Protestors May Face Penalties

BY JAMES EDMUNDS

Jackson police will issue a new law to prevent disturbances and other participants in an upcoming anti-war rally from entering the University, a protestor said last night.

The demonstration, planned to coincide with the University event, was to be held in front of the State Capitol and was to be attended by more than 10,000 people. The police have been warned to expect a large turnout.

The police, however, have not publicly announced any plans to prevent the demonstration. However, a police sources said that the police have been warned to expect a large turnout.

A police source said that the police have been warned to expect a large turnout.

When the demonstration materialized, the police said that it was a peaceful one.

"We are prepared for a peaceful demonstration," the police source said. "But we have been warned to expect a large turnout."

You the Editor:

If you expect to prevent a speaker from talking most of the time, your effect is the same as that of the right of free speech. Further, the speaker would be entitled to ignore you and would be physically prevented for his "fraternal" methods. The speaker is entitled to the use of his own word to the end of the affair, and if you have the same objections to me as to him, you should treat me as he does treat you. A U.S. District Judge in Chicago has ordered that a union official be removed from a labor dispute, not because of his methods, but because of his failure to do the same. If you have the right to prevent any union official from going on strike, you must have the power to prevent him from acting as he does. You cannot act in that matter, and I would like to see you in court to prove that you have the power to do so.

Pershing drill protest

Last Saturday afternoon, about 300 ROTC (Reserve Officers' Candidate) cadets marched down the street of the campus and in several other areas while the emblem of the ROTC symbolized the 1970 Vietnam War. This was the first time in over 300 years that a demonstration has been held on the campus. The protest was prompted by the decision of the University to give ROTC cadets the right to wear uniforms.

Laird Sees Risk
In Arms Limiting

NEW YORK — Defense Secretary James L. "Jimmy" Laird said Monday that the United States has "no intention" of making any further disarmament or arms limitation agreements unless it can be assured that the other side will not go back on it. Laird's high-level remarks were interpreted as a signal that the United States would not now act on any disarmament offers until it is satisfied that the Soviet Union is prepared to make similar commitments.

In a prepared statement, Laird said, "The United States has no intention of limiting or curtailing its future military capability until such time as the Soviet Union is prepared to make corresponding reductions in its force levels."

Laird, a strong advocate of strong defense programs, said the United States is prepared to go into "cold war" defense preparations if necessary when the Nixon administration is prepared to make a similar commitment.

The statement was widely interpreted as Laird's recommendation to President Ford that the United States wait for the Soviet Union to make a similar commitment before entering into any arms control talks.

SALESMAN is a feature film by the Wayklee brothers who have spent twelve years developing the direct sales mechanism used almost universally in this modern age. For six weeks they lived with and filmed the activities of five door-to-door Bible sellers and then spent fifteen months taking the filming into a cross-culture record of America's millions.

The film is a profoundly Catholic oriented landscape with its rootedness, plastic metaphors and synthetically gifted symbols, described by Stanley Kubrick as "learning how to name highest mile hundreds running through the living names."

The calculated, unconnected hand-tailored techniques applied to the cutting of Bible establishes a moving, while retaining documentary overtones throughout the film. The film's primary imagery is perhaps best illustrated by one of the scenes where after selling a Bible a fellow has trouble getting a rose for his wife to express his gratitude. "You're spoiled," he tells her, "and you won't get the full value out of it."

Birdie on 2nd Hole Gives Barber New Orleans Title

In one of the most thrilling finishes ever seen in a National Open championship, Barber scored the decisive par at the 2nd hole on the Tivoli Country Club course. Barber was leading Fredroe 1-up with 2 holes to play when Fredroe, with a chance to tack on three more, did not make another birdie and Barber took advantage of the easy par to win his first national title.

Barber was the first non-American to win the Open since 1928, and to win in this manner was a remarkable achievement. Barber, who had never won in a professional event, had to shoot a record of 67 on the 1st day, 68 on the 2nd and 69 on the 3rd to win.

The victory was a testament to Barber's patient and consistent play in the face of adversity. He had to keep his focus and concentration on the course to maintain his lead, and in the final round he faced the pressure of a tie for the lead with Fredroe.

Barber started the day with a one-up lead and quickly built his advantage, taking control of the match with a birdie at the 1st hole. Fredroe, however, fought back, taking the lead back at the 2nd hole with a birdie of his own. Barber responded with a strong par at the 3rd hole, but Fredroe again took the lead back with another birdie at the 4th.

The 5th hole proved to be a crucial point in the match, as Barber had an opportunity to pull away with a birdie. But Fredroe again responded with a strong par, keeping the match close. Barber finally broke the tie at the 6th hole with a par, and then went on to win the 7th and 8th holes with birdies to take a 2-up lead into the final round.

In the final round, Barber continued to play well, making birdies at the 9th and 11th holes to increase his lead to 3-up. Fredroe, however, fought back with a birdie at the 13th hole to pull the match back to 2-up.

The 14th hole was a crucial point in the match, as Barber had a chance to put Fredroe away with a birdie. But Fredroe again responded with a strong par, keeping the match close. Barber finally broke the tie at the 15th hole with a par, and then went on to win the 16th and 18th holes with birdies to take a 4-up lead into the final hole.

In the final hole, Barber took the lead with a strong par, and Fredroe failed to make par, ending the match and giving Barber his first national title. Barber's victory was a testament to his patience and focus, as he had to keep his concentration on the course to maintain his lead, and in the final round he faced the pressure of a tie for the lead with Fredroe.

Power E. Garrett, Kiplinger

Power E. Garrett writes that antipollution cloth for things such as manufacturing and industry could be available to spend on clean air and water, especially in the United States. If there is thus less need to legislate for the control of poisonous gases, it would tend to attract more investment to states with stated standards.

"We don't want a system that gives the government standards that are absolute or that would not be higher than what we already have," Garrett says. But antipollution standards, the author says, are those that would have environmental effects, such as looser or looser air and water pollution limits.

Schwengel Calls for Reform

Ken Schwengel, a Democrat running for the Senate, calls for major changes in the government.

Schwengel

Speaking at a rally in Coral Gables, Schwengel said, "We need a government that works for the people, not the special interests." He called for an end to corruption and for a return to basic principles.

Ozark Flights Stop Because of Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several days ago, the Ozark Air Flyers, a non-union service firm, agreed to strike against the parent airline.
The mechanics refused to work, and the management announced that all flights were cancelled for the day.

The first flight was scheduled for 6:00 A.M., and the mechanics were ready to resume work.

The mechanics claimed that they were not being fairly represented by the union, and that their wages were inadequate.

The strike continued, and the airlines were forced to cancel all flights for the day.

Two workers were struck by a rebound ball, and one was hospitalized.

Black Appointments Increased by Nixon

WASHINGTON, D.C. - President Nixon on Monday appointed 46 new subordinates to jobs in his administration, but did not call the move a "shake-up" or a "revamp." Thus, the same old black Cabinet will remain in place. Nixon has appointed 21 new White House aides, five new ambassadors, and 20 new department heads. At this writing, he still has not announced his picks for the 11 other Cabinet positions.

In addition to a list of new faces, members of the House Democratic Caucus have been left on the sidelines. Among them, Minority Leader Hughes is expected to be named to Nixon's new cabinet. Hughes has not been in the administration at all, but he has been a constant in Nixon's inner circle.

Some minority advocates were sources of the appointment of blacks to various positions. "We have been told that the President will name blacks to all key positions," said a Cabinet official. "He has already appointed blacks to several key posts in the government." Nixon has appointed blacks to positions in the Interior Department, the Department of Labor, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and the Department of Commerce.

In the "Night of the Foll­own­ing­ Day," Martin Brando, known for his role in the hit movie "The Godfather," will be featured in a new short film titled "The Night of the Foll­own­ing­ Day." The film will be shown at the Sunset Drive-In in Los Angeles. "It's a relatively low-key, In­ter­gu­ery, film," said Brando. "It's a story about a man who has lost his family and is now going through a period of depression." The film will be released in theaters nationwide on April 18.

Leadership lab set for Saturday

Greek Week 1970 has been very successful in laying down the groundwork for a Leadership Training Program.

Chairman Cathy Knaggs has arranged for the program to take place Saturday, April 18, in the Union Room of the Union from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lunch will be provided for the pledge and pledge parents.

The Leadership Training Program has been set up in two sessions. First, the basic principles have been taught to allow students to properly introduce themselves to the society's chapters and pledge classes. Then, during a 30-minute period, students will be divided into small groups and will work on leadership skills and group dynamics, teaching sensitivity to others, and development of listening skills. These activities will take place from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with a lunch break. At the present time, 150 pledges are registered, with a range of 254 from each house.

The entire special issue of Mediation was written and produced by the publicity committee of Greek Week. layout was supervised by the student staff of the paper, and photos of the guests candidates were taken by Terry Clark. Published by the Interfraternity Council, which is responsible for copy and content, Mediation is printed and distributed by the Daily News, a subsidiary of Student Publications Inc., Iowa City, Iowa, 1970.

Greek Week Chairman

It will be interesting to see how Greek Week is received this year — whether it really is merely a dying tradition or whether it can be an effective cornerstone of Greek unity.

The schedule of events set up for this year is an attempt to give Greek Week some value beyond fun and games for fraternity and sorority members. It was with the feeling that the individual houses were becoming isolated that the theme of "Come Together" was selected.

April 17 through 23 was planned merely to accommodate traditions for an attempt to involve some utilization of the Greek system through greater communication among the houses and an increased interest of the individual houses and members for the system. Activities such as the kick-off party, the house exchanges, the symposium, the service project, and the social house parties are intended to facilitate a gathering and mingling of Greeks.

There has been much talk in recent years about the problems of the Greek system, what's wrong with it and why it's going. It is time to start these problems or at least make an understanding about what the Greek system is, if we are going to effect any action to maintain the Greek way of life on the University of Iowa campus. Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday night's activities are oriented toward the exploration and evaluation of whatever comes our present system.

Further, Greek Week is intended to serve the entire campus and community through the rock festival Sunday, the free Blue Tuesday, the concert Friday, and the two service projects. Interested students are encouraged to participate through out the week.

It will be interesting to see how Greek Week is received. If it goes with the intent of National Greek Week, then we are maintaining a dying tradition.

"Ideas, heresies, run like the air. They no longer pick generations. Tax burdens must pays for his engines of death of the 'progress' to which this great green forest that once we could seek refuge has been sacrificed.

"And thus, though more stung, we have re-entered nature, no longer hating the returning pipes of the human who slinks home in the night of the gods is not disturbed. The morning will fall."
