

Huge Deficit in U.S. Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration disclosed Wednesday a massive $23.2 billion deficit in fiscal 1971, but boasted its spending record surpassed past Democratic administrations in fiscal responsibility.

The deficit, the second highest of the post-World War II era, is topped only by the $25.2 billion compiled in fiscal 1968 under former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said the budget was in surplus on a full employment basis by $2.5 billion.

In other words, if the economy had been operating at four per cent unemployment during the fiscal year, which it wasn't, the government would have had a surplus.

Shultz and Connally said it is the third year in a row the nation has not spent beyond the revenues which would be expected to come in if the economy were operating at full steam.

"This record is in sharp contrast to that of fiscal years 1966 through 1968, when full-employment deficits totaled more than $40 billion," the two officials said.

A full-employment budget is an economic technique to set the level of government spending at the amount of revenues expected if the nation's economy were operating at 4 per cent unemployment. During the fiscal year that ended last June 30, the nation was nowhere near full employment.

At the White House, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said there is no concern there about a budget showing a surplus on a full employment basis. He said, "We feel the economy is in an expansive stage."

But Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien of the Democratic National Committee said: "The tremendous increase in the federal deficit announced today is but another indication of the dismal failure of the Nixon economic policy."

The massive deficit contrasts sharply with the projections first laid out by the administration in 1970. It said at that time the nation could expect an actual surplus of $1.3 billion.

But Nixon switched his economic policies in the middle of the year, moving the economy toward more expansion to cut down unemployment. But the economy failed to respond as he had hoped and revenues fell short.

The Treasury Department said tax receipts in fiscal 1971 totaled $188.3 billion, while spending climbed to $211.6 billion. The administration had projected full-employment revenues at a little over $214 billion.

In January, Nixon had projected the deficit for fiscal 1971 would reach $18.6 billion. But the deficit soared even higher because the economy failed to perk up as hoped, with a consequent reduction in expected revenues.

11 Conservative Leaders Suspend Support of Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eleven leaders of conservative political organizations and publications said Wednesday they are suspending their support of the Nixon administration.

Their statement criticized Nixon overtures to Red China "done in the absence of any public concessions by Red China to American and Western causes."

It also cited "his failure to call public attention to the deteriorated military position in conventional and strategic arms" and what it called Nixon failures to respond to Soviet advances into the Mediterranean and to warn against West German policies.

The signers included the chairman and vice chairman of the New York Conservative party, the executive director of the Young Americans for Freedom, two officers of the American Conservative Union and the three top officials of the National Review, including editor-in-chief William F. Buckley Jr.

The statement said "We do not plan at the moment to encourage formal opposition to President Nixon in the forthcoming primaries, but we propose to keep all options open in the light of political developments in the next months."

It claimed the defection "is an act of loyalty to the Nixon we supported in 1968." The signers said they would seek out others to decide how best to "effectively register our protests."

The statement briefly touched on domestic matters but said these "pale into insignificance alongside the tendencies of the administration in foreign policy."

Apollo Continues to Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo Astronauts sped closer to the moon Wednesday and were given a new procedure with which to by-pass a short circuit in the engine that will fire them into lunar orbit Thursday.

"It sounds like you've done a lot of deep thought on this" the spaceship commander, David R. Scott, radioed Mission Control in reference to the new plan.

The short circuit is one of a series of bugs that have developed in the spacecraft, some of them pesky but none of them considered serious.

Astronauts Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin were given the procedure after Scott and Irwin checked their lunar module, Falcon, for a second time and reported nothing wrong.

Another astronaut, Richard Gordon, a member of the Apollo 15 backup crew, told the spacemen of the by-pass technique.

Gordon, who had tested the procedures in a computer-driven spacecraft simulator, said the astronauts were to fire the powerful rocket at critical times using both of its electrical circuits. He said the good circuit only, however, would be used to start and stop the engine.

A short circuit in the command ship was discovered in the circuit A of the rocket engine control system on Monday, and although tests showed the short affected only a light, Mission Control wanted to play it safe. For this reason, circuit B, which is trouble free, would be used for the delicate ignition and shutdown of the engine.

Mission Control also told the astronauts they would have to do without some minor cabin lights which went out Tuesday when there was a brief drop in electrical power in one circuit. The brief drop caused a circuit breaker to turn off and Mission Control told the astronauts to just leave it off.

Mission Control said it could now report that a meter in the lunar module should work fine despite some broken glass.

Earlier, the astronauts darkened their spacecraft cabin, donned opaque eye masks and sat quietly in their couches to observe reaction of their eyes and brain to the piercing passage of cosmic rays. These rays cause the sensation of light bursts when the astronauts close their eyes in a darkened spacecraft deep in space.

They reported the light flashes through the masks at the rate of about one per minute, but said there were no physical sensations at all. Scott said 90 per cent of his sightings took the form of single pin-points.

"As for my impressions," said the Apollo commander, "you might picture yourself high in the stands at the Ice Capades with the arena darkened and some single figure on the ice like Peggy Fleming doing a nice thing. And you look across on the other side of the dark arena and somebody shoots a flashbulb."

That is a flash with an intensity of five, say, on a scale of one to five, he added.

Hearings Set After Drug Bust

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Preliminary hearings are set for next Tuesday for three men arrested Tuesday after state narcotics agents raided a house here confiscating 65,000 methamphetamine pills.

The tablets, said by authorities to contain methedrine or "speed" were valued at about $45,000 by a narcotics agent who took part in the raid. Officials earlier had estimated the haul at $70,000.

Arrested in City Police Court here Wednesday were Roger Spaulding, 22, charged with delivery of a controlled substance — the pills — and two counts of possession with intent to deliver a controlled substance; Stephen Renk, 20, charged with possession with intent to deliver a controlled substance; and John D. Rawlins, 21, charged with resorting to a house of ill fame.

Will Penberthy, state director of narcotics enforcement, termed the amount of drugs seized "the largest in the state and among the largest in the country that I know of."

The raids followed the sale of 7,500 tablets to two narcotics agents Tuesday.

Nixon Calls for More Talks in Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration called Wednesday for further talks in the stalemated nationwide railroad labor dispute, and said it won't propose emergency legislation unless economic effects of the strike against four rail lines become too great.

Negotiations were to resume at 2 p.m. EDT Thursday between the AFL-CIO United Transportation Union and the nation's rail industry.

Meanwhile, the union added three more railroads to its list scheduled for walkouts in the next two weeks if there is no settlement in the nationwide work rules dispute.

Six are scheduled for walkouts Friday, five more a week later on Aug. 6 and three more Aug. 11. The latest three announced by the union Wednesday are the Erie-Lackawanna, Louisville & Nashville and St. Louis and San Francisco.

The White House announced that in addition to Thursday's talks here, President Nixon dispatched Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery to union headquarters in Cleveland to discuss possible steps toward agreement with union president Charles Luna.

"We are continuing our attempts to aid the parties in reaching a voluntary settlement," said White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson earlier told Congress that the administration is still seeking a voluntary settlement.

The strike so far has shut down the Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and the Norfolk & Western, stranding tons of farm commodities, coal and other shipments in 17 states and idling some 120,000 employees of the four railroads.

Luna, in announcing the three additional strike targets, said "There is no other course open since the railroads continue to refuse to bargain." Luna Tuesday rejected Hodgson's proposal to submit the dispute to a binding settlement by a neutral panel.

Compulsory solutions are a last resort," Hodgson told a House Commerce subcommittee in emphasizing the Nixon administration still hopes for a voluntary settlement.

He made the comments during testimony in support of President Nixon's proposal for permanent legislation to deal with emergency labor disputes in transportation.

The dispute largely involves the rail industry's insistence on removing long-standing work rules that now require train crew changes over 100 miles, prohibit over-the-road crews from handling work of rail yard crews and using walkie-talkie radios.

The union argues the changes would eliminate jobs and make work more difficult and more dangerous.

The union and industry are reportedly generally in agreement on a wage increase package of 42 per cent over 42 months, similar to that received by other unions. UTU members now average $3.50 hourly.

Hodgson, urging approval of the administration's proposed Emergency Public Interest Protection Act, said "the public will no longer tolerate national emergencies caused by transportation labor disputes."

The bill would cover planes, trains, trucks and longshoring and maritime industries under an expanded Taft-Hartley Act.

Both Berrigans Denied Paroles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Board of Parole Wednesday denied the application by antiwar priests Phillip and Daniel Berrigan for early release from prison terms for destruction of draft records.

The case of Phillip Berrigan, who is accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, will be reviewed by the board in January of 1973, board chairman George J. Reed said.

Reed said the board decided that Daniel Berrigan should remain in prison until his mandatory release with time off for good behavior on Nov. 23, 1972.

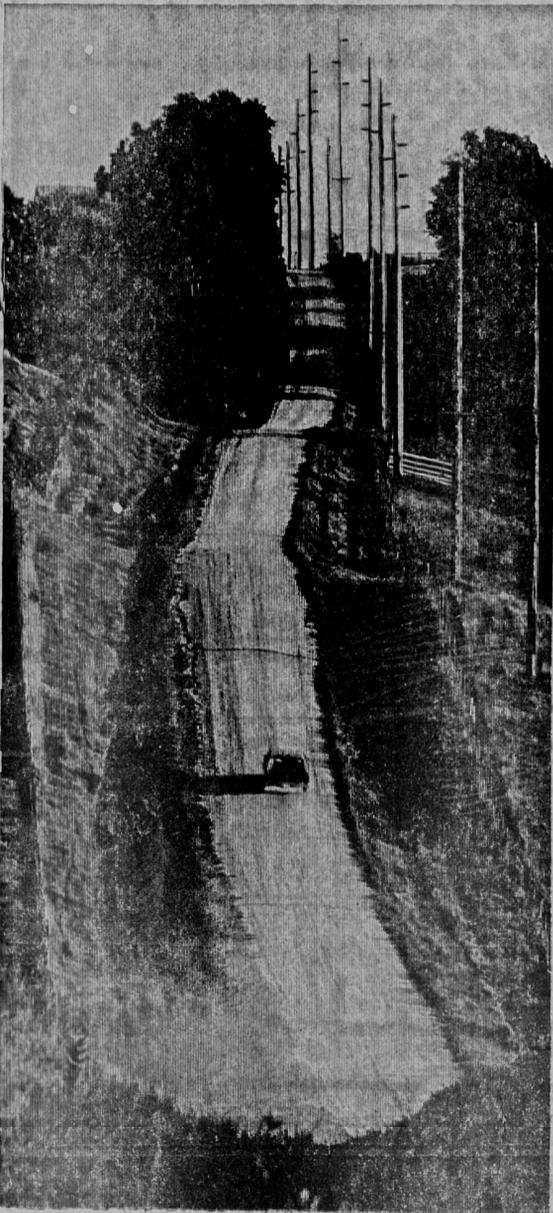

The Roman Catholic priests, brothers, are serving sentences in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn.

Both were convicted of destroying draft records at Cantonville, Md., in 1968. Phillip was convicted of a similar raid at Selective Service offices in Baltimore.

The board's decision was made in executive session. Reed said the board gave "full review" to records of both.

One or both of the brothers could file a petition for appellate review of the board's decision. No further action could be taken by the board, however, until after 90 days.

Daniel would have been eligible for parole Aug. 10, at the expiration of one-third of his three-year term. Phillip would have been eligible in mid-September. He is serving concurrent six and three-year terms.

Another version of groovin' on a summer's afternoon, if you enjoy getting away from it all. Daily lowan photographer John Avery, with the aid of a telephoto lens, caught this scene on a country road east of Iowa City. With apparently no one else around, it looks like a good place for peace.

Sixth Juror Chosen To Hear Medina Trial

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A sixth juror, another Vietnam veteran, was tentatively seated today for the My Lai massacre trial of Capt. Ernest Medina.

Maj. Dudley Budrich of Chicago was tentatively accepted without challenge from either defense lawyers or the Army prosecutor.

The minimum five jurors required in the court-martial was reached Tuesday. However, any two of the present jurors could be eliminated without cause at any time.

Budrich a training officer at 3rd Army headquarters here was an advisor to a South Vietnamese regiment and said he was asked by Col. Kenneth Howard, the military judge, what he recalled reading about the My Lai incident. Budrich replied, "I never believed I got a full picture of what happened. I knew civilians were killed there. I never knew how they were killed. You never really know in combat sometimes."

Besides Budrich the jurors include: Col. William Proctor, Col. Robert E. Nelson, Lt. Col. Clarence Cooke, and Lt. Col. Bobby B. Berryhill.

With the five jurors sitting together for the first time, Howard commanded Medina to rise and asked him: "How do you plea to the charges and specifications?"

"He pleads not guilty to everything," Bailey told the court.

Medina is accused of murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai when his C Company of the American Division's 11th Brigade swept through the hamlet March 16, 1968.

His troops allegedly shot at least 100 civilians. One of his platoon leaders, Lt. William L. Calley Jr., was convicted last month of the murder of 22.

If convicted, Medina faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Col. Robert E. Nelson, 41, a Korean veteran, and Lt. Col. Clarence Cooke, 44, an American adviser in the early day of the Vietnam war, were seated Tuesday without challenge.

Nelson, who was severely wounded in Korea where he was a platoon leader, later served in Vietnam as a staff officer.

Ray Sympathizes With Amish

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Robert Ray said Wednesday he will recommend the state Board of Public Instruction reconsider its 5-4 vote earlier this month to no longer exempt Amish schools from state certification requirements.

Ray, speaking to newsmen after huddling with Amish leaders in his office, said the Amish should be entitled to a hearing before the board of instruction, which holds its next meeting Aug. 26.

Ray said he would transmit his views by letter to Dr. J. M. Walter, Ames, president of the Board of Public Instruction, and to State Supt. of Public Instruction Paul Johnston.

The bearded Amish leaders discussed their problems with Ray at a meeting in his office. Ray said he felt they should have an opportunity to be heard by the Board of Public Instruction.

Noah C. Miller, representing the Haven Christian Day School near Kalona, told Ray that the Amish schools use books produced by the Amish Church and based upon Biblical teaching.

Miller said the schools teach only the "truth" as revealed in the Bible. He said the Amish feel some things taught in the public schools are not true.

"We believe that all liars will have their place in the liquid fire of brimstone and we dare not tell a lie," Miller said.

Another of the Amish leaders, Edward F. Miller of Kalona, said the Amish feel that education through the eighth grade is sufficient for the Amish way of life.

"If they go to school longer than that, the children forget how to work and they wind up getting food stamps from the government," he said.

Edward Miller added that there "is a lot of corruption in the world" and that the Amish feel it is better to keep their children out of contact with it.

For that reason, he said, they feel that certified teachers in their schools are "a poison to us." Tobias J. Miller, also of Kalona, representing the Old Order Amish schools, said that while the teachers in the Amish schools have not been certified,

"we feel they are qualified to teach."

He said the Amish are concerned "with education in home life" such as farming and livestock raising, as well as book learning. The difference between Amish education and public school education is the difference "between gobbs of wisdom and the wisdom of the world," he said. Lawrence Griffith, Kalona, lawyer representing the Amish, told Ray it is unfair to judge Amish children on the basic educational achievement test scores compared with scores made by public school children because the Amish have a language barrier.

Griffith explained the Amish people speak German in the home and youngsters use English only in school.

He presented Ray with results of a study he said he had made recently which he said showed Amish children taught by Amish teachers tend to score better on educational achievement tests than other Amish children taught by certified teachers in public schools.

AGNES VARDA'S
le Bonheur
A poetic and sensuous hymn to the happy life, LE BONHEUR is the story of one man in love with two women. Director Agnes Varda portrays personal happiness as a force both self-gratifying and pathetically destructive. Lushly photographed in warm Renoir colors, LE BONHEUR is frequently referred to as one of the most beautiful films ever made, and it established Miss Varda as one of France's most important directors.
L'Opera Mouffe won the International Federation of Film Societies Award, Brussels Experimental Film Festival. It is an astonishing and haunting film of dark and compelling originality; a poem of the fervors of erotic love, the gestures of the aged, the faces of the poor, the symbols of pregnancy and fertility under the guise of an impressionist exploration of a Paris neighborhood. Unpredictable, erotic, terrifying, tender, this is one of the most brilliant and most controversial avantgarde films of the post-war era.

No Relief In Teacher Market

WASHINGTON (AP) — The job picture is further complicated by financially pressed school districts cutting back on programs and the size of their teaching staffs, and by professionals laid off by business and industry turning to the field of education in search of work.

The situation is completely unlike anything we have faced since the Great Depression of the 1930s," the NEA Research Department said in the memo.

"Not only beginning teachers but persons with above average experience and qualifications are unable even to find vacancies for which to apply."

High school employment also has been hit but the full impact of unemployment probably won't reach that educational level until the mid-70s, said the NEA.

The job pinch is just beginning to be felt at the collegiate level.

The Cooperative College Registry, originally formed to find qualified instructors, finds its role changing. Now it's looking for jobs.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Fisher, executive director of the registry, said that of 6,139 persons with doctorates who registered for jobs, 34 per cent were still without work last week. Fourteen of those who found jobs aren't going into teaching.

"Many of these people are having to settle for less," said Mrs. Fisher. "They don't get university level jobs and have to take jobs in junior colleges and high schools and business."

She said the number of persons with master's degrees still seeking jobs for the start of the school year was even greater, but she had no figures available of applicants and jobs.

Camodian Soldiers Killed In Bizarre 3-Corner Deal

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — More than 40 Cambodian soldiers have died fighting in Laos as the result of a bizarre three-cornered deal involving the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, Cambodia's premier Lon Nol and Prince Boun Oum, onetime right-wing premier of Laos.

The Cambodian soldiers were part of a contingent sent to a secret camp to be trained by the CIA, reliable sources say. Instead of returning to Cambodia they were thrown into the recent battle for the Bolovens Plateau and engaged in some of the heaviest fighting.

Besides the 40 or more killed an unspecified number were wounded, the sources say. These losses, together with disagreements and wrangling on both sides, have ended the CIA training program for Cambodians, at least temporarily.

Official circles here are reluctant to discuss Cambodia's involvement in Laos. Such use of Cambodian troops challenges the much-violated 1962 Geneva agreements on neutrality for Laos. And hard-pressed Cambodia is not anxious to give an impression of having spare soldiers.

Despite official silence, the following story has been pieced together:

The Cambodians taken in hand by the CIA were originally trained to serve as members of spy teams to infiltrate into Cambodian provinces that are held by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces.

Use of Laos for training presumably enabled CIA operatives to circumvent the Cooper-Church amendment banning U.S. military advisers, training teams or combat soldiers from Cambodian soil.

In addition, the CIA had a ready-made training center at Nakorn Sin camp, about 25 miles north of Pakse.

Measuring Up

Strengthening its defenses against the "scandal" of short-skirted visitors, Vatican guards aided by two nuns have started checking skirt lengths. Women with skirts only two inches above the knee were turned away from St. Peter's Basilica Wednesday. This move followed the Pope's denouncement of some modern dress as indecent. The pontiff cited "immodest fashions, frivolous and passion-laden shows, immorality of customs and peridiously diffused pornography" as the chief degraders of the "dignity of man." A Vatican spokesman said strict standards are needed because "certain styles of dress that once were exceptional now are becoming more common." Without checks, he said, "we'll get to the point when they enter in bathing suits." So the girls are covering what they can in order to be admitted.

Soviet Arms Crushed Sudan Coup

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — The Soviet Union, now raging at President Jaafar el Numairi's anti-Communist purge, is on the spot as chief supplier of the weapons that Numairi used to crush last week's pro-Communist coup.

Numairi ordered Communist party leader Abdulk Khalek Mahjoub hanged early Wednesday after a military tribunal convicted him of engineering the abortive July 19 coup. The army has been ordered to track down every Communist in the vast African country.

Mahjoub's execution and those of 13 other coup sympathizers have generated a wave of protest from the Soviet Union and her allies denouncing what they have described as "anti-Communist hysteria" and a "bloodbath."

But Western diplomats in Khartoum note that Moscow has been the principal source of arms and aid during the 26 months Numairi has headed

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — The Soviet Union, now raging at President Jaafar el Numairi's anti-Communist purge, is on the spot as chief supplier of the weapons that Numairi used to crush last week's pro-Communist coup.

Numairi ordered Communist party leader Abdulk Khalek Mahjoub hanged early Wednesday after a military tribunal convicted him of engineering the abortive July 19 coup. The army has been ordered to track down every Communist in the vast African country.

Mahjoub's execution and those of 13 other coup sympathizers have generated a wave of protest from the Soviet Union and her allies denouncing what they have described as "anti-Communist hysteria" and a "bloodbath."

But Western diplomats in Khartoum note that Moscow has been the principal source of arms and aid during the 26 months Numairi has headed

Some Toys Dangerous, Wants Industry Regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Demonstrating toy rockets, dolls, pistols, goggles and blankets he can cut, bruise, or burn, a consumer advocate said Wednesday the government fails to watch over an industry he said has refused to regulate itself.

Boston attorney Edward M. Swartz, author of the book "Toys That Don't Care," said an independent government commission is needed to protect children from hazardous toys.

The Food and Drug Administration "has been discouragingly slow with respect to their approach to dangerous toys," Swartz said at a Senate Commerce Committee hearing.

Holding aloft a doll he said was purchased in a well-known toy store on New York's Fifth Avenue, Swartz said, "one can still find dolls with sharp hairpins and easily swallowable accessories."

Picking up a foot-long dart, he said "lawn dart sets are still being sold for the entire family, 'despite recent government warnings and orders that their use be limited strictly to adults.'"

Still untouched by regulation, Swartz said, are toys which could be psychologically damaging.

He demonstrated a framed pendulum with a blade designed to simulate medieval torture chambers.

As the blade swings down, he said, a plastic doll splits in half.

Showing slides of burn-scarred children, Swartz described a comfort-blanket made of rayon and filled with synthetic fibers.

Lockheed Support Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration effort to rescue Lockheed Aircraft Corp. easily cleared a major Senate hurdle Wednesday, but another attempt to limit debate failed.

The vote to invoke debate-limiting closure was a 59 to 39, seven short of the required two-thirds but it represented a far stronger showing by Lockheed supporters than in their first attempt to silence Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) and others Monday.

A third attempt to shut off debate was set for Friday.

Afro Center To Relocate Near Hillcrest

The Afro-American Cultural Center of The University of Iowa is relocating this summer, crossing the Iowa River from its 3 East Market Street house to the building vacated by the Institute of Gerontology.

Phillip E. Jones, director of Special Support Services, which supervises the Center, said the new location will house a reading-room, recreation facilities and the office of the Black Student Union.

The Center (AACC) will compile a list of Afro-American references in the library at the School of Music, and will make a collection of audio tapes of music influenced by Afro-American traditions.

The AACC is making plans to continue its "Directions in Black Music" performances, started this summer, during the 1971-72 academic year. In addition to jazz, the series may branch out into blues, folk songs and operas influenced by Afro-American music, Jones said.

The new AACC is on the west of the river near Hillcrest Residence Hall, at the end of the footbridge crossing Riverside Drive at Iowa Avenue.

Jones said plans are also in progress for establishing a Chicanos-Indian Center on campus. Centers for international students and students in the honors program are traditional facilities at the U of I.

Sobbing, She Loves Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shirley Smith, a pert 14-year-old blonde from Guthrie Center, Iowa, couldn't stop sobbing Wednesday even though President Nixon gave her a souvenir pen.

Shirley was part of a throng of hundreds in front of the Capitol when Nixon emerged after speaking at a ceremony at which portraits of two former chairmen of the House Appropriations Committee were unveiled.

Nixon walked over to a rope holding back the onlookers, where Shirley was with a group of Iowa sightseers in the front row. Tears were dripping down onto her red and white shirt.

Asked why she was crying, she said: "I love him. I've never seen a President before."

Porter To Replace Bruce As U.S. Peace Talks Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today that David K. E. Bruce is leaving his post as head of the U.S. delegation at the Paris peace talks on Sunday and William J. Porter, now Ambassador to Korea, will take his place.

The changeover was a matter of form, since the White House had said sometime ago that Bruce was leaving—for reasons of health—and that Porter would take over.

Until Porter gets to Paris, Phillip C. Habib will be in charge of the U.S. delegation at the sessions on the Vietnam war and then replace Porter in the embassy at Seoul.

Youth Rescued, Missing 10 Days

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Nine-year-old Kevin Dye, a retarded boy who eluded rescue attempts on a rugged mountain for 10 days, was found alive Wednesday, lying weakly beside a small stream in a ravine.

This time he didn't run. Members of the rescue team said Kevin, clad only in a shirt, shorts and loafers when he disappeared, drank some water and fruit juice.

One of Kevin's shoes was missing and he was wet and exhausted when found, said Bill May, 33, of Boulder, head of the team.

Earlier searchers had said they thought Kevin was deliberately running away from them, but there was no positive explanation for the boy's desire not to be found.

The 7-Point Plan

For the moment, President Nixon has found a number of diversions to occupy himself with, more specifically the public's attention, since the NLF made its most recent and significant peace proposal nearly a month ago. The POW issue was catapulted into the news on the seventh anniversary of the first capture of an American by the North Vietnamese. A so-called thaw in relations with Red China whereby Nixon makes the traditional (Chinese tradition) visit to the Forbidden City, the ancient inner sanctum of governmental power in Peking. Coincidentally, the Apollo moon shot will also take precedence on the front pages of the nation's newspapers, removing from view the news that an acceptable peace proposal for the Indochina war is in Paris.

The response to the proposal by the Nixon administration has been taciturn but explicit. Ambassador Bruce requested that the Paris talks proceed in secrecy and when this failed, he submitted his resignation "for reasons of health." It must be very upsetting for the Ambassador to be caught "holding the dove" so to speak. After years of stalling, he gets stuck with a viable peace proposal that was submitted not by his government but by the "enemy."

The proposal is an acceptable one not simply to the NLF but to the American people for a variety of reasons. The seven-point proposal, in fact any or no proposal at all, has been acceptable to the political left of this country. Their reasoning is based on either humanitarian considerations or on the feasibility of using nonguerilla tactics while the enemy uses guerilla tactics; a pragmatic logistics question.

What should be of main consideration for the "doves" of this nation is the explanation they must give to the political right and mid-stream as to the desirability of the present seven-point proposal.

Agreement to the proposal should be acceptable to the right for very selfish reasons, it will restore the economic boom the U.S. enjoyed in the 60's. The sixth point in the NLF plan would make the U.S. liable to pay indemnification "for the losses and destruction it has caused to the Vietnamese people in the two zones."

During the 60's America poured billions of dollars into Southeast Asia to wage war. The military-industrial complex flourished in the wave of government spending. Through the substitution of a fabricated analogy for reasoning is not infallible, could it be that pouring billions into Southeast Asia to wage peace would resurrect that affluence and prosperity which was enjoyed in the previous decade?

The restoration of the ecology of both South and North Vietnam would develop the technology needed state-side that the administration is unwilling, or unable to fund.

It's the same principle as developing a NASA program — advance technology. Since the government is unwilling to subsidize research for consumer products, the populace must be content with the "spin-off" product developments. Couldn't we be content to reap the benefits at home of a government project to restore a destroyed ecology in Vietnam?

The political ramifications of funding the restoration of all damage done in Vietnam by the U.S. goes beyond the implicit acceptance of our responsibility for the destruction, it will allow the Vietnamese to be dependent on American technology and the bureaucracy in Hanoi will be spending American dollars, not rubles or yen, in America for American goods and services. They will become inextricably, caught in the dilemma of being the only communist country dependent on the U.S. for sustenance just as the economies of the Eastern European nations are dependent upon the economy of the Soviet Union. A new Marshal Plan that could accomplish what 10 years of fighting could never do; extend the American sphere of influence into the heart of Asia. Bring the American Way to the people of Southeast Asia; buy them off.

The NLF seven-point peace plan has something for everyone of all differing political persuasions, be they of the political left or the right.

The Nixon administration has instead chosen to ignore the new proposal in Paris, reshuffle the Ambassadors and set up a smoke screen of diversion to cloud the public's eye with sensationalized reports as to the nature of relations between the U.S. and Red China.

All his fancy footwork to avoid replying to the proposal only undermines what little confidence I have in the present administration.

Washington — The Vietnam adventure has cost the American people about 200 billion dollars. Such is the conclusion of a group of researchers from the Library of Congress, who collaborated on a report for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. In the report it was pointed out that the total budget appropriations for the financing of the Vietnam war adds up to almost 120 billion dollars. Besides the direct expenditures, it was emphasized that the Vietnam adventure engendered other expenses — appropriations for military assistance and other programs. In a statement accompanying the report, the president of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, William Fulbright, said that the 200 billion dollars could have been used to solve some of the problems in America, instead of financing a fruitless war, which only aggravated the problems.

Hanoi — In the first half of this year, elements of the N.L.F. operating in the Northern regions of South Vietnam, according to the N.L.F. press, have killed or wounded 19,300 enemy troops, of which 6,809 were Americans. 508 planes and helicopters were destroyed, as were 1,290 various items of war machinery; a large amount of enemy shells and ammunition was also seized.

Letter

To the Editor :

Over the past four years, I have frequently participated in the silent vigil against the Vietnam war, held each Wednesday noon on the corner of Washington and Clinton Streets. People often tell us that the vigil does no good. It is a waste of time they say. I'll admit that the silent vigil has not been very popular. However, it does give one an opportunity to protest against the illegal and immoral war in Indochina.

When you stand on the corner you can meditate on the suffering and inhumanity of the war. You can remember the 55,000 G.I.s and the untold hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese whose lives have been lost in this tragic war. You can reflect on the way in which the sin of national and personal pride has led our leaders to deceive the people regarding this war. You can remember that without the tax support of each one of us this war would not be possible and thus we all have a measure of responsibility for the war. Think about the war. Come and join us on Wednesday noon.

NLF PEACE INITIATIVE

Sen. Moss (D-Utah): "Last week in a Senate statement, I informed my colleagues that my analysis of the recent National Liberation Front peace initiative led me to conclude that it represents a significant peace overture apparently made in good faith. Because the proposal offers some hope for a genuine breakthrough in the now stalled talks, I called upon the President to respond positively and creatively to the initiative and to ask for an immediate ceasefire while activity exploring the possibility of a settlement based upon this new concession.

For three weeks now, the administration has withheld reply to Hanoi's seven-point peace initiative, while pursuing talks with Communist China. In a well reasoned editorial in this morning's New York Times, Nhan Dan, the official Hanoi newspaper, was quoted as asserting:

President Nixon has been running about wildly in search of a way out but he has gone to the wrong place. The exit door has been opened, yet he has tumbled into an impasse...

I also am persuaded that there is no substitute for direct negotiations with Hanoi in Paris to be opened by a constructive response to the unanswered seven-point peace proposal."

Organic Gardening

By PAUL HEUER

One of the hardest lessons for new organic gardeners to learn is that you don't run to the shelf and grab a container of all-purpose pesticide every time you spot a bug in the garden. For many years now chemical companies have advertised that the easiest way to get rid of that pest is to spray, spray, spray. And I cannot deny it. If you want instant results just mix up your favorite poison and spray. However, this merely treats an effect and does nothing for the underlying cause. Somewhat similar to giving a coughdrop to a man with tuberculosis. In both cases the long range effects of the treatment is either ignored or is actually unknown.

The continued applications of pesticides produces high residue levels in the soil. The effects of these residue chemicals on the ecology of the soil organisms is almost totally unknown. And out of this ignorance we continue to believe that no real harm is being done.

Well my friends, it just ain't so. The soil is a living structure. And because it is living it can be killed. Oh, it isn't the nice conventional death we are used to seeing in higher organisms, but it is death all the same. It's the kind of death indicated when an organism ceases to function. When the soil dies vegetation ceases to grow at all, or does so only poorly. For example the continued use of arsenic pesticides on cotton crops has produced a soil in some areas which won't grow much of anything. The continued accumulation of this heavy metal ion in the soil has effectively killed in many locations. It took a long time for such an effect to show up, but it did. What will be the ultimate effect on the agricultural land of this country from the continued use of various pesticides year after year after year?

Organic gardeners attempt to avoid all pesticides. After all, there were gardens and farms long before there were chemical companies. There were methods of insect control then, and those same methods will work today.

What follows is a quick summary of many ideas:

1. Hand picking can't be beat for the larger insects. Pick them off in the early morning when they are the least active.
2. Dust plants of the cabbage family with flour or wood ashes to control the green cabbage worm.
3. If you have an aphid problem, buy a pint of ladybugs and release them in your garden.
4. Lacewing flies also attack aphids and can be purchased.
5. The Praying Mantis will help control grasshoppers, caterpillars, and other large insects. The mantis egg cases can be purchased and hung in the garden where they will hatch.
6. Trichogramma wasps parasitize most of the common "worms" in the garden. Worm-free apples can be produced with the help of these tiny wasps.
7. Don't forget that toads love to gulp down bugs. Bring home any you find and give them a home in your garden.

8. Ducks and geese are also good bug-grabbers. They also will keep snails and bugs under control.

9. Hot peppers applied as a spray will discourage chewing insects.

10. Buttermilk and wheat flour spray will kill spider mites.

11. Molasses diluted in 50 parts of water will control many insects when used as a spray.

12. Onions and garlic ground in a blender, filtered, diluted half and half with water, and sprayed on plants will kill or discourage aphids and many other insects.

13. Garlic extracts have been found to be excellent insecticides. This has been found true in even very dilute solutions (10 p.m.)

14. Plant garlic around fruit trees, and in several locations in the garden to keep away most insects.

15. Marigolds planted around potatoes, strawberries, and roses will discourage nematodes.

16. Planting any of the mints around any of the cabbage family will keep bugs away.

17. Codling Moths (apple worms) can be trapped in paper cups half full of a

National Poll on China Questions

PRESIDENT NIXON'S PLAN TO VISIT COMMUNIST CHINA WIDELY APPROVED

Princeton, N.J.: The U.S. public — by a wide margin — endorses the President's plan to visit mainland China, despite lingering doubts about admitting Communist China to the United Nations, according to a recent nationwide survey conducted by Opinion Research Corporation.

The same survey shows that public approval of the way President Nixon is handling his job has increased from a low of 48 per cent in May to 54 per cent currently.

67 per cent of the public say it is a good thing that the President has decided to visit the People's Republic of China; 20 per cent say it is not good, and 13 per cent have no opinion. Public opinion, however, continues to be sharply divided on admission of Red China to the United Nations (41 per cent for, 40 per cent against).

One of the more interesting findings is the large vote of approval regardless of party allegiance. 72 per cent of the Republicans, 58 per cent of the Democrats, and 75 per cent of the Independents say President Nixon's decision to visit Communist China is a good one. 78 per cent of the young people, age 18 to 20 approve the decision.

The big appeal of the President's move is the hope that it offers for world peace. 68 per cent of the public say opening up more normal relations between the U.S. and Communist China will be more likely to lead to world peace, 13 per cent say less likely, and 19 per cent say no difference or no opinion.

These are the findings from a nationwide telephone survey of 1,002 interviews conducted by Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, New Jersey July 20-21, 1971, among a representative sample of persons age 18 years and over. Following are the questions asked and the survey results:

Baseball Game For Two Little Leaguers Killed in Auto Accident

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A benefit baseball game will be played here Aug. 8 to raise funds to finance a memorial for two Newton Little League baseball players killed in a traffic accident July 21.

The game, at Sec Taylor Stadium, will be between the Des Moines Little League All-Star fathers and the Des Moines radio, television and newspaper all-stars.

The money raised will be used for a memorial fund for Randy Patterson and John Holland, who were killed in the accident, and to help pay medical expenses for their companions injured in the 5-car crash.

Nicklaus, Palmer Favorites in National Team Championships

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, each challenged in his own way by the immense success of Lee Trevino, ranked as the heavy favorites to repeat as the titleholders in the $200,000 National Team Championship.

Trevino, the gregarious Super Mex who swept the U.S., Canadian and British Open golf titles and emerged as the dominant figure in the game this year, is threatening on two fronts.

He's pushing Nicklaus as the game's greatest performer and Palmer as its most popular player.

Neither has made direct reference to the challenge, but it's obviously there.

"Lee who?" Palmer grinned when asked a question about Trevino's recent triumphs.

"Lee's been playing super golf, but it finally caught up with him," Palmer said, referring to last week, when Trevino's hectic, non-stop pace caught up with him and he missed the cut for the final two rounds in the rich Westchester Classic.

"With the pressure of playing every day, there just comes a time when you have to relax," said Palmer, who picked up the $50,000 first prize last week as he scored his third victory of the season.

Trevino did just that, taking a rest for the first time in almost four months.

"I just went fishing for a couple of days," Trevino said. "I feel fine now. It's surprising how much a couple of days off will help."

He has 45-year-old Howie Johnson, a non-winner since 1959 but a consistent money winner in recent years, as his partner in this event, in which scoring is based on the better ball of each two-man team.

The 72-hole test begins today on the scenic, 7,045 yard, par 36-35-71 Laurel Valley Golf Club layout, Palmer's home course in these rolling hills of western Pennsylvania and the site of the Palmer-Nicklaus victory a year ago.

Among the leading contenders in the field of 64 teams are the three pairs who tied for second last year, former champions Bobby Nichols and George Archer, Gardner Dickinson and 59-year-old Sam

$300,000 Lures Muhammad Ali To South African Lecture Series

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Muhammad Ali has been offered $300,000 for 10 lectures in South Africa Dec. 20 through Jan. 2 and plans to accept if he can obtain a visa to that racially troubled country.

Richard Fulton, Ali's New York agent, confirmed that the former heavyweight boxing champion had been asked to make five appearances a week over the two-week period in major South African areas.

"This is the largest fee ever for such a series of lectures," Fulton said in disclosing that Ali would earn $30,000 per appearance. "It's incredible," the agent asserted.

Ali, who returned home Tuesday night from Houston where he scored a 12th-round technical knockout over Jimmy Ellis, said he was ready to go to South Africa.

Fulton said the offer came from Acquiarius Promotions of Johannesburg. He said all of Ali's expenses would be paid.

Fulton said that Acquiarius had assured him there would be no problem obtaining a visa for Ali. The agent pointed out that Ali would only speak in South Africa, and that no boxing exhibitions were contemplated.

Fulton emphasized that Ali's lectures would be of a non-controversial nature, not pertaining to race. He said it would be some of the same material Ali uses in his many college lectures in the United States.

MISSED A MILLION

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers drew 934,820 fans for their first American League campaign last season.

The Brewers, managed by Dave Bristol, will open their 1971 home season against the California Angels on Saturday, April 10. A total of 81 home games will be played in 76 dates in the 45,768-seat County Stadium.
