Tuition Grants

DES MOINES (AP) — A total of $1.5 million in state tuition grants have gone to about 2,000 needy private college students for use in the coming academic year, Dr. Roy Wellborne said Monday.

Wellborne, executive director of the Higher Educational Facilities Commission, told the Iowa Executive Council the grants averaged $750 with a range of $40 to $1,000.

A computer was used to "objectively" choose the 2,000 most needy from 7,000 applicants for the grants authorized by the 1969 legislature, he said.

About $4 million would have been required to meet the needs of all 7,000 applicants, Wellborne said, while to grant each of them all the money they requested would have required $8 million.

The legislature has appropriated $3.3 million for the 1970-71 academic year for the program for students attending 33 private colleges in the state.

Kennedy Inquest

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A judge took under advisement for at least 48 hours Monday a motion to prevent the autopsy Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis seeks for his Sept. 3 inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

Judge Bernard C. Brominski of Common Pleas Court also said it probably would be about two weeks — until Sept. 8 — before a hearing, if needed, would be scheduled on Dinis' original petition for an autopsy, which is opposed by Miss Kopechne's parents.

Dinis, the New Bedford, Mass., prosecutor looking into Miss Kopechne's death in a car driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, did not say immediately whether he would go ahead with the inquest or postpone it.

Poison Gas

DES MOINES (AP) — Information about potentially hazardous rail conditions in Iowa may force a shift in plans to ship poison gas through the state, Gov. Robert D. Ray said Monday.

Ray said federal officials did not know until his office told them that a derailment had occurred near Afton only a few days after the first phosgene gas train had traversed the same Chicago and North Western tracks.

There was nothing specific said by Monday about curbing the two shipments proposed for passage through Iowa in the near future, Ray said, but he added there were some intimations the Federal Railway Administration was reconsidering the shipments.

Job Demands

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A five-block line of demonstrators demanding more construction jobs for Negroes surged through Pittsburgh Monday and shut down 10 construction projects worth more than $200 million.

Five of the projects, announced targets of march leaders, had been ordered closed Sunday night on the recommendation of police. Work was quickly halted at the other sites, however, either by the presence or pending approach of the long serpentine line of more than 1,000 blacks and whites in about equal numbers.

Cuban Spying

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba said Monday charges that members of its U.N. delegation were spies in the United States are "completely fake."

The official Communist party organ Granma said the expulsion last week of Cuban diplomat Eddy Espinosa Bonet, 25, and the refusal of re-entry to Alberto Boza Hidalgo Gato, 28, was "nothing more than a new and coarse provocation launched by repressive organs of subversion of the government of the United States, the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency against Cuba."

Viet Peace Won't Help Fund Domestic Programs

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon's chief urban affairs adviser said Monday it was not realistic to expect ample resources for domestic programs after a Vietnam peace.

Patrick J. Moynihan said the idea of any "sudden discontinuity" — or being poor one day and rich the next — "is just not going to happen." He said it's not likely there will be hoped-for federal funds any time in the 1970s.

He said the projected rate of nondefense expenditures, including numerous new programs suggested by President Nixon in the fields of welfare assistance and revenue sharing, "is much higher than anyone anticipated" and that any drop in defense money would automatically be snapped up by this.

Nixon discussed post-Vietnam war priorities with his urban affairs council for three hours Monday at the Western White House and Moynihan reported on it afterward to the press.

He spoke of the peace and growth estimates and the dividends of some $22.9 billion expected to be available 18 months after the cessation of the war as contemplated by an economic report issued by the Johnson administration last January. He said the report "simply was not realistic."

"There is not likely to be the free resources we had all hoped for. We are not likely to have an easy time for priorities in the 1970," Moynihan said.

Asked whether he was repudiating the Johnson report, Moynihan said that would be much too strong a word. "We are proceeding on a different set of assumptions than the report," he stated.

Nixon is trying to set in advance national priorities on spending and Moynihan said this was the longest session held by the council on the subject.

He said the budget for fiscal 1971 is "likely to be undoubtedly the most difficult budget a president will face in his first administration."

The combination of revenue expected and the expenditures which Nixon expects Congress to approve from his welfare, mass transportation and revenue-sharing programs "will make it difficult to make the budget much higher," he explained.

Nixon's three major domestic programs that Moynihan said will make the 1971 budget so difficult involve some $4.2 billion for the family assistance and welfare program, $500 million the first year in revenue-sharing rising to $5 billion by fiscal 1975 and a mass transit program that will reach a 12-year cost of $10 billion.

Assuming that the President has proposed will be enacted, Moynihan said the budget planning for fiscal 1971 and the years ahead will not be "as easy as hoped."

Moynihan was asked for a forecast of the nation's fiscal 1975 budget. "Big!" he said.

U.S. Officials Seek Site For Local Post Office

By MARK ROHNER

City officials met Monday afternoon with First District Congressman Fred Schwengel (R-Davenport) and four members of a General Services Administration Public Building Service fact-finding team to discuss possible sites for the new Iowa City Federal Building and Post Office.

The team is looking for sites in a 35-square-block area bounded by Jefferson, Johnson, Harrison and Clinton Streets. At least five of those blocks will probably

Drug Possession Charge to Man At Local Motel

In a stepped-up campaign against illegal possession of dangerous drugs, State Narcotics Agents made the third local "bust" in recent weeks Monday afternoon.

Dennis Schneckloth, 21, Madison, Wis., was arrested at 3 p.m. Monday in a Coralville motel room.

He was charged with illegal possession of dangerous drugs.

According to narcotic agents' reports, Schneckloth had possession of a "very large quantity" of what was believed to be methamphetamine (commonly known as "speed").

The report said that the drugs were believed to have a wholesale value between $5,000 and $6,000 on the black market.

Narcotics agents staked out the motel room while Coralville police obtained a search warrant. The narcotics agents staked the room out after receiving a tip.

Schneckloth arrived at the motel room and was arrested after officers entered the room with the search warrant and found the drugs wrapped in several triangular, cellophane packages.

It was not known whether the drugs were found on Schneckloth's person or in the motel room. Local authorities were not at the scene of the arrest and the narcotic agents were not available for comment Monday night.

Schneckloth was awaiting arraignment in Iowa City Police Court Monday night.

Schneckloth's arrest makes the third drug "bust" in Iowa City during the past three weeks.

The first was made August 9 when three persons were arrested by Johnson County Sheriff's Office for illegal possession of drugs valued at $12,500.

The second case occurred Aug. 21 when Iowa City police found a bag, believed to contain LSD, on Burlington Street. Police believe the bag, which contained an estimated $2,500 worth of drugs, was dropped from a car occupied by four persons. No arrests have been made in that case.

Iowa's Hughes Being Discussed For Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since coming to Washington in January, Sen. Harold E. Hughes has won favor from both Senate insiders and the young antiwar activists who formed the nucleus of the 1968 McCarthy-for-President campaign.

As a result, the rugged 47-year-old Iowan, who looks like the truck driver he once was, is being talked of as a future Senate Democratic leader and possible presidential contender.

As vice chairman of a Democratic party reform commission headed by Sen. George S. McGovern (D-S.D.) Hughes has been one of the leading advocates of party reform.

"To me," he said at a dinner of the liberal New Democratic Coalition in May, "the entire future of our party depends on our success or failure in reforming and revitalizing it."

Hughes said recently that "the Democratic party is the home of the poor, those who have been left out, those who have been neglected." Unless it continues these ways such groups "will not be represented in this country," he said.

"And if that occasionally means defeat in an election or even consistently for a few years," he added, "then I personally am willing to take that chance."

The blunt approach has paid off in Hughes' own career. He won the governorship in 1962 by advocating legal liquor-by-the-drink and, as a big-game hunter with a fine gun collection, he is a strong advocate of firearms control.

After three terms as governor, he became last year the first Iowa Democrat in two decades to be elected to the Senate. Although he won by fewer than 6,000 votes, he ran some 100,000 votes ahead of presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey.

In Washington, Hughes has won praise for his work on the Labor and Public Welfare Committee and as an assistant whip and member of the Democratic Policy Committee.

Obedying the Senate tradition that freshmen should be seen but not heard, he waited until June 20 to make his maiden speech. In it he traced "my personal agony" over Vietnam and called for substantial troop withdrawals plus broad moves aimed at land reform, medical and social relief and free elections.

This fall, Hughes will take to the road as chairman of a newly named subcommittee on alcoholism and drugs. Hughes, a reformed alcoholic, plans hearings in a number of major cities, including New York and Chicago.

Council Hears Bus, Parking Reports

Iowa City government could go into the bus business with less red tape than was expected if the need for a municipally-controlled bus system should arise, the City Council learned Monday at an informal meeting.

City Manager Frank Smiley said he and Dennis Kraft, planning director for the Johnson County Regional Planning Commission, had been in Washington D.C. last week to confer with Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials on plans for a regional mass transit study for Johnson County.

It was originally thought that the study would be needed to supply HUD with information it requires before it will award a municipality a grant to operate a public transit system.

However, Smiley said, he learned that the information HUD requires — including bus routes, quality of service, time schedules and equipment conditions — is already available and that the study may not have to be made.

The regional planning commission has applied for federal funds to pay two-thirds of the $10,000 needed to plan the study but these procedures could be halted if it were decided the study was not necessary.

The city has been making plans to go into the bus business since Lewis Negus, owner of Iowa City Coach Co., said in early 1968 that his firm was losing money and might have to quit business. As a stopgap measure, the city supplied Negus with a subsidy during the summer of 1968.

The publicly-controlled system would be operated by Iowa City on a regional basis and would include service to Coralville, University Heights and suburban areas outside the city limits.

The Council was also told by City Atty.

Jay Honohan that the city's appraisals on land to be acquired for a 311-space parking lot on Washington Street south of the Civic Center were "remarkably close to the demands being made of us by the property owners."

Honohan said the total property owners' demands were less than one and a half per cent above the city's total appraisal figure of $389,850. Honohan said the city had already agreed to pay prices totalling about one per cent more than the city's appraisals in cases where a price has already been agreed upon.

Purchase price has not been determined on at least six properties in the one-square-block area slated for development into parking spaces. He said that three of the properties were under negotiation, but that prices for the other three would have to be settled by a sheriff's jury scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Schwengel Gives Interstate Accident Views

By JOANNE WALTON

Republican Congressman Fred Schwengel said Monday that while he agreed with Rep. Edward Mezvinsky (D-Iowa City) that Interstate Highway 80 had too many accidents, he felt more of the accidents were the result of faulty vehicles than the highway itself.

"I think studies will show that the accident record percentage (of the Interstate) is down over other highway systems," Schwengel said.

Mezvinsky, who holds a presidential citation for his efforts on behalf of highway safety, has criticized the interstate system for its increase in accidents from 1967 to 1968.

According to the State Department of Public Safety, accidents on the interstate were up 28 per cent in that period. Schwengel said he questioned whether Mezvinsky had taken into consideration the increased traffic on the interstate now that the highway is completed across Nebraska.

The congressman said he believed the interstate system did have several safety hazards that should be corrected. He mentioned the sharply pointed barricades and bridge supports located too close to the highway.

He suggested, in addition, that raised road shoulders be made level and break-away road signs be put up.

Schwengel, who has led House opposition to the licensing of longer, wider, heavier trucks, said he thought the larger trucks would cause more accidents.

"The design on trucks has to be changed and will be insisted on by the department of transportation," he said.

He specified braking capacity as a major point of concern. "The braking capacity of trucks is only 50 per cent of that of passenger vehicles," he said.

Schwengel said he was disappointed that Congress adjourned before taking action on a bill that would make available loans to college students. He predicted that the bill would be given top priority when Congress resumed.

The bill proposes to make $550 in cash and $1000 in a loan available yearly to every college student, up to a total per-student investment of $6200 over four years. The money would be offered through a tax-credit plan and a loan program.

Schwengel said he planned to discuss pending education bills Monday afternoon with Duane Spriestersbach, University dean of the graduate college and Robert F. Ray, dean of extension services.

Referring to the shipment of poisonous phosgene gas by rail across Iowa,

Schwengel said he agreed completely

REP. FRED SCHWENDEL Opposes Wider Trucks

with Governor Ray that the public should be made aware of such shipments.

"I think it's high time for our military people to place some confidence in the public," he said, "and if it's necessary to move this kind of product the public should be made aware of the movement so that better preparations can be made to handle any possible problems."

Schwengel said he had written both the Pentagon and John Volpe, Secretary of the Department of Transportation, protesting the shipment of the phosgene gas.

Asked what effect he thought the death of Mary Jo Kopechne would have on the political future of Sen. Edward Kennedy, Schwengel said he felt the tragedy had "tarnished the Kennedy record beyond question."

Miss Kopechne, a passenger in Kennedy's car when it careened off a bridge in Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., on Aug. 3, drowned in the accident.

"There are some saying he (Kennedy) will have a very real problem being re-elected to the Senate," Schwengel added. "Certainly his prestige has gone down."

Schwengel spoke at a news conference in the Civic Center, at which he also announced the appointment of Susan Cornick, of Iowa City, to his Washington staff.

Miss Cornick, a 1961 graduate of the University and former chief secretary for the Iowa City chapter of the Iowa Mental Health Authority, will join Schwengel's seven-member staff in Washington, D.C. on Sept. 1.

SNCC: what's in a name ?

By DICK GREGORY

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee has changed its name and renamed H. Rap Brown Chairman of the organization. From now on SNCC will be known as the Student National Coordinating Committee. While many people will gloat over the name change, both open racists and so-called liberals, thinking that the time is long overdue for SNCC's name to catch up with the organization's present stance, the change is reflective of a tragedy of American life woven deep into this country's most recent history.

In explaining the name change, Brown told a news conference: "If the situation demands that you retaliate violently, you would no longer be hindered or hampered by 'non-violent' in the organization's name."

That statement represents a hard-learned lesson. White America has been a good teacher and young blacks have learned their lesson well. White America has made it crystal clear how it really feels about nonviolence. White America has shown a respect only for violence.

Many people in this country seem to forget, or perhaps never knew, that it was Rap Brown, Stokely Carmichael and other members of SNCC who taught nonviolence during the early days of the civil rights movement. They taught nonviolence to the demonstrators while Dr. Martin Luther King had to fly all over the country explaining the concept to white folks.

I remember when I first met Stokely Carmichael a few years ago in Greenwood, Miss. I remember our meeting well because he insulted me. I was new to the civil rights movement and had my own ideas of how to solve the problem.

Stokely said to me, "If you can't be nonviolent, get the hell back up North." I had to learn to be nonviolent before I could be allowed to demonstrate. I learned nonviolence from those courageous young SNCC kids and now I am a nonviolent, vegetarian, pacifist.

You would have to see what those SNCC kids went through to realize who is really responsible for the name change. You would have to see them guarding their Freedom House in Greenwood, wondering when it was going to be blown up. They were guarding it with a nonviolent attitude, waiting for someone to come along with sticks of dynamite. This is a country where grown men hunt tiny rabbits with shotguns, but the SNCC kids tried to present their cause to white America nonviolently.

To understand the name change, you will have to have slept with those SNCC kids in their Freedom House, lying on the floor next to your comrades lined up in a row. One night you notice an empty place in the line. One of your comrades did not come home that night and you know he is dead. The police have run him off the highway and then reported that he was drunk and killed in an auto accident. And you know your friend never took a drink in his life.

To understand that happened to nonviolence you would have to talk with those SNCC kids as they were trying to integrate a school. Imagine having a five-year-old black kid's hand in yours as he eagerly anticipates his first day of school. Imagine the feeling as you are climbing the schoolhouse steps nonviolently and you are attacked not only by an angry mob but also by the sheriff and the police. Imagine seeing the little five-year-old kid hit in the face with a brick, bloodily erasing that opening day smile and mocking your nonviolent attitude as though it were cowardice.

White America's reaction to the non-violent strategy is responsible for the SNCC name change. White behavior patterns have taught young blacks that they will only be respected when they have their opponents staring down the muzzle of a gun. Behave nonviolently, says white America, and you will be cursed, stoned, beaten, arrested and ignored.

White America has demonstrated a respect for violence. After Detroit almost burned to the ground, the Ford Motor Company hired 6,000 blacks in two days' time. There were no phony tests attached to the job applications. For the first time the emphasis was sincerely placed upon actually hiring black folks.

Why the sudden change in emphasis? Because the fires of the summer of 1967 got too close to the Ford plant, Henry Ford thought, "Don't scorch the Mustangs, baby." Do you realize how long it would take to get 6,000 jobs for black folks using the strategy of non-violent, peaceful demonstrations? Black friends of mine in Detroit tell me there were so many black folks lined up outside the Ford plant to get one of those 6,000 jobs that you would have thought the plantation was coming back!

America has always respected violence. America's past history and current actions all over the world show her commitment to the use of violence as a strategy. America's occasional abhorrence of violence is fraudulent and hypocritical. America condemns black violence at home, yet insists that young blacks kill in Vietnam.

America was horrified by the violent deaths of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy. Yet the heart of America was secretly gladdened by the violent deaths of George Lincoln Rockwell and Malcolm X. America is not upset by violent assassinations; she is only upset when someone she likes is killed.

White America likes to believe that she loves nonviolence. But if white America loves nonviolence so much, why is the Indian still on the reservation? No group of people could be any more nonviolent than the American Indians have been for the past few decades, yet nothing substantial has been done to alleviate their suffering. If the Indians would resurrect the practice of scalping white folks, they would no doubt receive immediate attention.

The tragedy of the SNCC name change is that it illustrates how America has passed her violent tendencies on to her youth. Youth who so desperately wanted to change their country nonviolently have reluctantly realized that things do not happen that way in America. Shifts in power and political upheaval seem to come only through violent confrontation. IT'S THE AMERICAN WAY.

Moon balance in jeopardy

By ART BUCHWALD

CAPE COD — Weatherwise, this has been a disastrous summer for large parts of the world. Everyone has his own theory as to the cause of it, but no one has been able to scientifically pinpoint what's happened until now.

Prof. Heinrich Applebaum, who is stationed at the Endless Summer Observatory, at Endless Summer, Mass., revealed that he had discovered the reason the weather had gone awry this year was because of the moon landings.

"They should not," said Prof. Applebaum, "have taken the rocks off the moon."

"Why not?" I asked him.

"Because," said the professor, "it's made the moon unbalanced."

"You mean taking a few rocks off the moon could change its balance?"

"Exactly. The moon was in perfect conjunction to the earth. Each rock was placed just so, and even disturbing one could have a magnetic effect, causing just enough tilt to the moon to bring all the bad weather."

"It's hard to believe," I said.

"Don't believe me. Here are my mathematical calculations. Every rock removed from the moon is responsible for one lousy day of weather on earth." I studied the figures he showed me. "My gosh," I said, "these figures prove you're right."

"Of course, I'm right," said Applebaum, erasing his blackboard. "But what worries me is not only the rocks that the astronauts took off the moon, but the garbage they left up there in its place."

"Look, there's the laser machine, the bottom half of the lunar module, a television camera and heaven knows what else the astronauts threw out of their ship."

"With all this stuff lying in the Sea of Tranquility, the weight of the moon has completely tilted, causing unseasonal tide swells and variable shifts in the magnetic forces that control the solar system. I have named this the Earth-Moon Garbage Effect."

"You're too modest professor," I said. "It should be the Applebaum Earth-Moon Garbage Effect."

"That's up to the Academy of Sciences," the professor said.

"But did you know this before the astronauts went up?" I asked.

"I suspected it, but I was counting on the Russians landing on another part of the moon to balance the part we landed on. They kept saying they were going to do it. Presuming they would have removed as many rocks and left as much junk on their part of the moon as we did, the tilt should have evened out."

"Then you would say the Soviets are really responsible for the bad weather because they failed to land on the moon at the same time we did?"

"Right. I believe the Soviets have a lot of explaining to do."

"But what can we do to bring the moon back to its original center of gravity?"

"The crew of Apollo 12 have to take the moon rocks back and put them in the exact places Armstrong and Aldrin took them from."

"But professor, if the crew of Apollo 12 does all that, they won't have any time for their own experiments."

"Tough," said Applebaum. "Do you want to have scientific moon achievements or a rotten winter?"

Housewives Mourn Higher Food Costs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American housewives are spurning steak for hamburger and finding friends with garden patches as food prices balloon like an out-of-control soufflé.

"I used to spend $20 a week on food six months ago. Now I find I can barely make it on $25," said Mrs. John Schnering, wife of a Chicago chemical firm executive. They have a 2-year-old son.

"We can't have steak once a week like we used to," she said, "and we're eating an awful lot of hamburger."

In her area, porterhouse steak has gone up 20 cents a pound in the last six months — from a $1.39-$1.49 range to $1.59-$1.69 range.

It's the same story all over in the wake of another cost of living increase last month — half a per cent, announced last Friday by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The relation between porterhouse and poorhouse has grown closer in six months in five other cities sampled: Atlanta $1.38, up from $1.18; Denver $1.65, up from $1.49; Omaha $1.69, up from $1.19; Los Angeles $1.59-$1.79, up from $1.54.

You can move down to pork chops. It's not hard; they're moving up to meet you.

New York 85 cents-$1.45 a pound, compared to 69 cents-$1.25 six months ago; Atlanta 69-77 cents, up from 59-69 cents; Denver 79 cents, up from 65 cents; Omaha $1.09, up from 69 cents; Los Angeles $1.19-$1.45, up from $1.13.

"I've gone back to my European cookbooks and looked up 1,001 ways to cook chicken and stew-type things," said Mrs. John K. Okish, a Denver attorney's wife. She said, "When you add a lot of cheap cooking wine to any one of these, you forget you're eating chicken four times a week."

"Also, I've made lasting friendships with people who have vegetable gardens." String beans, at least, have held the line in the Denver area at 29 cents, and five pounds of potatoes have gone down in price from 49 cents to 25 because of the season.

But New Yorkers are paying 35 cents a pound for beans, up 6 cents; Atlantans pay 28 cents, up a nickel from what they paid in mid-February. In Omaha, beans cost 34 cents a pound, up 9 cents, but in Chicago the price has gone down 10 cents to 29.

"A large family is just over a barrel," said Mrs. Dan Mendick, wife of an Omaha electrician. "It takes about half of Dan's take-home pay each week just for food. We can't call a hunger strike for nine kids."

Contracts for Lemme School Awarded by School Board

Contracts for construction of the Helen Lemme Elementary School were awarded Tuesday by the Iowa City Community Board of Education.

The school will be built in the Oakwood area in northeast Iowa City. Proposed completion date is Aug. 1, 1970.

Burger Construction Co., Inc., Iowa City, submitted a low bid of $233,786 for general contract work. The mechanical contract was awarded to Mulford Plumbing and Heating of Iowa City, with a bid of $84,100. Shay Electric Service Inc., Iowa City, was awarded the electrical contract, submitting a bid of $31,060. Turnquist Floor Coverings, Dubuque, submitted a bid of $9,955 and was awarded the carpeting contract.

Specifications for the school district's group life and disability plan insurance contract have been released. Bids for this contract must be submitted to John P. Gillespie, school district business manager, by noon, Sept. 22. Plans call for the insurance policy becoming effective Oct. 1.

All employees of the school district will be covered by this insurance. Total cost of the plan will be paid on a monthly basis by the district.

B52s Strike to Blunt Expected Viet Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52s blasted an arc about 80 miles north of Saigon with up to 750 tons of explosives Monday in a move to blunt an expected new round of enemy strikes.

The U.S. Command said the eight-engine planes flew five missions against "enemy activities, base camps, bunkers, supply and staging areas" close to the Cambodian border.

All the raids were within 10 miles of the key district capital of Loc Ninh, scene of bitter fighting when the Communist command kicked off its fall campaign Aug. 11-12.

The concentrated pounding of a known major enemy infiltration corridor leading from Cambodia was done because of indications that the enemy plans to launch another series of attacks around Sept. 1.

During that period, Hanoi celebrates the 24th anniversary of Ho Chi Minh's proclamation of the independence of Vietnam and the establishment of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam.

Informants said Monday there are elements of four enemy divisions poised in an arc cutting across three provinces bordering Cambodia.

The enemy's campaign slowed down somewhat as it entered its third week Monday, but informed sources reported renewed movement at night in Tay Ninh Province northwest of Saigon.

Plan Calls for Uniting Arabs—

Guerrillas Give Battle Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets bombed Arab guerrilla camps in Jordan Monday, gunfire crackled on all other Middle East fronts and Palestinian guerrillas proposed a battle plan to foreign ministers of 14 Arab nations in a meeting in Cairo.

The plan called for mobilization of Arab armies and economies in the fight against Israel and called for a boycott of the United States and other Western nation accused of supporting the Jewish state. The boycott would halt the flow of Arab oil to the West.

The Palestinian guerrillas' battle plan, outlined by Egypt's official Middle East News Agency, was presented at the Arab foreign ministers meeting in Cairo to discuss emotion-charged calls for jihad — holy war — that followed a mosque fire in Jerusalem.

Its provisions include:

1. Placing all Arab armies under a single command.
2. Arab economic mobilization, including the use of Arab oil as a strategic weapon.
3. A political and economic boycott of the United States, Britain and West Germany, accused by Arabs of supporting Israel.
4. The establishment of closer relations with Communist nations because of their support for the Arab and Palestine causes.

Anti-Israeli sentiment remained high in the Arab world because of the fire at the Al Aksah Mosque in Jerusalem. In Jerusalem, Atty. Gen. Meir Shamgar told a special committee appointed to probe the Al Aksah Mosque blaze that a man held by Israeli authorities had confessed. He is Michael Dennis William Rohen, 28, an Australian sheep shearer. But Shamgar's statement did little to cool Moslem outrage, and Arab capitals continued to blame Israel for the fire.

In fighting Monday, Israeli planes carried out two bombing raids on camps in northern Jordan after two Israeli soldiers' deaths by a sabotage mine in the Jordan Valley Sunday, the Israeli army said.

Along the northern border with Lebanon, Israel reported seven border policemen were wounded in a guerrilla ambush. Bazooka and light-arms fire also aimed from Lebanon at Metullah and Kfar Yuvel settlements, the Israeli army said.

Artillery duels between Israeli and Egyptian guns continue along the Suez Canal, where an Israeli soldier was reported killed and another injured Sunday.

Anti-Israeli sentiment remained high in the Arab world because of the fire at the Al Aksah Mosque in Jerusalem. In Jerusalem, Atty. Gen. Meir Shamgar told a special committee appointed to probe the Al Aksah Mosque blaze that a man held by Israeli authorities had confessed. He is Michael Dennis William Rohen,

2,500 People Tour New Mental Facility

More than 350 persons filled the gymnasium of the state's new Maximum Security Hospital at Oakdale for the facility's dedication ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

About 2,500 persons toured the hospital during open house on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Guest speakers at the dedication were: James N. Gillman, commissioner of the State Department of Social Services; Nolan H. Ellandson, director of adult correction services; Dr. Douglas Johnson, clinical director of Oakdale; and Russell L. Wilson, who is in charge of special projects for the Department of Social Services.

Gillman called the 84-bed facility "an investment in the people of Iowa by the people of Iowa."

He said the length of a patient's stay at the Oakdale facility would be determined by his personal needs and not by the length of the sentence imposed.

Many security measures will become effective when the hospital opens in September.

One such measure is a series of doors in the hallway leading from the lobby to the lounge, gymnasium and cafeteria. When one of these doors is open, all the others will be closed to prevent possible escapes.

Another measure is the regulation that, before a prisoner receives visitors, he must change to a different suit of clothes. He then may enter the lounge, but when the visit is over, he must change back to his other suit before returning to his quarters.

Four guides pointed out that this would prevent transmitting drugs, weapons or liquor to the prisoners because the clothes could be searched as soon as a prisoner left the visiting area.

A total of 81 patients will be moved to the Oakdale facility from the Anamosa Hospital starting Sept. 2.

Sign Proposal Causing Look At Ordinance

Iowa City's present sign ordinance regulations will be discussed during the Planning and Zoning Commission's regular meeting at 4 p.m. this afternoon.

The present ordinance regulations are being questioned because of proposed action by the Nesper Sign Co. of Cedar Rapids.

The company has proposed that one large sign be placed at the Mall Shopping Center, replacing smaller signs, in individual firms' windows.

The sign would be used to notify persons of prospective employment at the shopping center.

However, Iowa City ordinances called for small signs in each firm window.

The company said it would put up a cash bond to assure that if the sign ordinance is not changed, the sign would be taken down.

However, City Atty. Jay Hohman said such a bond would be invalid under both state and city laws.

Demand Black Construction Jobs

Demonstrators demanding more construction jobs for blacks march past the U.S. Steel building under construction in Pittsburgh Monday. More than 1,000 marched through the city snarling rush-hour traffic. They said they would close every construction job in the city until their demands were met. Pittsburgh police are at left. Behind the police are construction workers at the 65-story building.

Czech Demonstrations Leave Many Injured and Arrested

PRAGUE (AP) — Police and troops picked up 3,690 persons in Bohemia and Moravia for questioning during last week's demonstrations on the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia, the Czech government said Monday night. Nineteen of 78 foreigners arrested were Americans.

The government claimed many more police and soldiers were injured than demonstrators, and the Communist newspaper Rude Pravo said this in itself disproved reports of police brutality.

Actual arrests during the protests totaled 1,893, the announcement said. The government did not say how many of these were foreigners.

The nineteen Americans, the most numerous of any foreign national group, were picked up in Prague, said an Interior Ministry statement over Radio Prague.

U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Tonoyan went to the Czechoslovak Foreign Ministry over the weekend seeking information about detained Americans, the embassy said. None has yet been received. The Interior Ministry, in addition to Americans, listed nine detained from West Germany, eight from France, seven from Italy, two from both Switzerland and Holland, and Austria, Iraq, Poland, Syria, Cambodia, Pakistan, Norway and other countries each had one or two detained.

Figures released Monday night for Bohemia and Moravia, but excluding Slovakia, listed 184 policemen and 31 each of the people's militia and military as injured.

The Interior Ministry said 31 demonstrators were injured and four died, "not five as originally announced." An independent survey by newsmen established four dead in Prague and another four at Brno, the nation's second-largest city.

The search for the dead went on. An aide to Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams said 107 bodies had been identified but further death toll estimates would be delayed because of difficulty in confirming the numbers.

Officer Says One Warrant Given in Case

A local police officer testified Monday that only one arrest warrant had been issued throughout his 10-month investigation of an Iowa City murder case.

Iowa City police Detective Lt. Charles H. Snider said he had no positive suspects during the initial days of the investigation in July of 1968.

Only one warrant was issued in the case and it was for Laurence P. Holderness, 28, Iowa City, who is being tried for first-degree murder in perpetration of a robbery which local authorities believe took place July 5, 1968.

Holderness is charged with the slaying of Mrs. Mary Stanfield whose body was discovered in her home at 444 Second Ave. on July 6, 1968. Holderness was arrested in Granbury, Tex., by Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) officials on July 11, 1968. Snider also testified Monday that a purse containing $50 belonging to Mrs. Stanfield was found a few days after her murder at the Stanfield home. However, Snider when questioned by defense attorney Joseph Thornton, said he did not remember who had found the purse or on what day it was found. Snider said the date probably was July 9, 10, or 11, 1968 — the days preceding his trip to Texas to return Holderness.

Camille's Victims Start To Repair Destruction

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Low-flying helicopter crews hunted for more stranded storm victims in Mississippi's back country Monday, while signs of order emerged in Gulf Coast cities and towns shattered by Hurricane Camille eight days before.

The search for the dead went on. An aide to Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams said 107 bodies had been identified but further death toll estimates would be delayed because of difficulty in confirming the numbers.

Military helicopters flew low-level search and rescue missions in outlying areas north of the coast where several families were discovered isolated over the weekend. Some 130 refugees were located about 10 miles south of Poplarville and helicopters dropped a three-day supply of food and other essentials. Another isolated family of 12 was located near Wiggins and supplies were dropped for them. Air searchers also were looking for bodies. Recovery efforts proceeded. Electricity and telephone service was restored to more of the areas hit by Camille's 190 miles per hour winds. Debris was trucked away.

NBA-ABA at Odds; Merger Talks Ended

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association broke off exploratory talks with the American Basketball Association Monday over what the NBA termed a breach of good faith.

"At this time the NBA does not contemplate having further meetings with the ABA," said Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the NBA, at a New York news conference.

The talks between the 23-year-old NBA and its 2-year-old rival to "explore the possibility of cooperative arrangements between the two professional leagues" started Aug. 7.

Kennedy cited as a "breach of good faith in the negotiation procedures" the failure of the ABA to advise the NBA of the possibility of Oakland moving to Washington and by not identifying the name of the NBA player still under contract who had been signed by the Carolina Cougars.

The Oakland franchise was sold to Earl Foreman, a Washington attorney, and moved to Washington last week. The NBA player was identified as Billy Cunningham, star of the Philadelphia 76ers.

Jim Gardner, president of the ABA and also owner of the Carolina Cougars, revealed at a news conference in Greensboro, N.C., Monday that Cunningham signed a contract to play with the Cougars during the 1971-72 season after his Philadelphia contract expires.

Salary terms were not disclosed, but Gardner said that in addition to his pay Cunningham will receive five franchises in a quick-restaurant chain owned by Gardner.

"Does this mean the NBA has declared war on the ABA?" Kennedy was asked at his news conference.

"You said it, not me," replied the NBA commissioner. Gardner indicated, however, that other NBA players, like Cunningham, had approached him regarding a possible switch.

Kennedy said he had no knowledge of any other NBA players who might have approached Gardner but pointed out that in the past several NBA players had signed with the ABA, but "still have not played in the ABA."

Kennedy identified the players as Leroy Ellis of Baltimore, Clyde Lee of San Francisco, Erwin Mueller of Chicago, Jim Barnes of Los Angeles and Lou Hudson of Atlanta.

Kennedy said that "throughout the talks with the ABA there was a genuine concern among the NBA representatives and me that the ABA might not be negotiating in good faith" because of the Oakland and Cunningham cases.

Spencer Haywood, the Detroit All-American and Olympic star, who signed last weekend with the Denver Rockets of the ABA for a reported $250,000, was not specifically mentioned by Kennedy.

He referred to it only by saying "it would be extremely difficult for the NBA to consider any accommodation with any professional entity that would raid the very college campuses with whom the NBA has had such valued and pleasant associations over the years."

Haywood was a sophomore last season with Detroit. The NBA has a rule forbidding the signing of a college player until his class graduates. The ABA has a similar rule, but makes exceptions in hardship circumstances. Haywood contended he had overwhelming family responsibilities.

In another development Monday, Rick Barry, Oakland's high scoring star, met in Los Angeles with Foreman, the new owner of the club, to decide whether he would play with the club in Washington. Barry jumped to Oakland from the NBA's San Francisco Warriors after sitting out one year.

At Albuquerque, N.M., Alex Hannum, the Oakland coach, met with Albuquerque businessmen to discuss a possible ABA franchise in that city. No announcement was made of what happened at the meeting.

Mann Takes Top In Women's Golf Money Winnings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carol Mann overtook Kathy Whitworth Sunday as the leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association Tournament tour and moved into a $2,000 lead.

Miss Mann, winner of five tournaments in the 1969 tour, finished first in the Tournament of Champions at Winnipeg, Canada, and LPGA headquarters here reported Monday she now has won $35,547. She won $3,000 at Winnipeg.

Miss Whitworth finished in a two-way tie for seventh and won only $800. She has a total of $33,504.

Miss Whitworth is a perennial leader in money winnings since Mickey Wright quit playing the entire tour and only a few weeks ago she was about $6,000 ahead of Miss Mann.

Stengel: 'It's Impossible To Name an All-Time Team'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Suppose you were the greatest living manager in baseball, a Hall of Famer yourself, and you had 25 of the other 36 living members of the Hall of Fame to choose from. Who would you pick to make up the best team possible?

"I won't answer that. I can't answer that," said Casey Stengel, the man picked by sports writers as the greatest living manager. "They've been trying to do that for years, and they can't. Every ten years there's another great pitcher comes along, so you can't say."

"And I might get in trouble for saying this," Casey added

Talking about the division races in the National League, Stengel was impressed by the Dodgers. "With Buzzie Bavasi former Dodger general manager, now with the San Diego Padres gone and all those other guys gone," Casey said, "and Sandy Koufax gone and now Don Drysdale gone, it's amazing that they're in the pennant race."

And talking about division races, Stengel could even talk about the New York Mets, the team he managed when they only had enough talent to be pathetic.

There's No Place Like Home—

Cincinnati Reds' Lee May tries to score from second base on teammate Woody Woodward's single to leftfield in the second inning at Chicago Monday. However, Cubs' catcher Randy Hundley tags him out after taking perfect throw from leftfielder Billy Williams. Cincinnati won the contest, 9-8.

Reds Overpower Cubs 9-8 Despite Chicago's 4-Run 9th

CHICAGO (AP) — Two home runs by Tony Perez and another by Lee May helped the Cincinnati Reds snap a four-game losing streak with a 9-8 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday.

The triumph lifted the Reds within one-half game of first place San Francisco in the National League's Western Division while Chicago's lead in the Eastern Division melted to 4 1/2 games over the New York Mets.

Perez slammed a two-out homer after Alex Johnson had singled in the first inning and May connected with his 34th with two out in the fourth.

Perez then broke a 3-3 tie with his 32nd homer to lead off the sixth and the Reds put the game away with two runs in the seventh, one of which was unearned.

The Cubs kept pecking away with a singles attack. They picked up a run in the second on a double by Ernie Banks and a single by Randy Hundley and tied it in the third on singles by Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert and a sacrifice fly by Ron Santo.

The Cubs had their big chance in the fifth when pitcher Bill Rands, 15-11, led off with a single and Kessinger, Beckert and Billy Williams all singled to tie the score at 3-3.

Gary Nolan, 4-5, then fanned Santo, Ernie Banks and Jim Hickman to wheel out of the jam.

Chicago collected four runs in the bottom of the ninth inning but Paul Popovich lined out to end the game with the bases loaded.

Andretti Keeps Point Lead In U.S. Auto Club Standings

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Mario Andretti's crash at Dover Downs, Del., Sunday didn't seriously affect his campaign for the United States Auto Club's Big Car racing championship.

The wreck came so late in the race that Andretti took 11th place for completing more laps than some drivers who were still running when Art Pollard finished as the winner. Andretti was not hurt and still has almost twice as many points as No. 2 Bobby Unser.

Pollard's victory, first in the circuit for a Plymouth-powered car, vaulted him from ninth to seventh place in the standings. Gordon Johncock, who finished second, moved from fourth to third in the standings.

MARIO ANDRETTI
Retains First Place

Other wrecks Sunday injured Wally Dallenbach, fifth in the standings, and Lloyd Ruby, 10th. They probably won't be able to run in the next USAC championship event Labor Day at Duquoin, Ill.

Gary Bettenhausen and Roger McCluskey held the lead in sprints and stock cars, respectively. Sammy Sessions advanced from seventh to fifth in the sprints.

BILLS CUT LAST YEAR'S MVP
NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Ed Rutkowski, Buffalo Bills' flanker and sometime quarterback who was voted Most Valuable Player last season by his teammates, was cut from the Bills' squad Monday.

For a lot of drivers, excuses for not wearing safety belts made their last holiday, their very last holiday.

What's your excuse?

Did ya hear about the one that got away?

We've heard about the Savings Bond that got lost. About the one that got stolen. And the one that got burned.

We've heard them all.

But don't think you could ever really lose your U.S. Savings Bonds. Because they don't really get away. At least not for long.

That's because Bonds are replaceable. And we replace them. For a duplicate or for full payment. Whichever you like.

Your money is always safe when you invest in your country. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or buy Bonds where you bank. Don't let this one get away.
