Called 'Success'— 18 Prep Gridders Sign with Hawks

Doug Edwards, Jack Farrell, Bob Burrus, and Bill Rose are some of the names that are Iowa football fan may be reading about in a few years.

These four boys are among the 18 out-of-state players that signed the national letter of intent to play football at Iowa, it was announced today.

The Iowa coaching staff was pleased with the results of the long search for football talent.

"This is an excellent group of athletes," said Coach Ray Nagel. "We were pleased with our recruiting out of the state. We think we have another outstanding group of freshmen enrolling this fall."

Freshman Coach Ted Lawrence who also has a hand in the recruiting of top high school players was equally pleased.

"We feel that the recruiting was as good as it's been the last three years. We were very successful. We had more Iowa players this time. We're all very pleased with the results."

When asked about how the recent boycott of football practice by black players affected the recruiting, Lawrence replied, "As far as I could see, it made no difference at all, at least in my area."

The list of players recruited from Iowa will be released tomorrow.

Several All-American players are included in the list.

The players and a brief background on each are as follows:
Jim Begale, 6-4, 240-pound tackle from Chicago. Begale was an all-conference selection and co-captain of his St. Patrick team. Begale ranks in the top 10 per cent of his graduating class.

Bob Burrus, 6-3, 210-pound end and tackle from Joliet, Ill. An all-state performer, he played both offense and defense for his unbeaten West High.

Tom Cabalka, 6-4, 210-pound end from Edina, Minn. Cabalka was an all-stater and played on a state championship basketball team and plays baseball at Morningside High. He is the son of Leo Cabalka, former Iowa baseball and basketball player.

Rich Davis, 6-3, 248-pound tackle from Springfield, Ill. Davis was an all-conference performer for Springfield High.

Mike Dillner, 6-3, 225-pound guard from Edina, Minn. Like Cabalka, Dillner played for and was an all-stater. He also owns the top discus throw in Minnesota this spring and wrestled on the state championship wrestling team.

Doug Edwards, 6-3, 260-pound guard from Waseca, Minn. He will join his brother Mike, veteran Iowa defensive lineman. Another brother, Tom, wrestled for Iowa. Edwards was called the best prep blocker in Minnesota last fall.

Jack Farrell, 6-2, 225-pound guard from Chicago. Farrell played on Mendel High's city championship team and was an all-state and Catholic All-American selection.

Dave Harris, 5-11, 180-pound halfback from Dayton, Ohio. Harris was an all-state selection and has been named to play in the annual Ohio all-star game. He used the halfback option to throw six touchdown passes for Wilbur Wright High.

Buster Hoinkes, 5-11, 210-pound fullback from McKeesport, Pa. Hoinkes was an All-Western selection and averaged 41 yards a punt. He also kicked off and booted extra points and field goals.

Paul Jurca, 6-3, 220-pound guard-end from Lockport, Ill. Jurca was an all-stater and led his team in tackles the last two years playing nose guard. Playing offensive tight end, he made every Illinois all-state team.

Alvin Mathews, 6-0, 195-pound halfback from Gary, Ind. Coached by former Iowa player Bobby Stearnes, Mathews used his 9.8 speed to average 6.5 yards per carry for Tollefson High.

Jerry Reardon, 6-2, 170-pound halfback from Kansas City, Mo. A name already familiar to Iowa fans, Reardon is a brother of Iowa's number one wingback, Kerry Reardon. He scored eight touchdowns on runs longer than 40 yards for Rockhurst High last fall.

Bill Rose, 6-3, 230-pound tackle from Bayonne, N.J. Rose was a highly sought after athlete, playing for a team that won 18 straight, and was an all-state selection.

Bill Schoonover, 6-0, 175-pound halfback from Kansas City, Mo. One of the top ground gainers in Missouri, he started for three years at Rockhurst High.

Dave Simms, 6-3, 205-pound fullback from Middleton, Wis. A three-sport star, he has the potential to play several positions at Iowa. Simms is an all-stater who was coached by his father, Leo Simms.

Bob Sims, 6-1, 210-pound fullback from Steubenville, Ohio. The top rusher in the rugged All-American Conference, he also excelled as a linebacker and made several honor teams, including all-state for two consecutive years.

Ike Wyatt, 6-4, 215-pound tackle from Memphis, Tenn. White was a two-way performer at Hamilton High and was selected to many honor teams in West Tennessee.

Rich Wyatt, 5-11, 180-pound quarterback from Chicago. He led Mendel High to Major Daly's Prep Bowl championship, throwing four touchdown passes, and was named the game's outstanding player. He had 28 scoring passes for the season. Rich won the Knute Rockne award, presented to the outstanding student athlete in the Catholic league.

Court Appearance For Boxing Figures

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy, who was upset by 125 underdog Dick Tiger Monday night, manager Bruno Amaduzzi, Tiger and several figures in boxing have been subpoenaed in a grand jury investigation, it was learned Tuesday.

Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan's office declined to comment on the subpoenas. Benvenuti, who suffered a broken right hand in the first round of the non-title fight, said he and his manager were served immediately after the fight in Madison Square Garden.

Benvenuti said they will appear for questioning Wednesday afternoon.

Tiger could not be reached for comment.

The New York Post said the subpoenas were served as part of a secret two-month investigation by Hogan into underworld connections with boxing. The newspaper said subpoenas also have been served on a number of key Mafia figures known to be prominent in gambling operations.

The Post said the investigation apparently is not aimed specifically at Monday night's fight or its outcome.

There was a report bookmakers stopped taking bets after the odds favoring Benvenuti had gone up from 7-5 to 12-5. They supposedly were little money bet on Tiger, the upset winner. This indicated no betting coup was involved.

Dr. Kazuo Yanagisawa, an orthopedic specialist who set Benvenuti's hand, said it will take from three to four months to heal.

This will put off Benvenuti's next title defense. His six months period of grace to defend the 160-pound division title expires on June 14. The World Boxing Association insists he must defend it next against Luis Rodriguez, the WBA's No. 1 contender.

Angels' Rigney Fired; Replaced by Phillips

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Bill Rigney was fired Tuesday as manager of the California Angels, whom he had led since they came into organized baseball, and Harold "Lefty" Phillips.

The sacking of Rigney from his $65,000 job came the day after the Angels returned from a 9-10 road trip.

General Manager Dick Walsh announced the firing at a press conference in Anaheim Stadium after informing Rigney of the decision earlier in the day.

"It is the position of my own and of management that this is not a sixth place club in the Western Division of the American League," said Walsh, who became general manager after last season.

"We waited for the ship to right itself and it finally became time that a decision had to be made. We would either forego the entire season or make a change."

Walsh said Rigney would be paid off on his two-year contract, which extends through next season. That pact was announced just last Sept. 24.

Currently the Angels are just 11-28 and stand 12 games behind Minnesota in the Western Division and 7 1/2 behind Seattle's brand new expansion team.

Rigney later told a newsman, "Naturally I'm disappointed . . .

I know something had to be done. It's a part of this game."

Phillips was named to manage through the remainder of the year.

"At the end of that time a decision will be made on his status for 1970," Walsh said.

He rejoined the Los Angeles club of the National League as a coach, serving from 1965 through 1968.

Last year the Angels, after a disastrous start but a hot finish in September, trailed eighth. About this same time a year ago Rig's job was in danger.

Phillips was named to manage through the remainder of the year.

"At the end of that time a decision will be made on his status for 1970," Walsh said.
