Nixon Hails Viet Combat Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon will seek to reduce the American military presence in Vietnam this year, an aide to the president said yesterday.

"There is an opportunity to reduce our troop levels," the aide told a television network. "We should be able to cut back our forces in Vietnam this year."

The aide said Nixon had made it clear to his military advisers that the United States would not permit its forces to become involved in a war of conquest in Vietnam.

The aide also said Nixon believed that a military victory in Vietnam was not possible, and that a political settlement was more likely to bring an end to the war.

The federal government to force the Nixon administration inherited, and the local government's role in Vietnam.

Nixon said his new budget will be a forecast of the 1972 campaign.

But he said a formal alliance with the Soviet Union was not in his plans.

He said the Soviet Union was "not in the United States' interest."

But he went on to say of the Israelis and the Arabs, "I'm convinced that there is no solution to the problem of the Middle East."
Student apathy?\n
Many of today's youth, writes S. P. Koonce, associate editor of The Iowan, "are not apathetic. They are busy looking for ways to avoid responsibility and learn by removing themselves from trouble. They have not come again into apathy, but out of it, and no one who has felt the impact of this generation on his shoulders can deny that we have our share of apathy, too.\

The problem is not necessarily one of older people, but an attitude that is being fostered by the society we have created. Youth are being taught that there are easier ways to achieve success, and they are being taught that the only way to be successful is to achieve material success.\

The problem of apathy is not a new problem, but it is one that must be faced. We cannot afford to ignore it and hope that it will go away on its own. It is a problem that must be addressed, and it is a problem that can be solved.\

The solution to apathy is not easy, but it is possible. We must work to change the attitudes that are fostering apathy and encourage a spirit of responsibility and commitment. We must also work to improve the opportunities for success that are available to youth. Only in this way can we hope to overcome the problem of apathy and create a generation that is ready to face the challenges of the future.
