To the Editor:

I am surprised that you feel that there are two sides to the question of whether we have a moral obligation to help sick children.

You state, "Yes, but whether or not the administration can take reasonable action to prevent the situation from recurring is another matter." I fail to see the logic in your statement.

If I were to take a side in this controversy, I would say that the administration is responsible for not taking reasonable action to prevent the situation from recurring.

Sincerely,

Indian's speech was "threatening"

There was a good deal of excitement in the air on Thursday, when a black woman, known as "The Indian," made a statement that threatened violence.

The woman, who was wearing a traditional Indian headdress and carrying abow and arrow, walked into the town hall and addressed the crowd.

"I am here to speak for my people," she said. "You have taken away our land and our resources, and now you want to take away our freedom.

"I will not tolerate this any longer," she continued. "I will fight for my rights, and I will not back down."

The police were called to remove the woman, but she refused to leave until she had made her point.

The crowd was divided in its reaction to the woman's speech. Some supported her, while others were opposed.

"We can't have people like that walking around saying things like that," said one man. "It's just not acceptable."

But another man disagreed. "This woman is speaking for her people," he said. "We need to listen to what she has to say."

The incident continued to dominate the news for the rest of the week, with many people wondering what would happen next.

Poor women: The people who haven't made it

A large number of women in this country have not made it.

Women have been oppressed by men for centuries, and it seems that they will never be able to escape this oppression.

Women are subjected to discrimination in the workplace, in education, and in their personal lives.

Women are paid less than men for the same work, and they are not given the same opportunities for advancement.

Women are not taken seriously in politics, and they are not given the same respect as men.

It is time that we, as a society, recognize the importance of women and their contributions to our world.

Women are the backbone of our society, and they deserve to be treated with the respect and dignity that they deserve.

Let us work together to ensure that women are given the opportunity to make their voices heard, and to make a difference in our world.

Sincerely,

Homer off Iowa watt Sends Series to 5 Games, 6-5—
May's 3-Run Shot in 8th Saves Cincinnati

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALKED—Lee May, the key left-handed batter in the Reds' much-maligned batting order, smashed a three-run home run off Tom Griffin in the 8th inning Wednesday night to send the Reds to a 6-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. The win was the 1st in 6 games for the Reds, who had lost 9 of their past 10.

The victory, first for the Reds' hitting order and base

Pitts...this is a story of how Minnesota's Jerry Nelson, a 6-2, 240-pound center from Bloomington, Minn., had a chronic knee injury for over a year and how he practices Iowa coach Ray Nagel and his defensive staff thought they had it handled...but still a problem.

Jerry Nelson has started as a center for the Hawkeyes but has suffered knee problems that nagged him since his junior year of high school. Nagel was the first to realize Nelson's condition was more than just a nagging problem. He made the decision to have Nelson undergo surgery back in the fall.

An operation could have come earlier in the season...but that now the main concern is getting Nelson back on the field and into the starting lineup...for a football player.

No Fun for ISU

MANHATTAN, Kan. — This week for the Kansas State defense will be tough...but not as tough as Kansas was last Saturday when Kansas State played Iowa State in a Big Eight Conference game at Ames, Iowa. Coach Vern Gibson gave his team some bad news after the game...Nelson is out for ISU's Big Eight Conference game Saturday.

If Kansas State's defense is any good, it will have to be without Jerry Nelson. The 6-3, 240-pound center from Bloomington, Minn., could have been one of the top centers in the nation had his knee not been shaving away his dreams...but now the main problem is knee swelling and a pull from his quadriceps.

The two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools.

Jerry Nelson was never able to prove it was exactly what was wrong with him on the football field. Paul would have his doubts whether the knee could handle it. Nelson had to do it, and he did it. He was physically for the game with Iowa State Saturday when Kansas was also placed on probation for its part in the Big Eight Conference game.

In 1967 and 1968, the Wildcats were never able to prove it was exactly what was wrong with him on the football field. Paul would have his doubts whether the knee could handle it. Nelson had to do it, and he did it. He was physically for the game with Iowa State Saturday when Kansas was also placed on probation for its part in the Big Eight Conference game.

It's going to be tough to get back up. It's going to be tough to keep Nelson off the field. Nelson is a hardworking player and he wants to be on the field...for ISU.

Iowa defensive tackle Jerry Nelson stands or has been standing up for a year and a half. The two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools.

Cronk...Nelson was switched to defense and the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools...the two schools.

They can't feel and not exactly what is wrong with him on it. The injury could be permanent. Nagel was the first to realize Nelson's condition was more than just a nagging problem. He made the decision to have Nelson undergo surgery back in the fall.

Jerry Nelson could have been one of the top centers in the nation had his knee not been shaving away his dreams...but now the main problem is knee swelling and a pull from his quadriceps.
COMPARE THE TOTAL

We tend to put a lot of emphasis on the tape total rather than weekly specials, but we do this for good reason. The reason is, this is the only single figure in food buying that shows if you’re saving money or not. Because we believe this total is always lower at Randall’s than at any other food store in town, we ask that you give us a try.

Study: Many Ignored Camille Alarm

WASHINGTON - Even after the record-breaking winds and devastating storm surge of Hurricane Camille last August, many Mississippi residents were not aware that a deadly hurricane had passed through their area.

"People have difficulty understanding that a storm has passed through," said the governor.

"If a man was not in a shelter, he didn't see the storm," added a Mississippi Valley official.

The governor said there were reports that most of those who chose to stay outdoors were educated, middle class, and older.

"Also, many people who lost their homes or had their homes damaged, didn't feel in danger," the governor said.

High Court Ends Rights Hearings

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The case has been closed. The Supreme Court has ruled that the rights of black children in the South are no longer in question. The court has decided that the rights of black children in the South are not protected by the law.

"We have been fighting for years to protect the rights of black children," said the governor. "We are glad that the court has finally recognized our efforts.

Through Parents Anonymous—
Parents Discuss Drug Abuse

By DOREEN ALLENBERG
Daily Iowan Reporter
ParentsAnonymous is an organization with several chapters across the country which are working to help parents deal with their own addictions and to help their children. Parents Anonymous holds parent meetings each month at the United Methodist Church, 300 N. Clinton St., where parents come for support, information, and to share their experiences. The group's purpose is to help parents know if a problem exists and to help them to deal with the problem.

The following is an excerpt from a recent organizational meeting at the church. It was led by Dr. Roy Wingate of Parents Anonymous.

I told my son not to touch it and leave it alone. I didn't want him to try it, but he did. It's not as if I was going to do it myself. I'm a mom, I'm not going to do it.

At the meeting, parents discussed the difficulties they face in dealing with drug use. "It's not just about the drug use," said one parent. "It's about the whole family."

The group encourages parents to seek out support from other parents who are going through similar situations. "Parents need to remember that they are not alone," said Dr. Wingate. "There are others who understand what they are going through.

Parents Anonymous encourages parents to speak out about their experiences and to help others who may be struggling with drug use. They believe that by sharing their stories, they can offer hope and support to others who may be going through similar situations.
