

Case Sealed in Court

The first conviction of a man named Williams, 10, to the Iowa Supreme Court.

Police said two persons dressed as police officers and armed with machine guns tied up two watchmen at the suburban GM center, then sprayed offices and automobiles with a hose attached to a gasoline pump.

Pamphlets found at the scene protested the visit of "the agent of Yankee imperialism, Nelson Rockefeller," and accused GM of having sold cars to the police "for the repression of Uruguayan students."

The attack topped off a wave of agitation here that has been growing with the approach of Rockefeller's visit.

Police said a dozen fire bombings had been committed Thursday night and early Friday, most aimed at firms connected with U.S. interests.

Rockefeller delayed his arrival in Uruguay from Friday until Saturday and instead of meeting with Uruguayan President Jorge Pacheco Areco in the capital of Montevideo will confer with him at the seaside resort of Punta del Este, about 100 miles east of here.

Terrorists Burn Uruguayan Plant To Protest Rocky

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Terrorists attacked a General Motors (GM) building here Friday, setting fire to the structure and causing damage estimated at $1 million.

The attack came as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York conferred with officials in Paraguay. He is due in Uruguay Saturday — the day was changed from Friday — on the third leg of his Latin-American fact-finding tour.

The attack was attributed to elements of the clandestine Tupamaros National Liberation Movement, a Peking-influenced terrorist group.

Police said two persons dressed as police officers and armed with machine guns tied up two watchmen at the suburban GM center, then sprayed offices and automobiles with a hose attached to a gasoline pump.

Appropriations Not OK, Legislators Say

By LOWELL FORTE (C) 1969 The Daily Iowan

State legislators Friday had more to say about Gov. Robert D. Ray's recent statement that University representatives had told a legislative subcommittee this spring that the University "could live with" the then intended state appropriations.

These appropriations later passed the Legislature.

Ray told The Daily Iowan Thursday that the representatives had asked that any additional available funds be added to the capital improvement funds instead of to general education funds.

He said he thought that the Legislature had recognized the needs of the University in its appropriations and that the subsequent 60 per cent tuition increase had "upset" many people, including himself.

Two members of the subcommittee Ray mentioned said Friday that they could not remember any time when representatives from any of the three state universities had said it would be unnecessary to raise tuitions.

The subcommittee is called the Higher Education Appropriations Subcommittee, with members from both the House and Senate. It is a subcommittee of the General Appropriations Committee.

One of the members, Sen. Allan Shirley (D-Perry), said that University Pres. Howard R. Bowen was specifically asked what would happen if Ray's budget recommendation was passed without substantial increase.

He quoted Bowen as saying, "Years of institutional building would be destroyed."

Shirley charged that the legislature was "just passing the buck" on the blame for the tuition increase.

Rep. Joseph Johnston (D-Iowa City), also a member of the subcommittee, said he thought it had been clearly indicated that without additional funds from the Legislature, it would be necessary to raise tuition.

Johnston also charged that legislators were passing the buck. He said that any claims that tuition increases were not expected were "outright lies."

People making such claims, said Johnston, "either weren't listening or didn't want to."

In fact, Johnston said, he had proposed in committee an amendment to the appropriations bill that would have added to the state appropriations $100 a student, to lessen the chances for a large tuition increase.

The amendment was defeated, said Johnston. He added that he had proposed a similar amendment on the floor of the House. That amendment, which would have authorized additional funding at the rate of $75 a student, was voted down.

Sen. Minnette Doderer (D-Iowa City) had earlier proposed in committee a similar amendment, which used the $100 amount a student. That too was defeated.

Mrs. Doderer said that the legislators never figured students or tuition increases to be anything significant.

In fact, she said, many legislators had said, "It was about time for those kids to pay more for their education."

There was one amendment being considered that would have required students to pay a certain percentage of the actual cost of their education, she stated.

Iowa State University Pres. W. R. Parks said Friday night that he had never made any statement to the effect that the universities "could live with" the state appropriations.

Referring to Ray's statement that the legislature was asked to allocate any extra funds capital improvements, Parks said, "We did indicate that capital improvements was an area of emergency and crisis."

Parks said there was a risk of losing up to $17 million in federal matching funds if the legislature failed to appropriate enough money to capital improvements.

He said that Ray had recommended a $2 million capital improvement appropriation for the next biennium for all regents institutions.

At least $3 million, in cash, and an authorization to borrow an additional $10 million, was needed to save the matching federal funds, Regents financial records show.

As time went on, it became clear to him (Ray), said Parks, that the recommended $2 million would not be enough, so he told the Legislature that $4.5 was more feasible.

Even that amount was not sufficient to save the federal funds, said Parks.

"The regents institutions needed at least a $7 million" total capital improvement appropriation, he said.

The original appropriation request made by the regents in a bound volume dated June 13, 1968, recommended that the Legislature appropriate $34 million to capital improvements for all regent institutions.

The $7 million amount was finally granted, but not until the final week of the session, said Parks.

Although the federal matching funds were saved, Bowen has stated that the University is "not yet out of the woods." He said that difficulties might arise if construction cost estimates fell short of actual construction costs.

University of Northern Iowa Pres. J. W. Mauker was unavailable for comment Friday night.

"Because of the tuition increases at the three state universities, the Legislative Interim Committee voted Wednesday to study the financial practices of the universities."

Sens. Joseph Flatt (R-Winterset) and Francis Messerly (R-Cedar Falls), members of the Interim Committee, requested the study and also expressed desires to investigate student and faculty activities on the campuses.

Messerly had said he was concerned particularly about the Students for Democratic Society (SDS) chapters on each of the three campuses.

It was the consensus of those interviewed Friday that a financial review of the institutions could be a good thing. But all hoped that any investigations would not deal with student or faculty activities.

Parks, who said he preferred to refer to any Interim Committee activity as a study, said, "The legislators have the legitimate power and right to investigate expenditures of money they appropriate."

Parks added that he hoped "the studies would not take the tone of student-faculty activities investigations."

Shirley said, "It could be Joe McCarthy all over again if Messerly calls everyone in SDS a Communist."

He said he would rather see the Interim Committee spend some money and hire some experts to study the financial procedures of the universities "rather than a bunch of glory hounds go witch-hunting."

Johnston pointed out that he could not see anything particularly wrong with the studies, "if they are done properly."

Bowen issued the following statement Friday concerning the Interim Committee's decision to study the University's finances:

"I would expect a study of the three state universities by the General Assembly of Iowa to be fair and enlightened. This state has a long and enviable record of public regard for its institutions of higher education, and has conspicuously rejected anti-intellectualism or assaults on the integrity of its institutions of higher education."

"Governor Ray reaffirmed this position in his inaugural address when he said 'I shall use every resource at my command to protect the universities from any infringement of their ancient freedoms which academic communities must have if they are to fulfill their promise to mankind.'"

"Iowa is fortunate to have three splendid state universities. These institutions have been managed over many years with regard for efficiency of operation consistent with the academic excellence which the people of Iowa have demanded for their sons and daughters. We at the University would welcome a fair and enlightened study of our programs and finances. We do not claim perfection, but we are confident that such a study would confirm the high opinion in which the University has long been held by the people of this state."

Bias Hearing Set In Housing Case

By G. T. WESTLY

The Iowa City Human Relations Commission will hold a public hearing on July 2 dealing with a complaint of racial discrimination in an Iowa City apartment building.

The Commission claims that Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Coppock of Cedar Rapids, owners of an apartment building at 804 N. Dubuque St., discriminated against three black students by refusing to rent an apartment to them last month.

The students are Kimberly Reeves, A3, Des Moines; Carol Jones, A1, Davenport, and Sharon Curry, A1, Kansas City.

The City Council voted Tuesday night to set up the hearing after receiving the complaint, the first formal complaint from the Human Relations Commission in the Commission's five-year history.

Mitchell A. Greene, Commission chairman, said Friday this was the first time the commission was not able to negotiate a settlement without having to issue a formal complaint to the City Council.

Greene said Mrs. Coppock had refused to rent the women an apartment until they each produced a $50 deposit and three letters of reference. In his two years on the Commission, Greene said, it was new to him that references were required.

John Crane, assistant city manager, said that requiring letters of reference was a common method of discriminating. He said demanding references was a way of finding out whether the applicant was black or white.

Crane said that in other cases in which it is known that the applicant is black, — such as the pending case — demanding references is a way of keeping black applicants out of the building.

One current occupant of the Coppock building said she was required to put down a $50 deposit, but refused to indicate whether references were demanded. Other occupants of the building could not be reached.

Greene said the girls complied by supplying a $50 deposit and nine letters of reference. He said Mrs. Coppock later refused to let the women put their belongings in the building's storage room. The women then complained to Greene.

When he called Mrs. Coppock, Greene said, she told him she wouldn't allow the women to live in the apartment building.

Greene then sent Mrs. Coppock a letter asking her to appear before the Human Relations Commission; he said, when she did not comply, he filed a formal complaint to the City Council.

City Atty. Jay Honohan will conduct the prosecution at the public hearing. The hearing, which will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center, will be judged by members of the Human Relations Commission.

If the complaint still stands following the hearing, the commission could order the couple to end the alleged discrimination. If this order is not followed the City Council could take the matter to court.

Fishing industry sources said the patrol boat that used its guns in the Friday seizure was the Guyaquil. Jane's Fighting Ships says the Guyaquil is a former U.S. Coast Guard cutter transferred to Ecuador in 1965 under a U.S. military assistance program.

There were no reports of injury from the gunfire.

Senate Leaders Call For Definite Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Democratic leaders said Friday they accept President Nixon's Vietnam troop withdrawal statements as a definite commitment and expect to hold him to it.

Nixon told a news conference Thursday night that he hoped to better a proposal for pulling out 100,000 U.S. troops this year and the remainder by the end of 1970.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes (D-Iowa) in his maiden Senate speech, urged Nixon to adopt the Clifford time-table of troop withdrawals.

"It could be made clear that this was not an immutable schedule into which the leadership would be frozen, but a declaration of solid intention that would clear the atmosphere," Hughes said. "The withdrawal of 25,000 troops has not served this purpose."

He endorsed a proposal by Cyrus R. Vance, former negotiator at the Paris peace conference, for a standstill ceasefire in Vietnam.

Hughes, who broke with former President Lyndon B. Johnson on the Vietnam war when he was governor of Iowa, said he did not doubt Nixon's "deep commitment to peace."

But he added, "I never doubted Mr. Johnson's passion for peace either."

Disclaiming any partisanship, Hughes said, "We are not trying to force decisions on the President. We are trying to suggest the options open to him and to urge that he take action along the lines of his choice toward the common objective of ending this war."

"I hope this schedule can be met," Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said. "I will certainly support the President in carrying it out."

Asst. Democratic Leader Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts said he thought the President made "a definite commitment that ought to be carried out. I hope that it can be carried out and I would support it."

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the acting Republican leader, called Nixon's assessment and his criticism of former Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford "quite proper."

Clifford suggested the pullout of 100,000 troops this year and complete withdrawal by the end of 1970. Nixon said that Clifford had a chance to put this schedule in effect but did not move on it.

"What the President said, in effect, was that we are doing what they (the Johnson administration) could not, or didn't do," Scott said.

Air Controllers Lessen Delays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flying travelers on Friday had nothing to grumble about except the usual weekend rush as the nation's air traffic cops regained their health en masse and sent airliners winging on schedule again.

After a hectic Thursday when hundreds of flights were canceled and delays of one to three hours were the rule, traffic controllers ended a slowdown aimed at dramatizing their demands for more help and more equipment.

"People who have been calling in asking for sick leave have suddenly gotten well," said a supervisor at the air traffic control center for the Chicago area.

Bases OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Spain Friday extended their 1953 defense agreement for another two years permitting this country the further use of three air and one naval base in Spain.

The new two-year term started Sept. 26, 1968 when the old agreement expired and will accordingly end on Sept. 26, 1970. Meanwhile a joint statement said, "The two governments will use this period to determine the new relationship of cooperation between the two countries that would follow the present agreement."

Funds Denied

NEW YORK (AP) — Key officials of the United Church of Christ issued a flat "no" Friday to reparation demands of black militant James Forman, but proposed plans to expand church efforts for racial justice.

They said the church "rejects demands from any source that are accompanied by threats of violence and reprisals" — such as those expressed in the "black manifesto" being pressed by Forman.

The firm turn-down came at the end of a week of sit-in demonstrations and other disruptive tactics led by Forman in offices of the 2-million member denomination, causing many of the offices to shut down.

Rhodesians Vote

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime won approval from Rhodesian voters Friday to make this secessionist British territory a republic and perpetuate white minority control.

Unofficial returns from 33 of 50 constituencies showed 42,558 yes votes and 3,728 ballots marked no on the question of establishing a republic free of ties to the British crown, and 37,934 yes and 14,272 no votes on the constitutional revisions for white rule to continue.

Smith said the outcome should be "a strong statement to the world . . . It shows Rhodesians have their heads screwed on right."

The referendum was the first chance for voters to act since Smith announced Rhodesia was freeing itself from British control on Nov. 11, 1965.

This country, rich in minerals, tobacco and grain crops, is almost as big as California. It has 4.4 million Africans and about 237,000 whites. There are 90,000 eligible voters, of whom 10,000 are not white.

SDS Meets

CHICAGO (AP) — Factional caucuses occupied delegates to the convention of Students for a Democratic Society Friday morning and continued into the evening. They ranged from women delegates who discussed what should be done about what they considered the male-supremacy point of view that dominates SDS to a group discussing the preaching of revolution in the Army.

Mental Health Center Plans Delayed by County Boards

By KAREN GOOD

Plans for a joint-four county mental health center to be located here are still in limbo despite supporters' optimism that a budget for the center would be made final Friday morning.

Steering committee members, including representatives from the four counties — Johnson, Cedar, Iowa and Washington — involved in the planning for the center, met with the Boards of Supervisors of those four counties Friday morning at the Johnson County Courthouse.

Steering committee members who have been working on plans for the center for nearly two years had anticipated that the supervisors would make final budget allocations for the center Friday.

However, the Washington County board members at the meeting said they thought they could not give the program their support until their part of the program's budget—$14,500 — had been discussed with one of their members who is now on vacation.

Board members from the other three counties agreed that they were ready to approve their portions of the budget, but did not want to be committed until Washington County supervisors had accepted the plans.

A steering committee spokesman, Brooks W. Booker, University director of conferences and institutes, said the committee had estimated a first year operating budget of $86,000 for the health center.

He told the supervisors that each county's allocation for the building would be determined on a per capita basis.

Thus, Johnson County, with a population almost triple that of the other three, would foot $43,000 of the budget, and each of the other three counties would provide $14,500.

Steering committee members told the supervisors that if the budget allocations were made final, the committee was planning to rent the first floor of the Davis Hotel, 323 E. Washington, for the center.

Booker explained that the location would be a good one because it is across the street from a new city parking lot currently under construction.

Steering committee members have set July 8 as a tentative date for their next joint meeting.

Washington County supervisors assured the committee members present that they would try to reach a decision on their share of the budget before that date.

Steering committee member Herbert L. Nelson, director of the State Mental Health Authority, said that if the supervisors approved the budget for the program by July 8, he thought the mental health center could be operating by Sept. 1.

Need for More Control Of Inflation Seen

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — The U.S. government may have to exact forced savings from Americans to pay government bills unless more is done to stop inflation, William McChesney Martin declared Friday.

Martin, chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board, told a closing session of the American Bankers Association monetary conference here he was not predicting a collapse of the U.S. economy, as he had before, but he insisted on the need for an even slower pace than foreseen by President Nixon's policies.

"If we get inflation as a way of life, we may get government moves toward forced savings," he said. "I agree these are fighting words."

He indicated that one form of forced savings could be higher taxes, but he declined to define his term any further.

Newsmen asked Martin after his talk to the bankers how a U.S. government could exact forced savings from the people. He replied by citing an experience he had had in the Soviet Union. He said he asked Soviet officials how they would pay for a huge hydroelectric dam and they told him they simply would take it from the people.

He indicated that deflation would bring unemployment but declined to speculate how much.

Local Man Killed in Ankeny As He Flees from Police

An Iowa City man suspected of robbery was killed and another suspect injured Friday morning when the car in which they were fleeing from police slammed into a squad car that had been pursuing them near Ankeny.

Dead is Stephen Arthur Hamlin, 29, 425 Highway 1 West. A man who gave his name as Harry Swartz, 27, of Cedar Rapids, was hospitalized at Broadlawn Polk County Hospital. The man later said his real name was John Edward Young. He was charged with robbery with aggravation.

The chase began after two Des Moines taverns and a pizza parlor reported they had been robbed by two gunmen.

Ankeny police spotted the getaway car from witnesses' descriptions and chased it. Patrolman Robert Wagner reported that the car's occupants fired at him as he pursued them north on Highway 69.

Wagner said the car turned east onto a dead-end gravel road about three miles north of Ankeny.

Wagner's partner, Robert Priest, got out of the squad car near the end of the road, thinking the suspects would abandon their car and flee on foot.

Instead, Wagner said, the men turned around and tried to run Priest down, then sped back west.

Wagner, who was driving the squad car, said, "The only thing I could think of was getting them stopped. I didn't have time to set the car up as a roadblock, as I had planned. I set the car right down the middle of the road, thinking they'd either have to ram me or go in the ditch."

"I could see him turn the wheels to the right. On the gravel, he broadsided right into the front of the car."

Wagner was not injured. Police found two sacks of money in the car and a large sum of money on Hamlin's person.

Damage Suit Filed Against Lone Tree

LONE TREE — A Lone Tree man, alleging that he was dragged from his auto repair shop and beaten by the husband of the town clerk while a town councilman looked on, has filed a $100,000 damage suit against the town.

The man, Ronald King, who operates the King Body Shop in Lone Tree, stated in his claim that James Hartsock, husband of the town clerk, came to the shop on April 23, pulled him outside and physically assaulted him.

His claim also stated that Robert Pennebaker, a Lone Tree councilman, sat in Hartsock's car and watched as King was being assaulted. According to King's claim, Pennebaker was present at the incident as a member of the council, and with implied "knowledge and consent of the Town Council."

Both Pennebaker and Hartsock said Friday night that Pennebaker's presence was "purely coincidental" and not related to his position as a councilman.

TO THE GRADUATING COLLEGE SENIOR

Ever think you'd be good at selling life insurance? Mutual fundings? Investment counseling? Or did you ever wish you could sell all three?

We're one of the few who is now in all three. And I'm ready to offer the right man an executive sales opportunity. Selling broad-spectrum financial planning to individuals and businesses. Representing a first-rate $3-billion company. With a training salary up to $1,000.00 a month plus opportunities for additional income. And prospects high in the five-figure range.

If this sounds like your thing, write Box 304, Daily Iowan. We'd like to hear from you.
