WASHINGTON (AP) — Top-secret Pentagon papers made public by Sen. Mike Gravel Wednesday disclosed early, high-level U.S. talk of using nuclear weapons in the Vietnam war if escalation brought about a major attack by Red Chinese forces. (See additional story on Gravel, Page 2.)

"We would not allow ourselves to be bled white fighting them with conventional weapons," Dean Rusk, then secretary of state, told Premier Nguyen Khanh of South Vietnam as quoted in a cable to Washington by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

"This meant," the cable added, "that if escalation brought about a major Chinese attack, it would also involve the use of nuclear arms."

The Lodge account of the Rusk-Khanh meeting in Saigon was contained in portions of the Defense Department's study of Vietnam policy development which Gravel read into the record of a Senate subcommittee Tuesday night. The Alaska Democrat had declared the subcommittee in session as a one-man hearing. He is a dove on Vietnam.

His avowed aim was to begin putting the highly controversial documents on the record for the American people, and he said: "... I am convinced I am in no way jeopardizing this nation's security."

His action was challenged by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who told newsmen Gravel might have violated Senate rules by his action. The Pennsylvania senator said Rule 36 prohibits senators from releasing confidential communications from the executive branch of the government.

Gravel, whose reading of the documents had continued until after 1 a.m., had been expected back on Capitol Hill about noon. In early afternoon, however, his press secretary, Marty Wolf, said Gravel had decided to stay home and make no further attempt until Thursday at the earliest to put more of the Pentagon paper on the record.

The Justice Department has taken legal action to stop various newspapers from publishing the still officially top-secret documents which were first leaked to the New York Times.

In a rebuff to the government, the Supreme Court ruled 6 to 3 Wednesday that the New York Times and the Washington Post may publish stories based on the secret Pentagon study. The majority opinion said the government had not proved justification for a restraint.

Information spread on the formal, public record of Congress is privileged for publication, and Gravel acted to give the documents he read into the subcommittee record that status.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana refused to comment on Gravel's action. He said he wanted to discuss the whole matter with a legal aide.

The House, meanwhile, killed 273 to 112 a resolution to direct President Nixon to turn over the full, top-secret 47-volume, 7,000-page Pentagon war study to Congress. Nixon has sent copies to both Senate and House but under restrictions as to their use.

Supreme Court Excerpts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are brief excerpts from the opinions of the Supreme Court Justices in voting 6 to 3 to permit the New York Times and the Washington Post to publish stories based on the Pentagon's Vietnam war study.

From the majority opinions: Hugo L. Black: "The guarding of military and diplomatic secrets at the expense of informed representative government provides no real security for our Republic."

William O. Douglas: "Secrecy in government is fundamentally antidemocratic, perpetuating bureaucratic errors."

Potter Stewart: "... The only effective restraint upon executive policy and power in the areas of national defense and international affairs may lie in an enlightened citizenry — in an informed and critical public opinion which alone can here protect the values of democratic government."

William J. Brennan: "The First Amendment stands as an absolute bar to the imposition of judicial restraints in circumstances of the kind presented by these cases."

Thurgood Marshall: "The issue is whether this court or the Congress has the power to make law."

Byron R. White: "... Can I deny that revelation of these documents will do substantial damage to the public interest? Their disclosures will have that result."

Death of 3 Cosmonauts Slows Soviet Space Plans

MOSCOW (AP) — The death of three cosmonauts as they were about to land after a record 24 days aloft threw the Soviet Union's future space efforts into uncertainty Wednesday.

How long the Russians wait before sending more men to work on the orbiting laboratory Salute — which the cosmonauts quit Tuesday — presumably will depend on how quickly investigators can find and rectify the problem that killed the crew of the spacecraft Soyuz 11.

Foreign experts believed that oxygen systems failure on the Soyuz 11 probably caused the cosmonauts to die at the controls after the spacecraft had braked for entry into the atmosphere.

The three were found dead in the Soyuz 11 early Wednesday after it made a soft landing in a remote region. It had experienced no difficulty undocking from Salute, which the three entered June 7 to conduct extensive space experiments.

The official news agency Tass announced that an investigation had been ordered. It said all communications with the crew ended after the braking mechanism for re-entry was shut off.

Whatever it was, it happened suddenly and caught the three while they were secured in their seats for the re-entry. The fact that they were found dead in that position indicated they were unable to react quickly enough to save their lives.

Since the Russians never reveal their space schedules, it was not known what effect the failure will have on future manned space flights.

After the only previous death in a space flight, that of Vladimir Komarov on April 23, 1967, the Soviet Union abandoned manned space flights for 18 months. The intervening time was apparently spent in perfecting the parachute landing system that failed on Komarov's spaceship.

Whether a prolonged delay will be necessary following the Soyuz 11 tragedy will presumably depend largely on what is determined to have been the cause of death.

Most experts believe the unmanned Salute station will be used again by another crew carried into space by a Soyuz. The three crewmen raised the orbit of the Salute on their first days aboard to keep it from dropping and burning up in the atmosphere.

The cosmonauts — Lt. Col. George Dobrovolsky, the commander, Vladislav Volkov, the flight engineer, and Viktor Patsayev, the test engineer — were given posthumous awards for "heroism and courage shown during the test of the new space complex," Tass said.

Meanwhile, high-level commission of government and Communist party officials was formed to organize the cosmonauts' funeral. The men will be buried at the Kremlin wall in Red Square, final resting place for the nation's heroes.

The cosmonauts had completed their tasks in space "in full," Tass reported, and apparently brought back all the materials they were supposed to in their Soyuz 11 spaceship. Thus much of their accomplishment was salvaged.

But a key part of the experiment — the complete study of the effects of weightlessness on men and their readaptation to earth conditions — remained unfinished.

Hughes, Miller Applaud Decision On War Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iowa Sens. Jack Miller and Harold Hughes Wednesday applauded the U.S. Supreme Court's decision allowing the New York Times and Washington Post to publish the Pentagon study of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

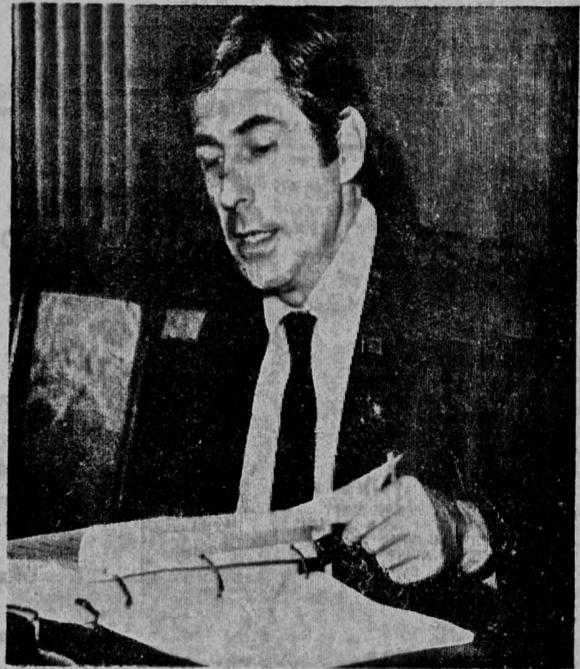

Hughes called the decision "a victory for our constitutional system of block-busting proportions."

"This thunderous reaffirmation of the public's right to know in America will rekindle hope in the hearts of those who love freedom throughout the world," the Iowa Democrat said.

"Publication of the Pentagon papers has not, in my judgment, posed any threat to our national security," the former three-term governor continued.

"Suppression of them would have jeopardized one of our most basic freedoms. We need to know the truth, not to reopen wounds of the past or to fix scapegoats, but to unify our people in a determination to prevent similar tragedies in the future."

Miller said the Supreme Court decision confirmed his first reaction to publication of the papers: "That the time frame covered by them amounted to 'ancient history,' so that such publication would seem to have only a minor impact on national security."

Goetz's Office To Prosecute Supervisors, Critic Bartel

The continuing dispute between the Johnson County Board of Supervisors and Richard Bartel, persistent critic of county government, concerning interpretation of Iowa's open meeting law took on a new dimension today when County Attorney Carl J. Goetz disclosed that his office will prosecute both sides of the issue.

In a statement made Wednesday afternoon, Goetz said "It is the duty of the County Attorney to represent the state in state charges, therefore, this office will not defend the Board of Supervisors against the charges filed by Richard Bartel."

Goetz explained that a member of his staff will prosecute the seven charges filed by Bartel which accuse the supervisors of various violations of the state's open meeting law

Another member of his staff will prosecute charges by Supervisor Robert J. Burns alleging unlawful behavior by Bartel at a supervisor's meeting June 22.

Two supervisors, Edward Kessler and Ralph Prybil, pleaded not guilty to Bartel's charges in Police Court Wednesday morning. Burns entered a plea of innocent upon arraignment last week. Trial is set for July 9 at the Iowa City Police Court.

Bartel, a University graduate student, filed a total of seven charges against the supervisors after he was denied permission to speak at the board's regular meeting June 22. The charges include "failing to give advance notice of a meeting" and "meeting without having minutes taken."

2 Die in Bank Robbery

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP) — A police lieutenant and a suspected bandit were shot to death Wednesday in a shoot-out after two men robbed the west side drive-in office of the First National Bank here. Another policeman and a retired dentist were wounded and two other persons injured in the fast moving events which followed the bold mid-morning robbery.

There was no official word on the amount of money taken in the holdup but the Omaha World-Herald said it had learned it was approximately $550,000.

The shooting took place around the home of Mrs. Dora Henderson, about five blocks from the bank, where one suspect had hidden out and was holding Mrs. Henderson hostage.

Police Lt. C. E. Moore, 52, was shot as he entered Mrs. Henderson's home.

The suspect, not immediately identified, was wounded several times as he exchanged fire with police officers and FBI agents. He was taken to a hospital and died a short time later.

Officers said the man carried a Denver driver's license and they were trying to establish his identity through Colorado authorities.

Wounded in the shooting fray were Dr. William Hombach, a retired dentist who lives across the street from Mrs. Henderson, and Police Patrolman Michael McEvoy.

Police said Mrs. Henderson apparently was struck on the head by the man. Patrolman Dan Larsen suffered a dislocated shoulder as he jumped a fence while chasing the second suspect in Omaha.

Larsen chased the car carrying the second suspect at speeds up to 90 miles an hour over the interstate bridge to Omaha. The chase ended when the fleeing car crashed through a fence in downtown Omaha.

Harry Moss, 62, of Omaha, told police he saw a man wearing a yellow shirt or jacket run across a parking lot and jump into a parked truck about a block from where the car went through the fence.

Police surrounded the truck and fired several teargas canisters into the open end of the truck trailer but the suspect had escaped.

The bank robbery occurred at 9:30 a.m. when two men masked with nylon stockings entered with drawn guns and ordered two women employees and two male customers into a corner.

Merle Brown, 37, a former Council Bluffs policeman now employed by a Glenwood lumberyard, was one of the customers.

He said the first he knew of anything going on was when he heard a teller, Mrs. James Kalar, "give a deep sigh."

"Being a former policeman, my first instinct was to grab one of the men," he said. Brown said he moved toward one of the men but the other robber "stuck a gun in my stomach and made me get in the corner."

While one bandit held the four at gunpoint, the other jumped over the counter and stuffed an undetermined amount of cash into a bag which Brown said "looked like a pillow case."

One of the employees, meanwhile, had triggered a silent alarm connected to police headquarters.

Patrolmen Larsen and McEvoy arrived in their police cruiser just as the two were driving away in a light brown car.

The two patrolmen said one of the suspects fired a shot which hit the windshield of the cruiser and McEvoy was hit by flying glass.

A few blocks away, they said, one of the suspects jumped from the fleeing car and ran away on foot. McEvoy gave chase while Larsen pursued the car across the river. Other police officers and FBI agents were summoned to the Council Bluffs area to help with the search.

Mrs. Betty Nelson, who runs a flower shop, said she saw a man carrying a bag go into the home of Mrs. Henderson. She said that when she told police they were looking for someone, she telephoned Mrs. Henderson who said she was all right and there was no one there.

She got word to L.T. Moore and Lt. Mike Kerns that she had seen a man enter Mrs. Henderson's home and the two officers went there.

Kerns said he entered the home through the back door while Moore entered through the front.

"I heard shots and the man started to come out the back way," Kerns said. "He fired two shots. I fired back. I'm sure I hit him."

The man turned and ran out the front door and across the street as FBI agents arrived, Kerns said.

French Post Office Robbery Nets $2 Million; Six Flee

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — A team of gunmen dressed in French postal workers' white smocks hid in the shadows of Strasbourg's main post office until a police guard went home, then pulled one of the century's biggest and fastest holdups Wednesday, seizing 11,680,000 francs, or $2,102,956.

The haul was the biggest cash theft in French history. Alarms were broadcast throughout France and Germany, across the Rhine River from this Alsatian capital, for five or six men who carted off the money, meant for government retirement fund recipients. Their getaway vehicle was a yellow van.

According to a police reconstruction of the holdup, the money was brought into the courtyard in an armored car guarded by a police patrol car.

The funds were unloaded onto a cart by five workers who handle transport money daily.

Once the money was in their hands and inside the post office, behind a locked door, the police guard headed for home. Inside the building, the five workers were confronted by four or five men in white smocks, identical to their own, who pulled masks over their faces and brandished their weapons — a submachine gun, pistols and two rifles.

After a brief scuffle, the bandits seized the cart and left. It all took about four minutes.

Gravel Vanishes After Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Gravel, a 41-year-old freshman Democrat from Alaska, dropped out of sight Wednesday hours after releasing secret Pentagon papers to newsmen at one of the most unusual hearings ever held at the Capitol.

Gravel aides told newsmen shortly after the senator went home at dawn that he would be back to test the reaction around noon and decide whether to continue releasing the papers.

At noon the dapper, shaggy-haired former New England businessman didn't appear, and aides said he was home sleeping.

A newsmen who went to the Gravel home in suburban Maryland was told by Mrs. Gravel the senator was not there.

Talking to newsmen, Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Gravel may have violated a Senate rule on secrecy that could make him liable to expulsion.

Senate Democratic leaders, refusing to comment, conferred on whether to take any action.

Gravel's disclosures came at a four-hour hearing of a subcommittee on Capitol buildings and grounds which he heads.

The senator hastily conveyed the hearing in a room just down the hall from his office in the New Senate Office Building after Republicans blocked him from giving a marathon speech on the floor.

The hearing room was crowded with some 150 newsmen, peace activists, tourists and Senate aides as Gravel rambled through the first volume of the massive study.

He said he had obtained from a private individual more than half of the 47 volumes of the secret Pentagon study.

Moms Hit Food Stamps Sales Tax

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — "Mother Power," a Davenport association of recipients of Aid to Dependent Children, is carrying out a plan to shop in Illinois to avoid payment of Iowa sales tax on food stamps.

Illinois does not charge tax on the stamps.

Patty Jo Wells, president of the group, said a bus will leave Davenport at noon Saturday to transport food stamp recipients across the river.

In a letter to Donald Briggs, director of the Department of Revenue, she said, "To us, it still seems unfair that our children should be denied the benefits we could give them if we did not have to pay sales tax on food stamp purchases."

Speaking for the organization, she said, "We come to ask you to consider an administrative decision from the Revenue Department that would assure us the same rights as those who live in Illinois."

Allies Counter With B52s— North Viets Shell DMZ Area

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting intensified Wednesday along South Vietnam's northern frontier just below the demilitarized zone (DMZ).

The North Vietnamese hit the chain of allied bases with half a dozen new rocket or mortar bombardments and ground assaults.

The Allies countered with heavy artillery fire and a succession of B52 raids and other air strikes.

The renewed fighting could be the forerunner of a widely expected North Vietnamese drive toward the coastal lowlands and the major population centers of Quang Tri, Hue and Da Nang.

Reporting from Quang Tri, Associated Press correspondent J. T. Wolkerstorfer said one of the B52 raids hit along "rocket ridge." This is a four-mile stretch running from the southern rim of the DMZ southward to Fire Base Fuller. From this ridge, the North Vietnamese have been loosing heavy rocket and mortar shelling the past two weeks.

Three other B52 raids pounded North Vietnamese mortar positions, bunkers and suspected troop concentrations within one to two miles of Fire Base Fuller.

U. S. fighter-bombers struck at suspected North Vietnamese launching sites all along the sector below the DMZ Wednesday.

Intelligence officers expect a North Vietnamese push to the lowlands in the coming weeks to take advantage of the current dry season in the northern provinces.

Such an offensive would have an added objective of disrupting South Vietnam's elections in August and October. Coincident with renewed fighting, military sources in Saigon disclosed that defense of the last American-held sector below the buffer zone will be taken over by South Vietnamese troops within the next two weeks.

The U.S. unit coming out of the sector is a battalion of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division. It is the last American unit defending any of South Vietnam's borders and includes the last U.S. tank company still engaged in combat operations.

In the latest fighting below the DMZ, South Vietnamese troops killed 92 North Vietnamese with support from U.S. air and artillery strikes, Saigon headquarters reported. South Vietnamese losses were reported at 15 killed and 24 wounded.

Ray Signs Tax, School Aid Bill

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Robert Ray signed into law a massive tax-school aid bill and three other measures Wednesday.

Ray told newsmen the tax measure represents as little new tax money as possible, but stops increases in school property taxes.

Also signed into law by the governor Wednesday were the State Board of Regents appropriations bill, the unemployment compensation bill and the railroad employee safety bill.

The governor said earlier the new tax measure, which raises state income taxes by a third while freezing spending of local school boards and thus preventing school property tax increases, will benefit most Iowans.

But Hugh D. Clark, president of the Iowa Federation of Labor, charged Wednesday afternoon that the tax increases "hit hardest where relief is needed most."

"The working people of Iowa may pay the bill this time," said Clark, "but the people who forced this fraud upon them will eventually pay the price."

And the labor-federation's secretary-treasurer James J. Wengert said, "There is nothing resembling tax reform. It is a regressive measure. The property tax relief promised will not materialize for low and middle income families, especially those living in cities and suburbs."

"The revenue the increased income tax is supposed to raise very probably won't be realized because it is based on a 10 percent growth factor for individual income. Current high unemployment and recession make this much growth practically impossible," Wengert said.

Clark complained the income tax increase is retroactive to Jan. 1 for individuals, while the corporate income tax increase is not retroactive.

"That doesn't seem fair to the vast majority of taxpayers," Clark said, "and nobody has come up with reason for it."

The governor said the school aid distribution plan included in the measure he signed into law Wednesday is designed to:

- Stop further escalation of already burdensome property taxes paid for school support;
- Provide reasonable spending restrictions on local schools, regardless of the source of the funds;
- Distribute the aid where the students are, reflecting increases and decreases in student enrollment;
- Insure equalization of educational opportunity;
- Eliminate the school's open-ended access to property tax funds;
- Establish a school financing process which recognizes an Iowan's ability to pay; and
- Cease rewarding the inefficient or high-spending school district.

Turkey Promises End To Poppy Farming

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon hailed Wednesday Turkey's decision to halt cultivation of the opium poppy as "the most significant breakthrough" in a worldwide offensive against dangerous drugs.

Turkey, which has grown poppies for centuries and is one of the few countries where it is legal to do so, has been the source of 60 percent of the illegal heroin coming into the United States.

A joint announcement Wednesday by President Nixon at the White House and Turkey's prime minister Nihat Erim in Ankara, Turkey, decreed an end to growing of the opium poppy by July 1972 in the interest of the well-being of the world.

Erim said Turkey "must free itself of responsibility for ruining lives in other countries. It has become an important human duty to save the youth of the world from this sickness."

Opium will be planted in only four Turkish provinces this fall, Erim called on farmers who plant this last crop to turn over their entire harvest to government buyers, not black marketers.

The United States has promised to provide financial and technical aid to Turkey to help its farmers make the transition from poppy - growing to other cash crops. No specific aid amounts were announced. The opium poppy is estimated to bring Turkish farmers $3 million to $5 million annually.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who appeared before reporters at the White House along with Turkey's ambassador to the United States, Melih Esenbel, when Nixon made his announcement, said the United States is continuing narcotics negotiations with six other countries where opium poppies are grown. And it is continuing its efforts with the United Nations to cut off sources of supply for illegal narcotics.

Apart from Turkey, Southeast Asia is the main source of opium from which heroin is made.

Nixon called the action of the Turkish government "very courageous and statesmanlike" and said it "deserves the appreciation of all the people of the world."

The White House statement noted that although tens of thousands of Turkish families have raised the opium poppy for hundreds of years as a legitimate cash crop and for its edible oil and seed, yet Turkey is one of the few opium-growing countries in which use of opium or heroin is virtually unknown.

Nixon said, "Since the opium farmer has little if any knowledge of his part in the spread of a frightening international epidemic, a ban on opium production is a particularly difficult decision."

9 Music Students' Instruments Stolen

Nine musical instruments belonging to high school students attending a University sponsored summer music camp were stolen from the music building either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

According to William L. Binney, head of Campus Security, the thieves gained entry to the building through an open window.

Campus Security has no leads into the theft.

The stolen instruments include an oboe, baritone horn, trombone, clarinet, cornet, two alto saxophones and two trumpets.

Nixon: End Of Lax Law Enforcement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proclaiming it a good day for police, President Nixon declared Wednesday that "the era of permissiveness with regard to law enforcement is at an end in the United States."

Encouraged by developments in the field of narcotics and by statistics indicating a slow down in the urban crime rate, Nixon praised FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and expressed optimism for the prospect of curbing crime.

Speaking to 100 graduates of the FBI's National Academy, Nixon and Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell assured them the Republican administration and "a great majority of the American people" back the FBI and their local police.

Mitchell decried what he called "a tidal wave of legalisms" that he said is frustrating society's right to swift justice, and warned the police officers of "a new menace."

This threat is "the violence of extremists who are proclaimed enemies of the police, and often of government itself," Mitchell said. He said such extremists manufacture disorder and look upon justice as "whatever serves revolution."

Mitchell said society is confused by public figures and responsible publications who say that the nation is headed for a police state.

"In my view, just the opposite is the case," Mitchell said. "Today our society is more permissive, more tolerant and more protective of human rights than ever before."

Of the 76-year-old Hoover, who has served under three Democratic and two Republican presidents in the 24 years of their acquaintance, Nixon said:

"I know from experience that he is a man who has never served a party; he is a man who has served his country and he deserves credit for that."

Hoover, obviously delighted at the presence of his two bosses on his home ground; bowed to the President, made him an honorary member of the Academy. Hoover also gave him gold cufflinks with the Academy's motto, "Knowledge, Courage, Integrity."

Nixon said that Turkey's announcement that it will outlaw opium production in 1972, and results of the FBI's quarterly survey of crime statistics make "today... a good day in terms of news in law enforcement."

And the crime statistics, showing a slower increase in crime nationally and an actual decrease in crime in 61 large cities, indicates that "we are making progress in the fight against crime," he said.

The President said he wanted the Academy graduates to take a message back to their fellow officers.

"When you go home, tell your colleagues that the era of permissiveness with regard to law enforcement is at an end in the United States of America."

Not many people will see a mistake you make. Almost everyone in town sees ours!

Your local newspaper's prime function is to present the news... honestly and fully. That's all. However, sometimes the reporting goes astray, when the news is printed. Some of our friends think this is amusing. Some don't. We at your local newspaper don't laugh easily when a mistake is made in your local paper.

But in spite of our best efforts, it does happen occasionally. Even the editor had to smile when this caption appeared in his newspaper under the picture of a fallen tree:

Sometimes the classified ads are full of surprises, too. The young lady who ran this advertisement is still wishing that her friends would let her forget it:

Wanted: Large well-furnished room by young woman about fifteen feet square.

Then there was the time one of our nice Iowa ladies, trying to do her part to add to the Christmas spirit of her home city, found her efforts recorded thus:

Mrs. X set up a still life composition of angel figurines and greenery entitled, "Hark the Herald Angels Sin."

So, when you see one like this:

Bicycle Thefts

According to Campus Security, an awful lot of bicycles have been stolen in Iowa City. In fact, as long as we're in an economic slump there are going to be a lot of things stolen around this campus.

Bicycles have their serial numbers in two places; on the frame of the bike and on the hub of the rear wheel. If the booklet that came with your bike is still around, look on the back cover, it should be printed there also.

Why bother? Campus Security regularly combs the bike racks for stolen vehicles. I have also been informed that they take down the serial number of every valuable in a dorm room when searching for dope.

Not only bikes are stolen, record players, typewriters, books and other valuable items are removed from the dorms and unlocked apartments. Very often these items are sold back to students as "used" items. Here's how to protect yourself. Take down the serial numbers of everything you own, in duplicate.

Not everything has a serial number on it. Books can be protected by writing in ink, your name on the inside of the front cover near the spine, not on the paper frontpiece, but the pasteboard cover, preferably centered.

There is one other item that always gets lifted, a wallet. Go to a Xerox machine at the library for instance, remove the contents of your wallet and place it on the camera glass. Make two copies of the contents of your wallet. How much easier could it be?

Records get borrowed or stolen? Scratch your name in the plastic near the spindle hole. The same goes for tape cassettes.

Leaving your apartment for the month of August? Do you have insurance? That's about 40 dollars. If you have it, don't forget to make a list of valuable items.

So it's too much to bother with, you might ask yourself. Campus Security reports that the number of bicycle thefts in Iowa City, which set me off on this tirade, has increased 10-fold in the past year.

A rototiller can be used to work a grass mulch into the soil in the Fall and by Spring it will have become part of the soil humus.

Organic Gardening

by Paul Hever

The dry season is well upon us, and early at that. The heat is also early this year. This combination of factors brings to mind an old standby of organic gardening, the mulch.

It won't be long before the oat crop is ready to be cut. And this means an abundance of straw. It is usually free of weed seeds and makes an excellent mulch.

One of the most overlooked mulches is grass clippings. Recent lawn mower ads have been stressing the use of grass catching bags in combination with the mowers.

Note: If one finds that he or she is severely bitten by the organic gardening bug there is a magazine worth reading. It is called "Organic Gardening and Farming."

The Swami

By Grant Mulford

Occasionally I receive a letter from my cousin Albert, Albert is from the hill country of Tennessee and has a singular way of expressing himself.

In the newspaper we get here I saw about a man named Swami Sambegi. I read the advertisement for him and it said: "Know the Universe. Achieve the Eternal Peace. Visit the Swami and become Enlightened."

But I'm getting off the subject. Anyway, I took a bus to Memphis and found the Swami's house along about dusk one day. Inside it was dark and odd looking and junk was laying all over.

The Rodale Press also offers various books for sale. There are a couple of titles worth having. They are the "Encyclopedia of Organic Gardening," and "The Complete Book of Composting."

I looked and I strained but I couldn't see no ruby. I couldn't see no allness neither. Or elephants, or crystals.

To the Editor

To the Editor:

We are all aware of the conditions of austerity which now prevail at this university, as elsewhere. Here is what seems to me a modest proposal which would be easy to implement and which would help the University with its financial problems without resorting to measure like turning away low income patients from University Hospital.

Those responsible for the air conditioning in University buildings seem determined to prove that, even in Iowa, one can be uncomfortably cold in June. They have made their point with me. The temperatures that I have observed inside air conditioned University buildings this summer have ranged from 64 degrees to 77 degrees.

Even Iowa Power and Light, not an institution to advocate rash measures that might damp the exponential growth rate on electrical consumption, suggests that 78 degrees is the optimum (highest comfortable) temperature for air conditioned buildings and estimates that keeping a building 5 degrees cooler at 73 degrees uses 50 per cent more energy.

It is with a certain amount of foreboding that I make my little proposal. Last winter when most of us were still wearing a modest amount of clothing, I visited a University facility in which the temperature was 80 degrees with the radiator hissing pleasantly while several scholars dozed over their books. When I suggested to the attendant that it might be a trifle warm, he was somewhat surprised but decided to humor me.

I write not for my own comfort, nor for that of those few straggle individuals like me who are comfortable at 70 degrees when dressed in woollens and at 80 degrees in short sleeves.

Can nothing be done about this madness? Sincerely yours, R. A. Christianson

LETTERS POLICY

The Daily Iowan welcomes expressions of opinion and other contributions. Letters to the Editor must be signed. They should be typed, triple spaced, and for the purposes of verification, give the writer's street address.

Excerpts from the

D. M. B.

Congressional Record

Bikeways Bill

Rep. Koch (D-N.Y.): "Today, I am introducing a bill, The Bicycle Transportation Act of 1971, that would allow states and communities to use Highway Trust Fund monies for the development of bicycle lanes or paths.

It is remarkable that we have a vehicle that emits no pollution, makes no noise, takes up little room and acts as a body container for its rider."

Int'l Convention on Genocide

Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis.): "It seems to me that public confidence in public officials is one of the most important issues at stake when we consider ratification of the International Convention on Genocide.

The American people have always felt some distrust of professional politicians. There has always been the popular feeling that the public officials must be held accountable to the people for their actions and lack of action.

And in the last few days, the people of our country have been given more cause to wonder about the honesty and good faith of its highest government officials. Those who have read the recent New York Times and Washington Post disclosures about the handling of the Vietnamese situation in Democratic and Republican administrations will know what I am talking about.

That is why I want to call the International Convention on Genocide to the close attention of Senators. Here is an opportunity for the Senate to take a step toward restoring public confidence in government. According to the Convention, genocide is defined as government acts motivated by the "intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnic, racial, or religious group, as such."

... why has not the U.S. Senate formally ratified the Convention on Genocide? Why will not the United States stand together with the 75 other nations which have already approved the Convention...?"

Thanks President For Documents

Sen. Dole (R-Kan.): "I voice the sentiment of most Senators in expressing satisfaction that the President is sending to the Congress the 47 volumes of the so-called McNamara papers as well as a classified study of the Gulf of Tonkin incident that led to the almost unimous resolution that allowed President Johnson unlimited authority to escalate the fighting in Vietnam.

It is in the best interests of the American people that their representatives be given a look at these documents, unedited and unexpurgated by the press...

This is the proper approach. It is not a proper approach to steal documents, to leak their contents, or to accept and print the information one may find in such stolen property.

This is not a question of freedom of the press. It is a question of honesty, integrity, and putting the interests of one's country ahead of personal gain or self-satisfaction.

The President is to be congratulated on taking this wise and logical step and in bringing Congress into partnership in this vital area."

Questions Executive Branch's Reliability

Sen. Hart (D-Mich.): "I am appalled to read in today's press that the administration has given approval to renewed shipment of U.S. military equipment to Pakistan.

In the face of eyewitness accounts that wholesale slaughter is being inflicted on the people of East Pakistan, it is inconceivable to me that our Government would place additional military material in the hands of the Government of Pakistan.

Mr. President, this is not a time or a place for "business as usual." It is dismaying to me that our government has not yet perceived that the overwhelming majority of the American people are sickened by U.S. involvement in mass killing...

Equally alarming is the State Department's apparent lack of candor in its repeated insistence that "no military items have been provided to the Government of Pakistan or its agents since the outbreak of fighting in East Pakistan March 25 and nothing is now scheduled for such delivery."

Certainly in the past week, the grave dangers of such a lack of candor and misleading statements of official policy have been highlighted all too vividly... either attempted simply to ignore the stated official position of our Government or employed very questionable criteria in permitting the shipment.

Either explanation raises grave questions about the executive department's reliability in its dealing with the Congress and the public..."

Take Pride in America

Rep. Miller (R-Ohio): "Today we should talk not of America's great accomplishments and in doing so renew our faith and confidence in ourselves as individuals and as a nation.

The National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence has reported that in the United States for a 5-year period — 1963-68 — only two-tenths of 1 per cent of our population was involved in any type of campus protest, antiwar demonstrations, racial riots, et cetera."

Draft Ends; Extension Bill in Limbo

See Related Iowa Story Page 7

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's draft headed into at least a week's limbo at midnight Wednesday after House-Senate conferees failed to reach agreement on a proposed deadline for American withdrawal from Vietnam.

The conferees broke off compromise efforts until next Wednesday, raising the possibility that Congress might not take final action on a bill extending the draft for two years until the following week.

It was the first draft suspension since 1948.

Armed Services chairman of both the House and Senate, Rep. F. Edward Herbert, (D-La.) and Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) indicated compromises had been discussed to the Senate's draft amendment asking for U.S. withdrawal from the war in nine months in return for release of American prisoners.

But the two conference leaders said Senate conferees stuck by that body's 57-42 approval of the war pullout amendment by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. And House conferees refused to budget from the lower chamber's 219-176 rejection of the Mansfield amendment.

Antiwar senators vowed to filibuster any draft extension bill not bearing an acceptable version of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment asking President Nixon to negotiate for a nine-month U.S. pullout from Indochina in return for the release of American prisoners.

The Senate passed the Montana senator's amendment 57 to 42; the House rejected it 219 to 176.

The Selective Service System said it has halted all drafting and will make no effort to restart it until Congress acts.

A draft spokesman said the Pentagon's 16,000-man call for July and August will not be sent to the states until Congress acts or President Nixon at the Pentagon's request authorizes emergency callup of students and other men with expiring deferments to meet manpower needs.

White House sources have said President Nixon probably will not authorize a call of previously deferred men.

Only the actual draft was threatened.

The Selective Service System for sending men through physicals and other pre-induction procedures to maintain a pool for the draft remains in business although some state boards suspended all activity.

Congress passed the Selective Service Act in 1940, allowed it to expire in 1947 and re-enacted it in 1948.

It never has lapsed since although in 1967 and 1968 extensions were signed into law June 30 just hours before the draft would have been suspended.

House-Senate conferees reached tentative agreement on all 27 other differences between the House and Senate bills and saved the war pullout stumbling block for last.

Ray Vows Tight Budget Will Continue

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Robert Ray said Wednesday that much of his "belt-tightening" program will continue into the new fiscal year which begins Thursday.

When it was determined the state might end the fiscal year in the red, the governor began several months ago to limit out-of-state travel by state employees and to curtail the filling of vacant state positions.

"Although the pressure will not be the same, we will continue to hold down whatever needs be," Ray said. "Early in the year, we started holding down filling vacancies. This will continue. We do not intend to allow easy travel or the replacement of people if they are not needed."

The governor said he had established a system in which vacancies are reviewed and he intends to keep that system.

Ray explained that vacancies are checked out by the Executive Council, comptroller's office and the governor's staff before they are filled.

Ray said final figures are not yet in on condition of the state but "we know that sufficient revenue has been raised to cover all this state spending now."

The governor said he had reason to be cautiously optimistic about the economy and that the state budget should be balanced in the next two years.

War Papers, LBJ, Bombing

The Justice Department and Defense Department declined to comment on Gravel's action. The White House had nothing to add. The administration's initial reaction was to leave public controversy over this aspect of the great secrets dispute up to the Senate.

The contingency reference by Gravel to using nuclear weapons paralleled by some other members.

One of these was a message to U.S. ambassadors in six states which showed that 24 hours before President Lyndon B. Johnson launched his only successive peace talk bid of the war, he sent word to allied leaders that it would probably fail.

As part of the diplomatic preparation for Johnson's March 31, 1968, speech, which led to the Paris talks, his State Department sent the governments chiefs of six countries participating in the war a secret preview.

In instructions given to U.S. ambassadors in their capitals said: "You should make clear that Hanoi is most likely to denounce the project and thus free our hand after a short period."

"Nevertheless, we might wish to continue the limitation on bombing the North even after a formal denunciation in order to reinforce its sincerity and put the monkey firmly on Hanoi's back for whatever follows."

Another of the disclosures was that Secretary of Defense

Robert S. McNamara raised with President John F. Kennedy as early as Nov. 8, 1961, the possibility of attacking North Vietnam.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, a Kennedy adviser, had proposed limited introduction of U.S. troops into the Mekong Delta, then a source of Viet Cong strength and a region of heavy flooding.

A McNamara report to the President, made also on behalf of his deputy Roswell Gilpatrick and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, recommended that Kennedy combine any commitment of troops "with a willingness to attack North Vietnam."

Still another point brought to light was that at the end of 1964 — when many high U.S. officials estimated the war was being lost by Saigon — Taylor, then ambassador to Saigon, and his deputy U. Alexis Johnson — both hawks — evidently got so frustrated with the Saigon leadership that they suggested a possible U.S. cutback.

After an abrasive dispute with Premier Khanh they cabled Rusk that one policy alternative was to pull apart from the Saigon government and withdraw the bulk of American advisers, though continuing economic and military aid. At the same time they warned such a course could mean the South Vietnamese leaders would think they were being abandoned and "would rush to compete with each other in making deals with the NLF" — the National Liberation Front.

The Rusk consultation with Khanh in Saigon in May 1964 occurred at a time of great political and military erosion in South Vietnam, following the overthrow and assassination of President Ngo Dinh Diem in November.

Khanh told Rusk the war could not be won unless it was expanded beyond South Vietnam. He specifically asked for a U.S. decision supporting an immediate attack on Laos.

Rusk was quoted by Lodge as telling Khanh the United States had suffered 164,000 casualties (including the Korean War) since 1945 and would not again become involved in a land war in Asia.

RAMPARTS OF CLAY

Directed by Jean Louis Bertucelli; Screenplay by Jean Duvignaud; Filmed in Tehouda, Algeria.

RAMPARTS OF CLAY is a compelling view of life in the Tunisian desert. The drama of an independent young woman and that of the people of her tiny village are interwoven in a film of singular strength and beauty.

"RAMPARTS OF CLAY is one of the most sophisticated protest films ever made. Like the Battle of Algiers, it is a re-creation of an actual incident, recalled in a spirit of quiet fury." — Stefan Kanfer, Time Magazine

Agnew Talks With Park In Seoul

SEOUL (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew met with President Chung Hee Park for 50 minutes Wednesday and said U.S.-Korean relations are "a lot more relaxed" than on his visit here in August 1970.

About the time the two were conferring, South Korean soldiers fought a short, sharp battle with North Korean infiltrators. The Defense Ministry said three North Koreans and two South Korean soldiers were killed.

It seemed likely North Korea timed the infiltration with Agnew's visit. The northerners usually try to stage some sort of incident when important foreign visitors are in Seoul.

It was understood that Agnew and Park plan more extensive talks on Saturday.

Speculate Move To Dallas— Senators—Financial Woes

DETROIT (AP) — All 12 owners of American League teams huddled Wednesday over the financial woes of the Washington Senators with some discussion centering on a possible transfer of the team to Dallas. Senators' owner Bob Short told newsmen during a luncheon recess that he had lost what he called "a substantial amount" since he paid $9.5 million for the team two years ago. Asked about the numerous rumors that a move of his franchise to Dallas was imminent, Short replied, "I do not want to move to Dallas. . . I never intended to . . . I never intended to but that doesn't mean I won't move it."

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and American League President Joe Cronin sat in on the meeting which apparently was called on short notice at a motel at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport. Cronin played down the importance of the meeting. He said, "We talked about a number of things. Bob Short hasn't made any application to move. We discussed his financial situation . . . it was an open discussion, nothing formal . . . it was a preliminary to our regular meeting in August with the Commissioner."

Short said he did not feel the meeting was called specifically to discuss his problems. Asked if he expected them to be solved at the session, he replied, "No, I don't."

Asked if his club was for sale, he replied, "It has been for sale publicly in every newspaper in the country for the past 18 months but there have been no buyers."

Asked if there was any possibility of the Senators going into bankruptcy or of his going to the American League for money, Short declined comment on the first part but on the second

United States Doubles Team In Tennis Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Evonne Goolagong, 19-year-old Australian, produced a major upset Wednesday by defeating second-seeded Billy Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., 6-4, 6-4, in the semifinal of the women's singles at the All-England Lawn Tennis Championships. Miss Goolagong, who has one Aboriginal grandparent, became the sweetheart of the Wimbledon crowds from the time she played her first match here.

The No. 3 seed, she will meet defending champion Margaret Court of Australia in Friday's final.

Court defeated Judy Dalton of Australia, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0 in the other semifinal, setting the stage for a history-making final — the first time since Wimbledon started in 1877 that two Australian girls have met for the women's singles title.

The men's semifinals will be held Thursday and match two Americans and two Australians, making a U.S. - Australia final a certainty.

Tom Gorman, the giant-killer from Seattle, Wash., meets Stan Smith, the 6-foot-4 player from Pasadena, Calif., in the semifinal and defending champion John Newcombe plays Ken Rosewall in the other.

Smith was seeded fourth. Newcombe second and Rosewall third. Gorman, the 24-year-old black-haired favorite of the crowds, was unseeded. He defeated eight-seeded South African Cliff Drysdale and top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia on his way to the semifinals.

But it was the ladies' day Wednesday and King and Goolagong gave the 15,000 crowd on the center court and millions watching on television a treat with superb tennis.

King was trying to preserve her record of having reached the final at Wimbledon every year since 1966. She won the title three times, in 1966-67-68 and was the losing finalist the last two years.

But in 55 minutes Goolagong had stormed into the final, and her devastating backhand was the shot that did the trick.

The Australian forced the American to the baseline and destroyed the serve and volley pattern which is the strength of King's game.

Another U.S.-Australian final will be in the men's doubles, where in the semifinals Wednesday Arthur Ashe, Richmond, Va., and Dennis Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif., had a 8-9, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4 victory over Clark Grabner, of New York, who was paired with Thomas Koch of Brazil.

In the second semifinal — an All-Australian affair — two former singles champions, Roy Emerson and Rod Laver, teamed to beat youngsters John Alexander and Phil Dent 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Alex Johnson — 'Justified' For Not Having Spirit To Play Properly

NEW YORK (AP) — Alex Johnson, the controversial outfielder suspended by the California Angels, said Wednesday if he were the baseball commissioner "I'd try to find out why I was suspended — I'd like to know if they were justified. I had justifiable reasons for not being in the spirit for playing properly. There was indifference on the whole team in working together. I felt the game of baseball wasn't being played properly — so my taste wasn't there."

In that manner, in an interview with Dick Schaap of WNBC-TV and The Associated Press, Johnson defended himself in answering the charges that apparently led to his suspension by the club for "not using his best efforts."

At the same time, the Major League Players Association said it was preparing to file a grievance, either with the Angels or the Owners Player Relations Committee, questioning Johnson's suspension.

Johnson, making his first public statements since the Angels suspended him, said many of the problems he had with the club stemmed from his relationship with sports writers covering the team.

"I rejected them because of what they wrote about me," Johnson said, "and the more I rejected them the worse they wrote about me. It caused a bad feeling on the club. Things were magnified — not properly told."

Owner Gene Autry of the California Angels made it plain Wednesday that he would like to trade his temperamental suspended star outfielder Alex Johnson but he added, "We are not going to trade the American League batting champion for a nobody."

The former movie-television star, in Detroit for a meeting of AL club owners, said in a brief interview that he thought Johnson would be better off with another ball club.

Johnson, AL batting champ in 1970, was suspended indefinitely Saturday by the Angels for what the team called "failure to give his best efforts."

A .329 hitter last year in his first year with the Angels, Johnson has slipped to a .264 mark this season.

Columbia, Trinity College Victorious At Royal Regatta On The Thames

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) — Eights from Trinity College of Hartford, Conn., and Columbia University scored victories Wednesday on the opening day of the 136th Henley Royal Regatta on the River Thames.

Trinity, losing finalist here in 1969, beat England's Fitzwilliam College, Cambridge, by a length in the first round of the Ladies Challenge Plate in 7 minutes 12 seconds.

Columbia University of New York, had a much easier ride in the Thames Challenge Cup for lightweight eights. The Lions bested England's first and third Trinity Boat Club, Cambridge, by 3 2-3 lengths in 7:14.

The Orange Coast College eight of Costa Mesa, Calif., lost by a length to England's Fitzwilliam College, Cambridge, in the Ladies Challenge Plate.

Bill Tytus of the Union Boat Club, Seattle, Wash., arrived here too late to take part in the Diamond Challenge sculls.

Jack Dietz, the former World Youth champion from New York Athletic Club, kept the American flag flying in the diamonds with an easy 8:37 victory over Jerry McCarthy of Scotland.

But another U.S. entry, Jettie Condray, an Army lieutenant who rows for Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club, was completely outclassed by Denmark's Jens Hansen, who won in 8:46.

In an all-American heat of the Wyfold Challenge Cup for coxless fours, Harvard University outclassed Lowell Technological Institute of Lowell, Mass., to win by three lengths in 7:51.

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Pepitone and Paul Popovich each smashed three-run homers and Billy Williams hit a solo homer in leading the Chicago Cubs to 10-5 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday.

Ken Holtzman, 7-3, was trailing 3-1 before the Cubs unloaded against Claude Osteen, 9-6 with four-run rallies in the sixth and seventh innings.

In the sixth, successive doubles by Hector Torres and Williams scored the first run, and after Ron Santo walked, Pepitone slammed a two-out homer, his 11th of the season.

Brock Davis' single and an error set the stage for Popovich's three-run homer in the seventh which chased Osteen. Then Williams hit reliever Jose Pena's first pitch for his 16th homer.

The Dodgers' hot-hitting Willie Davis belted a double and three singles and scored twice. The Dodgers got two unearned runs in the first on singles by Davis and Bobby Valentine, a walk and an error. Davis' leadoff double, followed by Valentine's two-out two-bagger, scored another Dodger run in the third.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nolan Ryan and Dan Felsola combined for a seven-hitter and the New York Mets shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 Wednesday night.

Ryan, gaining his first career victory against the Pirates after five defeats, struck out nine in the seven innings he pitched. He retired home run and RBI leader Willie Stargell three times.

The Mets bunched four singles off Steve Blass, 9-4, for two more runs in the sixth. Ryan opened the seventh with a triple and scored the wrap-up run on Tommie Agee's single.

The dash around the bases and the humid 86-degree heat apparently took its toll on Ryan, 8-4, and Frisella came in to work the last two innings.

Iowa July Draft Inductions Delayed

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa Office of Selective Service is "sitting tight," awaiting Congressional and Presidential decisions on a draft extension bill. The current draft bill is scheduled to expire midnight Wednesday.

A bill to extend the current draft law is being worked on by a congressional conference committee, but it probably can- not become law before the mid- night deadline.

Maj. E. J. Larson, manpower officer for the Iowa Selective Service, said that induction calls usually are received sometime during the preceding month. He said the June call was received in May and dis- tributed to the various local boards, but that a call for July has not yet been received.

He said local draft boards would remain open and contin- ue to register young men for the draft, but they would not be sending anyone for induction until further notice.

Larson said he doesn't think this will mean any hardship on the local draft board, but that will depend on how long the de- lay is and what the final draft call is. He said no great de- lay is anticipated.

"Under normal operations, they — the draftees are dis- tributed throughout the month to accommodate the examining and entry stations," Larson said. But if a call is received for July, he said, it is possible that most or all of the in- ductees would have to be bun- ched together.

He said the biggest inconve- nience would probably be for the induction centers which would have a slowdown operation for a while and then might have to work with great speed to catch up.
