Inflation Still Rising, Despite Efforts to Stop It

By DAN ESHELMAN
A DI News Analysis

Joe Anybody made $10,000 in wages in 1959. After federal taxes of $1,220 and local taxes of $575 were deducted from the $10,000 gross income, he was left with a net income of $8,205.

Joe was good worker and over the last decade he received raises totaling 50 per cent of his 1959 income. Thus, in 1969 he was earning $15,000.

Joe found, however, that he had to pay $2,050 in federal taxes and $1,085 in local taxes in 1969. He also lost $3,085 because of something called inflation.

Since taxes and inflation claimed more than $6,000 of his income, Joe's net income (what he actually had to spend) was only $8,780 — only $575 more than he had to spend in 1959. He had received $5,000 in raises over the 10-year period, but his real gain in spendable income was only $575.

Joe's brother, Fred Anybody, made $7,000 in 1959. He also received wage raises totaling 50 per cent of his 1959 income during the 1959-1969 period, so that his income today was $10,500. But with increased taxes and inflation, he found that his real wage gain was not $3,500, but only $380.

These figures, taken from a Life magazine study, reveal that what happened to the Anybody is happening to many Americans in 1969. Economic theory says that when there is more money than there is a supply of exchangeable goods, prices for the goods will rise.

Inflation has been described as over-demand in a situation of undersupply, which results from the overheated national economy of a country that is too prosperous. And too much prosperity means people have too much money to spend.

However one describes and analyzes inflation, it all means on thing — a dollar just won't buy as much today as it did 10 years ago.

Exact figures vary, but most economic experts agree that inflation is increasing at an annual rate of from 6 to 7.2 per cent. It has increased so fast in the last two years that prices today are 26 per cent higher than what they were in 1959.

An example of this inflationary spiral is a Des Moines assessor who recently estimated in a newspaper story that prices for houses in most U.S. metropolitan areas have risen about 20 per cent in the last four years. He said house price increases coupled with higher interest rates for home mortgage loans have made the real prices of homes 30 to 40 per cent more than they were four years ago.

One Des Moines man, Virgil Miller, says he doesn't doubt the increase estimates. In September he bought a house with a list price of $20,500; five years ago it sold for $17,750.

By the time Miller gets the mortgage paid off at an eight per cent interest rate, the house will have cost him $60,000. Five years ago at 5 1/2 per cent interest, it would have cost only $40,000 — a difference of $20,000 over five years. The total increase in the house's price is thus $22,750.

Inflation causes increases in the cost of living, which is measured by the Consumer Price Index (CPI) published by the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The CPI measures price changes for goods and services purchased by urban wage earners. Cost of living changes are determined by measurement of changes in prices.

August's CPI showed that prices rose at an annual rate of 6 per cent. This is the fastest price rise since the Korean War.

The Nixon administration had advocated fiscal and monetary restraint in an attempt to slow inflation down. Consequently, the administration has reduced federal spending and followed a tight money policy.

Administration officials, meanwhile, have been reassuring the American public that these policies are taking effect.

Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said in September, "I really think we're beginning to see bits of evidence of a cooling off."

But he had made a similar statement in June.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told Congress recently the economy "is at the tail end of the inflationary spiral."

According to Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), Martin said the same thing six months ago.

David Kennedy, secretary of the Treasury, said in September, "There is less inflation momentum than there was three months ago."

In the next few days, major automobile manufacturers raised the prices on 1970 cars.

Administration policy has been to avoid applying direct wage and price controls, ceilings on consumer credit or heavier taxes and savings programs to control inflation.

Rather, the administration has relied on the Federal Reserve Board's efforts to restrain bank-lending by raising the discount rate. In other words, the Board charges banks higher interest when they attempt to borrow money.

Member banks, faced with this development, usually borrow less money or raise their own interest rates to their customers. Either way, investment is discouraged and less money will be circulating in the economy.

The Board last December upped the discount rate from 5.5 to 6 per cent, the highest level it has been since 1929.

But when this is done, the administration also faces potentially greater unemployment while trying to slow down the economy because, with less business activity and expansion, the need for workers declines.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the September potential work force was 80.1 million persons, 3 million of whom were unemployed. This represents an unemployment rate of 4 per cent, a half per cent increase over August and the highest jobless percentage rate since October, 1967, when it was 4.2 per cent.

Three per cent is usually viewed by economists as the lowest rate of unemployment at any given time in the U.S. economy. At least this percentage will be out of a job at any given time because of illness, insufficient education, or other often temporary problems.

The September increase was the largest one-month unemployment rate increase since 1960, the Bureau said.

The increase can be viewed two ways. On the one hand, it could mean that the administration's policies are working and that the economy is being slowed down. On the other hand, it could also mean that the economy is slowing down too fast — that the unemployment rate is rising faster than economic activity is declining.

If the jobless rate increase is repeated in October, the result, some economists believe, could be a recession while prices were still rising.

Says Presidential press secretary Ron Zeigler, "No one is happy with an increase in unemployment. However, it would be consistent with other evidence that this is the beginning of a trend toward slowing down the economy."

Most experts agree the cause of today's high inflation began during the administration of President Johnson because of the escalation of the Vietnam War in 1965.

Statistics show that from 1960 to 1964, the CPI increased at around 1 per cent a year. However, starting in 1965, the annual CPI increase started increasing itself and is now 6-7.2 per cent a year.

In addition, from 1965 to today, there was a 63 per cent increase in military spending. The defense budget in 1965 was $49.6 billion; in 1969 it is $80 billion.

Most economists say they think that Johnson's attempts to increase war spending and to keep domestic program spending at its pre-war level without raising taxes caused the present inflationary spiral.

William Albrecht, assistant professor of economics, said recently, "There is no doubt that Nixon inherited much of See Economists Page 3

Hurricane Laurie Heads Northward to Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The storm named Laurie increased to hurricane force and shifted her direction northward toward heavily populated areas Monday as thousands of Louisiana's coastal residents began fleeing inland.

There was no way to predict exactly where, when or if Laurie might hit shore along the Gulf of Mexico.

She was located about 300 miles south of New Orleans, with winds 90 miles per hour at center.

In view of change of course, the Weather Bureau extended its hurricane watch 100 miles further eastward to Apalachicola, Fla. The earlier watch, a precautionary alert, had extended from Galveston, Tex., to Pensacola, Fla.

The storm had been moving north-northwestward. The Weather Bureau said the present course, if maintained, would put her ashore about 60 miles west of New Orleans.

But a change to a more northeasterly course was predicted Monday night.

She was moving at 8 m.p.h., with gales extending 160 miles out of the north and east.

South of New Orleans, about 1,000 residents were evacuated from lowlands in Plaquemines Parish county — recently devastated by Hurricane Camille. Grand Isle's some 1,500 residents were ordered out.

High tides rising far in advance of the hurricane were running 3 feet above normal at Grand Isle, washing lightly across the island's one road at some points.

Officials said some 3,000 residents of West Louisiana had moved inland.

An emergency operations center was set up in the National Guard headquarters at New Orleans, located about 70 miles from the Gulf just above the marshes of Plaquemines Parish.

Near the coast, many residents adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

Offshore oil operations along the Louisiana coast were closed and crews taken to land as choppy seas lashed at the offshore rigs. A spokesman for the Continental Oil Co. said the rigs were evacuated "because of the unpredictability of the storm."

The Mississippi Gulf Coast, which took a brutal pounding from Camille in August, appeared well beyond Laurie's reach, but some precautionary measures were taken.

Hundreds died and damage reached well over $1 billion when Camille struck and moved far north into Virginia and West Virginia. Much of the debris Camille left along the Mississippi Coast still remains to be cleared and many businesses are still rebuilding.

AWS, Student Senate Ask Women to Vote On Hours Wednesday

An opinion survey concerning women's hours will be conducted Wednesday by the Student Senate and Associated Women Students, according to Senate Executive Vice Pres. Robert "Bo" Beller, A2, Glencoe, Ill.

The survey will be taken in Schaeffer Hall and the Union from 10:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. and in the lobbies of Burge and Currier residence halls from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. To take part in the survey, women must present their student identification and current University registration card.

The jointly sponsored survey was drawn up with the help of John Jones, associate professor of education.

Nominee's Name To Stay: Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Monday his Supreme Court nominee, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., has been subjected to "vicious character assassination."

At a surprise news briefing that intensified the battle over the nomination, which is strongly opposed by labor and civil rights leaders, Nixon said he would not withdraw the appointment even if the judge asked him to.

"I find Judge Haynsworth an honest man, a lawyer's lawyer and a judge's judge," Nixon said after stating he had gone over all the criticism of opponents. "I think he will be a great credit to the Supreme Court and I intend to stand behind him until he is confirmed."

Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), who has spearheaded the opposition in the Senate, said "The President appears to be leveling his guns at me personally" and called this an unfortunate attempt to distort the issue and turn Haynsworth's nomination into a partisan matter.

Bayh, in a statement dictated to an aide, said he never has contended that Haynsworth, chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court, is a dishonest man. But he maintained that Haynsworth "has not conducted himself to avoid even the appearance of impropriety."

Sens. Roman L. Hruska (R-Neb.) and Marlow W. Cook (R-Ky.) expressed agreement with Nixon's statement and said they are glad he spoke out strongly.

Hruska, ranking GOP member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said that "now that the rash of careless and irresponsible charges has been shown to be completely baseless and now that attention has now at last been turned to the positive judicial record of Judge Haynsworth, I am more confident than ever that the Senate will vote its confidence in him and confirm his nomination."

While Haynsworth has been accused of anti-labor and anticivil rights bias, opponents have concentrated their fight on conflict-of-interest charges they have raised against him on his extensive stock holdings.

They contend he should have disqualified himself in some court cases in which he participated, but he and his supporters have said that on the contrary he had no valid grounds on which to excuse himself and had a duty to sit.

1 of 5 City Council Candidates To Be Voted out in Primary

Iowa City voters will eliminate one of five candidates seeking two City Council seats in today's primary election.

The candidate receiving the fewest votes in the primary balloting will be eliminated from the race, which will be decided in the city's general election Nov. 4.

Council seats now held by incumbent candidates Mayor Loren L. Hickerson and Robert Lind Sr. are up for election.

Challenging Hickerson and Lind for the two seats are Robert A. Lehman, a community college instructor, Carl M. Swenson, owner of Campus Flair Hair Fashions, and J. Patrick Wuite, a local attorney.

Both Hickerson and Lind have been consistent supporters of Iowa City's controversial urban renewal proposal.

The three other candidates have also called for a continuation of urban renewal efforts, but have been critical of the Council's approach to the renewal issue.

Lehman said when announcing his candidacy that he strongly supports the renewal proposal but feels the council has done a "poor" job of promoting the renewal program.

Lehman has also called for increased participation by students and "poor people" in city administration.

White, while expressing support for urban renewal has called for a more definite acquisition schedule to avoid risk of loss to businessmen.

The attorney also has demanded better budgetary planning, adoption of a flood plan zoning ordinance, and improvement of Ralston Creek as a drainage facility.

Swenson criticized the urban renewal program at a recent public hearing on the issue held before the businessman had announced his council candidacy.

Following his candidacy announcement, Swenson called for unity on the renewal issue. He has also asked for "open and candid dealings with property owners in the renewal area, including the supplying property appraisal figures, and assistance in group planning to businesses affected by renewal."

Swenson has also asked for improved fireman and police pay scales and disability and retirement benefits.

Girl's Body Found In Wooded Area

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — The partially clad body of a high school girl was found hidden beneath some brush in a wooded area on the northeast edge of Cedar Rapids Monday evening.

Police identified the girl as Jean Halverson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Halverson of Cedar Rapids.

Police Chief George Matias said the girl had been shot through the head with a .22 caliber weapon. He added the girl had probably been sexually molested.

Police said they found spent cartridges near the half-nude body. Authorities said the girl was nude from the waist down.

Authorities said Miss Halverson's body was found by a group of adults who were their last pass through the area on their way to the night.

The girl's parents said she had been missing since about 2 p.m. Sunday. She and her family she planned to take picnic along the Cedar River for a school project.

The Queen, Her Court And Her Challenger

While judges chose a homecoming queen and her court inside the Union Saturday night, Women's Liberation Front (WLF) members picketed outside the Union.

Economists Blame 'Guns and Butter' Policy for Inflation

his economic trouble. And there really can be no acceptable policy for solving the inflation problem until the Vietnam war is ended."

Albrecht said, however, that Nixon might not be "doing the right things" in his attempts to solve the problem.

"Nixon seems to be confused on priorities when it comes to national spending," he said. "He cuts back on pollution control spending, then pushes for the development of a super-sonic transport, the SST."

Nixon is asking Congress to appropriate $96 million this year for SST development. At the same time, the administration wants to cut spending by 42 per cent, or $125 million, on the Model Cities program. This is a program to aid neighborhoods in several metropolitan areas with high crime rates, poverty and substandard housing.

"There are, of course, some areas of economy that are overheated," Albrecht said. "Defense spending is one, manufacturing is another. But there are also areas that are already depressed, such as construction."

Thomas Pogue, assistant professor of economics, said he thought an important reason for the increased cost of living was "increases in government spending are not matched by tax receipts."

"This spending has been mainly on the expanding war," he said. "And the impetus was the large deficits brought about by the 1966-1967 war effort."

Pogue said the increase in living costs also resulted from too much demand for the supply of goods and from "cost-push elements."

In economic terms, "cost-push" refers to a situation in which labor, by asking for more wages, has the effect of "pushing" costs upward. When management has to pay more wages to its workers, it usually reclaims the money expended by raising the prices on its goods. Then labor, pointing to the higher prices, says it needs more money to keep pace with the rising costs. This starts the cycle over again.

"There are increases in medical costs, partly because of increases in wages of medical personnel aside from doctors," Pogue said. "The cost of housing is up, partly because the administration's anti-inflation policy drove interest rates up. And the cost of many services have increased partly because the rising level of wages for service employees caused them to rise."

Pogue also said he thought Nixon inherited the inflation problem, but his means of curtailing it were "questionable."

"Nixon seems to be treating the symptoms rather than the causes," he said.

Nixon will not use wage-price or credit controls because, he says, he wants the free enterprise system to work the problem out itself.

Gerald L. Nordquist, professor of economics, said he believed the cause of the high inflation was two-fold.

"First of all," he said, "for four or five years in this country there has been a condition of excess demand, which has resulted in too much spending, both public and private. Secondly, there has been a failure on the part of public authorities to take appropriate action to restrain inflation."

Nordquist agreed that the impetus for the current upward spiral in prices probably came during the Johnson administration, when the decision was made to escalate the Vietnam war while trying to maintain domestic spending.

Nordquist said he thought there had been too much emphasis on monetary means in attempting to battle inflation and not enough emphasis on taxation.

"We've relied too much on the monetary system, the Federal Reserve Board, banks, and so forth," he said. "It would be wiser for public authorities to use taxation as a means of depressing demand."

"In theory, high interest rates and high prices should stop consumption. But we seem to have a built-in 'consumption psychosis.' We say to ourselves, 'Sure the prices are up today, but they will be up even higher tomorrow, so I had better buy today before they do go up,'" he said.

But however economists diagnose the current economic situation, most doubt that there will be any immediate reduction in the cost of living. And some feel that a future reduction might not be forthcoming unless the Nixon administration changes its present policy.

Johnson claimed the country could have both "guns and butter" without an adverse effect on the economy. He was wrong, if the economists are right.

Nixon's present policy also seems to cling to the "guns and butter" theory. Most economists say they think that as long as the Vietnam war continues and the administration continues to stand firm against any forms of wage and price guidelines or credit restraints — as the Nixon administration has — there will be inflation and a high cost of living.

As long as Nixon is unwilling to impose controls or end the war, his fight against inflation will, as one critic put it, "Consist of hoping it will go away."

The administration is also in a dilemma when it comes to fighting both inflation and unemployment. If the emphasis is put on curtailing inflation by slowing down the economy, then there is the possibility that unemployment will increase at too great a rate.

If, on the other hand, the economy at a higher level, administration chooses to fight then it will have to take its unemployment by keeping the chance on the price front.

High Prices Pervade Economic System

Man Fights Officer, Gets Six Charges

An Iowa City man, Tom Turner, 55, 1310 Cedar St., will be arraigned in Iowa City Police Court at 8 a.m. Friday on six charges after a run-in with an Iowa City policeman Saturday at a local theater.

The incident occurred in the Cinema I theater at the Mall Shopping Center after police had received a complaint that a man had entered the theater without paying admission.

Police said a fight erupted between Turner and one of the police officers, James Hazlett, after the officers tried to get him to leave the theater.

Turner was charged with assault and battery, resisting a police officer, two counts of disorderly conduct by using profane language, refusal to leave a public place and evading an admission fee.

Turner is free after posting a $200 bond Monday in Police Court.

Coralville Transit Purchases Buses

The Coralville Transit Commission Friday announced the purchase of two buses from the Iowa City Coach Company.

The buses, repainted blue and white, were bought to replace the two yellow buses "given" to Coralville in late August by Raymond Scheetz, president of Community Transit, Inc., the company that had been providing bus service between Iowa City and Coralville.

Scheetz later withdrew his "gift," and the buses have been sitting idle, awaiting settlement of their ownership by the Johnson County District Court. Scheetz has "locked up" a third "gift bus," Coralville officials said.

The DI regrets the error.

Iowa Blind-Sided at Purdue

By MIKE SLUTSKY
Sports Editor

Before we get to the gory details of how Iowa was robbed of a football victory at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday afternoon, there are a couple of things which should be understood.

It is doubtful that an Iowa football team ever gave more of itself than the Hawks did in Ross-Ade Stadium Saturday. The team, in Coach Ray Nagel's own words, "Played its heart out." The Hawks deserved to win — even in the minds of the most loyal Purdue spectators. Only in the won-loss column did the Hawkeyes lose.

If a school ever had reason to get behind its team, this school now has every reason. Every Hawkeye fan can be proud of the effort the Hawks gave at Purdue. But after two consecutive heart-breaking defeats, the Hawks may need a little extra to get aroused or "up" for its remaining games. This Saturday against a tough Michigan State eleven in Iowa's homecoming would be a great time to show that the University is behind the Hawkeyes 110 per cent. The team has given its all. An extra special show of appreciation from the fans is definitely in order now.

As for the game, Well, the Hawks lost, 35-31, and their record dropped to 2-3 overall and 0-2 in the Big 10. A number of controversial calls by officials decided the outcome of the game and, in the eyes of this reporter, the Hawks simply did not get a fair shake in the calls.

Probably the most controversial ruling was an illegal use of the hands penalty called on Iowa wingback Kerry Reardon in the fourth quarter. The Hawks led by three points at the time and the "infraction" was on a long touchdown run by fullback Steve Penney. Thus the Hawks led by nine points and victory was just about theirs. But wait a minute. From out of nowhere, a handkerchief. Somehow an official spotted Reardon making a beautiful downfield block . . . only to have Kerry have his arms illegally extended at the end of his block. The touchdown was called back and, instead of having the game just about sewn up, Purdue was still alive.

The Hawkeyes never did recover from the penalty and eventually gave up the ball on downs. The Iowa defense — which did a tremendous job all day — held the Boilermakers on the next series.

But Purdue took advantage of the break the next time they got the ball as quarterback Mike Phipps directed an 83-yard winning-touchdown drive, capped by Randy Cooper's eight-yard run. Another official's ruling was imperative to the drive. Jerry Johnson was called for pass interference (the Iowa coaches couldn't believe it) which gave the Boilermakers a first down and 20 yards.

Quarterback Larry Lawrence moved the Hawks down the field with 1:42 left in the game and, thanks to pass completions to Reardon and Don Osby and a keeper by Lawrence, the Hawks found themselves at the Purdue 12 with about 45 seconds left.

Levi Mitchell — who scored three touchdowns and dazzled the crowd with his shiftness and speed — lost five yards on an end sweep which the Purdue defense was awaiting. Lawrence then threw an incomplete pass. Second and 15 at the 17.

Lawrence chose to throw a comeback pass to Reardon on third down. Whereas the offi-

Penney Dives for Additional Yardage—

Iowa fullback Steve Penney dives head-long in search of more yardage in Saturday's game against Purdue at Lafayette, Ind. The sophomore from Geneseo, Ill., had his best day as a Hawkeye, rushing for 93 yards on only 11 carries. Perhaps his best run, a 37-yard touchdown gallop, was called back because of a penalty. cial saw Johnson interfering with the Purdue receiver moments before, he neglected to see that the Purdue defender was all over Reardon's back on this particular play. Fourth and 15. It was now or never for the Hawks.

Tom Smith came into the game and, after an Iowa timeout, Lawrence called the play — which was devised in the huddle. Five receivers were sent out and Smith followed, coming out of the backfield. No one picked Tom up and he was all alone at about the two. Lawrence underthrew Tom a bit and Smith bent down to make sure he made the grab. As he bent down, his knee hit the ground at about the two. The official spotted it and, though Smith dove into the endzone, the ball was spotted there.

Though the touchdown was nullified, a first down would've done nicely. But — as could be expected — the ball was spotted a little (about two inches as it turned out after the measurement) farther back than was necessary for the touchdown. Purdue was saved.

It was not a great game overall for Iowa, although the defense did play magnificently. The Boilermakers rushed for only 58 yards in the second half, finishing with 177 yards on the ground. Phipps was constantly harassed by the Iowa rush and only his scrambling ability kept him from being trapped more often than he was.

And the secondary also made Phipps' day a long one. He connected on 15 of 28 passes but for only 148 yards. And Craig Clemens intercepted one of his pitches in the second quarter.

In contrast, the Hawks completely dominated the game's statistics. The Hawks rushed for 260 yards and Larry Lawrence passed for 274 yards — even though he completed only 13 of 33 attempts and had four tosses picked off. Still, Lawrence set an Iowa record for total offense. He rushed for 77 yards and, when added to the 260 passing yards, the total of 337 surpassed Eddie Podolak's record set in 1967.

Levi Mitchell and fullback Steve Penney both had outstanding games. Mitchell gained 97 yards on 22 carries and contributed three touchdowns. Penney ground out 93 yards on only 11 carries.

The work of the offensive line — which often goes unnoticed — should here be mentioned. The front line simply bulldozed over the Purdue defense — especially in the last quarter.

But, besides the calls of the officials, it was the inconsistency of the offense which cost the Hawks the game. Three times in the third quarter the defense forced fumbles and turned the ball over to the offense inside the Purdue 20-yard line. But all the Hawks could get out of this was a 45-yard field goal by Al Schuette after the second fumble recovery.

After one fumble recovery Lawrence returned the favor by throwing an interception. Purdue's Scott Clayton promptly fumbled right back to Iowa but the Hawks couldn't move and settled for a booming 45-yard field goal by Schuette, cutting the Purdue lead to 28-23.

Unbelievably, Phipps was hit trying to pass after the kickoff and Mike Edwards recovered the fumble. The Hawks got to the Purdue two, but Lawrence fumbled the ball a way on a quarterback sneak.

After another stout performance by the defense, the Hawks finally pushed over the lead touchdown. The score came on a 12-yard Lawrence to Mitchell pass which culminated an 84-yard, 12-play drive. Ray Manning's two-point conversion gave the Hawks the lead, 31-28, but, as things turned out, it wasn't enough.

Nagel, visibly shaken and upset after the game, said that his team had given a winning effort and deserved to win, but that the breaks were just not falling the Hawks' way. On his television show Sunday, Nagel went over the controversial calls and, with the aid of game films, proved his point that many of the calls against Iowa were at best "questionable."

Nagel, now forced with the task of getting the team ready for Michigan State, sat in his office Monday — the bitter effects of defeat having worn off — and said, "We reflect on the past only in so far as it will help us in the future."

"We feel we have a good football team and we need to continue to improve. And that's what we're going to work on right away."

Nagel was highly pleased with the work of his defensive unit and said that installing extra defensive backs on passing situations worked most of the time.

"But while we're moving the ball fairly well on offense," said Nagel, "we just have to cut down on all the mistakes and become more consistent."

Nagel cited Penney and Mitchell (in his first starting assignment) for their offensive work and said that the defensive secondary also did a good job.

"We have improved a lot," Nagel said. "But our motive is to continue to improve. If we can, we'll be awful tough in the rest of our games."

Nagel also said that Michigan State may be the best team the Hawks will have faced to date. The Spartans beat Michigan and Michigan beat Purdue. The Spartans are coming off an impressive 23-12 victory at East Lansing over Michigan.

There are still five Big 10 games left. One of these days the breaks will come Iowa's way. When they do, look out.

Bad Judgment Calls Have Plagued Hawks— Are Refs Running Football?

By TOM STARR
Asst. Sports Editor

I never was much of a protester, I probably never will be. But, there have been too many injustices the past two weekends to just simply set aside. Who to? The Iowa football players, coaching staff and fans. That's who!

For the second straight week Saturday, the victory ball was snatched away from Iowa and simply given to the opponent by the officials.

Officiating a football game is not easy. In fact, it's very tough. Most penalties are judgment calls. It is possible, during the course of a game, that a referee will make two or three mistakes on judgment calls. But for two straight weeks, the Hawkeye grid team has lost ball games due to very stupid judgment calls. Not just one or two bad calls. . . six or seven per game!

Midway through the first quarter of the Purdue game, Iowa was called for illegal procedure. Coach Ray Nagel learned that quick end Don Osby was lining up a yard back of the line-of-scrimmage. An identical penalty was called early in the second quarter. Those are very unusual calls.

Also in the second quarter, Osby executed a beautiful block on a Boilermaker defensive lineman on an outside sweep play. Osby was called for clipping. It is plain to see in the game films that he had hit his man dead straight-away.

Perhaps the most ridiculous call of the day came on a spectacular 37-yard touchdown run by Steve Penney in the fourth quarter, which would have just about sewn up the game for the Hawkeyes — IF it hadn't been called back.

The referee called an infraction on wingback Kerry Reardon, but he wasn't quite sure what he was going to call. At first he started to signal a clip, but then he changed his mind and called it holding.

The official told Kerry that he had executed his standup shoulder block very well at the initial contact, but that he had used his hands after the first contact. Again the game films show that Reardon had executed a good clean block. He did put his hands out. However, he did it for the same reason anyone else would have; he was trying to cushion his fall.

The men in the black and white stripes really put the frosting on the spoiled cake by calling pass interference on Iowa's Jerry Johnson on a long pass play that set up Purdue's winning touchdown.

Jerry didn't even remember having contact with the offensive receiver. I hate to sound like a broken needle, but, once again, the films proved that Johnson had played the ball perfectly by knocking it down before it got to the receiver. Johnson was innocent of any wrong doing.

When Iowa got the ball on the ensuing kick-off, the Hawks moved right down field to the Boilermaker 18 yard-line. On third down and 15 yards to go, quarterback Larry Lawrence threw a perfect strike to Reardon inside the five-yard line. A Purdue defender rode Reardon's back while the ball was in the air. Kerry didn't have a chance to catch the ball. Interference? Nope, not according to the official.

And on that now famous last play, Tom Smith did put down his knee to make sure of catching the low pass, but definitely not way back at the three-yard line. Again it was a referee's decision (where to place the ball), and again it just happened to go against Iowa — two inches against Iowa.

For the second consecutive week, an official prevented a sure Iowa touchdown by getting in the way. Midway through the third quarter at Purdue, Iowa's defensive line knocked the ball away from Phipps deep in Purdue territory. The pigskin squirted rapidly toward the goal line with three Hawkeyes chasing it without a Purdue man in sight. It was a sure touchdown for Iowa. However, the ball hit a referee's leg and bounced back toward the line-of-scrimmage.

Iowa was lucky to get the ball back at all. The sure touchdown looked mighty big since the Hawkeyes fumbled the ball away at the one-yard line. The TD could have been the difference in the game.

However, those are just freak things you have to live with. But those two touchdowns could and probably would have meant victory for the Hawks. All that they did was make the Hawkeyes 0-2 instead of 2-0 in the Big 10.

I guess what really hurt was the fact that the Hawkeyes outplayed Purdue so badly. The offense out-gained the Boilermakers by more than 210 yards. The defense, well, let me just put it this way; no matter how much I wrote about it, it wouldn't be nearly enough. The defense had the Purdue offense so baffled that the Boilermakers had to take all of their second half time outs in the third quarter. Phipps called most of the time outs at the I.o.s. when he saw that the Hawkeye defensive alignment had been changed.

Getting back to those bad calls, the biggest gripe that Nagel has, (and rightfully so), is that today's officials are really groping. They think that they have to throw a flag on every long gainer. They are always looking for something, even the smallest things. A good example is Reardon's so-called holding on Penney's 37-yard touchdown trot. Now that was the poorest call I have ever seen.

Officials simply should not be allowed to control the outcome of a football game the way they have against Iowa the last two games. An investigation must be started or something. As every football fan has said at least once in his life: "Let them PLAY the damn game!"

Maybe a Rose Bowl trip has been taken away from these Hawkeyes. Then again, maybe not. I'll bet that the Big 10 Rose Bowl team will have two losses. Therefore, the Hawks have an outside chance. If they can play as well the rest of the season as they played against Purdue, they won't be beaten.

You can bet the Hawks will be trying to build a lead this weekend that no referee can take away from them!

While thousands of persons, many of them school children playing hooky, shouted, "We're number one!"

"For eight years New York has loved the Mets, and today they're number one," said Mayor John V. Lindsay. "And they're number one not because of a miracle, but because they never gave up."

read faster and comprehend better. But has it occurred to you that they also develop their ability to remember an author's message a day, a month, or a semester later?

Reading Dynamics teaches a system of recall and retention of what's been read. Your ability to retrieve information is thereby cultivated. Do you often have the pleasure of quoting an author that you yourself discovered? Or including on your final exam essay an idea encountered in a book you picked up on your own? Teachers will tell you that such relevant quotes can affect final grades.

The dynamic reader learns to read efficiently at whatever rate the content demands. Law students at Temple University read their statutes at 50 to 75 WPM, before they learned to read dynamically. Now they read the same statutes at 400-600 WPM.

READING FLEXIBILITY CAN'T BE SOLD SHORT.

Most students' reading rates are somewhere between 50 and 350 WPM. They'll read the daily paper at 350 WPM and Emmanuel Kant at 50 WPM. Now that's a pretty broad range of difficulty. And it is totally incongruous with the narrow WPM range of the average reader.

As a dynamic reader you'll let the content determine your reading rate. The Public Opinion Quarterly or Scientific American might demand a rate between 500 and 1200WPM; newspapers and parts of Playboy can be read at 1000 to 2500 WPM. But you're still free to enjoy e. e. cummings at your own ease.

WHATEVER YOUR

at a given moment—study, entertainment, current information—it can and should take place more efficiently.

While the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics Institute has located in Iowa City for the first time, you're not going to be experimenting by taking the course. In the last ten years 500,000 average readers have learned how to read astonishingly better. In the next decade thousands of University of Iowa students will learn how to control the masses of printed material that have controlled them in the past.

16 Report for Cage Practice

By JOHN RICHARDS
While Iowa's football team is preparing for its homecoming encounter with Michigan State, Iowa basketball Coach Ralph Miller officially opened practice Monday for 16 Hawk-eye cagers.

The Hawks are coming off a disappointing 12-12 season with 11 returning lettermen. Chris Phillips is the only starter lost from last year's squad which finished eighth in the Big 10.

According to Miller, conditioning and defense are going to be the keys if the team hopes to improve on last year's dismal season.

"Due to the heavy test schedule of some of the players, the first few days will be spent in drills and fundamentals," said Miller. "By Thursday, we should have our complete squad and will go full-tilt in our practice sessions."

Defense hurt the Hawks last season and Miller doesn't plan to let this happen again. The 1969 Iowa team was one of the two worst defensive teams that Miller has had in 20 years of coaching.

"My starters will be my best defensive players at each position," said Miller. "A good portion of our current practices will be spent in learning the correct defensive position and movement through the use of our body position drill."

"We will be in much better shape by our season opener this year than we were at that time last year," said Miller. "We plan to start putting the offense in later this week and will probably scrimmage some early next week."

Unitas Hot-Hand Keeps Saints Without a Victory

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Three touchdown passes by Unitas, who threw for 319 yards, handed the Saints their fifth loss in as many Sundays of NFL play.

Atkins was discussing Johnny Unitas, who blitzed the New Orleans Saints for a 30-10 victory by the Baltimore Colts Sunday. "And I thought we had a pretty good rush on him," added Atkins, the 39-year-old New Orleans defensive end who is playing a record-equalling 17th year.

"But that guy is just the greatest. He was as hot as a firecracker and when he's that way he's unbeatable."

Trojans, Irish Fall In Poll After Tie

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

A tie is not only like kissing your sister, it doesn't satisfy the football voters either and thus Southern California and Notre Dame failed to woo the pollsters in this week's major college rankings.

After their 14-14 deadlock Saturday, Southern Cal dropped from third to seventh in The Associated Press rankings released Monday while the Irish fell one place to 12th in their bid to return to the top 10.

Tennessee used Alabama to make the biggest inroad in the rankings by surging from seventh to third after whopping the Crimson Tide, 41-14.

Ohio State lost a few points from the previous week, but easily returned to top ranking with 27 first place votes and 666 points after clobbering Minnesota, 34-7.

Texas retained No. 2, after an idle Saturday, with five top ballots and 612 points. The difference between the two was 710-638 the week before.

Arkansas, also idle, remained fourth with 417, right behind Tennessee's one top vote and 435 points.

Penn State, which dropped three spots to eighth after narrowly beating Syracuse, 15-14, had the only other first place vote in the balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the country.

Other changes in the first 10 moved Missouri up one place to fifth and UCLA from eighth to sixth. Louisiana State and Florida remained ninth and 10th respectively as none of the top 10 has been beaten.

In the second 10, Purdue and Missouri made the biggest jump in places to 15th and 17th, respectively, while Michigan, 13th last week, and Alabama, No. 20, dropped out after losses. The new teams are Kansas State, No. 18, and Air Force No. 20.

3 Share Big 10 Lead

By TIM SIMMONS
Ohio State, Indiana and Northwestern remained atop the Big 10 standings as last Saturday's winners went on a scoring binge.

The three league-leading elevens are 2-0 in conference action with Michigan, Purdue, Wisconsin and Michigan State 1-1 after two weekends of play.

Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota bring up the rear with 0-2 conference marks. In Saturday's five loop encounters, the winners — Ohio State, Indiana, Northwestern, Michigan State and Purdue — tallied 160 points for a 32.0 norm while limiting the losers — Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa — to 77 points.

Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 eleven, continued its winning ways by ripping Minnesota 34-7 at Minneapolis while Indiana used a second-half surge to down helpless Illinois, 41-20, at Bloomington.

Michigan State tripped down-state rival Michigan, 23-12, at East Lansing with Northwestern scoring a 27-7 victory over Wisconsin at Evanston.

In Saturday's closest decision, Purdue rallied in the final minutes to nip Iowa, 35-31, at Lafayette as the Boilermakers stopped the Hawkeyes three-yards short of the goal-line in the closing seconds.

Ohio State, which has won its last 18 games over a three-year period, is the only unbeaten team in the Big 10 as the Buckeyes have posted a 4-0 record with Purdue 4-1 overall.

Indiana, Michigan and Michigan State have compiled 3-2 records to date with Northwestern and Iowa winning two of five decisions each while Wisconsin has been victorious once in five tries.

Minnesota and Illinois have failed to win this fall as the Gophers are 0-4-1 and the Illini 0-5.

Fullback Jim Otis gave Ohio State the only points they needed in the first period as the Buckeyes beat back their stiffest challenge of the season to trim Minnesota.

Otis scored on runs of eight and two yards as the Ohio crew was outgained on offense 443 to 429 by the Gophers, who fumbled five times and had one pass intercepted.

Indiana, behind the running of John Isenbarger and Hank Fogue, scored 34 points in the second half to hand Illinois its sixth straight defeat and 14th in its last 15 games.

Fogue, who had carried the ball only 14 times in Indiana's previous four games, gained 171 yards in 24 tries Saturday with Isenbarger grinding out 123 yards.

Mike Adame rushed for 316 a 44.0 loop scoring norm and yards in 40 carries to lead Northwestern past defenseless Wisconsin, 27-7.

The senior halfback shattered the Wildcats' old individual rushing mark of 213 set by Chuck Hren in 1951 against Navy.

Michigan State opened cavernous holes in Michigan's defensive line, giving Don Highsmith and quarterback Bill Triplett plenty of running room as the Spartans surprised the favored Wolverines, 23-12.

Highsmith scored twice while rushing for 129 yards in 30 carries with Triplett, who tallied the Spartans' only other touchdown, totting the ball 18 times for 142 yards.

At Lafayette, Randy Cooper's eight-yard scoring run with 1:42 left in the game capped a 63-yard drive to lift Purdue past Iowa 35-31.

The Boilermakers didn't have the game wrapped up until the final 24 seconds as Purdue stopped a potential Hawkeye scoring drive three-yards short of paydirt and inches short of a first-down.

BIG TEN NOTES — Iowa's Larry Lawrence set a Hawkeye total offense mark against Purdue as the junior quarterback compiled 337 yards — 260 passing and 77 rushing — to break the old record of 330 yards established by Ed Podolak in 1967 against Oregon State.

Saturday's five games were watched by 284,541 people for an average of 56,908 per game. The biggest crowd was 79,368 at East Lansing for the Michigan State-Michigan tussle.

Ohio State tops the conference in point-production as the Buckeyes, which have won their last 13 Big 10 starts, have Northwestern has allowed the fewest points in Big 10 play as the Wildcats have given up only 13 points in two games. Ohio State has given up only 42 points in four games for the best overall defensive mark.

Infernos In Loop Lead

The Iowa City Infernos assumed the lead in the Upper Mississippi Soccer Alliance by edging the Des Moines Mustangs, 2-0, Sunday at Des Moines.

Luis Vargas led the Inferno attack by scoring both goals early in the action. Inferno goalie Harvey Sadow was injured early in the second half, but the stout Inferno defense and rookie goalie Scott Merritt held the Mustangs the rest of the way.

With three games remaining the Infernos are still undefeated and, with the defeat of Des Moines, have undisputed possession of first place.

The next game for the Infernos is against Quad Cities International at home on Sunday Oct. 26. Game time is 2 p.m.

Williams Named A.L. Manager of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams, baseball's first million dollar manager who led the Washington Senators to their first winning season in 17 years, has been selected The Associated Press' American League Manager of the Year.

Williams, winning the honor in his first year as a manager, narrowly outpolled another first-year man, Billy Martin, who was fired after directing Minnesota to the Western Division title.

Williams drew 113 votes to 102 for Martin in the balloting by 286 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the country.

Earl Weaver, who took Baltimore to a runaway Eastern Division title, drew 70 votes and Lefty Phillips, a mid-season replacement who led California into third place in the West, got one vote.

Williams, a Hall of Famer and the most recent of the 400 hitters, had never managed anywhere before Washington owner Bob Short lured him away from a nine-year, self-imposed retirement of fishing in Florida by offering him stock in the Senators and a salary that added up to more than $1 million.

Although admitting he was a bit uneasy about trying his hand at managing, the handsome 50-year-old Williams' personal magnetism, knowledge of the game and understanding quickly won over the Senators.

The end result was a 86-76 record and a fourth place finish. Not since 1953 had the Senators finished at .500 and not since 1952 had they finished better than .500.

Williams did all this with almost the same group of players who finished last with a 65-96 record in 1968.

ISU, Hawks To Play On Gridiron 6 Times

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Scheduling of four more varsity football games between the University of Iowa and Iowa State University was announced Monday.

The Hawkeye-Cyclone clashes will be in 1970-80-81-82, ISU Athletic Director Clay Stapleton and Iowa Athletic Director Forest Evashevski said in a joint announcement.

All games are scheduled to be played at Iowa City because of the 60,000 capacity of Iowa Stadium. Clyde Williams Field in Ames seats only 35,000.

The schools had earlier announced resumption of football competition effective in 1977, with a return match the next year.

When the new six-game schedule is played, it will mark the longest series between the universities in 47 years. The Hawkeyes and the Cyclones competed in football each year between 1914 and 1920, but broke off the meetings until 1933. They met again in 1934, but have not played one another since.

UI Begins Brazilian Studies

Beginning in February, University students can spend a year in Latin America under a new international program sponsored by the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

The committee, consisting of the Big Ten schools plus the University of Chicago, is offering a program of study at the Federal University of Rio Grande de Sul, Porto Alegre, Brazil.

Through the program students can earn academic credit in any of several courses while gaining first-hand knowledge of Brazil. Students will be housed and fed in Brazilian homes.

According to Prof. Mary Daniel, director of Portuguese Studies, the cost to the student will be approximately $1,600.

Dr. Oscar Fernandez, chairman of the Department of that a language major is not Spanish and Portuguese, stated necessary.

Coralville Residents To Query Candidates

Coralville Mayor Clarence H. Wilson has called a public question and answer session for voters, at which council candidates running in the Nov. 4 municipal elections may respond to questions and explain the division of the Council into two parties.

The meeting is to be held at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 29. The meeting place has not yet been decided.

Wilson is running for re-election on the People's Progressive ticket. His opponent is Virgil G. Mortensen, who is representing the Coralville Community Action party. Mortensen has been a member of Wilson's Council.

Mortensen has said the Community Action party was formed to involve new people in the city government and to give Coralville residents a choice at the polls.

"Two years ago all of the incumbents ran unopposed and were elected with a dull thud," he said.

Mortensen was appointed to the Coralville Council in April of 1964 to replace Wilson when Mayor Robert G. Schreffler died and Wilson became mayor.

THIS CAN GET YOUR HEAD TOGETHER

Lead your own life. Enjoy it. Don't let life let you down because of a silly headache. Happiness is as far away as an Anacin® bottle. Anacin is twice as strong in the specific pain reliever doctors recommend most as the other well known extra strength tablet.

Anacin may not bend your mind, but it sure will get your head together.

DO YOUR OWN THING NOW!

Ideas and people make our business. We're in the retailing, food and personal services business. And YOUR IDEAS can help us do a better job.

Here's where YOU come in. We're changing. And growing. And we're looking for bright young people who can help us make our changes work. YOU are one of the new-idea people we're looking for.

HERE'S OUR OFFER: You can start out in management right now. You make good money. You put your own ideas to work and evaluate the results. You move up fast. You work almost anywhere in the world, with opportunity to travel. You're a big part of our operation. And you accomplish whatever your talents lead you to work toward. That's it.

YOU have the opportunity. We have openings. Let's get together and see if our ideas are in the same bag.

Our representatives will be on campus soon. See your placement director and sign up for an interview NOW!

We're seeking graduates with majors in:

- Business Administration / Economics / Psychology / Mathematics / Liberal Arts / Marketing / Architectural Design / Mechanical Engineering / Personnel Administration / Accounting / Computer Sciences / Food and Hotel Management / Traffic and Transportation Management / Management Engineering / and Industrial Engineering.

We want idea-people to turn us on in the following fields:

- RETAILING

Do you have to give up your identity to make it in a big corporation?

You've heard the stories. One big corporation forbids you to wear anything but white shirts. Another says it wants you to be "creative"—and gives you a 4-pound rule book telling you exactly how to do it. Yet another doesn't want you to buy a more expensive car than your boss because "it wouldn't look right!"

Is this really happening in American business?

He becomes so rigid and fossilized that they're scared of people who don't fit the "norm?"

Not this company. We are not hung up on trivia like that. The advances General Telephone & Electronics has made didn't come from people hiding behind organization charts and smiling at the right time.

They came from people who used their brains.

People who revolutionized picture-taking with the Sylvania flashcube, who developed the high-energy liquid laser, who came up with the sharpest color TV picture in the world, who pioneered instant electronic stock market quotations, and so on.

We are looking for more people like this—people who aren't afraid to stand up and try themselves out.

We are an equal opportunity employer.

All you need to make it with us is a good head on your shoulders.

Lab Dedication Scheduled Nov. 5

By University News Service

The Spence Laboratories of Psychology will be dedicated in a ceremony at the University Nov. 5.

The laboratory building, a six-story structure attached to East Hall, is named for the late Kenneth W. Spence, professor and chairman of the Department of Psychology from 1942-64.

Among those invited to the dedication are all holders of University Ph.D. degrees in psychology, other eminent psychologists, Johnson County legislators, and members of the University administration and faculty, Board of Regents, Iowa State government and National Science Foundation (NSF) staff.

Spence was one of the leading experimental psychologists and theorists of his generation. He received a Ph.D. at Yale University in 1933 and joined the University faculty in 1938. He was the major professor for 72 Iowa Ph.D. earners during his time here.

He received many honors during his career, among them being one of the first three psychologists to receive the American Psychological Association's Distinguished Scientific Contribution Award. From 1964 until his death in 1967 he was professor of psychology at the University of Texas.

The Spence Laboratories, constructed at an expense of $1.5 million in funds from the State of Iowa and NSF, include 150 rooms for teaching and for student and faculty research in such fields as physiology, clinical and social psychology, animal and human learning, memory, perception, psychophysics and classical conditioning. The building includes shops for wood, metal and electronic work, as well as closed-circuit television facilities and a communication system connecting all the rooms.

The dedication ceremony begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Union's Illinois Room. Regent Thomas Loudon of Keokuk will present the new building to University Pres. Willard L. Boyd.

Speaking will be Prof. Howard H. Kendler, who earned a Ph.D. at the University under Spence in 1943 and is now a specialist in problem-solving and concept formation at the University of California at Santa Barbara. His topic will be "Kenneth W. Spence, Scientist and Teacher."

The other speaker, Prof. Arthur Melton, director of the Human Performance Center at the University of Michigan, will discuss "The Natural Science of Experimental Psychology."

Tours of the new building will be given from 1:30-4 p.m., and coffee will be served in the Seashore Room there at 3 p.m.

Bike Theft Average

For the student, a bike means quick transport from here to there. But campus, there is a problem: will it be there when you here, or here when you there?

Reports of missing bicycles arrive daily at the Iowa Police Department. In 360 bicycles were stolen only 140 were returned to their owners. This year, the number of stolen bicycles averages more than one a day. Three hundred and sixty eight are missing. With an average cost of $35, that amounts to the loss of $12,880 from January to October.

Last year, 101 unreturned bicycles were sold at public auction in February and November.

UI Doctor: No Proof of Cyclamate's Harm

By UNIVERSITY NEWS SERVICE

Although suspicions and controversy about artificial sweeteners — particularly the cyclamates — smoldered for many years before a ban announced Saturday by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch, there is no definite evidence that they are responsible for cancer or birth defects when consumed in amounts usually consumed by people, a University physician reports. But he says they could be dangerous and need further study.

Roy M. Pitkin, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology in the University College of Medicine, and Lloyd J. Filer, professor of pediatrics, have been studying cyclamates for several months and have recently received grants for research into transfer of cyclamates across the placenta to the developing fetus and excretion of cyclamate in the mother's milk.

"Cyclamates have been used as artificial sweetening agents for about 20 years, and saccharin has been used for about 50 years," Pitkin says. "The bitter aftertaste experienced by some people following use of either substance alone seems to be eliminated if the two are combined in a ratio of 10 parts cyclamate to one part saccharin," he explains.

"About 8,000 tons of cyclamate will be consumed in the U.S. this year," Pitkin points out, "75 to 80 per cent of it in soft drinks. Since it is not a drug, but a food additive, it often is not listed on the package," he explains, "so the amount of cyclamate in the diet may be more than a person knows."

Because of this widespread use and the scarcity of information about the fate and effect of cyclamate in the body, the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences has spurred research on these questions. Until Finch cited bladder cancer in rats, Pitkin points out, the only observed adverse effect was that some people suffered loosening of the bowels from an intake of five or more grams of cyclamate per day. This is equivalent to an intake of 15 bottles of artificially sweetened pop each day, he says.

"About 40 per cent of the cyclamate taken by mouth is absorbed and excreted in the urine," Pitkin explains.

"In the test tube, scientists have shown an increased disruption of chromosomes — the parts of cells which carry the information that determines inheritance — but aspirin and caffeine also do this under similar conditions; yet they are considered 'safe' drugs and are taken routinely by the greater part of the population," Pitkin points out.

"Rats receiving cyclohexylamine — the substance from which cyclamates are made and to which they are changed sometimes by body metabolism — showed some disruption in their chromosomes," he says.

Scientists at the University have studied rhesus monkeys whose placental and fetal physiology are very similar to that of humans. They injected into pregnant female monkeys radioactive cyclamate and cyclohexylamine, and serial blood samples from mothers and fetuses were analyzed for levels of the two compounds.

"When we infused cyclamate for two hours, we found that the level in the mother's blood rose, but the kidneys quickly excreted the cyclamate and eliminated almost all of it soon after infusion stopped," Dr. Pitkin explains. "At the same time, the level in the fetus rises so that the overall average level is about 25 per cent of that in the mother's blood. "However, when an infusion stopped, the level in the fetal blood remained elevated longer than in the maternal blood. If there is any danger from the cyclamate, the fetus is exposed longer than the mother," he points out.

"Three hour infusion of cyclohexylamine showed that this compound diffuses freely across the placenta. Therefore, the developing fetus is exposed to the same concentration as the mother," Pit-kin says. "This means that the fetus is exposed to a relatively higher concentration of the potentially more dangerous compound," he explains.

"One of the most important unanswered questions is what the patterns of cyclamate consumption by people are," Pitkin emphasizes. "Also, absorption, distribution in body tissues, and excretion need to be studied in more detail."

LEHRMAN

Candidate for City Council

Robert A. Lehrman says:

"The same small group of people dominate city politics year after year. Let's get some low income people on City Commissions. Let's elect councilmen from equally apportioned wards. Then more people in Iowa City will have their say."

Robert A. Lehrman is:

a teacher, married, a graduate of The University of Iowa, a former member of the Johnson County Democratic Central Committee and campaign coordinator for Harold Hughes.

UI Gets 2 Space Contracts

Two contracts totaling $501,000 have been awarded to the University for instruments to be flown on earth satellites in late 1970.

The experiments, for studying electrical and magnetic fields, will be on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Interplanetary Monitoring Platform I (IMP-1) and the first of the space agency's Small Scientific Satellite Series (S3-A).

Principal investigator for both projects is Donald Gurnett, associate professor of physics and astronomy. Project manager is William Pfeiffer, resident physicist, and project engineer is James Cessna, a design engineer in the department of physics and astronomy.

Gurnett said the experimental packages will include specially designed receivers for studying low-frequency radio waves. One of the purposes of the satellite experiments will be to study the causes of magnetic storms which occur on earth after periods of solar activity, he said.

Since 1958, 31 successful scientific spacecraft and rockets have been launched carrying University instruments.

Iowa Trip Planned for February—

Chicago Opening for 'Hair'

The rock-musical "Hair" is opening in Chicago this week and plans are being made here to enable students to attend a performance in early February.

The Union Board Travel Committee is making arrangements with the Shubert theater in Chicago for tickets to the Feb. 7, evening performance.

According to Dennis Nagel, A3, Edgewood, chairman of the committee, the reason plans are being made so early is to make sure enough tickets will be available for the February weekend. Nagel said that the weekend chosen by his committee would cause the fewest conflicts since it is at the beginning of second semester and there is no basketball game scheduled.

Also, according to Nagel, Union Board would like to charter a train into Chicago if enough people are interested. Otherwise University buses will be taken.

Nagel said he anticipates approximately 500 people will be making the trip.

Contracts will be available in the Activities Center of the Union today through Sunday.

The committee is asking people who sign contracts to put down $2 toward the $6 and $7 tickets.

Nagel said that the total cost of the trip would be $17.50 which includes the ticket, transportation and an evening meal. However, anyone may provide their own transportation if they wish, he said.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Activities Center.

The only thing we've ever hidden is our light under a bushel.

Our secret of success is that we have no secrets.

How much we take in . . . how much we pay out . . . what we keep to cover our small cost of operating . . . everything we do is a matter of public record. It's all there, on file in state records.

Whenever we broaden benefits to meet your health care needs . . . every time we add health care services to your coverage . . . when rising health care costs call for a rate adjustment, the change must first be approved.

That's the way the legislature wanted it when they passed the act allowing us to operate without profit. The funny part is that we don't mind being the two most regulated providers of health care benefits in the state. It allows us to spend a lot more of your money on you.

There's one more thing they asked for in exchange for the chance to not make any money. They said we had to take the poor risks, too. And we do, regularly. And, we never cancel folks who have had a lot of cases.

That's the light that sometimes has been hidden. Now we want everyone to see the light.
