Consumer to Pay— Tax Rise Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well-placed congressional sources expect the Nixon administration to dust off next year its proposal for a value-added tax — a form of sales levy.

This is the interpretation they put on the recurrent recent statements by Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy and others that President Nixon will propose additional taxation in 1971 if a serious budget deficit threatens.

The administration already is forecasting a modest deficit instead of the modest surplus projected earlier, and some congressmen are saying the deficit will enlarge as the economy continues to lag.

The value-added tax, used by several Western European governments, imposes a levy on each stage of the process by which raw materials become finished consumer goods. The tax in effect becomes part of the price that ultimate consumer pays.

Its use in this country has been advocated by some economists and a number of business groups who would use it as a partial substitute for the corporate income tax, which, many

Doctor Advocates Brief Hospital Stay

CHICAGO (AP) — Shorter hospital stays for most surgical patients not only reduce the cost, but aid in their recovery, a Michigan doctor said Wednesday.

"It is now possible and desirable to discharge the majority of surgical patients on the first or second postoperative day," Dr. Paul T. Lahti told a session of the American Medical Association convention.

Lahti, senior attending surgeon at William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, Mich., said that until patients were allowed to be out of bed soon after surgery, many died of pneumonia and other complications.

In some ways, the 1971 climate might be more favorable for consideration of the new levy. It would be hard to persuade Congress to reimpose the unpopular income surtax. Automobile and telephone excise, scheduled to expire or be lowered years ago, have already been extended from year to year to keep deficits from growing worse, and efforts to increase them, or to reimpose other excise taxes, would meet stiff opposition.

The value-added tax, by contrast, has low visibility.

Small Rivet Causes Jumbo 747 Holdup

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The jumbo 747 jetliner, the world's largest commercial passenger jet, has been in service five months but is still suffering "growing pains" — the latest caused by a half-inch rivet.

As a result, inaugural 747 flights to Lisbon, Bermuda and Honolulu have been postponed just when airlines were hoping to use the novelty of a superjet flight to capitalize on the peak-season rush to Europe.

The problem is minute — a tiny rivet in an engine so big that 7-foot Wilt Chamberlain, one of basketball's tallest players, can stand upright in its air intake.

Samuels Supports Goldberg

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur J. Goldberg, 61-year-old former Supreme Court justice and U.N. ambassador, renewed his campaign less than 12 hours after he was proclaimed victor in his first election outing over Samuels, an upstate plastics millionaire.

With 441 of the state's 13,735 election districts still unreported, Goldberg led Samuels by about 45,000 votes—492,681 to 447,564. Goldberg won handily in New York City, as expected, by about 60,000 votes.

On the congressional level, the big primary upset was that of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, 61, for 24 years Harlem's Democratic congressman. He lost by 205 votes to State Assemblyman Charles Rangel, 39, who was virtually assured of victory in November, since he has no Republican opposition.

Only slightly more than 25 per cent of the state's 3.6 million registered Democrats bothered to turn out for Tuesday's primary. It climaxed a lackluster campaign.

Rockefeller and his state Republican ticket were endorsed without opposition. State Sen. Basil Paterson, 44, of Harlem, was chosen to run for lieutenant governor against veteran GOP incumbent, Malcolm Wilson.

U.S. Air Role In Cambodia Still Cloudy

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's air role in Cambodia remained as cloudy as the monsoon weather in Southeast Asia Wednesday as U.S. and Cambodian military officials offered different explanations of U.S. involvement.

The Cambodian military command in Phnom Penh reported American fighter bombers struck deep into Cambodia in direct support of Cambodian ground troops.

In Washington, the Pentagon refused to comment on the report and repeated that U.S. warplanes are being used to interdict enemy supply lines regarded as a threat to American troops in South Vietnam.

Textile Talks With Japan Fall Through

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans announced today that the talks with Japan over voluntary restrictions of Japanese textile imports to the United States has collapsed.

Stans, who had been meeting for three days with Japanese Minister of International Trade and Industry Kiichi Miyazawa, said there was no hope for settlement at this time.

"After full exploration of the subject from all angles," the Commerce Department announcement said, "they have concluded that it is not possible to negotiate an agreement at this time for the voluntary limitation of Japanese textile imports into the United States."

Demos Challenge Hospital Bill Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats trying to override President Nixon's veto of a $1.25-billion hospital construction bill appeared more optimistic than their Republican opponents Wednesday on the eve of the House test.

But neither side predicted victory in Thursday's vote. Should the veto be overridden it would be the first such presidential reversal in 10 years.

Speaker John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) told newsmen he has discussed the veto with a number of Democrats and not one has said that he would not vote to override it.

Ford Charged With Damage To Building

A criminal charge of malicious injury to a building against Stephen D. Ford, assistant professor of business, was filed Wednesday in Johnson County District Court. The charge stems from Ford's alleged participation in a ROTC protest demonstration May 1.

The charge states that Campus Security detective Kenneth P. Saylor will testify in court that Ford was among demonstrators who forcibly attempted to gain entry to the Recreation Center when a ROTC ceremony was being held inside.

Ford pulled a door open, Saylor's statement alleges, and continued "to yank and pull on the door using a great degree of force," breaking hinges and causing the door to lie flat against the building.

Action on the charge has not been scheduled.

Mideast Peace Plan Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers today called a news conference for 10:30 a.m. CDT Thursday amid reports from the Middle East that the Nixon administration has launched a new diplomatic offensive to end the Arab-Israeli war.

According to one account, a revised American peace plan proposed to Israel and the Arab governments calls for a wrap-up settlement in three months time.

Israel would give up virtually all territory captured in the six-day war of 1967 and the Arab governments would pledge to respect Israel's existence and territories.

The first step in fulfilling this plan reportedly would be establishment of a cease-fire.

Reports of the peace plan, which won favorable comment from Lebanese officials, overshadowed the administration's decision, reported but not officially announced here, to sell some more jet combat planes to Israel.

Rogers is expected to deal in vague terms with this issue and not to disclose any number of planes approved for sale.

State Department press officer Carl Bartz announced the Rogers press conference. When asked whether Rogers would discuss the Middle East conflict and U.S. policy, Bartz would only say "if you raise the questions, he'll be prepared to discuss it."

Bartz refused to talk about the new American peace initiative.

New AMA Head Says—Send Interns to Communities

CHICAGO (AP) — The new president of the American Medical Association offered a radical solution Wednesday for the nation's shortage of doctors: do away with training doctors in hospitals and put them to work in the community, adding 50,000 doctors "almost overnight."

Dr. Walter C. Bornemeier, a Chicago surgeon, said too many traditional practice of medicine are being trained as specialists and that it should take a maximum of six years to go from high school to the M. D. degree.

"In some fields," Dr. Bornemeier said, "we definitely are oversupplied. General surgery is oversupplied, yet there seems to be no reduction in the number of general surgery residencies that are created."

The 69-year-old surgeon's ideas, which run counter to the Chicago surgeon, said too many traditional practice of medicine are being trained as specialists and that it should take a maximum of six years to go from high school to the M. D. degree.

Dr. Bornemeier announced he has asked the AMA board of trustees to make a study of the present residency programs for doctors. He said some new national group might grant "a certificate of speciality" in, perhaps, internal medicine after the person works in a community for a time.

"In any new graduate education program" he said, "we might be well-advised to emphasize again a preceptorship method of training... If M. D. graduates could be trained in the active practice of medicine outside the hospital with a physician or group, approved for teaching, the doctor shortage would, in large measure, be solved."

"It is possible," Dr. Bornemeier said, "that we might, almost overnight, add 50,000 doctors to the care of patients in our communities."

Reds Hit Key Town Near Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Two columns of enemy troops hurled attacks against the provincial capital of Kompong Speu Wednesday but were thrown back by a Cambodian army counterattack.

A quick trip by an Associated Press reporter to Kompong Speu, 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, disclosed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had retreated to the southeast and heavy trucks were rolling once more down Highway 4 to the major port of Kompong Som. The fighting had cut the road.

At the junction of Highway 4 with several major provincial roads, Kompong Speu is on a main invasion route to Phnom Penh and its security was considered important for the defense of the capital.

Government casualties were said to be two paratroopers killed and several others wounded. Enemy casualties were unknown.

Kompong Speu was nearly deserted and the few residents were packing to flee to Phnom Penh or "somewhere far away from this place where it is quiet," as one Cambodian put it.

About five miles east of Phnom Penh, Cambodian troops began a sweep looking for North Vietnamese troops reported to be preparing for a possible rocket and mortar attack on the Cambodian capital.

This was the closest concentration of enemy forces to the capital so far and pointed up intelligence predictions that a rocket attack on the capital might come at any time.

Cambodian officers said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces also had surrounded the district capital of Angtassom, 45 miles south of Phnom Penh on Highway 3, one of the main roads leading south out of the capital. There were no further details.

A Cambodian high command announcement that U.S. jet fighter-bombers had helped break the siege of the provincial capital of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, drew no comment from Washington.

But Jerry W. Friedheim, Pentagon spokesman, acknowledged that Cambodians were flying with American pilots in marking enemy targets in Cambodia.

Military witnesses said Tuesday three light U.S. planes, each with an American pilot and a Cambodian observer, machine gunned and rocketed enemy positions near Kompong Thom. It was believed the American planes were marking targets for South Vietnamese jets that followed them in.

Marine Innocent In Killing

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A young Marine who testified he never killed even an enemy in combat was acquitted Wednesday of taking part in the slaying of 16 Vietnamese women and children on a patrol in February.

Pfc. Thomas R. Boyd Jr., 19, of Evansville, Ind., greeted the verdict with tears of joy, shouting, "Thank God!" and embraced his civilian attorney, Howard T. Trockman.

Boyd was the second of four Marines to be tried in the deaths of the Vietnamese civilians at Son Thang, a village 27 miles south of Da Nang. He was charged with unpremeditated murder.

Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, Weirton, W. Va., was convicted Sunday on 16 counts of premeditated murder and was given a life sentence.

Trockman, also of Evansville, contended Boyd was a pacifist who never should have been sent to a war zone.

The chief prosecution witness, Pfc. Michael Krichten, 19, Hanover, Pa., testified that Boyd fired over the heads of the Vietnamese. But the prosecution argued that Boyd was guilty of aiding and abetting the crime because he failed to act to halt the shooting and instead joined in it.

Bell Asks Rate Change

DES MOINES (AP) — Officials of Northwestern Bell have said Iowa customers could be saved about $935,000 annually if the Iowa State Commerce Commission approves their request for a rate change.

The proposal, presented to the commission Wednesday, asks for an extension on the times when lowest rates apply for making station-to-station long distance calls within Iowa. Night rates would begin at 5 p.m. and end at 8 a.m. on week days, instead of the current period of 8 p.m. to 4:30 a.m.

The lowest night rates also would apply all day Saturday, Sunday and on two additional holidays, July 4th and Labor Day.

Two University coeds found a new place to kill the midnight hour Monday night — in the fish pond near the Union. The girls spent an hour trying to catch the goldfish, until a Union custodian asked them to leave.

Department of Agriculture Plans To Fight DDT Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department plans to fight legal attempts by conservationists for immediate suspension of use of DDT because they say, it is a hazard to human health.

The department is expected to file by Monday with the U.S. Court of Appeals a reply to the court's directive on May 28 that it suspend registration of the pesticide or give reasons why it will not.

Dr. Ned D. Bayley, director of science and education, said the court would be informed of the course being followed by the administration for elimination of all but essential uses of DDT by the end of this year.

Last November the Department of Health, Education and Welfare heard from a special pesticides commission that use of DDT and other long-lived poisons should be abolished or severely restricted.

On Nov. 20, the White House announced that the Agriculture Department had cancelled federal registration for interstate sale of DDT for use against shade trees pests, in water areas, around homes and gardens and on tobacco crops.

The department also notified manufacturers that cancellations would be completed by the end of 1970 on all other DDT uses unless it was "needed for prevention or control of human disease and other essential uses for which no alternative pest control means are available."
