"Our campaign for the next few years is focused on helping us win the West," Theatre Department head Dr. Richard T. Koontz, said. "We believe that the University of Iowa should be a regular member of the Iowa Theatre Association."

Dr. Koontz, with the assistance of the University Theatre Board, has written several plays and has acted in several others. He is also a member of the American Theatre Association and has served on the board of the Iowa Theatre Association.

Theatre Board officials have been working on the campaign for several months and are now ready to make their final push.

"We believe that the University Theatre should be a regular member of the Iowa Theatre Association," said Dr. Koontz. "We feel that this would be a great benefit to both the University and the community."

Electoral farce

By Brian Owen

The time is long overdue for this country to realize that electoral reform is desperately needed. Recent developments in the political landscape, including the election of President Nixon, have brought the issue to the forefront. In order to address the issues raised by the elections, I propose the following recommendations:

1. Implement a proportional representation system to ensure a fair and representative government.
2. Introduce ranked-choice voting to encourage strategic voting and prevent wasted votes.
3. Establish a citizens' commission to oversee the election process and ensure transparency.

At this late date, it seems possible that we may have reached a turning point, but it is imperative that we move forward with these reforms, lest we continue to see the same problems in future elections.

That is what I stand for. There can be no choice for that matter. In our July election, the voter is faced with the following alternatives:

- Candidate A: A system that has been proven to be broken.
- Candidate B: A system that has been proven to be fundamentally flawed.

It is high time we moved beyond this outdated and unrepresentative system. The time is now to act and make our elections truly fair and democratic.

The solution lies not in the past, but in our collective future. We must work together to ensure that every vote counts and that our democracy thrives.

To the editor:

Iowans flock to Oktoberfest

Iowans journeyed to South Manitoba Saturday to drink high-priced beer, ride carnival rides, and visit with other German-loving people during the annual Oktoberfest.

Even with the expensive beer and tight drinking restrictions, a usual number of people donned their German attire and appeared in the German settlement, west of Iowa City.

Bucks tie playoffs, win 9-4

BAN FRANCISCO - Bob Robinson tied the longest championship series at 13 games, explained the lanky junior.

"We'd be well satisfied," said Robinson, "if we could outscore them one run a day to get excited about the couple of games we've had a difference in.

Iowa was too solid a team, too good a team. The Iowa line batted a solid .250.

We have been too much of a team that we've had them more than we have had them. At least our offense has been a good offense in these last two games.

Iowa's offense was too good for our defense.

The weekly game story is a big lead on the front page from Iowa State Football Coach "Red" Williams. It's what you would expect it to be, a story of Iowa State's upcoming football game. The Hawkeyes have a 2-0 record, and they are looking to continue their winning streak.

It's a story of depth and experience. The Hawkeyes have a strong defense, led by All-American defensive tackle Len Rienow. Their offense is led by quarterback Dan Fouts, who has put up some impressive numbers so far this season.

The Hawkeyes are coming off a big win over Colorado, and they are looking to continue their momentum against Iowa State. The game will be held at Kinnick Stadium in Iowa City, and it's sure to be a great matchup between two conference rivals.

The Hawkeyes are the favorites in this game, but anything can happen on any given Saturday. The Iowa State Cyclones are a tough team, and they will be looking to upset the Hawkeyes.

The game will be a battle of two teams with different styles of play. The Hawkeyes are a physical team, while the Cyclones are more of a finesse team. It will be an interesting battle of the two coaches, "Red" Williams and his Cyclones will be looking to get their first conference win of the season.

The Hawkeyes have a strong defense, and they will be looking to limit the Cyclones' offense. The Cyclones will have to find a way to score against this tough defense.

The Hawkeyes have a strong offense as well, and they will be looking to put up a lot of points against the Cyclones. The Hawkeyes have a strong running game and a talented quarterback in Dan Fouts.

The sky was the color of a thunderous blast, blue as ink, at the end of the world. Across the bridge over Wide Creek, the three of us huddled under the overhanging roof of our family's veranda. It was a hot, open expanse of wood, with the sun beating down on us, but we were safe from the rain.

There was a family of goats running about, shaggy and brown. They seemed to be enjoying the rain. One of them was bleating, and the others were following it, jumping over the fence. It was a relief to see them in the rain, after the long drought. We watched as they ran by, their coats glistening in the light. It was a moment of beauty, and we stood there, in awe of it all.

The woman was still sitting in the veranda, her face turned to the rain. She had a look of contentment in her eyes, and we could see that she was enjoying the moment as much as we were. It was a moment of connection, a moment of shared experience. We stood there, in the rain, watching as the goats ran by, their coats glistening in the sun.

Eulogy to poet Blackburn

BLACKBURN - SEE YOU IN HELL, LATER
By: NIROSH KRAM

For The Daily News

Blackburn at work in 1960...

Blackburn was a poet who lived a life dedicated to his craft. Born in 1929, he was known for his innovative and thought-provoking poems that often explored themes of love, nature, and the human condition. His work was characterized by its complexity and depth, making him a prominent figure in the Beat Generation.

Blackburn was a close friend of Jack Kerouac and other prominent poets of his time. His poetry was published in several prestigious literary journals, and he was a frequent contributor to The Paris Review. Blackburn's work was often praised for its unique style and its ability to capture the essence of the Beat movement.

Despite his prominence in the literary world, Blackburn's life was marked by personal struggles. He was diagnosed with bipolar disorder and battled with addiction throughout his life. These challenges did not deter him from pursuing his passion for poetry, and he continued to write until his death.

In his final years, Blackburn returned to Hawaii, where he was born. There, he continued to write and teach, passing on his knowledge to a new generation of poets. His final poem, "On the Boat," was published posthumously.

Blackburn's work continues to inspire and challenge readers today. His legacy is a testament to the power of poetry and the enduring spirit of a poet who refused to be defined by illness or adversity.

Hunting' Bergen gets around

Catherine Burens was gunning for that cool old gal, Melissa, in the crowd. The other week she had found a kid who looked like a Beatnik and she followed him around, trying to get closer to him. She was interested in radical marriage, and she thought that Melissa was just the one to take her on. The guy was cool, he had a voice that was soothing to her ears.

But Frank knew her friend was a Pekingese, or something, and he was after her, too. Frank was always the one who got her, but this guy was just as good as any other.

He wore a big coat in the winter and a brown, thick cap in the summer. He was a big man, and he had a real presence.

When Melissa arrived, Frank was already there. He had been waiting for her, and he knew she was coming.
