Student Challenge to UI Court— Senate Opposes Hearings

Student Senate Tuesday night moved to oppose the university's handling of the judicial proceedings against eight students, three nonstudents and the university chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) charged with violating university and regent rules in the Dec. 16 sit-in at the University Placement Office over the presence of Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) recruiters there.

Senate reaffirmed a motion passed on Feb. 4 directing the student body president and vice-president not to recognize the legitimacy of university hearing officer Theodore Garfield's judicial court.

Garfield, retired Iowa Supreme Court Justice was appointed hearing officer last winter by University Pres. Willard Boyd after student senate withdrew its members from the committee which previously handled the trials of students accused of breaking university rules.

The action followed a Wednesday night request by SDS members for senate support of their opposition to the trial.

Senate also passed a motion stating that the Student Organization Commission of senate should have original jurisdiction and conduct the primary investigations into the incident concerning SDS and the DIA. The motion states that the Student Organization Committee has the authority to investigate all complaints lodged against any organizations recognized by Student Senate.

The senate also approved Wednesday night a report by the senate's Commission on Parietal Rules that contained proposals bound for the next meeting of the Board of Regents.

The commission's unanimous recommendations are:

- That recently imposed rules requiring students to live in university residence halls be removed;
- That the state subsidize the residence halls to "alleviate the financial strain in the halls for the next school year";
- That the Associated Residence Halls (ARH) proposed reforms (including the elimination of women's hours, majority rule on intervisitation and allowing legal liquor in the halls) be enacted;
- And that an absolute exception be made to any parietal rules for students to live off-campus with parental permission.

The commission is composed of individuals from senate, ARH, the Greek councils, Faculty Council and Dorm and Dining Services.

In other action, student Pres. Robert "Bo" Beller reported that the university's Tuition and Fees Committee had taken action on last year's student referendum which provided for a two dollar assessment on student fee bills to create a fund of student loans, grants and scholarships.

At second semester registration students will be given forms to indicate whether they want to pay the assessment.

Don Conroy, coordinator of the Student Program Advisory Team, reported that under a policy adopted last summer the entire east wing of the Union is being turned over to the Student Development Center and the ground floor is to be converted into space used and managed by students.

Conroy further stated that on Feb. 1 the office complex located across from the Hub Room on the ground floor of the Union will be vacated and available for student occupancy.

A committee composed of members of the Student Activities Advisory staff and students will conduct hearings into possible uses of the space by student organizations. They will make recommendations which will be referred to senate for approval.

In further action senate passed a bill introduced by Lowell Brandt, A3, Postville, and Beller which clears the way for nonsenatorial personnel to serve on senate committee.

Senate also passed a resolution submitted by Beller stating Senate's support of the Hawkeye Daycare Steering Committee's demands of the administration.

The demands include the university's provision of daycare facilities for student, faculty and staff parents to be operated on a non-profit cooperative basis under the control of participating parents.

A proposed constitutional amendment by Beller that would have reformed senate election procedures and end the election of senators was defeated.

Laird Predicts End of Viet Combat

PARIS (AP) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Wednesday the U. S. combat role in South Vietnam will end after the middle of next summer, when the Thieu-Ky forces will take over the military burden.

"We will have an air support role and the combat forces which will be assigned to the logistics, support and artillery roles will not be a combat mission but will be a security mission," he told a news conference.

"They will be there to protect and support the forces that are assigned these roles. . . . We will be in a position where the American combat responsibility will be removed as far as South Vietnam is concerned."

Laird declared the Thieu-Ky forces are "much better equipped, much better trained, and leadership has improved to the point where they are able to take over the military burden."

Laird's statement did not mean that U. S. soldiers no longer will be engaged in combat, although their role will be to protect logistics, air and artillery bases.

An aide explained: "We will always have American troops protecting the remaining forces." Thus, if the National Liberation Front attacks the bases, U. S. troops will be drawn into battle.

Laird's statement on ending the U. S. combat role reflected hopes expressed by the Nixon administration previously.

Laird gave no indication of when he thought the last American troops could all be out of Vietnam.

He said Phase 1 of the Vietnamization program, the training of troops for combat, would be completed this year.

Phase 2, the training and equipping of Thieu-Ky forces to take over logistics and support mission, required much more time than the first, he said. But he added that Phase 2 is ahead of schedule.

American forces in South Vietnam will be cut from a ceiling figure of 549,500 in January 1969, to less than 284,000 May 1, Laird said. He did not give a timetable for further reductions.

Underlining the "Nixon doctrine" of turning more defense responsibility over to American allies in the Pacific area, Laird reported that by July 1 American forces will be cut by more than 320,000 men.

The reductions are 265,000 in South Vietnam, 12,000 in Japan, 20,000 in South Korea, 16,000 in Thailand, 5,000 in Okinawa and 6,000 in the Philippines.

Laird claimed that progress in Vietnamization has put the American peace negotiating delegation in Paris in a "stronger position."

Later in answer to questions he said he had "not seen substantial progress as far as the negotiations are concerned."

Laird noted "some progress" on the problem of American prisoners of war held by North Vietnam. He said there has been a greater flow of letters from the prisoners, but claimed that the National Liberation Front is not living up to the Geneva agreements on prisoners.

South Viets to Burn Pot As Americans Find It

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command ordered American forces Wednesday to search out marijuana fields in South Vietnam and turn them over to South Vietnamese troops for burning. The idea is to cut down the growing use of pot by GIs.

The United States has agreed to pay South Vietnam just under a cent for each marijuana plant destroyed.

The plan calls on U.S. field commanders to conduct continuous ground and air searches for marijuana fields and, once they are located, to turn them over to the South Vietnamese for burning.

The offensive was launched with a new directive from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, to subordinate commanders. It calls for suppression programs to fight abuse of all drugs — not just marijuana, although this is by far the biggest cause for concern.

The Command directive acknowledged publicly for the first time the extent of its drug problem.

The directive noted a sharp rise in GI drug violations over the past five years — figures that increased steadily even in the past 18 months when the number of Americans here decreased by some 200,000 men.

It rose from 47 arrests for drug abuse in 1965 — the year of the first major U.S. troop deployment here — to an estimated 11,000 last year, according to figures in the directive.

These figures also showed that use of marijuana was about seven times greater than that of barbiturates or LSD and more than seven times that of hard narcotics — heroin or opium.

Surveys compiled by the U.S. Command indicated that between 100,000 and 150,000 American servicemen in Vietnam have experimented with marijuana or other drugs.

Figures for the first 10 months of last year showed 7,065 violations for use or possession of marijuana, 1,452 for use or possession of dangerous drugs such as LSD, and 736 for use or possession of narcotics.

The Army also reported that for the first 10½ months of 1970, there were 25 confirmed drug deaths among Americans in Vietnam, 64 fatalities in which drugs were suspected, and more than 700 hospital cases linked to drugs.

Soviets Postpone Leningrad Trial

MOSCOW (AP) — The trial of nine Jews in Leningrad was suddenly halted Wednesday 10 minutes after it opened. Reports circulated that the Soviet government had decided to cancel any further prosecution of Jews.

Jewish informants said relatives of the Leningrad defendants had been told by court officials that the trial had been postponed because one of the defendants, Lev Yagman, was ill with influenza.

But Max Leon, Moscow correspondent for the French Communist newspaper L'Humanite, reported that there would be no further trials of Jews. The Italian Communist paper L'Unita carried a similar report.

Correspondents of Western Communist papers are frequently used by the Soviet government to leak information.

Government Finds Excess Arsenic In Poultry; See No Health Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government found illegal residues of organic arsenic in from one-fourth to one-sixth of the poultry samples taken during 1968 and 1969, but officials say they doubt the residues pose any serious human health hazards.

Vietnam totals are not available in Washington because of the war. "These figures are in the field," Selden said. "They can be gotten; they will be gotten."

"All you have to do is mention the war and somehow you don't have to be accountable," responded Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) chairman of a Joint Economic subcommittee holding hearings on military assistance.

Proxmire was critical also of the way in which the total arms aid program is splintered among various federal agencies.

Organic arsenic is far less toxic than inorganic arsenic — the fabled poison of fiction and history.

The Agriculture Department disclosed the poultry sampling results in response to an Associated Press query. The department said it did not yet have a report for 1970, but the Food and Drug Administration said monthly reports showed violations ranging from five to eight per cent of the samples taken last year.

Also known as arsenical, organic arsenic is added to poultry feed to make the birds grow faster. Federal regulations permit one part per million of arsenic in the livers, giblets and other organs of poultry after slaughter and 0.5 parts per million in muscle tissue.

FDA officials and independent specialists say there is no apparent danger to humans at the levels at which organic arsenic residues are permitted in poultry going onto the marketplace.

"Our toxicologists tell us we could set two parts per million (double the present allowable) as safe" for poultry, said Dr. C. D. van Houweling, director of the FDA bureau of veterinary medicine, who added that organic arsenic is used in some human medicine.

The Agriculture Department said it tested 399 samples of poultry in 1969 and found 17 per cent with residues in excess of tolerances. The figure was down from 27.5 per cent in 1968, the first year samples were taken. The department did not disclose to what extent the residues exceeded the legal limits.

The program also monitored residues in hogs. The arsenic tolerance for the internal organs of swine is twice that for poultry. Three per cent of the 1968 samples were violations. Three of the 202 hog samples tested in 1969 were violations.

Dorm Residents Are Offered Free Bus Ride to Classes

Students living in University of Iowa residence halls are being offered a free ride to classes until the fall semester ends next Wednesday.

Beginning today, a shuttle bus service will be in operation on an experimental basis — picking up and delivering students in four heavily traveled campus areas.

The bus, sponsored by Associated Residence Halls (ARH), will make stops from 7 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at Rienow I, Phillips Hall, Burge Hall and the Union. In exchange for a seat on the bus, residence hall occupants will be asked to show the driver their room key.

ARH Pres. Doug Couto, B3, Postville, said the service is being provided "because a number of residence hall students have expressed both the need and desire to give such service a try."

He said the service was planned principally to serve students with classes on the other side of the Iowa River. According to Couto, the full cost of the service will be paid by ARH, which receives operating funds from membership dues paid by dorm residents.

A 54-passenger bus owned by the university is being rented at $70 per day, he said.

After the week's trial run, Couto said ARH officers will meet to evaluate student response to the service and decide if it should continue during the spring semester.

"With the weather the way it is, I should think we'll have a lot of takers," the ARH president said.

Hormone Research Gives Hope for Cures

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A biochemist announced Wednesday the first artificial synthesis of human growth hormone, a research milestone in learning the language of the chemical messages that govern the body's functions.

The achievement by the Hormone Research Laboratory at the University of California at San Francisco holds promise for elimination of most forms of dwarfism and gives medical researchers a powerful new tool to probe cancer and the causes of several diseases.

Pentagon to Study Arms Aid Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Wednesday it is sending agents around the globe to determine the total cost of the country's foreign arms program.

Armistead I. Selden, deputy assistant secretary of defense, said the United States spent $4.8 billion during fiscal 1970 to provide arms to other nations, but added that figure does not include possibly billions of dollars in assistance to Vietnam or in military sales.

"We certainly are not trying to hide any figures," he said, adding that the

Wait till Easter

It is interesting to watch the city and the University of Iowa physical plant fall apart when faced with something like the Great Snow Storm of '71. Interesting, but not very amusing.

The snow started here Saturday night, and continued until Sunday morning. If you haven't noticed, it is now Thursday, and we are still up to our asses in snow — on the sidewalks and in the streets.

A woman called The Daily Iowan Tuesday to tell us her specific snow problem, which seemed to fit part of the overall pattern. She parked her car on the street Saturday night, she said, and when she went out Sunday she'd been plowed in — that is, a snowplow had come along and piled snow up to her windows. Well, the streets had to be cleared (or at least they should be) so you really can't bitch too much about getting plowed in. But to add insult to injury, she later received a ticket for street storage. The city wants two bucks because she didn't move her car. The way she told it, the car couldn't have been moved without a crane, considering what the plow had done to it. The metermaid had to be half St. Bernard just to get the ticket on the window.

Then take the case of the student parking lot behind the library. It snowed Saturday night and Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon, no snow. Monday no snow. So they start plowing it out Tuesday afternoon, just when 10 million students and their families were descending on the town. Trying to find a parking place Tuesday was like trying to find a wayside rest stop on the Indianapolis speedway.

If the streets and the parking lots were bad, and are bad, the sidewalks were worse. Over by the engineering building, big students were using small students for tobaggans to get down the hill. The packed and bumpy snow was so hard that anyone falling on his head was going to come up with a concussion. In most places, if you wanted to cross the street, you needed a pet mountain goat to get you over the piles made by snow plows.

And back to the city. The traffic planning around here isn't really very good anyway, and the Great Snow Storm of '71 demonstrated how one (1) stoplight could screw up half a town and a major highway. Because of the torturous arrangement of one-way streets on the south side of town, traffic is funneled onto South Linn to Highway 6. Usually, the Linn Street exit is the easiest way to get from downtown to either of the shopping centers, to K-Mart, and to much of the Iowa City residential district in the southeast. But the light at the corner of Highway 6 and South Linn does not have a turn arrow. Cars were piled up for blocks. With the slippery streets and slow going, sometimes only one or two cars would get through each green light.

But the whole thing strikes me as pretty typical. The university didn't have classes on Monday, so apparently everybody sat around until the students got back to confuse things before they started cleaning up. With the parking lots now jammed with cars, it is doubtful that the last of the in-lot or on-street snow will be gone for quite a while. Like Easter vacation.

Conclusion of 'New Morning' report— The weather, it is a-changing...

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the conclusion of the communication from the Weatherman Underground entitled "New Morning — Changing Weather" that was delivered to various newspapers and news services the second week in December. It is reprinted here verbatim from Liberation News Service.

The attacks on the Marin County Court House and the Long Island City Jail were because we believe that the resistance and political leadership that is growing within the prisons demands immediate and mass support from young people. For all the George Jacksons, Afeni Shakers and potential revolutionaries in these jails, the movement is the lifeline. They rebelled expecting massive support from outside.

Demonstrations in support of prison revolts are a major responsibility of the movement, but someone must call for them, put out the leaflets, convince people that it is a priority. We are so used to feeling powerless that we believe pig propaganda about the death of the movement, or some bad politics about rallies being obsolete and bullshit. A year ago, when Bobby Seale was ripped off in Chicago and the movement didn't respond, it made it easier for the pigs to murder Fred Hampton. Now two Puerto Ricans have been killed by the pigs in the New York jails, in retaliation for the prisoner rebellion. What we do or don't do makes a difference.

It will require courage and close families of people to do this organizing. Twos and threes is not a good form for anything — it won't put out a newspaper, organize a conference on the war, or do an armed action without getting caught. Our power is that together we are mobile, decentralized, flexible and we come into every home where there are children who catch the music of freedom and life.

The women and men in jails are POWs held by the United States. When an American pilot is shot down while bombing North Vietnamese villages, he is often surrounded by thousands of people who have just seen their family and homes destroyed by the bombs he was delivering. Yet the man is not attacked and killed by the Vietnamese but is cared for as a prisoner. Nixon is now waging a last-ditch moral crusade around the treatment of those American war criminals to justify all his impending atrocities.

The demonstrations and strikes following the rape of Indochina and the murders at Jackson and Kent last May showed real power and made a strong difference. New people were reached and involved and the government was put on the defensive. This month the bombings could have touched off actions expressing our fury at double-talking Laird and his crew — war research and school administrators and traveling politicians are within reach of our leaflet, our rallies, our rocks. Women's lib groups can find in Nguyen Thi Binh a sister for whom there is love and support here. Her proposals for peace must be explained and Bloody Dick's plans to use more bombers to replace the GIs who are refusing to fight exposed as the escalation and genocide it is. Vietnamization Indianization limited duration protective reaction suppressive fire hoesheet. It seems that we sometimes forget that in Vietnam strong liberated women and men live and fight. Not as abstract guerrilla fighters, slugging it out with U.S. imperialism in Southeast Asia, but as people with values and loves and parents and children and hopes for the future.

People like Thai, a fighter in the People's Liberation Armed Forces who was in Hue during Tet and at Hamburger Hill a year later, or Than Tra, an organizer in the mass women's organization and the students' movement in the cities, who had not seen her lover in nine years. They travelled for a month to come to Cuba to meet with us, to sing and dance and explain how it is in Vietnam. There is nothing brutal or macho about guns and bombs in their hands.

We can't help thinking that if more people knew about them, the anti-war movement would never have allowed Nixon and Agnew to travel to so many cities during the past election with only the freaks at Kansas State and the people of San Jose to make our anger at his racism known to the world.

The hearts of our people are in a good place. Over the past months, freaks and hippies and a lot of people in the movement have begun to dig in for a long winter. Kent and Augusta and Jackson brought to all of us a coming of age, a seriousness about how hard it will be to fight in America and how long it will take us to win. We are all beginning to figure out what the Cubans meant when they told us about the need for new men and new women.

People have been experimenting with everything about their lives, fierce against the ways of the white man. They have learned how to survive together in the poisoned cities and how to live on the road and the land. They've moved to the country and found new ways to bring up free wild children. People have purified themselves with organic food, fought sexual liberation, grown long hair.

People have reached out to each other and learned that grass and organic consciousness-expanding drugs are weapons of the revolution. Not mandatory for everyone, not a gut-check, but a tool — a Yaqui way of knowledge. But while we sing of drugs the enemy knows how great a threat our youth culture is to their rules, and they employ their allies — the killer-drugs (smack and speed) — to pacify and destroy young people. No revolution can succeed without the youth, and we face that possibility if we don't meet this threat.

People are forming new families. Collectives have sprung up from Seattle to Atlanta, Buffalo to Vermont, and they are units of people to trust each other both to live together and to organize and fight together. The revolution involves our whole lives; we aren't part-time soldiers or secret revolutionaries. It is our closeness and the integration of our personal lives with our revolutionary work that will make it hard for undercover pigs to infiltrate our collectives. It's one thing for pigs to go to a few meetings, even meetings of a secret cell. It's much harder for them to live in a family for long without being detected.

One of the most important things that has changed since people began working in collectives is the idea of what leadership is. People — and especially groups of sisters — don't want to follow ideologues or authoritarians. From Fidel's speeches and Ho's poems we've understood how leaders grow out of being deeply in touch with movements.

From Crazy Horse and other great Indian Chiefs we've learned that the people who respect their tribe and its needs are followed freely and with love. The Lakotas laughed at the whites' appointing one man to be chief of all the Lakota tribes, as if people wouldn't still go with whichever leader they thought was doing the right thing!

Many of these changes have been pushed forward by women both in collectives with men and in all-women's collectives. The enormous energy of sisters working together has not only transformed the movement internally, but when it moves out it is a movement that confuses and terrifies America. When asked about the sincerity of Mme. Binh's proposals, Ky says, "Never trust a woman in politics." The pigs refuse to believe that women can write a statement or build a sophisticated explosive device or fight in the streets. But while we have seen the potential strength of thousands of women marching, it is now up to revolutionary women to take the lead to call militant demonstrations, to organize young women, to carry the Viet Cong flag, to make it hard for Nixon and Ky to travel around the country ranting about POWs the same day that hundreds of women are being tortured in the prisons of South Vietnam.

It's up to us to tell women in America about Mme. Binh in Paris; about Pham Thi Quyen, fighter in the Saigon underground and wife of Nguyen Van Troi; about Mms. Nguyen Thi Dinh, leader of the first South Vietnamese Peoples' Liberation Armed Forces unit uprising in Ben Tre in 1961; about Celia Sanchez and Haydee Santamaria who fought at Moncada and in the Havana underground; about Bernadette Devlin and Leila Khaled and Lolita Lebron; and about Joan Bird and Afeni Shakur and Mary Moylan here.

We can't wait to organize people until we get ourselves together any more than we can act without being together. They must go on at the same time. None of these changes that people are going through are rules and principles. We are in many different regions of the country and are building different kinds of leaders and organizations. It's not coming together into one organization, or paper structure of factions or coalitions. It's a New Nation that will grow out of the struggles of the next year.

A letter: Demonstrators To plan defense

To the Editor:
 The university has singled out for disciplinary action 13 people who took part in the mass demonstration that stopped the DIA recruiter. SDS has also been charged for organizing the sit-in.

This Thursday night at 7:30 in the Harvard Room of the Union, there will be a meeting to discuss defense strategy for the open hearing on Jan. 13. This hearing could be a great opportunity to show lots of students how the university is an accomplice to the U.S. military in the war. Should we subpoena President Boyd, Dean Stuit (recipient of the Pentagon award for promoting ROTC on college campuses), and the Board of Regents to defend our "neutral" university?

Hopefully, with lots of active support we'll all be able to kick war recruiters and ROTC off campus so that we can squelch this crummy war. Come to Thursday night's meeting and help us plan our defense!

Will faking homosexuality get you out of the draft? Mastering the draft

Copyright 1971 by John Striker and Andrew Shapiro

Some young men have been studying the Army's list of disqualifying medical and psychological defects in search of ailments whose only objective signs are symptoms which the examinee alone can relate. Bearing letters from their family physician and psychiatrist, these young men reveal back injuries, migraine headaches, allergies, or psychoses, etc., developed shortly before their preinduction physicals. With only the family doctor's letter and the registrant's own testimony to go on, the examining doctor will usually reject.

One common ailment is listed by the Army as "character and behavior disorders as evidenced by... overt homosexuality or other forms of sexual deviant practices such as exhibitionism, transvestism, voyeurism, etc." Notice, the rejection is for OVERT homosexuality, i.e., a PRACTICING homosexual, not a state of mind.

In some cities, groups have organized and trained to become "overt homosexuals" in order to convince skeptical private doctors or Armed Forces Entrance and Examining Station (AFEES) personnel. Other registrants have located helpful doctors through organizations such as the Medical Committee for Human Rights.

Will these young men be rejected? Under the law, AFEES examining doctors have no obligation to disqualify a registrant merely because he appears at this physical with a doctor's letter stating he is an overt homosexual. (Bear in mind that under Army Regulations, an examining doctor can choose to ignore letters from a psychologist, as distinguished from a full-fledged psychiatrist). The doctor may exercise his own judgement and decide the examinee is acceptable. He may follow the Army Regulations' advice that "the more desirable time for evaluating the individual's functional ability from a psychiatric standpoint is during his basic training (i.e., in boot camp)."

On the other hand, the examining doctor may follow an informal directive recently issued to examining doctors: "More credence should be given to diagnosis made under private physicians, especially in the area of psychiatry. If evidence is submitted which is disqualifying, then disqualify."

Is there any way for the examining doctor to know for certain if the examinee is faking? Our interviews revealed a divided opinion. Dr. Gabriel Kirschenbaum, the chief Medical Advisor for the New York City Selective Service System, noted that homosexuals who claim, for instance, to have engaged in anal intercourse should have developed physical traits that can be diagnosed by the experienced physician. These traits may include an enlarged rectum, anal fissures and fistulae, or "plague" (venereal warts in the anal canal).

An AFEES doctor contended that he could spot a "faker" a mile away. He used various "shock" techniques. For example, he would begin his interview with the question: "When was the last time you got laid?" After an hour of this, he claimed, the "fakers" would break down.

Col. Paul Akst, the State Director for New York City Selective Service, reported that the AFEES maintain lists of "helpful" doctors. When a letter is received from these doctors, it is disregarded. He indicated that if the AFEES received more than six letters from one doctor, he qualifies for the list.

Finally, the Federal Bureau of Investigation sometimes helps out by sitting in on the training session for would-be homosexuals. It is worth bearing in mind that faking homosexuality to evade induction is a crime punishable by up to five years in prison and/or a $10,000 fine.

In general, however, those doctors this reporter felt were being frank indicated that, in fact, there is no real way of knowing if an examinee is faking. As one AFEES doctor confessed: "If the kid knows what he's doing, and doesn't overdo it, he'll probably be rejected. Our attitude is, if in doubt, reject."

The variety of opinions expressed by the examining doctors probably fortells the varying results examinees will face. A suspicious doctor is likely to spot faking in an actual homosexual. Psychiatry is hardly an exact science. Thus, the very attractiveness of the undiagnosable ailment makes it difficult to question adverse findings.

Let us assume a young man who has brought in documentation is nonetheless found acceptable. Does he have any recourse in the courts? The answer is no. The courts believe the right to reject belongs to the Armed Forces, for those benefit the right exists. Abuse of this right is, therefore, deemed to hurt the Armed Forces, not the registrant. Courts simply will not review the judgment of the Army's examining doctors.

Though receiving a medical deferment on psychiatric grounds may not be very difficult, the deferment may come back to haunt the registrant later in his life. In the near future, this column will discuss this problem and how to deal with it.

Led Cards to 7-2 Mark— Cards Fire Charley Winner

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Charley Winner, who survived a 4-9-1 season in 1969 and returned to mold the St. Louis Cardinals into a 1970 title contender, was fired Wednesday as head coach of the National Football League team.

The dismissal of Winner, whose continuous tenure of five seasons was longest in club history, was announced by Cardinals President Charles W. "Stormy" Bidwill after the two met at noon in Bidwill's office. Winner, 46, reorganized the Cardinals between the 1969 and 1970 seasons and steered them to a 7-2 record at mid-season last fall before the Cardinals between the 1969 club faltered and finished 8-5-1.

"We felt that this action had to be taken in the best interest of the team," said Bidwill. "It didn't come as something that was spur of the moment. We've been discussing it since the end of the season.

"I think that Charley and I told him this—could do a great job with some other team," Bidwill added.

The small and articulate Winner, a son-in-law and protégé of New York Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank, called the firing "completely unexpected."

"It was a real shock to me," he said. "I was already making plans for next season. I thought our football team came back this year."

"Last year at this time I felt it could have happened," he added, "but not this year. I was so surprised I haven't had time to think what I'll do."

Winner succeeded former Houston Oilers Coach Wally Lemm with the Cardinals in 1966 and guided the club as head coach to an aggregate mark of 35-30-5.

Stormy Bidwill indicated that the Cardinals' late letdown in 1970 was behind the decision to fire Winner.

Detroit Boss Steps Down

DETROIT (AP) — Sid Abel, who has been associated with the Detroit Red Wings for nearly all of his 32 years as a National Hockey League player, coach and executive, resigned Wednesday as general manager of the slumping team.

Abel's decision to quit the Wings came in the wake of a dispute between himself and Head Coach Ned Harkness, a freshman NHL coach.

"This decision was made by Sid Abel and by Sid Abel alone," the 52-year-old former Red Wings captain and coach said.

"I cannot accept this hockey club and the way it is run. I cannot accept the coach who is running it."

John Brodie Heads First All-Pro Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran quarterback John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers and linebacker Chuck Howley, a key member of the Doomsday Defense that propelled the Dallas Cowboys into the Super Bowl, were named to The Associated Press All-Pro team Wednesday.

Brodie, who this season won his first passing title in a 14-year career, heads an offensive unit dominated by National Conference stars in the balloting of sports writers and broadcasters that for the first time encompasses every team in pro football.

In previous years separate all-star teams were selected for the American and National football leagues.

Brodie led the offensive balloting with 59 of a possible 78 votes and was joined on the 24-man All-Pro team by two teammates-wide receiver Gene Washington and cornerback Jimmy Johnson.

Howley was the only member of the Cowboys or the Baltimore Colts, who will meet in Miami, Jan. 17 in the Super Bowl for the National Football League championship, to make the All-Pro elite.

In the backfield with Brodie were running backs Larry Brown of Washington and Ron Johnson of the New York Giants while Washington, Dick Gordon of Chicago and tight end Charlie Sanders of Detroit took down the receiving spots.

Rounding out the offensive unit were center Jim Otto of Oakland, guards Gale Gilling-tation than any other team.

The other Chiefs landing berths were outside linebacker Bobby Bell, cornerback James Marsalis and safety Johnny Robinson. Besides the Chiefs, only four other AFC players were named to the team while the NFC took 15 positions.

The 49ers were the NFC leader with three while Chicago, Los Angeles and Minnesota each had two.

Middle linebacker Dick Butkus was the other member of the Bears to make it while defensive tackle Merlin Olsen was the other Rams' representative. The two Vikings named were defensive end Carl Eller and defensive tackle Alan Page, the leading defensive vote-getter, with 52 votes.

Rounding out the defensive unit were Rich Jackson of Denver at end, Larry Wilson of St. Louis at safety and Dave Lewis of Cincinnati as the team's punter.

The closest voting occurred in the battle for two running back spots with Brown, Johnson, Floyd Little of Denver and MacArthur Lane of St. Louis in a tight struggle. Brown received 44 votes, Johnson 37, Little 32 and Lane 29.

Little, however, did grab one of the running back spots on an All-AFC team put together in a breakdown of the voting. An All-NFC team also was selected.

Super Bowl is No Vacation For Baltimore—This Time

MIAMI (AP) — It'll be all work and no play when the Baltimore Colts arrive Thursday for their Super Bowl battle against the Dallas Cowboys.

"This is a business trip," said Coach Don McCafferty, "not a vacation."

The Colts came to Miami two years ago under a different head coach — Don Shula — and were upset 17-6 in the Super Bowl by Joe "I'll guarantee it" Namath and the New York Jets.

"It was like a Barnum and Bailey circus two years ago with the families around," said McCafferty, who became Baltimore's chief when Shula departed for the Miami Dolphins last winter.

"This year, wives and families won't be allowed until just before gametime," he added.

There have been obvious signs of a strained relationship between Shula and some of the Colt people, especially owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

Rosenbloom claimed Shula "never won the big ones" despite a hefty winning percentage at Baltimore.

Shula refused to enter the war of words. He simply took a Miami team that was 3-10-1 in 1968 and converted it into a 10-4 bunch that made the American Conference playoffs, only to lose to Oakland.

The Colts are staying at the out-of-way Miami Lakes Country Club and Inn — an area where Shula lives in a $95,000 home.

Narcotics Found in Ex-Champ's Home—

Autopsy Fails to Show Liston's Death Cause

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An autopsy Wednesday failed to show the cause of the death of Charles "Sonny" Liston, who for 17 months in the 1960s was the heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

His widow, Geraldine, found Liston dead, perhaps as long as 10 days, in the master bedroom of their $60,000 split-level home Tuesday night. She said she flew home from a visit to St. Louis because she had no answer to calls dating back to the day after Christmas.

A pathologist, Dr. James Clark, said after an autopsy that he made no conclusive findings on the cause of death. He called for toxicological and microscopic studies of body fluids and tissues. The coroner's office said results may not be known until Friday or Saturday.

Authorities ruled out any possibility that the powerful 38-year-old Liston was slain. They said he apparently was undressing to go to bed when he fell over backward with such force he broke the rail of a bench. He was wearing shorts and a T-shirt.

Capt. Gene Clark, chief of detectives for the sheriff's department, said that "what may possibly be" a quarter-ounce of heroin was found in a balloon in the kitchen. A half-ounce of what appeared to be marijuana was found in Liston's trousers pocket, Clark said, and a capsule containing a black powder

was found on a dresser. All substances were to be analyzed.

Liston, one of 20 children of a tenant farmer at Forrest City, Ark., won the heavyweight crown Sept. 25, 1962, with a first-round knockout of Floyd Patterson in Chicago. He repeated the feat in a return match with Patterson, then lost the title to Cassius Clay, now Muhammad Ali, Feb. 25, 1964. Claiming injury to his left arm, Liston sat scowling on his stool and refused to come out for the seventh round.

The 6-foot-1, 215-pounder's most recent fight was last June 29 when he knocked out Chuck Wepner in nine rounds in Jersey City, N.J. His record in 52 bouts dating to 1953 was 48 wins, 37 of them by knockouts, and 4 losses.

"I have been in the limelight two ways — good and bad," he once said. The "bad" was a reference to frequent brushes with the law. He admitted being involved in a holdup and other crimes and served prison terms before winning the title.

"Ever since I was born I've been fighting to stay alive," he liked to say.

Liston had lived in recent years in the plush suburb of Paradise Valley, fighting only occasionally. The home, two miles east of the Las Vegas "Strip," has a swimming pool and borders a golf course.

Sheriff's Lt. Bud Gregg said the television set was on in the master bedroom. Liston's socks were under the bed bench and his trousers were thrown over a chair. A finger nail file was on the floor under the body. On the dresser was an unfired pistol in a holster.

Own Way of Returning Punts Wins Award for 49'ers Taylor

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — San Francisco's Bruce Taylor, who has his own way of returning punts, was named Wednesday as the National Football League's defensive rookie of the year by The Associated Press.

Taylor, who joined the 49ers this season from Boston University led the National Conference by returning 43 punts for 516 yards and a 12-yard average.

"I watch the ball as soon as it is kicked and decide where it's going," Taylor said from his vacation retreat Wednesday.

"Then I watch the coverage and try and find a hole. After I decide where I'm going, I concentrate on catching the ball."

Taylor, who plays cornerback, says that despite the honor he still must improve to come up to par with defensive back Jim Johnson.

"He's my model. He's the best in the league."

Taylor, who was credited with keying San Francisco's upset win over Minnesota during the playoffs, was named after receiving 23 votes by a special AP panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

"I thought I had a good chance to be picked for the defensive title, but I tried not to think about it the last few weeks, but a lot of people have been telling me about it."

Taylor said he thought Dallas running back Duane Thomas would be named AP's offensive rookie of the year and was surprised to learn of the selection instead of Buffalo Bill's quarterback Dennis Shaw.

Taylor added that he was very happy with his rookie year and said he wouldn't seek more money on his three-year contract. Its terms have not been disclosed.

The 22-year-old bachelor from Perth Amboy, N. J., spent several days vacationing at Lake Tahoe following the 49ers' loss to Dallas last Sunday for the NFL's National Conference title.

"I thought we could have gone all the way," said Taylor, reflecting on the 49ers' remarkable season. But he attributed his team's loss to the Cowboys "getting the breaks when they counted" and to the Dallas offense which did "one heck of a job."

Jim Files, the New York Giants middle linebacker from Oklahoma, was second with 14 votes in the balloting that encompassed both the National and American conferences. Previously, separate polls were conducted for the National and American football leagues.

Others receiving votes included fellow 49ers teammate Cedric Hardman, as well as backs Ken Ellis of Green Bay, Lemar Parrish of Cincinnati and Jake Scott of Miami, and Jim Mitchell of Detroit and linebacker Bob Babich of San Diego.

Film Programs Scheduled

Two unusual film programs are scheduled this week at The University of Iowa Museum of Art.

The final program in the Museum's first-semester series of experimental films will be presented tonight at 7:30 in the Maytag Auditorium. It will include "Notes on the Circus," by Jonas Mekas, featuring the Ringling Brothers' circus; "Ray Gun Virus," by Paul Sharits, and "Zorns Lemma," by Hollis Frampton.

The charge for admission is 75 cents, except to members of the Museum, who will be admitted free upon presentation of their membership cards.

Films 5 and 6 of the "Civilisation" series, which opened at the Museum on the first two weekends in December, will be shown Saturday and repeated on Sunday at 3 p.m., also in the Maytag Auditorium.

Tickets for both of the "Civilisation" showings are available free of charge at the Museum of Art. Since it is difficult to predict the number of people who will wish to see these films, tickets are required for all of the programs in the "Civilisation" series.

In the "Civilisation" films, will be shown each weekend in January, with the final film in the series scheduled for showing Feb. 6 and 7.

Two of the 52-minute films the noted British art historian Lord Kenneth Clark takes viewers on a film tour tracing the development of Western culture. The series reflects Clark's personal views of civilization from the Dark Ages in Europe to contemporary New York.

Road Conditions Return to Normal As Iowans Dig Out After Blizzard

By The Associated Press

Conditions were slowly returning to normal around Iowa Thursday morning as public employes and private citizens continued clearing out from under this week's snows.

The Iowa Highway patrol said late Wednesday that all state roads were open but a considerable number were still limited to one-way traffic.

Lt. Col. James Machholz of the Highway Patrol predicted that all major roads would be open to two-way traffic by Thursday night "unless we have a high wind or something."

Meanwhile, cities over the state were attempting to finish clearing operations on their streets made necessary by one of the worst snow storms to hit the Hawkeye State in years.

Generally, public transportation was beginning to return to a near normal schedule. United Airlines in Des Moines Tuesday reported a backlog of 1,500 persons wishing to leave the city. Airlines began adding extra flights to provide the transportation. United said it expected operations to be normal Thursday.

Bus service had also returned to near-normal Wednesday, although many scheduled busses were running late.

Classes resumed Wednesday at both University of Iowa and Iowa State University. Classes were to start at University of Northern Iowa Thursday as UNI President Dr. John Kamerick made a plea to faculty and students to form car pools because of limited parking.

Deaths due to the snow storm continued to rise as the count reached at least 28 Wednesday. Two were killed in traffic and two died from carbon monoxide poisoning. The other 24 died of apparent heart attacks after shoveling snow or otherwise over-exerting themselves.

Temperatures Wednesday did not rise to the zero mark in much of north and east Iowa following overnight lows that plunged as far as 24 below at Red Oak. Many communities reported the mercury dropped to 20 below or colder.

The highest temperature in Iowa Wednesday was 10 degrees at Lamoni with the next high seven degrees reported at Ottumwa, Burlington, Grinnell and Council Bluffs.

The temperature was again expected to drop to at least 10 below over the state, getting down to 20 below in many areas of the state Wednesday night.

Outlook for Thursday is for a little warmer weather, from 5 to 15 degrees, under partly cloudy skies.

with an odorless, smokeless gas incinerator!

Your family ... and your neighbors ... will appreciate it! No more burning trash! No more smoke blowing all over the neighborhood! No more smelly, insect and rodent-attracting garbage cans! And — you'll love the convenience of no more tiresome daily trips in bad weather to get rid of trash and refuse.

With a modern, smokeless, odorless Automatic Gas Incinerator, you simply wrap the burnable refuse, drop it into the incinerator, and a clean, blue gas flame reduces the trash to ash.

When buying or building a home, insist on a "Type A" all-fuel flue of sufficient capacity to accommodate an incinerator.

Four Cleared of My Lai Charges

FT. MEADE, Md. — "insufficient evidence," the Army said.

Lt. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman, commanding general of the 1st Army at Ft. Meade, Md., dismissed the charges after reviewing testimony taken last year in a three-month pretrial investigation by the military equivalent of a civilian grand jury.

The four officers — Lt. Col. David C. Gavin, 39; Lt. Col. William D. Guinn, 41; Maj. Charles

Calhoun, 39; and Maj. Frederick W. Watke, 37 — investigated events surrounding the alleged My Lai massacre of more than 102 civilians March 16, 1968.

Three other officers — including Maj. Gen. Samuel Koster, former American Division commander and former West Point superintendent — still face possible court-martial for their handling of the field investigation of the incident.

Seventeen officers and enlisted men were charged with committing crimes during the combat sweep through the South Vietnamese hamlet.

Seven were ordered to trial, three face possible court-martial and three officers were cleared.

The army announcement of the dismissal of charges Wednesday said Seaman acted "after he personally considered the investigating officer's reports and recommendations and the advice of his staff judge advocate."

Poster Show Scheduled For Museum

An exhibition of 20 colorful German and Austrian posters from the first three decades of the 20th century going up this week at The University of Iowa Museum of Art will be shown there through Feb. 28.

A selection of prints and drawings from the university's permanent collection has just been hung at the Museum and will be shown in the Print Gallery through Jan. 31.

Most of the German and Austrian posters are multi-colored lithographs which were drawn by each artist on stone. Though originally intended as advertisements in the form of posters announcing exhibitions of art, chiefly by young artists then thought revolutionary, many of these pieces are now considered valuable works of art in themselves and are collector's items.
