Iowa City Peacefest Starts This Morning

By JUDY SCHULTZ
Daily Iowan Reporter

The Iowa City peacefest, billed by the MayDay Coalition as the place to go if you can't reach Washington, D.C., gets off the ground today at MacBride Field Campus.

A parade of guerrilla gardeners, which begins at 12:30 p.m. at College Hill Park, and a rally scheduled for 10 p.m. on the Pentacrest are being billed as the places to go if you don't or can't reach MacBride Field Campus. Vietnam Veterans Against the War will simulate a "search and destroy" mission this afternoon on Dubuque Street.

MayDay Coalition spokespersons say they expect approximately 20,000 people to attend the anti-war rally, but would be pleased with 3,000 to 5,000. The day-long event at the MacBride Campus features anti-war speakers interspersed with music by area rock groups.

Ronald Schembari, speaking for the group, said he thought the event would be successful if "10 to 20 per cent of the people attending the peacefest come to the workshops at the Iowa Memorial Union on Sunday."

He said the coalition was upset that the event was publicized as a "rock festival" on radio stations around the Midwest.

"We intend this as a kick-off for May 5, Stop-Business-As-Usual Day. We're asking people to go back to their communities and try to make this day successful," said Schembari.

A statement released Friday night by the coalition said, "A basic premise behind the event is that we are at peace with the Vietnamese people..."

It added, "We strongly protest the university's initial decision of prohibiting the use of the central campus, the Pentacrest." The coalition, however, has been working closely with the administration, particularly presidential assistant Robert Engel.

The statement also claimed the Iowa City City Council violated the coalition's rights of freedom of speech and assembly by denying them use of City Park.

Johnson County Sheriff Maynard Schneider stated he will check for drugs, liquor and weapons any cars he wishes which pass through Pleasant View Stables and North Liberty.

Only cars with official coalition stickers will be allowed on the field campus, except for cars associated with Sailing Club and Archery Club, which have events scheduled at the field campus.

"We encourage people to take the bus from Center East," said one coalition member.

Two buses will leave every 15 minutes starting at 8 a.m. A 25 cent donation is being asked for the busride but anyone who cannot pay the donation will be allowed to ride free, the coalition statement said.

Parking is available for 1200 cars near the Sugarbottom Camping Area, with a shuttle bus operating between the parking area and the Field Campus.

Pleasant View Stables is charging $2 per car and $1 per motorcycle for parking. Another shuttle bus will operate between Penn Township School in North Liberty, Pleasant View Stables and the Field Campus.

A pop and popcorn concession stand is being set up to supply food "at prices which are as reasonable as one can expect from a capitalistic retailer," the statement continued.

Free brown rice will also be supplied by the coalition.

People attending the peacefest may camp at the West and East Overlooks of the Coralville Reservoir, Turkey Creek and the Coralville Dam Site.

Sixteen Iowa Highway Patrolmen will handle traffic control, assisted by the "People's Army," the group of 40 student monitors directing traffic, parking and acting as guides along the route to the Field Campus.

Johnson County officials indicated they would tow away cars parked along county roads.

Daycare and medical facilities have been set up at the site, according to coalition members.

Telephone numbers of the medical and information tent at the site are 644-2661 and 644-2669.

Two doctors, as well as medical students and nurses, will be on call at the medical tent.

The coalition statement noted the group needs donations from people around the state. Contributions can be sent to Veterans Against the War, Iowa Memorial Union, Iowa City, Iowa 52240.

Monitors wearing pink and red arm bands or head bands will circulate in the crowd with donation cans, also.

More monitors are needed and anyone interested in helping may report to Center East at 7 a.m. today or go to the Information Tent at the field campus.

"Things are well organized now. The stage is set up and the sound system is in. We will be ready for the people," said coalition member Mike Stoll, A3.

Engel commented that the group effort represented "a tremendously encouraging university community effort. The coalition and student organization leaders have been working together like brothers and sisters."

Events scheduled for Sunday will take place at the Union, not at the field campus, coalition members emphasized. Workshops, which begin at 11 a.m. Sunday, include Economic Boycott of the War by the International League for Peace and Freedom; Christians Affirming Life; Vietnam Veterans Against War; Draft Resistance and Repeal; Sexism; Day Care Organizing; People's Peace Treaty Organizing; ROTC-The University's Role in the War; and Building a Student-Worker Alliance.

Rights Group Completes Work On Ordinance

The Iowa City Human Relations Commission Thursday made final the provisions of a new civil rights ordinance and announced that it will submit the measure to the city council immediately.

The commission, in finalizing the ordinance, excluded certain exemptions in housing and employment from the ban on discrimination on the basis of sex, color, creed, race, nationality, religion and ancestry.

Two exemptions in the current ordinance were unanimously scrapped by the commission.

The "Mrs. Murphy clause" in the current ordinance allows landlords occupying rooming houses with less than six units to be exempted from compliance with the law.

The present ordinance also allows exemption for businesses with less than four employees as well as employment in the home or of individuals for "personal service" to the employer.

The commission also included a ban on discrimination in housing on the basis of sex in the new ordinance.

On the whole, the proposed ordinance bans discrimination in housing, employment, and public accommodations. Excluded under the housing, public accommodations and employment sections, however, is "any bona fide religious institution with respect to any qualifications the institutions may impose based on religion which such qualifications are related to bona fide religious purpose."

Secretary Rogers Begins Mission To Middle East

ANKARA (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers starts his Middle East mission Saturday in the belief that his efforts for a Suez Canal-reopening accord is widely favored by foreign leaders.

On the eve of Rogers' departure for Saudi Arabia, Britain's foreign secretary issued a statement saying a "limited agreement to reopen the canal" could help tension and go some way toward breaking the present deadlock about which there are so many anxieties.

"A limited advance of this sort," Sir Alec Douglas-Home said, "could be well worthwhile in this situation, which has become so dangerously deadlocked."

U.S. officials also reported that the Soviet ambassador in Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, called at the State Department during the day and raised no opposition to Rogers' one-week trip to four Arab countries and Israel.

Since leaving Washington Monday, Rogers has talked about his Mideast trip objectives — mainly to narrow the Israeli-Egyptian gap in their proposals for opening the Suez water-way to foreign leaders from southeast Asia and CENTO allies, plus France.

At the same time, the foreign leaders were said to believe, as Rogers does, that no break-through in the Mideast negotiations is likely soon and that efforts must continue for an overall permanent solution.

Epstein's Warned With Worry Hex; 'WITCH' Work?

Hex on Evergreen
Sexist posters
Epstein's sexist ideas
Double, double toil and trouble
Exploit our sisters
You're in trouble.
Hex on you
We know what you do
The witch's brew
Is about to stew.
(signed) WITCH

Epstein's bookstore received this poem in the mail Monday morning, Thursday night, sometime after 9:30. Epstein's alleged that WITCH surfaced again from its coven to hex their bookstore.

A large hexagon with the word "Worry" beneath it, was painted on the sidewalk in front of the entrance of the bookstore.

"We just got a new poster which shows a woman beneath two men and a urinal. I think that's what touched it off," said Deborah Epstein.

She also recalled that a month ago someone had come into the bookstore and demanded that the posters be taken down.

Epstein said that the posters were intended to be humorous, and not a dig at Women's Liberation.

"I'd like to avoid a broken window if at all possible," she said.

"I've been trying to get in touch with them (WITCH) to see if I can work it out in a reasonable manner."

Epstein feels if there is a legitimate gripe she would like to get it out in the open.

WITCH, an acronym for Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy From Hell, first surfaced in New York City in 1969 with an "Up Against the Wall Street" demonstration. Since then, they have appeared periodically, most recently at a Playboy party held in Hillcrest dormitory, to theatrically point up incidents of sexism.

WITCH was not available for comment.

Nixon Welcomes Marines After Five-Year Tour in Asia

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP)—President Nixon welcomed home elements of the 1st Marine Division from Vietnam Friday and declared "we will not fail you in winning the peace."

Nixon flew across the country from Washington to this 95-square-mile Marine Corps base within sight of his San Clemente home to take a key role in praise, pageantry and honors for some 1,500 of the division's members in stands around a huge parade ground drenched in a brilliant noonday sun.

As 10,000 spectators looked on, the commander-in-chief presented the oldest and most decorated Marine division with a presidential unit citation — its eighth. Also looking on were top commanding officers of the Navy and Marine Corps.

"This," the President said, "is one of the proudest moments of my service as President of the United States... to present this citation and welcome home these units."

"I can say to you that the nation is proud of you. I can say to you you've come home mission accomplished," he said.

Nixon traced the history of the division from Belleau Wood in World War I, Guadalcanal in World War II, Inchon in Korea and now for five years in Vietnam. On the basis of heroism, Nixon said, there is no comparison — 48 Medals of Honor.

"The question that remains," he said, "is whether we end the war with the goal of achieving the ability of South Vietnam to defend itself from a Communist takeover. If we leave without that, your service and that of thousands of others will have been a failure. We will succeed, because of your valor and the support of the American people when they realize what the stakes are."

Nixon pledged the conduct of the nation's foreign policy will bring the war to a just and lasting end and achieve what he repeatedly has talked about — a full generation of peace.

Shown above is a map of the peacefest site, and nearby parking facilities. The coalition has issued the following statement:

- We cannot accommodate all of the cars. If possible please leave your car in Iowa City. Eight shuttle buses will be running between Center East and Field Campus. Departures will be every half hour.
- Road blocks will be set by law enforcement officials to prevent vehicular traffic in the area. Shuttle buses will also be running internally in the area.
- Please ask information (concerning parking, medical aid, etc.) from monitors, if you need directions. They have arm-bands.
- According to Sheriff Schneider all vehicles are subject to search by law enforcement officials. Do not park along county roads or your car will be towed.

Tension Mounts in Washington, D.C. As 200 are Arrested in Demonstration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police responding to a Justice Department request arrested more than 200 chanting and singing antiwar poverty demonstrators Friday as both sides set themselves for much larger, climatic events.

The arrests at the department ran the arrests for a week of "People's Lobby" actions to more than 1,000, by police count, but were incidental to coming events which protesters and policemen alike have their minds on:

- Massive rock and soul concerts and rallies Saturday and Sunday night intended, in part, to recruit more protesters.

- Planned civic disruption, announced as nonviolent sit-downs at key traffic intersections and bridge approaches Monday and Tuesday, and a mass sit-in at the Capitol Wednesday.

The Justice Department arrests started at the Pennsylvania Avenue entrance, one of the four main doors blocked by the demonstrators for about a half hour.

The announced intention of the blocking tactics was to stop employes for anti-war talk and keep them away from work. This was tried at Selective Service, the Health, Education and Welfare Department, and the Capitol earlier, also ending in arrests.

At Justice, employes tried to pick their way through the sit-ins, some stepping on the demonstrators, whose response was passive.

Meanwhile, Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst said 7,300 police and National Guardsmen will be on hand to cope with the coming May Day demonstrations. This includes six helicopters the Pentagon said.

Kleindienst said Washington Police Chief Jerry Wilson has a plan to reduce bridge blockages "to an irritant only."

More broadly, Kleindienst said demonstrator threats to close down government were "just a lot of hot air."

A protest leader, Rennie Davis, the Chicago Seven defendant, said he expects 50,000 for the traffic jam-ins.

But police intelligence, a spokesman said, indicates far less will be at hand. The original May Day planning counted on saturation arrests clogging police operations.

Leslie Bacon Maintains Innocence

SEATTLE (AP) — Leslie Bacon, 19, facing federal grand jury questioning in connection with the U.S. Capitol bombing, "hasn't done anything wrong," her father said after seeing her Friday.

Leslie Bacon, who flew here from Washington, D.C., Thursday night accompanied by U.S. marshals and a maron, saw her parents, Mr. and Ms. John W. Bacon, of Atherton, Calif. for about 30 minutes.

Newsmen have been unable to talk with her nor has she appeared in open court.

The government, saying she has "personal knowledge of the circumstances and persons responsible for" the March 1 bombing, arrested her Wednesday in the capital as a material witness.

Reports here indicate the government will try to prove the bombing was planned in Seattle in February and that the planners then traveled to the capital and were part of the bombing incident.

The government, which has not named Leslie Bacon a defendant, wouldn't explain why the Seattle grand jury is looking into the bombing.

Leslie Bacon, a member of the Mayday Collective sponsoring antiwar demonstrations in Washington, D.C., was brought to Seattle after an appeals court turned down her attorneys' efforts to free her. She is being held under $100,000 bail.

Her father told newsmen Friday she was tired and "confident she hasn't done anything wrong."

On the first of May

It is fitting and proper that efforts to implement the Peoples Peace Treaty should come on the first day of the first week in May, for the day — and the week — are, historically, among the most significant in our history.

On May 1, 1886, the first massive demonstration for the eight-hour day was held. On that day 80,000 Chicago workers and 340,000 around the nation went out on strike. Efforts to gain the eight-hour day stretched over several years, efforts for decent wages for workers go on today.

On May 4, an open air meeting was called for Chicago's Haymarket Square to protest the police brutality that had occurred the day before at the McCormack Harvester Plant. On that day the police, in support of scab strike breakers, had killed six workers. At the Haymarket Square affair, someone threw a bomb, seven policemen were killed, 70 were injured.

After the bombing, the police began to shoot randomly; one spectator was killed and 60 persons were injured.

Out of that affair grew the first mass conspiracy trial and four labor leaders were tried and executed although they were not, in fact, ever accused of throwing the bomb — the charge was "conspiracy" though no principals were ever brought to trial.

Around the world, people took note of the efforts of the workers in the United States, and May 1 eventually became an international workers' holiday.

In our more recent history, on May 4, 1970, four persons were shot to death at Kent State University protesting the presence of ROTC on their campus, and on May 6, 1970, two persons were shot to death at Jackson State University in protest of the same thing.

The struggle of the workers in the 1800's, a struggle which continues until this day, and the struggle of those students against the military are not unrelated efforts and those efforts are not unrelated to the continuing obscenity called the war in Indochina.

For one of the uses of the military is to maintain the American Empire, to secure and hold lands for American corporations. If the military could succeed in conquering Indochina, there would be available to corporate America a vast pool of very cheap labor, which could then be used to drive wages down in this country.

And May 1 is significant, too, for being "Law Day" in the United States, a day set aside to remind us that we are a nation ruled by law rather than by men. But Nixon's remarks made on television Thursday night give the lie to this: he said that neither demonstrations nor congressional criticism nor a North Vietnamese call for negotiations on a withdrawal deadline have affected policy. And he said he has considered all the arguments, and believes his position "is the correct one." The position held by one insane man can keep this war going on forever.

But to say that Nixon gives the total lie to the idea of "Law Day" would be incorrect, for in the person of Richard Nixon we see embodied all that is signified by that day: the determination of those who rule this country to extend American "law" to the countries, to the people, of the world — whether or not they want it.

At any rate, today is the today to begin ending all that. Goodbye to all that. — Leona Durham

On liberation

A letter writer the other day accused the Daily Iowan of being oppressive — we betray, the writer said, our middle-class origins, we talk continually about "liberation," he said, but we do nothing to liberate.

Perhaps a basic misconception about radical politics is that radicals are trying to liberate other people. If it were possible to do that, there is little question that radical efforts would be expended in that direction.

But one of the early, and intensely bitter, lessons of the civil rights movement of the late 1950's and early 1960's is that one person cannot really liberate another. Liberation will come (note the future tense for that is where it all is) to an individual only when that individual works, collectively with others, toward the liberation of all.

The writer says that "liberation" begins with freeing the mind, and he adds that, while this takes a certain mental and spiritual effort, it's ultimately worth while.

As a metaphysical statement, perhaps the author's claim is worth some reflection. But the difficulties with which we find ourselves faced derive, not from a spiritual malaise, but rather from contradictions in the system under which we live. Alter, restructure, the system and the freeing of the mind is the result.

Liberation cannot come from naively "freeing your head," as some apolitcals are fond of saying. Liberation cannot come — to you, to me or to anyone — until we learn to work together, until we pool our energies, our resources, our talents, and wipe out the contradictions in American culture. Until money is spent to benefit the people rather than to destroy people, until the university (as only one example of an institution in America) exists to serve the people rather than the corporations. Until we say we have no room for death, until we create room for life.

Until liberation is a reality for all people, until it is something more than just a word for those in the privileged middle-class to play with, we all have a lot to do with our heads — and our hands. — Leona Durham

Letters Letters Letters: on activism and sign-painting

To the Editor:

As a participant in draftee bus vigils and a supporter of letter-writing to the draft board, I have been asked: Why? What connection between a meeting with the draft board and getting out of Vietnam? Are we being realistic about the Communist threat? Everyone must give his own answer and does in some way. I would like to state my personal position to readers of the Daily Iowan. I am a native citizen of the United States and of Iowa. I know of no nation-state I'd rather claim, although I consider my full citizenship much broader than any national boundaries. I do not approve violence as practiced by "Communists" or "students" any more than I approve violence practiced by "Capitalists" or "Christians." I believe that it is self-defeating.

Every day that we stay in Southeast Asia, the Communists and we Christians are killing more persons. We have abundant evidence that our soldiers are being brutalized by their experience and that the Vietnamese know that our supposed protection of their interests is not prompted by our love of them as persons.

For me, the question is not, Why do anything and everything I can to oppose and stop the war? but rather, How can I actively or silently accept and support it?

I encourage other parents to join with our sons and daughters in doing everything we know to make it clear what our personal position is. I have compassion for parents who receive notice that a son has been killed or is missing. Medals, I am sure, are small comfort — especially, if the loved is known to have been distressed or confused by his orders to kill. I have compassion, too, for parents who lose their sons or their daughters to drugs.

I believe that standing with them in their protest against a war that many of us deplore (including our President, allowing for a credibility gap) is one positive way to share with them in their inmost selves. If no man could be drafted, there would be no war. If we persist in alerting our community to the fact that war is going on and destroying for others what we would all be highly incensed about losing for ourselves, maybe we can be creative in the midst of our "business-as-usual" community.

I do not endorse everything that is done by everyone with whom I stand in vigil. Much less do I endorse all that is being done by all with whom I have sat through the years, not wanting to be conspicuous, not wanting to be radical. And sometimes I find more in common with persons I've thought very different from me than I expected to find.

What is more important than ending our involvement in war? You may not agree with me or anyone else in what to do about it or how to express yourself. But don't blame activists for results that your activism could have helped to prevent.

Mary G. Clark, Route 1, North Liberty

To the Editor:

A note of appreciation to all of the area amateur sign painters:

Congratulations on another fine season of besmirching the environment of Iowa City. From the early successes of the "Jeanne-Brian" scrawls of the "No More Lay-offs" presentations (done in a beautiful pre-revolutionary script), the community has been able to enjoy the utmost in visual excellence of graffiti presentations in many public and central locations. Special recognition must be given to those artists who departed from the traditional usage of black paint and experimented with new and vibrant hues of red, orange and green, raising their art to a new level of coloration. Although no one quite achieved the heroic levels of spring, 1970 (highlighted of course, by the refurbishing of Old Capitol's pillars in the debut of "ROTC" — magnificent in its simplicity), this year's crop of promising artists excelled in their work. If awards were to be given, surely the "NYRAN" duet and the "Pick-up Female Hitchhikers" protagonists would be high on the list of recipients. Congratulations again on a job well done.

SUGGESTION: Would next year's sign-painting participants consider using the Daily Iowan for their medium of presentation. Trash belongs in its natural habitat.

Write down information — you will forget details very quickly. But don't get caught or you may have your paper confiscated and used to strengthen the cop's testimony.

At the stationhouse the cops "book" you, which means getting certain information about you and charging you with a crime. You can expect the booking to take several hours — this serves to keep you off the streets. There is the police arrest record, which asks about your name, age, address and occupation. There is the CR-1 form for drugs; You should never answer questions about drugs, submit to no medical examination. Lawyers advise that even a simple "No" to queries about usage may be harmful — wait to speak to a lawyer.

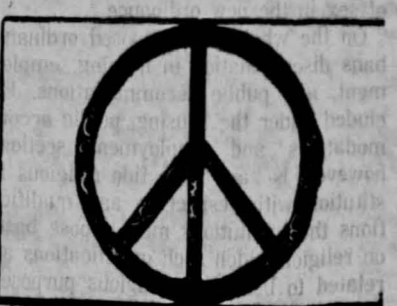

In addition to asking the questions on the forms, the cops will question you about what you did. They may pretend that they are questioning you from the form; don't be taken in! Don't answer any questions except those dealing with name, address, age, occupation.

As we said, this is not a substitute for a lawyer, not a substitute for better understanding of the American justice system and how it functions.

To close: be cool, don't talk, take care of one another, have a good day. Peace.

Union Rail Appeal Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal appeals court rejected an effort Friday by the railroad unions to sidetrack Amtrak, the new national railway service from beginning operations as scheduled Saturday.

He rejected their plea that a delay be granted so that arguments over the fairness of labor protective provisions could be heard.

The decision by a three-man panel upheld a decision earlier in the day by a U.S. District Court Judge Howard F. Corcoran.

Corcoran also turned down the request by the Congress of Railway Unions and passenger groups to delay the discontinuance of trains not being taken over by Amtrak.

Viet Medal Winner Killed in Robbery

DETROIT (AP) — A Michigan man who won the Medal of Honor for bravery in Vietnam was shot and killed Friday by a store owner who said the soldier tried to rob him. Police said the medal winner, Dwight Johnson, 23, of Detroit, entered the store armed with a gun and announced a holdup. Charles Vandendeghem, the owner, tried to wrestle the gun from him but was wounded in the left arm, police said.

Johnson, who was on convalescent leave after undergoing psychiatric treatment at Valley Forge Army Hospital near Philadelphia had been an Army recruiter in Detroit until his hospitalization months ago. Johnson was presented the nation's highest award by former President Lyndon Johnson in a White House ceremony Nov. 19, 1968. Johnson told the President "the ceremony was the only time I was really scared."

A dinner was held in his honor in Detroit the following February and among those attending was Gen. William Westmoreland, who declared, "The unsurpassed heroism of this Medal of Honor winner has reserved for him a special permanent place in the annals of history."

The citation for action near Dak To, South Vietnam, on Jan. 15, 1968 said Johnson was serving as a tank driver when his vehicle was immobilized during a battle with North Vietnamese regulars.

Johnson left his tank armed only with his .45-caliber pistol and killed seven enemy while under heavy hostile fire. He returned to the tank for his sub-machine gun and attacked the enemy, again risking his life. When that weapon ran out of ammunition he pulled a wounded GI from another tank, but returned to fire its cannon until that was out of shells. Johnson said later his travel orders back to the U.S. were in his pack throughout that morning near Dak To. After leaving the service in July 1969 he re-enlisted in November to serve as a recruiter in Detroit's inner city.

Iowa Baseballers Even Big 10 Mark— Hawkeyes Clip Hoosiers Twice

By JOHN RICHARDS
Assoc. Sports Editor

Iowa baseball coach Duane Banks got half of his wish for the weekend as his team swept a Big 10 doubleheader from Indiana Friday, 6-2 and 5-3, and put their winning streak at 7.

Banks said Thursday before the big weekend games with Indiana Friday and Ohio State today that his team would need four wins to get back in the race. The Hawks got two Friday, but not without a scare or two.

Indiana drew first blood in the first game after center-fielder Jim Shoup singled and scored after three straight walks by Hawkeye hurler Mark Tschopp. But that was all the real control trouble Tschopp had for the day as he recorded his third win of the season in five decisions. He is 2-0 in the Big 10.

The Hawks are now 3-3 in the league and face Ohio State in a doubleheader today, at the Iowa Diamond beginning at 1 p.m. The Buckeyes were tied for the Big 10 lead with Indiana and Michigan State before Friday's games. The Hoosiers are now 3-3 in the conference.

and 9-10 for the year. Iowa is 15-10 for the year.

Fred Mims knotted the contest in the second inning when he led off with a home run to right-center. It was Mims' fifth homer of the year and kept alive his hitting streak which reached 11 games when the day was over.

Iowa scored again in the third on a bit of a mixup by the Hoosiers' defense. Jeff Elgin singled and stole second. Jim Cox hit a high fly ball to left which got away from Indiana's Greg Johns. Elgin was running all the way, but would have been an easy out at the plate had not shortstop Dale Thake mistakenly cut the throw and fired to second.

The Hawkeyes' biggest inning offensively was the fourth when they tallied three times on two hits, two walks and an error. First baseman Tom Hurn led off the inning with a double, moved on a passed ball and scored when Thake muffed Larry Schutzius' grounder.

Tschopp bunted Schutzius to second and Ray Smith walked to keep the Iowa rally alive. Elgin held up his end by doubling in both runners.

The Hawks got their final run in the sixth when Jim Sundberg walked, stole second, moved to third on a sacrifice by Schutzius and scored on Tschopp's fly ball to right.

Indiana also scored in the sixth. They did it on two walks and catcher Sunberg's throwing error. Pitch-hitter Randy Miller and Shoup walked. Sundberg attempted to pick Shoup off first, but threw too high and Miller came in to score.

Tschopp had handcuffed the Hoosiers on five singles in the first game and they appeared ready to take out their anxiety on pitcher Bill Hager in the second game.

Hager, who did not appear quite ready when he took the mound, was greeted by three straight singles in the first inning after Mike Edwards had grounded out to start the game.

The singles produced only one run but left Hager in plenty of trouble. He got Gary Ginn to fly to left, but walked Greg Johns to fill the bases. Thake, hoping to make up for his first game miscues, drove a single over second base to drive in three runs. Tim Gehrig struck out to end the inning, but Banks already had told two relievers to get loose.

But they weren't really needed. Hager held the Hoosiers hitless the rest of the way and was never in any trouble. Banks chose to bring in Fernando Arango in the seventh when Hager began looking tired. Arango was credited with his second save of the year.

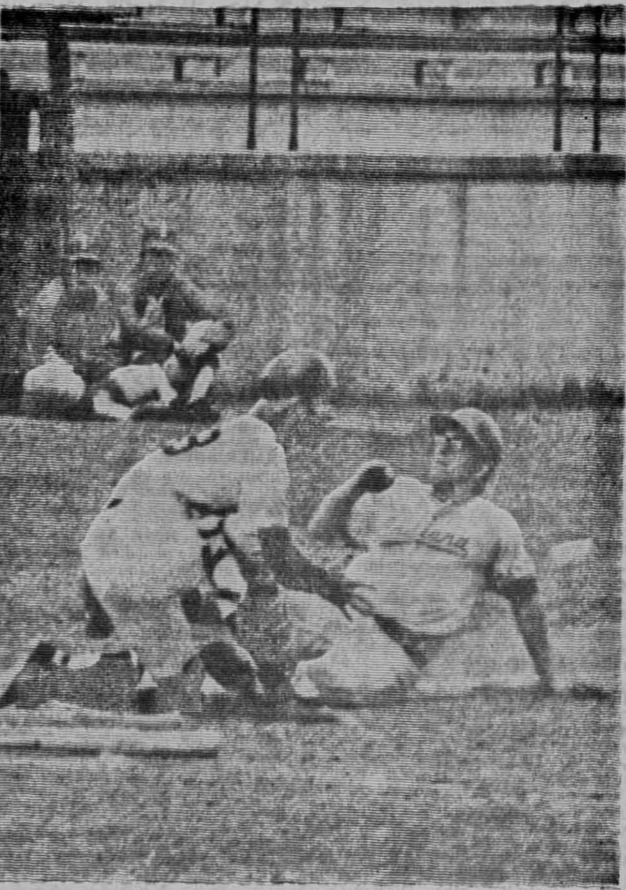

It looked for a while like Indiana's lead might hold up as the Hawks would put runners on and then left them there. But in the fourth things changed a bit.

Cox singled to left, moved to second on a wild pitch, went to third on a groundout by Mims and scored on another wild pitch by Indiana pitcher Ron Beatty, who had three in the game.

Dave Blazin fled to right for also got the game winning RBI in the next inning. Again Wessels singled. This time to left and moved on to second when shortstop Thake missed the throw in from the leftfielder. Schutzius followed with a single to left this time to score Wessels. Schutzius tallied a run for icing moments later when he scored from third on Ray Smith's fly ball to center.

Joe Wessels kept the rally going with a single to center. He moved to second on a passed ball and scored the tying run when Schutzius singled to right. Schutzius

Esser Tops Gray as Hawk Netters Romp

By JAY EWOLDT
Sports Editor

Iowa's Jim Esser clipped Tom Gray in three sets in the No. 1 singles match as the Hawkeye tennis team successfully continued its bid for its first Big 10 championship since 1958 by whipping Michigan State 7-2 Friday at the Iowa Courts.

Iowa, now 13-4 for the season and 5-1 in the Big 10, faces defending conference champion Michigan today in a match beginning at 1 p.m. on the Iowa Courts.

Esser, who bolstered his confidence with an impressive victory over Notre Dame's Buster Brown a week ago, handed former Waterloo prep Gray his first loss of the season in seven outings, 7-6, 1-6, 6-3.

Iowa, which trailed Illinois by four points in the Big 10 race going into Friday's match, swept five of six singles matches and two of the three doubles matches to frolic to victory.

Injury-plagued Rod Kubat suffered Iowa's only singles match loss as MSU's De Armond Briggs handed him 6-1, 6-3, set-backs. Iowa Coach John Winnie said Kubat, suffering from a sprained knee, was played only to keep the Iowa rotation intact.

In perhaps the most impressive match of the day, Iowa's Craig Sandvig smashed MSU's Mike Madura, 6-2, 6-2 in a lightning-fast match that contrasted with the five and one-half hour match which was forced indoors by rain.

Michigan State Coach Stan Drobec called Sandvig's play the "most outstanding" of the day and added that the Sandvig-Esser doubles team will be hard to beat in Big 10 play. Esser and Sandvig teamed to whip Briggs and Gray, 6-2, 7-6 in the top doubles match.

Iowa Coach Winnie, pleased with his team's showing, said, "the tough one is over. It was an all out effort on our part."

Michigan State, which plays at Minnesota today, falls to 5-4 overall and 3-2 in the Big 10.

SINGLES — Esser (1) beat Gray, 7-6, 1-6, 6-3; Sandvig (1) beat Kubat, 6-1, 6-3; Bruce Nagel (1) beat Rick Vetter, 7-6, 4-6, 7-5; Steve Houghton (1) beat Jim Symington, 7-6, 4-6, 6-2; Lee Wright (1) beat Rich Perman 7-6, 5-7, 6-4.

DOUBLES — Esser-Sandvig beat Gray-Briggs, 6-2, 7-6; Madura-Vetter (M.S.) beat Kubat-Nagel, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2; Houghton-Wright (1) beat Symington-Perman, 6-7, 6-3, 7-6.
