Support education

With too few resources, students' needs are not translated properly. As a consequence of this, they often find themselves being taken advantage of. In an attempt to remedy this situation, students, take advantage of others by their thoughts, feelings, beliefs. This is a matter of students' standards of education. A problem that has received much attention is the inadequacy of educational facilities.

The opportunity does not exist in the form of student activities, but it is in the education system. It is a pity to see students, unable to meet the needs of students for financial need. If you fill out one of these forms, you will be mailed to you in a few months. This hardly needs notice.

But if you don't get a card (and some did not), if you didn't tell me you got a card, and just tell me you got a card, but it still says, "Don't know." If a student feels this way, the student should contact the help desk. So many are mailed to the Student Life office, with no name and no return address.

In the picturesque barley way, - to be ideal, to be ideal, the accent.

Electra Shorts Out

BY PAUL MONTAZZOLI

Daily Iowan

The classical Greek setting of Electra, the latest show in the Daily Iowan’s Classics Onstage series, is on the second floor of the Union where the Student Media Building is located. The actors are all students, and the play was directed by Mallory Pitcher. The show this week is a very long one, lasting about two and a half hours.

The play is set in ancient Greece and follows the story of Electra, daughter of Agamemnon, who is forced to deal with the aftermath of her father’s death. The two main characters in the play are Electra, played by Playwright, and her cousin Orestes, played by Tim Doherty. The play is based on the tragedy by Sophocles, and it is about the theme of revenge and justice.

The setting of the show is very realistic, with the actors dressed in period costumes. The costumes are designed by the Daily Iowan’s costume designer, and they add to the overall ambiance of the show. The set design is also very impressive, with a large Greek temple in the background.

The play is full of action and drama, with many emotional moments and powerful performances from the actors. The play concludes with Electra’s revenge on her mother, Clytemnestra, and the death of Orestes.

Overall, Electra Shorts Out is a very well-produced and well-directed show. The actors deliver strong performances, and the set design and costumes add to the overall quality of the production. The play is not for everyone, as it is a tragedy with some dark themes, but it is definitely worth watching for anyone interested in classical Greek drama.

Everyone said we'll hold out for Rich Reese. He's a hard guy to bargain with. He's got a reputation for being a hard bargainer to deal with on the field.

But Reese, the chief advantages of the entertainment business are the

On Friday, the floor was turned over to the gymnasts, and the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, Ill., turned over to Iowa the University of Nebraska's floor. This was the first time that the University of Nebraska had turned the floor over to another school.

Ray Sees $11 Million Deficit-
Governor's Fiscal Plan Hit

DENS MESSER - Gov. Robert D. Ray used his first State of the State speech last December to warn that he was facing a "grim financial situation." The legislature responded by passing a $11 million budget deficit, but Ray was still worried enough to propose a $20 million emergency fund that would be available to "attack the roots of our problem of low per capita income." A year later, Ray is still worried, but he is hoping for a major break this year.

Ray's 1974-75 budget proposal of $5.8 billion, $225 million more than last year, is a far cry from the $20 million emergency fund he talked about last year.
Ray's budget largely derailed budget talks last year and led Ray to recommend a balanced budget this year.

Ray's budget, however, contains some provisions that the legislature has ignored in the past. The budget includes $688.9 million in increased spending for the University of Iowa, $225.5 million for the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, and $1.3 million for the Iowa State University Foundation.

Ray is also proposing a $5 million increase in state aid to cities, which would bring the state aid total to $30 million. This would be the first time in years that the state has increased aid to cities.

However, Ray's proposals are not without opposition.
The Special Joint Committee on Taxation, which has studied the state's tax system, is expected to release its report later this year. The committee has been studying the tax system for the past two years and is expected to make recommendations for changes in the tax system.

Ray's proposals also face opposition from the legislature. The legislature is expected to consider the budget in the coming months and is likely to make changes to Ray's proposals.

Ray's budget, however, is not without its advocates.
The Iowa State Teachers Association, for example, is expected to support Ray's proposals, as they are expected to benefit Iowa's schools.

Ray's budget is expected to be a major issue in the electoral season, as both major parties will be campaigning on the issue.

Israel Gives U.S. Its Reply to Egypt's Peace Proposal

President Nasser, Cairo, Wednesday. "The Egyptian government will consider the proffered request for further discussions by the United States on the peace proposal with a view of yielding an answer within the next few days," the Egyptian Embassy in Washington said

A reply will be received in Cairo today by the Secretary of State, who met Dr. Nasser at the White House today for the second day of their conference.

ECONOMY RISING, BUT SO ARE PRICES

WASHINGTON -- The nation's economy is rising, but accompanied by rapid rises in prices, the government reports in its weekly report. The new report, "The Economy Continues to Expand," released today, found that the nation's economy is growing rapidly, with industrial production up 2.4 percent from last year, and retail sales up 3.2 percent. The government also noted that the prices of goods and services are rising rapidly, with the consumer price index up 4.5 percent from last year.
