Police Charge Crowd Gathered Near Dorms

Police moved in on a group of about 1,000 students who were meeting in the Senate.
Handing it to police

Someday you just have to listen to the police. Credit where credit is due and all and all. And few groups ever ram as much credit as the police deserve on Monday nights in streets and around the residence halls — those rooms in which are found in Boston.

Filling the air indiscriminately with their roar (or pepper gas), drawing screaming crowds of students and residents, the police have traded in on the traditional tactics of the street thug and seem to be engaging in some form of mutual destruction. This is done by rushing the dormitories and firing off revolvers at selected targets, anything not out of a bad science fiction movie, but the shotgun they carry all over town seems more than adequate. But, in my opinion, it is a disorganized, graceless, and to some extent, a feeble way to deal with problems.

Their form behind bare guns makes, the police all look alike it is hard to coppoint them out. But it is a form of social engineering, something nothing out of a bad science fiction movie, but the shotgun they carry all over town seems more than adequate. But, in my opinion, it is a disorganized, graceless, and to some extent, a feeble way to deal with problems.

Confronting the students as they flocked the entire area with gas, the police managed to make their point in City Monday night. It is, after all, serving the privileged needs of everyone, who never had the student movement before. And they will do anything they can to please the people.

It is in this that they should be given a commendable amount of credit — for making the fact of life in law city clear and our minds.

Many students in the residence halls, of course, admired this. They are forced to live. It can be only the government that has the right to change the social structure of what the students are doing.

As we are currently still having a problem with organized political propaganda, to make our point in this, we can do nothing more than making trouble.

We want to be aware of our own use, our own society, and to understand. Therefore, we are not future captives at all but future adult citizens, in waiting, public administrators, and of course, members of our neighborhood. The last claim is a radical one.

We are aware of this. As long as we do the police and the educators, we are being forced to understand. And if enough people had the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced. For we can either be free or forced. Either we can do it or we can't do it. Again, this is not the American Revolution; it is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the makers of this society to be forced. If we can't do it, if we are not free, then the next step.

To be more possible, we are more powerful, we are not future captives at all but future adult citizens, in waiting, public administrators, and of course, members of our neighborhood. The last claim is a radical one.

We are aware of this. As long as we do the police and the educators, we are being forced to understand. And if enough people had the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced. For we can either be free or forced. Either we can do it or we can't do it. Again, this is not the American Revolution; it is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the makers of this society to be forced. If we can't do it, if we are not free, then the next step.

The French revolution, the Russian revolution, the American revolution — they are all radical revolutions. It is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the people who have the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced.

If we believe the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced. For we can either be free or forced. Either we can do it or we can't do it. Again, this is not the American Revolution; it is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the makers of this society to be forced. If we can't do it, if we are not free, then the next step.

The French revolution, the Russian revolution, the American revolution — they are all radical revolutions. It is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the people who have the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced.

The French revolution, the Russian revolution, the American revolution — they are all radical revolutions. It is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the people who have the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced.

To the Editor:

The May 5 letter proposing the creation of a new center under the United Board School and the suggestion of a cultural emphasis as a means of dealing with the problems of students living in the dormitories and firing off revolvers at selected targets, anything not out of a bad science fiction movie, but the shotgun they carry all over town seems more than adequate. But, in my opinion, it is a disorganized, graceless, and to some extent, a feeble way to deal with problems.

As we are currently still having a problem with organized political propaganda, to make our point in this, we can do nothing more than making trouble.

We want to be aware of our own use, our own society, and to understand. Therefore, we are not future captives at all but future adult citizens, in waiting, public administrators, and of course, members of our neighborhood. The last claim is a radical one.

We are aware of this. As long as we do the police and the educators, we are being forced to understand. And if enough people had the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced. For we can either be free or forced. Either we can do it or we can't do it. Again, this is not the American Revolution; it is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the makers of this society to be forced. If we can't do it, if we are not free, then the next step.

The French revolution, the Russian revolution, the American revolution — they are all radical revolutions. It is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the people who have the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced.

The French revolution, the Russian revolution, the American revolution — they are all radical revolutions. It is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the people who have the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced.

The French revolution, the Russian revolution, the American revolution — they are all radical revolutions. It is a revolution for the right to change what needs changed. We are not endowed by our creator to be forced, it is the people who have the power to make us be our own, to be free, to be our own, we would not be forced.
WASHINGTON -- The United States Senate on Tuesday defeated an amendment to the House-passed bill that would have increased the minimum wage for farm workers from 75 cents to $1. The vote was 37-59, with Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) joining the minority in opposition.

The amendment, sponsored by Senator Ed Muskie (D-Maine), would have given farm workers a wage increase of 25 cents an hour over the next three years.

The Senate also rejected a motion to proceed to the House-passed bill on a 40-57 vote.
ATTENTION

MAY GRADUATES

OFFICIAL UNIVERSITY IOWA GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENTS ARE NOW ON SALE AT THE ALUMNI OFFICE IN THE IOWA MEMORIAL UNION.

---

Strike Supply Trail Before Rains Come

RAGGED, OFF WITH Spare Tires! — The official government report regarding mobile truck activity and road re-

---

GRADE HASSLES?

Let's face facts. Lots of kids have grade problems — some even Flunk out. Most such problems are for one of these 3 reasons:

1. You're lazy and don't study
2. You need special help — and nobody's giving it
3. College just honestly isn't your bag

If your problem is number two, you might be interested in a new study conducted at the University of Iowa. The study was financed by the Ford Foundation and was conducted by Dr. John Smith, a noted expert in the field of education.

In the study, Dr. Smith found that students who were able to set clear goals for themselves and were willing to work hard were able to improve their grades significantly. The study also showed that students who were able to get help from tutors or study groups were also able to improve their grades.

---

Sears golf fashions for the fairways

GOLF SHIRTS BAN LON

NOW ONLY 2 for $7

SWEATERS

Boa, Fleece. Velvac, Lined. Sizes Small to Large.

NOW ONLY $10.98

SLACKS PERMA PREST® EASY TO CARE FOR, RUGGED, LARGE SELECTION OF SIZES.

EXCEPTIONAL VALUE AT THIS LOW PRICE $2.97

OWED, THURS. & FRI. ONLY

---

Ankar War Hit by Artillery

PRINCE PHESAVICH, Cambodia — A Soviet-built, Cambodian-built, armed by Chinese and supplied by the Vietnamese, 155mm artillery shell landed in Ankar, Cambodia, today, killing 11 civilians and destroying a temple.

---

How Will I Get There? Ozark Airlines!

That's fast thinking

Getting there can't be half the fun — but not if it takes up half the time. Ozark Air Lines can get you to your destination quickly.

---

Maximilian Community College

Director of Admissions

Muscatine, Iowa 52761

Phone (319) 263-8250

---

Worship, Wash, Care

Safely! Mobiles? What was the feeling toward these vehicles in America? What were the motivations behind the creation of mobile worship centers? How did these vehicles change the landscape of religious practice in the United States? These questions and more will be explored in this fascinating article.

---

Perfect Pak-It

Name

Address

City

State

Zip

---

Perfect Pak-It

330 10th St. Fort - Columbus, NE 68652

"Move Safely With Safley»
Hawkeyes Top ISU After Loss in Opener

By JOHN RICHARDS
Sports Editor

AMES, Iowa - Iowa's back-up quarterback, freshman Terry Harper, turned in by far the finest performance of his young career Tuesday night in the game of the season for both the Hawkeyes and the Cyclones.

The underdog Harper, coming in to replace an injured Dennis Mullin with 3:18 remaining in the first quarter, didn't do much as a passer or rusher in the opening period. But in the second, he orchestrated an 11-play, 79-yard drive, climaxing with his 4-yard TD pass to Joe Sandberg with 4:02 remaining in the half. The touchdown gave the Hawkeyes a 7-0 lead, and their only lead of the game.

The Cyclones had scored twice in the first period, on Joe Sandberg's 1-yard TD reception from John Mahovlich and a 60-yard field goal by Paul Smith.

The score was increased to 14-7 at the 5:58 mark of the third quarter on John Mahovlich's 3-yard TD pass to Joe Sandberg. And the score was increased to 21-7 with 6:40 remaining in the period on Paul Smith's 1-yard run.

The Cyclones notched their 17th straight victory over the Hawkeyes, extending their lead in the Big 8 to three games.

The Hawkeyes fumbled the ball away on both of their opening possessions and didn't score a point until early in the third quarter.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

Iowa's defense, which was expected to be its Achilles heel all season, was once again the key. The Hawkeyes' 16 turnovers have been one of the factors in their six-game winning streak.

Dennis Mullin returned the opening kickoff 64 yards, including a 26-yard gain on a reverse. Iowa took the opening kickoff 40 yards for a touchdown, but Paul Smith missed the extra point.

Iowa's offense was again ineffective. The Hawkeyes rushed 27 times for 144 yards, but failed to score a touchdown on the ground.

The Hawkeyes played without the services of four starters--fullback Butch Dvorak, nose tackle Jerry Saccenti, tackle Ray Fielder and right tackle John Mahovlich. But even with the able replacements of Dvorak and Saccenti, the team was outhustled across the board.

For one thing, the Cyclones had 109 yards' worth of first downs, 11 more than Iowa, which totaled 196 total yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

After the two teams met for the first time in 1955, the Hawkeyes and Cyclones have met 22 times. The Cyclones lead the series 16-6.

The Cyclones' 17-game winning streak is the nation's longest. The Hawkeyes' six-game winning streak is the nation's third longest.

Iowa's record now stands at 6-3-1, 4-1-1 in the Big 8, while the Cyclones are 9-1-1, 5-1-1.

The Hawkeyes played without the services of four starters--fullback Butch Dvorak, nose tackle Jerry Saccenti, tackle Ray Fielder and right tackle John Mahovlich. But even with the able replacements of Dvorak and Saccenti, the team was outhustled across the board.

For one thing, the Cyclones had 109 yards' worth of first downs, 11 more than Iowa, which totaled 196 total yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.

The Hawkeyes' defense held the Cyclones to 219 total yards in the game, with 205 coming in the first half. The Cyclones' John Mahovlich, one of the nation's leading passers, was held to 112 yards.
true hate cannot exist without first there being true love...

Emile Bronte's defiant young lovers live again in a new and different look at an immortal classic.

"How to succeed in Business without really trying." - Office Airs

The innovative heading of the article is having a great deal of life in its own right. The author seems to have come up with a new and unique way of conveying the message that has caught the attention of the readers. The text is clear and concise, with a focus on the main idea of the article. The structure is well thought out, with proper use of paragraphs to break up the content and make it easier to read. The language is simple and direct, making it easy for the readers to understand the message being conveyed. Overall, the article is well written and effective in its delivery.
Death Row Inmates Prepare New Appeals

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. — Following the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal last week to review the death sentences of 93 inmates on California's death row, attorneys for the inmates have announced plans to prepare new appeals.

The refusal by the high court to hear the case, which was filed late last week, means that the inmates' appeals will now be heard by federal courts.

The court's decision came after a series of appeals by the inmates, who have been sentenced to death for murder. The inmates have argued that their sentences are unconstitutional because they were tried in a system that violates due process rights.

The Supreme Court has not ruled on the constitutionality of capital punishment in the United States, but it has upheld the death penalty in a number of cases.

Inmates on death row as inmates

Nearly all the 93 men on death row at the California prison will now have new attorneys to represent them in court.

Lester Gish, a 35-year-old inmate, said he was pleased with the court's decision.

"I'm not surprised," Gish said. "I've been fighting this for years."

Gish has been on death row since 1978 for the murder of a prison guard.

Gish was sentenced to death by a jury in 1978 after being convicted of murder and attempted murder.

The inmate and his lawyer, D.A. Brown, have plans to file a petition for a stay of execution.

"We will file an appeal to prevent execution," Brown said. "We are not giving up."

Brown said the inmate's family and friends have been supporting him throughout his appeal.

"We are here for him," said his sister, Mollie Gish. "We will keep fighting until the day he is freed."

Gish's case has drawn national attention, with supporters calling for a moratorium on executions.

"We must put an end to this senseless killing," said Brown. "The death penalty is not the answer."

Gish's case is one of many on death row in California, where there are currently 93 men and 2 women who have been sentenced to die.

Abbott Smalls, a 45-year-old inmate, has been on death row since 1978 for the murder of a prison guard.

"I'm not surprised," Smalls said. "I've been fighting this for years."

Smalls was sentenced to death by a jury in 1978 after being convicted of murder and attempted murder.

The inmate and his lawyer, D.A. Brown, have plans to file a petition for a stay of execution.

"We will file an appeal to prevent execution," Brown said. "We are not giving up."

Brown said the inmate's family and friends have been supporting him throughout his appeal.

"We are here for him," said his sister, Mollie Gish. "We will keep fighting until the day he is freed."

Gish's case has drawn national attention, with supporters calling for a moratorium on executions.

"We must put an end to this senseless killing," said Brown. "The death penalty is not the answer."

Gish's case is one of many on death row in California, where there are currently 93 men and 2 women who have been sentenced to die.

Abbott Smalls, a 45-year-old inmate, has been on death row since 1978 for the murder of a prison guard.

"I'm not surprised," Smalls said. "I've been fighting this for years."

Smalls was sentenced to death by a jury in 1978 after being convicted of murder and attempted murder.

The inmate and his lawyer, D.A. Brown, have plans to file a petition for a stay of execution.

"We will file an appeal to prevent execution," Brown said. "We are not giving up."

Brown said the inmate's family and friends have been supporting him throughout his appeal.

"We are here for him," said his sister, Mollie Gish. "We will keep fighting until the day he is freed."

Gish's case has drawn national attention, with supporters calling for a moratorium on executions.

"We must put an end to this senseless killing," said Brown. "The death penalty is not the answer."

Gish's case is one of many on death row in California, where there are currently 93 men and 2 women who have been sentenced to die.

Abbott Smalls, a 45-year-old inmate, has been on death row since 1978 for the murder of a prison guard.

"I'm not surprised," Smalls said. "I've been fighting this for years."

Smalls was sentenced to death by a jury in 1978 after being convicted of murder and attempted murder.

The inmate and his lawyer, D.A. Brown, have plans to file a petition for a stay of execution.

"We will file an appeal to prevent execution," Brown said. "We are not giving up."

Brown said the inmate's family and friends have been supporting him throughout his appeal.

"We are here for him," said his sister, Mollie Gish. "We will keep fighting until the day he is freed."

Gish's case has drawn national attention, with supporters calling for a moratorium on executions.

"We must put an end to this senseless killing," said Brown. "The death penalty is not the answer."

Gish's case is one of many on death row in California, where there are currently 93 men and 2 women who have been sentenced to die.

Abbott Smalls, a 45-year-old inmate, has been on death row since 1978 for the murder of a prison guard.

"I'm not surprised," Smalls said. "I've been fighting this for years."

Smalls was sentenced to death by a jury in 1978 after being convicted of murder and attempted murder.

The inmate and his lawyer, D.A. Brown, have plans to file a petition for a stay of execution.

"We will file an appeal to prevent execution," Brown said. "We are not giving up."

Brown said the inmate's family and friends have been supporting him throughout his appeal.

"We are here for him," said his sister, Mollie Gish. "We will keep fighting until the day he is freed."

Gish's case has drawn national attention, with supporters calling for a moratorium on executions.

"We must put an end to this senseless killing," said Brown. "The death penalty is not the answer."

Gish's case is one of many on death row in California, where there are currently 93 men and 2 women who have been sentenced to die.

Abbott Smalls, a 45-year-old inmate, has been on death row since 1978 for the murder of a prison guard.

"I'm not surprised," Smalls said. "I've been fighting this for years."

Smalls was sentenced to death by a jury in 1978 after being convicted of murder and attempted murder.

The inmate and his lawyer, D.A. Brown, have plans to file a petition for a stay of execution.

"We will file an appeal to prevent execution," Brown said. "We are not giving up."

Brown said the inmate's family and friends have been supporting him throughout his appeal.

"We are here for him," said his sister, Mollie Gish. "We will keep fighting until the day he is freed."

Gish's case has drawn national attention, with supporters calling for a moratorium on executions. 