Anti-War Violence Strikes City

Scattered Arrests Follow Three Hours of Trashing

A crowd of several hundred young people protesting the Indochina War march by streetlight down Iowa Avenue Wednesday night. Soon after this photograph was taken the crowd began a "trashing" spree in downtown Iowa City. Damage was reported at Barney's DX station, Iowa Book and Supply, the federal Post Office Building, and the Armed Services Recruiting Center.

--3,000 Arrested in Washington--

Nation Shaken By Protests

By The Associated Press

Police moved into a crowd of 3,000 anti-war protesters jammed onto the steps of the Capitol in Washington Wednesday and began another round of wholesale arrests.

It marked the third straight day of mass arrests in the capital. About 7,000 persons were seized Monday when demonstrators tried to block thoroughfares and halt the government. Another 3,000 arrests were made Tuesday, most coming when police broke up a rally outside the Justice Department.

Before police moved in to make arrests on the Capitol's east side, several congresspersons — including Reps. Bella Abzug (D-N.Y.), Ronald Dellums (D-Calif.), and Parren Mitchell (D-Md.) — had addressed the crowd using the demonstrators' bullhorn.

The demonstrators had only a short warning that arrests were imminent. There was a muffled announcement over a loudspeaker system, a few protesters ran, and the city's Civil Disturbance Unit moved in.

Police estimated 3,000 persons had gathered on the steps. Earlier, newsmen had estimated 1,500 protesters joined to march on the Capitol.

Police using tear gas dispersed about 1,500 to 2,000 University of Wisconsin antiwar demonstrators in Madison.

The riot-equipped police and state troopers had been peppered with rocks and bricks at several lower campus intersections before unleashing the tear gas.

Police in Boston braced for possible violence as Boston Common, the nation's oldest public park, became the focus of antiwar protests in that city. About 25,000 persons were on hand by 4 p.m. for a rally, organizers promised would be "legal, orderly and peaceful." Some 200,000 persons jammed the Common in October, 1969.

A rally by 2,000 students in New York's Central Park broke up after an hour when fist fights erupted between blacks and whites. Empty bottles and cans were thrown after black students charged a bandshell stage and pushed white youths off. The blacks were yelling "Free Huey Newton," and "Free the Panther 13."

In Washington, 1,500 to 2,000 persons — many of them government employes — held a peaceful noontime rally at Lafayette Park across the street from the White House. Earlier in the day, rush-hour traffic moved unimpeded under the watchful eyes of 1,000 Marines and Army troops deployed at bridges and traffic circles.

San Francisco police on horseback and motorcycles broke up protesters' attempts to block morning Market Street traffic in front of the Standard Oil of California building.

Tornado Strikes Iowa Town

CONWAY — A tornado struck this Taylor County town Wednesday evening, completely destroying eight homes and slightly injuring 12 to 15 persons, the Iowa Civil Defense Department said.

Mayor Dale Kernan said the tornado struck about 6:20 p.m. and that all 35 buildings in the town received some damage. No deaths were reported.

Three of the injured required medical attention for cuts and bruises, but were treated and released, according to Taylor County Sheriff Leonard Ratcliffe.

The Taylor County Sheriff's office has sealed off the town and the townspeople are being boarded overnight in the town's school and with relatives.

A newsmen on the scene, Vern Olson of KSIB in Creston, said the town's "virtually wiped out."

Olson said only four buildings in the town did not sustain damage — the school, the post office, a garage and a tavern.

Mayor Kernan said the force of the tornado moved cars as much as two blocks and picked up his own home six feet and dropped it 10 feet from its foundation.

Four other homes in the town of 91 were heavily damaged.

Kernan said he saw the storm approach from the southwest and took his family to a cave where they escaped injury. He said the storm took about two and a half minutes to pass through the town.

A handful of people were arrested Wednesday night after a crowd of anti-war demonstrators estimated at an average of between 400 and 500 people ranged through Iowa City for four hours breaking windows and blocking traffic.

About 100 law enforcement officers, including Johnson County Sheriff's Deputies, the Iowa Highway Patrol and Iowa City and Coralville Police Departments, dressed in riot gear, charged down Clinton Street and into the Pentacrest to break up the crowd shortly before midnight.

No names of those arrested had been released by Iowa City police at Daily Iowan press time.

(It was learned later that among the persons detained was Thomas Walsh, A3, a local reporter covering the event and editor-select of the Daily Iowan. Walsh, who was standing with a group of reporters and camerapersons on the corner of Washington and Clinton Streets, was hustled on a bus along with a bystander. It was not known at press time whether any charges were filed against him.)

Several people were reported treated and released at University Hospitals for minor injuries sustained during the demonstrations.

Police attacked the few people they caught on their charge across the Pentacrest with night sticks, but no serious injuries were apparent.

BLOCK TRAFFIC

The melee erupted after a wreath-laying and march to the National Guard Armory turned into a traffic-blocking sit-in at the intersection of Clinton and Burlington streets.

The crowd, which numbered as many as 1,000 at its peak, including spectators, turned hostile when a pickup truck labeled "Barney's DX" careened through the demonstrators after the crowd had moved to the intersection of Dubuque and Iowa streets at 9 p.m.

Demonstrators then converged on Barney's DX, at the corner of Linn and College, and broke a large plate-glass window and several smaller windows in the garage door. Student monitors placed themselves between the crowd and the station in an attempt to prevent further damage, and the crowd began moving down Linn Street to the Army, Navy and Air Force Recruiting Center.

A large plate-glass door was broken at the recruiting center before monitors again placed themselves between the crowd and the building. The crowd then marched back through town and hit Iowa Book and Supply, where at least five more large plate-glass windows were broken.

After blocking Clinton Street in front of Iowa Book and Supply, the crowd next moved to the Iowa City Post Office, where most of the windows on the front of the building were broken by thrown rocks.

HIT THE FIELD HOUSE

Leaving the Post Office, the crowd moved to Burlington Street, then down Burlington and across the river to the Field House, where all of the windows on the south side of the building were broken out.

After leaving the Field House, the crowd made its way back to the Pentacrest, blocking the intersection of Burlington Street and Riverside Drive for a time and at one point surrounding a car that refused to stop for them.

The crowd also stopped for a few minutes at the corner of Burlington and Capitol streets when a man identified by some members of the crowd as a Johnson County Deputy Sheriff tried to detain one of the demonstrators, asking him to "wait and talk things over." The unidentified demonstrator refused to wait and the two were immediately surrounded by the crowd, and the demonstrator slipped loose.

The crowd then walked to the Pentacrest, where it stopped for discussion. Reports that three busloads of riot-equipped police were on their way proved to be true. When the police, led by Highway Patrol Capt. Lyle Dickinson, arrived, they formed, issued a brief warning, and then charged, effectively scattering the crowd.

PENTACREST RALLY

The demonstration grew out of a rally on the Pentacrest, beginning at 6:30 p.m., in which a crowd was drawn by advance publicity saying that a dog would be napalmed on Old Capitol steps as a demonstration of what such weapons do to people in Southeast Asia.

(See story, this page.)

The crowd then began the march to the Johnson County Courthouse and the Armory, with sporadic shouts of "Peace Now," "One, Two, Three, Four, we don't want your f'cking war."

A clenched fist salute followed the reading of the commemorative wreath at both the Courthouse and the Armory. The inscription read, "In memory of those murdered at Kent State May 4, 1970, and Jackson State May 6, 1970, and for thousands of Americans and Vietnamese killed in America's Imperialist War of Aggression in Vietnam."

An American flag was raised upside down at half mast in front of the National Guard Armory as the crowd, seated on the grass, cheered, clapped and chanted, "Power to the people" and "End the war." An impromptu skit by the guerrilla theater was put on the chanting.

ROUTE RETRACED

The crowd, estimated at 350, dispersed en masse, retracing the parade route to the intersection of Burlington and Clinton, where a majority of the demonstrators sat down stopping all traffic.

At about 8:45 the crowd and curious on lookers moved north into the downtown business district.

At that point the Barney's DX truck ran through the crowd, and the four-hour rampage began.

Earlier in the day, university students held a Memorial Convocation for students slain last year at Kent State and Jackson State, and as an expression of compassion for the dead in Indochina and those arrested in Washington, D.C., in the past few days.

The convocation included speeches by members of Veterans Against the War (VAW), Students for Democratic Society (SDS) and an open microphone for anyone wishing to express his or her views about the war.

SDS Calls Meeting

The University of Iowa Students for a Democratic Society Wednesday called for a mass strategy meeting tonight to oppose the university's involvement in the Indochina War.

According to SDS spokespersons, specific targets of the strategy meeting will be the university's Reserve Officer Training Corps, and university employes' war research.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 in the Grant Wood Room of the Union.

No Dog Burning

Reports that a dog would be napalmed at a rally on the Pentacrest were revealed to be a publicity stunt when about 500 people gathered there at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Many onlookers protested when a man appeared with a dog, and several people refused to leave the steps of Old Capitol until the dog was led away.

Rally sponsors said they never intended to go through with the napalming, billed as an action to draw attention to the burning of villagers in Indochina.

Near Confrontation at IPAC Bus Vigil

The Iowa Peace Action Committee (IPAC) drew the largest crowd to date to its weekly early morning protest directed against the Iowa City-Des Moines draft bus, and the result was near confrontation with city police.

About 250 people were on hand to meet the bus — which ferries draft inductees and those called up for pre-induction draft physicals to Ft. Des Moines — and the handful of its passengers scheduled to leave the Post Office Building at 5:15 a.m. Wednesday morning.

However, the bus didn't pull out until nearly 7 a.m. because someone had tampered with an air valve of one of the bus' front tires, which went flat.

Later, when the still-empty bus returned — this time to the side of the police station in the Civic Center — a scuffle ensued when Iowa City police officers tried to detain one of the men scheduled to leave on the bus, Bruce Ehrich, A3.

Two officers dragged the struggling Ehrich into the police station, in spite of pressure from the crowd — which then numbered about 100 — before Police Chief Patrick McCarney ordered Ehrich's release.

Moments later the crowd dispersed.

'Green Room' Debuts

Opening today at the Studio Theatre double bill — the premiere of Kenneth H. Brown's "The Green Room" and the ballet "Los Noces" (The Wedding) by Igor Stravinsky.

Los Noces is directed by Katherine Litz, New York City dancer and conducted by Center for New Music director, William Hibbard.

About 50 of the original crowd, led by IPAC members, left the Post Office a half-hour before the Civic Center incident to see off about a dozen people beginning the first leg of a march to Des Moines to present anti-draft petitions at the offices of Iowa Sens. Harold Hughes and Jack Miller. The petitions urge the repeal of the draft next week when the draft law comes before the U.S. Senate for consideration and possible renewal.

The walk is to take the group through Tiffin, Ladora, Kellogg, Colfax, and Altoona. The group will stop and discuss its objections to the draft along the way, and plans to reach Des Moines next Thursday.

Panthers and the white left

Second in a two-part series

The fact that we often saw the Panthers as the only legitimate voice of the black revolution created many problems. We often tended to overlook other third world groups as nonrevolutionary or insufficiently important since they were not the Panthers and therefore did not fit our definition of revolution. For us, relating to the Panthers was synonymous with relating to third world people. We let it rigidify our capacity to ignore the local political expressions and struggles of non-whites.

Another part of our feeling of disillusionment with the Panthers stems from the screwed-up way we related to the Panther ideology. The Panthers' analysis of racism in America was that the blacks were a colony of the white mother country, exploited by its businessmen and occupied by its police. The Panthers developed a program in and with the colony and attempted to promote revolutionary nationalism. But race alone, they felt, was not the issue.

"You don't fight fire with fire," Fred Hampton used to say. "You fight fire with water. You fight capitalism with socialism and racism with class struggle." All our ambivalences - belief in black self-determination, class struggle, and cynicism about white - could be perfectly expressed through support of the Panthers. Particularly when the Panthers began to come under heavy repression we found ourselves relating better to the colony and victims of repression than to either ourselves or other white people. In this way, we began to compound many of our weaknesses - our inability to define ourselves within the white community; a tendency to support blacks because whites, living in the mother country, were the enemy; identifying with the black movement as our only source of salvation.

DENYING WHITES

Though the Panthers also looked to racial solidarity and class struggle, they weren't in a position to provide us with answers of what to do about it. The Panthers' skepticism about the white working class and their up-against-the-wall attitude toward whites in general didn't help. In any case, we somehow developed a scale of who and whose interests were most valid in the revolution. Supporting the Panthers and believing them to be the vanguard often meant denying and avoiding ourselves and other whites. In part, it became for many of us a way of continuing this evasion. For most of us, it certainly made it easier to do so. "Organizing around racism" and "following black leadership," both translated in the most crudely literal way, spurred many organizational projects. Such efforts frequently were seen not as one part of a larger, diversified effort, but as the indisputable spearhead of all white organizing and activity.

To the extent that our support of the Panthers was also this evasion of ourselves, we did a disservice to both of us and weakened our support of the BPP and the black struggle in general. We ignored whites as having no revolutionary self-interest. In doing so we wrote off the potential of what would be the strongest support of the Panthers that we could develop - whites who believed in themselves and in the inseparability of their own and black people's liberation.

REVOLUTIONARY CRITICISM

Something else has characterized our relation to Panther ideology. It is illustrated by the fact that, although people originally had questions about the Panther analysis of blacks as a colony, we ultimately accepted it to the point of an assumption. Yet when Huey voiced the Panthers' change of position on this, many of us immediately and with little discussion were ready to reject the colony analysis. Somewhere along the line, something must have gone wrong. In part, as the Party suffered from heavier and heavier repression, whatever our doubts or disagreements, they no longer seemed significant. Furthermore, it seemed hardly the time to voice them; and there was little forum for our doing so privately with Panthers themselves. But not only did we not want to voice them, even in the underground press; it seems we didn't even want to think them. What if we were wrong? What if we were on the wrong side, "part of the problem?" Our lack of confidence and our feeling that we had no solid base of our own from which to relate criticism kept us from developing a healthy perspective. We seemed to feel this would be incompatible with believing in and supporting the Panthers. Actually, such an attitude should strengthen ourselves and our long-term support for others. Revolutionary criticism, we should remember was a phrase Bobby Seale used many times.

SERVE THE PEOPLE

We learned a lot from the Panthers - many ideas that we still have not been able to put into practice. The Panthers realized that revolution wasn't an abstract theory, but is rooted in people's concrete needs. Their 10 point program and their day-to-day work plainly showed their concern for their people's needs - food, clothing and shelter. Serve the people was not an empty slogan for them. They developed the discipline to put their programs into effect, demonstrating to a rebellious student population that discipline need not be repressive or exploitative. The depths of their commitment to the party and to the people made us realize that a revolution is not made by one spring offensive, but rather requires patience and constant work.

The Panthers knew that when they picked up the gun, the forces of repression in this country would not ignore it. Yet they responded to repression by taking the offensive and by seeing such a process as basic to their strategy. Beginning with only a community self-defense patrol of Bobby and Huey, programs were developed to meet community needs. The repression directed at these programs was met with their expansion, with the development of new programs, and with the exposure of American "law." Through education and activity, the Panthers have worked to have the black community define and clarify the context and terms of their own struggle. They showed the potential struggle of a community which is ready to take control of its destiny; they made us believe that a revolution is indeed - that power does lie with the people.

The duty of the white left at this point in history is not to repeat the mistakes of the past few years. We've learned, and are still in the process of learning, how to live collectively, how to work in a common struggle. We've realized that the way to relate to a third world group, or to any group which has gotten itself together, is not to merely support it or to blindly imitate it. We must begin our own struggle, in our own communities, and encounter the difficulties and experiences for ourselves. Then, when we see the problems, we will stop expecting miracles from others. Then, and only then, can we consider ourselves brothers and sisters in a struggle with third world people to create a new society.

May Fourth

Someday I hope to write a good political poem one that will not be laughed at by the poets in the Academy and the Library of Congress. In the meantime, well, times are mean and as a private individual, I wish to make certain statements for the record:

We Americans conveniently shamefully brutally forget everything that is convenient shameful brutal we forget we hope to render the past null and void and void the past is anything that just happened For that reason we do not have thoughts we do not have visions this is how we have succeeded in creating a wonderful technology, a method of forgetfulness forgotten life is a theory of life forgotten imagination explains technology and the ways of man to man forgotten artist is a technician of the sacred

Those who cannot forget each morning with their coffee open envelopes of spite, and bills for services for which they did not ask Those who have become one with their name are saying their name over and over again so that they will not forget them but you persist in calling them for meals by number, and you persist in counting the bodies by numbers America, you are the bookkeeper of the world.

(May 4, 1970, Kent State, Ohio: Mary Vecchio photographed over the body of a fellow student, whose name is forgotten is now bending over her own body which languishes in the Kendall Youth Home, there were many who got plenty of hate mail from America

But what has happened is past forgetting and becomes an imaginary animal striving to be reborn in obscene photographs of the war

I do not know where she went last night but she has returned covered with dust.

Someday, when I write my good political poem I will try not to write these facts in prose

At that time, I hope to say better that nobody remembers and that is why it is raining today the page marking this day on the calendar trembles and forgets to turn because on the next page are the screams of children...

What kills me though is my head which aches

and my heart which remembers everything

(my heart which is shaped like America)

Doctor says get plenty of rest and drink lots of liquids and some fresh air wouldn't be bad - but where?

300 words in the style of Cage

On Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge, the Center for New Music (and friends) will present a free concert of works by the well-known American composer John Cage (1912 - ) Cage has been very influential in recent years not only in the field of music, but also in theatre, dance,

When asked what he thought about the possibility of computers taking over, John Cage said, "I hope they do. That'll give people a chance to be a little more cuckoo." During a

To the Editor:

Normally I consider such mundane quarrels as exemplified by the attack of Anna Felini (whose letter re the Epstein Bookstore "hex" appeared in the May 4 DI) to be too boring or trivial to prompt me to anything more than bemused disgust. But, in all fairness, I think something should be said to dispel the naive and sickening hysteria Miss Felini represents.

The point at issue (which suffers from dense clouds of emotionalism) is whether or not a bookstore OF ANY KIND (student or otherwise) should be subjected to any kind of pressure from ANY group whatever, simply because some literature or material it sells is "offensive" to that group. To my mind, it seems only reasonable that a bookstore (most surely a bookstore in a "literate" community) should make available literature covering all areas of thought and opinion. It seems relevant here to point out that Epstein's carries undoubtedly the widest selection of "Women's Liberation" literature in town.

Miss Felini states she is "trying to change certain attitudes that I find degrading to my human person." This is all fine and good, except that in her particular case this seems to smack book burning and extreme sexual fascism. She objects to the display of such magazines as EVERGREEN REVIEW in the store window because they "use women's bodies on the cover to sell them." If any book store restricted its sales to only magazines NOT displaying women's bodies on the cover, it would have to remove at least half of the national magazines from its racks.

The intelligent response, it would seem, would be for Miss Felini to simply buy her books elsewhere, and not pollute Iowa City's mental atmosphere with any more of her absurd outbursts.

As a participant in Sunday's Hunger Hike I would like to extend my compliments and express my appreciation to the organizers of the Hike, the monitors, the checkers, the road guards, the gentlemen from the Highway Patrol, the band, those who helped in setting out food and drink, and all others who contributed their time and effort in making the venture a successful and enjoyable one. The organization and control of a hike of this kind is not an easy job. Those responsible for both deserve, I think, much credit.

To the Editor:

When all good cowboys bite the dust, they do it gracefully. They either fade into the sunset or die. In my last letter to you concerning the cafeteria, I chose the latter. I had folded up my typing fingers and neatly tucked them into my scrapbook along with my other dingy mementos.

Tonight, I can go no longer without help. If you could have pasted a clump of our fried potatoes to a wall, they would have supported a meat cleaver thrown from thirty paces - this was because they were so raw! We also had pork tenderloins that were so greasy they had to be steamed on a flat plate. I went and complained to one of the women in the kitchen. She said they were very sorry, but there was nothing they could do. Everyone I talked to in the cafeteria hierarchy says, there is nothing we can do. Where does the buck stop!!! The residents at Hillcrest are too sick and weak to have another food fight. No one knows what to do!

They say (whoever they are) that Hillcrest's food is the best of all the cafeterias. I threw up three times coming back to my room from dinner. God save the other people who are less fortunate than myself.

To the Editor:

Just a word of appreciation to the Johnson County Sheriff's Office. I attended the Peacefest Saturday afternoon. Got a little excited and decided to bring a couple quarts of cold beer with me. Don't know what I was thinking of - a little fun or something. I want to thank the deputies for bringing me to my senses. Guess I might have gotten a little high and made an ass out of myself. But our Man was on the ball. He took the beer and told me he would keep it for me at the Sheriff's Office. I can pick it up today. (My own best interest, etc.)

I hereby invite all the Johnson County police to a party at my pad. That now-warm beer the Sheriff's holding for me should taste like wine about today. We can pour it down the drain and have a few laughs. Relate to each other, etc. Thanks again, Man, for a job well done. Michael Nieters, A3

To the Editor: As a 22-year-old mother of two small children, I work full time to support them and my husband who is currently attending the College of Law. I am much too busy with this occupation to sit on the Pentacrest or invade other people's property demanding that a state institution provide for the care of our children. I am sick of paying taxes so a bunch of indigents can sit on their behinds screaming injustices. These "kids" conceived children - now they should accept the responsibility that goes with them.

As pointed out by the Daily Iowan all but three of this group are on welfare. Maybe now that they have some place to shove their kids, they will get off welfare and stop expecting the rest of us to support them while they go about their merry way.

Reagan Charges Tax Leak Illegal

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Wednesday that someone broke the law by leaking word that he didn't have to pay any state income tax for 1970. And he accused newsmen of invading his privacy by asking about it.

His comments came after he was asked to clarify if he paid any federal income tax. He replied by saying, "Aren't you guys ashamed enough?"

The report that Reagan didn't have to pay state income tax was first broadcast by a college radio station. On Tuesday Reagan told newsmen he couldn't remember if he had to pay. His office later disclosed the governor paid no state tax because of offsetting business losses in the 1970 tax year. The losses were not specified.

The governor told newsmen Wednesday, in an impromptu hallway meeting, that "obviously I would have preferred to make money and owe a tax than to have lost money and therefore not paid a tax."

Asked to clarify whether he paid any 1970 federal income tax, Reagan shot back, his voice tinged with anger. "Why should I have to clarify the status?"

"Frankly, I think the capitol press corps yesterday demeaned itself a little bit by engaging in invasion of privacy. They asked a question they already had the answer to."

"They know that someone illegally provided the information from the Franchise Tax Board," he said.

Reagan earned a gross $44,100 as governor in 1970. One capitol tax expert said he could wind up having no state taxes by incurring a total business loss of $80,000 or so.

State tax officials said a California family of four earning $10,000 a year and receiving average deduction, would pay $63 a year state income tax and a similar family earning $14,500 would owe $204. This is assuming no large business loss.

A family with Reagan's $44,100 salary — since raised to $49,100 — and no big business loss, would pay $2,702 a year after taking off average deductions.

Meanwhile, the quest went on for the source of the confidential tax return information.

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (AP) — Over 200 rescue workers, hampered by driving rain, pushed through a sea of mud Wednesday searching for survivors of a giant earth cave-in which may have claimed 30 lives.

Police said at least 28 persons were missing. The bodies of a young girl and a man were recovered.

Screams heard from the deep pit at nearby St. Jean Vianney when the slide began Tuesday night helped guide rescue workers to the victims. About 70 of them were rescued.

But Wednesday there was silence, and access to the disaster area — a hole about 700 feet wide, over 100 feet deep and about a half-mile long — was complicated by sliding mud and rising waters.

It was the third serious landslide in the area in five months. The cave-in swept 35 homes, several cars and a bus into the gaping, slimy hole. The remains of a score of homes, pushed by the water, tumbled through a gorge into the Riviere des Vases, a small tributary of the Saguenay River.

A rescue worker lowered into the pit from a helicopter hovering over seven visible bungalows said he went through two of the homes and heard no sound.

"The whole area just dropped straight down, leaving sheer sides," said the pilot, Capt. Maurice Roy of the Canadian Forces.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation urged Wednesday the elimination of special air fares for families and for young people. The department told the Civil Aeronautics Board such fares are unjustly discriminatory and should be replaced by experimental short-term fares that are truly promotional in nature.

Carpenters OK New Contract

By The Associated Press
Carpenters in the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City area approved a new contract Wednesday and became the first of 12 construction units to settle with contractors in the area.

The contracts of the 12 craft groups expired at midnight April 30.

Workers remained off their jobs Wednesday, but Jerry Kriz, president of the Cedar Rapids Building Trades Council said there was no picketing to his knowledge.

At least five communities have been hit by work stoppages, halting construction work.

About 40 bricklayers struck in Fort Dodge Monday, and a union spokesman said Wednesday the bricklayers were continuing to picket construction sites and that no meetings were scheduled with contractors.

Iron workers at Fort Dodge, Ames, and Mason City have also been off their jobs since Monday.

In Cedar Rapids, Kriz said the settlement with the carpenters union could be a turning point in negotiations with the other unions.

BUT GAS AND ELECTRIC PRICES ARE STILL QUITE LOW

According to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost of living has gone up more than 34% since 1960.

But there are still a few prices which have changed very little.

The prices you pay for gas (per hundred cubic feet) and electricity (per kilowatt hour) are little, if any, higher than they were 10 years ago.

If your monthly bill is higher than in the past, it is due primarily to a substantial increase in the use of gas or electricity.

To the extent possible, this Company will provide good, dependable service at reasonable cost to you.

Williams Inks National Letter — Iowa Signs Star JC Cager

Fred Brown will be next to impossible to replace, but Iowa basketball coach Dick Schultz got his choice for a replacement when he signed Rick Williams to a national interconference letter of intent Wednesday.

"We had our choice of three outstanding junior college guards and Rick is the one we wanted most," Schultz commented. "He is an outstanding all-around basketball player. I think he will come closer to replacing Fred Brown than any other JC guard we saw all year."

It will be almost like home for Williams at Iowa next year when he begins his career. The 6-3, 175 pound cager prepped at Washington High School in Cedar Rapids and was a member of their Class AA state championship team in 1969. Williams did not play in the state finals because of an injury.

The past two seasons he has played at Iowa Central Junior College in Fort Dodge. In the two years there, he scored 908 points, averaging 17 points a game as a frosh and 23.6 last season. Iowa Central was beaten by Ellsworth in the state junior college tournament the past season. Ellsworth went on to win the national title.

To get Williams, Schultz had to battle a number of other top college coaches who sought the flashy guard. One of those was former Hawkeye head coach Ralph Miller who is now at Oregon State. Former Drake coach Maury John, now at Iowa State, also recruited him heavily.

The Hawkeyes coaching staff hopes to sign another JC player, but it will probably be a forward.

Grand Jury Hears Halas

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — George S. Halas, Sr., founder and owner of the Chicago Bears' was called Wednesday to testify before a federal grand jury here investigating possible antitrust violations in the National Football League.

Accompanying Halas to the federal building in downtown Cleveland were two attorneys for the Bears, Mike Coffield and Don Reuben.

Preceding Halas on the witness stand was Bert E. Rose, Jr., head of the Texas Stadium Corp. and a former assistant to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Black Hawks in 2 Overtimes

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup championship round of professional hockey Tuesday night by beating Montreal 2-1 in a double overtime.

Jim Pappin's goal at 1:11 of the second overtime ended the marathon. Bobby Hull got the other Black Hawk goal and Jacques LeMaire got the Canadiens only tally. The series will continue tonight in Chicago.

More Talks on Cage Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — The rival pro basketball leagues were to hear reports today by their merger committees in what is expected to be another step toward a union between the American and National basketball associations.

There also was the possibility that NBA owners might take a vote on whether to approve a merger plan, although no vote was scheduled. ABA owners already have agreed to merge.

Commissioner Walter Kennedy disclosed after a meeting April 22 that talks between the two merger committees had been going on for two weeks.

There have been reports that all but a few owners in the two leagues favor the merger.

AKK Holds IM Lead

AKK continues to dominate the Intramural program, this time capturing titles in the annual canoe race and the squash tournament.

In the canoe race Bob Allen and John Moyers won the Professional Division and All-University titles with a 6:06.5 minutes time. Second place in Professional was Earl Foster and Tim Thompson.

The Social Frat. winner was TKE with Wayne Simonson and Bob Henry paddling the .6 mile course in 6 minutes and 25 seconds. Second place in the All-University and first in Hillcrest was Bob Lynn and Jan Sanderson with a 6:09 clocking.

A 6:21.7 won the Quad title for the Lucas team of Howard Higley and Brent Christie. Joe Waldschmidt and Ron Ellis won the Renow race with a 6:38.5 time. They were slowed by some early congestion but coasted to an easy victory after the first quarter mile.

In all, 50 canoe and 100 participants took part in this year's race. In squash AKK captured first and second in the year's tournament as Bob Doran beat Don Miller 15-11 and 15-12. Doran defeated last year's winner Ed Barto in the semi-finals of this year's tournament.

"Dean" Means Never Having to Say You're Sorry

Today let us pay tribute to the most overworked and underappreciated figure on campus. I refer of course to the Dean. The Dean (from the Latin deanere—to disembowel) is not, as most of you seem to think, a kind of academic policeman. True, he does administer discipline sometimes, but more often he administers kindness, understanding and simple human goodness. The Dean (from the Greek deanos—to tend) is much more than a rule enforcer; he is also guide and oracle, shepherd and seer, consul and pal. The Dean (from the German deanemacht—to poop a party) is available day and night to students with problems. His hours are long, his free time practically nonexistent. Therefore, on those rare occasions when he does manage to get a few minutes to relax, he does it in the best possible way, which means of course he sits down and stretches his legs and pours himself a glass of Miller High Life Beer.

Why Miller High Life? Because Miller High Life, as every thinking American knows, is the perfect beer to refresh and restore. It is a haven to the harried, a shelter to the spent, a buoy to the beat, a boon to the bent, a bolster to the bedraggled, a pillow to the pooped. Try it yourself the next time you get weary and sick of trying and tired of living and scared of dying. You'll find it gratifyingly true what the kindly, decent folks who make Miller Beer keep telling us: "If you've got the time, we've got the beer."

But I digress. We were paying tribute to that selfless, shining personage, the Dean. We do not begin to appreciate how hard he works, how hideously complex the problems he solves each day. Take, for example, these typical cases from the files of Dean S. at the University of Y. (If you promise not to tell, I'll give you the real names. The Dean is called Sigafos and the University is Yutah.)

Recently, the Dean was visited by a freshman named Walter Acupuncture who came to ask permission to marry one Emma Blenheim, his dormitory laundress. To the Dean the marriage seemed ill-advised, for Walter was 18 years of age and Emma was 94, and rarely do these May-September romances work out.

After a frank, man-to-man talk, the Dean persuaded Walter of the folly of his course. Still, Walter felt guilty about jilting Emma who had had her garnets polished and bought three new suits of underwear in anticipation of the honeymoon. The Dean suggested that Walter send her a handsome gift to soothe her feelings, and Walter did. He sent Emma a nice kidney machine, and they are good friends to this day.

Freed from his misalliance with Emma, Walter soon found a girl much nearer his own age—Agnes Yucca, 74. Today they are happily married and Walter is the proud father—step-father, actually—of three fine bouncing boys from Agnes's first marriage—Everett, 38; Willem, 43; and Rex, 55. Believe me, when Walter puts the boys in their little velvet suits and takes them out in the perambulator on Sunday afternoons, there is not a dry eye in all Yutah.

But kindness and understanding don't always work. Sometimes the Dean has no choice but to be firm. Take, for instance, the case of Baxter Mackadandang.

Baxter, an exchange student from Polynesia, grew up in the idyllic South Sea Isle of Goona-Goona where the leading social event of the year was the feast of Max, the Sun God. A quaint all-day ceremony was held, with tribal dancing, war chants, fat lady races, pie-eating contests, and, for the grand finale, the sacrifice of eleven dozen virgins.

Thus, according to Baxter's folkways, sacrificing virgins was perfectly acceptable, but when he became an exchange student he soon learned that Americans take a dim view of this custom, in Yutah, at any rate. The first twelve or thirteen times Baxter sacrificed a virgin, the Dean let him off with a warning. When, however, Baxter persisted, the Dean was forced to impose a heavy penalty: he cancelled Baxter's parking permit.

A broken man, Baxter quit school and returned to Goona-Goona where today he scratches out a meager living selling forged autographs of Joseph Conrad.

John Winnie—Coach, Professor, Film Director, etc.

JOHN WINNIE
Wearing One of Many Hats

By JOHN RICHARDS
Sports Editor

It took three interviews, but finally John Winnie began to talk about himself. A look at his normal daily schedule makes it easy to understand why he was hesitant.

6 a.m. — Out to "The Links" for a round of golf; 8:30-9 a.m. — At the University for his schedule of classes in TV-Radio Production; 12:15 p.m. — lunch, a little relaxation; 1:15-3 p.m. — Office hours for consultation with students and a little paperwork; 3-6 p.m. — Out to the tennis courts for practice with his team; 6 p.m. to whenever — Various meetings, community theatre projects or a tennis meet out of town.

A person could easily get tired just thinking about his schedule. Winnie kind of likes it. "I get worried if I'm not busy," he says. "Don't you feel as if you're 90 years old with a schedule like that everyday?" "Sometimes I wish I were nine years old," is the reply.

The reason it took three interviews is that Winnie is not in the habit of talking about himself. Right now, although he "won't admit" it, winning a Big 10 crown with his tennis team is the main thing he wants to discuss. When asked questions about his coaching techniques and ability, he suggested asking his athletes.

To find out much about Winnie, you would have to ask a number of people of varied backgrounds. You see, Winnie is not just a coach. He has been an associate professor of radio and television at the university since 1951. In his spare time (?) he is chairman of the Program Committee on Educational TV for the state of Iowa and is executive director of the Iowa Community Theatre Association.

When things get a little tight in the summer, Winnie spends a lot of time with junior tennis players around the area. He also, serves as an advisor to the government in founding educational television stations abroad. He spent a year and a half in Columbia in 1963-64 as Director of the Peace Corps there. The list just keeps growing.

Winnie still doesn't try to overwhelm you with his varied abilities. "I like all the things I work with. I try to give equal significance to all of them. I try to do them all well. It's like I teach my players and my students, you have to have that killer instinct. Nothing is going to be given to you — you have to earn it."

Winnie has practiced what he preaches. He has earned what he has gotten — and possibly deserves some kind of award; if only a wig with a lot of gray hairs.

"It's hard to say which of my fields began first," Winnie said. "I competed in tennis in high school and college. I worked as a film director for the war department after my leaving the service in 1945 and began my theatre work about 10 years ago."

"Film directing, Radio and TV work and my work in the theatre are all closely related, but each has its own techniques and problems. Coaching is the same — some times I wish I could coach basketball," he added smiling.

It's not hard to believe that Winnie is in pretty fair physical condition, but admits that some days he gets a little rundown. But taking it easy for a few days is ample therapy.

He doesn't play much competitive tennis anymore. "My knee bothers me too much," he says. With his schedule, he would have to play at midnight any way.

Europe Faces Dollar Crisis

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Several European government banks stopped buying American currency Wednesday in the face of a massive rush to sell dollars.

Money experts hurried into consultations on ways to head off Europe's worst monetary crisis since 1969.

In Washington, the U.S. government was expected to seek to ease the pressure by bringing dollars home.

The dollar was the one currency practically no one wanted at current exchange rates. Financial sources generally predicted the West German mark, Swiss franc, the Dutch guilder and possibly other currencies would be revalued upward against it.

The price of gold, pegged by the U.S. government at $35 an ounce, reflected the dollar's weakness by rising to over $40 an ounce on Europe's free market for the first time in more than a year.

A continued gold rush could add pressure for devaluation of the dollar.

The U.S. government is expected to "blow" billions of dollars from banks in Europe and possibly to make other moves to stem the crisis.

Air Force Launches Super-Spy Satellite

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Under a mantle of secrecy, the Air Force rocketed a spy satellite into space Wednesday to monitor Russian and Red Chinese missile tests and to provide almost instant alert of a long-range rocket attack.

The 1,800-pound superspy would sound a 30-minute warning of such an attack. This is double the 15 minutes that present radar systems give U.S. forces to prepare antimissile defense and to launch bombers and missiles in retaliation.

The Defense Department clamped a secrecy lid on the launching. No advance announcement was made, although information about the launch generally was known in the Cape Kennedy area. The Air Force issued a brief statement after liftoff stating merely that a satellite had been launched by a Titan 3 rocket.

The rocket left its pad at 3:43 a.m. The Titan 3 is the largest rocket in the Air Force stable.

OH! WHAT A LOVELY WAR

Sir Laurence Olivier, Sir John Gielgud, Sir Ralph Richardson, Sir Michael Redgrave, John Mills, Vanessa Redgrave, Maggie Smith, Susannah York, Jack Hawkins

"A series of loosely connected vaudeville skits and musical production numbers satirizing the motives behind World War I and the often awkward manner in which it was conducted. Director Richard Attenborough offers a film savagely witty, melodious in moods both humorous and sad, brilliantly acted, handsome to watch. The cameo parts are devastating."
