

Agnew Warns Media on Hanoi Aid

Agnew Claims Press 'Isolationism'

SINGAPORE (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday that if the North Vietnamese launch a successful isolated attack in South Vietnam as U.S. troops withdrew, the American news media will unintentionally aid Hanoi by portraying the enemy victory as a failure of the Vietnamization program.

Agnew also said the media misrepresented American foreign policy to world leaders by giving the impression "the isolationist attitude" will win out in the United States.

He told reporters that North Vietnam might take advantage of U.S. troop cuts to launch a pinpointed attack on the South Vietnamese that, while resulting in high enemy casualties, will give Hanoi "a public relations coup."

He said that portraying the Nixon administration's Vietnamization program as a complete failure "is easily achieved because so many of our people in the national media are too ready added, because leaders such as Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore might feel from the media's portrayal of U.S. foreign policy "that the isolationist attitude will be the prevalent one, will be the one that eventually will be adopted and there will be no assistance of an economic or a military nature or any other way later on."

He said he believes the American people understand the nation's overseas treaty obligations, then added that "sometimes I don't think that the media are careful enough to make certain that the people are aware of what the nation's obligations are."

After the session in his hotel suite, Agnew paid a courtesy call on President Benjamin H. Sheares of Singapore, and conferred and lunched with Lee.

He goes Tuesday to Kuwait and Saudi Arabia in the Mideast.

He will visit three African nations before reaching Spain July 17 for a combination official visit and vacation.

As on his first two trips to Asia, Agnew said he came to reassure leaders in this part of the world the United States intends to stay a Pacific power.

President Nixon Signs 18-Year-Old Vote Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a desk once used by Thomas Jefferson, the 26th Amendment to the Constitution was officially certified Monday in a youth-oriented White House ceremony capped by the singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The document giving 18-year-olds the right to vote in all elections was accepted and signed by President Nixon, General Services Administrator Robert Kunzig and three youths selected from the Young Americans singing group.

More than 450 members of the singing group watched the East Room ceremony.

"The reason I believe in young Americans," Nixon told the group, "is that you will infuse into this country some idealism, some courage, some stamina, some high moral strength. I feel we can have confidence that America's young voters will bring . . . the spirit of 1776."

Nixon said the president usually witnesses the ratification of constitutional amendments but that he has the right also to name additional witnesses.

He then called for three 18-year-olds, selected by lot from the singing group, to sign the document. Those signing were Joseph Loyd of Detroit, Julianne Jones of Memphis, Tenn., and Paul Larimer of Concord, Calif.

The 26th Amendment became law last Wednesday when the Ohio legislature made the Buckeye state the 38th to ratify it.

Eighteen-year-olds previously had acquired the statutory right to vote in federal elections but an amendment was necessary to assure them the same right in state and local balloting.

The document was witnessed on a desk taken from Jefferson's Philadelphia home and borrowed from the State Department for the occasion. It is widely believed that he wrote on it while drafting the Declaration of Independence.

Kunzig witnessed the document because the General Services Administration is the official custodian of nearly all state documents.

Blast Wrecks IRS Building; No One Injured

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Internal Revenue Service agents Monday probed the wreckage of an IRS district office where an explosion Sunday night caused an estimated $500,000 damage.

The two-story stucco building was unoccupied when the 10:48 p.m. blast ripped a 25 by 40 foot hole through the ceiling of a first floor storeroom and shattered all windows and doors in the building. There were no injuries.

District Fire Chief Ted Bohn said the IRS offices "looked like a box of toothpicks turned upside down."

Eugene Reyburn, IRS district director, said files that were destroyed are duplicated elsewhere.

Bohn said, "I'm sure there is better than half a million dollars damage. There is no way of knowing until they get a structural engineer in there."

Robert Less Jackson, 36, Maryville, Tenn., and Lydia Lucrecia Sanchez, 23, a Guatemalan living in Mexico, go to court in Buenos Aires Monday to answer charges concerning the Friday hijacking of a Braniff jetliner over Mexico. Hoffa's Protege Steps In As Teamster Union Head MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Frank E. Fitzsimmons, taking over from the jailed James R. Hoffa, appeared Monday to have a firm grip on the presidency of the Teamsters' Union despite opposition from a New York local leader.

"We are the representatives of the greatest labor organization in the world today, regardless of those who put out propaganda, regardless of those who would disrupt this convention," Fitzsimmons told more than 2,000 delegates.

Fitzsimmons, 63, who automatically stepped up to president of the two-million-member union when Hoffa sent his resignation from the prison cell two weeks ago, had a clash with Secretary-Treasurer Theodore Daley of Yonkers, N.Y., Local 445.

Daley, who said he will run against Fitzsimmons for the Teamsters' new five-year presidential term Thursday, objected to the convention rules and was referred by Fitzsimmons to the rules committee.

Daley and Don Vestal, president of the Nashville, Tenn., Local 237, had charged Fitzsimmons before the convention opened of running the union like a dictatorship.

Vestal was barred as a delegate when the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld a trusteeship imposed by Fitzsimmons on Vestal's local on grounds of financial mismanagement.

A union official said Vestal's name could still be offered as a candidate against Fitzsimmons in the election Thursday.

But neither Vestal nor Daley appeared to have much chance against Fitzsimmons' endorsement for the presidency from Hoffa and the entire union executive board.

Hoffa, 58, serving 13 years in a federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., for jury tampering and mail fraud was praised during the session. Hoffa's wife, Josephine, and son, union attorney James P. Hoffa, were applauded.

Fitzsimmons, while praising Hoffa as his friend and associate since their early days in the union in Detroit some 40 years ago, said he would pursue his own course in leading the union.

"Jimmy Hoffa has been my friend and associate, Jimmy's family has been my family. Jimmy Hoffa is Jimmy Hoffa. I am Frank Fitzsimmons. Each of you have separate identities. I have mine," he told the delegates.

A constitutional amendment proposed by the union leadership would name Hoffa honorary president emeritus for life with no salary, but Hoffa reportedly will receive a substantial pension settlement.

30 Drug Arrests At Spirit Lake; Area Jails Filled

SPIRIT LAKE, Iowa (AP) — While an estimated 100,000 campers and boaters enjoyed this area's recreation facilities Monday, about 50 local police, Dickinson County sheriff's deputies and Iowa Highway Patrolmen made nearly 30 drug arrests.

Authorities said the unusually large number of officers were assigned to the Spirit Lake-Lake Okoboji area because it was thought the sale and possession of drugs might be a problem.

By Monday afternoon, two men had been arrested on charges of sale of controlled drugs. Randy Hohl, 20, Des Moines, and Richard Stroud of Omaha, Neb., were freed under $5,000 bond each.

Spirit Lake Municipal Court Judge H. T. Marini and Lake Okoboji Justice of the Peace M. T. McKinney had arraigned over two dozen young people on charges of possession of narcotics by late Monday afternoon.

Dickinson County Sheriff Robert M. Baker said his jails were filled Monday and he was considering requesting space from county jails in the surrounding area.

92nd Congress Balks At Passing Nixon Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 92nd Congress has passed half a dozen significant pieces of legislation in its first six months but has not cleared any of President Nixon's top-drawer proposals — and some appear doomed.

Democratic leaders contend the 1971 session has been an unusually busy and fruitful one for the first term of a Congress. But Republicans are not happy about the record to date on Nixon's program.

The President has listed three items as his most important recommendations to the 92nd — welfare reform, revenue-sharing and government reorganization.

The one with the best prospects by far is welfare revision.

A welfare bill acceptable to the administration passed the House in June and will undergo hearings in the Senate Finance Committee starting about the middle of this month.

The odds appear to be against either the President's $5-billion general revenue-sharing bill or his reorganization plan to set up four big new omnibus Cabinet departments swallowing up several of the old-line agencies.

Officials Probe Marine 'Overdrill'

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. — Three Marine Corps drill instructors have been relieved of normal duties pending an investigation of exercise sessions that resulted in 39 recruits being hospitalized, a Parris Island spokesman said Monday.

The drill instructors were transferred to nonrecruit training duties. Their names were withheld.

The recruits, in their first week of boot camp, were being treated at a hospital and all were reported in good condition.

The base spokesman said the recruits suffered renal track illnesses after five or six exercise sessions of 15 to 20 minutes each during a 36-hour period.

The exercises included push-ups, he said.

Marine regulations require that exercise sessions for recruits during the first two weeks of training be limited to five minutes an hour.

Capt. M. R. Arnold, base public affairs officer, said a preliminary investigation had been completed and the results turned over to the battalion commander.

"The battalion commander," Arnold said, "can decide to hold a summary court-martial, or if he believes a general court-martial is necessary, will have to send the results of the investigation to Marine Corps headquarters in Washington."

A more detailed investigation, Arnold said, is continuing. Arnold said it appeared the recruits were not subjected to an excessive number of exercise periods, but "the exercise sessions were longer than regulations specify."

The captain said six men in a recruit platoon checked in to the base dispensary Saturday reporting "dark urine."

"Doctors said it was unusual for six men from one platoon to be troubled by this renal track illness, and they ordered the entire 80-man platoon to report for physicals." The doctors ordered 33 others to the hospital for observation.

"Forty of the men in the platoon were not bothered by the exercises and actually about one out of every 700 to 1,000 recruits who take boot training here come down with the renal trouble," Arnold said.

The renal track is located in the area of the kidneys. A spokesman at the base hospital said the difficulty "is brought on by unaccustomed exercise of the upper body muscles, such as in the arms, shoulders and chest."

Arnold said doctors had informed him "there was no danger of permanent damage" to the men physically.

Doctors said certain exercises could cause muscle fiber breakdowns that would release various chemicals into the bloodstream and lead to renal track problems.

The captain also stressed that the transfer of the drill instructors was not a disciplinary action.

"If the investigation shows that disciplinary action is needed, then it will be taken at that time," he explained.

Some of the new regulations concerning boot camp training were written after a 1966 incident when a drill instructor marched a recruit platoon into a swampy area of Parris Island. Six recruits drowned during the march.

Steel Talks Underway In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Union and steel company negotiators meet with President Nixon Tuesday in a prelude to the opening of basic steel industry contract talks.

Nixon, concerned with a possible steel strike and the effect of a new contract on the industry and national economy, asked for the meeting last week in what the White House called a "different approach" to fighting inflation.

The White House apparently intends to urge the union to temper its wage demands with what the administration considers noninflationary bounds, while the industry probably will be asked to maintain the line, for the time being, on its prices.

The meeting is the first official government move in the contract talks since the President's Council of Economic Advisers issued its third inflation alert in April after the United Steelworkers of America unveiled its contract demands, including a 31 per cent pay boost over three years.

Nixon's personal involvement is perhaps his deepest yet in labor talks and another step toward direct action to hold down wage and price hikes. The White House said he wants to talk with the negotiators about "economic development and trends in the world market for steel."

B52's Hit DMZ, Ground Action Light

SAIGON — U.S. B52 bombers struck in force for a sixth straight day near the demilitarized zone Monday while ground fighting across South Vietnam remained at a near standstill.

The lull was punctuated briefly by a Viet Cong rocket attack at Da Nang just after midnight.

There was no sign of a widely predicted summer offensive in the northern provinces by North Vietnamese forces.

On the contrary, latest reconnaissance reports from the north indicated that Hanoi's troops may have pulled back to regroup and resupply in the wake of heavy fighting late last month around allied fire bases guarding the DMZ.

Another possible explanation of the lull was the surge in peace moves in several capitals following the new peace proposal from the Viet Cong in Paris last Thursday.

The B52 bombers mounted five new raids immediately below the DMZ, three of them clustered around Fire Base Fuller and the other two near Fire Bases Charlie 2 and Alpha 4. The bases form part of the allied defense chain guarding the DMZ and the Laos frontier from North Vietnamese thrusts and infiltration.

As on the previous five days, the B52 bombings struck at suspected North Vietnamese troop concentrations, bunker complexes and the mortar and rocket sites which, until the last few days, have been shelling the allied outposts.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command reported that American troop strength in South Vietnam dropped by another 2,200 men last week, cutting the overall total to just under 240,000 men still here.

The command's weekly summary showed that only 500 U.S. Marines were left in Vietnam from a peak of more than 54,000. Of the other branches of service, the Army leads with 191,000 still here followed by the Air Force with 36,900, the Navy with 10,900 and the Coast Guard with 100.

President Nixon has announced that over-all, U.S. strength will be cut to 184,000 by Dec. 1. Peak strength was 543,400 reached in April 1969.

Quarterback Position Remains A Problem— Backs Have Speed, Experience

Frank Lauterbur has given the Hawks a new look in more ways than one. Every coach has his own particular philosophy and style of play that differs somewhat from his counterparts, and Lauterbur is no exception.

Offensively he believes in a solid, well balanced attack that is not overly flashy but one that is able to perform and attain the objective of offensive football: namely to score points. Quickness is the key word defensively, the mode of thinking being that the best way to stop the opponent is to aggressively go after him.

Accordingly, it seems only natural that the Hawks should be dressed in new finery to mark the advent of a new chapter in Iowa Football.

To say there will be a change in appearance for the Iowa team is putting it mildly. In fact, it may be that the only way to recognize the home team next fall is to watch and see which squad makes its entrance from the north dressing room.

The new uniform will basically be black and white with gold trim and lettering. The black helmet will feature a gold hawk on either side with two half-inch gold stripes running from the forehead to the back in the usual fashion.

The jersey is the only traditional looking piece of clothing the Hawks will wear, considering that it is black with gold numerals, as in times past. However, IOWA will be printed across the front of the jersey to add a new flavor. Additionally, the jersey will have a gold hawk on the sleeves, with numerals found on top of each solder.

The pants will be white with two gold stripes.

The Hawkeyes will complete their new look by donning new footwear which will be, of course, gold and black. The Athletic Department has negotiated with the German shoe manufacture, Adidas, and has received their promise that the Iowa football team will be the sole possessor of this specially designed shoe.

Despite their scintillating new uniforms, it won't be hard to recognize Iowa's hard running offensive backs.

For Iowa, it could very well be the year of the back. With the trace of a smug smile on his face, Elroy Morand, offensive backfield coach, admits he was "pleased" with the accomplishments and improvements of the Hawkeye backs during spring ball.

The performance of tail back Levi Mitchell and ram-rodging fullback Frank Holmes delighted the considerable number of fans that were in attendance through the spring scrimmages, causing many to speculate on the success of Iowa's ground game in the coming fall.

If speculation concerning the running game was considered widespread, then it was rampant concerning the selection of a quarterback.

The difficulties that the coaching staff is having in developing a quarterback of first string caliber is well known. The coaches are not searching for a Johnny Unitas or Joe Namath. What they are searching for is a fundamentally sound performer, not a superstar by any means, but for a quarterback that is able to provide leadership for the entire ball club, allowing the squad to have confidence in his abilities.

This is the crux of the situation at Iowa. In order to provide the necessary leadership a quarterback must be able to skillfully perform his duties, and the facts are, simply, that none of the candidates at the University of Iowa has done so consistently. Hopefully the adage that 'football players are made in the summer' will prove to be correct. If not, it will undoubtedly be a very long season.

In any event, when the Hawkeye quarterback, who ever he may be, is not running with the ball or attempting to pass, he will have a flock of proven Big 10 backs to hand the ball off to. Everybody is fairly positive that Mitchell has the capability to break a game wide open at any time, but it may prove to be that the fullbacking corps will have the same capability.

According to Morand, Holmes has never been timed in the 40 yard dash, but feels his timing would be in the neighborhood of 4.7 or 4.8 seconds. Penny has the same type of speed.

It is required that every back know the rules for every position in the backfield, the coaching staff thereby hoping to facilitate better knowledge of what the play is designed to do, giving the ball player a total picture which will, hopefully, enable the back to carry out his assignment to greater perfection.

It is the intention of the staff, by means of this method of training, to make the fullbacks available to operate from the tailback slot, thereby utilizing the speed, quickness, and size of the fullbacks to the fullest.

The staff feels they can run to the inside or the outside with the fullbacks, adding mobility to a potentially powerful running attack.

The policy of Lauterbur and company is to have the best 11 football players on the field at one time, and as a result Dave Harris suddenly found a new home at flanker, transferring from his back-up spot to Levi Mitchell. Besides his regular duties at flanker, Harris will be able to step in for Mitchell at running back any time he is called to do so. The coaches aren't about to ignore his running ability, considering the previous experience he has had in 'heavy traffic'.

Morand is quick to point out that each individual player must do his part as the offensive backfield is "the most critical position — critical in the sense that if things don't go right, 60,000 people will know it, as everybody is watching the football."

However, Morand believes things will go right for the Hawkeye backs this fall, as he stated, "I was very pleased with the spring as far as the backs were concerned. They have a great rapport with the linemen, for they realize they can't do the job unless the linemen do theirs."

With Holmes, Penny and

Simms handling the fullbacking chores and with the tailbacking in the able hands of Mitchell, Johnson and, at times, Harris, it appears that the Hawkeyes are going to field a backfield that has a great deal of depth and proven performers.

Considering all, though, the backs are still an unproven quantity in so far as the coaches haven't yet had an opportunity to evaluate them under game conditions. Commenting further on this subject, Morand summarized the coaches' feelings by saying, "They're going to have to put on the Black and Gold and go prove it to this staff."

Big 10 Football

GamePlan, the first pre-season football magazine to hit the newsstands, isn't putting any pressure on new Iowa Coach Frank Lauterbur. It picks Iowa 10th in the Big Ten.

The magazine thinks the Hawkeyes will be most fortunate if they attain a .500 season, noting a "very tough schedule and a number of important holes to fill."

GamePlan's predicted order of finish in the Big Ten is Michigan, Northwestern, Michigan State, Illinois, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Purdue, Minnesota, Indiana, Iowa.

Chicago To Build New Stadium

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley has announced plans to build a $55 million football stadium on Lake Michigan southeast of Soldiers Field.

Soldiers Field, built in the 1920's is being remodeled for use by the Chicago Bears in the forthcoming season.

Neither of Chicago's major league baseball teams wishes to leave its own park and the mayor stressed the new structure would be "a football stadium."

'HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO JOIN THE RANKS OF UNEMPLOYED?'

Opium and Happy Peasants

By Grant Mulford

For some time I have been stumbling along in my ignorance of the problem of drug abuse, thinking that it was a mess of great social and psychological complexity. But now I must confess that I was making mountains out of cold pills. All the time, the problem was only one of misplaced American dollars.

The Nixon administration has announced with great aplomb that Turkey has agreed to ban all opium production within its borders after 1972. The master plan is that we will give the Turkish government a few million bucks to pay their peasants not to produce opium and: viola, no more heroin problem for the United States. It's all just a simple matter of subsidies. Ten million dollars worth of subsidies falls in spot A and hundreds of millions of dollars worth of law enforcement problems are relieved in spot B.

Those peasants are going to be some of the happiest people in the world. Nothing to do but eat watermelons, smoke cigars, dance all night, sleep late in the morning, talk politics, and collect their check from the U.S. government. It's too bad that the people in our own country who used to shoot heroin can't get a deal like that. After all, quite a few of them will probably have a life-is-no-fun attitude after they wake up and find their cupboards bare of the white stuff, that good old breakfast of champions. Is it fair that they should have apartments while those peasants cavort to vegetate all day in their dingy in the beautiful Turkish countryside, living off the fat of the dollar? Of course not.

A program should be set up whereby all ex-heroin addicts could move to the countryside, if not Turkey then somewhere in the U.S. They would become a new breed of peasants: free from the burdens of the city and reaping the rewards of not producing anything.

As many big landowners throughout the U.S. could testify, there is something very healing to the spirit about being paid by the government for not producing things. The rate of drug addiction among those in the United States receiving large farm subsidies is extremely low. So are the rates of murder, armed robbery, and prostitution. The quiet pastoral existence would seem to be conducive to moral uprightness and self-betterment, especially when accompanied by generous bushel-baskets of green-backs, gratis. Witness the number of Congressmen from our southern states who spring from this background. Their love of God and country is nearly boundless.

Without a doubt the new subsidy program for Turkish peasants is a step in the right direction. But it is only a beginning. It is becoming clear that subsidy programs would do more to solve all our raw social problems than any number of policemen and pill-slitting doctors. Show me a man who is down-in-the-dumps and I'll show you a man who'll perk up on a country estate with a good dose of subsidy.

As far as I'm concerned, the more of us that get subsidies for not producing anything, the better. In fact, I think that I will write a letter to my government informing it that, after deep deliberation, I have decided not to produce atom bombs in my basement. That is my contribution to humanity and I will be awaiting my subsidy check.

Write On

by Dave Helland

In the interest of breaking down elitist tendencies among journalists I am devoting today's column to a short course on writing columns. Now the reader needn't depend on me for entertaining columns; or boring columns for that matter.

There are six basic schools of newspaper column thought. They are associated with the names of the leading practitioners of the various styles. This, briefly, is how one story would be handled in each of the styles. The story concerns the alleged WITCH's (Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell) action against a local clothier's stock of hot pants, mini-skirts and low-cut blouses.

The Drew Pearson / Jack Anderson school of columnists would have found out who actually slit up the clothing. If a link between the doers of the deed and organized crime could be established or if it turned out that the owner of the store did the damage himself to collect on insurance the story would be written. If it turned out to be less dramatic, well better luck next time.

Adam Smith is the author of The Money Game and several articles in New York magazine. Members of his school often hold doctorates in one of the social sciences, but instead of teaching, they devote their time to journalistic endeavors. They would trace the history of the feminist movement from its Abolitionist start in the early nineteenth century and draw parallels between the WITCH's and John Brown. The trashing of clothing stores and Playboy clubs is the logical outcome of the Underground Railroad, or so the Adam Smith type would surmise.

The Art Buchwald school depends on selective misinterpretation. A Buchwald would compare the WITCH's to Carrie Nation. Their action against the clothing store and other actions against Playboy Clubs show that they are really interested in the sinful ways of the American male, his drinking and carousing and ogling, and not in sexual politics. These actions, a Buchwald would write, signify a wish for a return

Strangers in the 'Promised Land'

Translated by Linda Brightwell

To listen to the Israeli propagandists — they don't have a more anxious desire than to include the Jews in their embrace, who they say are estranged from their "historical native land." The press and radio Israel constantly portray the reigning spirit there as one of "brotherhood" and "heavenly conditions" as if expecting again new arrivals. According to a scenario worked out at the Tel Aviv airport, Lod, they are met with the sounds of an orchestra and the welcoming speeches of government officials.

And then what? This is what the Israelis who extend the invitations prefer to hold their tongues about. The whole point is that the emigrants are very quickly convinced of how far the life in Israel is from the advertised picture. The capitalist exploitation, illegality, discrimination — those who show up in the "promised land" must become accustomed to all this. In one of the most recent issues of the West German magazine "Der Spiegel" some curious facts about this matter are brought out.

"After the enthusiasm of the welcoming committee soon follow the indifference on the part of settled Israelis and the disillusionment on the part of the immigrants" the magazine writes. Concerning the people who have arrived from the Soviet Union "Der Spiegel" remarks that they turn out to be in an especially difficult position. First of all, these people "can't be entirely sure that in the Jewish state they will be registered as Jews." The point is this, according to the Israeli religious laws only a person who has a Jewish mother by nationality is considered a Jew. "Der Spiegel" tells the story of one emigrant whose wife was refused at registration (she had a Russian mother). It is superfluous to say what the consequences of such an act are — it is generally known that it is not the Jew who is condemned in Israel to be in the situation of a pariah deprived of rights. In the words of the magazine, the inclusion of the emigrants in the "work process is a difficult matter." Everything depends on the arbitrary rule of the proprietor.

The notice in the West German magazine concludes with the words of the Israeli minister of immigration Nathan Peled, who some how blurted out that immigrants in Israel are found in the course of a determined period of time." But really, how much easier does that make it for the people who are caught by the Zionist propaganda and with their own eyes see what the reality of capitalist Israel is?!

Pentagon Papers Reveal Plans - Study: LBJ Miscalculated

By The Associated Press
New articles based on the Pentagon Papers show President Lyndon B. Johnson sought to avoid a premature attack on North Vietnam and that his administration later miscalculated its own troop needs and the enemy's ability to build strength.

Papers made available to The Associated Press said that in March 1964, Johnson rejected recommendations to attack the North as premature and favored instead building a strong military and political base in the South.

The rapid troop buildup that followed in the next two years, however, was the result of faulty planning. The New York Times said Friday in an article based on its copy of the secret 7-volume study tracing U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Accounts based on the documents published in Friday's editions of The Washington Post — such as the Pentagon's 1961 calculation that no more than 205,000 ground troops would be needed if Hanoi or Peking overtly intervened in the war — had already been reported by The AP.

The AP story Friday reported the Pentagon study's analysis of the growing U.S. involvement in the war from 1964 to 1966 while The Times articles traces the expansion of that involvement in 1965 and 1966.

The AP said the study showed presidential adviser, McGeorge Bundy and policy planner Walt W. Rostow were urging Johnson four months into his term to combine military pressure against North Vietnam with pacification efforts in the South.

However, Johnson decided action against the North would be planned only on a contingency basis and would be carried out only after building up

U.S. political and military strength in the South.

The bombing of North Vietnam was under way by November 1964, and although its tempo increased through 1965, "there was no sign," the Pentagon study says, that it "had brought about any greater readiness to settle," on the part of the North Vietnamese "except on their terms."

By December 1965, there was talk in Washington of pouring in more reinforcements. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in a Dec. 7 memo, "perhaps 600,000 more might be needed."

The Times quoted the Pentagon analysts as saying American planners paid little attention to the rates of infiltration and recruitment by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's estimates of the troops he needed in Vietnam more than tripled between June 1965 and June 1966 because the enemy's ability was "consistently underrated," the Times quoted from the study.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said Thursday the Justice Department would prosecute any violations of criminal law committed in the disclosure of the secret study.

Mitchell said the Supreme Court's decision against prior government restraint of publication of classified documents from the study had not foreclosed the possibility of prosecution after the fact.

The Justice Department already has indicted Dr. Daniel Ellsberg on charges he violated the Espionage Act and converted government property to his own use in taking the papers. He admits he later leaked the study to the press.

Unemployment Rate Drops Sharply in June

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped sharply in June to 5.6 per cent of the labor force, even though more than a million more workers lost their jobs, the government said Friday. The Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed the sharp decline in the jobless rate to a statistical quirk. It said the drop "may be somewhat overstated" because more young workers than usual were still in school — and not seeking work — when the unemployment survey was taken the week of June 6 through June 12.

Nevertheless, the fall was moderately good news for the Nixon administration, which has set a goal of reducing unemployment to 4.5 per cent of the labor force by the middle of 1972.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed persons climbed by 1.1 million over May, to 5.5 million last month. In May, the unemployment rate was 6.2 per cent.

The department noted the unemployment rate usually increases sharply between May and June, but added the rise was much less this year as a smaller than usual number of young people entered the labor force at the end of the school year.

By using a statistical method of adjusting unemployment for seasonal influences, the department figured the level of unemployment was down by 530,000.

It was an inconclusive report in terms of the economic expansion pursued by President Nixon in an effort to reduce joblessness. The statistical quirk in June possibly meant the unemployment rate would show a greater rise next month.

The six-tenths of one per cent decrease in unemployment was one of the sharpest in this decade. It returned the unemployment rate to the level of last October, when the nation was undergoing a strike in the automobile industry.

Liquor Prices May Go Up

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Iowans may be paying higher prices in state liquor stores in the coming months, Gov. Robert Ray told newsmen Friday.

Ray said the state is studying Iowa's liquor prices in relation to those of other states, with a possible price hike in mind to add revenue to the state's general fund.

But Ray said he had "no plans other than to learn where we are."

A hike in the liquor tax was contemplated during the legislature, but no action was taken. The general understanding was that liquor prices would be raised instead of raising the tax. The Iowa Liquor Control Commission sets liquor prices in Iowa.

"It's important that liquor prices be kept at a rate that's competitive," said Ray. "Certainly they ought to be high enough to return a fair amount of money, but on the other hand, if they are substantially higher than in other states, you invite the old bootlegging business."

Ray said he didn't want higher liquor prices in Iowa to encourage people to purchase liquor in other states and bring it into Iowa illegally.

HELP!

We are a rapidly expanding national corporation in need of a distributor to purchase and service an unusual product — A TALKING VENDING MACHINE. There are many choice locations available in your area and we are looking for someone to develop this market.

If you have a car and can spare as little as 6 to 8 hours weekly, you can enjoy an excellent supplemental income. Your investment of $900 to $9,000 can grow into a full time income.

WE ESTABLISH ROUTES NO PERSONAL SALES CALLS

MACHINES DO THE SELLING

Vending is a vigorous $5-billion plus recession proof business. Your sales are cash. No credit risks. Your equipment is on the job day and night, earning extra income for you and your family.

We train, counsel, guide and help you get started in a business of your own. No experience necessary. The work is enjoyable and easy.

This is the age of automated merchandising. Our equipment is the finest quality and our snack items are nationally advertised brands. If you will return the coupon below we will be very happy to discuss this opportunity with you.

VENDA TALKER, INC.

2800 W. Mockingbird Lane Dallas, Texas 75238

I am interested in more information about making money in the vending business. I have a car and 4-6 hours per week spare time.
