U.S. Bombers Enter Cambodia Northern Troops Chased to Post

SAIGON (AP) — American bombers struck inside Cambodia Wednesday at North Vietnamese troops who fled across the border after attacking the district town of Tuyen Binh. U.S. sources said 65 of the enemy were killed.

The sources said the bombers, on orders from the district chief of Tuyen Binh, also smashed a Cambodian mud fort outpost the enemy was believed to be using as an observation post for mortar attacks on the town and as a collection point for troops wounded in the assault.

The enemy force of about 500 men came out of Cambodia to attack Tuyen Binh and was driven off by a disheveled force of South Vietnamese of about half that size. About 150 of the enemy were left dead on the field and 14 of the South Vietnamese were killed.

Tuyen Binh is on the northern fringes of a vast swamp known as the Plain of Reeds and is only about 800 yards from the Cambodian border.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams' U.S. Command headquarters acknowledged the attack inside Cambodia about 60 miles due west of the South Vietnamese capital.

The headquarters issued a statement saying, "Reports of enemy-initiated fire attacks originating from within the Cambodian border territory have been received in Kien Tuong province on the district town of Tuyen Binh. The attack occurred on the 3rd of December and allied forces operating in the area returned fire with tactical air strikes."

The U.S. Command has previously stated that if fired upon from enemy positions outside the Republic of Vietnam, U.S. forces are authorized to return fire. This is the inherent right of self-defense against enemy attacks. Allied forces operating within the area have returned fire with tactical air strikes.

It marked the second time in the past 2½ weeks that the U.S. Command had launched American bombing strikes into Cambodia, claiming the right of self-defense.

The earlier strikes, Nov. 16-17 farther north along the Cambodian border, touched off a strong protest from Prince Norodom Sihanouk. The Cambodian chief of state claimed 25 Cambodians were killed and eight injured in air and artillery attacks on the Dakdam military post, just across the border from the Bu Prang Special Forces camp, 116 miles northeast of Saigon.

Allied officers claimed American bombers realigned against North Vietnamese artillery guns bombarding the Bu Prang camp from inside Cambodia.

In other action, American air and ground reconnaissance forces caught North Vietnamese forces on the move near the Cambodian border far to the north of Tuyen Binh and killed 35 of the enemy, the U.S. Command said Thursday.

Senate Increases Tax Exemption; Veto Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Wednesday to increase personal income tax exemption from $600 to $800, landing President Nixon his first major defeat on the tax reform bill.

In a 58-37 vote, the Senate ignored the threat of a veto and adopted an amendment by Democrat Albert Gore of Tennessee.

The Gore proposal would provide an average tax cut of more than 18 percent by 1971 for families earning $5,000 to $10,000 and a far greater windfall for millions earning less.

It replaces in the big tax bill an administration-backed provision that would have cut tax rates without changing the exemption and delayed the impact until 1972. This approach has also been approved by the House.

The Gore proposal, if finally enacted, would raise the personal exemption to $700 next year and to $800 in 1971. Regardless of the outcome, income tax returns due next April for 1969 income will not be affected.

Physicist Van Allen To Give Space Talk

University of Iowa space physicist James Van Allen will discuss "Space Science and Technology" at 8 p.m. Dec. 11 in the Union Main Lounge.

His talk, a feature of the 1969-70 University Lecture Series, will be open to the public. Free tickets will be available at the University Box Office in the Union beginning Friday.

Van Allen is best known as the discoverer of the Van Allen Radiation Belts, which surround the earth. He and his colleagues designed the instruments for the United States' first successful earth satellite, Explorer 1, and to date, have provided instrumentation for more than 30 U.S. satellites, rockets and space probes.

Currier Women 'Enforce' 24-Hour Visitation Code

60 Dorm Women Are Found Guilty Of Violating Hours

Women's Judicial Board Wednesday night found 60 Currier Dormitory residents guilty of violating women's hours as stated in the University Code of Student Life.

Women's hours are midnight Sunday through Thursday and 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday for first semester freshmen. Second semester freshmen with parental consent, sophomores, juniors, seniors, and graduates do not have hours.

The alleged violations took place on Nov. 19 and 20. About 70 girls from Currier and Burge walked out before hours Nov. 19 and did not return until after hours. About 100 girls did the same Nov. 20.

Paula Overland, A1, Postville, a spokesman for the girls — all freshmen — read a petition which stated:

"We the following freshmen women, plead not guilty (to violating hours restrictions) for the following reasons:

- Women's hours are in violation of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, as hours clearly discriminate against the female sex.

- Every civil court can judge the constitutionality of rules. Therefore, Women's Judicial Board can also judge the constitutionality of rules.

- The Women's Judicial Board is enforcing the Code of Student Life, which has been invalidated by the Associated Residence Halls (ARH) and the Student Senate.

- Women's hours have been repudiated by many organizations directly concerned — Student Senate, ARH, Associated Women Student (AWS), Committee on Student Life (CSL), and every dorm association.

- Women's Judicial Board has been established by the executive councils of the women's dormitories. Through surveys taken by AWS, Student Senate, and Women's Judicial Board, and by action taken by dormitory associations, it is apparent that Judicial Board is not acting in the direction established by the dorm associations or in the interests of the residents."

The petition was signed by 51 of the 60 girls.

Pam Beranek, A4, Mount Vernon, Women's Judicial Board Chairman, said the girls were found guilty because there was evidence that they had been out late Nov. 19 and 20.

"Until the Board is officially notified that the Code of Student Life as published in The Daily Iowan, is invalid this body will continue to uphold its rules," Miss Beranek said.

Miss Beranek said no punishment had been decided for the girls.

Any girl who wishes may appeal her conviction, Miss Beranek said. Since the girls were tried en masse they may appeal en masse.

The women of Currier Hall say they voted their new dormitory code into effect Monday night and put the code's 24-hour intervisitation policy into practice at a meeting Tuesday night.

From about 11 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., the women of Currier met in the Currier Main Lounge with women students from other residence halls and several male guests to discuss the new code and alleged discrimination against women students.

The men included Philip G. Hubbard, University Vice Provost; Student Body Pres. Phil Dantes; Student Body Executive Vice Pres. Bo Beller, A2, Glencoe, Ill., and student senators Bert Marian and Jerry Sies.

Although Dantes was unavailable for comment, one source said the code was submitted to the Student Senate for approval rather than to the University administration.

Hubbard said Wednesday he had not seen the code and that he would need to see it before saying the girls are violating University regulations. Hubbard added that restrictions on visitation are made by each dormitory.

Since the meeting lasted until about 12:30 Wednesday morning — one half hour later than Currier's previous "closing time" — and the men remained until that time, residents say that their new policy on intervisitation was effectively demonstrated.

Hubbard said he thought the meeting was deliberately extended beyond the 12 p.m. closing time, but added "if they interpret this as reinforcement of their code, then it doesn't excite me too much."

Dantes declared a special "convocation" to allow the women from other residences to remain later than the usual closing hours of their dormitories.

According to Dantes, a convocation may be called by the student body president in order to suspend classes or other institutional regulations for special matters of importance to the University or student body.

Tate Killing Discussed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite her pleas to "Let me have my baby," actress Sharon Tate and four others were killed one by one by members of a nomadic band dressed in black for the occasion, two lawyers said Wednesday.

The next night, members of the same group selected a house at random, stabbed to death a wealthy market owner and his wife to show they hadn't lost their nerve — then showered and had a snack, the attorneys said.

Jet with 62 Passengers Crashes

LA GUAIRA, Venezuela (AP) — An Air France Boeing 707 jet-liner with 62 persons aboard plunged into the Caribbean near here Wednesday night shortly after taking off from Caracas International Airport.

Almost four hours after the crash, National Guardsmen reported they had recovered four bodies from the crash site. Little hope was held that any aboard had survived.

Air France manager Roger Pinson initially reported 51 persons were aboard

Better Service for Students Cited— Student Senate Incorporates

Student Senate has voted to incorporate.

According to the Articles of Incorporation presented at a meeting Tuesday night, the Senate will form a nonprofit corporation known as Iowa Student Agencies. Its purpose is to "provide services for the members of the University of Iowa Student Association (UISA)."

The corporation has an original board of directors of six people — Student Body Pres. Phil Dantes; Bo Beller, A2, Glencoe, Ill., student body executive vice-president; Larry Wood, A2, North Liberty, married student senator; John Clemons, A4, Elmwood Park, Ill., liberal arts senator; Roy Cacciatore, A3, Freeport, N.Y., student body vice president; and Marge Horn, A4, Runnells, senate secretary.

The corporation's by-laws state that the president, vice-president and executive vice-president of the student body and three persons selected by the Senate must be members of the board of directors. Their tenure is that of the student body president's term in office.

Officers of the corporation will be elected by the board of directors. A member of the board may not be elected as an officer.

Officers will be elected by the board of directors at its first meeting, which shall be no later than one week after its appointment.

The board of directors may authorize any officer or agent to enter into any contract in the name of the corporation. No loan or indebtedness may be taken without the authorization of the board of directors.

Bert Marian, G, North Liberty, graduate senator, said incorporation is the first step toward student government autonomy.

the jetliner, but later Air France officials upped the figure to 62 — including 22 in transit passengers, 19 who boarded the plane at La Guaira and 21 crew and relief crew members.

Darkness hampered rescuers who rushed in boats to the site of the crash. Airport sources said the plane gained an altitude of about 33,000 feet before falling into the water at 6:15 p.m. EST about five miles from the airport.

La Guaira is a port city seven miles north of Caracas.

UI Police Deny Student Political Files Kept

Student Senators, members of the University's central administration and William Binney, University Director of Campus Security, will meet today to discuss the University's policy concerning security records. Binney has said that none are kept.

Impetus for the meeting — scheduled for 10 a.m. in the Old Capitol Board Room — was an 11-point reply from Binney to a recent Senate inquiry into the nature and use of security records. The reply was received Monday by Student Senate Executive Vice Pres. Robert Beller, A2, Glencoe, Ill., who initiated the inquiry.

Binney, in an interview Monday, said his office was "definitely not the cloak and dagger operation" the Senate was making it out to be.

However, he did acknowledge that "there is a lot of misinformation floating around" about security operations and records.

The Senate inquiry followed its passage Oct. 28 of a Beller-sponsored bill maintaining that the existence of University security files violated a national American Association of University Professors (AAUP) position outlined in 1956.

The AAUP statement concerns student records and procedural standards in disciplinary proceedings.

Regarding student records, the AAUP statement holds that "institutions should have a carefully considered policy as to the information which should be a part of a student's permanent educational record and as to the conditions of its disclosure. . . . No records should be kept which reflect the political activities or beliefs of students. . . ."

On procedural standards, the statement maintains that "students should be as free as possible from imposed limitations that have no direct relevance to their education. . . ."

Monday, Binney pointed out that security files — related to political activities — were not a part of a student's permanent educational record. He also said no attempt has been made here to record information that would reflect a student's political activities or beliefs.

Regarding the procedural standards section of the AAUP statement, Binney said University Security did not "determine, maintain, or record disciplinary action."

A section of the Senate bill held that University of Iowa Student Association Senate (UISAS) representatives — student senators — should spot-inspect their own security files "in order to determine that actual filing practices are consistent with the administration explanation, the AAUP statement, and UISAS values concerning student rights."

Binney said, "Police files are not public and neither are security records."

But he did add that he would meet with individual students to answer questions regarding their own personal files.

The Senate bill further stated that if the UISAS is unsatisfied with the administration's answers to the Senate inquiry a complete investigation beginning not later than Nov. 11 would be the result.

Binney said, however, that he did not receive the Senate questionnaire until Nov. 10, the day before the deadline.

In his reply to Beller, Binney said that records on such things as minor complaints, accidents, violations of University rules, crimes, vandalism, alarms, missing persons, or lost and found property, are kept and may be the basis for an investigation depending on the seriousness of the event and the possibility of productive results.

Usually, Binney said, these records are destroyed every four years, although records on more serious offenders, such as rapists or child molesters, are kept as long as the possibility exists that these people might remain in the area.

In the event of civil disorder or possible civil disorder, information that may be used as evidence is collected but it is never entered in the files if no laws or rules are broken, or if it occurs and no prosecution results, Binney explained.

If prosecution results, Binney said, the pertinent materials are filed and used but destroyed on the four-year cycle.

Information regarding students is provided to the University Office of Student Affairs upon request, Binney said, and student arrests are also noted and forwarded to the Office of Student Affairs.

When Campus Security and municipal police are working on joint investigations, there is a full interchange of directly related or pertinent information, he said.

The University Security director also pointed out that his department's general responsibilities are to protect University property and personnel and to investigate crimes involving University property and personnel. Such investigations may involve persons other than those directly related to the University.

Beller, contacted Monday, said he thought Binney's reply was generally "a song and dance," but was about what he had expected. He said he had received evidence from other students that seemed to contradict Binney's statement. However, Beller would not comment on the "evidence."

Beller did say, however, that such "evidence might be discussed" at today's meeting.

Beller also said that any students who have evidence contradictory to Binney's policy statements should contact him.

Five Senate members — Beller, Student Body Pres. Phil Dantes; John Clemons, A4, Elmwood Park, Ill.; Jerry Sies, corresponding student, Iowa City; and Larry Wood, A2, North Liberty, are expected to attend this morning's meeting.

University Vice Provost Philip Hubbard and Roger Augustine, associate dean of Student Affairs, are expected to represent the central administration.

According to Clemons, a second representative of the Office of Student Affairs, possibly Richard Trumpe, also an associate dean of Student Affairs, has been invited by Senate to attend the meeting.

the entire system will be improved with such a plan," he said.
He voiced the same opinion as McNally when he stated that he felt that the problem could not be solved simply by upgrading justices. "It is much deeper than that," said Mezvinsky.
"Where is the public support?" he asked. "I have heard of no outcries of support for the continuance of justices."
Mezvinsky disagreed with Lyon's estimate of cost. He posed figures on costs as estimated by Iowa Legislative Fiscal Director Gerry Rankin. According to the figures, the costs of the courts under the uniform system would cost approximately $415,000 more than the present system each year for the first five years.
Mezvinsky said that he realized there was much opposition to the reform bill in the House. "There are many who want to keep the justices. There could be a skirmish."
"I feel that Mr. Lyon will present the case of the justices in a very effective and articulate manner. The legislature must look at all sides and reach a good decision. We must find out how the public feels, not just how one association feels," said Mezvinsky.
Nixon Renews Tax Veto Threat
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon renewed an implied threat to veto the tax reform bill Tuesday if Senate Democrats succeed in writing into it a big increase in the personal income tax exemption.
The Senate recessed overnight without voting on the proposal. Nixon, in a letter to Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, said an increase in the exemption to $800 or $1,000 would fail to "meet the test of fiscal responsibility."
This administration is strongly committed to tax reform," Nixon said. "I have stated that I will sign a good tax reform bill. I still intend to do so, but it must be equitably constructed and it must be fiscally responsible."
Nixon urged the Senate to approve provisions of the Senate Finance Committee bill, cutting taxes an average of five percent over the next three years.
Nixon's letter was read to the Senate by Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) after debate opened on an amendment by Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) that would substitute for the rate cuts an increase in the exemption from $600 to $800. He first offered a boost to $1,000 but later scaled it down to $800.
Even with vigorous opposition from the administration and the Senate Finance Committee, chances appeared better for Senate approval of some increase in the $600 standard than at any time since it was raised from wartime levels in 1948.

BIAFRA

The new African nation of Biafra became a political entity under Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu in 1966, after the Northern Nigerians massacred over 20,000, maimed over 100,000, and robbed over 1,000,000 citizens of the Eastern Region (now Biafra). The Biafran people are engaged in a war for their own self-determination and for freedom from Nigerian terrorism. Despite their lack of weapons, the people have managed to maintain their independence. But they desperately need food and medical support. By early 1969 roughly a million Biafrans had died. The children and the very old are the main victims of starvation.

The Biafran Drive Committee is presenting a documented film on the crisis, in the hope of gaining public support for Biafra. The film will be shown in the Minnesota Room of the Union this Thursday, Dec. 4, at 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, and 5:00. There is no admission fee. Throughout this month petitions will be circulated on campus which will be sent to Iowa senators Miller and Hughes and President Nixon. The petitions will demand that they discuss possibilities of a cease-fire and the sending of medical supplies to the Biafran people. The petitions will also ask that this country recognize the government of Biafra.

Possible Shutdown In Railroad Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations in a nationwide railroad wage dispute resumed Wednesday on an optimistic note but still under the threat of a coast-to-coast railroad shutdown if an agreement isn't reached.

"If bargaining continues on the same high plane that it has in the last few days, an agreement is still possible," said Asst. Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery, the Nixon administration's chief mediator in the dispute.

William W. Winpisinger, chief negotiator for four unions representing 43,000 railroad shop-craft workers, continued to withhold strike action that could trigger an industry lock-out retaliation.

The unions, which have been free to strike since 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, still reserved the possibility of a walkout against one or more railroads on a minute-to-minute basis if negotiations turn sour.

Usery, Winpisinger and the chief railroad negotiator, John P. Hiltz, resumed talks after a 12-hour break that gave them their first rest in several days.

They had bargained for nearly 38 hours straight before recessing at 3 a.m. Wednesday until midafternoon.

The talks cover all the nation's major rail lines. The unions have indicated they would strike only a few in an effort to avoid creating a national emergency that could bring stiff federal action. The industry has said it will shut down all lines if any are struck.

Viet Senator: No Proof Of My Lai Slaughter

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Sen. Tran Van Don said Wednesday his investigation was unable to come up with a conclusion that U.S. troops slaughtered civilians in My Lai in 1968. One difficulty in weighing evidence was the strong Viet Cong influence there, he added.

Leader of a team of South Vietnamese legislators that visited My Lai, Don said a final report will have to await the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. of Miami, Fla.

The U.S. Army has charged Calley with the premeditated murder of 109 My Lai villagers March 16, 1968.

"We will prepare a report, but it cannot be completed, Don said.

Superintendent Says Schools Must Remain Non-partisan

From ancient Sparta to the China of Mao Tse-tung, young people have been a powerful political force subject to manipulation by their elders, a school superintendent said at the University Wednesday.

Scott D. Thomson, superintendent of Evanston, Ill., Township High School District 202, said efforts should be made to keep young people from being exploited politically in ways that would threaten the U.S. public school system's traditional freedom from partisan political control.

Thomson addressed more than 300 Iowa school superintendents and principals attending the University's 54th annual Conference on School Administration and Supervision Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Youth can be used very easily" because students are emotional and idealistic, Thomson said.

He advocated maintenance of "a delicate line" between discussion in the schools and action in the community. He said students should study the draft law, racism, pollution and other social problems at school, but should not be active proponents or opponents of action to be taken there on these issues.

Thomson said the "generation gap" issue has received too much attention in recent years as there has always been one and will always be one. He said the reason for the gap is that youth has a one-dimensional view — the present — while adults have a three-dimensional view because of their experience.

He predicted that the Weathermen's violent October campaign in Chicago and the "mini-riot" at the Justice Department in November will constitute the "death-knell" of Students for a Democratic Society. Adults had already resented SDS's "senseless destruction," he said, but the most recent incidents had the effect of "turning off" activist high school students.

Thomson said society has learned much since the early days of student activism when "the word merchants" were writing that "good wholesome kids were working against a bunch of dirty old men."

He cited six "residues" of the activist movement.

- School officials now realize they have "no absolute control over personal or social dimensions of student life."

- The academic atmosphere seems more free, though the power relationships are virtually unchanged.

- Student awareness of the world has been increased.

- A counterattack may come from the political right, which "has been watching the game for a long time from the sidelines" and may hope for equal success.

- Since television amounts to "the third adult in the home," programming may need to be "monitored" to assure balance.

- The feeling that "the expert has led us astray" has resulted in a renewed respect for "amateurism."

Jensen Stricken With Mono

The illness of Iowa basketball center Dick Jensen has been diagnosed as mononucleosis and the 6-8 senior has been lost to the Hawkeyes for an indefinite period.

Team Physician Dr. W.D. Paul said Wednesday that Jensen, a native of Madrid, definitely had the disease, but said that it is not yet known how seriously he was stricken.

Dr. Paul said that Jensen would remain in the University infirmary — which he has been in since the start of the week — for about another week to undergo further tests.

Jensen has been the starting center for Coach Ralph Miller's cage squad the past two seasons and was expected to retain that spot this year. Jensen was absent from Tuesday's Freshman-Varsity clash and his spot was taken by 6-7 senior Ben McGilmer.

Miller said Wednesday that he expects to be without Jen-

Since coming to Iowa, Jensen had scored 359 points in his 49 varsity games for a 7.3 average. Jensen also has been the Hawks' second leading rebounder each of the last two seasons.

Gale Sayers NFL Player of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Gale Sayers keeps grinding out those 100-yard days Sunday after Sunday while the Chicago Bears keep on losing and his accomplishments get lost in the shuffle.

Because Sayers ran for 126 yards in 20 carries against Cleveland last Sunday and took over the individual rushing lead, The Associated Press named him the Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

In the last six games he has averaged 103 yards and has piled up a season total of 841 yards, wrestling first place from Dallas' Calvin Hill.

Badger Grid Coach Coatta, Assistants Fired by Hirsch

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin football Coach John Coatta, whose beleaguered Badgers won only three games in his three years at the helm, was fired Tuesday night.

Athletic Director Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch said a search would begin immediately for a successor, preferably among established head coaches or top assistant coaches.

Hirsch sat grim-faced and red-eyed for the news conference announcement, saying that he had recommended the contracts of Coatta and his assistants be allowed to expire.

"It was a tough decision," Hirsch said. "I'm very fond of John."

Coatta, whose coaching never equaled his star quarterbacking performances of two decades ago at Wisconsin, bowed out with a dismal record of 3-26-1.

The 40-year-old coach admitted he was not caught completely off guard by the announcement, which ended weeks of rumors that he was on the way out.

"I wasn't totally surprised," Coatta said. "But you always have faint hopes until you find out. It's tough, but that's the way it is. It'll probably work out for the best."

"It's too bad for us," he added.

"I don't want to sound like sour grapes, but I feel the football program is much better off than when we started three years ago.

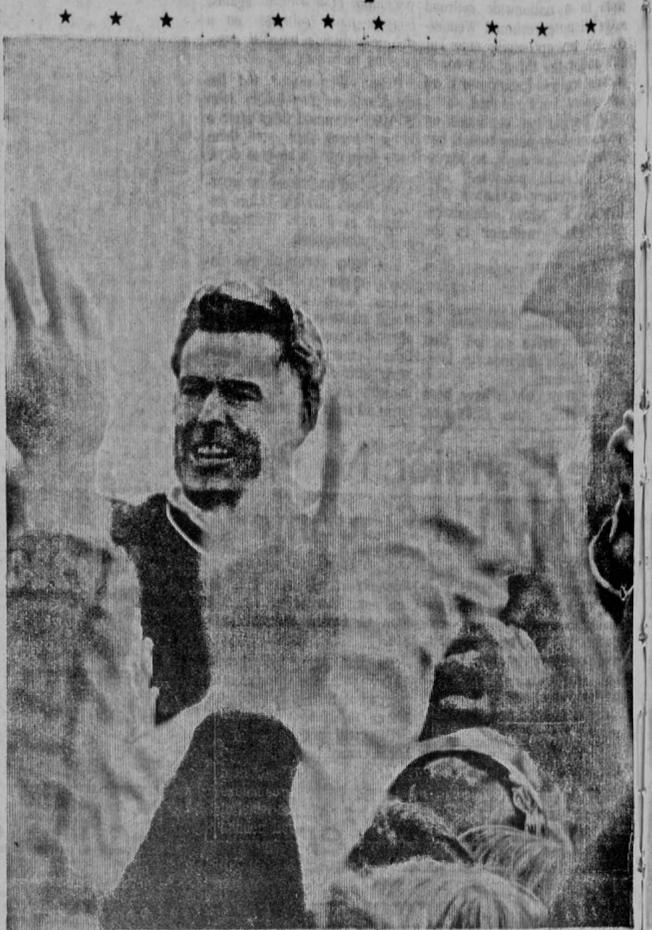

"The program has a solid foundation and things will look up for the Badgers. They were beginning to look up this season. There are some football players here now."

An assistant coach, who asked not to be identified, was far more blunt.

"We've given three years of our lives," he said. "We've worked darn hard. Now, it's good-by. John deserved more than what he got."

Coatta's contract expires next Tuesday. The one-year contracts of his assistants, with the exception of Les Richardson's, run out June 30, 1970.

Richardson's five-year contract will expire a year later. Hirsch, who replaced the late Ivan B. Williams as athletic director last February, said he had reached his decision to fire Coatta since the season finale against Minnesota Nov. 22.

From Riches to Rags—

This picture was taken after the Iowa-Wisconsin game Oct. 11, when thousands of exuberant Wisconsin fans poured onto the field to lift Badger Coach John Coatta on their shoulders in jubilation after the Badgers had defeated the Hawkeyes, 23-17 — their first victory in 23 games. Coatta's team went on to win twice more during the season, but it was announced Tuesday that the former Badger star's contract will not be renewed even though it expires next Tuesday. Making the decision to fire Coatta and his entire staff was Athletic Director Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch.

Larry Ely Named Hawkeyes' Most Valuable Player of '69

Larry Ely, senior linebacker and co-captain, Wednesday night was named the most valuable player on the 1969 Iowa football team.

The 225-pound native of Des Moines was an offensive guard until the fourth game of his junior season, when he was switched to linebacker.

Ely ranked third in Iowa's defensive statistics this season, making 61 tackles and 38 assists.

Ely co-captained an Iowa team that finished the season

5-5 in all games and 3-4 in the Big 10. He has accepted an invitation to play in the post-season East-West Shrine game in San Francisco.

The announcement of Ely's selection by his teammates was made at the annual Iowa letterman's banquet sponsored jointly by the Davenport Quarterback Club and Davenport I-Club.

The Forest Evashevski award, presented annually to a senior who excels in the classroom, was given to Jim Crouse of Audubon. A pre-medicine major, he has maintained a B-plus grade point average.

The Iowa award, presented by the coaching staff to the player who makes a strong overall contribution, was given to quarterback Mike Ciek, senior from Iowa City.

Coach Ray Nagel said that the announcement of the 1970 co-captains will not be made until spring practice next May. Nagel has awarded varsity monograms to 44 athletes. It was announced Wednesday. The group includes 12 sophomores, 13 juniors and 19 seniors. There also were two manager's letters awarded.

Moments before the A's completed their deal, Kansas City and the New York Mets announced a transaction.

In a 2-for-1 trade, Kansas City sent veteran third baseman Joe Foy to the Mets in exchange for Amos Otis, an infielder-outfielder, and right-hander Bob Johnson.

SYLVANIA, Ohio (AP) — Nino Benvenuti, the world middleweight champion from Italy, and Bernabe Villacampo, the new flyweight champ from the Philippines, were named the Fighters-of-the-month Wednesday by the World Boxing Association.

Ohio State, Illinois, Hawks Next in Line— Purdue Huge Favorite in Big 10

Editor's Note — This is the last of a three-part series presenting sketches of Big 10 basketball teams. The teams are discussed according to the inverse order of their finish in the Big 10 last year.

By MIKE SLUTSKY
Sports Editor

Last year Purdue, Illinois, Ohio State and Iowa were expected to battle down to the wire for the Big 10 championship. But the Boilermakers had different ideas and soon left no doubt that the conference championship was theirs by making a runaway of the race.

Most writers and coaches agreed last year that a team could win the championship with having as many as four losses. Purdue lost only one — at Ohio State — and Illinois and the Buckeyes finished far back in second place, both with five losses. The Hawkeyes went stale early and were never in contention after the first two weeks of the season.

Once again these four teams are rated as the best in the Big 10. However, there is one difference. Purdue is now the overwhelming choice to repeat as champions with the other three figuring in the battle for second place.

OHIO STATE
Buckeye Coach Fred Taylor has an experienced crew to work with, led by 6-8 center Dave Sorenson. Taylor's other gem is 6-3 cornerman Jim Clemons, who scored at a 20.1 clip last season, 5th best in the conference.

Clemons will be the only non-senior of Taylor's first seven players. "We always expect a lot from our seniors," Taylor said.

The seniors besides Sorenson Taylor is counting on are 6-3 guard Jody Finney, 6-3 guard Craig Barclay, 6-3 forward Dan Andreas, 6-6 forward Ed Smith and 6-2 guard Jim Geddes.

Clemons, Sorenson and Finney will be Taylor's full-time starters and he will play the other four. Finney is the only other returner who averaged in double figures last season, 13.3 in all games.

The bulk of the point production is expected, though, from Sorenson and Clemons. Sorenson, the team captain, shot 57 per cent from the field last year, averaging 23.6 points a game — good for third in the Big 10. He led the team in rebounds with almost 11 per game and, along with Rick Mount and Rudy Tomjanovich, was considered one of the three best players in the league by the coaches.

Clemons shot even better from his forward position, 58.4 per cent, and was second on the team in rebounds, hauling in about seven or eight a game. Clemons is the team leader on offense, setting up Taylor's patterned offense.

THE BUCKEYES, who were 17.7 overall last year, may be short on size according to Taylor. Sorenson and Smith are the only front-liners over 6-3, although Clemons is an exceptional leaper.

"We'll be a little quicker this year and we have six seniors who played a lot of minutes last year," Taylor said. "But we also fouled a little too often last year and we have to maintain better shot selectivity this year."

ILLINOIS
When you think of the Fighting Illini, you naturally think of a mountain disguised as a man playing center for them. That man is 6-8, 255-pound junior center Gregg Jackson, no small obstacle for opposing Big 10 centers to move.

Coach Harv Schmidt, who has molded a powerhouse at Champaign in less than three years, is counting on Jackson to pick up where he left off last year.

Jackson, who was up around 280 in the off-season, is now in good physical shape. He proved this by scoring 26 points in the Illini's season-opening victory over Butler Tuesday, 83-67.

Jackson, with a 17 point scoring average last year, was the team's second-leading scorer. Dave Scholz, lost through graduation, was the leader with a 19.1 average. Jackson was the highest scoring sophomore postman in Illinois' history, and his predecessors include such stalwarts as Scholz, Skip Thoren, Bill Burwell, George Bon Salle and Johnny Kerr.

Besides the loss of Scholz, Schmidt will also have to replace starting guard Jodie Harrison and a sometime-starter Denny Pace.

Rick Howat, a 6-2 guard who averaged 3.5 as the team's third guard last year, will probably be taking over Harrison's spot.

At the other guard is senior letterman Mike Price, a 6-3½, 200-pounder from Indianapolis, Ind. Price averaged 12.4 points per game last year and was also the team's third-leading rebounder.

Up front will be 6-5½ senior letterman Randy Crews, a part-time starter last year who averaged 5.5. The other cornerman will be 6-4 junior Fred Miller, the team's fourth forward last year. Miller saw enough playing time to put in about seven points a ballgame.

Bob Windmiller, a junior letterman at guard, and junior guard Bob Shapland afford the Illini good backup strength in the back court, but there is little experience behind Miller and Crews in the forecourt.

"We think we have good quality," Schmidt said, "and we work well together. Our outside shooting might be a little better this year, but basically we'll be the same type of team we were last year — a defensive one."

Illinois was 19-5 last year and could easily reach that plateau again this year. It would sure help a lot of people forget that football team.

PURDUE
It's a human habit to save the best for last and — at least in the opinion of Big 10 sportswriters — the Boilermakers are once again the best.

In the annual Big 10 basketball poll, Purdue received 35 votes to be in first place come March 7, the final day of Big 10 play. Ohio State had the second most first place votes, six. Illinois and Iowa tallied the only other first places, each receiving three.

In the overall voting, Purdue tallied 451 points, Ohio State 384, Illinois 368, Iowa 321, Northwestern 219, Michigan 215, Indiana 207, Minnesota 161, Wisconsin in 133 and Michigan State 126.

Take away one player and the Boilermakers might not be such a unanimous pick. But Coach George King does have that one player — the incomparable Rick Mount — and that's why the Boilermakers are the team to beat in the Big 10.

Mount was second in the nation in scoring from his guard position last year, averaging 35.2 — an all-time Big 10 record. His scoring led the Boilermakers to the league title, the Midwest Regional championship and a second place finish in the NCAA.

Gone from that team is Mount's supporting cast, forward Herb Gilliam (voted the team's most valuable player the past two seasons) and fireplug guard Bill Keller.

Larry Weatherford will team with Mount at guard this year and King thinks that Weatherford may equal — if not surpass — the per- formances of Keller. King then has seven large players he will probably be platooning in the front court, losing no effectiveness no matter who plays. The probable starters are 6-5½ junior forward George Faerber, a starter last year, at one forward, 6-5 veteran Tyrone Bedford at the other corner and 6-10 junior Jerry Johnson at center. Both Bedford and Johnson saw considerable action last year.

Backing them up are 6-8 junior Frank Kaufman and three outstanding 6-7 sophomores, Bob Ford, Bill Franklin and Jim Rogers.

"They look at two things with those preseason ratings," said King, whose Boilermakers are now rated third in the nation. "How many returning starters you have and whether you have a superstar."

"We have only Faerber and Mount back as regulars, but Mount is a superstar, and that gives us the rating."

Anyway you look at it though, Purdue led the league in both field goal and free throw ave-

Illinois' Center Gregg Jackson—

Illinois' huge center Gregg Jackson, all 6-8, 250 pounds of him, is expected this year to lead the Fighting Illini in the Big 10 basketball race. Jackson averaged 17 points a game last year, the most ever by a sophomore center at Illinois. He also led the team in rebounds.

South African Government Unsympathetic to Ashe If He Chooses to Play There

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Sports Minister Frank Waring indicated Wednesday the South African government will be unsympathetic towards American black tennis star Arthur Ashe if he applies for a visa to take part in open tennis events here next year.

Waring said it was obvious Ashe did not intend coming to South Africa to play tennis but to engage in political activity. He said this in a prepared statement which came the day after a newly formed tennis body appealed to the government to welcome Ashe if he wants to play here.

Waring asserted Ashe had shown an outright unfriendly and threatening attitude towards South Africa in the past. He had signed a call for a proposed boycott of the 1968 Mexico

Olympics if South Africa participated. It was the first direct comment by a government member on Ashe's reported determination to take part in the 1970 South African national championships as a test of South Africa's willingness to relax apartheid race segregation restrictions on sport. South Africa in the past has allowed non-whites to compete here in Davis Cup tennis events as members of a visiting national team but a position regarding the open championships is not clear.

Army Continuing Research Into Germ Warfare Defense

FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—Last week, President Nixon announced that the United States will never resort to germ warfare and promised to destroy existing stockpiles of bacteriological weapons. But research into defenses against germ warfare attacks continues. At Ft. Detrick, the $100-million main Army biological research center here, Col. Ephram M. Gershater, the commanding officer, says the post's mission is "heavily defensive." "A good defense," he says,

"cannot be designed unless we understand exactly what it is we are defending ourselves against."

Strains of bacteriological agents like plague, Q fever, anthrax and encephalitis have been developed at Ft. Detrick, Gershater says, so Army researchers can prepare vaccines to neutralize or soften the blow of bacteriological attack.

According to researchers, ideal bacteriological warfare agents are highly infectious, short-term diseases that can be controlled fairly easily. They quickly lose their potency so occupying forces can safely move into an area after an attack.

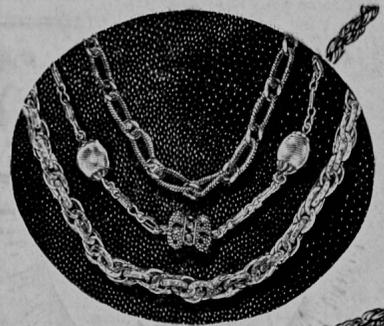

Programs completed or in progress at Ft. Detrick dealing with potential bacteriological warfare agents include:

- Food poisons. Army scientists have helped develop a toxoid that can protect men and animals against five kinds of food poisoning.

- Anthrax vaccine. Ft. Detrick developed the first non-living anthrax vaccine to be approved for tests on humans. The vaccine was found to be 92 per cent effective. Anthrax, an infectious disease that can cause skin swelling and lung difficulties, usually is fatal.

Some experimentation is done with human volunteers, mostly conscientious objectors fulfilling their military obligation, under a program dubbed "Operation White-coat."

Ft. Detrick officials say the volunteers are not forced to participate and are not given any special inducements. All are thoroughly briefed on the purpose, procedures and risks of each project, the officials say.

Food Conference Chairman Jean Mayer

Nutritionist Mayer Says Poor Cannot Afford Food Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Jean Mayer, organizer of the current White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health, tends to speak in aphorisms.

"The really poor can't afford our poverty programs," the 49-year-old French-born nutritionist says.

Or, "It's easier to change foods than to change eating habits."

Mayer, who confesses that his sedentary job as a White House consultant has left him "somewhat overweight," can also speak in blunt anger.

In a recent letter to John Kramer, whom Mayer had selected to succeed him as executive director of a private anti-hunger group, Mayer said of Kramer's criticism of the Nixon administration, "Your biased and inaccurate statements to a number of influential newspapermen . . . were lies which are plaguing us to this day . . ."

"My information . . . is that you singlehandedly have killed any chance that the carefully contrived plans to have a food bill reported from the House Agriculture Committee would, in fact, be put into action . . ."

"I have no further interest in any discussion with you and trust that this will bring an end to our correspondence."

In the same letter—written on White House stationery—Mayer warned Kramer's organization that its "indiscriminate and irresponsible attacks" on the administration and Congress could jeopardize its tax-deductible status.

Mayer, who is widely recognized as one of the world's ranking experts on nutrition, won 14 decorations, including the Croix de Guerre, as an officer in the French Army and the underground Free French forces in World War II.

As an authority on nutrition, Mayer for years warned against overeating and excessive weight. Practicing what he preached, he stayed a trim 180 pounds by eating carefully and exercising—tennis, swimming and skiing—frequently.

Now, Mayer admits with his heavy French accent, long hours behind the desk and too little exercise have widened his silhouette.

Mayer contends no other country has done as little as the United States in the past 20 years to improve life expectancy.

"Education is no substitute for food and money," he said in announcing the White House parley.

"The really poor can't afford our poverty programs. Only 17 per cent of people eligible for food stamps receive them."

Mayer, a native of Paris who now is a naturalized U.S. citizen, has been a nutrition professor and lecturer on the history of public health at Harvard University for nearly 20 years. He is married to the former Elizabeth Van Huysen. They have four children.

Restauranters to Meet with County Health Board County Moves to Strengthen Sanitation

A committee of restaurant, cafe and tavern owners will give recommendations to the Johnson County Board of Health about increasing the Board's sanitation regulatory power.

The decision to form a committee was made during a public hearing Tuesday at which Board representatives discussed a proposal for new food and milk regulations.

With the adoption of the proposal, the Board would be empowered to regulate and inspect the various eating and drinking establishments throughout the county.

Presently only Iowa City eating and drinking establishments are controlled by the Board. The Board has no regulatory power over the rest of the county, which is theoretically controlled by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This method of control has been inadequate, according to Sydney C. Schachtmeister, County Public Health Director.

He gave as an example Babb's Cafe in Coralville. Schachtmeister said Babb's was unsanitary, but he was powerless to take action because it was outside Iowa City.

The new proposal also calls for Board regulation and inspection of all types of "food-service establishments," not just restaurants and taverns as in the present sanitation laws.

These would include coffee shops, cafeterias, drive-ins, nightclubs or any eating or drinking establishment or operation where food is served or provided for the public — with or without charge.

Also under the proposal new enforcement procedures would be set up. Among these would be a complicated demerit system where demerits for violations would be recorded after inspection of each establishment.

After an establishment received demerits, it would have a certain number of days to correct the violations depending on the number of demerits. Also, according to Franklin Kilpatrick, a board member, in any "emergency" situations when a serious violation of sanitation laws has been committed — the Board shall have the power to close any establishment immediately.

At the hearing, it was decided, after a suggestion by Erma Loghy, manager of the Carousel Restaurant in Iowa City, that a committee of various restaurant, cafe and tavern owners be set up to discuss the new proposal.

Jim Shive, Board chairman, said the Board would carry on with procedures and present the proposal to the County Board of Supervisors for their approval, and said that the committee of operators would meet with the Board on Jan. 9 to discuss possible amendments to the plan.

Rabbits, Groundhogs 'Strike'

A five-acre tract of land in southwest Iowa City is infested with rapidly multiplying rabbits and "giant" groundhogs, according to Ruth Martin, 714 Orchard St.

In a letter read to the City Council Tuesday, Mrs. Martin said that the area south of the Rock Island Railroad tracks and west of Riverside Drive (Highway 218) contained so many rabbits that it was "impossible to grow a garden" and that the groundhogs pose a threat to children.

The Council referred the letter to City Manager Frank R.

Smiley and asked Smiley to report his findings back to the Council.

Mrs. Martin said that the groundhog holes are getting close to her yard and that the groundhogs "are almost as big as hogs."

Coralville Resident Claims Knife Incident in Local Bar

Former Hawkeye halfback William C. Powell told city police that a man drew a knife on him in the Gallery 117 tavern Monday night.

The incident occurred about 9 p.m. and police advised Powell to contact Johnson County Atty. Robert Jansen about filing a charge. Jansen said neither he nor his assistant, John Hayek, had been contacted as of Tuesday night.

A manager at the tavern said Tuesday he knew nothing of the incident. He said he had worked until the tavern closed at 2 a.m. Tuesday morning.

—UI Study Explores State Hiring Problems—State's Pay, Recruiting Criticized

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of three stories about the problems Iowa governments face in recruiting, training and retraining skilled manpower at state, county and local levels in the next five years. The articles are based on a study done by the University Institute of Urban and Regional Research for the State Office for Planning and Programming. Part 1 deals with problems at the state level; parts 2 and 3 discuss county and local problems.

of Urban and Regional Research, which also says that Iowa's recruiting troubles are greater for jobs requiring more education or more specialized education.

The study, commissioned by the State Office for Planning and Programming, says the state suffers from a scarcity of qualified people as well as from active competition from the federal government and other states.

"State salaries are generally low," said the report, "and in some cases it is difficult to provide substantial periodic salary increases. In addition, several (state) departments indicate fringe benefits should be substantially increased.

This is one finding of a study done by the University Institute by the job applicants. Therefore, seeking employment in government agencies is extremely limited," it said.

The report, written by Edgar R. Czarnecki, program director of the University Center for Labor and Management, covers skilled manpower requirements in Iowa's state, county and local governments, including the non-academic staff of the three Regents universities. It covers about 56,000 skilled employees.

The report on the state level concluded, "Recruitment practices need to be emphasized greatly. The hiring process in state agencies is oftentimes cumbersome and slow.

"Finally, governmental service is often not regarded highly sent desire for more money and the vacation complaints, state agency employees seem much more concerned with fringe benefits. . .

"While some agencies expressed need for professional negotiations, most felt the time not ripe and were willing to seek alternatives or to await further developments before fully supporting any kind of collective action.

"The desire for more training, specifically geared to the needs of professional occupations, was evident. Strong support was voiced for additional training funds, credit courses in specialized areas, more time off for education and paid-tuition programs."

The report recommended centralization of recruitment.

stressing recruitment on the campuses of Iowa's colleges and universities.

It also called for "a more effective method of appraising performance. Since state employees rank performance above tenure, the system must provide recognition of people performing at peak efficiency.

A system for effective and periodic consultation with employee representative groups should be devised, said the report, and more emphasis should be given to public relations efforts so the generally low public image of state employment may be raised.

The study was supported in part by a grant from the U.S. Office of Housing and Urban Development.

Construction Starts On 2 UI Buildings

Construction work is just beginning on two University building projects for which groundbreaking ceremonies were held in October. Work is in early stages on the new Nursing and Dentistry buildings, according to University Architect George Horner.

Excavation has been completed and work on the foundations started for the $2.6 million College of Nursing Building scheduled to be completed by 1971, Horner said. Drilling for and installation of caissons is now under way. Caissons are reinforced concrete supports for the main building columns.

The five-story structure, located south of the present nursing facilities of Westlawn, will allow for doubling of B.S. and tripling of M.S. nursing degrees by 1975.

The big excavation job — removing 70,000 cubic yards of dirt — has just started on the site of the new $13.1 million College of Dentistry building, Horner said.

When finished in 1971, the new dental structure will increase the undergraduate enrollment from 62 to 96 and the graduate enrollment from 45 to 85. New programs for dental assistants and laboratory technicians will also be started.

The new Dental Building is part of the expanding health sciences complex at the University. It is located on Newton Road and Wolf Avenue near the University Hospital School.

The building will consist of two four-story structures located on two sides of a mall.

The major part of the total cost — which includes $3.5 million in movable equipment — will be financed by a $7 million Public Health Service grant. The rest will be financed by state money.

New, Specific Budget System To Be Started by 1971 at UI

A new budgeting system, which will be used for appropriations requests to the Legislature, for the state universities is expected to be workable by 1971, according to the Regents office.

The system, described as a "program budgeting" system by R. Wayne Richey, executive secretary of the Board, was adopted in principle by the Regents at their Nov. 14-15 meeting at Oakdale.

Details of the system are to be worked out by the Board's central office in Des Moines and by representatives of the three state universities during the next year.

The new system's emphasis would be placed on the universities' programs, Richey said, the direction they are going, the expected work load and what the programs are expected to accomplish.

University Pres. Willard Boyd described the program as a different way of explaining the needs of the institutions.

Boyd said fund request breakdowns under the new system would be by specific programs instead of putting all the University program estimates into a total figure.

Boyd said, as an example, the request of the German department for funds would be shown specifically such as a request for money for new faculty positions as well as the reason why the new positions would be needed.

One problem under the new system would be projecting the increased enrollment in the program, Boyd said.

The present system allows for a projection of over-all increased enrollment at the universities; however, it cannot be definitely determined how many will enroll in separate programs such as sociology, Boyd said.

The request for a more detailed budgetary system was made in criticism of the present system by the Legislature. Legislators said information provided by the present system was not explicit enough to determine whether the requests of the universities were warranted.

Sen. Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) and Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), right, talk Wednesday on Capitol Hill. Both offered amendments to the tax reform bill, each calling for a change in personal exemptions. The Senate rejected, 72-73, Percy's change, which called for an increased exemption to $750 in three steps at a rate of $50-a-year. Gore's amendment, calling for an exemption of $800, would reach that level in a two-year period.

Surf's Up— Really Up!

Residents of Oahu's north shore watch from a hill as this 25-foot wave bears down on the coast. Waves twice this size piled ashore last night, smashing houses and leaving about 600 persons homeless and one navyman missing. Residents said it was the biggest surf they have seen to hit the area. — AP Wirephoto

U.N. Ambassador to Keynote Model U.N. Here

The University's sixth annual model United Nations opens tonight at the Union with a keynote address by the United Nations Ambassador from Indonesia.

The event is named the Trygve Lie Model U.N. as a tribute to Trygve Lie, the first Secretary General of the United Nations, who died in 1968.

Sponsored by the University chapter of the Council on International Relations and United Nations Affairs (CIRUNA), the model U.N. will last until Saturday night.

Ambassador Hadji Roelan Abdulgani of Indonesia will address the model U.N. at 7:30 tonight in the Union Main Lounge, and Lord Caradon of the United Kingdom Mission to the United Nations will speak at the Delegates' Banquet, scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, also in the Main Lounge.

Students from twenty colleges and universities in five states (Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska) will participate by assuming roles of delegates of U.N. countries and making policy decisions they feel the country's leaders might make.

Topics to be discussed at this year's model Security Council and General Assembly include the Middle East Conflict, Southern Rhodesia, Apartheid, Chemical and Bacteriological Warfare, Namibia (Southwest Africa) and Defining Aggression.

UI CIRUNA members also annually attend the Iowa Model U.N. in Ames and the Midwest Model U.N. in St. Louis.

Action Party Fades Away

By STEPHEN KOCH
A DI News Analysis

When a political party dies, especially one of the campus variety, do you hold a funeral or watch it, like the old soldier, just fade away?

While opinion differs as to whether Action Party (AP), the creation of Phil Dantes' 1969 drive for the student body presidency, is dead or merely dormant, there appears to be no argument that it is for the present functionally extinct.

The death of the party was pointed up by the resignation of former executive board member Joe Rubenstein, A4, Des Moines, and the relative inactive status of other executive board members.

The present party Chairman, Larry Wood, A2, North Liberty refused to concede that AP was presently defunct, but didn't seem satisfied with the party.

Emphasizing that a lingering death is worst, he noted, "I wish AP would just fade away into the western sun."

AP member Dave Yepsen, A2, Jefferson, expressed doubt as to whether AP would ever die, according to him, "AP is alive and well in Dean Augustine's office, which is the only place where there's still any record of it."

Dantes, as the original instigator of AP, questions whether dead is the correct term. According to Dantes, Action Party may merely be dormant. Dantes said the true test of AP will come next semester with the advent of new elections.

Rubenstein explains, "We felt that the party would have long-run uses, that it would be a new development in campus politics that could keep communications open and strong between constituents and their representatives."

He emphasizes, "AP was not designed just to get someone elected."

Wood was not quite so high in his expectations, "AP was formed to help get Phil elected, that's all it was ever intended to do."

Whichever expectation was the original one, the fact remains that both concepts seem to have run their course.

Dantes is now Student Body President, albeit by a circuit.

ous route, and, according to Rubenstein, communications are a thing of the past. "I don't believe Senate as a whole knows what students really want," he says.

How does a party die? Rubenstein, in an interview, gave some of his ideas. He outlines AP's death agony as a drawn-out process. He says, "It began partly because we lost the presidential election last March. After that, we didn't become an opposition party. There was too much collaboration where- by AP neglected its own programs in order to help Jim Sutton. The intent wasn't to lose our own programs but that was what happened."

Rubenstein described the rest of the decline and fall of AP as a continuing loss of leadership. He said, "AP failed because of a lack of enthusiastic leadership. Most important was that those in the position to lead didn't. It was lack of leadership at the top that finally killed the party."

Rubenstein explains, "The party was built around Phil (Dantes), but he no longer feels he can speak for the party. Phil feels his office must be above politics. This hurt because one usually thinks of the executive as the head of his party."

Rubenstein theorized, "I think Phil was so involved in collaboration with the previous administration that now he is president, he still continues the same concept of bipartisan collaboration."

Dantes doesn't deny his part in AP's death, but feels that there was a somewhat different cause of death.

According to Dantes, "If AP is dead, it's due to its officers' nailing down the lid of the coffin from the inside."

He said it was the very ones who are mourning loudest that are responsible for "the reeking corpse."

In answer to criticism about his close collaboration with Sutton, Dantes replied, "Sutton and I both compromised and it worked out well. We were both going in the same direction. Any dissension would have strangled student government and student government is strange enough."

Dantes disagrees that any of his or the party's goals have been lost.

He says, "We have definitely been going in the same direction since the beginning. I was never interested in playing for a party, then I had a misconception of party politics."

Dantes emphasizes his point adding, "It's foolish to think a weeks ago that he would attempt to reorganize and revitalize the spluttering party.

However, after three weeks of sporadic effort on his part, Stephenson appeared unsuccessful as a modern day political doctor.

The epitaph on Action Party's tombstone is not an easy one to write. AP probably has gone further than any other recent attempt to produce a viable political body on campus and yet, despite the best intentions of everyone involved, AP finally seems to have suffered from the same terminal illness that has stricken comparable organizations in the past — a sort of apathy virus with complications, including a breakdown of communications.

The final observation was to be that whether AP is dead, dying or merely in a deep winter's sleep, no one seems to be raising many objections to the dancing on its grave.
