UI Rights Commission Decides to Investigate Discrimination Charges

By LEONA DURHAM
Daily Iowan Editor

Faced with a wide range of charges of discrimination at the University of Iowa, the university's Human Rights Commission decided in closed session Tuesday "to do some further investigation on all of them," according to Marian Sheaffer, commission chairperson.

The commission heard the university charged with discrimination against women and student spouses from Clara Oleson, a pharmacy intern; charges of discrimination against women in ROTC by Kay Young, L3; and charges of discrimination within the university against persons with sexual orientations which differ from the "norm" from Dean Blake, A4, co-chairperson of the Gay Liberation Front (GLF).

Oleson asked the commission to investigate the status of the salary participation level for TIAA-CREF, saying, "I was told by Mr. Chambers (associate provost for planning and budgeting), unofficially, that the salary participation level will be raised to $6,800."

Oleson charged that this was an attempt on the part of the university to continue its economic discrimination against student spouses.

Oleson also chastized the committee for holding afternoon meetings on the "subject of discrimination." "I am embarrassed to think of all the typewriters being banged and all the floors being scrubbed by women while this meeting is in session," she said.

Oleson also revealed that she has filed a formal complaint against the university with the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare under Executive Order 11246, an order which makes it unlawful for any institution receiving government funds to discriminate by sex, race, creed, religion or national origin.

"I have forwarded to HEW a full report and called for a full investigation of the University of Iowa," Oleson said. "I am not willing to go through another year of committee meetings, of going to quiet meetings, of being denied access to records which are supposed to be public information."

Young, a student in the freshman Air Force ROTC course, complained that, even though she is enrolled in the class, she is not permitted to drill with the male students. She explained to the commission that she had taken her case to both the Faculty Council and the Educational Policy Committee and had received no satisfaction from either.

She said she was originally told she couldn't drill because she is a junior and wasn't permitted to march with the freshmen. "That was obviously very weak and they dropped that very quickly," she said.

"Gay discrimination in this community is profound," GLF co-chairman Dean Blake told the commission, citing an instance of a graduate student dropped from his course of study when it became known that he was a member of GLF. And, he said, "Textbooks here at The University are atrocious — They are degrading and insulting" to homosexuals.

Blake also noted that ROTC adheres to military law in the case of homosexuals.

"We are systematically excluded from Reserve Officer Training Corps," he charged, and said that this is because homosexuals are not prospective enlistees as the military does not accept homosexuals.

Blake then told the commission that "it should be made very clear that homosexuals do nothing in bed that heterosexuals do not do," and he said that the inclusion of the word "sexual" in the word "homosexual" should no more mean that all homosexual relationships involve sex than that all heterosexual ones do. He noted that several celibates belong to GLF.

Also appearing at the meeting was a woman who charged that the university's athletic department had discriminated against women by having a "stag" fundraising banquet for blind athlete James Speed.

After hearing William Suter, coordinator of athletic relations, the commission decided the function was not university related and that it had no jurisdiction in the case.

Mause then reported to the commission that he had been contacted by Veterans Against the War and asked to present their complaint. He said the veterans had been refused access to the names of veterans on campus on the grounds that this information was private, but that ROTC is apparently given access to the list of names.

Mause also read a letter from a university staff member charging a bias toward a particular religious group on the part of an administrator.

Regarding the commission's decision to accept all the complaints, Sheaffer said, "In almost all instances it means trying to get more specific complaints and inviting some people who were complained against to discuss the charges with the committee."

Two UI Students Arrested In Draft Bus Demonstration

This spring's third draft bus demonstration held at 5 a.m. Tuesday, has resulted in the arrest of two men who say they will stay jailed until the Iowa Peace Action Committee (IPAC) has received 250 pledges to write letters to the local draft board.

Ray Rohrbaugh, G., and Alan Garfield, A4, were arrested while attempting to thwart the departure of the Fort Des Moines bound bus containing 40 potential G.I.'s. They were charged with disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $105 dollars, and they were transferred to Johnson County jail.

Arrested once before on identical charges at a past draft bus demonstration, Rohrbaugh explained that he is "giving a personal response to the fact that the draftees are the root of the Indo-China war." In an open letter (printed on page two of today's D.I.) he said that, "With this arrest I vow to stay in jail until I have solid assurances that 250 letters will be written to the local draft board asking for a public meeting."

IPAC members will picket the Iowa City Post Office from four to five p.m. daily for the rest of this week soliciting letter writing pledges. An IPAC representative said the letters should ask the draft board for a public meeting with anti-war groups and should be addressed to the Johnson County Draft Board in care of the local post office. She added that so far 100 signatures have been obtained and about 25 letters were in the mail.

Editorial: fun filled fashion

Included in this issue of the Daily Iowan is your annual "fun-filled" fashion supplement. In the past this fashion spread was done as an integral part of the regular newspaper; because of the editorial staff's position on exploitative advertising, it has been done this year as a separate section.

But in view of this special insert in your newspaper, it seemed worth noting again: the editorial staff not only does not have anything to do with the advertising content of this newspaper, the editorial staff opposes all advertising which is of an exploitative nature.

If you feel your intelligence has been insulted after reading the insert, don't blame us. If you feel insulted enough, the letters-to-the-editor column is open to you. Or you can complain to William Albrecht, chairman, Student Board of Publications, Inc. (SPI). But in any case, be assured that the insert ain't our fault.

Legislative Appropriation Reduction Predicted by Jepsen for Fiscal '72

A drastic reduction in state legislative appropriations for the 1972 fiscal year was predicted by Iowa's lieutenant governor Tuesday night.

Lt. Gov. Roger Jepsen, at a meeting of the United Republicans of Iowa City, said, "The budgeting atmosphere in the legislature is austere, to say the least."

He continued, "The governor presented a drastic reduction of his original budget to the legislature on March 8. I expect to see that revised budget reduced by at least twice as much again in the legislature."

The state constitution prohibits the Iowa government from going into debt, Jepsen explained.

With the present budget, the state would face a deficit of $23-25 million by July 1, he said. Jepsen added, "Revenues that come in from July 1971 to July 1972 are going to fall $25 million short of the projected revenues on which the budget was based."

The progress of several bills presently being considered by the legislature was noted by Jepsen. "This session has been a very deliberate one. There hasn't been a lot of fanfare about it and it hasn't poured out a lot of bills," he said.

The legislators have proceeded carefully, exercising good reasoning and good debate, Jepsen said.

As an example, Jepsen pointed out, "Iowa was the first state to pass a major drug bill in compliance with the congressional directive."

He also noted the recent passage of a judicial reform bill and the updating of Iowa's trespass laws as positive actions by the legislature.

Jepsen spoke of recent criticism in the press that the state has not made use of the recommendations by the governor's blue-ribbon Economic Committee report.

"The study should be used. Where it can be applied to save money, this should be done," said Jepsen.

He continued, "The report is now being investigated completely as to what recommendations and actions have been implemented and what the result has been."

"Some of the recommendations have been found to lack accurate background," Jepsen said.

ELECTION BULLETINS

By The Associated Press

Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley was elected to his fifth consecutive term as Chicago's mayor Tuesday in a landslide over his Republican opponent.

The final unofficial vote total showed Daley leading his opponent, Richard E. Friedman, by a vote of 735,787 to 318,059. In sweeping to victory, Daley captured nearly 70 per cent of the votes cast.

In Kansas, a proposed state constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 was leading in early returns from Tuesday's election. With 485 of the state's 2,890 precincts reporting, the vote was 38,107 for the amendment, 22,841 against.

In Berkeley, California, a determined drive by self-styled radicals to capture control of the city council was producing a heavy voter turnout, but at Daily Iowan press time there was no word on how the election was going.

Officials reported that in some precincts 20 per cent of the registered voters had cast ballots in the first hour that polls were open, and there were indications that the election might draw ballots from as many as 90 per cent of the registered voters.

Proposed Ordinance Hit

By NORMAN LYZENGA
Daily Iowan Reporter

The Iowa City city council bit into a controversial piece of legislation Tuesday night when it voted to give a proposed disorderly conduct ordinance its first reading. The ordinance was proposed by City Attorney Jay Honohan last week.

About 30 sign carrying demonstrators gathered outside of the Civic Center before the council meeting handing out leaflets protesting the disorderly conduct proposal. The demonstrators moved into council chambers when the meeting began.

Fifty university students and city citizens turned out to picket the Civic Center earlier in the day. Members of the University of Iowa chapter of the New University Conference (NUC) were carrying signs in mock support of the ordinance and handing out leaflets against the ordinance.

When the proposed ordinance came up for its first reading at the council session, city councilmen refused to suspend the rules and have the ordinance read in title only, forcing Honohan to read the ordinance in full. Some of the members of the audience heckled Honohan but Mayor Loren Hickerson gavelled the group to order.

Before opening the floor to the audience, Hickerson said that any new ordinance governing human behavior should be thoroughly studied and looked at to see how it protects or harms the people of the city. Hickerson said he had some personal reservations about the ordinance and was prepared to make some amendments.

He also told the audience the city council had not yet had time to discuss the ordinance to any extent and hoped to do so before the next council meeting in two weeks.

The major concern of those who spoke against the ordinance was that it was vague in its terminology and gave broad power to the police officer.

One member of the audience pointed out that if he interpreted the ordinance rightly, he could have the city council arrested because what they were doing was offensive to him.

He also asked that the people of Iowa City, perhaps through the media, be able to see the complete new ordinance and be able to compare it with the old sections defining disorderly conduct.

Hickerson pointed out to him that copies of the ordinance were available at the city clerk's office.

One irate person said that he detected a "smug smile" on the face of the city attorney during the entire discussion of the ordinance. He said he would like to hear Honohan's explanation of why he proposed the ordinance in the first place and why he included certain subsections which allegedly gave the police broad powers of arrest. He quipped, "It seems that the only way to handle dissent is to make stronger laws against it."

Queried about the possibility of having a question period with the city attorney, Hickerson said such a proposal was worthy of consideration.

In a cover letter to the council, Honohan had said, "the present disorderly conduct ordinance needs a complete overhaul."

Honohan's assistant Dennis Clark said that the ordinance is not intended to curb student protests, but such things as bathroom brawls where disorderly conduct charges are usually filed.

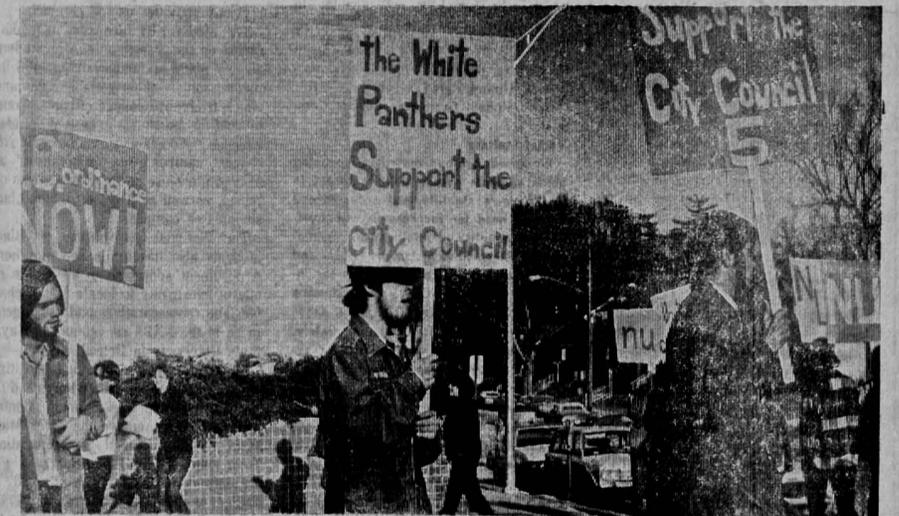

However, sections of the new ordinance prohibit acts for which university students were arrested last spring.

Rep. Small Says Trespassing Bill Definition Unclear

When the Iowa House passed the criminal trespass bill Tuesday, Art Small (D-Iowa City) was one of three who voted against it.

Small explained to the Daily Iowan Tuesday that he had submitted an amendment Tuesday morning which he believes would have corrected the problems of the bill.

Small's amendment would have more clearly defined the action a person would have to perform to be arrested for trespass and would have erased the intent clause from the bill, requiring that action would have to take place for a person to be arrested for trespassing.

The Bus, the draft, the war

Editor's note: See story, page 1.

Five weeks ago several of us were arrested for symbolically blocking a bus taking men to Des Moines for pre-induction physical examinations. Today, if this note reaches the light of day, I who was one of those arrested before will once again be in jail. My reasons remain relatively the same as those of the first time, but they continue to grow more focused. The fact remains that there is a connection between the grassroots sources of man-power (which is funneled through Selective Service) and the war in Indo-China. Furthermore, it becomes increasingly clear that "Vietnamization" is nothing more than a means for carrying out the same old policy of military victory — but at reduced and somehow "acceptable" level. We are rapidly becoming power brokers in Asian genocide, keeping just enough troops around to make sure that the struggle never ends.

The policy of "Vietnamization" is a blow to everyone who sought a genuine peace withdrawal of US troops. "Vietnamization" is a policy even more bankrupt than the last one — where we were at least willing to sacrifice American lives and treasure for American objectives.

With this in mind there are only two routes to take in calling attention to the roots of the war which are to be found right here. One is to escalate tactics; the other is to give an even more personal response. For today, I choose the latter course: with this arrest I vow to stay in jail until I have solid assurances that 250 letters will be written to the local draft board asking for a public meeting. I particularly urge this action upon those who expressed respect and admiration after my first arrest. For those who saw in the arrest of four of us a valuable symbolic action, I invite them to involve themselves at a slightly deeper level — by writing letters. Meanwhile I will wait in the jail and will refuse bail until the letters are forthcoming. Thus, in my own small way, I will be supporting those who must agonize a bit over what they need to say.

Peace,
Ray Rohrbaugh

The western myth

The nerves of America have been jangled by the sentencing and conviction of Lt. William Calley, jr. It is as though the fingers of this nation have been jammed into light socket. And wave after wave of shock continues to move across the country.

For months now persons on the left have been attempting to educate people to the fact that killing from the air is no different from killing at close range.

But it took the Calley thing to suddenly make it clear. Americans have always tended to view themselves as part of the westerns they are so fond of watching on television. Somehow America always wore a white hat, rode a white horse, sometimes led a posse, chasing a Lucifer-like enemy who always wore a black, usually dirty and badly crumpled, hat and rode a black horse.

The Calley affair may not have succeeded in destroying this image Americans have, but it has unquestionably dealt it a mighty blow.

And so what's to be done? In a desperate, last ditch attempt to preserve the image of America-the-righteous many have called for the acquittal of Calley. It was only the Arch-Fiend that he killed, they reason, and therefore all manner of murder was all right.

And so what's to be done? Others call for the acquittal of Calley because he is not the only guilty of killing innocent persons. The pilots who flew the bombing missions over North Vietnam, over Cambodia, over Laos, they reason are equally guilty. The officers who either gave orders to murder or tacitly permitted the slaughter of human beings, they reason, are equally guilty, and Calley, alone, should not have to pay for the crimes of America.

But that is not enough. America must come to grips with the fact that Calley did not act in a vacuum; that it was his socialization which permitted him to commit mass murder. And this nation must come to grips with the fact that Calley's conviction is in many respects a symbolic one: Nixon and those persons in whose name he carried on this odious war, those whom he called the Silent Majority, were convicted alongside Calley. America has fallen off its white horse. As a nation we must somehow deal rationally with our loss of innocence. — Leona Durham

The sugar story or

(where do I get a palm tree to make jaggery?)

Dear Editor:

Please print this article in your paper and make a note that it will be followed up by an article on the value of honey as a sweetener. I encourage the publishing of such information even though many people feel the contrary on this issue. Your appreciation of this article will be appreciated by me.

Peg McElroy
R.R. 6, Box 90

It has become evident that refined white sugar, a product vastly consumed in the American diet, is harmful to the diet. In the refining process, all food value is removed with the exception of carbohydrates. The carbohydrates, pure calories, contain no vitamins, minerals, proteins, fats, enzymes or any of the other elements that make up food. In the Home and Garden Bulletin No. 72, Nutritive Value of Foods, published by the USDA, it is noted that Sugar contains only a trace of iron. In contrast to this, honey, a natural sweetener contains some calcium, some iron, a trace of Thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and a trace of Ascorbic Acid.

Two scientists, a physician, and two nutritionists reporting in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition (March, 1964) suggested that it may well be the sugars in the American diet, not the fats, which may be responsible for the increase of heart disease. Countries with the best records of heart health consume the least amount of sugars. Evidence has shown and the general health trends in the United States indicate that the American diet is lacking many important nutrients. This is not wholly related to poverty levels for many wealthy suffer from inadequate nutrition as well.

What exactly happens as sugar (refined) is taken into the body? Bacteria known as bacillus acidophilus, thrives in the mouth on sugar, breaking it down into lactic and pyruvic acids. The acids, then, combine with calcium in the teeth and cause them to decay or erode. Tooth decay has been produced in children who were formerly immune to decay in six weeks when one piece of candy was given to them daily. Honey, although not completely understood, appears to be less harmful than table sugar.

When volunteers were kept on an adequate diet, chemically pure, in which glucose was the sole source of calories, the blood cholesterol fell to an average of 140 milligrams. Later, ordinary table sugar was given instead of glucose (honey); although no other change was made in their diets, the blood cholesterol quickly soared to the danger zone. This clearly indicates that eating too much refined sugar causes problems from cholesterol deposits, may be possible.

In addition to tooth decay, sugar causes hypertension and may increase blood pressure. Table sugar added to the diets of rats along with salt induced higher blood pressure in one month. Surprisingly enough, however, ginger ale is prescribed for upset stomachs. The vitamin B complex is necessary for the digestion of sugar and since no vitamin B remains in refined sugar, the body calls upon other resources.

Lastly, many people feel that sugar is necessary for energy. For thousands of years before human beings knew how to refine sugar, people worked from dawn to dusk at jobs requiring vast quantities of energy, much more so than present day work requires. Where did they get the energy when there were no candy vending machines? There are so many hidden sugars in addition to the obvious that people are constantly loading their bodies with sugar.

It is my belief as well as many others that the sugar intake should be well restricted in the diet and that sources of sugar be derived from natural sources such as honey, molasses, fruits, (raw and dried), and jaggery if you are able to find it. Jaggery incidentally is the concentrated juice of the palm tree and is very high in sucrose content. Indians use it for nursing mothers and is known as a blood purifier.

If conclusion, if nervousness, skin troubles, digestive troubles, and a host of other disorders have become commonplace with you, take a look at what you are eating for certainly it is what you are.

Abortion: the wolves gather

Profit is the main force which has made legal abortions available in New York State, especially for out of state women. Before abortions became legal on July 1, 1970, doctors found the procedure "boring medically" and "against their commitment to life." But since that date many doctors and hospitals have made as much money as they can from abortions, while claiming they are doing it to help women.

A whole new quick-profit business has grown up in New York and in other states — ABORTION REFERRAL AGENCIES.

These agencies advertise the availability of abortions in newspapers and magazines around the country, but they rarely tell women how to get abortions. When a woman calls an agency she is told about different abortion procedures which depend on the length of pregnancy and the amount of money she has. Often a woman has to send the full amount of money for her abortion to the agency before an appointment at a clinic or hospital is made for her.

She is usually not told how much of a percentage of this money is an agency fee. Sometimes she is told to send a "deposit" or "reservation fee" to the agency and pay the rest at the clinic. Agencies often withhold the names of hospitals and clinics from women so they're unable to make their own appointments at cheaper rates. When women call hospitals directly they are often referred to the agencies which then charge fees for setting up an appointment at the same hospitals.

The amount being spent on agency advertising is enormous. One agency now offers a Broadway show in a package deal with the abortion. This cost must ultimately come out of the women's pockets.

For out of state women the Women's Medical Group — a clinic organized in conjunction with the Clergy Consultation Service — has provided about 13,000 abortions to date, initially at a cost of $200 and now at $150. This amounts to at least 10 per cent of the abortions in N.Y. State. Women's Liberation groups in New York have provided help for many poor women from out of state and have used a variety of tactics to persuade at least some doctors to lower their costs to $100. Also, Women's Liberation groups from out-of-state have worked out direct relationships with specific clinics in New York so that an agency fee is avoided and some women are served free.

But more must be done to undercut the commercial agencies:

- 1) Demand that any newspaper or magazine that prints an abortion agency advertisement also print alongside the ad in every issue the phone numbers of: (a) the local Planned Parenthood if they do abortion referrals or the NYC Planned Parenthood number (212-777-4504 — best for late pregnancies); (b) the local Clergy Consultation Service number (338-3391) or their New York number (212-744-5640 — better for early pregnancies); (c) the local Women's Liberation number or New York number (212-881-2063, 212-681-3396). Editor's note: Iowa City Women's Liberation is changing numbers, we will publish the new numbers when available. "Ain't I a Woman?" has abortion numbers available.

2. Try to get these numbers as widely circulated as possible;

3. Pressure Planned Parenthood locally to provide an adequate referral service.

From: Agent Kenneth K. Smythe

Subject: National Association of Black Students Convention, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan, 6-26 — 7-5-70

On March 8, the Citizen's Commission to Investigate the Federal Bureau of Investigation removed files from the Media, Pennsylvania FBI office. They are being studied by the group to determine the nature and amount of surveillance and intimidation carried on by that office — which groups and individuals are investigated, and the extent of illegal practices by the FBI. As the study proceeds, the group will publicize more of its results.

Fifteen documents from those files were sent to Senator George McGovern (who sent them back to the FBI unopened), Representative Parron J. Mitchell (who sent them to Attorney General John Mitchell), the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, and Liberation News Service. The FBI has acknowledged the authenticity of the documents.

Attorney General Mitchell has asked that news media not publicize the contents of the file because the disclosure of the information could endanger the lives of federal agents and the security of the country.

The fifteen FBI documents can be divided into four different types of investigations: black student groups, black community groups, campus groups and people who travel or are planning to travel to Communist countries.

The following is from a document from the director of the FBI to FBI headquarters in Albany, dated November 4, 1970: "Black Student Groups on College Campuses

Racial Matters
Increased campus disorders involving black students pose a definite threat to the Nation's stability and security and indicate need for increase in both quality and quantity of intelligence information on Black Student Unions (BSU) and similar groups which are targets for influence and control by violence-prone Black Panther Party (BPP) and other extremists. . . . Effective immediately, all BSUs and similar organizations organized to project the demands of black students, which are not presently under investigation, are to be subjects of discreet, preliminary inquiries, limited to established sources and carefully conducted to avoid criticism, to determine the size, aims, purposes, activities, leadership, key activists, and extremist interest of influence in these groups."

Another document, addressed to the director of the FBI from a chief agent in Baltimore, gives a history of Rotan Edward Lee, a member of a black nationalist group in Baltimore. The information comes from Dr. Howard E. Wright, Acting Chancellor of the University of Maryland, Eastern Shore Campus. He tells of Lee's family background and his previous activities on the campus.

The Media FBI files also included a report on the Swarthmore Afro Students Society made in January 1969. SASS has made some non-negotiable demands which frightened college officials enough to send for assistance in case of "student violence." Constant surveillance of the college campus was maintained, all printed literature on the campus was obtained, as well as a list of all the black students on campus.

The National Association of Black Students also has a file kept on them. A document addressed to all agents requests informants to locate NABS chapters and representatives and asks agents to go to the NABS convention at Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich.

The FBI is also conducting investigations of the Black Panther Party and the Black Economic Development Conference (which formulated the Black Manifesto — the demand for reparations from churches) in Philadelphia. A FBI memorandum from agent Ronald D. Butler to FBI headquarters in Philadelphia lists telephone calls made at the Panther office, the names of the persons called, the telephone number called, and the conversations are all recorded. This information goes into the files of 15 people.

Four documents from the investigation of the Black Economic Development Conference include two memorandums from agents James I. Halterman and Edward M. Cole which give detailed information about meetings of the Black Economic Development Conference on Jan. 25 and Jan. 30, 1971. The information included who attended the meetings, where they took place, how long they lasted, and what was discussed at the meetings.

This information goes into the files of nine people. The FBI also received information from the records of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania. The statement at the end of this report says: "The above information is confidential and should not be made public without the issuance of a subpoena directed to Donald V. Powell, Security Department, Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania."

The checking account of the Black Economic Development Conference was studied with the help of a cashier and an executive at the computer center. They made copies of bank statements, copies of checks, and tried to identify the nature and source of deposits and credits to the account.

An example of investigations of radicals on campus is the investigation of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bennett. Dan Bennett is a professor at Swarthmore College. The information on the Bennetts comes from a variety of sources. Henry Peirso, security officer at Swarthmore provided general information about the family and who visits their home. Judy G. Feiy, Chief Switchboard Operator at the college, gave information about their activities on campus and to furnish information about telephone calls Dan Bennett makes and receives. Even the postmaster and the carrier who handles the mail for the Bennett residence were contacted and agreed to watch for any mail that might look suspicious.

In a document addressed to the Director of the FBI, dated 2/26/71, the activities of Mary Jane Lawhorn, "an inveterate Marxist revolutionist" are described. Most of the information is about where she lives, who she lives with, and the courses she is taking at the University of California, Berkeley.

"Subject attended a meeting of the Venceremos Brigade on 7/20/70, at 23rd Avenue and 14th Street, Oakland Calif. This meeting was covered by SF 2231-S who stated subject was one of numerous individuals turned down on their applications to be members of the Fourth Contingent of the Venceremos Brigade. During this meeting, there was no discussion of violence or revolution. San Francisco source personally conversed with subject and received no indication that she was anything other than the average liberal-minded student that is common in the Berkeley area."

The Conference of War Resisters International at Haverford College, Haverford, Pa. was investigated to "determine its scope and whether or not there are any indications that it will generate any anti-U.S. propaganda." This was to be done "in view of the current international situation and the Paris Peace Talks."

The FBI ordered that all students, teachers, and scientists who were in the USSR at least one month should be investigated. Specifically, the Bureau instructed that U.S. passport records be checked. The purpose of the investigations is to determine whether any of the people "have been approached for recruitment by the Soviet Intelligence Services. . . the motives of the Bureau in investigating American students, professors, and scientists must not be construed as infringements of the American educational system and the pursuit of intellectual freedom."

Another document from the FBI files was a letter to the Embassy of the USSR in Washington, D.C. from the advisor of a group of Explorer Scouts in Moscow, Idaho. He requested information about how his troop could travel through during the summer and if it would be possible for them to meet young people while they are there.

The last information received from the Media FBI files was an international FBI newsletter, entitled New Left Notes — Philadelphia, to keep persons dealing with the New Left problem up to date. It was the first edition, dated 9/16/70. It included the following:

. . . there was a pretty general consensus that more interviews with those subjects and hangers-on are in order for plenty of reasons, chief of which are it will enhance the paranoia endemic in these circles and will further serve to get the point across there is an FBI agent behind every mailbox. In addition, some will be overcome by the overwhelming personalities of the contacting agent and volunteer to tell all — perhaps on a continuing basis. The director has okayed (agents) aged 18 to 21. We have been blocked off from this critical agent group in the past.

Calley Prosecutor Criticizes Nixon Intervention in Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capt. A. J. Calley's prosecutor, Lt. William L. Calley Jr., has written President Nixon that his intervention in the case — "in the midst of public clamor" — has damaged the system of military justice. Reached by telephone at Ft. Benning, Daniel refused to discuss the letter, saying "publicity was not my purpose in writing it."
Daniel said in a letter to the President, with copies to six senators, that he was shocked and dismayed at Nixon's action. He said it opened the system of military justice to charges "that it is subject to political influence."

Nixon Readies Talk on Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon secluded himself with staff members Tuesday in the final stages of putting together his Wednesday night announcement of a new round of U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam. Although there is wide speculation he will announce an accelerated pullout, the White House kept strictly silent on what he will say as well as on recent unofficial estimates on the figures he would come up with.

A year ago, the President did not reach a final decision until three hours before he announced it. Since that time, when he told the nation 150,000 troops would be pulled out in the year ahead, about 12,500 a month and U.S. Military manpower in South Vietnam has declined to around 300,000. And the administration says it will come down to 284,000 by May 30, the goal originally set.

But from there on there was only a speculation as to numbers and withdrawal rates.

Some guesses center on stepping up to 15,000 to 20,000 pull-outs a month.

Hawks Ready For Opening Of Practice

FRANK LAUTERBUR
"Everybody Has a Shot"

By JAY EWOLDT
Sports Editor

The worst part of the year is nearly over for Frank Lauterbur, and the new Iowa football coach is anxious to begin the enjoyable part — coaching football.

Lauterbur and his 90-man squad will begin spring drills next Monday, and it will be a welcome change for Lauterbur, who has spent a hectic winter recruiting, making speaking engagements and teaching a football conditioning course.

The 45-year-old head coach has spent the past two weeks conducting staff clinics all day and part of the evenings to "get everything together" for the start of the season.

"We've now had time to concentrate fully on football," said Lauterbur, who is in the midst of the most crucial recruiting period.

"We've had 29 sign tenders, 18 of them Iowa kids," said Lauterbur. "So I feel recruiting is going fairly well — of course you never know until you get the kids to put pads on," he added.

A list of the 29 recruits will be released later this week.

Lauterbur, who feels planning the game is the most enjoyable time as far as coaching is concerned, said "the attitude of the squad is excellent, and they're as anxious as we are to get going."

"Getting to know the personnel and getting players set in the right position for fall is the main objective," said Lauterbur, who will have film shot of each player for evaluation purposes.

"The most important thing is not to find out who's the best player, but who isn't," explained Lauterbur. "To have a good player on the squad who is not playing is a scary thing. If a player is a fine athlete but not number one in one position, he could be playing all the time somewhere else," he added.

"We want to go into spring drills with an open mind, with everybody having a shot at making the ballclub."

Lauterbur, winner of 23 straight over a two-year period at Toledo, said spring practices will stress evaluation over experimentation.

"If we were returning a more veteran club, we might experiment with more formations, but here we want to clearly evaluate every man," Lauterbur said.

Iowa, which returns 32 lettermen, won three, lost six and tied one under Ray Nagel who resigned Dec. 2.

Lauterbur used a 5-2 defensive front to fashion the best defense in the country at Toledo a year ago. His defense allowed a mere 185.8 yards per game and allowed only 6.9 points per game.

"We will use a very aggressive pressure defense where we go after people," said Lauterbur, who insists he is not merely a defensive coach.

Lauterbur used a varied offensive attack at Toledo, and he has given no indication of changing from the style that proved so successful in the Mid-American Conference.

"I'll go with an 'I' formation with both a flanker and a split end, but we will use other sets," said Lauterbur.

Starting Monday the Hawks will practice every day when weather permits and have full scrimmages every Wednesday and Saturday.

Bulldogs Squeak by in Opener, 8-7-

Iowa, Drake Split Twinbill

By T'M SIMMONS

DES MOINES — Jim Cox's hitting paced Iowa to an 11-1 nightcap win after dropping an 8-7 heartbreaker to Drake in the opener of a baseball twinbill here Tuesday.

The split left the Hawkeyes, who will be idle until their Big 10 opener at Michigan Apr. 16, with a 7-6 record. Drake is 6-5. Cox had two home runs, a double and seven runs-batted-in to back the three-hit pitching of junior righty Mark Tschopp (1-1).

Drake's only run in the second game was unearned as Tschopp fanned five and walked only two. The contest was called after five innings due to the 10-run rule.

A six-run second inning and a costly Iowa error in the two-run fifth proved the difference in the opener.

After the disappointing loss,

Iowa bounced back to rock the Bulldog pitching for 10 innings, including five doubles and Cox's four-baggers.

Cox's two-run homer in the third provided the Hawkeyes with the needed margin. He also stroked a run-producing double in the fourth and a grand-slam four-bagger in the fifth.

Larry Schutzius' single knocked in the first Iowa run in the second. He added another run-producing one-bagger in the fifth. Tschopp platted a run in the fifth with a double.

Iowa jumped off to a 2-0 edge in the opener before Drake used four hits, a sacrifice and three walks to gain a 6-2 advantage after two innings.

Singles by Dave Blazin and Jeff Elgin produced Iowa's first two runs. Blazin's third home run of the season in the third out the Drake lead to 6-3.

After three straight walks by reliever Jim Wise opened Drake's fifth, the Hawkeyes stymied Terry Oswald's attempted squeeze bunt and caught Dave Isaacson in a run-down between third and home.

But reliever Bill Heckroth hit Isaacson in the head during the chase and the Bulldog raced home with run No. 7. Oswald's ground out produced Drake's winning margin.

Iowa rallied behind Schutzius' run-scoring double in the sixth and a three-run seventh, but couldn't overtake the Bulldogs.

Starter Chet Teklinski suffered his third loss in four decisions. Winner Tom Ryan (2-0) gave up 13 hits, but tamed the Hawkeyes when it counted.

IOWA ITEMS — The Hawkeyes had 23 safeties in the twinbill, including seven doubles and three home runs. . . as a team, Iowa is hitting .294.

Cox was four for eight Tuesday and raised his team leading average to .404. . . he trails Blazin in runs-batted-in 13 to 10. . . Schutzius had five hits in seven trips to boost his norm from .162 to .250.

Coach Duane Banks blamed spotty pitching and defense for the opening loss. . . Teklinski's ineffectiveness so far this spring has the Hawkeye boss stumped.

Banks had hoped to schedule home games this weekend, but the Easter holiday stymied his ambitions. . . Iowa opens its home season Apr. 20 in a twin-bill against Big 8 champ Iowa State.

THE BOSE 501 DIRECT/REFLECTING™ SPEAKER SYSTEM

DESIGN GOALS:

In designing the 501 we set two goals: A To develop a speaker that would audibly outperform all speakers costing less than the BOSE 901. B To design this speaker to sell for less than $130.

DESCRIPTION:

The BOSE 501 is a floor standing speaker that may be placed against a wall or up to one foot in front of a wall. Each 501 enclosure contains one 10-inch speaker and two 3 1/2 inch speakers. The 10-inch speaker faces forward. It covers the low frequency range and has a specially extended frequency response to supply a small amount of direct energy at higher frequencies to balance the reflected energy of the smaller speakers. The two 3 1/2 inch speakers provide primarily reflected sound at high frequencies. They are directed at angles to the rear wall such that stereo can be enjoyed from a wide range of positions while avoiding the point source effect of conventional direct radiating speakers.

FEATURES OF THE 501:

A The use of the wall of your room to reflect sound as the stage wall reflects the sound of instruments in a live performance. This eliminates the undesirable point source effect of conventional speakers.

B Radiating a combination of direct and reflected sound to provide localization of sound while maintaining the spatial fullness that is characteristic of a live performance. Stereo can now be enjoyed from almost any position in your room. No special seating arrangements are required as for direct radiating speakers.

C Flat power radiation rather than conventional flat frequency response or axis. This permits the 501 to reproduce crisp instrumental attacks without the shrillness so often observed in direct radiating speakers.

THE PERFORMANCE OF THE 501:

You be the judge. If we have succeeded in our design goals, the result will be obvious to you when you A-B the 501 with any speaker selling for less than the 901.

Orioles' Defending Champs Begin Pennant Drive Today

BALTIMORE (AP) — The world champion Baltimore Orioles launch their bid for a third straight American League baseball pennant Wednesday against the new look Washington Senators.

A crowd of about 30,000 is expected in Memorial Stadium for the 1 p.m., CST, game to see the opener and celebrate Baltimore's 1970 banner year.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will present the Orioles their championship rings in pre-game ceremonies, league President Joe Cronin will give Boog Powell his Most Valuable Player Award, and the championship flag will be raised.

Then, after the ceremonial first ball toss by Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel, the Orioles will settle down to the business of trying for a fourth pennant in the past six years.

Although they won a league record 217 games the past two years' the Orioles have not stood pat during the off-season.

Pat Dobson, obtained in a trade, has been added to the starting rotation with Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer, 20-game winners of last season.

Relievers Grant Jackson and

Tom Dukes also were picked up in deals, as was reserve infielder Jerry Devanon. Tom Shopay moved up from the minor leagues to bolster an already imposing outfield contingent.

Center fielder Paul Blair has

TED WILLIAMS
Heads Senators 'New Look'

made a personal change, practicing as a switch hitter in training camp, and will bat left-handed for the first time in regular season Wednesday against Washington's Casey Cox, who was 8-12 last season.

Baltimore's starter will be McNally, who was 24-9 in 1970 and has won 66 games the past three seasons. He'll be backed by a power-packed line-up which includes Powell and the two Robinsons, Frank and Brooks.

Merv Rettenmund, Baltimore's leading hitter last season and in spring training, will open in left field—the only position in doubt for manager Earl Weaver — instead of Don Buford.

Manager Ted Williams of Washington, which finished last in the eastern division in 1970, 38 games behind Baltimore, has 10 newcomers on the roster and three others who played only briefly in Washington last season after spending most of the time in the minors.

Knicks Grab Series Lead Over Bullets

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave DeBusschere broke loose for three clutch baskets in the final minutes, then Willis Reed hit a decisive jumper with six seconds left, boosting the New York Knicks to a 112-111 victory over the ailing but stubborn Baltimore Bullets in a National Basketball Association playoff game Tuesday night.

The triumph gave the Knicks a 1-0 lead in the best-of-7 Eastern Conference finals with the second game set for Friday afternoon, again in Madison Square Garden.

DeBusschere's tip-in provided the 24th lead change in the second half and put the Knicks ahead to stay 103-102. Seconds later he added a hook shot, then a minute later a jumper for a 108-105 spread.

Walt Frazier's basket for the Knicks with 59 seconds to go countered four free throws by Baltimore's Earl Monroe before Reed hit the jumper for a 112-109 advantage.

Jack Marin scored with two seconds left for Baltimore, which played the game under protest after a dispute early in the final quarter when the Bullets claimed the 24-second clock ran out before the Knicks scored a basket.

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS — Andy Kosco drove in four runs with a homer, double and sacrifice fly Tuesday as the Milwaukee Brewers hammered Cy Young Award winner Jim Perry and the Minnesota Twins 7-2 in an American League baseball opener.

Kosco, a former Twin, clouted a bases-empty homer in the third, chased in another with a fly out in the sixth and smacked a two-run double in the eighth.

Martin Pattin, celebrating his 28th birthday, scattered nine hits to pick up the victory. Brant Alyea's sacrifice fly with the bases full in the sixth spoiled the shutout and Harmon Killebrew drove in a run with a single in the eighth.

Bernie Smith drove Perry, 24-12 last year when the Twins won the West Division, from the mound with a bases-loaded double off the wall in left in the fifth.

The Brewers added two more in the sixth off Jim Kaat on Dave May's single and Kosco's fly.

A crowd of 18,823 in 53-degree weather watched the Brewers, beginning their third season and second in Milwaukee, snap Minnesota's winning streak of seven straight home-opening victories with a 12-hit attack.

3 Hurrahs for Harrah

Senators Bubble Over Young Star

WASHINGTON — The first hurrahs for Toby Harrah had the 22-year-old rookie shortstop for the Washington Senators bubbling over with excitement.

"Everytime they start cheering, it was like a great rumble," said the wholesome youngster who still talks like "wow," and "golly" and "gee," and calls newsmen "mister" and says "Yes, sir."

It was all a new experience for the Senators, darling of the Grapefruit League where he won the starting job from buddy Jim Mason and several others. Washington is hopeful he will make the fans forget about traded Ed Brinkman.

"It's hard to get used to all those people," Harrah said after a successful major league debut Monday when the Senators walloped Oakland 8-0.

"I never played before so many people before. It was the greatest feeling in my life. I hope they don't expect too much because I don't want them to be disappointed. Golly!"

Harrah played at Pittsfield, Mass., in the Eastern League last season, and now suddenly has become a main cog in Washington's hopes to rise out of the basement in the American League East.

The Senators traded Brinkman, along with third baseman Aurelio Rodriguez and a couple of pitchers, to the Detroit Tigers last winter for pitching ace Denny McLain and a few others.

Harrah made the Senators' fans believers against the Athletics. In front of a sellout crowd of 45,061, including his father, Harrah banged out two singles in four official trips, received a walk, scored two runs and easily dandled his one chance in the field.

"That first hit was a big one for Toby," said Manager Williams. "And everybody was happy when he scored. It was like he had just hit a bases loaded homer."

"He was like a caged lion in the first inning out on the field," said Williams, jokingly. "I bet he must have paced 20 miles."

"I've said all spring, a great deal depends on how Toby does," said Williams. "If he

'I'm Keyed Up,' Says Golden Bear— Nicklaus Bids for 'Slam'

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Jack Nicklaus, admittedly gunning for an unprecedented professional grand slam of golf, sounded an ominous warning Tuesday as he prepared for the 35th Masters championship: "I'm keyed up for it. I'm ready."

The 31-year-old Golden Bear, the most feared competitor in the game, won the PGA National championship in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., early this year and has a burning desire to take this one and keep alive his hopes of sweeping in a single year all the world's major pro titles.

"It's no secret I'd like to win them all," the powerful blond said. "I think a sweep is possible. I really think it can be done."

But it's never been done. Ben Hogan came the closest in 1953 when he won the Masters, the U.S. Open and the British Open, then didn't compete in the PGA. No one else has come close.

"I have a kind of different feeling about the Masters this year," Nicklaus said. "Always before I've come here trying to win the Masters as the first major championship of the year. You can't win 'em all if you don't win the first one."

U.S. Open and the British Open, then didn't compete in the PGA. No one else has come close.

U.S. Open and the British Open, then didn't compete in the PGA. No one else has come close.

Jack Nicklaus Benefit," South African Gary Player said.

In the last 10 years Nicklaus has won three times, a record second only to Arnold Palmer, has finished second once and been in the top eight finishers three other times.

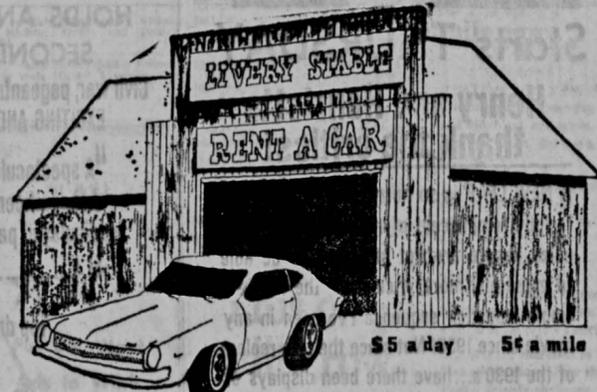

He's been off for two weeks. Most of the last week has been spent here, honing his formidable talents for the 72-hole test that begins Thursday.

TRANSCENDENTAL MEDITATION as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi

Transcendental Meditation is a simple, natural, scientific technique which allows each individual to expand his conscious mind and improve his life.

Studies have shown that TM produces profound physiological, as well as mental, results (see the article "Physiological Effects of Transcendental Meditation," Science, March 27, 1970). Meditators claim an increase of awareness, energy, clarity of mind and a decrease of tension and fatigue.

If you care enough, maybe you can meet the Paulist challenge...

It isn't easy, being a Paulist. Bridging gaps between young and old, black and white, past and future. But it is a challenge.

The Paulist mission is to people... individually and in all the societies in which they live... to discover Christ wherever he is acting... to be attuned to the needs of the present, yet to form a vision of tomorrow's world.

If you are interested in finding out more about the Paulist priestly challenge, write to:

Raiders Hit North Viet Base—S. Viets Swoop into Laos

SAIGON (AP) — Behind a giant smoke screen, South Vietnamese commandos swooped into Laos in U.S. helicopters Tuesday and attacked a North Vietnamese base on the Ho Chi Minh trail. It was their second such raid in a week.

The raiders, a 200-man company of highly trained H a c Bao (Black Panther) troops, reported they killed 15 North Vietnamese soldiers, destroyed nine tons of rice and other food and captured nine weapons while taking light casualties. Although a small operation, the raid apparently was staged for a larger psychological reason: to demonstrate to North Vietnam that the South Vietnamese can strike at will into Laos despite their premature and sometimes disorderly withdrawal from the February-March Laotian incursion.

The commando raid into Laos was similar but shorter than the 26-hour helicopter assault the Black Panthers staged last Wednesday and Thursday. It lasted 10 hours.

The South Vietnamese took off at daybreak from Quang Tri in the northern end of South Vietnam. They were ferried across the border to a point south of Khe Sanh. This is the same general area of last week's raid.

They were lifted into the target area behind circling helicopters that put down a massive smoke screen.

"It was the biggest smoke screen I've ever seen," said one U.S. helicopter pilot. "The most difficult part of the operation was finding the landing zone."

The target was a base camp of a North Vietnamese regiment operating on feeder routes of the Ho Chi Minh trail near the Laos-Vietnam border.

In the late afternoon, U.S. helicopters lifted the assault troops out and returned them to Hue, the northern headquarters of the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division to which the Black Panthers are attached.

No U.S. helicopters were lost in the operation, military spokesmen said.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu repeated his claim of last week that the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos "wrecked Communist schemes for an autumn-winter offensive."

Refugees Report Pakistan Carnage

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — U.S. and other foreign refugees from East Pakistan said Tuesday the rebels and their antagonists, the army, had staged an orgy of mass executions in Chittagong. Burning and looting left that great port an almost deserted wasteland.

The Bengalis of East Pakistan still were fighting outside Chittagong but the city itself was in the hands of West Pakistan's army, reported some of the 37 Americans and 82 other foreigners reaching Calcutta on the British ship Clan MacNair.

"The army only had to see a Bengali on the street and they shot him," said a Briton.

"Chittagong is now deserted. Everyone has fled to the villages outside."

Said another Briton who was an engineer in a Chittagong jute mill: "In my own mill, people were murdered in front of my eyes. Many people were burned in their houses when the army put them to the torch. They seemed to take a delight in destruction. Machine guns were going day and night and there was shelling from gunboats offshore."

The Britons said, however, that for two weeks before West Pakistan's army arrived, Bengalis had been murdering West Pakistanis living in Chittagong. They told of corpses lying in the streets for nine days.

Leon Lumsden, an American engineer working on a U.S. aid project reported: "Soldiers just walked up to anyone wearing a lungi, the native Bengali dress, and shot them through the head." He estimated he had seen 15 Bengalis killed.

"We saw the dead bodies and smelled the stench of death," said Neel O'Toole, New Rochelle, N.Y., employed in a U.S. CARE mission in Chittagong.

"There is indiscriminate looting and burning."

O'Toole reported that the West Pakistani army ruled Chittagong the past week "by brute force and terror." He predicted the East Pakistanis would make a stand, adding: "Already they control most of the countryside."

Jesse Eaton, a Baptist missionary from Lockport, N.Y., reported the army of President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan had cleared an area of about five miles around Chittagong. Beyond that, the Bengalis were in control.

Eaton, his wife and three children drove 60 miles from their mission to Chittagong.

"You run into no man's land just past the Chittagong radio station and its 300 yards before you hit the Pakistani army positions," he said. "That was the most terrifying part of the journey."

While Pakistani jets knocked out the radio station, the East Pakistanis still control it.

Igor Stravinsky Dies in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Igor Stravinsky, called "the Einstein of musical art" and considered the foremost composer of the 20th century, died Tuesday. He was 88.

"The greatest composer of this century... the last musical genius of 20th century music... great enough to cast his shadow over all of 20th century music... One of the great giants of the century."

These were among eulogies his contemporaries pronounced upon Stravinsky, following his death at his Fifth Avenue apartment.

Russian Orthodox funeral services will be held here Friday, with burial later in the Russian corner of the Cemetery of San Michele in Venice.

Stravinsky had been in failing health for several years, with circulatory and lung problems.

Released from Lenox Hill hospital a week ago, his death was attributed simply to the failure of a tired and overburdened heart.

Russian-born into the realm of music June 18, 1882, Stravinsky was the son of a leading basso at the St. Petersburg opera. He studied under Rimsky-Korsakov, composer and orchestrator.

In 1958, Stravinsky wrote "Fireworks" for the marriage of Rimsky's daughter. It came to the attention of Serge Diaghilev of the Ballets Russes. He commissioned the 27-year-old Stravinsky to write the score for a ballet based upon a Russian legend.

The result in 1910 was "The Firebird," which led Diaghilev to remark to Stravinsky: "Mark him well. He is a man on the eve of celebrity."

Stravinsky went on to write upwards of 100 more pieces of music. His "Agon," commissioned by the New York City Ballet, premiered on his 75th birthday. His first television score, "The Flood," was shown four days before his 80th birthday.

At the age of 79, Stravinsky went on a conducting tour of Africa. And a few months later he toured America, Israel, Russia and other countries of Europe.

King Hussein of Jordan told the Palestinian guerrillas Tuesday to end their attacks on his army and fight the Israelis occupying Jordan's west bank.

The king said his army, which has fought the guerrillas for 12 consecutive days now, would willingly support the guerrillas against Israel's west bank positions.

"Nobody is more anxious than we are to safeguard the resistance movement," Hussein said in an address before a delegation of Jordanian doctors, lawyers and engineers in Amman. "But the guerrillas should shift their activities to their proper sphere — the Israeli-occupied west bank."

The king said he was determined to maintain order in Jordan and "make every citizen feel safe in his home."

The commandos fought "trench to trench" pitched battles in northern Jordan with Hussein's army Tuesday in fighting what one guerrilla leader warned could lead to prolonged civil war.

Ceylon Under Curfew

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — The government slapped on stiff curfews throughout this island nation Tuesday after claiming it had crushed an attempted takeover by rebels called the Guevarists.

Except for authorized personnel, all of the nation's 12 million people were ordered to stay off the streets from 3 p.m. until dawn.

Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike said in a radio announcement that government troops were deployed throughout the nation after the insurgents led a series of attacks Monday on police stations, security patrols and government buildings in Colombo.

This capital was calm. Government offices and stores closed early in the afternoon as people rushed home to beat the curfew announced following a National Security Council meeting.

Government sources said large numbers of insurgents of the "People's Liberation Front," as the Marxist rebel organization is called officially, had been killed and wounded.

The front is nicknamed after the dead Cuban revolutionary. It is not known to have ties to Latin American revolutionaries.

A government spokesman said 20 fully armed rebels were captured at Gampaha, 20 miles from Colombo, and a "bulletproof vest" spelling out the insurgents, strategy was in official hands.
