Police Arrest 7,000 in D.C. Protest Memorial, Protest Planned Here

By BILL MEYER
Daily Iowan Reporter

A Kent State-Jackson State Memorial Convocation along with a rally and march are in the offing for Wednesday, according to plans made Monday night by nearly 100 persons meeting in the Union under the theme of "May 5 — No Business As Usual."

The Memorial Convocation is to commemorate four students killed by National Guardsmen at Kent State University last May 4 and two others killed by state police at Jackson State University last May 6 in the wake of national protests of the U.S. invasion of Cambodia.

Other activities planned for the day are in conjunction with a national call for "No Business as Usual" to protest the war.

The day's activities will begin with a call for support of the Iowa Peace Action Committee's picketing of a draft bus leaving Iowa City at 4:30 a.m. Wednesday.

"Bringing the war to the classroom" is scheduled for the remainder of Wednesday morning leading up to the Memorial Convocation between 12:30 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. on the Pentacrest.

Speakers' themes will center on both Kent and Jackson State, and U.S. involvement in Indochina.

Present plans do not call for a general boycott of classes but an effort will be made to devote class time for a discussion of the war effort.

An open microphone is planned for the Pentacrest throughout Wednesday afternoon and the day's activities will conclude with a rally-march at 7 p.m. The march is planned for Clinton Street past the Johnson County Courthouse and from there to the National Guard Armory where a wreath will be placed.

Another strategy meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the Union Activities Center for all interested persons.

At the meeting Monday night were members of Student Senate, the New University Conference, Students for a Democratic Society, Student Liberation Front, Women's Liberation Front, Iowa Peace Action Committee, the Peoples' Peace Treaty Committee, a number of sororities and fraternities, as well as a large number of unaffiliated persons.

Concentration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their efforts to jam the workings of government a failure, thousands of traffic-disrupting antiwar demonstrators spent a bleak night in makeshift jails with little prospect they would be free in time to participate in planned renewal of the protests Tuesday.

Police said more than 7,000 were arrested. It was a record number for a single day and taxed the city's jail facilities so severely some 1,600 were put into outdoor compounds and moved in mid-evening into a sports arena.

Eight courts each were processing an average of 20 hourly, a process that could take days. Bail bonds were routinely set at $250, a sum few of the arrestees had.

"Due to the large number of arrests today, the government has rented the Washington Coliseum to use as an enclosed detention facility," a police statement said. "Prisoners will be separated by sex and juveniles will be held in separate quarters. Arrangements have been made to insure that all prisoners are adequately fed and housed."

TROOPS REMAIN

Troops remained in the city and nearby for use Tuesday morning.

"The disruption of the morning rush hour was not any more than that of a heavy rain," said Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson.

Demonstration leaders had threatened to disrupt homebound traffic, too, but there was little sign of it Monday. With traffic police and federal troops out, cars and buses seemed to move faster than usual. There was only one trouble spot — in Ward Circle near American University — and that was minor and short-lived.

During the day, many of the prisoners were housed in a football practice field and a jail exercise yard, but the temperatures were dropping toward the low 40s by the time buses started moving them to the Coliseum.

Rennie Davis, one of Chicago 7 defendants and coordinator of the day's activities, was arrested by FBI agents Monday afternoon, charged with conspiring to interfere with the exercise of constitutional rights by citizens of the capital and its suburbs. His bond is $25,000.

Earlier he had told a news conference, "We feel that we failed this morning to stop the United States government. In no way did we outmaneuver the police." He said, however, he saw something more profound, "The development of a people's organization."

Government agencies reported little if any increase in absenteeism. In many cases the demonstrations failed even to slow work-bound employees.

The tactics of standing on roads, blocking them with cars or construction materials, often resulted in tear gassing and some clubbing of young people. More than 100 were treated at area hospitals, mostly for tear-gas related injuries.

HIGH BAIL

The city's courts, resuming round-the-clock operations with eight judges sitting in as many rooms, were hard on the protesters.

Judge Charles W. Halleck set bail at $250 for most of the first 20 to come before him. In other anti-war demonstrations the last two weeks 10 per cent of the bail has been accepted as collateral, but such was not the case Monday.

The defendants in the first group before Halleck were all charged under a disorderly conduct statute.

Carl Zito, speaking for the People's Coalition, said "the violence was perpetrated by the police and the government. They tried to provoke us into retaliating with violence. It didn't happen." He said in some cases, rather than make arrests, "the tactic was to beat people. We were continually gassed when we tried to regroup."

Lawyer Philip Hirschkop, who represents many of those arrested, said 2,000 were being held in a compound "of the most primitive means at RFK Stadium." He charged the prisoners had been tear-gassed "at least three times at the stadium."

Late in the afternoon, the Army began taking prisoners from Washington detention areas to Ft. Belvoir, Va., where they were to be fed and housed in barracks, the Pentagon announced. Additional prisoners were being moved to other federal facilities.

Some 4,000 federal troops were in the city, used mainly to guard bridges and public buildings. About 1,200 men from the 82nd Airborne Division were in readiness at RFK Stadium and other units were on alert at nearby Andrews AFB. They were to be rotated with troops on duty in the capital.

RECORD ARRESTS

Never in the city's demonstration-flecked history had there been as many arrests in a single day.

Demonstration leaders said 20,000 took part and that many would continue the disruptions Tuesday and Wednesday.

VOTE TODAY ON TREATY

University of Iowa Elections Board has announced that polls will be situated at the following sites for the Peoples' Peace Treaty referendum today: from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. — Union Gold Feather Lobby, outside the Liberal Arts Office in Schaeffer Hall, in the main entrance of the English-Philosophy Building.

From 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. — Burge, Currier, Quadrangle, and Hillcrest Residence Halls.

The board plans to announce referendum results by 9 p.m. Tuesday.

All university students are eligible to vote on whether to ratify the terms of the Joint Treaty of Peace between the people of the United States and the people of North Vietnam and South Vietnam — the Peoples' Peace Treaty. Copies of the Treaty will be available at polling places.

Peacefest? Rockfest? — It's Over!

--12,000 Attended, 12 Arrested--

By DEBBIE ROMINE
DI Assoc. City-University Editor

"None of the MayDay Coalition people ever called it a rock fest," said coalition member Frank Snyder, G, but that's what it was Saturday as 12,000 people tramped to Lake MacBride Field Campus to celebrate people's peace, music and May Day.

After passing five Highway Patrol checkpoints, some parked cars for as much as $2 then made the four-mile hike to the site. Others, after standing in line for as long as two hours, caught coalition-sponsored buses which dropped them off about a mile from where eight rock bands were to entertain them.

As about half the crowd streamed across the mudflats in back of the campus' natural amphitheater, a freak with cider bottles and two Army water tanks poured forth the only legal liquid refreshment on the federally-owned land.

"The daycare center is up," said a speaker, gesturing toward a pink canvas-covered geodesic dome.

It was 10:46 a.m. and recorded music blared. Dr. Tony Colby had set up a medical tent. The information tent was busy. Presidential assistant Robert Engel, one of the fest's major coordinators, strode around in blue denim jacket and orange striped bell bottoms, smiling.

"Will the woman who talked to me about cooking vegetables here and anyone who knows how to cook things like chickpeas and garbanzo beans please report to the cooking area?"

The coalition had arranged for free food. Vending was illegal.

Two American flags fluttered along side a red, yellow and blue National Liberation Front banner and one with a giant fist. The lines at the specially-ordered portable toilets grew and shrunk rhythmically.

Before the day was over, 12 people had incurred 30 legal charges after searches by officers at checkpoints. Large quantities of liquor and drugs were confiscated. Monday night two people, Michael Maloney and Erica Flaum, both of Iowa City, were still being held on narcotics possession charges in Johnson County Jail, each on $1,000 bond.

"We were a little disappointed at the way the political flavor was lost," Snyder commented.

"Having it at MacBride meant we spent the last two days just getting equipment there," added Sandra Smith, another coalition member. "If we could have had it at City Park the crowd would have been more political people rather than people coming in from all over Iowa for a rock festival... people who came probably just got a day of music, I'm afraid."

Anti-War Veterans Stage Mock Raid

University of Iowa Veterans Against the War staged a mock search and destroy raid on West Branch Saturday. The raid, designed to call attention to U.S. military tactics in Vietnam, was viewed by approximately one hundred curious West Branchers and twenty-five law enforcement officers.

Starting at the west end of town, the veterans marched east pulling "Vietnam peasants" from the crowd. The "peasants" were searched, tied, and made to lie on the ground in a group by guards.

Throughout the demonstration a command car followed, the occupants explaining to the crowd that what they were seeing was a re-enactment of an everyday occurrence in Vietnam.

Milt Reigelman, G, one of the demonstration organizers, said he feels that despite indifference on the part of some of the townspeople, the demonstration was effective.

Reigelman said, "The mayor thanked us for using his town for the mock mission. We even got some encouraging comments from several of the highway patrolmen who were there."

'People's Gardener' Arrested For Disobeying Policeman

The People's Garden Parade was disrupted Saturday by the arrest of one of its members, Bill Howell 24, of rural Iowa City, for alleged disobedience of a police officer.

The parade, scheduled for 12:30 p.m., left the College Street Park at approximately 12:45 for its destination, the People's gardens behind the County Courthouse Jail.

Howell's arrest came shortly after the 15 paraders, were marching down Washington Street singing, were ordered to get up on the sidewalk by a policeman in a squad car.

Area Construction Workers Strike

By LORRIE PIAENZA
Daily Iowan Reporter

Roofers picketed University of Iowa job sites Monday in a move that will shut down all construction work in the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City area.

The strike, originally scheduled to begin this morning, was moved ahead a day when three unions — representing painters, iron workers and roofers — left their jobs Monday. The roofers were the only ones who posted pickets.

The strike plan was the result of an unsuccessful two-hour meeting between representatives of 12 building trade unions and Allied Construction Interests (which represents the majority of contractors in the area) in Cedar Rapids Monday.

Contracts with unions expired at midnight Friday.

George Horner, university architect, said Monday the university sites that have been picketed are the Dental Building, the Music Auditorium, the Library, the Basic Science Building and the Nursing Building. Horner remarked that "once one (union) goes, they all go," and that the strike would bring construction to a crashing halt.

Some Iowa City building trade unions do not support the strike. Jim Knight, representative of the Laborers' Local Union No. 1238, and Thomas Verry, representative of the Carpenters Local Union No. 1260, both said they wish to continue working and negotiating. The laborers and the carpenters, however, intend to respect all picket lines that are present.

The laborers held an informational meeting about the strike Monday night. The carpenters met at the same time at their union headquarters.

The 12 building trade unions involved are the bricklayers, carpenters, cement finishers, glaziers, painters, roofers, iron workers, laborers, tile setters, operating engineers, truck drivers and asbestos workers.

15 Found 'Guilty' In Daycare Push

Fifteen members of the Dum-Dum Daycare cooperative were found guilty of disorderly conduct Saturday for the occupation of a university-owned house April 11. The group attempted to establish a daycare facility in the university's Language House.

Charges against two other members were dropped when witnesses for the prosecution failed to include them when asked to identify the participants in the confrontation.

Those found guilty of disorderly conduct were Phillis Berry, A4E; Marshall Buddin; Theresa Carbrey, A4; Dan Cheeseman; Ginna Hoff; Cheryl Miller, A4; Monica Moore; Thomas Moore, A2; Craig Muhl, A4; Julie Muhl, A3; Jerry Sies; Donald Smith, G; Francis Snyder, G; Kenneth Swain and Janice Wilkenson.

Charges against Donna Davis and Roland Schembari were dismissed. Thornton deferred imposition of penalties until 4 p.m. May 5.

'Conduct' Proposal Delayed by Council

Iowa City's newly proposed disorderly conduct ordinance may have hit a snag. Iowa City Councilman Patrick White said Monday he plans to ask for a postponement of the third reading of the proposed ordinance, which will also delay its adoption.

At Monday's informal council meeting, White said the ordinance is more involved than he originally thought and he would like to discuss some changes with the council at its next informal meeting in two weeks.

In Memoriam — Kent State
Copyright Valley Daily News

It is now one year since four students were brutally slain at Kent State University. It is now one year since Mary Vecchio knelt over the dead body of one of those students and cried out in anguish, "He's dead!" It is now one year since the country was turned upside down by those four murders and by the invasion of Cambodia by the United States.

And where do we find ourselves on this anniversary?

The rage, the healthy violent anger, which greeted the actions of the Ohio National Guard and the United States Army has dissipated, melted away into the past, almost impossible, now, to recall.

Mary Vecchio, a year older, languishes in the Kendall Youth Home, south of Miami, Fla., ruined, her lawyer says, by the aftermath of Kent State. Ruined by the flood of venomous, vicious hate mail which flooded into her home after her identity was made public, ruined by the principal of her high school who suspended her, saying, "The youngsters didn't want to have anything to do with her — and I was proud of them."

One year after Kent State our foreign policy and our domestic policy remain the same, perhaps only a little more obscene as we shoot for "acceptable" body counts. In the interim between May 4, 1970 and May 4, 1971, Nixon managed to pull off an invasion of Laos with only minor disturbances resulting.

Seventy-three per cent of the American public, according to a recent Gallup Poll, want out of Indochina NOW.

Nixon remains unmoved.

The students, dead last year, are still dead this year and will be dead next year. Venerated last May, their deaths reacted to as though they were the first to die for the cause of freedom, this year their names are largely forgotten. Just as the names of so many others are gone, wiped out of the history books, their roles no longer reviewed by the critics of the World Theater.

Who remembers Miller, Krause, Scheuer, Schroeder, Green, Gibbs? Who remembers Parsons, Spies, Engel, Fischer? Who remembers Recter, Chaney, Goodman, Schwerner? Who ever knew the names of the hundreds of faceless black men lynched in the South and the millions murdered, both men and women, black and white, by more subtle means, in the North? And has anyone ever heard of John Ball?

The history of the struggle for freedom and dignity is a long and illustrious one. We forget too quickly.

On this anniversary perhaps the question we should all be asking ourselves is, "How many more must die?" How many more before freedom, before dignity for all of humankind, is a reality? We cannot afford to stop the struggle.

Letters: Joining the WITCH

To the Editor:
I was interested in the article on Epstein's getting hexed. As a woman who is trying to change certain attitudes that I find degrading to my human person, I fully agree with the WITCHes — whoever they are. It doesn't take much to see what the problem is. Epstein's is supposed to be a bookstore for the students; "right on" as the jargon goes. They claim that it is all in fun. There are some things which are not funny. Those posters are nothing less than a "dig" at women trying to cope with attitudes which force them to play stifling sex games.

I thought it very ironic that a woman was spokesperson for the store. Anytime I've been in there, the men are taking care of business and if any women are around, they are behind the cash register. It sounds to me like a well thought out move to make it a "woman's hassle." I have decided that I can buy all my books at a place which doesn't make a point of pushing such things as degrading posters and supports magazines which use women's bodies on the cover to sell them ("Evergreen Review") in the window. And I would like to have the WITCHes in the open, too. I'd like to join them.

To the Editor:
How would you like to lose 10 lbs. of ugly feet? Yes, this is an invitation to walk them off on the road to Des Moines. In recent weeks, both Hughes and Miller have been shifting their positions on the draft, and we may be able to get a vote against the two year extension reported to the Senate last week. A one year compromise would give us the advantage of having the issue come up again in an election year.

The march will set out at 5 AM Wednesday in front of the next bus to Fort Des Moines. For some of us that will mean staying up all night, but, after all, it is National Moratorium Day — a day for no business as usual. At least come and walk part way with us. In fact, anytime you can spend a day walking with us, we will be happy to provide transportation to and from whichever miniscule place the march may be sheltering in. Just call the American Friends Service Committee at 338-7250.

If you prefer dieting to friction amputation as a method for losing weight, we still have a plan for you. Go hungry for three days. Well, not completely, we'll give you a glass of skimmed orange juice, and a nice cup of clean chicken broth every day. That's to keep your salt metabolism in order. You also get a free arm band stamped with some banality like "End the Draft Fast."

Most places in Iowa the fast begins on Saturday, but in Iowa City we've moved it up to 1:40 PM Friday. That's when three of the People go on trial for standing in front of the Bus to Fort Des Moines. Even if you can't stand hunger, please come to the trial at the civic center, and then walk with us to the post office; write a letter, there; and sign our petition. It will give us something besides draft cards to turn in when we get to Des Moines. If you would like to fast, give Riek Smith a call at 338-9137.

I'm not ordinarily very big on letter writing. I don't think the Combine cares what we think. But the march and fast carry a vague threat of commitment, a willingness to devote the effort required to lead large numbers in more direct action.

Lately, several opinions have been expressed about the appeal of the DI, under its present editorial staff. I can only say that if it were not for the beer ads by Max Shulman, there would be no reason to anticipate reading the DI each day. In my opinion, Max is and "chairperson," which have appeared recently, has not gone unnoticed — nor unappreciated. I admire these small efforts at ridding the vocabulary of some of the words which have been associated with only the male sex in the past. But I have a question regarding another alteration you have made: how do you pronounce "Ms?" (Miss? Missus? Mistress?) In order to be effective it should be put to use in our spoken as well as our written vocabulary.

Your use of the words, "spokesperson"

'GI numba one. Me no VC'

By Karen Rhodes
It's 7:30 in the morning and I'm standing in the middle of Government Center, shivering with the cold, dragging on a Camel and completely and utterly TERRIFIED. There are about eight of us huddling together in a group getting instructions on the upcoming action. The night before we had been told what to expect from the GIs; that they'd be rough (but not hurt us intentionally), the language would be abusive, not to resist too much — that would only get the GIs more worked up, and what to say when questioned... "No VC." "GI numba one." "VC numba ten, me no VC."

Well, here I am, surrounded by GIs in green fatigues, carrying fake knives and rifles (they look real to me). Our leader is telling us what the first action will entail. The whole idea, of course, is to shock people as they emerge from the subway station on the way to work. Even I am shocked. My stomach turns over again and I do not volunteer.

The rest of us stay back as two of our group head toward the station. They go inside. Now the troops start moving forward. They crawl slowly, slowly, signaling back and forth to each other, inch by inch, on their bellies toward the station and VC suspects within. All of a sudden they're up and running, yelling and shouting running toward my friends, dragging them out of their shelter, pushing and shoving, pulling and tripping. They surrounded them. My friends are clinging together in their fright, they are yanked apart and I hear a scream. All I can see are the GIs. All I can hear are the sounds of my friends piteously trying to make themselves understood. "No VC no VC" they cry frantically. They are shot.

There are four victims needed for the next action. I volunteer, because if I don't get it over with, I know that I'll throw up. Off I go, headed to the station, clinging to the young man at my side, my "papa-san". I am too scared to think or see, I just move. Now we're standing inside in front of the turnstiles. I refuse to look outside, to see them coming, "popin' and snoopin'." This is the worst part, waiting. I watch the people coming up the stairs, on their way to a perfectly ordinary day at work, so they think. Just wait... Mr. Gray Flannel Suit... Oh, Jesus, here they are. I've got my head buried on my papa-san's shoulder, if I don't look maybe they'll go away. Oh, but they don't. Someone grabs me and drags me away from papa-san. They're yelling at me but I don't understand what they're saying. I am so confused, I can't see my friends, where is everyone? I keep my head down, when anyone yells at me I say, "no VC" and they're pushing and prodding me with their rifles. "Stand up." "Didn't I tell you to sit down?" "I said stand up." "Get down you dumb slope." "Boy these gooks can't even follow orders. Up down, up down, up down, down, down with a rifle in my face.

"VC." "Me no VC," I plead. "Open your mouth. I said open your mouth." I do, and I get a rifle in it. "You VC." How can I answer with a rifle in my mouth? They drag me to my feet and put a rope around my neck. I am tied to a girl who is dead, she's laying on the bricks, DEAD. Papa-san is on his knees and they are poking at him. His chin is bleeding. They push me. I'm not allowed to look around, and they tug me forward. The rope tightens around my neck and I choke. I can't walk. I can't answer any questions. I'm of no use to them, so they push me down again and shoot me. And I lie back on the hard bricks with the rain on my face. Someone rips my bracelet off my wrist. There is a hushed silence around us. My friends and I lie there. Someone coughs. We lie there. From inside the station I hear gun-fire. We lie there. Then our other friends come, they are crying. They pick us up and carry us away.

Supreme Court Removes Capital Punishment Block

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court removed a legal roadblock Monday to mass executions in the United States by a 6-3 ruling upholding the broad authority of juries to choose between life and death sentences.

Wholesale executions are not expected immediately, however, since the ultimate challenge to death penalty, as a "cruel and unusual punishment" barred by the U.S. Constitution, still remains open. The court said Monday that the Constitution does not require legislatures to set standards to guide juries in capital cases. The three dissenters protested that this was endorsing "the states' power to kill" instead of the rule of law.

the court, many of them raising the "cruel and unusual punishment" argument. The NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund summoned a national conference in New York City May 15-16 of lawyers from the 38 states that employ the death penalty. A fund lawyer, Jeffrey Mintz, said he expects the court to hear the Eighth Amendment argument within a year.

The decision, announced by Justice John M. Harlan, said no list of circumstances telling juries when to pronounce life and when death would never be really complete.

antiwar demonstrators in Washington. "You youngsters face a big job," he said. "You are saying to us old folks, 'no more lies.' We've been living in a mess and you're forcing us to see reality."

Hand-painted signs seemed to indicate that students were remembering the deaths and are concerned about the possibility of more violence this year. Dormitory windows displayed signs such as "Keep Kent All In One Peace" and "Kent State United."

At the same time, the court rejected a plea that it order trials split into two phases. The idea was to allow a defendant who did not take the stand to have a chance, if convicted, of personally trying to dissuade the jury against imposing the death penalty.

The ruling ended two and a half years of suspenseful consideration by the court. While it deliberated, hearing the issues argued three times, the death house population rose to where there are 641 men and 7 women on condemned row in 33 states.

In other actions the court: • Upheld the government's power to prosecute people who send pornography through the mails and to seize obscene material brought into the country. • Declined again to hear an appeal involving school segregation in the North.

• Agreed to pass on the question of whether newsmen have a constitutional right to refuse to appear before grand juries and to identify confidential news sources.

• Moved toward a possible ruling on the constitutional rights of women to end pregnancies by taking on tests of the Texas and Georgia abortion laws.

• Agreed to hear three pollution suits. There has not been an execution in the United States since June 2, 1967.

Hawks Split; Host Upper I.

Special to the DI
 DEKALB, Ill. — Iowa's baseball team saw its winning streak snapped by Northern Illinois Monday, 7-5, in the first game of a doubleheader. The Hawkeyes came back to crush NIU, 14-1, in the nightcap.

Iowa will have a chance to continue its new streak today when the Hawks host powerful Upper Iowa in a twin-bill at the Iowa Diamond. The games begin at 2 p.m. Upper Iowa is 14-2 and leads the Iowa Conference.

In the first inning of the first game when Jim Cox hit a three-run home run and Gary Keopple doubled in another run. Cox's homer was his eighth of the year and broke the Iowa individual season mark held by Jack Lundquist (1953).

Fred Mims, who had a big day with three hits and four RBI's, started the pilage with a three-run blast in the first. Larry Schutzius followed with a two-run homer in the second inning that cleared the center-field wall 378-feet away.

Northern Illinois scored two runs in the bottom of the first. They took a 6-4 lead in the third when they shelled Iowa pitcher Neil Mandsager for four runs on five singles. NIU iced the game with a single run in the fourth after the Hawks had scored a run in their half on Cox's double.

Steve Schauenberg got the win for NIU and is now 4-0. Mandsager was the loser drop.

Netters, Harriers Lose Meets; Golfers 7th—Baseballers to 3rd in Big 10

Iowa moved to within one game of the Big 10 baseball lead Saturday by beating Ohio State, 7-3 and 6-0. But the Hawks' margin of error in conference action is still zero.

The league season is nearing the halfway point, but as yet, no clear-cut favorite has been established. Michigan State had drawn the most votes before last weekend, but the Spartans split a two-game series with state rival Michigan to leave them tied for first with Minnesota.

game, and tied an Iowa record for home runs in a season. The righthanded hitting second baseman was three-for-seven for the day with two runs-batted in.

Minnesota and MSU both have 6-2 records. Iowa and Illinois are one game back at 5-3. Purdue is fifth at 4-4.

There were a number of Hawkeye stars in Saturday's games, played in a chilly wind and with threatening skies above the Iowa Diamond. For pitcher Chet Teklinski, the hero's role couldn't have come at a better time.

Third baseman Larry Schutzius took home both a hero's crown and goat's horns. Schutzius batted in a pair of runs in the first game with a single to give the Hawks a 5-3 lead, but it came after he had been guilty of four errors.

John Winnie knew his team was going to have problems last Saturday. Winnie squaded painfully as his tennis squad dropped its second Big 10 match of the season, 7-2, to Michigan.

"Teklinski pitched a hell of a game," Banks said very excitedly Saturday. "The team needed it, I needed it and most of all, Chet needed it. That gives us four starting pitchers for the big games ahead."

Injuries to three top players — no. 2 Rod Kubat, No. 5 Steve Houghton and no. 6 Lee Wright.

Gridders Pick Co-Captains

Craig Clemons and Geoff Mickelson have been elected Iowa's 1971 football co-captains by a vote of the squad, Coach Frank X. Lauterbur announced today.

Clemons, a defensive cornerback, was named to the all-Big 10 second team in 1969 and 1970. A native of Piqua, O., he has career totals of 122 unassisted tackles and five pass interceptions.

Clemons also handles Iowa's punt-return duties. In two seasons he has 282 yards on 25 punbacks. The 6-1, 193 pounder has already received some pre-season All-America recognition this year.

Today's meet will feature an array of small college teams from around Iowa as well as teams from Iowa State and Northern Iowa. Drake is unable to compete because of the Missouri Valley championships this week. Iowa's Finkbine Gold Golf Course will be the site of the 36-hole meet.

As for the Northern Intercollegiate, Iowa just couldn't keep going after holding fifth place at the halfway point.

"We just didn't play well," Zweiner said Monday. "We haven't reached the peak we had last year at this time and I don't understand why. I hope we can start in the Iowa Invitational and carry through to the Big 10 meet (May 14-15)."

Ohio State came from nowhere to win the tournament Saturday. The Buckeyes had been in fourth spot at midpoint in the 72-hole event. They totaled 1,506 strokes with Michigan State second with 1,512.

Ren Kellew, who according to Zweiner "has found himself the last few weeks," carded a 301 to ten Iowa. Joe Hejny was close behind with a 305. Chris Loren had a 314. Brad Post a 315. Jay Boros a 317 and Schuchat a 318.

Purdue humbled Iowa's track team in a dual meet at Lafayette Saturday, but there were more bright spots for Hawkeyes. Coach Francis Cretzmeyer had the score indicated.

The Boilermakers rolled in victories in 11 of the 18 events and outpointed Iowa, 82-87. It was Purdue's second Big 10 win without a loss and left the Hawks at 0-2.

"Craig Johnson did an excellent job in winning two events (100 and 220 dashes) and recording two of his best times of the spring," Cretzmeyer said Monday. "Phil Wertman also should be complimented as should our other winners — Dave Eastland (three-mile), Bob Schum (mile) and Rich Hexum (440)."

"Eastland deserves plenty of credit because he has a real bad foot that he injured at the Drake Relays," Cretzmeyer added. "He was running on sheer determination Saturday. John Criswell should also be mentioned even though he did not win his specialty. He was beaten by the top 800 man in the Big 10 — and not by much."

Wertman, who has been making a habit of breaking records lately, topped the Boilermaker track record for the pole vault by going 15-8 3/4.

North Vietnamese Gunners Shell Thieu Regime Base

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners shelled Dai Loc Monday after Thieu regime militiamen faced their first test of defending that military district headquarters and bloodily repulsed an attack.

A Thieu regime headquarters communication said 60 mortar and recoilless rifle shells hit the town, 15 miles south of Da Nang, but claimed only one house was damaged and that there were no casualties.

Only 24 hours before, a battalion of the veteran North Vietnamese 38th Regiment attacked Dai Loc behind a mortar barrage and heavy fighting swirled around the town of 42,000 for four hours, then flared up occasionally until Monday morning.

SAIGON HEADQUARTERS reported 92 of the North Vietnamese were killed and two captured, but a dispatch from Dai Loc said five North Vietnamese were taken prisoner.

The dispatch said North Vietnamese bodies were strewn along ditches, dusty roads, in several houses and on the barbed wire of the defense perimeter in one section of the town that came under attack.

The militiamen suffered 14 killed and 53 wounded, the dispatch reported. Five civilians were killed and about 30 wounded, the dispatch said.

U.S. Marines had guarded the headquarters, where there are many war refugees, until April 15. When they left, many residents doubted the ability of the militiamen to defend them and moved to the greater safety of the big base at Da Nang.

Ground fighting subsided across South Vietnam and in the air, only two B-52 raids were flown in South Vietnam Monday. This compared with the five to seven strikes daily the past week.

Both new raids struck at the northwest corner of the country close to the Laotian border and just before the demilitarized zone separating the Vietnams. This is an area where some outlets of the Ho Chi Minh Trail feed into South Vietnam.

The fighting slowdown coincided with announcement of faster U.S. troop cutbacks than originally scheduled.

Court Rejects Appeal In Iowa Abortion Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring it didn't have jurisdiction, the U.S. Supreme Court Monday unanimously rejected an appeal by a Cedar Rapids man who is challenging Iowa's abortion law.

Joseph Abodeely of Cedar Rapids, who pleaded guilty to a felony charge of aiding and abetting an abortion, said the Iowa law that forbids abortions except to save life is vague and indefinite.

In his appeal he cited three-judge federal court rulings in five other states that had struck down anti-abortion laws on the same grounds.

Abodeely was sentenced to up to five years in the Iowa State Penitentiary and fined $100 in the summer of 1969 for aiding and abetting an abortion.

In an appeal, rejected by the Iowa Supreme Court, he said he received no financial gain for his part in the alleged abortion. Instead, he said, he acted "upon the desperate request of a girl in trouble."

His appeal claims he acted solely as a referral source for the abortion and did not participate in it.

Senate OKs 18-Year-Old Vote

—Approves State Radiation Control—

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Senate moved Friday to extend full political rights to persons 18 years and older and also to give the state authority to control radioactive wastes products.

In a bill designed for persons 18-21, the Senate voted 40-0 to allow them the right to vote, attend conventions and caucus of political parties.

"I think it's time to allow our young people to take a complete and active role in grass roots politics," said Sen. James Griffin (R-Council Bluffs), as the Senate approved the measure and sent it to the House.

In another overwhelming vote, the Senate approved 42-0 a bill which sets up a radiation control program under the State Department of Health that would allow the State to prohibit anyone from dumping nuclear wastes products in Iowa.

Sen. John Walsh (R-Dubuque) said without the bill the state would be powerless to stop anyone who wants to dump nuclear wastes. He said without such laws, states must depend on the federal government to regulate disposal of nuclear wastes.

Last month it was reported that an Illinois firm was considering the possibility of dumping its radioactive wastes in Iowa.

The Senate, however, defeated an amendment to the bill which would have put the law into effect immediately. The amendment also would have exempted X-ray equipment by licensed physicians and other medical personnel from regulation.

The bill also appropriates $5,000 for clerical help in the health department.

'Stoke-In' At Quadrangle Fizzles Out

An attempt by marijuana smokers to stage a "stoke-in" at the Quadrangle courtyard ended prematurely Friday when rain and University of Iowa officials made it difficult to light matches.

The stokers, numbering close to three hundred, watched as Dean Hubbard announced that University permission to allow the band, "The Friendly Stranger," to play had been rescinded.

One witness said that Hubbard did not give a reason for the change in policy and added that he said very little about marijuana.

Following the "Stranger" cancellation rain ended any hope of seeing the scheduled outdoor movies. At this point the stokers left in small groups for drier and less hassling surroundings.

625 Hunger Hikers Raise $12,000 for Six Charities

About 625 walkers completed Sunday's Hunger Hike and earned $12,000 or more for hunger and development programs.

A thousand marchers started the 25 mile hike through Iowa City and Coralville early Sunday morning. They were walking for amounts ranging from only ten cents a mile up to ten dollars. Each walker was sponsored by some friend or stranger who felt that walker was worth so much a mile.

Each walker is responsible for collecting his money by showing his sponsor(s) his stamped hike card. Hike coordinator, Michael L. Dahm, said, however, that he expected the funds to exceed the $12,000 figure earned in the 1969 walk.

Other more immediate results were evident when the walkers returned to the Union at 7 p.m. Sunday. People lined up to the checkpoint desk but with smiles on their faces.

As they finished the final mile walkers were still in high spirits. One girl said in passing about without being asked, "My name is Anne Murray and I walked a lot."

Two walkers went 25 miles in leg casts. Another girl was cut and when she had received care from the medics, went on to walk another five miles.

"This is really a good chance to do something," said another walker.

Money collected will go to the Palestinian refugees, the Pakistan disaster housing program, the Muscatine Migrant workers, the Iowa City Free Medical Clinic, and the Iowa City Headstart program. Part of the funds will also go to the American Freedom From Hunger Foundation, the sponsoring group.

Panel to Demand Bacon Testimony

SEATTLE (AP) — Federal grand jury questioning of Leslie Bacon, who is being held as a material witness in connection with the bombing of the U.S. Capitol, turned Monday to inquiries about an attempted fire-bombing of a New York City bank.

Federal attorneys asked for a court order to compel further testimony by Bacon, 19, of Atherton, Calif., in connection with the Dec. 4, 1970, incident at First National City Bank in New York.

She was arrested last Wednesday in Washington, D.C., as a material witness in connection with the Capitol bombing. She was brought to Seattle on Thursday under a subpoena issued by the grand jury and has been held under $100,000 bail. The grand jury has questioned her each day since Friday.

In asking for the order that Bacon answer more grand jury questions about the New York incident, the government listed sections of law it said covered matters about which she had been queried by the jury.

Among them were "interstate transportation of explosives by a person under indictment," "interstate transportation of explosive devices," and "illegal possession and use of explosives."

Bacon's attorneys tried again Monday to obtain her release, filing a motion similar to one rejected last Thursday in Washington, D.C. The motion contends there was inadequate information on which to base the order for Bacon's arrest and that bail for her was excessive. The Washington, D.C. court effort was rejected on the grounds that the issues could be raised in Seattle.

The woman's attorneys said Sunday for the first time that she had refused to answer some questions.

Federal attorneys told a court Monday that Bacon "answered certain questions concerning her participation in plans to bomb" the New York bank, then "admitting her participation," refused to give further answers on grounds she might incriminate herself.

By answering some of the grand jury's questions, the government contended she effectively "waived her right to assert that answers to the additional questions asked by the grand jury about the same matter might tend to incriminate her."

The list of legal titles was the closest the government had come to making public exactly what the grand jury was probing. It also included "interstate travel to organize, promote and encourage riot," "destruction of government property," "possession of unregistered destructive devices" and "conspiracy."

The grand jury is investigating matters pertaining to these titles, the federal attorneys said, and had asked Bacon questions pertaining to them.

Missouri Could Lose Government Welfare Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal hearing examiner Monday found Missouri out of compliance with federal welfare regulations and subject to a loss of up to $180 million in public assistance aid.

John D. Twiname, administrator of the social and rehabilitation service of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has 60 days to review the decision and decide whether to withhold all or part of the federal welfare and health aid to Missouri, which totals $180 million a year.

Nebraska and Indiana averted similar cut off threats in recent months with last-minute changes in their welfare regulations or laws.

Rogers: No Mid-East Pact Guarantees

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers arrived in Beirut from Jordan Monday with a peace message for the Middle East. He came amid extraordinary security precautions and widespread but nonviolent demonstrations.

He was hurried from the heavily guarded Beirut Airport to the U.S. ambassador's residence with an escort, three armored cars and other vehicles loaded with troops.

Rogers cautioned in a statement at the airport that the United States could not guarantee a peaceful solution to the Arab-Israeli crisis.

"The United States cannot promise success," he said, "because success will require the cooperative efforts and good will of others besides ourselves. But we can and do promise dedication and determination to pursue a peaceful settlement."

Steel-helmeted troops armed with machine guns ringed the airport guarding all approaches with orders to shoot to kill any attempting to interfere with Rogers's arrival or movements.

A few miles away, more than 10,000 demonstrators staged a march with loudspeaker cars blaring songs and slogans.

The demonstrators stretched for more than a mile shouting "Revolution til victory!" and "Hands off Palestine, Rogers!" They dispersed after burning an effigy of Rogers.

Tobacco Road

John Ford is one of the true veteran directors of Hollywood. All his films reveal his long experience of combining the visual continuity of editing technique with a perfect instinct for just how much each shot should tell. This ability to project visual awareness is most evident in Ford's early films such as "The Grapes of Wrath," "The Informer," "Young Abe Lincoln" and "Tobacco Road". To be sure his grasp of time, place and people is unequalled by any film-maker.

In transferring the rollicking, undisciplined spirit of the stage play, "Tobacco Road", to the film medium, Ford went to Erskine Caldwell's novel and dealt primarily with character rather than the supposedly shocking values that kept the stage production so long on Broadway. As a result, his picture reflected the struggle and the wildness of the Depression-day farm people. To be sure, Caldwell's dialogue is retained and the likes of Jetter, Ellie May and Dude Lester are given brilliant portrayals, both comic and down-to-earth honest, by Charlie Grapewin (repeating his stage role), a young and beautiful Gene Tierney and an earnest William Tracy. A classic in its day, time has not dulled any of the sharp wit and realism of this John Ford masterpiece.
