Manson Verdict: Gas Chamber; Calley Found Guilty of Atrocity

My Lai Officer Faces Death

Four to Die for Tate Slayings

Lt. William Calley Jr.

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Lt. William Calley was convicted Monday of the premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai three years ago. He is the first American veteran of Vietnam to be held responsible in the My Lai massacre.

Calley stood ramrod straight as the verdict was read, then snapped a salute to the jury foreman. He was flanked by his military and civilian lawyers.

A half-hour after the verdict was announced, military police escorted him to the post stockade. "Take my word for it, the boy's crushed," his civilian attorney, George Latimer said, as they left the courtroom.

He was placed in quarters separate from those of enlisted men, and will be returned to the courtroom at 9 a.m. Tuesday when the sentencing phase of the court-martial begins.

Calley was convicted of killing one person at a trail intersection, 20 at a ditch where he admitted firing six or eight bullets, of the death of a man in white and of assault on a child believed to be about 2 years old.

He had been charged with the deaths of 102 Vietnamese men, women and children.

Calley was notified that a verdict was ready by an Army officer who went to his bachelor apartment on the post. "They're finally ready," he said. He was tense when he arrived at the courtroom, but smiled at newspapermen.

To convict Calley, the jury needed only the concurrence of four of the six members of the panel.

But in the sentencing phase, it will require the vote of all six members for the death sentence. And the agreement of five members is needed for a life sentence.

The jury now must decide whether to sentence Calley to life imprisonment or death. Whatever the sentence, an appeal is automatic within the military court system, and could consume months.

The conviction on the maximum charge came on the 13th day of jury deliberations following a record four-month trial.

Two enlisted men had been acquitted of lesser offenses at My Lai. But Calley was the first officer to be court-martialed in the delayed aftermath of the March 16, 1968, search and destroy mission against the little Vietnam village.

The infantry assault against My Lai was spearheaded by Calley's 1st Platoon, a unit of Charlie company within the Americal Division. It failed to flush out the Viet Cong and the operation disintegrated into an execution of civilian villagers.

The defense said Calley was the victim of buck-passing by Army superiors and Latimer told the jury: "Who becomes the pigeon — the lowest officer on the totem pole in this whole business."

But the government insisted: "He was running the show, gentlemen, on his own initiative and at his own direction."

"I hope My Lai isn't a tragedy but an eye-opener, even for people who say war is hell," said Lt. William Calley, who was convicted Monday of the premeditated murder of 22 unresisting Vietnamese civilians.

Calley, 27, was white-faced and visibly shaken after the verdict in his court-martial, unprecedented in Army history. No other American had ever before stood accused of murdering more than 100 persons.

"My Lai has happened in every war. It's not an isolated incident, even in Vietnam," he told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview to be released after the verdict.

Calley, who was a fledgling second lieutenant when he led his platoon on a devastating infantry assault on the tiny hamlet of My Lai March 16, 1968, said in the interview:

"The thing that makes My Lai so unique, it was a small tragedy in a small place, but for once, man was able to see all the hells of war all at once."

"I can't say I am proud of ever being in My Lai, or ever participating in war. But I will be extremely proud if My Lai shows the world what war is and that the world needs to do something about stopping wars."

Charles Manson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury — ignoring defense pleas for a "gift of life" — decreed death in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber Monday for Charles Manson and three women followers convicted of the seven savage Sharon Tate murders.

None of the defendants faced the jurors during the action. All were thrown out for shouting derogatory comments. Manson was first ordered out before any verdicts were read. He muttered: "I don't see how you can get by with this. You don't have no authority over me. You're not nearly as good as me. This is not the people's courtroom."

The judge first ordered him to be quiet, then ordered him out. The three women, their formerly long hair cropped close to their heads, sat silent until the first verdict of death was pronounced for Manson. Then Patricia Krenwinkel, 23, spoke to jurors: "You've all just judged yourselves."

Then Susan Atkins, 22, shouted angrily, "It's gonna come down hard. Lock your doors, protect your kids."

When the judge ordered her out, she wrenched from a bailiff and shouted at the judge, "Remove yourself from the face of the earth. You're all fools."

She was led out followed by Krenwinkel, who muttered, "The whole system is a game."

Last to go was Leslie Van Houten who also muttered: "You've all just judged yourselves."

The same seven men and five women who convicted the four of first-degree murder and conspiracy last Jan. 25 chose the death penalty over the only alternative, life imprisonment with the possibility of parole after seven years.

The state had demanded death, terming the defendants "human monsters."

As the first of the women's death sentences were read, two women jurors appeared to be blinking back tears. When each was polled as to whether the verdicts were theirs, all clearly announced, "Yes."

The judge, thanking jurors profusely and shaking the hand of each, said if it were possible to give out medals of honor he would bestow one on each for what he called "a trying ordeal."

The jury's decision followed 10 hours of deliberations over two days, after an eight-week penalty trial. By contrast, deliberations for the convictions, which followed a seven-month trial, took 42 hours and 40 minutes over 11 days.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older set April 19 for formal sentencing and post-trial motions.

A trial judge has the power to reduce a death penalty to life imprisonment, but cannot do the reverse.

Slain Aug. 9, 1969, was Tate, 26, pregnant blonde wife of movie director Roman Polanski, were four visitors to her mansion; Jay Sebring, 26, Hollywood hair stylist; Abigail Folger, 26, coffee heiress; Wojciech Frykowski, 37, Polish playboy and fiancé of Miss Folger, and Stephen Parent, 18, a friend of the caretaker. Slain a night later at their home were Mr. and Ms. Leon LaBianca, wealthy market owners.

The defense put on no case at the guilt phase of the trial. Highlight of the penalty phase was a parade of confessions from the women — each said they killed — over the objections of their attorneys.

The state said Manson conceived the killings and ordered his "robot" followers to do them. The women said the killings were their idea, what they called "copycat" slayings to divert suspicion from a family member arrested in the murder of a Malibu physician. They said they painted "pig" on walls, as in the Malibu murder, to make police think the killer still was at large.

The chief prosecutor, Vincent Bugliosi, had this comment:

"In view of the nightmarish murders, the death penalty was unquestionably the right verdict."

Manson on March 23 was quoted as telling a bailiff "If I get the death penalty there will be nothing but murder and bloodshed afterward because I am not going to take it." Jurors were locked up nightly thereafter as a security measure.

N. Viets Hit U.S. Base; 33 GIs Killed in Raid

SAIGON (AP) — Insurgent gunners leveled a barrage Monday at a U.S. artillery base still reeling from a sapper attack that killed at least 33 Americans and wounded 76 in what may have been the heaviest death toll on a U.S. installation in the war.

The casualties were expected to go still higher from Sunday's attack on Fire Base Mary Ann on the basis of still incomplete reports from the U.S. Command.

Communications with the base were spotty more than 24 hours after the enemy attack, apparently because of damage to the command bunker.

The artillery base, located in the jungle 50 miles south of Da Nang, and manned by a battalion from the Americal Division, has reportedly been reinforced, however, and no additional casualties were reported from the mortar attack Monday morning.

The insurgents also shelled a Vietnamese resettlement village about 25 miles north of Fire Base Mary Ann and followed up with a sapper attack Monday, killing 13 civilians and wounding 21. One hundred houses were destroyed.

Sappers are specially trained infiltrators who are experts with demolitions.

North Vietnamese gunners also shelled Chu Lai, coastal headquarters of the Americal Division, and hit the Da Nang air base 50 miles on the north.

Field reports said several aircraft were damaged and some Americans wounded at Da Nang. No damage or casualties were reported at Chu Lai.

Associated Press correspondent J. T. Wolkert reported from Quang Tri, that a U.S.-supported Thieu regime raid on a major North Vietnamese headquarters on the Ho Chi Minh trail inside Laos was canceled at the last minute because of heavy anti-aircraft fire and fog.

The target area was about 30 miles south of the sector which was the focal point of the recently completed Thieu regime thrust into Laos.

The strike was approved by President Nixon and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam. It was called off when intensive B-52 air strikes and smaller tactical fighter-bombers failed to silence North Vietnamese anti-aircraft fire. Fog mixed with the dust created by the bombs hampered visibility.

Field officers conceded that the Americal artillery base below Da Nang was taken by surprise by the North Vietnamese attack Sunday, although the perimeter had been patrolled prior to the attack which began about 3:30 a.m. with a 50-to-60-round mortar barrage.

The attacking sapper unit, the size of which was not known, moved in under cover of the barrage, taking advantage of a moonless night. Twelve North Vietnamese dead were found later.

The upsurge in insurgent activity in the southern 1st military region was attributed by U.S. Command officers to a period of moonless nights which makes night attacks easier.

Washington Gets State Legislators' End-War Petition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and Congress received Monday an end-the-war petition endorsed by 711 state legislators from 35 states, the outgrowth of a home-grown campaign by Wisconsin State Rep. Midge Miller and two staff aides.

"Think what we could have done if we had really tried," said Mrs. Miller. "It's like the old saw about an eight-day clock. If it runs this fast without winding how fast would it run if you wound it?"

Miller said she and the roughly 15 other state legislators who showed up to present the petition in person had agreed to organize a new petition drive aiming at a pullout by Dec. 31, the deadline endorsed by the Democratic Party policy council.

She said the petition, which carried the names of more than 40 Iowa lawmakers, was received at the White House by John Holdridge, an aide to Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, who she said responded with "cold-war arguments." Kissinger is an adviser to the President on foreign policy and national security.

State Rep. John Burton of California said Senate Democratic Whip Robert Byrd of West Virginia, a long-time hawk, had given him a "cordial but non-committal" reception when he presented the petition there.

Supreme Court to Rule On Segregated Clubs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to examine one of the last bastions of racial segregation: the private social club.

Granted a hearing was a Moose lodge in Harrisburg, Pa., whose policy against black members and black guests was declared unconstitutional in November by a federal district court.

The key legal issue is whether clubs that hold state liquor licenses, as the Harrisburg lodge does, can exclude blacks or other minority-group members.

The district court held that since the Constitution forbids racial discrimination the State of Pennsylvania cannot issue a license to a club that bars blacks.

Should the Supreme Court agree with the district court racially restrictive, social clubs across the land would either have to change their policy or stop selling drinks.

Attorneys for the Moose lodge said in their appeal that without a liquor license most social clubs would founder.

The lodge's racial policy was challenged after K. Leroy Irvins, a black who is majority leader of the Pennsylvania House, was invited by a white member for dinner and drinks. The club is near the state capitol.

Irvins, a Pittsburgh Democrat, was refused service. He then sued the club, leading to the decision by the district court that the lodge cannot keep both its state liquor license and its racial policy.

The constitution that governs all Moose lodges provides that membership "be composed of male persons of the Caucasian or white races above the age of twenty-one years, and not married to someone other than the Caucasian or white race...."

In agreeing to hear the case sometime next term, the court explicitly left open the question whether it will decide the issue.

Meanwhile, by a vote of 5 to 4, the justice authorized the states to bar illegitimate from inheritances.

The decision went against a 9-year-old girl in Calcasieu Parish, La., whose father left a $15,000 estate that will go to other relatives. He had acknowledged being the child's father but did not adopt her or leave a will.

Federal Grant For Bus System OK'd for Iowa City

Twelve new 45-passenger, air-conditioned buses should be helping students and other Iowa City residents get around town by the fall of 1971, according to City Manager Frank Smiley.

A $300,000 grant approved by the federal government Monday will pay half the cost of the buses, as well as half the cost of necessary garage and maintenance facilities.

The actual date that service will begin will depend on when the buses are delivered by the manufacturers, said Smiley. He said that he hopes delivery could be made during the summer so that the city would have time to smooth out operation of the bus service before students return to campus for the fall semester.

After an area transportation study is completed, the city should also receive another $100,000 grant from the Department of Transportation to help pay for equipment, Smiley said. The city will furnish operating funds, and the University of Iowa and University Heights have also agreed to help pay for the system.

You are what you eat: Vitamins A and B

EDITOR'S NOTE: Most Americans live — and die — in surprising ignorance of their bodies. Most of us are familiar with the axiom "an apple a day keeps the doctor away" but beyond that, we rely completely on the medical industry and Supermarket USA to keep our bodies functioning.

Several weeks ago we published an article by Julie Parsons and the Action Studies Food course on protein. Today and tomorrow, we will run articles on vitamins compiled by Barbara Sundance, with heavy reliance on Adelle Davis' book "Eat Right to Keep Fit."

Vitamins are small quantities of chemical substances vital to life. They have been isolated and analyzed in recent years and their properties are beginning to be understood.

VITAMIN A

There is little serious Vitamin A deficiency in the U.S., but fairly widespread mild deficiency. The first visible signs of A deficiency are dry skin and eruptions of the hair follicles. In children, A deficiency results in retarded growth, susceptibility to infections, and poor development of teeth and bones. Life span is also shortened.

In adults, mild A deficiency results in glare blindness and subnormal vision in dim light. The majority of people who need to wear dark glasses eat too little vitamin A. Although eye symptoms may be the first to be noticed in a mild deficiency, even earlier changes take place in the skin. Cells in the lower layers of the skin die and slough off. They plug the oil sacs and pores, preventing oil from reaching the surface. This results in whiteheads, blackheads, and pimples. The skin becomes dry and rough. The pores plugged with dead cells cause the skin to have the appearance of goose pimples. The roughness usually occurs first on the elbows, knees, buttocks, and back of the upper arm. Also hair may become dry and dull with dandruff, and the nails may become weak.

The amount of A needed varies in proportion to body weight. Adults require more than do children. Aged persons often utilize their food less well and so need more of most vitamins than do younger persons. Based on scientific research, Dr. H. Sherman at Columbia University recommends 20,000 units of vitamin A daily, as a guide.

The vitamin A content of food varies widely and is readily destroyed by chemical fertilizers and food preservatives. The A in milk is in the cream; in the egg, it is in the yolk. The yellow vegetables are a source of A. Parsley also is a rich vegetable source, as are dandelion leaves, chard, chirocy, turnip greens, spinach, watercress, kale, sweet potatoes and carrots. As for fruits, the richest sources of vitamin A are in apricots.

FATS AND VITAMIN A

Fats are necessary for the absorption of carotene in order to convert it to A. Fat also prevents the A reserves in the liver from too rapid depletion and waste. Lard and vegetable oils, and fats that contain no A serve equally well for this purpose. It is practical to take an A supplement such as fish liver oil immediately after a meal containing a large amount of fat. Mineral oil, however, retards and, in large doses, completely stops the absorption of A, even if used externally.

Margarine has no A unless it is added. Some of the A in butter is lost when it is cooked and is entirely lost in frying. Vitamin A in fats is lost if the fats become rancid or are heated in the presence of air. About 90 per cent of the A in an animal is in the liver. The richest source of A are the fish liver oils, especially halibut, cod, and turbot.

THE VITAMIN B COMPLEX

Vitamin B is not only the most difficult of the vitamins to describe and understand, but also the most difficult to obtain in abundant quantities. The 15 or more B vitamins are so meagerly supplied in our American diet that almost every person lacks them.

The B vitamins work together, synergistically. The taking of one or more B vitamins increases the need for the others not supplied. However, a deficiency of one, often predominates over others.

There are only four good sources of the complete spectrum of B vitamins: liver, brewers' yeast, wheat germ, and rice polish.

(The polish is removed in processing white rice, and the germ in processing white flour and "enriched" white breads.) Yogurt provides the growth of desirable intestinal bacteria which produce large amounts of B vitamins. Most of the other vitamins are needed more by certain tissues than by others, but the B vitamins are needed equally by all cells, so a deficiency can produce severe damage before the condition can be noticed. Instead of one organ showing abnormalities, as do the eyes during a vitamin A deficiency, the entire body degenerates.

Three of the B vitamins are known as the antistress vitamins. These appear to be unnecessary under the normal conditions, or needed in such small amounts that they can be made in the body. Under conditions of stress, produced by drugs, infections, surgery, noise, excessive fatigue, psychological upsets, etc., the need for them increases. Liver is the richest source of these anti-stress vitamins.

The other B vitamins are Biotin, PABA, folic acid, pantothenic acid, inositol, cholin, B 12, pyridoxin (B6), niacin (B3), riboflavin (B2) and thiamin (B1).

Biotin is a B vitamin whose deficiency is not often recognized. Animals lacking biotin develop eczema, or dermatitis; their hair falls out and they are susceptible to heart abnormalities, lung infections and cancers. Growth is extremely stunted in young animals; adults become emaciated. The first symptoms noticed in humans is mental muscular pain, nausea, and heart distress.

PABA deficiency results in extreme fatigue, anemia, and eczema and is needed by people who sunburn easily.

Vitamin B 12 is found in animal foods such as milk, eggs, liver, and cheese and in food yeast. A prolonged deficiency results in sore mouth and tongue, nervousness, neuritis, menstrual disturbances, unpleasant body odor, back stiffness and pain, difficulty in walking, and a shuffling gait. In time the spinal cord degenerates until almost irreversible paralysis results. This occurs mostly among vegetarians, but can be prevented by a weekly dose of a 50 microgram tablet of vitamin B12.

Folic acid is necessary for the division of all body cells and for the production of the substances which carry our hereditary patterns, RNA and DNA. Without it no growth can take place, not even of a hair, sperm or fingernail, and no healing can occur. Too little folic acid results in anemia, fatigue, paleness, dizziness, mental depression and shortness of breath.

Oral contraceptives greatly increase the need for folic acid. Both folic acid and biotin are necessary before still another B vitamin, pantothenic acid, can be utilized. Deficiency of this vitamin results in fatigue, headaches, dizziness, weakness, rapid heartbeat, muscle cramps, and continuous colds and upper respiratory infections. One becomes easily upset, discontented, irritable, depressed and quarrelsome.

A lack of pantothenic acid appears to be a principal cause of allergies, now being produced in 60 per cent of all bottle-fed babies. Breast milk is rich in this vitamin but the pantothenic acid in cows' milk is largely lost in pasteurization. Overweight persons, fasting without pantothenic acid have been known to produce both arthritis and gout in themselves. Proper function of adrenals is dependent on pantothenic acid.

Vitamin B6

Deficiency of pyridoxin (B6) results in headaches, severe halitosis, irritability, dizziness, extreme nervousness, lethargy, inability to concentrate, diarrhea, hemorrhoids, anemia, nausea, vomiting, dandruff, sore lips, mouth and tongue, dermatitis, insomnia and mental depression. Slight deficiencies result in only one or two of these symptoms. The need for B6 increases tremendously during pregnancy and when using oral contraceptives. B6 also appears to be particularly effective in preventing tooth decay, and when taken with magnesium it stops kidney-stone formation.

Deficiency of B3, niacin, results in psychological changes, creating emotional instability, moodiness and forgetfulness. Severe deficiencies result in pellagra, and these symptoms can gradually give way to disorientation and delusions.

Liver is the richest natural source of vitamin B2, riboflavin. It is also found in yeast and leafy vegetables but can be absorbed only after being cooked; it is not available from salads. A shortage of vitamin B2 may be the most widespread deficiency in America.

Symptoms of deficiency of vitamin B2 are magenta or purplish tongue, tiny wrinkles in the lower lip, later disappearing with the lip becoming crinkled and rough. With acute deficiency, corners of the mouth split or crack. Another symptom of B2 deficiency is sensitivity to light — the eyes and facial skin becoming bloodshot.

The richest sources of vitamin B1, thiamine, are wheat germ and rice polish, all cereal grains, nuts, dry beans, peas, soybeans, lentils and unrefined foods prepared from seeds such as peanut butter, breads, cereals. Animal hearts and kidneys are high in B1. It is dangerous to take B1 alone in a synthesized form for it may produce severe deficiencies of other B vitamins. Remember the B vitamins are synergistic; they must work together.

Deficiency of B1 results in irritability, quarrelsomeness, non-cooperativeness, inefficiency, forgetfulness, mental sluggishness and depression. Increasing your intake of vitamin B1 may relieve fatigue dramatically.

Life or death

Well, the United States military establishment has finished the washing-of-hands known as the Trial of Lt. William Calley. . . .

The military jury has decided that Calley was responsible for the massacre at My Lai, and now they'll probably stick him in jail for life or kill him. They're going to show the Third World that the boys in olive drab don't go around ripping off gooks and getting away with it. . . .

It this bothers you, try to remember that weapons are neutral. Just because you give a man an M-16, a machine gun crew, fragmentation grenades and phosphorus grenades, artillery support and napalm bombs, B-52s and bazookas, recoilless rifles and claymore mines; just because you give him a little hardware and a couple years of brainwashing and an intelligence report that tells him a village is full of the "enemy"; well, that doesn't give some nut the right to actually go in there and kill a bunch of people without a little discrimination. To do that would be irresponsible, criminal. . . .

It's a little different, of course, if the people in the village resist; hell, a sharpened stick can poke holes in you, and who knows whether that little kid might not be carrying a grenade under those rags. . . . but a little discrimination, for Christ's sake. . . . a two-year-old-possible-grenade-bearer, yes; a baby too young to lift a grenade, no. . . .

Well, there was never much doubt that Calley had to go. And given the type of personality that would supervise such a massacre, he probably should be removed from the society, at least until he is resocialized for the protection of the society. But by the same logic, the people who arranged the massacre, who made the massacre inevitable with or without one man named Calley, should also be removed from the society for the protection of the society. Men named Westmoreland, and Abrams, and. . . well, we can hardly go around convicting the leading lights, can we? World Public Opinion might think we've sent a bunch of criminals to Southeast Asia. . . .

But the thought keeps nagging. . . . the responsibility can't be shifted as easily as the military would like. . . . the military was on trial; Calley was convicted.

Letters: warnings from women

To the Editor:

A warning to men on liberated women:

Beware that any of your ever true and loving friends (women) who have been associating with those "revolting" women of women's liberation may upon an attempt of a male to open a door, light a cigarette or do any such "gentlemanly" action — ignore, rebuff, renounce, kick or slug such one as tries these.

Such an action on the part of the woman should, however, be taken with all due thought to two points: 1) she has been "protected" and "cared for" around 20 years and is consequently sick of it; 2) that any male may find himself although somewhat bruised of body or ego, nonetheless, a freer and ultimately more human individual for having acted and been acted upon.

Many overt hostilities may also erupt as looks, words or silences which may indicate an extreme determination not to be put or kept in any "female" role. These can also be understood as a part of the growth pattern and are guaranteed not to last for life, except in cases where a male insists on perpetuating his sociologically chauvinistic training for domination.

To the Editor:

Att: Advertising Manager

I have seen some sexist advertisements that make me sick but the Sportsman's Lounge ad for Go-Go-Girl Amateur Night in the Tuesday, March 23rd, DI was too much. The ad didn't show a woman in some state of nudity but the content was nonetheless sexist. The ad announced to men a time in the future when they could "have a good time" if they were interested in bathing-suits, dancing women (sexual stimulation) and was an appeal to women to fulfill their needs for male approval or survival (money) or both.

I can hear someone asking, "What's wrong with male approval?" "Men seek female approval." True, but men have other options for fulfillment such as job achievement, intellectual achievement, and the comfort of knowing that in reality they have economic and physical power over women, children and animals in this society. Whereas, women are told that they can achieve (or be wives and mothers) but not too much or they'll be looked upon as aggressive women (unfeminine) and are thus left with trying to gain acceptance by achieving the American image of beauty and "sexuality" and to survive, earn money in any way that they can.

I don't believe that stopping sexist ads alone will change the place of women in this society but, as it is, they reinforce women's exploitation and oppression, probably even encourage it, and it's time these ads were recognized for what they are and come down on — as well as the people that write them.

wage boosts generally to an average of about 6 per cent a year.

He reported: "Contractors and labor leaders have indicated their willingness to cooperate with the government in fair measures to achieve greater wage and price stability."

In a companion move, Nixon reinstated the Davis-Bacon Act which he had suspended Feb. 23. It calls for payment of union-scale wages on federal government building projects.

Nixon said success of the wage-price system will rest largely "on the mutual understanding of labor and management in an industry whose future is now being undermined by its own excesses."

Former Governor Gets Prison Term

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — William Wallace Barron, West Virginia's 1961-65 Democratic governor, was sentenced to federal prison Monday just minutes after he pleaded guilty to bribing the foreman of the federal court jury which acquitted him in a 1968 bribery-conspiracy trial.

Barron, 59, was sentenced to 25 years, the maximum under the three counts of conspiracy, bribery and obstruction of justice to which he pleaded guilty.

Nixon signed an executive order at the Western White House setting up the complex mechanism. It includes craft-by-craft boards in the construction industry to determine whether future negotiated wage agreements fall under a set of criteria that aims to restore a pattern of wage increases that existed during the years 1961-1968.

That level, Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said, is somewhere around 6 per cent a year, compared to the construction industry's 1970 average wage increases of better than 18 per cent for a single year and an average in the first three months in 1971 of 16.5 per cent.

A 12-member review committee will look over all construction industry collective bargaining agreements negotiated henceforth. They will determine whether the wage sections fall within the criteria that will be worked out by the craft union-management boards.

Racial Clash

Fifteen students were arrested Monday in a racial clash at Hillsborough High School in Tampa, Florida, after police were called to break up a lunch room melee. Some pupils were bruised in the encounters but school officials said no one was seriously injured. Trouble had been brewing since last Wednesday when an all-white student council was elected.

Tito, Pope Paul In Historic Talk

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul VI and President Tito of Yugoslavia talked for more than an hour Monday about peace in the world and liberty for the Roman Catholic Church in Communist society.

Tito's call at the Vatican was the first official one any Communist head of state ever paid on the supreme ruler of the world's 600 million Catholics. For the first time the flag of communism flew on a Vatican motorcade — the one that carried Tito from his Rome hotel to the Pope's palace — and on the buildings of the Holy See itself.

The historic private audience closed a five-day fence-mending visit to Italy by the 78-year-old Yugoslav leader. He hailed the growing friendship between Yugoslavia and Italy in official talks last week and called for collaboration in seeking a middle east peace. On Saturday Tito met Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad in Pisa for an up-to-the minute undown of Cairo's latest policies toward Israel.

Peace prospects in the Middle East and Indochina played a leading part in the private, 75-minute discussion which the Pope and Tito held, with interpreters, in the Pontiff's library.

The Pope, in a speech afterward, praised Tito for seeking "peace and international collaboration." During the private meeting, a Vatican communiqué said, the Pope called for "a negotiated and fair solution of the conflicts in the Middle East and Indochina, which, would give tranquility to those populations."

Tito, using stronger language than the Pope, took an apparent slap at Israel by saying a Middle East settlement should eliminate "the consequences of the war of aggression of 1967." He said he was troubled by the "latest developments" in Southeast Asia and Africa. In these areas, he said, "entire nations are exposed to great suffering and deprived of elementary rights by the brutal use of force."

Jordanians, Guerrillas Clash; Egypt Presses for Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jordanian troops clashed with Palestinian guerrillas for the fourth consecutive day Monday but King Hussein's government claimed it had restored order and that the guerrillas had ceased to be a military problem.

Jordan's Prime Minister Wafsi Tell told Parliament the army could wipe out the guerrillas everywhere in Jordan within a matter of hours but said the government intended no such thing. At the same time, Egypt mounted a diplomatic offensive in Paris in an effort to pressure Israel to agree to a peace settlement. Guerrilla spokesman in Cairo and Damascus, Syria, claimed government troops were continuing an artillery attack on Ir-bid and Amman, the capital. Casualties have risen to 100 killed and 400 wounded in the past three days.

Pakistani Rebels Continue Struggle

NEW DELHI (AP)—Sheik Mujibur Rahman's rebel force appeared Monday to be keeping up its struggle to make East Pakistan an independent nation, despite the massive show of strength by the armed forces of West Pakistan.

Official Indian sources said the 51-year-old sheik who heads the now-outlawed Awami League is free, according to information received by the New Delhi government.

West Pakistani authorities have been claiming that the sheik was taken into army custody following his unilateral proclamation of independence.

The Pakistan government radio station in the Western province of Baluchistan said the sheik was free.

While official informants did not disclose the source of their information, it was presumed that Indian military units based near the border with East Pakistan were able to monitor military radios and flights of airplanes.

The Indian sources said the Pakistani paratroopers appeared to be trying to wipe out five clandestine transmitters broadcasting messages on behalf of Sheik Mujib.

There have been no independent reports from East Pakistani government and there is an imposition of stiff press censorship in the rest of the country.

Official sources in the Indian border town of Agartala, capital of Tripura State, said the sound of tanks, mortars and machine guns could be heard in the Sonamura area of East Pakistan, just three miles across the border.

The border areas had been relatively free of fighting and the report could indicate the Pakistani army either was attempting to seal the border or had gained sufficient control of the interior to turn their attention to the more remote areas.

Ford Motor Announces Pinto Recall

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. announced Monday it is recalling its entire production run of 1971 subcompact Pintos to correct a malfunction blamed for causing 90 to 100 engine compartment fires.

Ford announced it was recalling for modification 204,000 Pintos in the United States of which about 165,000 have been sold, the rest still in the dealers' hands. Also 13,000 Canadian Pintos and 2,100 shipped overseas are being called in for repair.

These figures include all Pintos built between the start of production last summer and March 13.

A Ford spokesman said the defect can allow gasoline vapors to collect in the air cleaner while the car is parked.

No injuries were reported as a result of the explosions and fires, although a spokesman said there were several cases of extensive damage to the cars.

Brown Picked 6th; Carr is No. 1

NEW YORK (AP)—Iowa's All-American guard Fred Brown was a first round draft choice of the Seattle SuperSonics in Monday's National Basketball Association draft of college players. He was the sixth player picked.

Brown, a former standout at Milwaukee's Lincoln High School and at Burlington Junior College, led the Hawkeyes in scoring last season and was chosen the team's most valuable player. He has been named to the all-Big 10 squad and to numerous All-America teams.

The 6-3 guard was in Madison, Wis. Monday visiting former teammate and close friend Clarence Sherrod and was unavailable for comment on his selection.

Austin Carr, Notre Dame's All-American guard, was the surprise first pick, by the Cleveland Cavaliers. But Buffalo and Chicago dropped the big bombshells by selecting Spencer Haywood and Howard Porter.

Buffalo waited until its third choice in the second round before gambling with the controversial Haywood, who only last Friday had been awarded to the Seattle SuperSonics by the NBA in an out-of-court settlement. Commissioner Walter Kennedy, conducting the draft via a telephone hookup with the 17 league cities, immediately warned the Braves that Haywood was not eligible to be picked.

Buffalo replied that it would stand by the choice, apparently gambling that the 6-foot-8 star forward who had jumped the rival American Basketball Association to Seattle, might in some way become available in the future.

Only two picks later, on the 32nd selection, Chicago pulled another shocker by choosing Villanova's Porter, whose signing by Pittsburgh of the ABA had been announced only hours earlier.

Cleveland turned away from the big man in selecting the 6-foot-3 Carr, who averaged more than 30 points during his fabulous career with the Fighting Irish.

Sidney Wicks, the 6-8 All-American who led UCLA to its fifth consecutive NCAA title last weekend, had been expected to be the No. 1 selection.

But when the Cavaliers passed him by, Portland immediately grabbed him as the No. 2 pick.

Buffalo, picking third, selected 7-0 Elmore Smith of NAIA champion Kentucky State and Cincinnati followed with a minor gamble by choosing 6-7 Ken Durrett of La Salle, rumored to be already promised to the ABA.

Jim McDaniels, Western Kentucky's 7-foot All-American center who certainly would have been one of the top selections, was not chosen until the second round when Seattle made him the 23rd pick. McDaniels reportedly already has signed with Carolina of the ABA which held the first three rounds of its draft last January, getting a two-month head start on the NBA.

Two other UCLA starters were selected in the first 19 picks, as Detroit, No. 11, took forward Curtis Rowe and Cleveland opened the second round by nabbing 6-9 center Steve Patterson, the hero of the Bruins' title victory over Villanova when he scored a college career high 29 points.

McDaniels also was joined by two other teammates from Western Kentucky's third-place NCAA finishers when Boston, picking 10th, grabbed Clarence Glover and then selected Jim Rose as its pick in the second round.

Dean Meminger of Marquette was the other All-American selected in the first round. New York made him the 16th choice.

The rest of the first round selections were George Trapp, Long Beach State, by Atlanta; Brown, Iowa, by Seattle; Cliff Meely, Colorado, by San Diego; Darnell Hillman, San Jose State, by San Francisco; Stan Love, Oregon, by Baltimore; Dana Lewis, Tulsa, by Philadelphia; Jim Clemons, Ohio State, by Los Angeles; John Roche, South Carolina, by Phoenix; Kennedy McIntosh, Eastern Michigan, by Chicago; and C-llis Jones, Notre Dame, by Milwaukee.

NBA clubs picked 168 players in 10 rounds in Monday's draft, which lasted 1 hour and 50 minutes. If any team wishes to make an additional pick, it must do so by telegram before midnight Tuesday.

ON CAMPUS

WITH MAX SHULMAN

(By the author of Rally Round the Flag, Dogs... Duke Gillis... etc.)

Tenure; or Old Teachers Never Die

Today let us discuss tenure, an academic custom which stipulates that if a college doesn't fire a teacher fast enough, they are stuck with him forever.

The rules of tenure vary from campus to campus, but in general, a teacher gets tenure when he reaches the rank of associate professor or, failing that, when he completes eight years on the faculty. Thereafter, he cannot be fired except for two rigidly defined causes: a) if he is habitually nude during lectures; or b) if the college can prove he has been dead for more than one semester.

Small wonder, then, that colleges are so careful about granting tenure. Who wants to be saddled with a dull teacher for the rest of his lumpy life? For—let us speak frankly—even among a group as glittering as teachers, you will find an occasional deadhead. Take, for example, Ralph J. Stagnant.

Mr. Stagnant was not only dull, he was stupefying. Believe me, I would never say such a mean thing, true though it is, if he were a sensitive man, but he is not. In fact, if you want an example of how insensitive he is, he wrote his entire Ph. D. thesis on a chair that had a nail sticking through the seat.

And if you want further evidence of his dullness, the thesis was called "The Dynamics of Luggage."

But even so, the academic job market was booming at the time Mr. Stagnant got his doctorate, and he soon found employment. What's more, by blending with the ivy and always walking on tiptoe, he managed never to attract the Dean's attention and thus got rehired every year.

But finally came Year No. 8, and Mr. Stagnant knew his luck had run out. This time rehiring would mean tenure and naturally the Dean would first take a good hard look. How, thought Mr. Stagnant with a sinking heart, could he persuade the Dean he was worth keeping?

Well sir, as everyone knows, the way to impress Deans is to publish books. So Mr. Stagnant, who thus far had been too sluggish even to attempt a book, now began turning them out at a frantic rate—The Foot Locker Through History... Valise and the Single Girl... My Satchel, Right or Wrong. Alas, the publisher rejected them all.

Finally, in desperation, Mr. Stagnant tried a novel, but this fared no better. "We are herewith returning your cornball novel," wrote the publisher. "Are you kidding with this stuff? Can you seriously believe that in this modern day and age anybody would want to read a tearjerker about a rich Harvard boy who marries a poor Radcliffe girl who dies of leukemia?"

And so, alas, Mr. Stagnant was fired. Today, a broken man, he lives in a New Orleans slum, working part-time as a praline.

There is a powerful lesson here for all of us: if you want tenure, don't be dull.

Take, for instance, Miller High Life Beer. Do you think that if Miller had been dull, it would have enjoyed a tenure of 115 years so far? Of course not. Miller abides because it is the very opposite of dull; it is lively, sparkling, vivacious, animated, sprightly, buoyant, spry, ardent, sportive and waagish. Just pour a Miller and the hills are alive with the sound of music, and there's a bright golden haze on the meadow, and every cloud has a silver lining, and zing! go the strings of your heart.

Perhaps you think I'm being a bit effusive about Miller High Life. If you do, I ask you to remember one thing: to me Miller is more than just a beer; it is also an employer.

It's true. We, the brewers of Miller High Life, bring you this column every week, sometimes nervously. And every day, always confidently, we bring you Miller High Life. If you've got the time, we've got the beer, in cans, bottles and kegs—and all ways delicious.

It's a continuing "Tug of War" for all of us!

BUT GAS AND ELECTRIC PRICES ARE STILL QUITE LOW

According to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost of living has gone up more than 34% since 1960.

But there are still a few prices which have changed very little.

The prices you pay for gas (per hundred cubic feet) and electricity (per kilowatt hour) are little, if any, higher than they were 10 years ago.

If your monthly bill is higher than in the past, it is due primarily to a substantial increase in the use of gas or electricity.

To the extent possible, this Company will provide good, dependable service at reasonable cost to you.

Baseballers Split With Ariz., Cochise

Special to the DI
Tuscon, Ariz. — Arizona's baseball team dropped Iowa's record to 1-3 here Monday with a 10-inning, 4-3 victory over the Hawks. Iowa had won its first game of the season earlier in the day by edging Cochise College, 3-2.

Iowa opened its season with a thud Saturday by losing a doubleheader to Arizona, 5-1, and 10-1 but came back Monday ready to play. The 90 degree sunny weather brought out the best in all three teams Monday.

Cochise jumped on Iowa starting pitcher Jim Hartnett for two runs in the first inning and held the Hawks at bay until the final inning of the seven-inning game. Two Cochise pitchers had held Iowa without a hit until that time.

Fred Mims opened the seventh by reaching base on an error. Dave Blazin followed with a single and both runners moved up a base after a passed ball. Shortstop Ray Smith promptly drove in both Mims and Blazin with a single to tie the game.

The Hawks were not content to stay there as Bob Rushe walked and was replaced by Larry Schutzius on the basepaths. Schutzius stole second and was driven in by Jeff Elgin's single for the winning run.

Iowa extended Arizona 10 innings before the Wildcats won on a two-out double by Rudy Mendoza scoring Carlos Figueroa who had singled.

Iowa's Grid Slates OK'd Thru '76

Revised 11-game football schedules for the University of Iowa have been approved by the Board in Control of Athletics through the 1976 season, it was announced here Monday.

Michigan was added as an 11th game in 1973-74-75. Northwestern will be the additional game in 1976. Ohio State was announced earlier as the 11th game in 1971 and 1972.

The Hawkeyes will play nine Big Ten games this season and next, then go to eight conference games in the following four years.

Non-conference opponents the next six seasons include Oregon State, Penn State, UCLA, Arizona, Southern California and Syracuse.

Iowa had taken the lead in the second by scoring all three of its runs. Catcher Jim Sundberg walked to open the inning. Balzin fled out to centerfield and then Mims walked and Schutzius was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Starting pitcher Bill Heckroth popped out to short, but Smith singled to drive in Sundberg and Mims. Elgin then singled driving in Schutzius for the lead run.

Arizona, now 13-4-1, will host Iowa for single games today and Wednesday before the Hawks move on to Grand Canyon.
