Contracts Let

A $254,247 construction contract was awarded to a South Carolina firm for the State Educational Radio and Television Facility Board's Channel 12.

Kline Iron and Steel of Columbia, S.C., will construct the transmission tower, near West Branch.

Other construction and equipment contracts were awarded to: Schoff Construction of Lisbon, Iowa, $43,711 for a general contract for construction of the transmitter building; Flack Electric, $16,744 for an electrical contract and Triple A of Iowa City, $32,753 for a mechanical contract.

The board approved purchase of film audio equipment from Stencil-Hoffman of Hollywood, Calif., at $8,250, and purchase of video tape from 3-M Co. of St. Paul, Minn., for approximately $26,000.

Space Plan Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon shot down the nation's only military man-in-space project, the $3-billion Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL), Tuesday. The reason: "Continuing urgency" to cut spending.

The cancellation was announced by Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard, who acknowledged, "We're giving up for the time being" the idea of a military mission for men in space.

The action is expected to save close to $300 million in the new fiscal year, which begins July 1 and about $1.5 billion over the next five years. Some $1.3 billion already has been spent since 1963.

The MOL project, which contemplated sending two-man teams to live and work in a "shirtsleeve" environment in a space capsule for 30 days at a time, was at least 2½ years behind schedule. Its price had escalated about 50 per cent.

The MOL was announced in December 1963 by then Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, at the same time he killed off another Air Force project, the Dynasparc space glider.

Air Force generals long have argued the United States should have military craft in space to inspect and destroy, if necessary, hostile satellites.

Pope Pays Visit

GENEVA (AP) — Pope Paul VI, on an historic visit to the heartland of Calvinist tradition, prayed Tuesday with the non-Catholics of the World Council of Churches but gently rejected — for now — Roman Catholic membership in the global organization that represents many of the Protestant and Orthodox bodies of Christianity.

Addressing leaders of the 234 churches in the WCC, the pontiff declared "In fraternal frankness, we do not consider that of the question of membership of the Catholic Church in the World Council is so mature that a positive answer could or should be given. The question still remains a hypothesis."

Threatened antipapal demonstrations were contained or dispersed by security forces and Swiss police on the pontiff's 12-hour visit.

Nine Presbyterian ministers with placards around their necks picketed the World Council headquarters before the Pope arrived and were sent away by police. The placards read, "No peace with Rome," "The Pope is anti-Christ."

Smiley 'Fed Up' After Two Years of Complaining—

City Threatens Dorms On False Fire Alarms

By DEBBIE JUNGMAN
Of the Iowa High School
Journalism Workshop

The University's dormitory fire alarm system is facing possible termination, City Manager Frank R. Smiley announced Tuesday.

The threat is based on a series of false alarms demonstrating, according to Smiley, "the foolhardiness of a bunch of youngsters."

The alarms, primarily in the men's dormitories — Quadrangle, Hillcrest, Rienow I and Rienow II — pose "unnecessary hazards to men and equipment," Smiley said.

Two weeks ago, a fire truck was damaged in an accident en route to a false alarm at Rienow I, according to Fire Chief Dean E. Bebee.

"A 20-year-old that sets off an alarm is worse than a five-year-old — at least the five-year-old doesn't know any better," the enraged Bebee commented after the incident.

The University's disciplinary actions regarding the situation have been, according to Smiley, "substantially less than satisfactory."

"I think that the fire chief and I have contained ourselves as long as we are prepared to do so regarding these games that a few irresponsible students insist on playing," Smiley said in a recent letter to Phil E. Connell, assistant to University Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

Smiley advocated the use of "comments to the press, public comments regarding the inactivity by the University personnel, written reports to the state fire marshal, and anything else that will get somebody over there off their butts."

"We have been talking about this problem for two years now," Smiley noted.

The first complaint was made to Bowen on June 20, 1967.

However, the alarm situation became more serious between May 21 and 23 when five false calls were received during early morning hours.

"If I am forced to do so, we will disconnect systems from the University and respond only to telephone calls verified by the caller," Smiley contended.

Fires in dormitories would then be reported in the same manner as city resident emergencies.

Dormitory and University personnel declined to comment on the situation at this time. Connell, recipient of Smiley's letter, was out of town and unavailable for comment.

ABM Defended By Defense Chief In House Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says Congress would "be gambling with the nation's survival" if it rejects the Safeguard anti-missile defense system this year.

Postponement of ABM, Laird said, would heat up the arms race and the United States would have to increase its offensive missile strength.

Laird's comments came in testimony before a closed session of two House appropriation subcommittees on military spending May 22. A transcript, with classified material deleted, was made public Tuesday night.

Laird also struck back hard at ABM critics who said the system could easily be overwhelmed, and at congressmen who want U.S. tests of multiple-warhead missiles stopped, pending arms talks.

He said a congressional vote against ABM this year would delay its completion for at least two years, from 1976 to 1978.

"To delay this program for another two years would, in my judgment, be gambling with the nation's survival — unless we adopt some of the other alternatives, for example, increasing our strategic offensive forces," Laird said.

Without ABM, Laird said, the United States would have "no choice but to strengthen further our strategic offensive forces" if the Russians continue their missile buildup.

"This would add billions of dollars to the defense budget over the next few years, and we still would not have a defense against the Chinese ICBM threat or against an accidental ICBM launch," he said.

Laird tossed a new figure into the already confused ABM cost debate, $10.3 billion. He explained it this way: $6.6 billion for sites, missiles and radars; $2.5 billion for nuclear warheads; $2.5 billion for research and development "specifically associated with the Safeguard program."

Detroit Cop Acquitted In Algiers Motel Case

MASON, Mich. (AP) — Ronald August, a suspended white Detroit policeman who admitted killing a Negro youth at the Algiers Motel during the 1967 Detroit racial riots, was found innocent Tuesday of first-degree murder in the case.

After hearing the verdict, August, 30, who claimed he killed Aubrey Pollard, 19, in self-defense, appeared near tears as he stepped into a waiting car outside the courthouse of this rural central Michigan city.

"I'm going to pray," he told a reporter who asked what his plans were now.

The all-white jury of 11 women and one man deliberated for about three hours before reaching its verdict.

Circuit Judge William Beer ordered the jury to find August guilty of first-degree murder or to acquit him. The judge gave no explanation for ruling out the secondary convictions of second-degree murder or manslaughter.

A conviction of first-degree murder would have carried a mandatory life sentence.

The mother of the victim, Mrs. Rebecca Pollard, appeared weak when she left the courthouse after the verdict was announced. She had sat through every session of the five-week-long trial.

"I didn't think they would find him guilty," Mrs. Pollard said. "I thought it was a fair trial and Mr. Weiswasser (the prosecutor) did all he could, but the jury refused to believe the facts."

Strict security measures were in force at the old Ingham County Courthouse and the courtroom was heavily guarded by sheriff's deputies.

Still facing August is a federal indictment charging him and three others with conspiracy to violate the civil rights of 10 persons in the motel.

The other two white fellow Detroit police officers — David Senak and Robert Paille — and a Negro private guard, Melvin Dismukes, Dismukes already has been acquitted of a felonious assault charge in connection with alleged beatings inflicted on one of the motel occupants.

Pollard was one of three black teenagers killed at the Algiers Motel on July 26, 1967. Pollard, Carl Cooper, 17, and Fred Temple, 18, were slain by shotgun blasts.

Their bodies were left behind by police and National Guardsmen who had entered the motel in a search for snipers.

August, on the witness stand, admitted killing Pollard, but said it was in self-defense in a struggle over a shotgun.

The defendant testified that he took Pollard into a room to question him about the alleged snipers and because a fellow policeman had advised him the youth had asked to talk to an officer.

August said he also wanted to save Pollard from further beatings, such as he had suffered while standing up against the wall in a first-floor hallway with other occupants of the motel.

But after they went into the room, August testified, Pollard pleaded that he and his friends be released. When August told the youth that everyone would be taken to police headquarters, August testified, Pollard grabbed the barrel of the shotgun.

In the ensuing struggle for the weapon, August added, he pulled the trigger.

During closing arguments, the prosecutor accused August of lying. He pointed out that the defendant waited five days before finally admitting that he had killed one of the three victims, and then only after having filed two false reports.

Judges Are Told: 'Show Finances'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Chief Justice Earl Warren presiding, a 25-judge conference Tuesday forbade federal judges — but not Supreme Court justices — to accept loans, gifts, fees or "compensation of any kind" for off-bench activities.

The conference also directed all federal judges to file a statement of their investments and other assets annually.

The 25-judge conference met in a special session at Warren's direction. Its resolutions also called on a committee to draft legislation to insure the conference could enforce its orders.

The conference was called after public disclosures of Abe Fortas' relations with the Wolfson Family Foundation and his subsequent resignation from the Supreme Court.

Judge Robert A. Ainsworth Jr. of the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans and Ernest C. Friesen Jr., director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, discussed the deliberations with newsmen in a conference.

Ainsworth was chairman of an 11-judge committee that drafted proposals for the conference's consideration. He said they were adopted by "an overwhelming majority" with very little change.

Both Ainsworth and Friesen said the Judicial Conference has no authority over justices of the Supreme Court and that the 25 judges who make up the conference were fully aware of this.

The conference comprises, in addition to Warren, the chief judges of each of the 11 federal circuits, one district judge from each circuit and the ranking judges of the Claims Court and the Customs and Patent Appeals Court.

Chief Justice-designate Warren E. Burger declined an invitation to attend the conference. He is not a member.

Ainsworth said the ban on compensation does not include expenses.

The resolution requires a report on a calendar year's investments and assets by the following May 15. The first report is due next May 15.

Viet Cong Establishes Its Own 'Government'

HONG KONG (AP) — The Viet Cong announced Wednesday it had set up a "revolutionary government to rule Vietnam," a move that appeared aimed at consolidating a bargaining position at the Paris peace talks.

The announcement came in a special midnight broadcast by Hanoi radio. It linked the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front (NLF) and the "Alliance of National Democratic and Peace Forces" in what it called a "Republic of Vietnam Temporary Revolutionary Government."

The development was quickly confirmed by an NLF spokesman at the Paris talks. Allied officials in Paris said the move should be no surprise, that it fitted into a pattern of recent developments and was "another attempt of the front to negotiate with itself."

The alliance is another Viet Cong front. Its leaders in South Vietnam have been in hiding ever since it was formed more than a year ago.

While it avoids any overt association with communism, its statements, regularly broadcast by the Viet Cong radio, are virtually indistinguishable from those of the NLF itself.

The move comes against a background of North Vietnamese predictions that the United States eventually would desert its South Vietnamese ally in an American eagerness to withdraw from the costly war.

The front and the alliance have parallel organizations. Each is set up along the lines of a government, with committees assigned to specific government functions such as administration, defense, foreign affairs, education and so forth.

By setting up a "government," the NLF can seek diplomatic recognition from sympathetic governments and hope to support more strongly the Viet Cong claim to being the legitimate representative of the South Vietnamese people. It could then insist on speaking at Paris as an independent government entity. The United States and South Vietnam at Paris both claim that the NLF is a creature of the Communist North Vietnamese party and government and not a political entity in itself.

The announcement described the "revolutionary government" as having an administrative ruling unit backed by a special council of advisers. It said the government was formed over the weekend by a special meeting of 88 representatives from all parts of South Vietnam. The broadcast's tone suggested this structure would remain until a formal Viet Cong government could be established.

The broadcast said Nguyen Huu Tho and Trinh Dinh Thao, both lawyers who are the respective Presidium chairmen of the NLF and the alliance, were co-chairmen of the founding session. Either or both could occupy top positions in a government-type structure. Tran Buu Kiem, who now heads the NLF's delegation to the peace talks, is head of the front's foreign affairs committee and thus a prospective foreign minister. Other committee chiefs could occupy other "ministries."

U.S. Has Opened Door to Peace, President Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, returning from Midway, said Tuesday that by ordering withdrawal of 25,000 American soldiers from Vietnam the United States has "opened wide the door to peace."

If the Communists do not reciprocate, he said, "they must bear the responsibility for blocking the road."

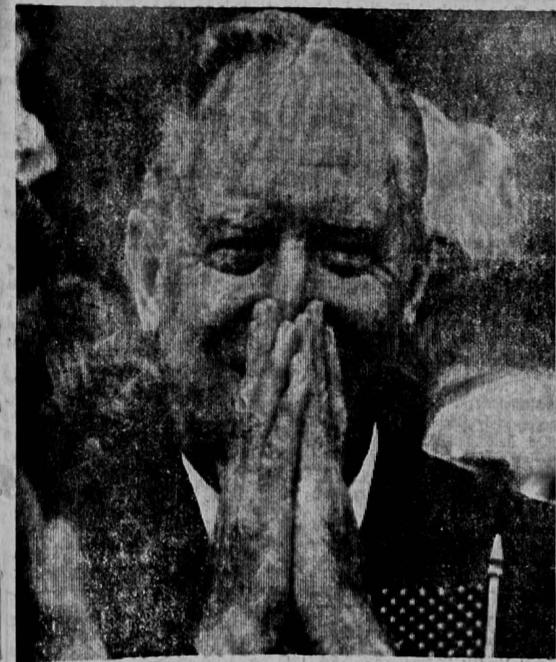

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam "completely approves and supports the eight-point peace program that I set forth in my May 14 speech to the nation," Nixon said.

The meeting with Thieu Sunday "brought home the message that the troops of South Vietnam have now been trained and equipped to the point where they can take over a substantial portion of the combat activity presently being borne by Americans," Nixon said.

"That meeting means that after five years, in which more and more Americans have been sent to Vietnam, we finally have reached the point where we can begin to bring Americans home from Vietnam."

But the President said, "This does not mean the war is over. There are negotiations still to be undertaken; there is fighting still to be done until we reach the point where we can have peace."

American troop strength in Vietnam presently is 538,000.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers stands among a crowd on the White House lawn Tuesday to welcome back President Nixon from California. Although Rogers went to the Midway summit conference with Nixon, Rogers flew back Sunday, while Nixon stopped in Hawaii and in California for two days. The President was greeted by about a 10,000 onlookers, who cheered and waved flags. — AP Wirephoto

It's not enough

No matter what one's political persuasion is, or opinion on the war in Vietnam, the announcement by President Nixon at the Midway conference last week of a withdrawal of 25,000 American troops must be greeted with extreme optimism.

And despite the pronouncement of administration and other government officials, and the editorial comments of leading U.S. newspapers, the withdrawal, scheduled to begin in 30 days, is nothing more than a gesture of tokenism, and mere tokenism at that.

Initial elation must be tempered by the sober realization that 25,000 out of a total force of 540,000 troops is not very much — in fact, it is nothing at all.

The total number of men scheduled to be withdrawn amounts to the equivalent of a full division with supporting units. But a complete division will, in all likelihood, not be called home. And most of these 25,000 will be drawn from the rear-echelon units, not the front-line combatants.

So often, actions such as the President's are analyzed with cold, detached logic and often under the assertion that we must keep the best interests of America in mind. An "honorable" solution to the Vietnam war is being equated as the only solution.

But war is not a happening to be viewed with cold detachment or a politician's voter-appeal logic. War is an emotional thing, especially to those who are thousands of miles from the scene.

We cannot look upon the President's action as being a step in the direction of peace. Too often we have been reminded of the Chinese proverb that "a journey of a thousand miles must begin with the first step." And he people get wearier and wearier.

A third view

By John Kim

Niccolo Machiavelli, up in the Heavens, was very concerned about the violent state of affairs on American campuses. To him, some of the college administrators were not efficient in handling their jobs, and he asked his sage, Mencius of China, to re-evaluate their qualities. Mencius began interviewing each administrator.

It was the turn of the Big Tens, and a "Gentleman from the Midwest" was called in for the oral test.

"How are you? What's the word?" Mencius.

"Well, I still remember one of your great teachings, sir, when I was a student of yours," the Gentleman answered.

"Is that right? What's that?" Then the Gentleman began reciting: "Man learns in early youth what he intends to practice in mature life. You say, 'I wonder how it would be if you abandon your doctrines and follow me.' But let us take the instance of a gem in the rough. Even if it costs thousands of dollars, it must be entrusted to the lapidary to have it hewn and polished.

"Then as to the governing of people, you recommend man to cast aside his creed in favor of yours. What difference is there between this and instructing the lapidary how to cut precious stones?"

"How pleased I am at your excellent memory. Do you find any practical application of the teaching?" asked Mencius.

"Of course, sir. I believe that administrators know how to run schools far better than students do. Quite often students try to tell us how to run, but it's like telling the lapidary how to cut precious stones," the Gentleman answered.

Impressed, Mencius asked, "Tell me how did you apply your theory in actual administration, Gentleman."

The former student of Mencius was glad, and started listing his achievements. He said, "First, I managed to get one of my most trusted friends appointed to the Presidency of the University as my successor. Students were invited in the process of selecting their future President, but they didn't know what to do."

Mencius was greatly interested. "Excellent, my dear student. What's next?"

"Then, I practically have a guarantee that a $6 million Recreation Center will be built at the expense of the 18,700 students. They are going to pay for it because their parents, so I didn't even ask them for their opinion at all," responded the Gentleman.

"And, then, it took only a few weeks for my office to draw a $73 million preliminary budget for 1969-70. When a student wanted to get information on the budget a few weeks ago, I couldn't give him any because it was not ready at that time."

Mencius interrupted, "That's marvelous! Is that all?"

"Oh, no. The biggest job I have ever done was to get the State Board of Regents to raise tuition for the coming year without actually raising the amount of money students are going to pay," answered the Gentleman, very proudly.

Confused, Mencius asked, "What does that mean?"

"It's as simple as ABC, sir. At the University, the tuition will be increased by $125 a semester on the average. But, officially, it is only a $62 increase, the rest being a surcharge. So, in a very significant sense, students are going to pay only $62 more for their tuition," snapped the Gentleman.

"Now, now. How clever you are! But, may I ask why you want more money?" came the question from Mencius.

The Gentleman was ever happier to explain. He said, "It's not me who is going to spend the money, my dearest teacher. My successor will need more money to keep the present quality of the faculty by maintaining a competitive salary scale. So I helped him."

"Wait a minute," inquired Mencius, a little confused again. "How do you know about the quality of your staff?"

"Oh, that, sir, we have a very simple way of checking it. Our faculty members grade each other," declared the Gentleman.

Extension of Surtax Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a warning that the country could be "close to runaway inflation," Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy appealed Tuesday for prompt extension of the 10 per cent surtax.

As Kennedy made his appeal in a news conference, the government announced a jump of eight-tenths of one per cent in the official wholesale price index. An unusually sharp jump in wholesale food prices last month, which is certain to spell further bad news in higher grocery prices later this summer, was blamed for the rise.

Prices of farm products climbed 4.6 per cent and processed foods and feeds prices rose 1.8 per cent in May, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

"This is an unusually sharp increase," said a spokesman for the bureau. "I'm a little bit mystified." The increase was substantially larger than an earlier estimate by the bureau, which has also consistently underestimated this year's rise in living costs — the sharpest in 18 years.

Questioned whether wage and price ceilings were possible if the surtax were allowed to expire at midyear and inflation worsens, Kennedy replied that "a lot of things are possible."

But government policy is against wage-price controls and he personally opposes them, Kennedy said. They are among the last-resort weapons, he suggested, adding, "We cannot allow a runaway inflation to develop in this country. We could be very close to that now."

Meanwhile, the capital's concern over inflation increased, and officials showed their concern over the apparently spreading sentiment in Congress against Nixon's request for extension of the 10 per cent surtax beyond its June 30 expiration date and against re-

Student Workers At Nursery Picket

By JOANNE WALTON

Six workers, two of them high school students employed under a work-study program, set up picket lines Monday at the Pleasant Valley Orchards and Nursery, 1301 S. Linn, protesting what they called unfair wages. One picket was reportedly a University student. The others were non-student workers.

The six began picketing shortly after noon and disbanded a little before 5 p.m., when the father of one of the high school youths and Robert Taylor, principal of City High, showed up at the Nursery. The other workers broke up the demonstration a short time later.

The owner of Pleasant Valley, Arie Q. Kroeze, declined to identify any of the demonstrators.

Kroeze said the workers had informed him Saturday night that they wanted higher wages or they would quit. He said he had discussed the issue with other shareholders in the business and they decided "not to give in to ultimatum."

Kroeze said he then called the workers and told them that if they wanted to show up for work on Monday with no stipulations, the matter of a raise would be taken under advisement. He said they refused those conditions, and he told two of them they didn't need to come in anymore.

By Monday morning, Kroeze said, he had called the Employment Agency and had found replacements for all six of the employees. The replacement workers were at work Monday when the picketers started their demonstration.

The two high school youths worked part-time at the nursery for $1.25 an hour. The other workers drew $2 and $2.25 an hour, Kroeze said.

The two worked as carry-out boys, made deliveries and did odd jobs at the nursery. The work-study program provides career training while working.

The high school students had been working at the nursery since February. One other of the workers was hired last week.

School credits are given for the work-study program, and employers turn in an evaluation of their student employees to school officials at the end of each term. Taylor said he had not received Kroeze's evaluation by Monday so he called to find out why. It was then that he learned of the picket line.

Taylor said he thought the cause of the demonstration was "evidently a misunderstanding."

"I don't think they (the high school youths) understood the seriousness of the situation," he said.

Taylor said that wages paid to students in the work-study program were arranged by them and the employer, with the assistance of the program coordinator in the school.

He said no disciplinary action would be taken against the two boys at this time. Kroeze said his business and its operation were not affected by the demonstration.

Brennan Gives Up Teaching Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan Jr. has quit his teaching post at a summer seminar for judges, it was learned Tuesday.

Brennan quit the faculty of the Appellate Judges' Seminar, held annually at New York University since 1956, 10 days to two weeks ago, the director, Prof. Robert Leflar, told a reporter.

Leflar, a University of Arkansas law professor, spoke in a telephone interview from Little Rock.

Leflar said he understood Brennan is severing all off-the-bench activities "except his membership in his church."

The nonjudicial affiliations of Supreme Court justices has been a subject of scrutiny and controversy since Abe Fortas's relations with the Wolfson Family Foundation were exposed last month. Fortas subsequently quit the court.

The seminar director said Chief Justice-designate Warren E. Burger is scheduled to continue on the faculty this summer.

However, Leflar said, he understood Burger will drop out also if the U.S. Judicial Conference calls for restrictions on such activities.

The conference, the 25-member policymaking arm of the

Evans Sank In a Hurry, Sailor Says

DES MOINES (AP) — The screech of ripping metal awakened a young Iowa sailor moments before he was hurled out of his bunk onto the deck of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans, which was until then cruising peacefully through a tranquil night on the South China Sea.

By the time the sailor, Boller E-C Jimmy Davis, 21, of Oskaloosa, picked himself up and made his way to the main deck, part of the ship, cut in two by the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne, had sunk.

Davis, who arrived home Tuesday for a 30-day leave, said Tuesday that several of his closest buddies went down with the bow of the ship after the collision June 3.

"I couldn't believe it," Davis said. "It was only three or four minutes from the time I heard the noise until I got to the deck."

"Only part of the ship was left when I got there. They went down with it. I don't think they ever knew what hit them."

For the next few minutes, Davis and the other 197 survivors concentrated on getting off the mangled ship.

The young Oskaloosan climbed into a cargo net thrown to the Evans' crewmen from the carrier.

"There was no panic at all," Davis said. "In some way or another we all got onto the carrier. Everybody was off in about 30 minutes."

Seventy-four persons were killed in the collision. Davis said the surviving crewmen were given no official explanation for the collision, which still is under investigation.

Local Youths To Clean Part Of City Friday

A "clean-in" of four square blocks in the downtown area here will be conducted Friday evening by local junior and senior high school students.

The students, members of a local youth group called Young Life, will begin ridding the streets and allies of dirt and litter at 5:30.

The four-block area to be cleaned is bounded by Iowa Avenue, and Linn, Clinton and College streets.

Each student will bring his own broom and shovel. The city will provide trucks and fire hoses to wash down dirty areas.

The city and members of Project GREEN, a local group that plans beautification projects for the city, are cooperating with members of Young Life in the project.

Students will be assigned to work crews according to the school they attend. They will meet at the parking lot next to the Hotel Burkely, 9 E. Washington St. before beginning.

Young Life will also sponsor a dance in the same parking lot from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. following the "clean-in." A band and refreshments will be part of the entertainment.

U.S. Bombers Strike Northwest of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The air war over South Vietnam intensified Tuesday, as U.S. B52 bombers pounded enemy positions in the central highlands and northwest of Saigon.

Seven of 10 missions announced by the U.S. Command were flown northwest of Saigon, where heavy fighting raged last week between allied and North Vietnamese forces.

Other missions were flown in Tay Ninh Province bordering Cambodia, from which at least one enemy division began heavy infiltration last week, only to be mauled by U.S. and South Vietnamese infantrymen, air strikes and artillery.

The U.S. Command said the B52s pounded "base camps, enemy activity, bunker complexes and weapons positions."

The closest strike to Saigon was 64 miles northwest of the capital.

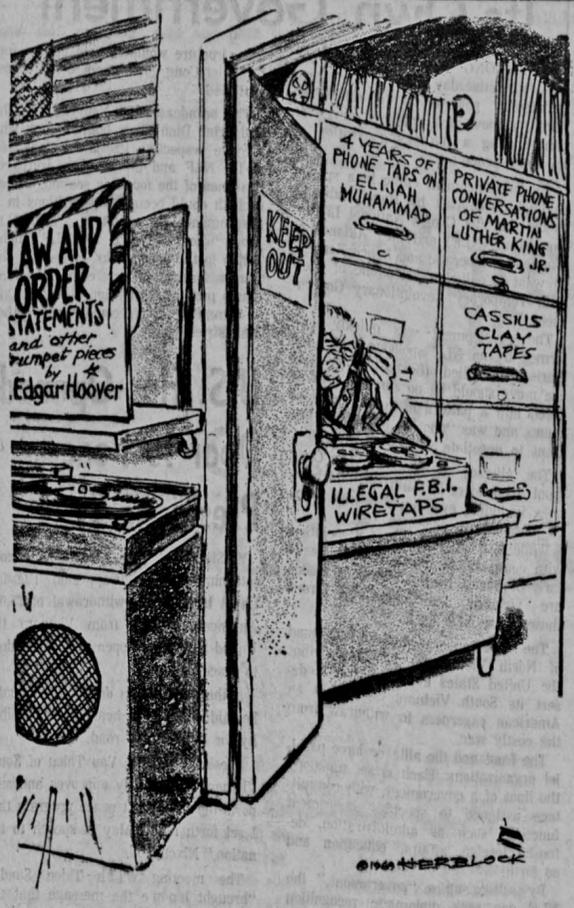

Two of the raids were 18 to 19 miles northwest of Tay Ninh City, where U.S. troops riding on tanks and armored personnel carriers killed 66 enemy soldiers Monday in two sharp fights that cost six U.S. dead and 34 wounded.

Fifty-one of the enemy dead were killed in a fight that flared when troops of the 25th Infantry Division ran into an unknown size North Vietnamese force 11 miles east of Tay Ninh City.

The 15 others were killed in a fight three miles farther east with troops of the 1st Air Cavalry Division and an element of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment.

Elsewhere, there were other flareups of ground fighting and mortar and rocket attacks across South Vietnam after a 24-hour lull that had followed four days of heavy fighting last week.

The U.S. Command reported Tuesday that a two-day battle between U.S. Marines and North Vietnamese soldiers 21 miles southwest of Da Nang cost the enemy 186 dead. U.S. losses were six Marines killed and 38 wounded.

School Board, Builders Differ on Bids

By SHARON WATKINS
A $58,000 difference between the city architect's estimate and the apparent low bid on a three-school remodeling project was revealed at the Iowa City Community Board of Education meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Burger Construction Co., Iowa City, submitted the next highest commercial bid, $379,889. The other bidder, Schorr Construction Co. of Lisbon, Iowa, bid a total of $384,885.

A school-by-school breakdown of Burger's and Schorr's bids was as follows:
• Henry Longfellow School: Burger, $135,268; Schoff, $131,374.
• Horace Mann School: Burger, $137,071; Schoff, $139,800.

• Henry Sabin School: Burger, $107,550; Schoff, $113,711.

Repair work on the schools will include repainting, floor work, installation of movable walls and general repairs.

In other action, the board agreed to purchase six window air conditioners for use in the West High School administrative offices, at a total cost of $1,200.

Board Pres. H. W. Piro announced that candidates for the position of school superintendent were tentatively scheduled to be in Iowa City in mid-July. A committee to interview the candidates will be chosen shortly. Buford

County Welfare Bill Totals $1.3 Million

A total of $1.3 million was paid out in benefits in Johnson County for social welfare during the period of September, 1966, to November, 1968.

However, of $1.3 million, $1.2 million was matching funds from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and appropriations from the State Legislature. Johnson County's share of the $1.3 million was $113,000. This was paid out of tax money.

The benefits were paid in Johnson County through programs of Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to Disabled, Aid to Dependent Children and through related medical assistance programs.

The welfare figure was included in a recent county audit, a summary of which was released recently by the State Department of Social Services.

The figures cover welfare benefits only, not salaries to county welfare employees or other administrative costs. The audit on finances of the county's Department of Social Services was conducted by a representative of the Iowa Social Services Department.

Orioles Roll Over California, 11-4

BALTIMORE — Paul Blair and Boog Powell, continuing their hot hitting streaks, combined to drive in seven runs and lead the Baltimore Orioles to an 11-4 victory over the California Angels Tuesday night.

Blair, with two doubles and a single, drove in four runs to give him 10 RBI's in the last four games while Powell increased his total to 32 in the last 26 games with a three-run homer.

Despite the early onslaught against loser Rudy May, 2-7, and Bob Priddy which built up an 11-0 lead, Baltimore starter Tom Phoebus didn't stick around long enough to gain the decision.

Varsity Golf

Phil Aldridge, Jim Carney, Tom Lightner, Brad Schuchat, Bob Mulert, Brian Shepley and Jim Stopulos.

Cards Down Reds

CINCINNATI — Vada Pinson's eighth-inning double scored Lou Brock with the deciding run Tuesday night as the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Cincinnati Reds 5-4.

Brock opened the eighth with a single off reliever Clay Carroll, stole second and continued to third on catcher Johnny Bench's throwing error. Pinson then doubled off the center field fence, giving Bob Gibson and the Cardinals a 5-2 lead.

The Reds, who had won 12 of their previous 14 games, closed within one run in the eighth, when Pete Rose singled and ex-Cardinal Bob Tolian tagged Gibson for his 10th homer.

Curt Flood made a spectacular, leaping catch of Ted Savage's drive against the center field wall to end the game with the tying run on second.

Gibson allowed eight hits in going all the way to his eighth victory against three losses.

NEW YORK — Billy Casper, winner of the Western Open Golf Championship Sunday, has vaulted into fourth place among money winners on the pro tour, according to figures released Tuesday by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

Casper, who previously was 12th on the money-winning list, brought his total to $78,259 for 13 tournaments, moving up behind the big three — Gene Littler, Lee Trevino and Gary Player.

Littler sat out the Western Open but still leads with $101,638, followed by Trevino at $83,442 and Player at $79,241.

Trevino Feels No Pressure As Defending Open Champ

HOUSTON — The challenge of becoming the first golfer to win successive Open titles since Ben Hogan pulled the feat in 1950-51, fails to shake up the tacos in Lee Trevino's Mexican-attuned stomach.

"I don't get pumped up too much for any tournament," the loquacious Latin said Tuesday after checking in at the Champions Club for defense of his U.S. title.

"I'm not afraid of anybody and yet I'm afraid of everybody. I leave it all to the Man Upstairs. He has got it all figured out anyhow. I go out and play as well as I can and hope for the best.

"I'll tell you this. If I come up to the finishing holes Sunday in a good position, I know I can win."

Trevino, 29, a self-styled one-time hustler who burst upon the big time golfing scene a couple years ago, flew into Houston Tuesday from his home in El Paso, Tex., after firing a 65 in an exhibition Monday in Gary, Ind.

He was full of exuberance and words, which he hopes to translate into golf shots Thursday when he tees off against 149 rivals in what is rated the toughest and most prestigious tournament in golf.

Trevino, who used to make eating money by using a pop bottle instead of a club to out-play suckers, said he feels the 6,967 yard, par 70 Cypress Creek layout — with its ten water holes, thick clumps of trees, sand and snakes — is patterned for his game.

"I am a fade hitter and this is a faders' course because Jack Burke and Jimmy Demaret, who designed it, are faders."

Giles Instructs NL Umps To Crack Down on Spitters

CINCINNATI — Warren Giles, National League president, instructed league umpires Tuesday to crack down on pitchers who may be applying directed them to call for the ball if they suspect such substances are being applied. If there is no actual evidence on the ball, it, nevertheless, is to be taken out of play.

If the umpire is convinced there has been a foreign substance applied to the ball the pitcher "shall immediately be removed from the game."

Giles also warned that "if the above ruling does not control or eliminate the illegal practice of applying a foreign substance to a ball, a more severe penalty will be necessary."

Cubs Top Braves

ATLANTA — Pinch hitter Willie Smith and Ron Santo slammed eighth-inning home runs Tuesday night, powering the Chicago Cubs to a 3-1 victory over Atlanta in a battle of the National League division leaders.

Smith hit a towering drive into the right field stands and became the first player to hit a homer into the upper deck of Atlanta Stadium. Santo then cracked a two-run shot into the left field stands, driving in Billy Williams.

Many Possibilities For 20-Win Circle By AL, NL Hurlers

NEW YORK — They lowered the pitching mound, sliced the strike zone and brought in the fences to help the hitters but an army of potential 20-game winners is marching down the pike.

With approximately one-third of the season over, there are 19 pitchers in the majors who already have won at least seven games. Six of them will hit No. 10 with their next victory.

Everybody said it would be impossible for Detroit's Denny McLain to win 30 again. It still looks almost impossible, but the Tiger right-hander already is 9-5 a year ago at this stage he was 9-2.

The 20-win club of 1968 numbered seven members. They were McLain, Mel Stottlemyre of the New York Yankees, Dave McNally of Baltimore and Luis Tiant of Cleveland in the American League and Fergie Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs, Bob Gibson of St. Louis and Juan Marichal of San Francisco in the National League. Marichal is a little off the pace with 6-2 this year because of injuries. Only Tiant, a right-hander who was left at the post and is only 3-7 at this stage, is out of the running as a repeater.

The Los Angeles Dodgers could wind up with three 20-game winners and none of them would be Don Drysdale, who still is on the disabled list. Claude Osteen, 8-4, Don Sutton, 8-4, and Bill Singer, 7-5, all have a shot.

Baltimore might even make it a quartet if the Orioles keep on rolling. In addition to McNally, 8-0, they have Jim Palmer, 7-3, and Tom Phoebus, 6-1, and Mike Cuellar 6-5, within striking distance. McNally had a 14-2 record in the second half of last season after the All-Star game.

The high-flying Chicago Cubs could wind up with a pair in Jenkins, already 8-3, and Ken Holtzman, 9-1.

Gibson is just barely keeping a 20-win schedule with 7-3, but Tom Seaver, the strong right arm of the straining New York Mets, is almost half way home at 9-3 and Phil Niekro, Atlanta's knuckleball artist, is 9-4.

Gaylord Perry of the San Francisco Giants is out in front of Marichal, his high-salaried teammate, with an 8-5 mark and Larry Dierker of the Houston Astros is up there with 8-4. The list of potentials even includes a relief man, Clay Carroll of Cincinnati at 7-3.

"Blue Moon" Odom of the Oakland A's is rolling along at 7-3 and Ken Boswell of the Minnesota Twins must be given a chance at 7-6.

Although the New York Yankees are bobbing around the .500 mark, Manager Ralph Houk has two prime candidates for the 20-club in Stottlemyre, 9-4, and Fritz Peterson, 8-6.

NHL Selects Eight Players From Minor League Teams

MONTREAL — Seven National Hockey League teams paid out $240,000 for eight players from the American and Western Hockey Leagues Tuesday in the annual interleague draft.

The asking price for each player chosen is $30,000.

The Pittsburgh Penguins drafted Nick Harbaruk, right winger, from the Vancouver Canucks of the WHL and forward Sandy McGregor, right winger, from the Baltimore Clippers of the AHL.

Vancouver lost two more players as the Minnesota North Stars picked defenseman Darryl Sly, 30, and the Philadelphia Flyers chose left winger Bob Barlow.

The Chicago Black Hawks drafted forward Bill Saunders from the Portland Buckaroos of the WHL.

The Detroit Red Wings reached out to the AHL Hershey Bears for forward Chuck Hamilton, and the Oakland Seals took defenseman Jerry Lafond from the Providence Reds of the AHL.

The Montreal Canadiens took Bob Pate from the Denver Spurs of the WHL.

Shortly after the draft concluded, Barlow was dealt to the North Stars by Philadelphia for the $30,000 draft price and future considerations.

You get a little over $4.00 for every $3.00 you invest.

And that's nothing to sneeze at.

Some people have misconceptions about Savings Bonds. They think they're a nice, safe investment but they don't really give much in the way of returns. Look at it this way. U.S. Savings Bonds now pay 4 1/2% interest when held to maturity — a little over $4.00 back for every $3.00 you invest, in just seven years. On top of that, the interest is exempt from state or local income tax, and Federal tax may be deferred until you cash the Bonds. That can make a real difference in what you actually get back on your investment. Also, buying Series E Bonds lets you purchase higher interest Freedom Shares in combination — and they pay a full 5% when held to maturity of four and one-half years. Any way you look at it, Savings Bonds are a good investment. And you know something? They always will be.
