Rough

Today’s weather is going to be quite rough as you may have noticed the strong winds coming from the east. This is due to a high-pressure system moving in from the Pacific. Please take necessary precautions to stay safe.

A White House spokesman, Washington reported for the President, denied that an invasion was in the cards. He said that he would have more to say on the subject when the war committee meets next week.

Defense counsel objected, but the judge overruled him. The case is expected to be brought to a conclusion by the end of the month. Before the trial, the judge ruled that the jury would be sequestered.

Law students operating own book store here

BY MARIE WEHR
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Reynolds Hall, the residence hall of the University of Iowa Law School, is being taken over by the law students. The store, which will be run by the Law Students Association, will be located on the second floor of the hall.

The store, which was opened last week, has been very successful. The students have sold many books and are making a profit on the sales.

The store is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and is closed on weekends.

Women's seminar set for weekend

A "Women and Work" conference will be held at the University of Iowa on Saturday and Sunday, according to a announcement issued by the University's Extension Division.

The conference will be held at the University of Iowa on Saturday and Sunday. It will be open to all women who wish to discuss problems related to their work experiences.

Police revive walking beats

The Iowa City Police Department is reviving its "walking beat" program for downtown and shopping center areas.

During the past week, the police have been patrolling the downtown area, particularly around the stores, in an effort to discourage crime.

The officers will continue to patrol the downtown area, and the program will be expanded to include other areas as well.

Proposal to put patrol in control

The proposal to put the police in control of the downtown area is being reviewed by the city council.

The council has received a report from the police department on the effectiveness of the walking beat program.

The report recommends that the police department be given control of the downtown area.

Police will continue to patrol the area, but the decision to put the police in charge will be made by the city council.

Monitor system is being formed

The students at the University of Iowa have formed a monitor system to help keep the campus calm.

The system is being formed by the students, and it is expected to be in place by the end of the month.

The monitor system will be made up of volunteers who will be stationed around the campus to help keep things quiet.

The monitor system will be used to keep track of any incidents that may occur on campus.

During spring break I man­ gaged to return to Iowa City, now in northern Wisconsin. I had a good time, enjoyed a good, some good wine, a few good books, and like you didn't feel like doing anything worthwhile, a few hours later.

For the last two weeks Wisconsin has been subjected to hand-shaking, speech-making candidates for the Presidency. There's a primary there today, and all the hopefuls are out to see how they fare. The candidates relate to their parallels and television. Politics is a very after dinner in Dairyland, and all the candidates have shown many a dramatic shift in television promotion. Every fiddling on the tube some President aspirant was telling me the world is going to hell and he knows how to stop it.

George McGovern appeared about once an hour. Some Madison Avenue idea—probably not for a conservative fee—dreamed up the advertising slogan, "Right From The Start," which is supposed to convince us that McGovern is The True Liberal. And I have no doubt it shows him chatting with a group of middle-aged workers. I came and against McGovern six years ago," he says. "Where can I get my money back six years ago? Where were they even ten years ago? I mean, you won't find a thing about McGovern's engineering face."

New York Mayor John Lindsay is out with a chance of grabbing the Demo­cratic nomination in 1972, spending a fortune on TV ads. He has ten to run continuously, the first beginning with stills of Allan Bakke, McGovern and Jackson accompanied by the slogan, "The new face of the same old faces!" Then the video cuts to Jackson, who has the second toughest job in America. From that, Jackson tells us about the poor tired dairy farmer, as is obvious by his deep male voice ....

Lindsay has found the perfect way to make the average bigot listen to his pitch. He's Archie Bunker (Carroll O'Connor) in his 40-second or 45-second ad that says something wonderful to people in Lindsay's ITV. The pitch is delivered by O'Connor himself, or as Bunker, as is obvious by his message. The anti-war anti-war anti-war "uncleaded illegal immigrant" and the "10 new out-of-job fine young men killed in this illegal war."

Henry Jackson, another candi­date with a snowball's chance in an old, in a border man who tries to sell his fiery image. His pitch is about drugs, and he tells us some about his attack through woods holding a little girl—he's going to cut off the source of those dopey heroin production in France and opium production in Thailand. Humphrey: Makes it the best method of solving the problem in the home within the home, within the walls of your home. The slogan says that "One candid­ate is the kind of person who will go out and see things as they are today and find the road."

Henry Wallace, the guy can run New York City, is a possible "car­rier of the slogan. Henry Wallace is John Lindsay's twin. Perhaps George Wallace has far by the dullest and we're on the light of their political careers. McGovern yells about inflation, the

To bus or not to bus?

Busing is a flat issue being used to take pressure off the main issues at stake in American politics.

The concept of busing school children to integrate public schools is complex. It involves, first of all, the words of key (executive administrative) and local powers. It may be said (of me) that the federal courts have said (and are still saying) that the courts are interested in the problem, but it is up to the states to show that they can do more than just talk about it. Busing makes gains pigs of the local communities, but it also needs the support of the public and busing only serves to frac­ture the public into a "busing" or "non-busing" party. Meaningful change requires a large political force that will force the local communities to split and try to get a larger, centrally controlled area.

Boulder, Colo., Aug. 11—Senator George McGovern’s California campaign headquarters is ready to roll.

McGovern’s chief aide has arrived in California, and the senator is expected to arrive on Sunday.

“McGovern is going to be in California for a week,” said campaign manager Bill Ayers. “He’ll be there for the California primary, which is on Aug. 28.”

The California primary is the last of the “early states,” and McGovern is hoping to use it as a springboard to the general election.

“McGovern is really excited about the California primary,” said Ayers. “He thinks it’s a chance to show the South that he’s not just a northern candidate.”

McGovern is currently trailing in the polls, but Ayers said the senator is confident he can turn things around.

“McGovern is really focused on the California primary,” said Ayers. “He’s been working hard on it, and he’s really excited about the possibility of winning.”

McGovern is expected to campaign in California for six days, and Ayers said the campaign will be using a variety of tactics, including door-to-door canvassing, phone banks, and TV ads.

Duke: Sees problems with positive results

Duke is scheduled to make his debut in the Big Ten on Saturday, when the Blue Devils will play the University of Iowa Hawkeyes. The game is expected to be a key test for Duke, who is looking to build on his recent success in the Big Ten.

"I am very much looking forward to this game," Duke said. "I think we have a good chance of winning, but we will need to be at our best if we want to come out on top.

Duke enters the game with a 10-10 record in the Big Ten, including a 2-3 record in conference play. The Blue Devils have struggled against some of the conference's top teams, but have shown improvement in recent weeks.

"I think we have been playing better lately," Duke said. "We have been able to compete with some of the top teams in the conference, and I think we have a shot at winning this game.

Duke faces a tough test in the Hawkeyes, who are coming off a loss to Wisconsin in their last game. The Hawkeyes have a strong defense and a potent offense, and Duke will need to be at his best if he wants to come out on top.

"I know we have our work cut out for us," Duke said. "But I think we have the talent and the ability to compete with Iowa. We just need to play our best game if we want to come out on top.

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's owners rejected Monday night's proposal from the baseball players association in their tip-pointing dispute, leaving no sign of an end to the strike.

The owners had offered to make a long-term contribution by the owners of $45 million over six years, the same as the last offer they made before the strike began last Saturday.

The owners have offered to make a long-term contribution of $45 million over six years, the same as the last offer they made before the strike began last Saturday.

John S. Garvin, the owners' negotiator, said he had been in contact with his team of executive directors of the players association before the strike began last Saturday.

Garvin turned the offer over to the owners' executive directors, who have promised to take the offer to the players association for consideration.

Mets shocked by Hodges' loss

NEW YORK (AP) — The body of Tom Hodges was found in his apartment in a | New York City Saturday morning.

Hodges, a 36-year-old Mets assistant coach, was found dead of a heart attack. He had been scheduled to head the Mets' spring training camp in Florida.

The Mets, who were scheduled to play the Philadelphia Phillies in the final game of their split-series opener Sunday, were scheduled to return to the Mets on Monday (March 30) and play the club in its world championship.

Mets owner Nelson Doubleday said Hodges' death shocked the club and its fans. "We are deeply saddened by this tragedy," Doubleday said. "Tom was a beloved member of our family and his loss will be greatly felt by all of us."
