

High Winds, Heavy Rain Hit Iowa City

A severe thunderstorm and 62-mile-an-hour winds buffeted Iowa City Thursday night, resulting in fallen tree limbs and several power outages — including one that shut lights off in the city police station for a time.

Cars were damaged and streets blocked by the fallen limbs.

Police barricaded the alley behind the Post Office, 28 S. Linn St., after a 4160-power line was blown down.

Also, an electric pole outside the Fire Station located in the Civic Center, was struck by lightning. A power company truck in route to repair it became entangled in live wire dangling from the pole. However, no injury or damage to the truck was reported.

Electricity went out at the Police Station at 9:41 p.m. and the station was still on auxiliary power and walkie-talkie communications when The Daily Iowan went to press.

Oakdale Sanitarium was without power from 7:40 to 8:40 p.m., and Veterans Hospital reported "flickering lights." However none of the other hospitals experienced power failure.

College Street and Butler Bridge on Highway 218 were blocked by fallen trees, and a tree and electric wire were down for a time at the corner of Gilbert Street and Iowa Avenue.

A car parked in the 500-block of College Street incurred major damage when it was struck by a tree, and there were numerous other reports of limbs and rubble falling on cars.

A tornado watch was in effect for the area until 2 a.m. this morning. One funnel cloud was spotted by a policeman in southeast Iowa City at 7:52 p.m. but it did not touch down. Several other persons informed authorities that they had seen funnel-shaped clouds elsewhere but none of these reports was confirmed.

Only one traffic accident had been attributed to the storm at press time. That accident occurred at about 9 p.m., when two cars collided head-on on Interstate 80 near the Howard Johnson restaurant. Damage to the cars was said to be major, but no injuries were reported.

Power lines were put out of commission in parts of downtown Iowa City and street lights at some intersections stopped working for a time. Road signs were also down in some residential areas.

Water was reported to be washing over Riverside Drive shortly before 11 p.m. and clogged drains at corners of Clinton and Dubuque Streets resulted in "minor flooding," but neither thoroughway was cut off from use.

There was no indication at press time as to how much rain had fallen in the Iowa City area.

Power was also out in nearby Tiffin, North Liberty, Solon and Lake Macbride for a time. Authorities in Oxford notified Iowa City police that a creek was rising out of its banks in Oxford, and asked police here to stand by in case of emergency.

Ozark Airlines meanwhile reported that all flights into and out of Iowa City were being canceled until better weather conditions prevailed.

As The Daily Iowan went to press, no injuries had been reported in connection with the storm.

Boyd Makes a Point

University Pres.-select Willard Boyd tells the Board of Regents Thursday that it would be a mistake to tell them or the public that the administration would "willy nilly dismantle the University" in order to economize. The regents, meeting at Oakdale, hope to conclude their work today.

Regents Instruct Schools to Study Possible Savings

By LOWELL FORTE

The three state universities were requested by the Board of Regents Thursday to begin detailed reviews of their operations to find areas in which economies can be made.

The request resulted from discussing ways that would enable the regents to reduce the surcharge, the label for part of the 60 per cent tuition increase.

At the board's last meeting, May 27, the tuition increase was approved.

In opening Thursday's discussion, board chairman Stanley Redeker, of Boone, said that the board should start remedial action that might eventually lead to a surcharge reduction. He said reductions hopefully would be implemented by the 1970-71 school year.

Redeker said limiting enrollment at the three state institutions and eliminating some major programs were possible economies.

Iowa State University (ISU) Pres. W. Robert Parks said it would be "silly" to meet money problems by such actions. He said limiting enrollment would be a "oneshot deal and it makes no sense at all to send through a freshman class 1,000 students short."

He noted that if the board wanted to make large economies at ISU it might eliminate its two-year programs in engineering, agriculture and home economics. He said that the area community colleges could be "tooled-up to take care of these students."

University Pres. Howard R. Bowen opposed an enrollment decrease, stating it would not be a genuine cut or savings, but merely would be "shifting students from one institution to another."

University Pres.-select Willard Boyd told the board that the University is looking for economies, "but it would be a mistake to tell you or the public that we are going to willy nilly dismantle the University."

"The University and its programs have been carefully built up over the years. We will do our best to achieve economies, but would not want to say we can save a number of dollars."

University of Northern Iowa (UNI) Pres. J. W. Mauker said, "I don't expect much to happen to enrollment, curriculum or staff. Savings will have to be made in such areas as telephone and travel expense. The savings won't be huge, but maybe appreciable."

In referring to the possibility of the board eliminating educational programs, Boyd was asked about the legality of terminating a professor's tenure. Boyd said it would be legal if there was a financial problem, but stressed that such a move would damage the "security of remaining and prospective faculty members."

Mauker said staff changes would have to come by not adding new staff and by not replacing those who leave, retire or die.

Mauker distributed a memorandum to the board that he had sent to UNI faculty and staff asking for economy suggestions. He said that the responses were informative.

Board member Ned Perrin, of Mapleton said "the universities should study alternatives that tend to reduce costs and decide which ones would be least detrimental."

He said the universities must decide on their priorities.

Apparently after considering cuts in enrollments and educational programs, Redeker said, "The major function of the universities is educating the youth of the state, plus performing research and services to the state. We should review as much as possible the service function. We should eliminate services to the state rather than educational programs."

Board member William Quarton, Cedar Rapids, said student aids were the last place he wanted to see cuts made, but added that he wanted to know "how much from tuition is going back into student aid."

Board member Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, Des Moines, said that the next school year will provide information on enrollment, student aid and operating expenses.

The board decided that the three universities should provide preliminary reports on economies by the October regents meeting.

Redeker said he hoped the surcharge would be reduced by the 1970-71 school year.

Quarton said he hoped to see a reduction by the second semester of next year. However, there was no discussion or motion on a surcharge reduction.

In other action, the board approved a resolution calling upon Gov. Robert Ray to add six members, including the state director of planning and programming to the Coordinating Council for Post High School Education.

Regent Melvin Wolf, who presented the resolution to the regents said the "major thrust" of the proposal would be to forestall further legislative control of higher education.

He referred to what he called the "legislative environment" in the 1969 General Assembly, during which a number of legislators were critical of both Board of Regents spending policies and behavior of some students at the three state universities.

Redeker, however, said the proposal should be viewed as a positive approach to make the council more effective.

The council now has 18 members, including educators working in both public and private colleges and universities, members of the Board of Regents, and representatives of other educational control bodies.

Its purpose is to coordinate all post-high school education in Iowa to avoid duplication of effort, reduce competition for available state funds and eliminate other inefficiencies.

The regents approved a $10,000 budget for the council for 1970, saying they would assess their institutions for the one-third of the budget for which the regents are responsible.

In other action, the regents moved to study the problem of lost credits, especially by students who transfer from junior colleges to universities.

It approved unanimously a proposal of the Iowa Academy of Science to set up a study group to deal with the problem.

Perrin told the board his special education committee hoped to begin interviewing candidates for the post of superintendent of the Iowa Braille and Sight-Saving School within two weeks.

Price of State Liquor Is Increased by 4%

DES MOINES — Liquor prices at state stores in Iowa will be increased by four per cent effective immediately, the state Liquor Control Commission announced Thursday night.

The price hike is the first in eight years.

The increase, part of Gov. Robert D. Ray's balanced budget proposal to avoid a general tax increase, is expected to bring the state an additional $2.5 million a year in revenue.

Stores Owned by Rocky Bombed in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Terrorists set off incendiary bombs Thursday in 14 of 17 supermarkets owned by a Rockefeller-founded corporation here in protest against the visit next week of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Seven of the large, modern supermarkets were destroyed and seven were "damaged partially," said a spokesman for the International Basic Economy Corp., owner of the stores.

He estimated damaged at $2.85 million.

Police said they did not know who planted the bombs. This was the first major terrorist attack under the 3-year-old regime of President Juan Carlos Onganía.

Rockefeller flies here from New York on Sunday night for the first stop of his fourth and final fact-finding swing into Latin America for President Nixon.

From here he will fly to Haiti.

Sources in Argentina said that Rockefeller's stay in Argentina would be cut to 36 hours, from its original planned duration of three days, because of violence associated with Thursday's bombings. Rockefeller's New York office denied this, however, saying he still plans to arrive Sunday and leave Tuesday at noon.

Outbreaks of student rioting and labor unrest began in late May and have created a critical situation for Gen. Onganía's government.

Raimundo Ongaro, chief of the powerful antigovernment wing of the National Labor confederation, announced worker demonstrations will be staged Friday against the government and Rockefeller's visit. Student groups have announced support for these demonstrations.

UI Asked to Stay Out of Renewal

By TRAVIS WESTLY

The State Board of Regents Thursday denied a request from a group of local urban renewal opponents that the University be instructed to end its support of Iowa City's urban renewal project.

The board also decided to defer discussion on the matter until the group of renewal opponents, Legal Action for Property Protection (LAPP), submits its request to the Regents in writing. A similar request was also made at a meeting of federal renewal officials, city administrators and University officials called by LAPP to present "our side of the story."

LAPP representatives, John B. Wilson Sr., 501 Kimball Rd., and Frank Vogel, Indian Lookout, had sent a letter and a telegram before the regents meeting requesting that they be allowed to meet with the board. However, both requests were received too late to be put on the agenda said board chairman Stanley Redeker. Thus, no LAPP representatives appeared at the meeting.

LAPP representatives had not explained in their request to the board what would be their subject of discussion.

Upon a request from Bowen, the board members directed LAPP representatives to present their case to the University administration.

Following such action, the board members designated that the University officials, and not LAPP, resubmit LAPP's requests, along with comments from the University on the matter.

Commenting Thursday night on the situation, University Pres. Howard R. Bowen said the administration had "invited them (LAPP) to state their position," which he said would be considered.

However, Bowen did not say when the meeting would be held.

Three members of the Board of Regents also contacted late Thursday said they had no comment on the LAPP request.

All three — Redeker, Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, of Des Moines, and Wayne Richey of Des Moines — said they wished to withhold comment until more information was available and until the written request asking that the University be instructed to withdraw its renewal support had been submitted to the board.

The LAPP meeting was called as a "work session" between renewal opponents, federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) representatives, representatives of the University and City Council members.

At that meeting, Wilson recommended that the University proceed with its usual program of land acquisition without waiting for renewal.

Wilson added that Mayor Loren Hickerson, the University's Community Relations Director, was involved in a conflict of interest situation in the current urban renewal program.

Wilson demanded that Hickerson disqualify himself from any part of the urban renewal proceedings.

LAPP had filed the injunction against the city's previous urban renewal plans. On March 11 the Iowa Supreme Court ruled Iowa City's urban renewal project invalid on grounds of conflict of interest within the City Council.

The City Council is proceeding with its new urban renewal project after recent changes in the state law.

Wilson said LAPP plans to submit a bill for its legal fees in renewal opposition to HUD.

Finch Won't Resign Over Knowles Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the lingering affair of John H. Knowles appeared to be threatening a public rupture in the Cabinet, Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch declared Thursday "I have no intention of leaving the administration."

Finch, a longtime personal friend and political ally of President Nixon, canceled appointments and went to the White House in mid-morning. He stayed late into the afternoon, but a spokesman declined to say whether he was meeting with the President.

At stake is the question of whether Finch will insist that the 43-year-old Knowles be nominated to become his department's health-affairs chief in the face of opposition from the American Medical Association and the Senate Republican leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. Knowles now is director of Massachusetts General Hospital at Boston.

A Finch aide said late Thursday Finch would have a definite statement Friday on the appointment to the key post, which has been vacant nearly six months.

CBS White House correspondent Dan Rather quoted an unnamed senator who had been with President Nixon as saying the President told him he had decided against nominating Knowles.

And a White House source, Rather said, commented, "It looks like he won't get it."

Knowles' nomination appeared certain Tuesday in view of reports that Finch had formally recommended him in a letter to Nixon.

The Post quoted Rep. Bob Wilson (R-Calif.) as saying, "It's a whole new ball game now."

Wilson is chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee and a principal Knowles opponent, although the nomination must be approved by the Senate.

But at about the same time Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen that while he expects an announcement on the appointment this week it definitely will not come before the President leaves Friday for a ceremony at the St. Lawrence Seaway.

A statement issued at the Department of Health Education and Welfare over Finch's name said:

"I have no intention of leaving the administration. I regard my post as secretary... as a four-year commitment."

Omaha Mayor Weighs Need For Liquor, Gasoline Curfews

OMAHA (AP) — Following two straight nights of racial violence, Mayor Eugene Leahy weighed Thursday the need for a curfew and prohibition on gasoline and liquor sales in this city's predominantly black area.

Leahy held lengthy meetings with black leaders and toured the North 24th Street neighborhood, where violence flared after a 14-year-old Negro girl was fatally shot by a white police officer Tuesday evening.

A patrolman, James Loder, 30, has been charged with manslaughter.

Police Chief Richard Andersen said the Near North Side was peaceful during the day Thursday, but he canceled all policemen's leaves and put them on 12-hour shifts as a precautionary measure.

At the order of Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, a task force of National Guardsmen trained especially for riot control was placed on alert status and reported to a local armory.

Andersen said at least five business places were destroyed and several others heavily damaged by fires in a 10-block section Wednesday night.

Firebombings, beatings, vandalism and one confirmed incident of rifle sniping were reported by police. Forty blacks were arrested, 30 on felony charges.

Two bullets punctured a police cruiser, but Andersen said there were no serious injuries.

Peru Begins Land Reform Program

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The military government applied its sweeping agrarian reform law Thursday to all sugar fields in Peru, including the vast holdings of the W. R. Grace & Co. of New York.

Gen. Jorge Barandiaran, minister of agriculture, said officials from his department flew in military planes to "intervene" in sugar operations around the country. He said the intervention was carried out "peacefully."

The reform law, details of which were made public Wednesday, is designed to break up large landholdings so the land can be sold to peasants.

Barandiaran said the holdings coming under the reform included Grace's Cartavio, a 21,000-acre sugar plantation; Grace's Paramonga plantation, where the American firm also makes paper from sugar cane pulp, and Casagrande, operated and considered one of the largest sugar plantations in the world — the size of Switzerland and Belgium together.

Barandiaran told newsmen he did not foresee problems with the United States over Peru's expropriation of U.S. companies sugar holdings.

Kaleidoscope

By N. BHASKARA RAO

How other people and the world itself appear to us depends very largely on our own feelings and attitudes. When we get up on "the wrong side of the bed" in the morning, the world sometimes appears grim — and people, however pleasant they may be, are annoying.

On the other hand, when we get up in a confident, hopeful mood, we sense the wonder of the morning "pouring, everywhere, in golden glory on the air."

The American Friends Service Committee and every one of its member groups, the Quakers, appear as though they never want to get up on "the wrong side of the bed." Certainly it is commendable.

We have the American Friends Service Committee fortunately to remind the rift-ridden world that love has relevance to its problems.

Two weeks ago the Eastern Iowa Branch of AFSC was opened in Iowa City, and its activities are now under way.

Friends is one of the few organizations in the world that has been consistently working to promote brotherhood not only within a country but also between and among nations.

They believe as well as endeavor towards promoting international cooperation through constructive measures. Quakers have put emphasis on finding nonviolent solution to international conflict. Their efforts are directed towards prevention of the conflagration, and even more essential, the removal of the causes of war.

The important feature is that Friends doesn't blindly advocate anything, rather they advocate on the basis of the work their branches in various countries have been doing.

Friends is seeking to discover alternatives to the methods of mass violence that destroy freedom and threaten life itself, and to apply these methods to the solution of common problems.

The Friends Service Committee has also been working actively on some of the critical economic and social problems of our time. They, perhaps, could be credited as being one of the first groups attempting to bring about the full realization of equal rights in communities shut out from full participation in society.

Now that Iowa City has a AFSC branch, some program of a constructive and nonviolent nature directly relevant to some of the current campus problems could be expected.

Violence Commission says: 'Campuses slow to respond to legitimate grievances'

Part four of a series on the Interim Report of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence.

Universities should prepare and currently review contingency plans for dealing with campus disorders. Advance plans should be made to determine, insofar as possible, the circumstances under which the university will use campus disciplinary procedures, campus police, court injunctions, other court sanctions and civil police. A definite plan, flexibly employed at the moment of crisis, is essential.

There have been enough violent and obstructive incidents on enough campuses to permit institutions to assess alternative courses of action and to anticipate both the varieties of disorder which might occur and the most appropriate response.

Procedures for campus governance and constructive reform should be developed to permit more rapid and effective decision-making. There is great misunderstanding and confusion as to where ultimate authority for campus decision-making lies. The fact is that the authority is shared among several elements.

Out of the many discussions with faculty members, students and administrators, and with full appreciation that no two institutions are the same, we offer the campus community the following specific suggestions:

A broad consensus should be achieved among students, faculty and administration concerning the permissible methods of presenting ideas, proposals and grievances and the consequences of going beyond them. Excellent guidelines have been provided by the American Council on Education's recent declaration on campus unrest.

Where agreed upon and explicit codes of student conduct and procedures for student discipline are lacking, they should be adopted; where they already exist they should be reviewed and if necessary, improved.

Faculty control of education and research is the best guarantee we have of academic freedom. It is a precious asset that must not under any circumstances, be sacrificed. Most student demands for change pertain to educational and research matters and too often their efforts have been directed toward administrative officers who usually do not have the power which students assume they possess.

And often, too, some faculty members have mistakenly joined with students in using coercive force against administrative officers when it is the faculty itself that should deal appropriately and effectively with the issues in question.

Most other powers in the university are diffused. For most purposes, shared power is an asset. But to prevent disorders, universities must be able to respond quickly. Campus protests are sometimes escalated to the level of force because legitimate grievances, peacefully urged, have been referred to university committees which were slow to respond.

Scholars have the habit of examining any hypothesis, debating it exhaustively, deferring decision to await more evidence, and when something must be decided, shunning a consensus in favor of subtle shades of disagreement and dissent. For the process of education, these are admirable qualities. But for dealing with naked force, they can be a prescription for disaster.

Mood was set for Leary

It was billed as an "Iowa City Awakening" to be held at the Iowa City 4-H Fair Grounds. It was scheduled to bring five bands together, and an enlightening by Dr. Timothy Leary. Things didn't exactly go as planned.

It was peaceful

It was all a fantastic blend of cotton candy and soul, of sawdust floors and glaring psychedelics. And all of it began at dawn. I spoke to some who had walked the 3 miles to the fair grounds watching the sun rise as they went.

Two or three attempts were made to keep the day outside; a good part of the early evening performances were kept there. But the sky never relented and the greater part of the proceedings were held under an open-air pavilion. Through all the downpour, however, there never really was much hassle. The moisture dampened everything but the spirits. Many spent the entire day making their way up and down the mudbanks on the hills or just soaking up the vast penetration of the afternoon's rock soul or the evening's acid rock. We were well entertained by four bands all of which had enough sound for anyone's mind. They included "St. John and the Heads," the "Mother Blues," "Enoch and Smoky," and the "American Legend." But good as the music was it was more the little things that made it for this reviewer. It was the snow cones with all the simplicity of a 4-H Fair. In the evening band performance by the "Mother Blues" it was the candle passing periodically through the crowd. What made it for me were the jugs of wine — more often near-empty — passing docily from one to the other, the faint smell of something perhaps hallucinatory and the watchful eye of the plain clothes men. Therein was the mood. The music gave its part to the mood. The rain added its two-cents worth. And so did Timothy Leary.

Due to late scheduling, when The Daily Iowan went to bed Wednesday evening it reported Leary's speaking arrangements had been apparently cancelled. In actuality, it was only delayed by three and a half hours.

So due to the diligence and perseverance of this reporter, the Daily Iowan returns to you the message of Leary's "Awakening."

Timothy Leary found it restful too

The Doctor divided his talk into three parts. I must admit that this humble listener had his moments of confusion in recognizing which part was which — tangents were overflowing. I gather that he split the text into the "American psychology," "turning on," and a brief dissertation on the "Bible."

On the first subject Leary's point emphasized his feeling that all of nature's creatures should essentially do what is in that being's innateness to do. He compared the whole life scene to Pavlov's dog experiments. He got good reactions when he said that in the affairs between Pavlov and the rats, Leary was on the side of the rats. He defined higher education in these terms: "Ring a bell, a piece of cheese falls down, a light flashes, and you have it."

But as much truth as there was in some of it, I found something a little incongruous about his main point that "anyone who can use artificial stimuli on his own or another species, is not letting that species do what comes naturally." I felt inclined to ask for a justification of the drug thing under those circumstances.

Leary moved to topic number two — "turning on." He refuted drugs that speed up the thought and action of life as "speed" does. He spoke in favor of slowing show said simply enough that "Genesis was a bad trip." He felt the entire idea of a one-god universe is a fallacy, that all of creation is divine. Leary further suggested that everyone write his own bible. As he moved along in this vein,

A time to think he was munching an apple. Hmm.

Along with all this Leary found time to inform us he plans to turn Gov. Ronald Reagan on to the new things that are happening. If elected, Leary promised to practice a politics of reward, not Re-gan's politics of punishment. He left us with this thought: "Boozers are losers and speed kills."

Original 'Seven' Fared much better Than this year's

"The Guns of the Magnificent Seven," now at the Astro, is the third film in that cycle and the formula, while not completely threadbare, has a very pretty thin. The film is characterized by wholesale violence and a somewhat serious attempt at comment and portraiture.

In this current film, the Seven attempt to break a Mexican revolutionary leader out of prison. Their main adversary is a cruel prison commandant played in typically oily style by Michael Ansara. There is also some trouble within the ranks, but the Seven are successful despite the odds and their own considerable violence.

As in the first film of the cycle, the men are gathered and we are given quick sketches of each. These glances are perfunctory, but they continue to crop up throughout the film. In the relationship between the black Cassie and the one-armed Southerner called Slater, there is even topical and contemporary relevance and comment.

Most of the characters are, however, fairly conventional, and the Mexicans especially fall prey to the clichés of their poetry and earthiness. The script has too many rhetorical speeches and summary lines, the kind more to be quoted than spoken. If physical posturing is fairly restrained, verbal posturing is not.

The film alternates between moments of violence and moments of reflection and slows itself down drastically in the process. The film is nowhere as terse and laconic as it should be. Director Paul Wendkos has a decent sense of how to fill the panavision frame and picks up the tempo at the climactic fight, but tends to overelaborate his material and allow us to see its weaknesses.

The current entry is more earnest than the first Seven film. This is most evident in the substitution of George Kennedy in the Yul Brynner role of Chris, the leader of the band. Kennedy's performance is a nice one but lacks the charm of Brynner's. The film's chief lack is the charm and flair of the original. Steve McCone, James Coburn, Charles Bronson, Robert Vaughn, all of whom are bigger stars now, had roles in the first film. There has been unfortunately no one to take their place.

The film has one really nice surrealistic image of violence, inside the prison stockade. For the rest it is pedestrian if faintly enjoyable fare.

A fast mention of three other films. "La Chinoise" at the Union tomorrow is a Jean-Luc Godard film of real brilliance. It displays his constant inventiveness, his tremendous sense of plastic composition and color. It is political film of real complexity and offers us portraits which are intensely privileged and real. Godard's pictures of the young French revolutionaries, made a half year before the actual revolution, is a must see attraction.

John Boorman's American masterpiece "Point Blank" will be at the Drive-in here from Sunday to Wednesday. It is with Hitchcock's "Marnie" the best American film of the past decade.

And finally, next week will bring Sam Peckinpah's "The Wild Bunch" to town. A major production by the best younger director at work presently in this country, it promises a great deal.

Regents Approval Is Given To New Sutton Appearance

The Board of Regents Thursday granted Student Body Pres. Jim Sutton's request that his appearance before the board be postponed.

Sutton was granted permission to appear at Thursday's meeting at the regents' last meeting, May 27 in Des Moines.

In the letter requesting the postponement, Sutton said he could not attend the meeting because of a recent family death.

Sutton's father died in Boston, and he was in Boston Thursday for settlement of his father's estate.

In discussing requests for hearings before the board in general, board member Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, Des Moines, drew the board's attention to the procedures followed by the California regents.

Under the California plan, an applicant must:

- Specify the matter to be discussed.
- Specify the time necessary for discussion.

Mrs. Rosenfield said that the California board may waive any of the requirements when there are "extraordinary circumstances."

She said that she was not proposing a formal motion on the matter since her board term expires at the end of June.

Mrs. Rosenfield criticized the board for spending more time than necessary deciding on the time allotment for such hear-

City, Sutton Differ on Parking Lot

An alternative to the city's plan to build a 311-space parking lot south of the Civic Center will be presented to the City Council Monday, Student Body Pres. Jim Sutton said Wednesday.

Sutton's plan would develop

Jim Sutton's Parking Proposal—

Student Body Pres. Jim Sutton has proposed that the city develop this area, instead of the other area shown, into a new parking lot. The picture looks northeast from an embankment near Ralston Creek. Sutton proposes developing all of the area shown as far as the one-story concrete block building in the center background into parking space.

the parking lot on a site two blocks south of the area of the original proposal.

The city plans to build the lot in an area bounded by Washington and Burlington street, Ralston Creek, the City Recreation Center, 220 S. Gilbert St. and John Wilson Sporting Goods, 408 E. College. The council voted June 9 not to include Kelly Cleaners, 120 S. Gilbert St., and the College Street bridge, in the new parking area.

Sutton would build the lot in an area roughly bounded by Burlington, Van Buren, and Gilbert streets and Ralston Creek. Several buildings within the nearly two-block square area would remain standing under Sutton's proposal. Sutton and the Student Senate's research staff are presently studying the area to determine which buildings they would ask the council to raze for the lot.

Buildings in Sutton's proposed lot are Hertz Rent-a-Car, Maher Brothers Transfer, a City Water Department storage building, Oakes Coal Co., Abram's Furniture and Upholstery, the Hegtvedt Agency realtors, Spencer Shoe Repair and two homes. At least half the area is vacant land.

Sutton said it would not be necessary to raze either of the homes.

He said his plan would:

- Encourage growth to the south of the central business district. This has been recommended by the city's planning consultants.

Eliminate, what he called, a weed-choked eyesore.

- Provide more spaces than the city's proposal. Sutton has estimated the capacity of the area at 400-500 cars.
- Displace no people, only businesses.

In a recent letter to Mayor Loren Hickerson, Sutton said he objected to the city's parking lot proposal because, it would "force persons to move without making provision for relocation or expenses for moving."

Sutton said that if the city rejected his alternative lot proposal, he planned to ask the city to pay the moving expenses of persons living in buildings which would be razed for the Washington Street parking lot.

Sutton said earlier this week that he thought there were several students living in the area. However, a preliminary check by the Student Senate research staff of 28 apartments in two buildings scheduled for demolition turned up only one student tenant.

Student Body Vice Pres. Jim Dougherty said Thursday that the survey was not yet complete and that further checking may show more students living in the buildings which will be condemned. He said he hoped to have the survey completed in time for the City Council's informal meeting Monday afternoon.

Informed of the details of Sutton's proposal Thursday night, Hickerson said he would reserve comment until the complete plan had been presented to the city's administrative staff.

"We're open to all kinds of suggestions," Hickerson said. "However, we must consider this proposal in the light of long range plans which Jim may or may not be aware of."

"I see no objections on the face of it. However, one question comes to mind. This plan would put the new parking lot farther from the downtown district than would the city's plan."

"Moreover, we're interested in keeping parking north of Burlington Street, which is becoming more and more heavily traveled."

"But we'll consider Jim's proposal in its entirety on Monday."

City Manager Frank Smiley was on vacation Thursday and unavailable for comment. The city has been without a planning director since Barry Lundberg left office three weeks ago. His successor has not yet assumed his position.

Parking Money To Be Transferred To Help Fund Chilled Water Plant

"I guess we are gambling with $50,000" said Board of Regents member Ned Perrin Mapleton, after the board approved a preliminary budget of $1.6 million for a University chilled water plant.

The plant will be designed to provide central refrigeration to meet anticipated air conditioning requirements of the west campus.

Perrin's statement came in response to the submitted plan that $50,000 be taken from University parking systems revenue and used to construct a foundation for the plant. The foundation is to be strong enough to allow it to become a sub-structure of a future parking ramp, if one is wanted in that area.

Merritt Ludwig, University director of planning and development explained to the board the reason for reallocating the $50,000.

He said that prior to any plans for such a plant, the University had thought the location, directly north of the Stadium, could be used for another parking ramp similar to the one completed this past year west of University Hospitals.

However, with the large medical expansion on the west campus, officials thought a central air conditioning system for all the new medical buildings would be necessary, Ludwig said.

Because a "chilled water plant is not a thing of beauty," it was decided that the best location would be north of the stadium, Ludwig explained.

If the plant's foundation was not strengthened sufficiently now by spending the extra $50,000, no parking ramp could be built on the same location, Ludwig said.

However, there has been no proposal submitted to the board concerning any future ramp construction.

Although the motion to approve a preliminary budget was carried, subsequent discussion led to a request that the University administration give a full financial report of the University's parking system at the next board meeting, August 14, at Iowa State University, in Ames.

City's Parking Proposal—

$13 Million Dental Building Approved

Preliminary plans and budget were approved for a new College of Dentistry building by the Board of Regents Thursday.

The $13 million structure will house teaching, administrative and research areas for the dental college. The preliminary budget of $13,113,938 includes the cost of the building and $3.5 million for movable equipment.

A major portion of the building cost will be met by a $7,007,938 Public Health Service grant. Other sources of the funds are: $1,439,000 in state appropriations from the 62nd General Assembly; $1,162,000 in revenue from the new hospital parking ramp; and $3,505,000 from revenue bonds.

The structure, to be located near the Hospital School, will be part of an expanded medical complex which will also include new Basic Science Building, a new Health Sciences library and the general hospital addition. A new College of Nursing building is also proposed as part of the complex.

In describing the building, Donald Galagan, dean of the College of Dentistry, said that the reason for such a large Public Health Service grant was because of the large increase in enrollment the building would make possible. He said that under such circumstances, federal matching funds can be obtained in a 2 to 1 ratio.

Galagan said the new building would be equipped with 301 dental chairs and allow the freshman enrollment to be increased from 60 to 96 students. He said that the present graduate class could be doubled and that the auxiliary teaching program could be enlarged. All in all, said Galagan, the dental program would be doubled.

Board member Melvin Wolf, Waterloo, questioned the legality of the $3.5 million in revenue bonds to be used to finance the buildings furnishings — movable equipment.

Presently there is a test case pending in the Iowa Supreme Court concerning the legality of such bonding.

If the Court declares such bonds illegal, "we may be saddled with an empty building," said Wolf.

Elwin Jolliffe, University vice president of business, said that if the Court so decided several university buildings would be empty.

Wolf said that he wanted to be sure that the board realized the risk entailed before it approved or disapproved the building plan and budget. Both were subsequently given unanimous approval.

Galagan has told the board that since the building was first proposed in February, 1968, the estimated costs had increased only 5 per cent.

Christine Keeler Describes Profumo Scandal in a Book

LONDON — Christine Keeler, titian-haired sex bomb, whose night life rattled Harold Macmillan's Conservative government six years ago, is about to tell all — again.

Now 27, the girl who was involved with British War Minister John D. Profumo and at the same time slept with the Soviet Naval attache has painstakingly ground out, hunt-and-peck on a typewriter, her autobiography of those hectic times.

Married for 2 and one-half months, then divorced and now a mother, Miss Keeler said: "I want my son to have my own account."

Her account takes the Tory party leaders apart and also slams the Labor opposition for helping to steam up the scandal, which some say actually led to Labor's triumph in the 1964 general elections.

"I am perfectly frank about the facts, about myself — yes, I was promiscuous — and about other people," she said in an interview.

Her story will deal with what broke into the open in the early spring of 1963. Rumors spread that Christine, Mandy Rice-Davies and other girl friends of osteopath Stephen Ward were, in fact, being hired out to men in top positions. Dragged into it finally were War Minister Profumo, Soviet Naval Capt. Yevgeny Ivanov, Lord Astor of Cliveden and a half dozen others close enough to cringe but far enough away to find haven behind the libel laws.

The City Council has not officially changed the city trash burning ordinances to conform with state air pollution laws passed by the last session of the legislature.

The state law, which goes into effect in January, prohibits private burning of any substance other than organic material, such as trimmed branches and fallen leaves, grown on private property.

Local City statutes only prohibit the burning of trash in alleys, street or vacant lots without obtaining a special permit from the Iowa City Fire Chief Dean Bebee and prohibits burning of debris closer than 20 feet from the nearest building.

City Manager Frank Smiley has unofficially acted. Smiley said Thursday he had directed city employees to follow a policy of "no burning of any kind."

He said that refuse was no longer being burned at the city landfill, although an accidental fire starts there occasionally.

Bebee admitted that local code regulations were not yet being beefed up to meet state requirements. He said that local statutes were "directed more toward public safety than air pollution control."

City officials gave no indication they were planning to pass ordinances to meet state laws.

Letter Notifying Landlords Of Bias Charge Unclaimed

By JUDY JOHNSTON

A registered letter asking the landlords of an Iowa City apartment building to appear before the Human Relations Commission on June 10 on a racial discrimination charge was returned Wednesday unclaimed.

The landlords, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Coppock of Cedar Rapids, owners of an apartment at 804 N. Dubuque St., said that they were not notified of the hearing.

Three black girls were allegedly discriminated against last month by being refused an apartment owned by the Coppocks.

The girls are Kimberly Reeves, A3, Des Moines; Carol Jones, Davenport and Sharon Curry, Kansas City. All three were registered as students when the alleged discrimination took place.

The girls complained to the Human Relations Commission, which set a hearing on the matter for June 10 and sent the Coppocks the registered letter notifying them of the complaint and requesting them to appear at the hearing.

An initial attempt to deliver the letter on June 6 failed because no one was at the address to sign for it, said John Crane, assistant city manager. When two follow-up notices sent to the Coppocks by the Cedar Rapids Post Office still left the letter unclaimed, it was returned, he said.

City Atty. Jay Honohan reported that Mrs. Coppock had complained Wednesday about not being notified. According to Honohan, she verified the address on the letter as correct.

"We were not aware of any controversy or complaints. No one has contacted us," Mrs. Coppock said Tuesday.

Mrs. Coppock said that the first and only notification of the complaint was delivered by the Linn County sheriff on Tuesday, asking her to appear for a July 2 hearing.

This hearing was scheduled by the City Council as a result of a formal complaint filed by the commission that Mrs. Coppock did not appear for the June 10 meeting.

Miss Reeves, the only one of the three girls currently registered at the University, now resides in off-campus housing.

When asked earlier this week whether she had previously encountered discrimination from Iowa City landlords, she said she thought it existed in duplexes and smaller apartment buildings.

She also mentioned the municipal housing code, which does not require such dwellings to adhere to ordinances prohibiting discriminatory housing practices. Section 10 of the housing code exempts owner-occupied buildings of fewer than six rooms from discrimination provisions.

Honohan said this exemption known as the Mrs. Murphy clause, is a national, state and city law.

"We (Iowa City) could not do anything even if we wanted because it is a national statute. If the state might want to interpret it differently, we then could follow them," he said.

"We are the first city in Iowa to have ordinances prohibiting discrimination in housing practices," Honohan said.

Mrs. Michael J. Brody, a member of the Commission, said even through the Mrs. Murphy clause is a national statute, the level of interpretation may vary from community to community.

She said the Mrs. Murphy clause is based on the freedom of association principle.

"It is theorized as an invasion of privacy when you live in close proximity with the people with whom you reside," she said.

Honohan will conduct the hearing of the first formal complaint from the Human Relations Commission in the commission's five-year history at 7:30 Wednesday night in the Civic Center.

If the complaint still stands following the hearing, the commission will ask the Coppocks to end the alleged discrimination or face possible court action.

Lutz, Ashe Lead U.S. Romp

WIMBLEDON, (AP) — Arthur Ashe and Bob Lutz, sparkplugs of the U.S. Davis Cup team, stormed into the last 16 of the men's singles Thursday — with the glory going to Lutz for a four-set victory over Ken Rosewall of Australia in the All-England tennis championships.

Lutz, the Los Angeles 21-year-old and fifth ranked in the U.S., isn't seeded here. Rosewall, the veteran pro who first played here 17 years ago and still hasn't won the crown, was seeded fourth.

Yet it was Lutz who looked the professional and Rosewall the jittery amateur as the American calmly and coolly dissected the little Aussie in the last two sets, 8-6, 7-9, 6-3, 6-2.

Ashe, on the other hand, looked anything like top rank as he huffed and puffed out a five-set victory over Graham Stilwell of Britain. Stilwell, chunky and enthusiastic, is on Britain's Davis cup squad but not even his mother would put him in the same class as the big-serving Ashe, of Richmond, Va., No. 1

Joe Louis III; Not Serious

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis was taken ill on a street today and was rushed to a hospital. The hospital announced later that his condition was good.

Leon Charney, an attorney, said Louis had just stepped from Charney's car at a financial district corner when the former champion complained of feeling ill and bent over. Charney said he immediately drove Louis, 55, to Beekman-Downtown Hospital.

The hospital would not elaborate on Louis' condition immediately but Charney said he had been informed that the ex-fighter suffered a "minor collapse."

Three Tied for 1st In Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — U.S. Open Champion Orville Moody and obscure Jerry McGee posted late 67's Thursday and charged into a tie with red-hot Charles Coody for the first-round lead in the $110,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

All were three-under-par on the 6,061-yard Aurora Country Club course and held a one-stroke lead over relative unknowns — George Hixon, Bob Stone, and Cesar Sanudo.

A bulky group of 16 were locked at 69, including Charles Sifford, Frank Beard, and Al Balding.

In the dozen at par 70 were defending champion Dave Stockton and Dale Douglass, winner of this year's Kemper Open.

Army veteran who scored his first tour triumph in the National championship, most of the top names in the game had their difficulties in the sweltering heat.

Lee Trevino had a 71, as did leading money winner Gene Littler. Masters Champion George Archer and Jack Nicklaus were at 73 while PGA champ Julius Boros and Arnold Palmer, who had a course record 64 in Wednesday's pro-am, were at 74.

"I simply lost my concentration," said the troubled Palmer. Coody, a 6-foot-7 Texan who had a seven-under par 65 in the last round of last week's Kemper, had been in the clubhouse for hours when Moody and McGee closed in the late afternoon shadows.

The Athletic Department: A Team Effort or A One-Man Show

By MIKE SLUTSKY Sports Editor

A reevaluation of the University's athletic department power structure seems to be in order. At a University where varsity athletics mean so much, it seems that a well coordinated athletic department would strive for the same teamwork that is expected of our athletic teams. But is this the case? Here is an incident which makes me feel otherwise.

The miserable weather we've been having lately caused the postponement of my tennis skills class Wednesday. Unwilling to give up my goal of trying to maintain some degree of physical fitness, I decided to play a little basketball in the sweltering oven known as the North Gym.

Needing a basketball to realize my aim, I ambled up to the recreation equipment window and attempted to put my umbrella up as collateral for a basketball. I had carelessly left my ID and wallet at home. As everybody knows, to get a basketball at the Field House, you must have an ID.

I made the request of Ed O'Brien, recreational equipment manager, whom I am quite familiar with and who knows me as an honest sort. When I was asking for the ball, who should pass by at this precise moment but, none other than, Forest Evashevski, University athletic director.

I finally made the trade for the ball with O'Brien, readily relinquishing my watch instead of the umbrella. As I left, Evashevski remarked to me, "An umbrella for a basketball isn't a very fair exchange." To which I replied, "Don't worry, I'll bring it back when I'm finished."

After my exit from the scene, Evashevski had a few choice remarks for O'Brien, indicating that a basketball — even for a watch — still wasn't a good deal.

The theme of my story — if you haven't guessed yet — is one of trust. Sure, Evashevski didn't know me from beans and had no reason to believe I wouldn't walk off with the ball.

But O'Brien did know me and probably would've trusted me enough to let me have the ball on my word alone. Again, I am not best of friends with O'Brien — just "business" acquaintances. But he did have faith in my honesty, a faith which seems to be lacking in other divisions of the athletic department.

Evashevski's athletic department seems — at least to me — to be run by him with little help from the lesser ends of the department. Coaches, physical education majors and others involved in the Iowa athletic picture — whom I'm sure would rather not have their names printed — have made it known to me that Evashevski likes to do things all his own way.

His way might be best. But a change in attitude — or trust or whatever — could make for a better and more efficient athletic department. Some cooperation between members of the athletic staff and Evashevski would be helpful in soothing some of the ill feelings floating around the Field House.

Cubs Overpower Pirates, 7-5

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Hickman's two-run homer in the 10th inning gave the Chicago Cubs a 7-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in a wild slugfest Thursday.

Bruce Dal Canton, the fourth Pirate pitcher, had retired the first two men before he walked Ken Rudolph. Hickman then drove his third homer of the season over the left field wall.

In the eighth inning of the homer-spiced game, Roberto Clemente's two-run blast briefly gave the Pirates a 5-3 lead. But in the bottom of the inning, Ron Santo's two-run homer pulled the Cubs into a 5-5 tie.
