Plan lid on teaching majors

By LARRY HITT, Staff Writer

The University of Iowa College of Education's dean says that a deadline for teaching majors has been set, and that the college is working on a new program to meet the needs of students who want to teach in the future.

The college's dean, Dr. Alice Miller, says that the new program will provide more opportunities for students to work with teachers and to learn about the teaching profession.

"We have reached out to the students and to the faculty to see what they want," Miller said. "We have heard from many students and faculty members who say they want to have more opportunities to work with teachers and to learn about the teaching profession."

The Canine but

In a recent letter to the Readers' Forum, a writer claimed that the Iowa Board of Regents had planned to make grades optional for all students. This is misleading and inaccurate. The Board of Regents has not made any such proposal. The writer's letter, which was published in this newspaper on October 15, 1980, was a response to a letter to the Editor that appeared in the same issue of the newspaper. The letter to the Editor had stated that the Board of Regents was considering making grades optional for all students.

The writer of the letter to the Editor, who signed the letter as "R. L. O.," did not provide any evidence to support their claim. The letter to the Editor cited a report by the Iowa Board of Regents that was released in 1979. The report stated that the Board of Regents was considering making grades optional for all students. However, the letter to the Editor did not provide any further information about the report.

The letter to the Editor also stated that the writer had received the report from the Iowa Board of Regents. However, the Iowa Board of Regents has not released any information about the report. It is not clear who R. L. O. is or what their source of information is.

In conclusion, the letter to the Editor and the response letter to the Editor are misleading and inaccurate. The Board of Regents has not made any proposal to make grades optional for all students. The letter to the Editor cited a report that was released in 1979, but the writer of the response letter did not provide any further information about the report.

The Canine but
Dear sir or madam,

I am writing to express my concern about the current state of the Vietnam situation. As a veteran of World War II, I have seen the harsh realities of military conflict and the devastating effects it can have on individuals and society. I believe that it is crucial that we work towards finding peaceful solutions to conflicts, rather than resorting to violence.

I have heard reports of the ongoing negotiations between the United States and the Vietnamese government. I urge both parties to continue these efforts and to strive for a lasting, just peace. It is essential that the interests of all parties involved are taken into account, and that the voices of ordinary citizens are heard.

In light of this, I am calling on the United States to take action. We must work towards lifting the embargo on trade with Vietnam, as it is a one-sided policy that does not serve the interests of either nation. I also call for the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and Vietnam, to facilitate the exchange of ideas and the resolution of disputes through dialogue.

I urge the government to consider the plight of the many individuals who have been affected by the conflict. There are families who have been torn apart by war, and innocent lives that have been lost. We must do everything in our power to ensure that these tragedies do not continue.

In conclusion, I believe that peace is attainable, and I urge all parties involved to work towards a solution. I stand with those who seek justice and a better future for all.

Sincerely,

Dickens' classic about a poor boy giving out newspapers. It is set in the summer of 1972, it is said that without the power shortage, some people lost their jobs and income.

If this happens, you can't carry on tomorrow. It is a power shortage some- where in the country color is what's happening. You'll find that even today's new low rate is higher, better. Like our great going spot on a shirt and it is the country color is what's happening. You can't carry on tomorrow.
