

FAA Hit for Lack Of Proper Control Over Small Craft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) was sharply criticized in Congress Wednesday for its lack of controls over small planes in congested air corridors.

"I would think those deaths would be on your conscience," Rep. Richard L. Ottinger (D-N.Y.) told FAA officials in reference to Tuesday's air collision near Indianapolis.

John H. Shaffer, FAA administrator, said the light plane involved did not show up on radar, was operating under normal visual flight rules not under control of the tower there and the Allegheny jetliner was under constant surveillance.

"I choose to think yesterday's accident was fatal," Shaffer said at one point during his critical round of questioning before the House Commerce Committee.

But Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.) told Shaffer such a statement disturbed him, adding, "It is clear to me that if both planes had been under positive control the accident would not have happened."

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the owners and operators of small airplanes said Wednesday that airport radar should have provided adequate warning that the two airplanes involved in Tuesday's Indiana disaster were on a collision course.

Max Karant, vice president of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association (AOPA), challenged the statement by an air traffic controller that the small plane in the collision with an Allegheny Airlines DC8 was invisible to the radar at Weir Cook municipal airport, where the jet was preparing to land.

The light plane pilot and all 82 persons aboard the airliner were killed.

Jack H. Frets, public affairs officer for the Indianapolis air route control center, said that the big DC8 showed on the radar screen but that the small Piper Cherokee did not.

"One question AOPA will want answered, and soon, is, 'why did radar see the DC8 and not the Cherokee?'" Karant said.

"Was it ignoring all other aircraft on the primary radar?"

Karant said that within the past few days he knew of a pilot of a small plane, not equipped with a transponder, which was tracked by Weir Cook airport's radar from a much greater distance than the scene of Tuesday's collision.

The traffic controllers' union said it has been telling the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) for more than two years that the radar system at Indianapolis Weir Cook municipal airport is inadequate.

On July 28, controllers from Indianapolis told Shaffer that weak radar coverage in the area of Tuesday's accident presented an unsafe condition, Stanley Lyman, vice president of the National Association of Government Employees (NAGE), said.

"All the ingredients for further tragedy continue to exist in the Indianapolis area," Lyman said.

"NAGE has warned the FAA that identical conditions exist near numerous other airports in the U.S.," he said. "The solution is new equipment."

Lyman said the FAA itself confirmed less than three months ago that the Weir Cook radar was inadequate.

He said the FAA flight-checked Indianapolis radar coverage with a Beechcraft Bonanza, a plane similar to the Piper Cherokee, and found that radar failed to pick up the small plane.

An AOPA representative is at the crash scene, observing the investigative work under way, at the invitation of the FAA.

Student Asks Jefferson: Drop 'Nigger' from Code

JEFFERSON — What started out as a summer amusement project — a review of his hometown city code — has turned into a not so amusing issue for David Yepsen, A2, Jefferson.

Over the summer Yepsen ran across a code section containing the term "nigger shooter."

Webster's Third New International Dictionary defines "nigger shooter" as a slang term meaning slingshot.

Yepsen has asked the City Council to substitute slingshot in the city code ordinance section banning possession of a "bee bee gun, air rifle, air pistol, nigger shooter, bean shooter, or any other similar device."

"The word 'nigger' is offensive and contemptuous to Afro-American friends. The city of Jefferson should not be promoting the use of the word 'nigger' by using it in the city code," Yepsen says.

Yepsen, an 18-year-old Hillcrest student senator, said Wednesday he thought the City Council would eventually be amenable to his request.

"I've known most of the councilmen all my life and I've discussed the issue with all of them. It's kind of an informal type thing. I'm sure eventually they'll meet my request," Yepsen said.

Yepsen returned to the University Wednesday to register for fall semester classes. He said that any further involvement he had in the issue would probably be by mail.

Yepsen made his initial request over a month ago.

During the past week he has written a letter to both Jefferson Mayor James Pauley and State Rep. June Franklin (D-Polk County) asking that the ordinance be changed.

Yepsen said Wednesday that if those letters produced no action, his next step would be to go directly to the State branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Jefferson city councilmen have told Yepsen that slingshots had been called nigger shooters since the councilmen were children and that the councilmen saw no reason to change the law.

Pauley has said that Yepsen's request was discussed at the last council meeting but that no action was taken.

Says Pauley, "No one really expressed any strong opinions one way or the other about it."

Pauley said that in order to change nigger shooter to slingshot in the ordinance, the change would have to be approved consecutively at three council meetings.

The council meets twice a month.

Pauley also said that the amended ordinance would have to be published in the local newspaper as a matter of public record.

Sutton Puts Off Resignation To Help Pick His Successor

Sutton Says Senate Meeting Canceled; But Senators Here Say It's Still On

Jim Sutton said Wednesday that he has not as yet officially resigned the position of student body president.

In so saying, he dampened the possibility that there would be any discussion or election of his successor at the Student Senate meeting scheduled for tonight in the Union Illinois Room.

In a telephone interview with The Daily Iowan, Sutton said, "I don't know when I'll resign. I want to make sure who my successor will be."

Sutton is now in Washington, D.C., where he is executive vice president for the National Student Association (NSA). He said in the interview that he would be in Iowa City Friday.

During Sutton's stay in Washington, plans were being made for tonight's Senate meeting, at which presidential succession was to be discussed.

Tonight's meeting was called by Student Senate Pres. Pro Tempore Roy Cacciatore Monday.

Cacciatore sent letters to all student senators stating that there would be a meeting to discuss presidential succession and to handle old Senate business.

Cacciatore said that he called the meeting after he was asked to do so by Sutton. Sutton's request came from Washington through Bert Marian, Senate vice president for research.

Sutton said that communications had gotten "all bawled up" and that the "wrong date had been given to Cacciatore."

He said that the meeting had now been cancelled and rescheduled. The Daily Iowan learned, however, that there has been no action to cancel the meeting nor is any action intended.

Some senators have said that according to the Iowa Student Association Constitution, Cacciatore did not have the authority to call a Senate meeting.

However, Cacciatore said Wednesday that he did have the power to call the meeting because the Senate had never actually adjourned at its last meeting. He explained that the Senate had merely adjourned into a "committee of the whole" to be able to get work done over the summer without the requirement of a quorum, and that his actions were equivalent to "reconvening" the Senate.

In any case, Student Body Vice Pres. James Dougherty said Wednesday that he would chair the meeting. According to some senators, this would legitimize any action taken by Cacciatore.

It has also been rumored that Dougherty would resign with Sutton to pave the way for a new president.

However, Sutton said, "It is not altogether clear that Dougherty is going to resign."

But Dougherty told The Daily Iowan Wednesday night, "as far as I'm concerned, it's altogether clear."

Dougherty, who said after the El Paso meeting that he would probably resign with Sutton, said he would make a statement of resignation to the Senate tonight.

Sutton, a 26-year-old former graduate student from Boston, was elected to his NSA job at that organization's 22nd annual congress in El Paso, Texas, Aug. 27. He had been elected student body president March 26 in an all campus election.

When elected to the NSA office, Sutton said that he would resign as student body president, but would first return to Iowa City "to finish the things we've started."

Sutton was in Iowa City less than a week before he went to Washington to assume his NSA responsibilities.

Because Sutton's move was apparently unprecedented, succession procedures were uncertain.

Sutton's statement that he was not officially resigning further muddies an already confused situation. No provisions have been made for presidential succession.

Dougherty's resignation, if it occurs, will eliminate him from the line of succession.

Cacciatore, who was rumored to be another contender, said Wednesday, "I am not interested in the job in any way shape or form."

Both Dougherty and Cacciatore said they were not surprised at Sutton's announcement Wednesday.

Cacciatore said, "There are still questions of presidential succession that must be resolved. Sutton will resign at some future date. That's obvious."

Dougherty said, "The last I heard was that Sutton would be back either to appoint someone with the Senate's approval, or that the Senate would elect someone itself."

Several other topics are scheduled for tonight's Senate meeting.

Cacciatore said that there is still the question of the procedure for presidential succession and that the Senate will no doubt discuss "financial matters which have been held up due to the absence" of Sutton during the summer.

Dougherty, however, said that he didn't know "what we can straighten out if Sutton hasn't resigned."

He said he had assumed that the Senate would at least "temporarily appoint" someone to the presidency during the meeting.

Sutton wants to get as much continuity as possible in bringing in a new administration, said Dougherty, adding that he was willing to help do this in any way he could.

Cacciatore stressed that there was no power play "and that no wheeling and dealing" was being done over choosing a presidential successor.

"There are no political power plays," he said, and rumors to the contrary "are totally untrue."

He said the decision of a successor would be partially based on Sutton's choice, but that the "Senate will have a good deal to say about it as the legislative body of the students."

"Anybody's opinion will be looked into," he said, "I don't think that Senate would ever rubber-stamp" any one person's choice.

Sutton would not say Wednesday how he hoped the decision would be made, but ruled out a campus-wide election because of excessive costs.

Murder Attempt On Evers Foiled; 3 Men Arrested

FAYETTE, Miss. (AP) — Three white men, one identified as a former Klan leader, have been arrested in an investigation of a reported plot to murder black mayor Charles Evers.

"It was a serious attempt on my life," said Evers Wednesday. "When they've got submachine guns, I'd consider it a serious threat."

Evers is Mississippi's only black mayor of a biracial town since Reconstruction. He was inaugurated mayor of predominantly black Fayette, which has a population of 1,600, last July.

Federal agents joined the probe after police here stopped and arrested Dale Walton, 44, of Tupelo, Miss., Tuesday night, charging him with speeding and carrying concealed weapons.

Agents identified Walton as former imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan Knights of the Green Forest, a North Mississippi splinter of the KKK.

At nearby Natchez a few hours later, police moved in on a motel room registered to Walton and arrested Bobby Hayward, 18, of Tupelo. Officers said he had a .45-caliber submachine gun.

Possession of a submachine gun is a federal offense. Hayward was turned over to federal agents.

The agents said the submachine gun was then traced to Par Massengale, 50, of Hattiesburg, Miss.

In Hattiesburg, Massengale was arrested and charged with illegally transferring the submachine gun to Hayward. He was released on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond.

The arrest of Walton came after Evers got two anonymous telephone call tips that men were out to kill him.

Nobel Scientist Won't Develop Blinding Agent

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. George Wald, who won the Nobel Prize for research on vision, said Wednesday he refused a government laboratory's request that he help develop a chemical warfare agent that would temporarily blind.

A spokesman for the laboratory denied that any such request had been made.

Wald spoke at the 158th national meeting of the American Chemical Society, which heard another Nobel laureate declare that the government had cut funds for his cancer research.

Dr. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi said the government had withdrawn support for research on his new theory of cancer because "killing has preference over healing."

Wald, a Harvard University professor widely known for his support of young people who oppose the Vietnam War, said the production of weapons has had a deleterious effect throughout society.

Wald received the Nobel Prize in 1967 for work on the chemistry and physiology of vision. "That work I got the Nobel Prize for, I'm proud of it and I'd like to think that it's innocent," he said.

Officials of the State of Alaska open and count Wednesday the bids from oil companies and place them in the slots identifying each of 179 tracts of oil land on Alaska's North Slope. The bids were turned into the State and sealed. After scanning each of the bids, officials hope to award the tracts of land within the week.

Getty, Oil Companies Bid On Alaskan Land Tracts

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — J. Paul Getty, considered one of the world's richest men, joined with Amerada-Hess Oil Co. Wednesday to bid $72.2 million for the lease on one 2,560-acre tract of oil land on Alaska's North Slope.

The bid amounted to $28,233 per acre — the most ever bid for oil land in the United States.

The previous high was just over $27,000 for land in Louisiana.

The Getty-Amerada bid came at an oil lease sale at which the State of Alaska hoped to realize $1 billion for leases on 179 tracts.

"It looks great. I'm extremely pleased," said Alaska Secretary of State Robert W. Ward, but he would not predict whether the total would go over $1 billion. "Some of the hot spots have already been announced," he said. By hot spots, he meant choice tracts.

With 100 of the high bids read, the total stood at $756.4 million. The state hoped for $2,200 per acre but was averaging more than $3,476 per acre.

It was the 23rd time Alaska has offered oil land for lease. The total paid for leases in all previous sales was $97.5 million.

A combine of Gulf Oil Corp., British Petroleum Oil Corp. and British Petroleum Alaska Inc., was apparent high bidder on the first six tracts on which bids were read. Total high bids on those six were $95.7 million.

A combine of Phillips Petroleum, Mobil and Standard of California bid $41,230,000 on one 2,560-acre tract — a record in an Alaska sale.

The sale was picketed by six Eskimos from Barrow, who contended that the North Slope and its oil should belong exclusively to members of their race — first inhabitants of the bitterly cold area along the Arctic Ocean.

The state got 1,105 bids on the 179 parcels. Officials were reading bids on each parcel individually — a process that was expected to take nine hours.

All together, 450,858 acres of land are being offered on 10-year leases. Oil companies must pay the state a production royalty of twelve and one half per cent.

Gov. Keith Miller said the sale would lift Alaska from its frontier economy.

"Alaska will never again be the same," Miller told a municipal auditorium audience of more than 600. Most of the audience consisted of representatives of the world's major oil firms who put up the money.

The bids were taken in sealed envelopes. Oilmen and their bankers paraded down the aisle of the auditorium, gripping briefcases, and presented their envelopes to state officials.

A chartered DC8 jet stood by to fly the winning checks to New York banks so the money could begin drawing interest immediately.

M.S.U.'s Bennington Dies of Heart Attack

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — John Bennington, head coach of Michigan State University's basketball team for the past four seasons, collapsed in a school locker room and died Wednesday night. He was 47.

School officials said Bennington's body was found by his wife, Barbara, and assistant coach Bob Nordmann, in the coaches' locker room at Jensen Gymnasium on the MSU campus.

Farewell Service Spoken In Washington for Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The powerful men of government who were his intimates said farewell Wednesday to Everett McKinley Dirksen, the golden-tongued orator who was one of the nation's best-known and most influential senators.

He will be buried Thursday in Pekin, Ill., where he was reared in the state he represented for 35 years in both houses of Congress.

"For his massive mind, his matchless speech, his powers of persuasion and his parliamentary skills we give Thee thanks," prayed the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson Wednesday at the funeral service at the National Presbyterian Church.

"For his elevated patriotism and his manly piety, for his grace and dignity in public service we give thanks to Thee. For his prodigious energy spent in self-sacrificing public service, for his fortitude in suffering and his witness to values which are everlasting we give thanks to Thee," he prayed.

President Nixon, who delivered the eulogy to Dirksen in the Capitol Rotunda Tuesday, attended the service with his wife and daughters. He also escorted Mamie Eisenhower, widow of President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was at the service with Mrs. Agnew. He will represent the President at the graveside.

Dirksen's Senate colleagues stood at the top of the steps of the Capitol as the rose-blanketed coffin was carried out after lying in state for 24 hours. They then came to the church in buses.

The Senate will not meet Thursday and many of its members plan to attend the burial. Speaker of the House John W.

McCormack, a Democrat, and the entire Illinois delegation to the House will be that body's representatives.

The widow, Louella Dirksen, had asked that no photographs be made in the church and her wishes were honored. There was only a brief service in the new church — opened for worship for the first time Sunday, the day Dirksen died.

There were wreaths from the President, both houses of Congress and one of marigolds from Dirksen's staff. Dirksen long had sought to make the marigold the national flower.

Some former senators, including Kansas' Frank Carlson and California's Thomas H. Kuchel, attended the services. Most of the Nixon Cabinet was there along with officials from other administrations.

The 30-member Army chorus sang hymns after a military honor guard, representing all services, carried the coffin into the church. The seal of the Senate lay on top of the coffin.

Dr. Elson, who is Senate chaplain as well as pastor of the church, and The Rev. Charles H. Reckard of New Orleans, read from the scriptures. Then Dr. Elson, who will conduct the graveside services, read a short prayer, which said in part:

"May the integrity of his manhood, the radiance of his character, the warmth of his personality, his gentle but subtle humor and his sense of the divine in all things human remain as an abiding legacy for all generations.

"May his golden voice now silenced on this side be lifted in everlasting praise with choirs invisible on the other side of the great divide."

Pallbearers carry the casket of the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen into the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, D.C., for a farewell funeral service. Leading are the Rev. Charles H. Reckard of New Orleans, left, and the Rev. Edward L. R. Elson, chaplain of the Senate. Burial will be in Pekin, Ill., today. — AP Wirephoto

Farewell Prayers for Dirksen

Fed Chairman Martin Says Nation At End of Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board told the Senate Banking Committee Wednesday he believes the nation is "at the tail end" of the inflationary period.

He said this is his principal reason for opposing a bill by Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre (D-N.H.) to authorize the Fed and other federal agencies to fix a ceiling on bank interest charges.

The administration, represented by Undersecretary of the Treasury Paul A. Volcker, joined Martin in opposing the measure.

McIntyre said he saw no prospect that interest rates are going to decline in the next six months and asked Martin if he foresees a decline.

"There are indications we may be getting to the end of very high interest rates," Martin said.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said he doesn't share Martin's confidence that inflation is about over. He noted that Martin had made a similar statement about six months ago. He asked Martin what encouraging signs he now sees.

Martin mentioned the stock market decline and "a modest" decline in the volume of bank loans.

He added that there "are little straws in the wind here and there" such as an indication that business may be curbing plans for spending on plant and equipment.

HUD Gives City $7,600 For Local Low Rent Housing

A grant of $7,600 from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) was given to Iowa City as the first installment on its low rent housing program.

announced the grant at a joint city-university meeting Tuesday.

ing will now be done by the city.

City administrative assistant John M. Crane said the city will be interviewing landlords who might have housing that would qualify and heads of families whose families might qualify to live in the housing.

The city has received authorization for a 250-unit program involving a maximum federal contribution of $254,000 a year. The city plans to do the program over several years. The initial stage would be limited to a few units.

The federal money will be used to pay the difference between lease expenses and rental income. The lease price and rent will be negotiated individually, with the rent being determined by what the low income families, the handicapped and the elderly can afford.

Disagreement Over Artificial Heart Research—

Coolley Quits Baylor Post

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Noted medicine in a disagreement about further research with artificial hearts, Cooley issued a statement saying his appointment as clinical professor of surgery at Baylor was made with an agreement that his research activities would be controlled by the Baylor Research Committee.

"Subsequent refusal of the committee to accept my proposal for continuation of research at the Texas Heart Institute in the field of cardiac replacement then followed," the statement said.

Cooley said he resigned from the Baylor staff "so that I could continue with clinical research which is vital to the future conquest of cardio-vascular disease."

Cooley and his team have transplanted 20 hearts. Two patients are still living. He was a teacher at Baylor. He was not paid.

Cooley has been on a part-time basis with the clinical staff since June when he and Dr. Grady L. Hallman, a member of his transplant team, requested they be changed from full-time status.

"To my knowledge Dr. Hallman has not resigned," said L. F. McCollum, chairman of trustees.

Dr. Cooley is head of the Texas Heart Institute and also is chief of cardio-vascular surgery at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, where he performed his transplants, and Texas Children's Hospital. His relations with these were not affected by his resignation.

His action stemmed from a controversy over his historic use of an artificial heart in a human.

Transplants Of Hearts Not Answer: M.D.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Transplants will never be a major treatment of heart disease," Dr. Michael DeBakey said Wednesday, "but we will continue to perform them in limited cases."

The Houston heart surgeon gave this assessment of the future of human transplants at a news conference in which he criticized federal cutbacks in research he said was vital to develop mechanical hearts and other devices "to tide patients over initial attacks."

DeBakey, whose team at Baylor College of Medicine has performed 11 transplants, said full control of the body's defenses against foreign material such as new hearts remains beyond the grasp of researchers.

DeBakey was here to make an Alumni Day talk at the Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

Haynsworth Will Reveal His Finances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, who reportedly collected almost $450,000 on a $3,000 investment, is being asked for a listing of his corporate interests and outside sources of income since 1963.

The financial report was requested by two members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which will start hearings next Tuesday on President Nixon's nomination of Haynsworth to be a Supreme Court Justice.

Sens. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) and Joseph D. Tydings (D-Md.) submitted the request to the committee chairman, Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), and Eastland relayed it to Haynsworth, now chief justice of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Legislative Council Initiates Iowa Social Services Study

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Legislative Council Wednesday approved the launching of two studies. One will study the facilities to care for Iowa's elderly, ill and poor; the other will study social services financing.

Council approval came only after several of the 16 members were persuaded that it was not too late in the year to carry out the studies by six-member subcommittees.

An objection to the probes was voiced by Sen. Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque).

"Somebody ought to be reading the studies that have been done already," he said. "I've got studies on my desk I haven't even read yet."

The study of methods by which the State Department of Social Services is funded was requested by Sen. Ernest Kosek (R-Cedar Falls) who said he hoped the study would show ways to save money through better program coordination.

Rep. Edgar Holden (R-Davenport) proposed that a subcommittee look at the "critical problems" of caring for people in institutions because they cannot care for themselves at home.

Holden said the need for the study is crucial now because the State Department of Health may phase out pre-1957 nursing and custodial homes in which most welfare and poor people are living.

Sabin School to Reopen

Henry Sabin Elementary School will open for classes Monday after being closed for remodeling.

Another phase of the remodeling calls for interior painting which will be done in December.

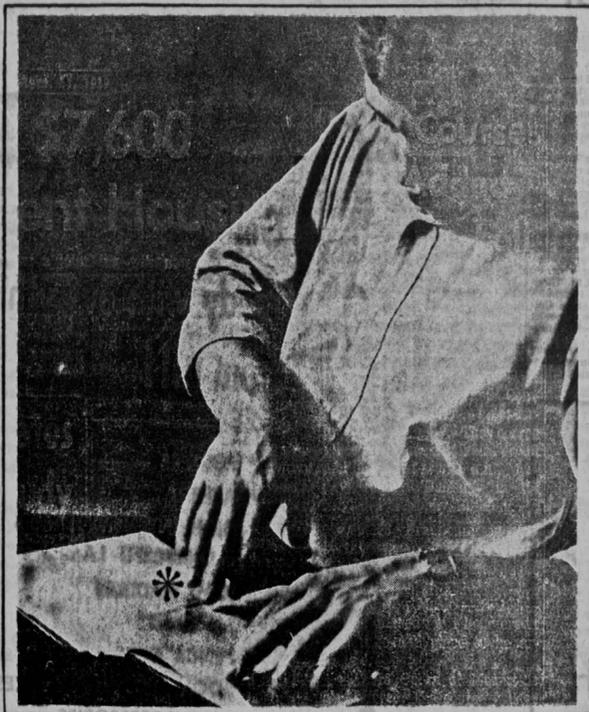

Painting will also be done to the interiors of Horace Mann and Henry Longfellow Elementary Schools, at an estimated cost of about $8,000. Bids have not been taken yet for those projects.

Meet Nick Dozoryst, 22

He's a law student

He rebuilds cars

He can read 2000 words a minute

Watching Nick's hand* fly over the pages (his hand acts as a pacer) you swear he must be skimming. But he's not. Nick Dozoryst has learned to read an average novel in an hour, and even the toughest material in at least 1,000 words a minute with understanding and recall.

Nick isn't some kind of genius nor was he always a fast reader. In fact, Nick is just one of the average graduates of the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute. Most of the more than 500,000 Reading Dynamics graduates obtain at least a 4.7 increase over their average 300 words a minute starting speed—some even go as high as 3,000 words a minute.

And, there is nothing difficult or tricky about this scientific method developed over an 18 year period by Mrs. Evelyn Wood, a prominent educator. The successful results of the course, which numbers among its graduates senators, congressmen, students, lawyers, housewives, and many professional people, have been reported in TIME, BUSINESS WEEK, and many leading newspapers as well as on radio and TV.

We guarantee to refund your full tuition if you do not at least triple your reading efficiency. (By reading efficiency we mean a combination of speed and comprehension, not just speed alone.) All we ask is that you attend all classes and practice one hour daily.

You can learn more about the course, which consists of eight weekly 2 1/2 hour sessions, by attending a free orientation. You'll see an actual demonstration of Reading Dynamics and a documentary film of University of Texas students and faculty who have taken the course and become dynamic readers. We'll answer all your questions concerning the course, including our Lifetime Membership and positive guarantee of tuition refund.

Check the schedule below and plan now to attend one of these orientations. Within eight weeks, you could be reading as well as Nick Dozoryst. Come to an orientation with no obligation to enroll. For more information, mail the coupon below. Or, for instant information, call Reading Dynamics, the world-famous reading course.

Vietnam Cease-fire Ends; All Is Quiet

SAIGON (AP) — The 72-hour cease-fire proclaimed by the Viet Cong to mourn the death of North Vietnam's President Ho Chi Minh ended Thursday. U.S. spokesmen said they had no immediate word of renewed enemy attacks.

"Reports from the field usually are slow coming in — unless there has been a major incident," said a U.S. Command spokesman shortly after the truce period ended at 1 a.m. Thursday Saigon time.

"It may be some time before we know whether anything significant has happened. So far, it has just been a real quiet night."

Late Wednesday, however, an enemy force carrying metal objects believed to be rockets was spotted by U.S. Marines southwest of Da Nang and came under American artillery fire.

The shells touched off nine secondary explosions as they landed among enemy soldiers numbering between 75 and 100 men, U.S. spokesmen said. Officials said the enemy force may have been getting in attack position.

The waning hours of the cease-fire were accompanied by harsh words from Hanoi, where final services were held for Ho. In a funeral oration Tuesday, Communist party first secretary Le Duan promised to carry out Ho's final wish "to fight and defeat the U.S. aggressors, to liberate the South."

A series of top-level meetings between American and South Vietnamese leaders in Saigon and President Nixon's scheduled review of Vietnam policy Friday prompted speculation the allies may be preparing a major new peace initiative.

Such a move might include another American troop withdrawal, perhaps of 35,000 men, or a scaling down of allied military operations. There was talk that the allies might have secretly contacted North Vietnam with offers to extend the cease-fire period.

"Maybe there are secret talks. I think it's possible," said a South Vietnamese official.

Tacit U.S. acceptance of the 72-hour truce resulted in a sharp dispute with the Saigon government.

Point of Impact

A stake was placed by investigators Wednesday at the exact point where an Allegheny Airlines DC-9 jet crashed Tuesday, killing 83 persons, after colliding with a private plane. The string leading from the back indicates the jet's line of flight as it hit. The plane's direction was from front to back in the picture. The crash has stirred a furor of criticism because no radar contact with the private plane was maintained by ground crews.

Disunity Seen Appearing In Ranks of French Gaullists

AMBOISE, France (AP) — Signs of disunity are appearing in Gaullist ranks, where cohesion will be important if President Georges Pompidou is to make devaluation and its companion measures stick.

Pompidou, Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas and Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing are coming under attack from splinter groups in the Gaullist party for what in a Communist country would be called "deviationism."

Pompidou is suspected by both the extreme left and the far right wing of the party, the Union Democratique pour la Republique, of deviating from orthodoxy as Charles de Gaulle would have defined it. The prime complaints are Pompidou's decision Aug. 8 to devalue the franc, his willingness to seek conditional loans from the country's principal trading partners, and an apparent softening of the veto De Gaulle imposed on Britain's application to join the Common Market.

The first serious crack in Gaullist solidarity appeared

Aug. 13, when a former social affairs minister, Jean-Marcel Jeanneney, criticized devaluation as a betrayal of Gaullist orthodoxy.

Defense Minister Michel Debre, an unconditional right-wing follower of De Gaulle, replied by backing Pompidou's decision. But Debre slipped in an important condition: he supported devaluation, he said, because it could stem the hemorrhage of French gold and dollar reserves, thus avoiding foreign borrowing and the "loss of national independence" that it would imply.

A left-wing Gaullist group has denounced the government's austerity plan to accompany devaluation as "reactionary and incoherent."

More serious was the organization of a group calling itself the Presence and Action of Gaullism, counting some 40 parliamentary deputies, mostly from the Gaullist right. The group declares itself loyal "to the person and the action of Gen. de Gaulle." It accounts for a little less than a sixth of the Gaullist party's parliamentary strength.

Coralville Talks Of Leasing Plant To Printing Firm

Coralville City Council Tuesday night discussed the possibility of providing a home for a new industry in Coralville.

The building under consideration — the abandoned power plant on First Avenue — was tentatively slated to be the site for a Coralville civic center.

However, Bowden Bros., a Davenport printing firm, is interested in the building as a possible site for a manufacturing plant for an affiliated firm, Educational Communications Information.

After hearing plans outlined by G. R. Bowden Jr., councilmen indicated they would be receptive to a purchase or lease arrangement, preferably a long-term lease, which would enable the firm to use the facility.

Greg Allison Rejoins Team; Hawks Scrimmage in Iowa Stadium Today

By MIKE SLUTSKY
Sports Editor

The Iowa football team received a pleasant surprise Wednesday when it was officially announced that senior guard Greg Allison would rejoin the squad. Allison will take part in the Hawks' scrimmage today, beginning at about 4 p.m. in the Stadium.

Allison, who had been one of the few bright spots in the Iowa defensive picture the past two seasons, has been scholastically ineligible since last spring and remained so until Wednesday.

The 6-1, 225-pounder from San Diego, Calif., will be back at his middle guard position which should afford the defensive line a great deal more flexibility and depth.

Already at middle guard is highly-touted sophomore Bill Windauer, a 235-pounder from

BILL WINDAUER
Iowa No. 1 Middle Guard

Chicago who has been running with the No. 1 defensive unit, and Jerry Nelson, a 220-pound sophomore from Bessemer,

IOWA CITY TYPEWRITER CO.

Ala., who has looked extremely good in fall practices so far.

Allison worked out with the squad Wednesday and Coach Ray Nagel said after practice that he did not know what kind of condition Allison was in but added that Allison would perform in today's scrimmage and that more shuffling at middle guard would follow. This follows the pattern Nagel has used this fall of attempting to have many players learn more than one position. Thus, it is safe to assume that Windauer, Nelson and Allison will all be seeing work at more than one position.

Allison ranked second behind Mike Phillips in tackles last season for the Hawks with 47 solo stops and 41 assists. As a sophomore Allison was in on 84 tackles and led the team in stopping the opposition for losses with 13 for 37 yards.

Today's scrimmage will be the Hawkeyes' last big scrimmage before the Oregon State opener at the Stadium Sept. 20. Nagel has made it a practice in his three previous years at Iowa to hold a full-scale scrimmage about 10 days before the season's opener and he has stuck to form this year.

Nagel said Wednesday that the scrimmage will be similar to the one that was held last Saturday in the Stadium. The offense will start all of its series from its 40-yard line and there will be no kicking in the workout. The scrimmage will last about 1 1/2 hours.

The Hawks went through a light practice Wednesday and had a goal line scrimmage to end the session. There was some running of the Oregon State offense and defense Wednesday and this will be continued in today's scrimmage.

Alan Schaefer, sophomore quarterback from Baldwin, Pa., will lead the No. 3 offense, or the simulated Oregon State attack. Steve Penney, who was converted earlier this week from rotator to fullback, will work with Schaefer in that backfield. Tom Smith (currently No. 1 in the battle for the starting fullback spot) will work with quarterback Larry Lawrence and tailback Levi Mitchell in the No. 1 backfield. Mike Cilek at quarterback, Marcus Melendez at fullback and Denny Green at tailback will also be seeing a lot of action. A great deal of shuffling, both on offense and defense, can be expected.

The Hawks also worked on their kicking game Wednesday and Nagel said that Al Schuette, 6-2 senior from Staunton, Ill., who also plays offensive end, has the edge right now in the place kicking department.

"Schuette has been looking good," Nagel said, "and so has Mickelson," referring to sophomore offensive guard Geoff Mickelson of Humboldt. "Schuette seems to have the edge right now. He's been kicking with both consistency and distance."

First string wingback Kerry Reardon is expected to handle the Hawks' punting duties again this year. Reardon averaged 38.2 yards a punt last season on 40 kicks.

Washington (AP) — Dave Bing, a star with the National Basketball Association's (NBA) Detroit Pistons for three seasons, signed Wednesday to play with his home town Washington Caps of the American Basketball Association (ABA).

But when he'll make the shift — next year or the year after — seemed a big question mark. He has already signed with the Pistons for this season with a provision to play out his option there next year.

Earl Foreman, who recently purchased the Oakland Oaks franchise and arranged to shift it to Washington, told reporters Bing probably will play this season with Detroit.

But Foreman wouldn't say when Bing would play with Washington, commenting only that it would be as soon as legally possible. The Cap owner indicated he feels Bing's contract is open to legal question.

The 6-2 NBA All-Star guard said he wants to return to his home town where he was a high school star before going to Syracuse. Bing was NBA Rookie of the Year in his first year with the Pistons and in the second year, 1967-68, led the NBA in scoring with a 27.1 average.

Foreman said Bing was signed to a long-term contract with the Caps, explaining he meant two or more years.

Bing said: "I think Washington will support pro basketball. Being from here, I want to help in any way I can."

Bing apparently is the player Foreman had in mind when he said recently he intended to sign a superstar from the NBA.

He gave no details of Bing's salary.

Bing, his wife and three daughters plan to move to Washington because of family and business ties.

Foreman also confirmed that Alex Hannum, who had been the Oakland coach, has decided not to move with the team.

Several persons are under consideration, Foreman said, and he hopes to make an announcement within 10 days as to who will succeed Hannum.

Snell Foresees Hard Time Ahead For O.J. at Buffalo

NEW YORK (AP) — Matt Snell, the New York Jets' running back who witnessed the response to Joe Namath and his lucrative contract, said Wednesday Buffalo's O. J. Simpson faces similar reaction this season — intimidation from the opposition and resentment from his teammates.

The intimidation undoubtedly will begin Sunday when Simpson takes his lucrative contract into regular season action for the first time against the Super Bowl champion Jets in the American Football League opener for both teams at Buffalo.

"There's no doubt the opposition is going to try and intimidate him to see if he can take it," Snell said. "There are always some wise guys who harass you — both physically and verbally. And you can't let them get you upset because then it gets around the league and everybody does it."

"I'm sure our defensive guys are going to try and show him a thing or two. I know last year against Paul Robinson, the Cincinnati rookie who was going for 1,000 yards, our defense really went out to stop him."

"It's nothing but motivation. Against O. J. no team wants to be the first to have a long run broken on them or be the first team he has a big day against. It's going to be tough on him for awhile."

Snell, however, feels the other half of the twin troubles — resentment, will be more delicate, and therefore more difficult, for Simpson to handle.

"Nobody's going to like everybody; that's the first part," said Snell. "Basically your teammates are for you, but some are going to resent it because they aren't making as much money or because they haven't made it as big."

Veterans Manning, Reardon, Rookie Osby Starters— Iowa Passing Attack Should Be Strong

Ed. Note — This is the third in a series concerning the 1969 Iowa football team. This part of the series deals with the passing attack of the Hawkeyes.

By KEITH GILLET
Asst. Sports Editor

One of the things that Iowa football fans can expect to see again this year from the Hawkeye grid team is an aggressive passing attack. The Hawks kept opponents on their toes in 1968 with their pass-run option and 1969 should not be any different.

Two key members from last year's passing attack have graduated, Al Bream, who caught a record 114 passes in his Iowa career, and wingback Barry Crees, who nabbed 66. Those figures rank first and third on Iowa's all-time list.

But assistant coach Frank Gilliam, whose job is to whip into shape Iowa's aerial attack, has gone a long way to replace those losses.

Sophomore Don Osby, a quick 176-pounder from Steubenville, Ohio, has the split end position nearly nailed down. Backing up Osby will be Alan Schuette, a 179-pound senior from Staunton, Ill.

At the tight or power end spot, veteran Ray Manning, a 198-pound junior from Wichita Falls, Tex., has his job firmly secured. His top competition comes from Roy Bash, a 195-pound junior from Belton, Mo., who will be going on both offense and defense and Mike Crivello, a 200-pound sophomore from Alton, Ill.

Last year Manning was credited with 35 receptions for 426 yards and five touchdowns, tops on the Iowa squad.

Manning's fine performance last season and his good showing this year in practice has earned him the praise of Gilliam.

"Ray is looking just as strong, just as quick as last year. He is our strong and steady man. He keeps the defense off of him," Gilliam said.

Heading up the flanker backs will be Kerry Reardon, a 176-pound junior from Kansas City, Mo., who spent his rookie year performing a variety of duties. He saw partial action at both split end and flanker and three of his 11 receptions went for Iowa touchdowns.

"Reardon is a fine punter; a good athlete with good speed and experience at the flanker positions," said Gilliam. "We are expecting fine things from him. He has steadily improved and, barring injuries, he is in for a fine season."

Tailbacks Dennis Green, a junior from Harrisburg, Pa., and Levi Mitchell, a sophomore from Gary, Ind., will also offer favorable passing targets. Green's five receptions in 1968 included two that went for touchdowns.

Iowa head football Coach Ray Nagel is pleased with the Hawkeyes' passing game, almost to the point of being excited about it.

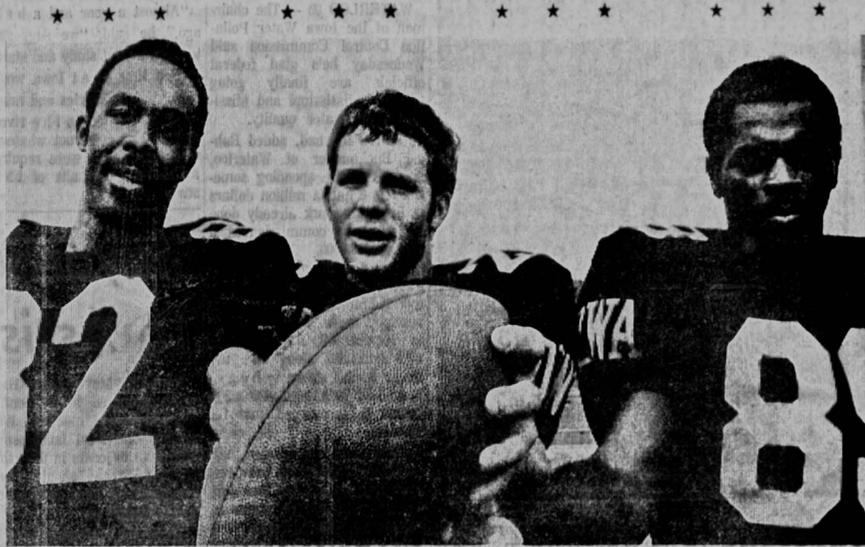

"We will have a fine passing game," said Nagel. "We have players who can throw and catch the ball very well. We won't be bashful about putting the ball in the air."

Gilliam also has been pleased with the progress being made. "We will have good pass receivers but not much depth. We do not have experienced depth, but we will have as good a first line as most teams."

"Right now is a time for learning," Gilliam continued. "The older fellows have been through it and can see things better. The younger players just haven't had the experience and are learning the best way to run patterns. I am optimistic about them; they really work."

Gilliam explained that Iowa fans might be in for a variety of plays as far as the passing game is concerned.

"Now that we have people that can catch the ball, we can throw it all kinds of ways. We have two of the best quarterbacks in the country in Larry Lawrence and Mike Cilek. There are a lot of things we couldn't do if it were not for them as our quarterbacks."

And on the Receiving End Is—

Hawks Land 3 for Basketball; A New Sam Williams at Iowa

Three new freshman basketball recruits were announced Wednesday by Iowa head basketball Coach Ralph Miller.

They are Sam Williams, 6-5 forward from Demopolis, Ala. (no relation to "Super Sam"); Joseph Gould, 6-7 forward from New Orleans and Kevin Kunnert, 6-10 center from Dubuque.

"We think they are a real good group of boys," commented Miller. "They should help round out our freshman squad."

Others already recruited by the Hawkeyes are Ken Angersola, 6-6, Garfield Heights, Ohio; Glenn Angelino, 6-3, Alton, Pa.; and Mac Petty, 6-1, McKeesport, Pa.

Fred Brown, a 6-2 all-American guard from Burlington Junior College, will join the Hawkeye varsity this year.

It was a long hard summer for the Iowa recruiting, but both Miller and a freshman coach Lanny Van Eman feel that the Hawks landed some prizes.

Williams starred at U.S. Jones High School in Demopolis, averaging 22 points and 20 rebounds as a senior. He was named the most valuable player in the 1969 Alabama North-South game.

"The squad looks fairly impressive on paper," said Van Eman Wednesday. "Williams has good credentials and a lot of native talent. He has tremendous potential and will be strong at rebounding."

Gould holds the school rebound record of 38 at Carver High School in New Orleans. He averaged 19 rebounds and 13 points as a senior.

"Gould is a late developer," Van Eman said. "We believe he has been underestimated as far as talent."

Kunnert played for Wahlert high school in Dubuque and his performance late in the season was instrumental in getting the team into the state tournament.

Van Eman said that Steve Grabinski, a brother of Ken Grabinski who was on the Iowa freshman team last season and will be on the varsity this season, will also be on the Hawkeye freshman squad. He has not been granted a Big 10 tender.

Man Sentenced In C.R. Abortion

Joseph G. Abodeely, 38, of Cedar Rapids, was ordered Wednesday in Linn County District Court to be taken to the state penitentiary at Ft. Madison to start a 5-year sentence for attempting to produce an abortion.

Abodeely had pleaded guilty June 12 to a charge of aiding in an attempt to abort the birth of a child to a young woman from Ottumwa. He testified Wednesday that he had entered the guilty plea because pressure was put on him and because he did not think "helping a girl in need" could be considered a crime.

Abodeely has requested the court to allow him to withdraw his plea on the grounds that the plea was made involuntarily.

Judge Harold D. Vietor said he would probably rule on Abodeely's request sometime early next week, but ordered that Abodeely begin serving his sentence immediately.

Linn County Atty. William Faches maintained in his concluding arguments that Abodeely had changed his plea when he failed to get a probated sentence. Faches pointed out that the State Supreme Court had only last week decided that "gambling" on probation and adjusting the defendant's plea to suit the court's decision were not permissible.

The defense argued that judges are required by the decision to ask defendants specific questions and to instruct them that pleading guilty waives their rights.

Duplication of State Program Charged Dirty Water Study Praised

WATERLOO — The chairman of the Iowa Water Pollution Control Commission said Wednesday he's glad federal officials are finally going to study Mississippi and Missouri river water quality.

But it's too bad, added Robert Buckmaster of Waterloo, that they'll be spending something like half a million dollars to duplicate work already done by the Iowa commission at a cost of $100,000.

The Iowa commission and the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration have been unhappy over federal efforts to require all Iowa cities and industries along the two major border rivers to begin secondary treatment of sewage before it is dumped into the streams.

The Iowa commission has refused to go along with the requirement, saying that primary treatment of wastes is sufficient. The federal officials had rejected an Iowa proposal for a joint water quality study.

Buckmaster said Wednesday he was glad that the federal agency at long last is adopting Iowa's proposal for a water quality study.

"Almost a year and a half ago," he said, "we suggested to them a joint study and stated at that time that Iowa would require all industries and municipalities located on the rivers to plan and construct whatever treatment plants were required as shown by results of this study.

"They refused this suggestion and stated that we would have to agree to require secondary treatment of all municipalities and industries on these rivers by 1972."

Since then, Buckmaster said, the federal officials have "engaged in a campaign of invective against Iowa and its program.

"In the meantime, at a cost of $100,000 to date, we have undertaken our own studies and have furnished the federal government with the material we have developed."

"It is unfortunate that they are now duplicating our efforts at a cost we estimate at half a million dollars at the taxpayers' expense."

Mayor Suggests Corporation To Assist Renewal Victims

Iowa City Mayor Loren Hickerson proposed at a monthly city-university meeting Wednesday that local businessmen who wish to locate in the urban renewal area should form "some sort of local development corporation."

Hickerson, referring to criticism from some local businessmen that they are being ignored by new renewal projects, said that federal guidelines are being used to determine which local businesses get first preference in renewal projects.

While stressing that those guidelines had to be met, Hickerson said that a local development corporation, "locally financed by one or all of the banks," could provide a means for local businessmen to meet renewal standards so that they would not have to move.

The mayor also said that persons had to remember that relocation involves a six to eight year period, and that thus businessmen in the renewal area would not have to move abruptly.

Hickerson said that a proposal from a local corporation would be considered "along with any other that comes before the Council."

A hearing on the renewal question is set for 7:30 p.m. Sept. 23 in the City High School auditorium.

The renewal project titled the City-University Project, involving $8 million in federal funds, would be in the area bounded by Court, Linn and Washington streets, the University and the Iowa River.

The possibilities of a regional mass transportation system were also discussed at the meeting.

Iowa City Manager Frank Smiley told city and university officials that Coralville may be more willing to discuss participation in a regional mass transportation system than the city had suspected earlier this summer.

Dennis Kraft, Johnson County regional planning director, said that Coralville councilmen recently said they still had reservations about a regional system.

Kiwanis Told Renewal Squelches Initiative

An opponent to Iowa City's proposed urban renewal project told Kiwanis Club members Tuesday the program was an attempt to squelch individual initiative.

Joe Zajicek, Route 5, operator of a salvage business store and a ski equipment store, said urban renewal programs work hardships on small businessmen who cannot meet urban renewal standards and who would have to relocate.

Zajicek's businesses are on the city's outskirts and are not located in the renewal area.

He said that the initiative of individuals should be preserved rather than destroyed and that hardships to small businessmen from renewal projects have the effect of destroying initiative.

He also charged that relocation provisions of renewal projects did not adequately provide for small businessmen. Zajicek said owners of businesses must become "somewhat of political manipulators to fight for their existence" where renewal projects were involved.

Briefing Is Given On Supt. Selection

A closed-door meeting of the Iowa City School Board was held Tuesday to brief the newly elected members on the progress toward selection of a new Iowa City school superintendent.

The new Board members — Phillip E. Cline, John Dane and Mrs. Bruce E. Spivey — take office Monday.

The current Board has discussed the topic in similar meetings during recent weeks. It has been negotiating with three candidates for the superintendent's job.

The negotiations have followed screening of about 50 candidates, with interviews of eight selected during the screening.

The class size problem at Lincoln Elementary School was discussed by the Board at the open session which preceded the private meeting.

The board discussed alternative plans for reducing the class sizes at the Lincoln School. The fourth and fifth grades each have 36 pupils and the sixth grade has 37 pupils. More students may also move into the Lincoln area.

The Board decided an additional teacher should be hired to work with students in any of the three grades which need special help. These students will be taught at various per-

Marine Gets Silver Star For Viet Duty

NEW YORK — A Marine lieutenant who led his men in a Vietnam battle despite three wounds receives Thursday his second Silver Star medal, won only one day after the action in which he earned the first citation.

"I convinced myself I wasn't hit that bad," said 2nd Lt. Richard D. Porrello, Brooklyn, N.Y., whose wounds included a piece of shrapnel in his heart and a neck artery damaged so badly it had to be replaced.

The action took place last March 1 when Porrello's platoon was trying to knock North Vietnamese gunners off a hill near Khe Sanh.

The second Silver Star will be pinned on Porrello, 23, by Terence Cardinal Cooke, archbishop of New York and military vicar of Roman Catholics in the armed forces, during a ceremony at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Wall Divides Belfast's Warring Factions

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — British troops began building a "peace wall" through Belfast Wednesday to try to separate warring Protestants and Roman Catholics and ran into quick opposition from both sides.

The soldiers were jeered and cursed by Roman Catholics and Protestants alike when they used bulldozers to shove aside the civilian barricades to make room for their own.

When the troops first began pushing back the Protestant barricade, which was made of empty oil drums, old bicycle frames and bedsteads, a yell went up: "Go home you bums."

The crowd quieted down when they saw long, protective coils of army wire being strung across the street entrance.

Fearing fresh violence and dubious about British protection, scores of Catholic men, women and children fled south across the border Wednesday to refuge camps in the Irish Republic when word went out that the barriers were being removed. About 550 persons have sought haven in the camps in recent weeks.

Sir Ian Freeland, commander of 6,000 British troops stationed in Northern Ireland, had sought to appease opponents of the plan by assuring them that the partition would be only temporary.

"We do not want a Berlin wall in this city," Freeland declared.

The line runs between the Catholic Falls and Protestant Shankill districts of Belfast.

Gerry Pitt, Belfast member of the British Parliament, declared that the peace line would work only if secure guarantees of safety were given to Catholic families all over the city, not just in specified areas.

Catholics in this torn capital say they are convinced that removal of the barricades would leave their homes defenseless despite promises of military protection and government calls for order.

The government ordered Belfast placed under a partial cur-few Wednesday night, with all vehicles barred from the streets except ambulances, fire engines and automobiles carrying doctors and nurses.

Israeli Jets Hit Egypt; No Jets Reported Lost

TEL AVIV — On the heels of Moshe Dayan's warning of more strikes against Egypt, Israeli jets hammered Egyptian army vehicles in the same area where Israeli armor and troops carried out a bold, amphibious raid the day before.

A communique said the planes hit Ras Abu Dageg and Ras Za'arana, 39 and 55 miles south of Port Suez, which is at the canal's southern end.

Although the patched-eyed defense minister had predicted "even heavier strikes" than Tuesday's 10-hour raid, the latest air attack was less extensive than the previous day's.

Israel said the jets struck in the morning and all returned safely to base. Further details were not disclosed.

A military communique from Cairo said one Israeli plane was downed by anti-aircraft fire over the Gulf of Suez. The gulf separates the Egyptian mainland from the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula. It said the Tuesday raid was a "propaganda operation rather than a military one" and likened it to a "cinema scenario."

Israel claimed it knocked out an important Soviet-built surface-to-air missile battery in Tuesday's raid as well as other anti-aircraft installations. Egypt acknowledged that one anti-aircraft position was attacked Wednesday.

Egypt's ambassador to Britain, Ahmed Hassan el-Feki charged that the raid Tuesday was an act of escalation caused by the U.S. sale of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers to Israel. The first of 50 Phantoms arrived in Israel last week.

Israel's air force commander, Lt. Gen. Mordechai Hod, said none of the new planes was used in the combined amphibious-air attack.

Along the Jordan River cease-fire line, Israeli and Jordanian forces battled with mortars and howitzers for 30 minutes Wednesday three miles north of the Dead Sea, a military spokesman in Amman said.

Jordanian and Israeli soldiers fought a 25-minute battle across the river Tuesday night six miles north of the Dead Sea, Jordanian military spokesmen said. No Jordanian casualties were reported in that battle either.

In Israeli-occupied Hebron on the west bank, about 40 persons were arrested by Israeli police after an Arab lobbed a hand grenade into the car of the town's military governor, Lt. Col. Ofer Ben-David, informed sources said. The grenade did not go off.

A curfew was clamped on Hebron, scene of several previous grenade attacks.

Area Control Over Airports Is Planned

The Johnson and Linn County Regional Planning Commissions Tuesday agreed to appoint a committee to begin planning for a regional airport authority.

The committee will be composed of residents of Johnson and Linn Counties and possibly other neighboring counties if those counties express an interest in participating.

The authority will be set up in the wake of Ozark Air Lines' proposal announced earlier this summer to transfer its two flights from Iowa City to the Cedar Rapids Airport.

According to Allan Vestal, chairman of the Johnson County Regional Planning Commission, a regional airport authority would probably buy the Iowa City airport and others in the region.

The smaller airports would be maintained by a regional airport authority and would operate to serve small aircraft, Vestal said.

Atomic Blast Set Off to Free Natural Gas

GRAND VALLEY, Colo. — Project Rulison, an underground nuclear explosion designed to jar loose rockbound natural gas, was detonated in western Colorado Wednesday afternoon.

The 40-kiloton explosion, twice as powerful as the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima, Japan, in World War II, sent an earth shudder radiating for miles from the detonation point 8,442 feet under a remote mesa.

The blast was an experiment aimed at freeing natural gas held tightly by deep underground sandstone formations. It was touched off at 9 p.m. CDT.

Electricity went off in the town of Colbran, 10 miles south of the explosion. "There was one pretty good jolt, and then things quivered like a bowl of jelly," said Anis Kelley, at the L&M Merchantile Store.

At Greenwood Springs, 42 miles from the site, the shock wave was felt in the brick building housing the Greenwood Springs Sage Reminder and caused a quiver in a cup of water. Ralph Maggard said it felt like a minor earthquake.

The jolt was felt in Rifle, about 11 miles from ground zero, about six seconds after the button was pushed. People on the street said it felt like an earthquake.

Windows rattled and rocks tumbled from the Bookcliffs, two miles west of Rifle. Dust from the explosion was visible from Rifle.

The explosion was recorded on a seismograph at Colorado School of Mines at Golden, about 180 miles east of the site, at a preliminary magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter scale on intensity.

That would be equivalent in the blast area to the worst earthquakes in the Denver area in recent years, which caused cracks in old buildings, but did relatively little damage.

Some monitoring stations 60 miles and farther from the blast reported no tremor could be felt.

Unfavorable weather — mainly winds blowing in the wrong directions — had delayed the explosion since its original Sept. 4 detonation date.

Officials waited for a wind blowing to the southeast so that any leaked radiation — and they repeatedly emphasized none was expected — would be carried toward thinly populated areas.

The explosion, sponsored jointly by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) and Austral Oil Co., was done to jar loose natural gas from meso-verde sandstone formations more than 8,000 feet underground.

The AEC has estimated that enormous amounts of natural gas — about 317 trillion cubic feet — are locked in rock formations throughout the West. Such blasts could free it for commercial use.

Legislators Irked by Press, Want Information Service

DES MOINES — Iowa lawmakers, who are still mad at the press for making them look like miniskirt watchers last winter, Friday considered creating a public information service to improve their image.

House Speaker William Harbor (R-Henderson) told the Legislative Council that after secretaries in the 1969 Legislature were told to curb their climbing helmets, reports made lawmakers look like they were keeping an eye on developments.

"It wasn't even discussed on the floor, but it made a lot of publicity," Harbor told the Council, which carries on business between sessions.

"What is this going to be, a propaganda service?" asked Sen. Robert Rigler (R-New Hampton). "We bring news reports on ourselves. The press is going to write what they want and they ought to."

Sen. Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque), the Senate minority leader, said a public information service wouldn't be new because Republicans had a "comely, attractive" girl doing that in the Senate last winter under the title of a "clerk."

Rep. Leroy Miller (R-Sheffield) defended such a service: "Nothing derogatory about the press, but they only pick a few things to write about."

Sen. Eugene Hill (D-Newton) suggested legislative leaders meet with newsmen "to discuss problems of their images."

Harbor said the Legislative Processes and Facilities Committee, which suggested the service, thought both Republicans and Democrats "would be better served" by it than would the news media.

Members also discussed, but took no action on the possibility of improving poor wiring in the Statehouse.

"We're going to burn this place down. We'd better rewire it," Frommelt said, complaining that inadequate wiring makes it impossible to humidify the Senate properly and senators "go around all winter with bloody noses."

Kosygin's Viet Visit Ends, Pledges Support

TOKYO — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin ended his visit to Hanoi with a pledge of full support to those fighting "U.S. aggression" in Vietnam, Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA) reported Thursday.

The official news agency, quoting a communique issued at the end of the Soviet delegation's visit to attend Ho Chi Minh's funeral, said the Moscow leadership affirmed its determination "to reserve for the Vietnamese people all the necessary support and assistance to their struggle against U.S. aggression for building socialism in the North, liberating the South and advancing toward the peaceful reunification of the fatherland."

In an obvious reference to the Soviet-Communist Chinese feud, the communique said the Hanoi leaders told the Soviet leaders that, obeying Ho's wishes, they will "do their best to contribute effectively" to the restoration of unity among the fraternal parties. . . in a way consonant to the requirement of heart and reason."

The Soviet delegation arrived in Hanoi Sept. 6, two days after a Communist Chinese delegation, led by Premier Chou En-lai, returned to Peking after a one-day visit to Hanoi.

Communist China, however, sent a second delegation, led by Vice Premier Li Hsien-Nien, to Ho's funeral held Tuesday.

The report on the Soviet delegation's meeting with Hanoi leaders was followed by another communique on the visits to Hanoi by the two Communist Chinese delegations.

VNA said the Communist Chinese exhorted the Vietnamese Communists to "march forward to defeat completely the U.S. aggressors," and reiterated Peking's pledge to back the struggle against "U.S. aggression."

Wall St. Session Posts Large Gain

NEW YORK — The stock market, spurred by what analysts said were investors' hopes that Vietnam War action might be reduced, had Wednesday one of its best gains in recent months.

The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 12.34 points to 828.01, its best advance since last April 30 when the average spurted 16.08 points to 950.18.

ICLU Plans To Defend 'Long-Hairs' In Full St. Session. DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Civil Liberties Union (ICLU) said Thursday it believes school officials are violating the U.S. Constitution by making and enforcing regulations on the length of students' hair.

Attorney Joseph Johnston of Iowa City went to Washington last week on behalf of ICLU to represent Joseph Rosenkild, 17, who had been suspended three days for not meeting hair standards of the Washington Community High School.

Johnston, a member of the Iowa House, talked with school administrators and Rosenkild was readmitted without a haircut.

The ICLU has also offered legal help to three students suspended last week from Davenport West High School for the same reason. The organization said an Iowa City attorney will represent the boys if they take the matter to court.
