"Spy Ship" Sinking Claimed

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claimed it sank a "heavily armed" U.S. spy ship in the Yellow Sea Friday. The U.S. Navy in Washington declared, quoting Pacific Fleet headquarters: "The U.S. Navy had no ships of any kind operating in that area."

This made it appear that the North Koreans could be talking about the seizure of a South Korean navy vessel by North Korean gunboats in the Yellow Sea, announced earlier by the South Koreans, who said their vessel was fired upon.

The official Korean Central News Agency (KCNA) in North Korea said the spy ship "intruded deep into the coastal waters" about 11:30 p.m. Friday to conduct reconnaissance.

The KCNA dispatch said: "Officers and men of the navy of the Korean People's army... instantly sent to the bottom of the sea the enemy's armed spy ship which intruded deep into the coastal waters."

It said the ship was sunk off Haeju, in the Yellow Sea on the western coast of North Korea about 50 miles south of the capital, Pyongyang.

Earlier, the South Korean Defense

Ministry reported one of its navy craft with 20 crewmen was seized by two Communist patrol boats and taken to the North.

KCNA said the U.S. ship crossed into North Korean-claimed waters while "the U.S. imperialist aggressor army is markedly intensifying grave armed provocations" against North Korea along the demilitarized zone. The DMZ, established by the armistice of 1953, separates North and South Korea.

The Communist news agency also said the sinking of the "spy ship" came after the U.S. Army "fired tens of thousands of shells and bullets" at North Korean posts in the western and central DMZ sectors last Wednesday.

"Following this, the U.S. imperialist aggressor army infiltrated at around 1:30 p.m. on the fifth of June as heavily armed spy ship under the cover of fighter planes and warships into the sea off Haeju, the coastal waters of the northern half of the republic, to conduct reconnaissance," KCNA said.

In Seoul, Brig. Gen. Roh Young-suh, spokesman for the South Korean Defense Ministry, said the North Koreans fired on the South Korean vessel in what he termed a "premeditated attack." He did not say whether the fire was returned or whether there were casualties. There was no word on the condition of the crew.

It was the first time a South Korean naval craft had been seized by North Korea since the armistice went into effect July 27, 1953.

The U.S. Navy intelligence ship Pueblo was seized by North Korean gunboats in the sea of Japan Jan. 23, 1968, for allegedly violating North Korea's territorial waters. The vessel and 82 crewmen were held prisoner until a U.S. apology was given — and immediately repudiated — the following December. One U.S. sailor was killed in the seizure.

Nixon Supporting Byrd Amendment To Keep Options

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signaled Thursday an all-out administration effort to loosen proposed curbs on U.S. operations in Cambodia by throwing his support to a key Senate amendment.

It was learned that Nixon, who has indicated all along he is opposed to any congressional action to restrict his options in Southeast Asia, has written a letter of support for the amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.).

The Byrd amendment, which would be added to the proposed curb sponsored by Sens. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) and Frank Church (D-Idaho) would authorize the President to take "such action as may be necessary to protect the lives of United States forces in South Vietnam or to facilitate the withdrawal of United States forces from South Vietnam."

Since the current U.S. operation in Cambodia was based on the need to protect troops in Vietnam, inclusion of Byrd's language would have the effect of authorizing further such assaults after U.S. troops are withdrawn later this month. This is what Church and Cooper are trying to prevent.

The vote, expected to be close, may come next week.

The President is also expected to urge revision of another Cooper-Church provision to permit the United States to pay for Thai troops that might be sent to Cambodia to help beleaguered government forces there.

News of the President's new effort came after Democrats threatened to let the government go broke if administration forces continued to block a vote on the Cooper-Church amendment.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen he has no intention now of allowing an administration request for an increase in the debt ceiling to reach the floor until there is a vote on the Cooper-Church proposal to bar spending for fighting in Cambodia.

The administration has asked for an $18-billion increase in the current $377 billion limit on the national debt and it needs the additional credit by July 1 to pay its bills.

The House approved the increase 236 to 127 Wednesday. Antiwar congressmen argued that widening the Indochina conflict caused deficits.

Property Taxes Up $88 Million

DES MOINES (AP) — State Department of Revenue figures show Iowans are paying $88 million more in property taxes this year and about $62 million of the increase comes from increased levies for schools.

Local property taxes this year reached $685.8 million, the figures show, compared with last year's $597.7 and predictions are that if increases in property taxes continue at the present rate, next year's figure will be $140 million over that of fiscal 1970.

Revenue director William Forst, in an interview with the Des Moines Tribune, reminded Iowans that "Every dollar of this increase was voted by the people because they elected the members of the local school boards and these members voted for the spending — the state had nothing to do with it."

The state, however, has been the repeated target this year of angry tax-

Air Force to Let Women Join ROTC; UI Decision Waiting for Faculty Poll

By JOANNE WALTON
Women students interested in becoming Air Force officers may be invited to join the University's Air Force ROTC program next fall, Air Force officials said Friday.

The national information office of the AFROTC announced that coeds may be accepted into four-and two-year programs at all colleges and universities where men's AFROTC programs are operating.

At the University, Capt. John W. Glass said the proposal had been forwarded to the office of Dewey B. Smit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts. He said he understood the proposal would have to be studied by the faculty commission currently investigating the ROTC program.

Smit said Friday afternoon that as far as he was concerned, the coed program could and should be offered. He said the entire ROTC program was in a tentative state now however, pending a poll of faculty members on their positions as to whether the program should be continued.

Proceeding on the assumption that ROTC would be continued, Smit said he saw no objection to admitting women to the program.

"All our academic departments, including such fields as home economics, are open to members of both sexes," he said.

The University Faculty Senate voted May 12 to abolish ROTC from the campus. Because the Senate roll call vote was so close — 31-30 — and because some persons felt that more alternatives than two should be offered, the poll of faculty members was undertaken.

Glass said coeds who signed up for AFROTC would be eligible to compete for Air Force scholarships providing full tuition, incidental fees, book allowances and subsistence allowances the same as men.

Those not on scholarships would receive the same pay and benefits as male cadets.

Glass said plans were to include women cadets in the same classroom courses as the men. He said their drill programs would be modified somewhat and they would be sent to summer camps with accommodations for women, "but otherwise they'll be treated identical to the cadets."

One University coed was enrolled in Army ROTC courses last semester, however she attended classes purely on an academic basis. Women are not now accepted in the Army ROTC program as prospective officers.

Uniforms for the women will be the new Air Force WAF uniform with AFROTC insignia. Women cadets who complete the ROTC program will be commissioned as second lieutenants upon graduation and will have an initial service enlistment of four years.

Glass said the Angel Flight Air Force auxiliary program would continue in its present form and women cadets could join that organization if they wished. He said however, that the regular women's ROTC program would be separate from Angel Flight.

Cambodian Troops Take Burned-out Village, Nearby Enemy Forces Pose 'Grave' Threat

SAIGON (AP) — Cambodian troops fought back against light resistance Friday to retake Set Bo, 10 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. But a senior officer said strong enemy forces on this front still posed the gravest threat to Cambodia since hostilities broke out in March.

Elements of a North Vietnamese and Viet Cong regiment drove the Cambodian forces out of their last foothold in the village during the night and pushed about a mile to the north, Associated Press correspondent John Wheeler reported from Set Bo. This was the enemy's closest approach to Phnom Penh.

Reinforced by a paratroop battalion, the Cambodians began a counterattack. In heavy fighting, 4 paratroopers were killed and 17 wounded. Then later in the day, enemy forces withdrew to the southwest leaving only snipers in the burned-out village.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong also were on the move in northern parts of the country. The Cambodian high command reported the loss of Lomphat, capital of Ratanakiri Province 200 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. The fall of Lomphat strengthened the enemy forces' control over their supply lines well north of where allied troops are scooping up their bases in eastern Cambodia.

Fighting continued in Kompong Thom, capital of the province of the same name 80 miles north of Phnom Penh. This appeared to be an extension of enemy efforts to secure supply lines of rivers and roads. Cambodian fighter-bombers flew repeated strikes at enemy lines.

The Bangkok Post quoted the Thai army leader, Gen. Praphas Charusathien, as saying North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in unknown strength had reached the Cambodian border opposite Thailand's Udorn Province. This is about 200 miles north of Phnom Penh.

When enemy forces opened the battle for Set Bo two days ago, Cambodian officers said they thought the object was to get arms and food from the battalion headquarters there because of their loss of supplies to the allied offensive farther east.

A Cambodian intelligence officer said Friday, however, intercepted enemy radio transmissions showed the object was to seize Takmau, about eight miles south of Phnom Penh proper but considered part of its outskirts. Takmau is the cap-

Nation's Jobless Hits 4.1 Million; Wages, Costs Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economic pinch forced another 160,000 workers out of jobs in May, boosting the total unemployed to 4.1 million in the sharpest continuing jobless climb in a dozen years.

The rise pushed the jobless rate from 4.8 per cent to 5 per cent of the work force.

"That's a fairly rapid increase in unemployment," said Assistant Commissioner Harold Goldstein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. He referred to this year's rise of 1.3 million jobless in five months.

All of the unemployment increase in May was among workers who lost their jobs rather than new entrants in the labor force. Blue-collar workers in manufacturing and construction were hardest hit.

Employment, which usually rises in May, dropped instead by 320,000 to a total of 85.8 million.

The Labor Department's report also said average wages for some 45 million workers rose 2 cents an hour to $3.20 and $1.06 per week to $118.72, but that the sharpest rise in living costs in 20 years had more than wiped out wage gains the past year.

The buying power of the average worker's paycheck dropped seven-tenths of one per cent.

"The fifth consecutive month of sharply rising unemployment in the face of unchecked inflation is testimony to the complete failure of the administration's economic policies," said AFL-CIO President George Meany.

The leader of the 13.6 million workers in the labor federation called on Congress to direct the Federal Reserve Board to impose credit controls to pump money into businesses that will create jobs and discourage borrowing for speculation and overseas investments.

The employment report also said the average weekly work week continued downward, falling to 37.2 hours. In manufacturing it dropped to 39.9 hours, lowest in eight years. Overtime work dropped further to 2.9 hours, down nearly a full hour since a year earlier.

Insured unemployment, which covers about half the jobless, rose sharply from 3.1 to 3.6 per cent, totaling 1.7 million workers, nearly double the total in May of last year.

Construction unemployment, including the hard-hit housing industry, rose to 11.8 per cent, double the rate of a year ago, and manufacturing unemployment was up from 3.2 to 5.2 per cent over the year.

The Labor Department report said the jobless rate of men rose from 3.2 to 3.5 per cent or a total of 1.4 million in May and the rate for women climbed from 4.4 to 5.1 per cent to a total of 1.2 million. The rate for teen-agers declined from 15.7 to 14.3 per cent for a total of 776,000.

All the May jobless rise was among white workers, whose unemployment rate rose from 4.3 to 4.6 per cent. The rate for blacks and other minority groups dropped from 8.7 to 8 per cent.

U.S. Court Convicts 10 In Draft Record Burning

CHICAGO (AP) — Ten antiwar demonstrators, some of whom said they were "culturally insane," were convicted Friday of destroying Selective Service System records in a raid on a draft board office.

The U.S. District Court jury of seven men and five women began deliberating just before noon and reached its verdict within three hours. All 10 defendants were convicted on all four counts of the indictment.

Edward Hoffmans, 32, of Iowa City, another defendant, was declared mentally unfit to stand trial after a psychiatrist testified for the government that Hoffmans showed symptoms of a schizoid personality. Hoffmans, who repeatedly had refused to rise for the judge, was committed to a federal mental institution. A higher court stayed the order, however.

Judge Edwin A. Robson granted a motion to revoke the bonds of seven of the 10 defendants present in court on the grounds they are a menace to the community. The bonds of three other defendants were revoked earlier after they failed to appear in court. He said he would be negligent in his duties if he allowed them to remain at large "to wreak the same havoc" elsewhere in the nation.

In denying defense motions to grant bond, the judge said it is "only a step" from burning draft records to burning buildings. The defendants' actions "amounted to anarchy," he said.

An attorney representing four of the defendants maintained they were innocent because their views on the Vietnam war and racism are different enough from those held by the rest of American society to constitute cultural insanity.

In his instructions to the jury, however, Judge Robson declared that an individual's political beliefs are no basis for disobeying the law.

Arrest warrants were issued for the three other defendants, the Rev. Nicholas J. Riddell, 40, of Milwaukee, a Carmelite priest; Miss Linda J. Quint, 22, of Chicago; and Charles Muse, 21, of Roxbury, Mass., after they failed to appear in court near the end of their trial.

Eighteen persons were arrested May 25, 1969 during the raid on a Southwest Side draft board office but three were dismissed because they were newspaper reporters observing the demonstration.

Four defendants who failed to appear at the start of the trial were severed from the proceedings.

The four defendants who claimed they were "culturally insane" were Father Riddell, Miss Quint, Edward Gargan, 19, and William Durkin, 20, both of Milwaukee. Their attorney argued they were insane "because they believe our most cherished institutions are being perverted."

The other defendants are Charles G. Fullenkamp, 24, of Burbank, S.D.; Margaret Katrosick, 23, of Detroit; William Sweeney, 20, of Milwaukee; Frederick J. Chase, 26, of Detroit; and Joseph E. Mulligan, 27, a Jesuit seminarian from North Aurora, Ill.

Interim Contract Starts, No Change in Bus Run

Bus service in Iowa City will continue on schedule as an "interim" contract between the city and the Iowa City Coach Co. goes into effect Saturday.

The contract, a one-year agreement between the city and Lewis H. Negus, 701 E. College, president of the coach company, assures bus service for Iowa City until a permanent service can be arranged or a federal grant secured.

According to terms of the contract, the city will pay the coach company $540 per day — $90 a day per route — to continue its present service. However, the firm will return to the city all of its daily receipts.

The agreement, approved unanimously May 19 by the City Council, resulted from Negus' announcement last March that the coach company would cease operations June 6 because it was losing money.

Negus previously received subsidy payments from the city and the University. The earlier payments, begun in September of 1966 and totaling $5,000 monthly, were stopped in 1968 after Negus rejected a contract with the city which would provide an area-wide transportation network.

New parlor game fad: 'depression'

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The latest parlor game to catch on in the United States is called "depression." Not since "charades" took the country by storm has there been anything to compare with "depression." The object of the game, which can be played indoors and out, at cocktail parties, dinners, soda fountains or any other place, is to depress the other person more than he depresses you.

Most readers have been playing the game without even realizing it.

This is how it goes: Jones at a cocktail party serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Evans returns serve. "The kids just don't give a damn about anything."

Jones hits it back. "They have no respect and no values."

Evans at the net. "If they didn't have everything handed to them on a platter, they wouldn't be so ready to attack the system."

Jones aiming for the sidelines. "They ought to get some education before they start telling us how to run things."

Evans making a great save. "What they need is a haircut and a bath."

Jones lobs it back. "They want to talk, but they won't listen."

Evans returns it. "We're in a helluva mess."

Jones swings and misses. "You can say that again."

Evans won the game because he depressed Jones more than Jones depressed him. But it was very close.

"Depression" has also become the most popular game with college and high school students. Here's a mixed-doubles match at a coffee house.

Sophomore serves. "I've never seen the country in worse shape."

Junior retrieves it. "Nobody understands us."

Sophomore's date. "I can't stand talking to my parents any more."

Junior's date returns ball. "All they can think about is money, money, money."

Sophomore returns with backhand. "We have nothing to live for."

Junior slams it back. "We can't make any plans for the future."

Sophomore's date runs for the ball. "Nobody gives a damn about us."

Junior's date in backcourt. "Nobody loves us."

Sophomore hits it back. "All they can say is 'get a haircut.'"

Junior returns it. "They're all hypocrites."

Sophomore's date. "I wish I were dead than you were dead."

Sophomore. "We're all going to be dead whether we want to be or not."

This match happened to be a tie, so it was agreed the couples would have a playoff the following evening at the same time.

While the game is being played all over the United States (Will we ever forget those matches on Wall Street last month?), Washington is still considered the superbow of "depression," and you can't go anywhere in this town without someone wanting to play.

If someone tries to get you depressed about the war, you can get him depressed about inflation. And if he attempts to get you depressed about dissent, you can get him depressed about the Administration.

There are so many subjects to choose from in Washington that it's getting almost impossible to depress somebody more than he depresses you.

Recent death in county jail raises medical aid question

On Tuesday, a man being held in the Johnson County Jail on an intoxication charge died. No rubber hoses, no third-degree grill lights, no rough handling of any kind by law officers. He succumbed to pneumonia.

He died in a cell roughly one mile from one of the most advanced medical centers in the Midwest.

Officials said the man, Roy Kenneth Christofferson, a 48-year-old meat cutter, had not complained and they had no way of knowing he was ill. He just hadn't said anything to anyone.

It would seem to me that expecting any non-physician to estimate the state of his own health — especially when that person's judgement may be impaired by other factors, such as alcohol — is unrealistic.

A number of diseases in their acute stages, some forms of diabetes, for example, produce symptoms approximating drunkenness, even to the production of body chemicals which smell like alcohol on the breath. Cases are recorded of persons suffering from such diseases or from epileptic-like seizures being mistaken for inebriates and treated accordingly. The police didn't know the victims were ill. They didn't say so. Some died.

Law officers today are of necessity referees, weapons experts, social workers, psychologists, body guards, father-confessors. They have some first-aid training, but they are not doctors.

The University College of Medicine currently has some 570 students in various phases of their training. The College of Nursing has approximately 450 students. Assuming that even 50 per cent of these students possess no more advanced knowledge than the police officers, there are still 500 persons whose technical training might have been sufficient to "diagnose" that Christofferson was ill.

Might it not be possible to have one student nurse, medical student or intern on duty every night at the local jails? It is likely, that a student of medicine would be quicker to realize the need for a physician than would a layman. If their skills were limited, at least they would be immediately available and could apply the same first aid techniques used by law officers, and the officers would be freed to take other emergency procedures or assist as needed. The students, in addition, would be exposed to a learning situation valuable to their training.

The legal implications of this suggestion are admittedly diverse. It is conceivable that student medics might be liable to some sort of malpractice suit should a prisoner die while the student was attending him. If the services were volunteered on the same basis as those of the police officer however, I can foresee more benefit than risk.

A student nurse eager to put into practice the principles of pulse-taking she has learned might possibly have noticed that Roy Christofferson seemed ill.

He would certainly be no more dead than he is today if she had not.

Mr. Young of Ohio discusses Kent

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a speech given by Sen. Stephen M. Young (R-Ohio) to the U.S. Senate. It is reprinted from The Congressional Record, May 11, 1970.

Mr. Young of Ohio. Mr. President, Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, commanding officer of the National Guard, was scheduled to testify before the Armed Services Committee May 7 with other Army officers relative to strength request for the National Guard fiscal 1971. He was questioned by Senators seeking information about the tragedy at Kent State University last Monday. He made astonishing and outlandishly truthful allegations on the subject of the Kent State tragedy about which he had no personal knowledge.

This is the same major general who is bucking to be promoted to lieutenant general even to the extent of having a private bill introduced in the House of Representatives and surprisingly passed in that body. This bill, H. R. 15143, is now pending in the Senate Arms Services Committee. Furthermore, Mr. President, officials of the Department of Defense expressed opposition to the enactment of this bill as is reported in pages 4 and 5 of the committee report of the House of Representatives.

General Wilson states before the Armed Services Committee of the Senate and to newspaper reporters that students at Kent State who were fired upon were lawbreakers in violation of the Governor's ban, in violation of the Riot Act and the lawful order to disperse. General Wilson expressed no sympathy whatsoever for the shooting to death by National Guardsmen of four students, including two girls who were present out of curiosity, as spectators, and were not participating in any demonstration, peaceful or otherwise.

This arrogant general then stated that he had an unconfirmed report that a nonmilitary spent shell casing was picked up on the Kent State University campus in the vicinity of the area where four students were killed and 14 students, boys and girls, were seriously wounded by rifle fire from National Guardsmen. He is the first and as far as I know, the only person, to make such an allegation. Of course, during the hours and days following last Monday noon, there has been ample time for Guardsmen to plant shotgun shell casings or railway spikes, for that matter, on the campus grounds.

Major General Wilson then said, "I have an unconfirmed report that four shots were fired by a person in the dissident group." He knows or should know there is no truth whatever to those statements. He made the false allegation that snipers were shooting at the Guardsmen. The facts are that there is no evidence whatever of even one sniper bullet being fired. He repeated an allegation that had been previously made and was rejected as false that some sniper was on the roof of a building. The truth is that helicopter pilots circling the entire area and the buildings of the Kent State University, reported there was no sniper on any rooftop and that there had been no sniper fire. This fellow spoke of the unconfirmed rumor of four such shots. Then he had the effrontery to state that he had an unconfirmed report that a "witness had seen a girl dashing out of the dormitory who fired a weapon at the Guardsmen as they turned away."

It is evident to me that General Wilson is the one who formulated and made public this as an unconfirmed rumor. Then the General added, "the Guardsmen turned back and returned the fire." He knows that there is no basis in fact for such allegation. He simply indulged in the big lie technique of Adolph Hitler that by making false statements and allegations repeatedly, then in the end credence is bound to be given them.

In the Armed Services Committee he was asked why Guardsmen had fired into a crowd of students. He evaded that by stating, "We must wait the result of the investigation by the Department of Justice." Then he made his startling allegations regarding the girl dashing out and firing a weapon and added a statement made for the very first time that four shots were fired by a person of the dissident group. These statements were fantastically false.

Persons at my urgent request made an on-the-spot investigation, continued for several hours until the university was closed and there were no students around available to be interviewed. Following the time General Wilson made these outlandish and fantastic speculative, unconfirmed and false statements, then a newspaper in a small city in Ohio quoted the general. The next thing I knew I received a telephone call from a radio station in Toledo that what I had been saying in the Senate regarding the Kent State tragedy had been altogether different than the facts given out by General Wilson following the investigation. So his Hitler technique of the big lie which was unbelievable and was not believed by members of the Armed Services Committee were finally reported as facts.

This general and no other person told of an unconfirmed rumor that a witness had seen a girl dashing out of a dormitory and firing a weapon at the guardsmen as they turned away and they turned back and returned the fire. Statements given me by college students and a graduate Kent State college counselor are positive that no such incident occurred. They were equally positive that the guardsmen were the only ones who fired guns early that fatal Monday afternoon.

National Guardsmen on the scene on Saturday and Sunday and on Monday were brutal and mean and were pushing students around. According to a statement made to me and verified by a graduate counselor who witnessed the incident, a guardsman said to this student "Get you — obscenity — out of here," and at the same time broke his black-jack over his right arm. I saw his black and blue arm and elbow.

One wonders if the underlying cause for these false allegations, or these rumors, stem from this general's desire to go all out with irresponsible untruthful allegations, knowing that the officer who ordered his soldiers to fire pointblank into the students was guilty of murder in the second degree. Vice President Agnew stated that Ohio National Guardsmen overreacted and also asserted, as a lawyer, that the officer giving the order to fire could be considered guilty of murder and could be charged with murder but not first-degree murder. In Ohio, second-degree murder is murder committed with out the element of premeditation as is first-degree murder.

Adjutant General Del Corso is commander of the Ohio National Guard. His deputy adjutant general, Canterbury, was present in Kent.

Adjutant General Del Corso was reported last week as saying he was "almost certain a sniper triggered the fatal rifle volley although Senator Stephen M. Young blamed it on trigger-happy troops." Del Corso according to the newspaper accounts, called me a "senile old liar." Del Corso is a two-by-four politician who holds a political appointment as adjutant general. My answer to Del Corso is that my father, Judge Stephen M. Young, many years ago, during my first term as a representative in the General Assembly of Ohio, told me never to get into a spraying contest with a skunk. It is noteworthy that this two-bit politician Del Corso said nothing critical about Vice President Agnew's statement that Guardsmen overreacted, not much difference between that statement and mine of "trigger - happy Guardsmen." Very definitely, members of the National Guard who obeyed orders are not chargeable with committing manslaughter or second-degree murder.

It is noteworthy that neither Adjutant General Del Corso nor Major General Wilson expressed any regret or feeling of sorrow to the members of the families over the deaths of the four students and the wounding of 14 others. Not one of the National Guardsmen was a casualty, not one was hospitalized. One sustained a heart attack and another Guardsman fainted. In this connection, Mr. President, I report that Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio last Monday afternoon when he first learned of the tragedy said, "This is the saddest day of my life."

It is a great misfortune, Mr. President, that shortly after noon on Monday, May 4, four students were killed. They were murdered. Fourteen were wounded. General Del Corso and his deputies let down, and in fact, betrayed Gov. Jim Rhodes. Our Governor, upon hearing of this tragedy, was shocked and fearful. I have admiration and respect for Governor Rhodes and share his feeling of sadness about this, but very definitely, Mr. President, I have nothing but a feeling of contempt toward General Del Corso and of regret that President Nixon referred to college students who demonstrate as "bums." This, despite the guarantee given all Americans in the very first amendment of our Constitution.

Mr. President, last Friday evening two girls students and a professor called at my Washington residence and then last Saturday between nine in the morning and noon a number of boys and girls who are students at Kent State University called at my office. We have their names and addresses and statements were taken. Late Saturday afternoon and throughout Saturday evening boys who reside in Pennsylvania and Ohio came to my home. My Washington residence is not listed in the Washington telephone book nor is my home in Northwestern Washington a few blocks from the American University easy to find by one unfamiliar with the area.

These students, both young men and women, state that a platoon of National Guardsmen were hurling canisters of tear gas at a crowd of students milling around the campus. Some of these students immediately hurled back partly-filled canisters of tear gas at the guardsmen. Also, there were some stones thrown — no large stones — and even the small stones and the tear gas canisters immediately hurled back were thrown from such a distance that most of them fell short. Not one of 10 or more students who were at the scene saw any tear gas canister or stone strike a guardsman.

One man reported to me some days ago that he feels a canister hit a guardsman and that the guardsman fired his gun accidentally. These boys, who were very close by, said that the canisters, as far as they knew, never really struck any of the demonstrators, but the gas fumes came out, and then some of the demonstrators were hurling stones. There were no boulders, no large, hard objects whatever, but they were hurling stones and the canisters back, and, from that distance, most of them fell short and rolled towards the Guardsmen.

The students were milling around. We have these signed statements, I am informing you, Mr. President, I shall keep locked up in my home or in my office until such time as I deliver them to the proper authorities.

They said that the guardsmen who were on the ground level with the demonstrators immediately emptied all the gas canisters they had, and immediately ran up the hill in some disorder, and at the top of the hill they immediately regrouped, with their guns in front, and then marched down in formation. Immediately the front rank kneeled and the lieutenant in command on that platoon held his arm aloft and then pulled it down. Immediately a volley was fired from the guardsmen.

That no more than four were killed and 14 seriously wounded is due to the fact that many of the guardsmen had good judgement to fire high in the air.

These young men threw themselves on the ground, but they believed there were no bullets in those guns. They got up, and a girl to the right of them, somewhat to the rear, was lying in blood, part of her face shot away. Then they were frightened and ran away. All of the statements I have, unsigned and signed, say that those were the only shots that were fired. There was no first aid treatment whatsoever for any guardsmen.

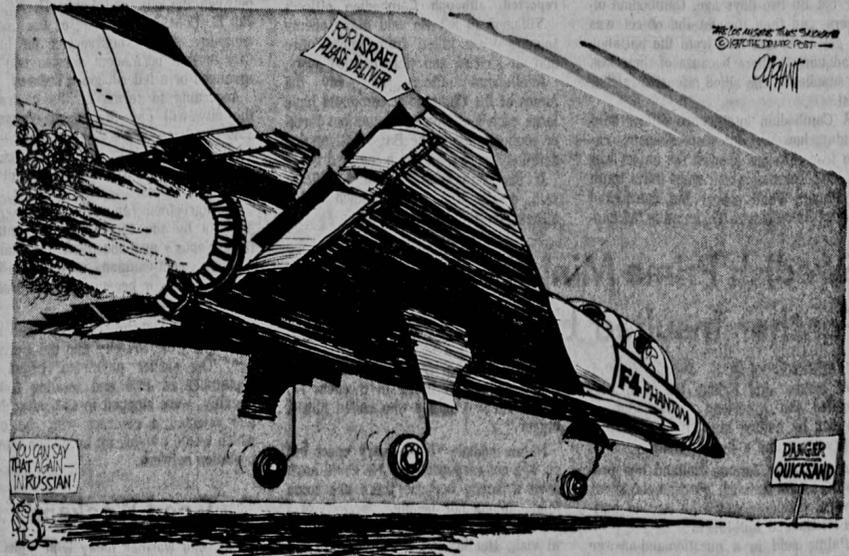

The Pentagon and the Army have issued ground rules for the suppression of riots. It is standard policy to furnish blank cartridges and not to furnish live ammunition. That is in the rule book. But General Del Corso ruled otherwise. He permitted live ammunition to be used. That is a violation of the general rules of the Army. In an emergency, only certain Guardsmen, preselected, and on order from headquarters, may fire live ammunition.

Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld of Shaker Heights who is nationally known and highly respected as one of the most learned rabbis in our Nation, condemned the fatal shooting of four Kent State students by National Guardsmen and warned that "get tough" policies will only increase unrest on other campuses: "It's inconceivable that the troops had no alternative to firing live ammunition into a crowd of students because some were throwing rocks."

Rabbi Lelyveld said in a statement issued by the American Jewish Congress which he heads: "Protest — even violent protest — is not a crime punishable by death." The Cleveland rabbi said, adding: "We can't expect the deeply held feelings about our country's actions in Vietnam — the subject of the students' protest — to find expression only in forms of polite discussion."

Mr. President, the statements I have obtained and all that I obtain in the future will be made available to the majority leader of the Senate, and, of course, to the chairman of the Senate Investigation Committee of this tragedy. In addition, I report that in Northern Ohio there was recently appointed by President Nixon a very fine U. S. attorney for the northern district of Ohio. Kent State University is within the northern district of Ohio. I shall turn over these fine statements to U. S. Attorney Robert Krupansky because I hope he is a fine lawyer and I know the statements I have would give probably cause to charge this lieutenant who gave the order to fire with second-degree murder. Of course, the soldiers who obeyed orders cannot be charged with any offense.

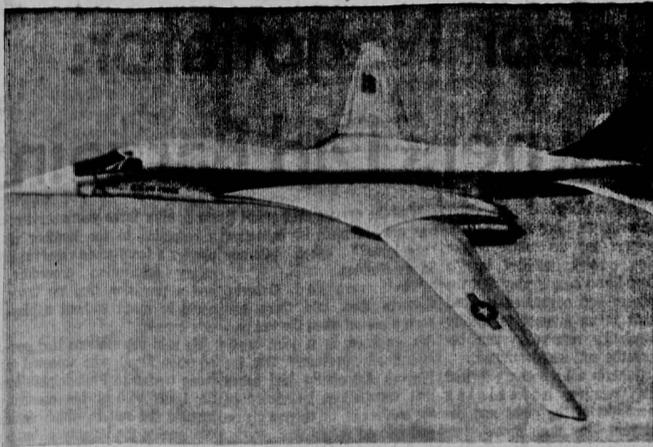

Mr. President, as a prosecuting attorney and as a trial lawyer over many years, I am accustomed to deal with facts. My opinion as a lawyer, and Vice President Agnew has expressed the same opinion when he stated the Ohio guardsmen overreacted and that murder was involved. Very definitely, Mr. President, there is probable cause that the lieutenant who gave the order to fire and Maj. Gen. Del Corso and his Deputy General Canterbury should be investigated.

Psychiatric Tests Ordered If Pastor Paul to Continue

Pastor Paul Hoenk of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will have to undergo a psychiatric evaluation before continuing his campus ministry in Iowa City, according to a statement released Friday by the Iowa District East of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

In a ruling released at noon in Cedar Rapids, the district's board of directors concurred with the findings of a six-man investigative committee looking into Hoenk's ministry.

The investigative committee Thursday "affirmed" Hoenk's ministry but called for "rest, staff assistance and psychiatric diagnosis and care (if needed)" for the controversial pastor.

The Rev. Martin P. Studtmann, executive secretary of the district board, said a meeting between St. Paul's officials and the board would be held within a week, but would not comment further on the board's action.

The review team, composed of campus ministers throughout the Midwest, reported their findings Thursday afternoon to members of St. Paul's congregation and Hoenk. The report was delivered by review team members Revs. Oscar Ice and Eugene Glade, both of Mankato, Minn.

Hoenk, who has been in Psychopathic Hospital here since May 29, acknowledged he was fired and needed rest, but questioned the reasons behind the psychiatric evaluation decision.

Hoenk, who was present at a Thursday meeting of the investigative committee, said, "there are two ways to defrock a clergyman." One way, he said, would be on "doctrinal grounds" and the other would be to "prove him mentally ill. I have anticipated this," he added.

Hoenk said he had been under Suez Bombed Without Letup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Israeli warplanes hammered Egyptian military targets along the Suez Canal for 11 hours in daylight Friday, the third anniversary of the start of the 1967 six-day war, then returned at night in attacks lasting 3 1/2 hours.

The heavy pounding was a continuation of relentless bombing in an effort to reduce Israeli casualties along the canal and to prevent the Egyptians from strengthening their military positions. Tel Aviv's military command said.

There were mass demonstrations and speeches in the Arab world on the anniversary. On the second day of his visit to Syria, Libya's strongman Col. Muammar Kaddafi told a Damascus rally all Arab military forces must be thrown against Israel. He said Libya would "move our regular forces directly into the conflict."

Kaddafi warned Arab guerrillas against wasting energy feuding among themselves and called for a merger of all Palestinian guerrilla groups. The Israelis now have struck at Egyptian canal targets for about 65 hours in six days, pointing up a strategy outlined by Lt. Gen Haim Bar-Lev, Israeli chief of staff, in an anniversary statement.

He said Israeli policy was not retaliation but "to counter war with war" in "continuous activity, choosing our mode of operations in accordance with our means."

Nixon Picks Lodge As Vatican Envoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, in an evident move to strengthen communications with Pope Paul VI while skirting a possible controversy, announced Friday that Henry Cabot Lodge will be his personal envoy to the Vatican.

Lodge, an Episcopalian, who will serve without salary and without formal diplomatic status, will leave later this month on the first of two or three annual trips to the headquarters of the Roman Catholic Church.

The White House said each visit will last two or four weeks.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said Nixon "wishes to provide for greater continuity in the informal contacts that have been taking place" between administration officials and the Vatican since the President took office.

Ziegler said Nixon believes it would be useful to have a continuing exchange of views on current problems and policies of mutual interest because of the Pope's position of moral and spiritual leadership.

Responding to a question, the press secretary said he would not relate Lodge's Vatican assignment with his former post as head of the U.S. negotiating team at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris. Lodge also had twice served as ambassador to South Vietnam.

Lodge will be the first American to regularly represent the U.S. executive branch at the Vatican since Myron Taylor served as President Franklin D. Roosevelt's personal representative there during World War II.

In October of 1951, former President Harry S. Truman nominated Gen. Mark Clark to serve as ambassador to the Vatican, but Clark three months later asked that his name be withdrawn because of mounting opposition in Congress from those who argued the Vatican would infringe on the constitutional guarantee of separation of church and state.

Truman did not submit another nomination.

Lodge, whose expenses while overseas will be paid by the federal government, will "arrange suitable living and office arrangements" in Rome, Ziegler said. He will not work out of the U.S. Embassy there. Ziegler was uncertain whether Lodge would have a personal staff.

Woman Nominated to Board Is First in Man's Domain

Iowa athletics is commonly thought to be man's domain, but a woman may soon occupy a seat on the Iowa Board in Control of Athletics if her nomination is approved by University President Willard Boyd.

The nominee is Miss Marjorie Lyford, an associate professor of nursing at the University. Miss Lyford was recommended by the committee on committees to fill a vacancy left on the Board when Prof. Gilbert Maynard resigned over a month ago.

The Faculty Senate recently endorsed the committee's recommendation, meaning that her appointment now only needs the approval of President Boyd.

The 14-man Board has recently come under criticism for its handling of the athletic department feud between Athletic Director Forest Evashevski and head coach Ray Nagel.

After Evashevski resigned and Nagel was fired, then rehired, many players, coaches and alumni suggested revision be made of the Board in Control of Athletics. It is unknown whether the nomination of Miss Lyford is part of such a revision, but at any rate the 14 man Board could now become a 13-man, 1-woman board.

Sam Fahr, chairman of the Board, was out of town and unavailable for comment. Miss Lyford, who told the Des Moines Register Thursday that she was surprised at her nomination, said she would prefer no further comment until her nomination is approved.

In the meantime, the search for a new athletic director continues with Chalmers (Bump) Elliot, Francis (Buzz) Graham and Jerry Hildenberg as leading contenders.

Elliot, associate athletic director at the University of Michigan, was in Iowa City last week to visit with the Iowa Board. It was also learned that former assistant Iowa coach Hildenberg and Graham, acting athletic director, have been interviewed for the job.

These three men are believed to be the only men in line to succeed Evashevski who recommended Elliot for the position. The Board has remained close-mouthed concerning the interviews and the appointment. A decision is expected soon, however, as Elliot has come under pressure from the University of Oregon where he has been offered the post of athletic director.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lou Graham assumed the second round lead in the $150,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament

Personality Absent For Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Personality, heavily-favored to add the Belmont Stakes to his Preakness victory, was scratched late Friday afternoon from this third leg of the Triple Crown because of a cough that began earlier in the week.

Trainer John Jacobs, making the announcement in the press box at Belmont park, said he felt "that in the horse's present condition he could not do his best. In fairness to the fans and racing, I want to make the announcement now."

Jacobs said Personality had a nasal discharge Wednesday and he thought then something might be wrong, but he hoped that it would pass. The horse had a slight fever Thursday and a cough with another nasal discharge, but he galloped Friday morning with no sign of a cough or fever.

Jacobs explained that because of racing's anti-medication rules, with the closeness of the race, he couldn't give Personality any medication for the cough.

The departure of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Personality, 6-5 favorite as an entry with High Echelon, reduced the field to 10 3-year-olds for the 1½ mile test and made it a wide open affair.

My Dad George, who was the second choice at 5-2, took over the favorite's role at 2-1, followed by High Echelon at 3-1.

El Peco Ranch's Aggressively and Braulio Baeza will start from the inside post.

Post time is approximately 4:30 p.m. CDT and CBS will televise from 4-5 p.m., with radio coverage from 4:25-4:45 p.m.

Labor Negotiator: Owners Did Bargain

NEW YORK (AP) — John Gaherin, the labor relations' negotiator for the major league club owners, testified in the Curt Flood case Friday that the owners had negotiated in good faith in an attempt to modify baseball's reserve system before the suit was instituted.

Gaherin also characterized the relative bargaining strengths of the clubs and the players in negotiations "as about as equal as any situation can produce."

Gaherin pointed out in testimony for baseball's defendants in the $3 million antitrust suit that the owners had recognized their obligation to bargain collectively with the players over the reserve system during 1967.

"Did the owners ever assert it was not a subject for collective bargaining?" asked attorney Sandy Hadden.

"No," replied Gaherin. Gaherin then said there had been a period when the two parties engaged in a joint study and, finally, in August, 1969, the Players Association had asked that negotiations be opened on the subject of the reserve clause and related rules.

Gaherin said the owners "were shocked by the extent of the proposals" made by the Players Association because of what he said would be the "obvious harm they would do to baseball."

He said those proposals included a provision for a baseball player to gain free agent status after three years service; a reduction in the number of players a team could reserve; a salary arbitration procedure, and a provision that no trade could be made without a player's consent.

He said negotiations had ended when Flood, who objected to being traded to Philadelphia by St. Louis without his consent, brought the suit in which he is challenging the legality of baseball's reserve system.

Under cross examination Gaherin admitted that the owners never had put forward a proposal to modify the key provision of the reserve system—the option renewal clause that binds a player to the club that signs him until he is traded, sold or released.

He also agreed that no other business contained such a contract between employer and employee but took exception with attorney Jay Topkis that the form of that contract put a player in "servitude."

Gaherin also said under cross examination that the owners had made no specific proposals to change the option renewal clause or any other of the matters in which the Players Association made formal proposals.

Baseball's defendants are expected to call one more witness before resting, an economist.

Flood's side likely will call Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players' Association, and the organization's attorney, Dick Moss, as rebuttal witnesses before the case winds up Wednesday with former club owner Bill Veckel a possibility as the last witness for Flood.

Hockey Veteran Al Arbour Appointed St. Louis Coach

By PAUL LE BAR Associated Press Sports Writer ST. LOUIS — Defenseman Al Arbour, a 15-season veteran of the National Hockey League, embarked on a new career with his selection as coach of the St. Louis Blues.

Arbour, captain of the Blues since selected in the 1967 NHL expansion draft, replaces Scotty Bowman, who remains as general manager.

Bowman, 36, has coached the Blues since November of 1967 and directed them three years in a row into finals of the Stanley Cup playoffs, serving the final season in the dual role as coach-general manager.

He constructed a 97-73-40 record, winning among NHL West Division clubs, and guided the Blues to a 24-22 mark in the playoffs.

"I think I made the decision to give up coaching toward the end of the past season, when I could see the other general managers were going and watching amateur talent," Bowman said.

"I felt that the two jobs had become just too much. You reach a time in your career when you have to make decisions like this. I've had my thrills as a coach; now I hope to have my thrills as a general manager."

Bowman, a former supervisor of amateur talent in the Montrean Canadian system, said the Blues selected Arbour as coach because of the 37-year-old player's leadership.

"The reason we drafted him in the first place was because we felt we needed him in that capacity," he said.

"I think Al will have the respect of his players because of the way he has played. I don't think there will be a player who will want to give him less than 110 per cent."

"I think I've always wanted to coach, but I didn't think I ever anticipated I'd start at the NHL level," said Arbour, who called the job "a good opportunity."

Cubs Bomb Marichal, 12-8 With Two 4-Run Innings

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs bombed Juan Marichal and three successors for 16 hits in a 12-8 victory over the San Francisco Giants Friday. Four Giant errors contributed to the Cubs' triumph.

In the sixth inning after the Cubs chased Marichal-victim of four unearned runs - Willie Mays collided with Bob Taylor chasing Johnny Callison's fly, jolting the ball out of Taylor's hands and felling the 39-year-old Mays.

Mays spurned a stretcher brought on the field and walked off under his own power with bruised ribs and a slight finger cut. He did not return to the game.

Callison's gift double with two-out kept alive the Cubs' second four-run inning of the game. It was followed by Ron Santo's two-run homer, off Frank Reberger, who wild-pitched across the first run in the Cub sixth after replacing Marichal.

Jenkins yielded homers to Ken Henderson in the second and Willie McCovey in the third.
