[In the next few days, the angry indifference of the people as they leave, conversing about the bus.]

Speaker: I have heard spoken of...
The Prince vs. peasants

Richard Nixon is a master of political juggling, and makes a good subject for a close look at how he has used political realism in the last two years. As a candidate for President, he had nothing to lose except defeat. Once in office, he faces a different set of problems. The net result is that he has made his political realism a tool in the hands of his staff, and has become a master of the political juggle.

The Prince vs. peasants

In the Thursday, Dec. 9 issue of the New York Times, Nixon was quoted as saying, "I have been trying to manufacture an image of myself that I would like to project..." It is this second sentence which interests me. Nixon is, in fact, very clear about his political realism, but it is very difficult to see what his goals are. It is very difficult to see how he can escape the label of "Prince vs. peasants." He must be careful in the way he goes about this. If he is careful, he may escape the label of "Prince vs. peasants," but if he is not, he may be forced to accept it.

The Prince and the peasantry

The Prince vs. peasants does not mean much to Nixon. He has always been the Prince, and his political realism is a tool in the hands of his staff. He must be careful in the way he goes about this. If he is careful, he may escape the label of "Prince vs. peasants," but if he is not, he may be forced to accept it.

The Iowa City boycott is now in its fourth week. The Iowa City Council this week has voted toban all beer sales in the city. The ban has been supported by the local members of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), who have been working with the Iowa City Council to try to implement a similar ban in their city.

McGovern: Viet pullout date would get releases

WASHINGTON - Sen. George McGovern, D.S.D., said Monday that "it is true that our negotiations in Paris have ever discussed with our Vietnamese colleagues the idea of a Viet Cong pullout date." McGovern also accused the Nixon administration of blocking "a limiting discussion.

"As far as I know," McGovern said, "the State Department is doing everything possible to strike a deal for the release of all Americans from Vietnam, but it is not clear to me that the administration is willing to discuss a pullout date."

"The administration has failed to discuss it," McGovern said. "It seems to me that the administration is doing everything possible to strike a deal for the release of all Americans from Vietnam, but it is not clear to me that the administration is willing to discuss a pullout date."

The hearings, which are being conducted by the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, are examining the conduct of the Vietnam war. McGovern, who has returned to Washington for the hearings, was a Vietnam veteran and a member of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee during the war.

Hawks topple Kansas

By MIKE RALPH

"The ball that I was trying to get off of my head was the one that Coach Bill Self hooked after it went through the basket that we had to get. It was the first time in my career that I had ever made a basket with two hands."

The win by Kansas over Iowa on Saturday, 81-71, was a great start to the Big Ten Conference season for the Jayhawks. It was also a reminder that they are still one of the best teams in the conference.

After winning the Big Eight last year and coming close to winning the national championship, the Jayhawks have been considered one of the favorites for the Big Ten crown. They have proved that they are just as good as their preseason expectations with a 3-0 record so far this season.

The game against Iowa was a close match, but the Jayhawks were able to pull away in the second half. They got off to a slow start, but were able to outscore the Hawkeyes 44-37 in the second half.

This win was important for Kansas as they continue to build momentum as they head into conference play. They will be looking to continue their winning streak as they take on their next opponent, Nebraska, on Tuesday.

In the end, the Jayhawks proved that they are still one of the best teams in the country and they are ready to compete for the Big Ten title.

For the Daily Iowan

It's not far to Iowa City from either Des Moines or Kansas City. But it can be confusing to the newcomer visiting the University of Iowa for the first time. Where is the library? How do I get to the student union? What are the best places to eat?

These are just a few of the questions that new students often ask. But the answers to these questions can be found in the pages of the Student Union, the student newspaper of the University of Iowa.

The Student Union is a weekly newspaper that is published every Monday and Thursday. It is written, edited, and printed by students at the University of Iowa. The Student Union is read by over 20,000 people each week and is distributed throughout the campus.

The Student Union is more than just a source of information. It is also a forum for students to express their opinions and voice their concerns. The Student Union has been a proud partner of the University of Iowa for over 100 years.

Nebraska tops final grid poll

By the Associated Press

In a unanimous vote, ninth-ranked Nebraska and Colorado were selected by the 33 Midwest sports editors as their team of the week. Northwestern and Wisconsin also received votes.

The Cornhuskers and Buffaloes have a chance to set the tone for the remainder of the season by meeting Saturday night at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln.

The Associated Press members on the Midwestern Circuit have decided to give their polls a major boost this year by voting for the entire league, instead of just the teams in their own sections.

This week, the AP Circuit included teams from Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Utah and New Mexico.

In the previous week's poll, Nebraska was ranked 10th overall, while Colorado was 18th.

Colorado is also the No. 1 pick for the national championship in the Associated Press poll.

The polls will be released on a weekly basis throughout the season.

The AP Circuit consists of 25 members from across the Midwest who cover the Big Eight Conference.

The Cornhuskers, who have only one loss this season, are the only team in the AP Circuit that has not lost a game.

The Buffaloes, who are 10-0, are the only team in the AP Circuit that has won a national championship.

The AP Circuit is a separate organization from the AP Top 25 poll, which is released on a weekly basis.

The AP Circuit members vote for the entire league, while the AP Top 25 poll only covers the top 25 teams in the nation.

The AP Circuit's poll is considered to be more prestigious than the AP Top 25 poll, as it is based on the votes of sports editors from across the Midwest.

The AP Circuit's poll is also considered to be more accurate, as it is based on the votes of sports editors who cover the teams on a daily basis.

The AP Circuit members vote for the entire league, while the AP Top 25 poll only covers the top 25 teams in the nation.

Iowa faces 'new migrants'

The increasing concern for a newly developing environment -- one open against, cleaner water, cleaner air -- may even mean some areas of the country will close their doors to in-migrants as well as out-migrants. These two problems, or others, are at the heart of an article in the Iowa Law Review.

The article, "Protection of Environmental Quality in Metropolitan Regions by Limiting Development," set forth at the University of Iowa, Des Moines, Iowa, by Professor Donald G. Wall, head of composition at the school, is the result of an extension of a research project. According to either indoors or outdoors.
