Gloomy

It will be another nice day (if you like chilly Aprils) in Iowa City today but dark clouds are reportedly hanging over Gracie Mansion in New York City. The high in Iowa City will be about 60, the low tonight about 30. The low in the mansion will be the butler's answer to John Lindsay's muttering question about whether it was a good idea to switch parties.

Dies

MIAMI (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, politician preacher and playboy whose flamboyant love of wheeling and dealing led to his exclusion from Congress, died Tuesday night in a Miami hospital of complications following prostate surgery. He was 63.

Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Ronald M. Lauer, a pediatrics specialist at University Hospitals in Iowa City, Iowa, has been named to an 18-member panel to work with investigators probing heart disease.

Dr. Lauer will work with Dr. John S. Millis, president and director of the National Fund for Medical Education.

No dingbat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miffed at what it sees as a television effort to portray Archie Bunker as a typical working stiff, the Teamsters Union said Tuesday "The average worker is no dingbat."
"For some reason the writers of those shows decided the average worker is a dingbat—fat, more than a little dumb, a committed racist and most of all, very comical," the union said in its new publication, Focus.

Abandoned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House agency disclosed Tuesday the government is abandoning the emergency broadcast system as a backup procedure to warn the nation of any enemy attack.

The decision followed a yearlong review of a snafu which caused some 2,500 radio stations across the country to broadcast an erroneous emergency alert.

Moving

SAIGON (AP) — Tank-led North Vietnamese forces drove on the key city of Quang Tri Wednesday in the seventh day of an offensive that has thrust 10 miles into South Vietnam from the demilitarized zone.

Enemy units overran two more government bases and heavy fighting was reported around the last remaining defense anchor of Quang Tri, the northern provincial capital 19 miles south of the DMZ.

The U.S. Command said more than a score of U.S. warplanes struck inside North Vietnam on Monday and Tuesday against nine radar-controlled missile sites threatening American bombers pounding the advancing enemy.

Shook

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sudden shakeup in Action, the Nixon administration's volunteer superagency, will strip seven regional offices of at least 30 staff personnel, most of them top-level program planners, sources inside the agency said Tuesday.

Most of the changes involve supervisory personnel from Action's two principal components, the Peace Corps and VISTA—Volunteers in Service to America.

To run?

MUSCATINE, Iowa (AP) — David Stanley of Muscatine said Tuesday he is seriously considering becoming a candidate for the Iowa House from the new 75th District in Muscatine, Louisa and Johnson counties.

Stanley, a lawyer, was the Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate in 1968 and served five terms in the legislature in the 1960s, including one as Senate majority leader.

Blasted

MONTREAL (AP) — A bomb tore apart the Montreal office of Cuba's trade commission and killed a Cuban guard Tuesday, one day after a package of explosives was found outside the island nation's embassy in Ottawa. A similar package was discovered outside the Cuban ambassador's residence last week.

Seven other Cuban guards were arraigned in court on charges of possessing weapons and interfering with the police investigation of the blast. Police said the Cubans apparently feared secret files would fall into police hands.

In Miami, Fla., the Spanishlanguage radio station WFAB reported that an unidentified man telephoned the station to say the bombing was the work of a Cuban exile organization called Young Cuba.

Win boosts McGovern hopes

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota won Wisconsin's presidential primary Tuesday night and vaulted to the front rank among Democratic contenders for the White House.

McGovern led Sen. Hubert H.

Lindsay out

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — New York Mayor John V. Lindsay withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination Tuesday night after a far-back showing in Wisconsin's presidential primary.

Lindsay, running sixth, said, "I am withdrawing as a candidate. I want you to know that I will continue to fight for the principles that I believe."

Humphrey of Minnesota, with Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace third and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine far behind.

With 50 per cent of the state's 3,290 precincts counted, McGovern was running strong across the state, polling 195,799 votes or 30 per cent of the total.

"We have won a great victory today," McGovern said. "There's no question about it."

He led for 54 of the 67 Democratic national convention delegates at stake in Wisconsin. Humphrey had the edge for the rest, in two congressional districts.

"I expected to come out about second place and I hope to hold that," said Humphrey.

Humphrey said it was difficult to say whether Muskie's far-back showing would eliminate the one-time front-runner from Maine. "Each primary stands by its own and I don't expect him to quit," said Humphrey. President Nixon swept to towering victory in the Republican primary and captured 28 national convention votes for re-nomination.

Nixon was opposed on the ballot by Reps. John Ashbrook of Ohio and Paul N. McCloskey Jr. who has dropped out of the race.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York were running fifth and sixth among the Democrats; the balance of the 12-way field had scattered support. Jackson telephoned his congratulations to McGovern.

"This is just one primary," he said in defeat.

Wisconsin put a big question mark over the political future of Muskie, the demoted frontrunner who, for the second time, suffered a drubbing in an all-candidate field.

It happened first in Florida on March 14, where he ran fourth with 9 per cent of the vote in an 11-way race.

Muskie managers said in advance that they were prepared to run as poorly as fourth in Wisconsin and would battle it out for the nomination in other states.

With 50 per cent of the precincts counted, this was the lineup behind McGovern: Humphrey 142,113 votes, or 21 per cent.

Wallace 136,642, or 21 per cent.

Muskie 71,797, or 11 per cent.

Jackson 51,715, or 8 per cent.

Lindsay 45,674, or 7 per cent.

Wisconsin voters could choose the primary ballot of either party, and in the wide-open primary, Wallace was likely to get some Republican help.

Muskie and his men were braced for the prospect of defeat, insisting that the real tests are coming up in states where the field of candidates will be smaller and the convention stakes higher.

Two of those tests come up on April 25, in Massachusetts for 102 delegates and Pennsylvania for 182.

Campaign strategy for the April 25 contests, and those in Ohio and Indiana on May 2, was one of the topics Muskie lieutenants were discussing on election day in Wisconsin.

McGovern is Muskie's chief rival in Massachusetts, Humphrey in Pennsylvania.

McGovern and Humphrey campaigners said the Muskie organization could face worsening financial troubles in the weeks ahead.

Muskie spokesmen denied it. Muskie's staff has been working without pay since shortly after the March 14 Florida primary, in which the Maine senator finished a far-back fourth, with only 9 per cent of the vote.

Senators petition student court

Ask ruling on Cooperative

By STEVE MOORE
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Two University of Iowa students have petitioned the Student Judicial Court to rule if the office of student body president can legally be held by more than one individual.

Merill T. Eilers, 19, 532 North Lodge Street, a newly elected student senator, and Archie L. Schrotenboer, 27, 608 Hawkeye Court, a present senator, also asked the court if the five-member presidential slate legally filled the vice presidential position, and called for a clarification of the presidential veto power.

The petition was initiated in response to the election of the five-member Cooperative as student body president March 15, Eilers said Tuesday.

Richard M. Jennings, chairman of the court, said Tuesday night the judicial court will hold a preliminary meeting Thursday to study the student association constitution, decide procedure in the matter and decide if the court has jurisdiction to hear the request.

If the court decides to hear the matter, a formal hearing will probably be held next Wednesday, the day the Cooperative takes office, Jennings said.

Eilers said, "It should be made clear that this petition is in no way an attempt to block the Cooperative from taking office."

He said two important questions could be settled by the judicial court's rulings. First, the court must decide if the Cooperative constitutes only a presidency or if it also includes a vice president, he said.

If the court rules that the election of the Cooperative has not filled the office of vice president, Eilers said he will suggest to the Student Senate that the senate member elected as president pro-tempore of the senate fulfill the duties of vice president.

"I am not working to get Brad Haddy made vice president," Eilers said. There has been speculation that if the Cooperative did not constitute a vice presidency, the runner-up vice presidential candidate, Bradley J. Haddy, 19, 4405 Lakeside Manor, might gain the office.

Also, Eilers said there appear to be three alternatives concerning a ruling on the veto power of the president. The court could rule that any one member of the Cooperative could effectively exercise veto power, that a majority of the five would constitute a veto, or that a unanimous decision by all five members would be needed to constitute a veto.

Law panel will handle campus 'emergencies'

By LARRY HITT
Daily Iowan University Editor

The University of Iowa has agreed to participate in an inter-governmental board that would be responsible for all campus law enforcement in the event of natural disaster or civil disobedience.

The City Council gave its approval to the agreement at its meeting Tuesday night.

In a memo to faculty members Tuesday, Pres. Willard L. Boyd said that the university has agreed to set up an Emergency Operations Board (EOB) to "coordinate and review policy" for law enforcement in times of emergency or campus unrest.

Boyd's memo said that the plan for the EOB would become operational "only in the event that the Governor of Iowa had ordered peace officers of the Department of Public Safety to assume general law enforcement duties in Johnson County."

The board will be composed of representatives of the Iowa City police, Coralville police, Johnson County Sheriff's department and the state Department of Public Safety.

In his memo, Boyd said that Dean Billy L. Barnes of the College of Business Administration will be the university's representative on the EOB.

The board will be responsible for coordinating the various law enforcement agencies needed to keep the peace, and would designate one person—probably a member of the Iowa Highway Patrol—to direct all of the combined law enforcement agencies.

Boyd said in the memo that the plan, if agreed to by the other agencies involved, "would not represent any change in the university's relationships to outside peace-keeping agencies."

He added that the agreement was the first of its kind in Iowa, and probably in the nation.

Robert E. Engel, assistant to the president, said Tuesday that the university decided to participate in the emergency plan about two weeks ago, but that the idea was not initiated by Boyd.

Boyd is out of the state and unavailable for comment.

Engel said that "in light of past experiences, we have seen the need to have one person coordinate the efforts of the several agencies involved" in controlling campus demonstrations.

He said that the plan was not created in anticipation of campus unrest here this spring.

The plan would not limit Boyd's powers in any way, Engel said, adding that the president maintains ultimate control of the campus security forces.

Boyd's memo also pointed out that the arrangement for an EOB was consistent with the Code of Iowa, and could be altered or terminated by the agencies concerned.

GOP caucuses in UI dorms attract only 26 participants

Only 26 persons attended three Republican party precinct caucuses held in University of Iowa dormitories Tuesday night to elect delegates to the GOP county convention and formulate resolutions for the party's platform.

And the five UI students who attended the eighth precinct caucus held in Burge were "a very quiet group and didn't vote on any resolutions," according to caucus chairwoman Sharon Donahue, 4505 Burge.

She said those at the grassroots meeting expressed strong support for President Nixon and Gov. Robert D. Ray.

Fifteen students attended the precinct six caucus at Currier and they too were strong supporters of Nixon and Ray.

William W. Crews, N12 Currier, chairman of the caucus, said the caucus "passed a lot of resolutions supporting things that Nixon supports, like revenue sharing and welfare reform."

Resolutions passed by the caucus for the statutory platform included ones calling for full majority rights at 18 and the legalization of marijuana.

Crews said his caucus also passed resolutions favoring a World Food Exposition for Iowa in conjunction with America's Bi-Centennial celebration and maintaining the present maximum length for trucks using state highways.

The third dorm caucus, held in Rienow I, also passed a resolution against allowing longer trucks on Iowa roads.

Paul E. Bohnsack II, 213 Rienow I, chairman of that caucus, said the six students who attended the meeting also favor holding a presidential primary in Iowa and support President Nixon's revenue sharing plan.

Pick Oscar winners, get passes to flicks

Nearly 400 persons have already entered The Daily Iowan's Oscar contest, which carries a top prize of two tickets good for two months' free admission at all Iowa City theaters.

All you've got to do to win is successfully predict who's going to take Oscars home at the Academy Awards ceremony next Monday.

Deadline for entries is this Thursday, so be sure and fill in the entry blank that appeared in yesterday's paper. In case you forgot, we'll repeat the contest rules and entry forms in Thursday's edition.

But you'll have to bring that form in to us at 111 Communications Center, unless you've got a superfast mailperson.

Maybe you'll be seeing over $100 worth of flicks...free.

A cold dip

Two University of Iowa students had a cold dip in Lake MacBride Tuesday while sailing during a physical education class. The two—who were unidentified—got dunked after their sails caught too much wind in the wrong place. It was chilly sailing from then on. The two students were pulled out of the water by instructor Bob Cummings and Daily Iowan photographer Hoyt E. Carrier II, who made this series of photos.

Rush bombers to war zone

WASHINGTON (AP)—While officially holding open its options on how to deal with North Vietnam's new offensive, the Nixon administration bolstered the U.S. B52 bomber force in the Western Pacific by 25 per cent Tuesday.

It was learned that about 20 of the eight-jet bombers have been ordered to reinforce the B52 fleet already in Thailand and Guam.

The Pentagon declined comment on the move, the second by the Nixon administration this week to bolster U.S. bombing power in Southeast Asia. Two additional aircraft carriers have been ordered to join two others off the Vietnamese coast.

The actions are in response to a massive assault by North Vietnamese forces south of Vietnam's demilitarized zone.

From a military standpoint, the U.S. officials said, it is plain that stepped-up air attacks are the main recourse left for U.S. forces in Vietnam. U.S. ground troops have dwindled to the point where they are no longer available for much combat action. And the U.S. withdrawals will be proceeding, they said.

Publicly, White House press officer Gerald Warren said that President Nixon is keeping all options open on what the United States might do. The administration's inside crisis unit, named the Washington Special Action Group, met for the second time in two days on the Vietnam situation.

At the State Department, spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said that the Hanoi forces striking into South Vietnam "are supported in a very large way by heavy military equipment from the Soviet Union."

At the Capitol, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he opposed any use of air power or U.S. combat troops to counter the new offensive.

As for the Viet Cong demand in Paris that the allies return to the peace talks Thursday, McCloskey backed South Vietnam's refusal to attempt a session at this time.

The United States is saying that negotiations cannot be held under the pressure of an enemy offensive. Both Moscow and Peking have been aiding Hanoi for years.

The Soviets are reported by U.S. intelligence to have shipped some $100 million worth of weapons to North Vietnam in 1971, up from $70 million the previous year.

McCloskey and the Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim underscored what they termed the new, conventional war tactic used by Hanoi in its push across the DMZ.

Friedheim estimated that of more than 30,000 Communist troops in the area, about one-half have crossed the buffer zone dividing the two Vietnams.

McCloskey termed the "invasion by North Vietnam" a flagrant violation of the 1954 Geneva conventions for Indochina's neutrality and of the 1968 peace talks "understanding" under which the United States ended sustained bombing of North Vietnam—an "understanding" which Hanoi never has acknowledged to exist.

May have verdict today 'Harrisburg 12' making progress

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A jury trying the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six others on kidnap-bomb conspiracy charges asked Tuesday for more time for deliberations, saying: "For the past two hours there has been progress made."

The foreman, Harold Sheets, told U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman, however, that he foresaw no verdict before Wednesday at the earliest.

He suggested that the jury be relieved of its duties for the day at 6 p.m., and the court agreed.

Nine women and three men on the jury reported Sunday that they were deadlocked on the key features of a government indictment charging Berrigan and six other antiwar activists with a plot to kidnap White House aide Henry Kissinger and blow up a government tunnel heating system in Washington, D.C., and vandalize draft boards in various states.

Herman directed at that time that they resume deliberations in an attempt to reach an overall verdict. The jury had found Berrigan guilty of a single count in the indictment of smuggling a letter out of the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

The defense objected on the spot to continuing the jury deliberations, and renewed its objections of Monday and Tuesday, charging the jury was "being coerced into a compromise verdict."

"Further forced deliberations by this jury would be prejudicial to the defendants," defense lawyer Thomas Menaker said in a formal handwritten motion, again asking that the jury be discharged.

Berrigan, 48, faces a maximum of 10 years in federal prison on the smuggling conviction, in addition to two years still remaining on a six-year sentence for destroying draft records in Maryland.

It was when he entered Lewisburg in 1970 to begin the current sentence that Berrigan fell in with another inmate, Boyd F. Douglas Jr., who was winding up a five-year term for bank fraud and assault on a government agent.

Enrolled in a study-release program at nearby Bucknell University, the 31-year-old Douglas was free to leave the prison daily. He became a mail courier for the militant priest but turned FBI informer and handed over to agents copies of letters between Berrigan and members of his antiwar movement on the outside.

The defense sought to convince the jury that Douglas seized upon random ideas advanced by the defendants and tried to fan them into actions that the FBI could label conspiratorial—in short, that the paid informer acted as "agent provocateur."

New ISA director takes over May 1

Iowa Student Agencies, Inc., (ISA) has hired a new general manager, Richard D. Chard, 20, 816 North Dubuque Street.

Chard will begin his duties as general manager of the student corporation May 1, when the resignation of Calvin S. Stowell, 2036 9th Street, Coralville, the present manager and a senior, takes effect.

Chard was manager of ISA's birthday cake sales this past year. ISA operates The Hulk tavern.

'Gifts' included two bird books?

Two books about birds are among the gifts a county supervisor allegedly received from salesmen trying to influence his votes on awarding county contracts.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Bennett Cullison, Jr., introduced evidence Tuesday that the L.L. Pelling Co. of Iowa City had paid $20.95 for bird books sent to Supervisor Ralph G. Prybil.

Prybil is on trial here on a charge that he received gifts and gratuities from area salesmen, an action forbidden by state law.

Cullison, who is presenting the state's case against Prybil, also introduced evidence showing that Prybil has dined several times at the expense of two Des Moines equipment companies.

During testimony Tuesday, the second day of Prybil's trial, Judge John L. Hyland indicated irritation with the slow pace of the trial.

He warned Cullison that his patience was wearing thin when the prosecutor requested that one witness be available for more testimony if desired.

Hyland said he has "no intention to drag this trial out indefinitely," but permitted the request.

Cullison said when testimony ended Tuesday afternoon that he would complete presentation of the state's case Wednesday morning.

Prybil was indicted on the gifts charge last December by a Johnson County Grand Jury. Seven other men, including four salesmen, a current supervisor, a former supervisor and an assistant county engineer, were also indicted on similar charges.

Propose more fee controls

By GUS VILLAGELIU
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
University of Iowa students will have a greater control of the allocation of the student activities fee if a report released Tuesday by the Student Development Center Council (SDC) is adopted, according to Walter J. Foley, director of the center.

The SDC report tentatively recommends the creation of three student funding boards, made up of representatives of those groups now being funded, to handle future allocations.

The $6.50 fee per student, collected every semester, will be divided among the three boards to fund student publications, college associations and a commission of Student Senate. The other $20 per student of the activities fee will continue to be used for the retirement of UI building bonds.

A final report will be presented to Vice Provost Phillip G. Hubbard in about two weeks after reactions to this tentative report have been studied, Foley said.

The vice provost will then present the final report to the UI Tuition and Fees Committee for presentation to the state Board of Regents at their meeting in May.

The three funding boards will be composed only of students, according to Foley.

Foley hopes that the present members of Student Publications, Inc. (SPI) board will become the nucleus of the new student publication funding board since they are experienced. That board will fund The Daily Iowan, The Hawkeye yearbook, the Iowa Law Review and the Iowa Transit.

Another board composed of representatives from UI college associations, including the newly formed Liberal Arts Student Association, will fund the Dramatic Arts Laboratory, Dance Theater, Alumni Association and college associations.

Finally, a Student Senate commission will replace senate's budgeting committee to handle senate's funds, along with allocations for the Lecture Series, Hawkeye Marching Band, Highlanders and the Student Infirmary.

A proposal to provide students individually with a choice of which activities to fund was considered but rejected because it was impractical. The report stated that individual students are not familiar enough with the "more than 100 organizations funded" to be able to assess their needs.

Foley added that this plan is being presented in good faith so that the boards will cooperate in increasing student input in allocations.

Panel reverses decision, oks nuclear power plant

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Construction of a controversial diffuser pipe system at the Quad Cities nuclear generating station at Cardova Ill., got the go-ahead Tuesday from the Iowa Conservation Commission, apparently clearing the way for operation of the facility.

The commission, like the Iowa Water Pollution Control Commission, reversed its previous decision and allowed the issuance of a permit for construction of the two pipes which will diffuse heated water from the plant into the Mississippi River.

After that, the diffusers will be used only on an emergency basis and in the event the primary system breaks down.

The diffusers will be in use until another cooling system for the plant is complete. Target date for the completion of the other cooling system is May 4, 1975.

The permit for construction of the diffuser at the Quad Cities Station, owned by Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric of Davenport and Commonwealth Edison of Chicago, was approved by the commission 4-1.

Part of the agreement between the commission and the firms calls for an advisory group of Iowa and Illinois officials to set guidelines under which the diffuser can be operated.

Commissioner Les Licklider of Cherokee, the only one to vote against the plan, said he had misgivings about it.

"I hope now that we can develop a guideline system where we're not going to see we have used the diffuser pipe to its fullest extent and were sorry that we have."

"We're going to have to draw the guidelines now and I know myself I am not capable and I hope our staff and universities can work together and come up with safeguards for the public," Licklider said.

The decision of the firms to construct the closed-cooling system was announced last week by Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

Scott, the Izaak Walton League and the United Auto workers had filed suit in federal court in Washington to enjoin the Atomic Energy Commission from allowing the plant to begin operation while the diffuser-pipe cooling system was part of the plans.

UI J-school director says he wants to quit

The controversial director of the University of Iowa School of Journalism has asked to be relieved of his position no later than August 1973.

The announcement of Malcolm S. MacLean Jr.'s decision to step down from the directorship was made Tuesday at a special meeting of the journalism school faculty. Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, announced MacLean's decision.

MacLean has been director of the School of Journalism since September 1967. As director, MacLean instituted a revolutionary undergraduate program—one which has been the source of frequent criticism by some faculty members in the school and Iowa journalists.

MacLean—who is in Ohio attending a workshop—was not present at Tuesday's faculty meeting. He told The Daily Iowan that when he accepted the directorship, he had no intentions of making it a "permanent position."

He explained that he only wished to try out some ideas for a new journalism program and then retire from the position once the program was in operation.

MacLean hopes to return to full-time teaching in the UI school. Before becoming director, he was the holder of the Gallup Chair professorship in the school.

The friction between MacLean and some members of the journalism school faculty has had a definite effect on the timing of his decision to resign, MacLean said.

He originally planned only a short term as director. "If some of the faculty had made less of a thing about it (new undergraduate program), we could have developed the program further," MacLean said. "But they felt they had to do it, and they did. It has actually prolonged my stay."

Although no candidates for MacLean's job have been considered, Assoc. Prof. Albert D. Talbot, assistant director of the school, said a successor would most likely be one who could "live with the kind of philosophy of the program we've developed."

Stuit said he requested names of possible successors from journalism faculty members, members of the school's advisory board and from several other journalism schools.

'Freedom March' planned to aid variety of projects

In an effort to raise money to combat disease, hunger and illiteracy, Iowa City area residents will slip into their hiking shoes for a 25 mile "Freedom March" May 7.

The march, similar to last year's Walk For Development, is being held to raise money for two international projects, the Ship Hope, a hospital and medical training ship, and the Africa Fund, an independent voluntary organization which offers medical, legal and educational aid to Africans.

Money will also go to help sponsor the Iowa City Free Medical Clinic and for funding pre-school education for children of Muscatine migrant workers.

Marchers will obtain donations from persons in the form of promises to pay marchers a certain amount for every mile they walk. The march route will be through Iowa City and Coralville, beginning and ending at the Union.

March planners are also asking for donations of food and beverages for the walkers, help with transportation, and volunteers to man checkpoints.

Last year's Walk For Development, held in May, raised $15,000.

away and up Up

Get your rolls of string ready. An all-university kite flying contest will be sponsored by the University of Iowa Recreation Society through the intramural program.

The contest has tentatively been set for Sunday, April 16 at 2 p.m., near the Recreation Center.

Participants will compete in three classes, according to Marilyn A. Altmaier, 21, 613 East College, kite contest chairwoman.

According to Ms. Altmaier, the classes are parent and child, organizations and an independent class for individuals who "just want to fly their kites."

Kites will be judged on size and originality, with preference for home-made kites. Ribbons will be awarded to the best flying kite, and the best looking one in each class.

Other ribbons will be awarded to the best over-all kite, the largest one, the smallest and the most colorful. A booby prize will be awarded for the largest kits that fails to get off the ground.

The 45-member recreation society is a student organization made up of recreation majors who organize service projects and recreation events open to all university students.

Electronic war

WASHINGTON, D.C. (PNS)—Electronic sensors and related automatic weapons do not bleed, die, frag their officers, become addicts, protest, or write revealing letters home. Throughout Indochina, they have come to comprise a new kind of military might that is at once awesome and indiscriminate. "All that we know," said one U.S. Special Forces member, "is that something is out there. It could be wind, an elephant, or an enemy soldier. We really have almost no idea what we are shooting at."

Senator William Proxmire (D-Wis.) put it even more succinctly: "The sensors cannot tell the difference between soldiers, women, or children... Whole villages may be wiped out by seeding wide areas with airdropped explosive devices designed to kill anyone who ventures into their neighborhood."

Yet tens of thousands of these mini-bugging devices have been dropped throughout Southeast Asia as part of the Air Force's operation Igloo White over the Ho Chi Minh Trail. The operation was described by Brigadier General William John Evans (Special Assistant for Sensor Exploitation, Air Force) as "...entirely air supported; it involves no ground forces." Senator Proxmire has called the effort a "seismic and acoustical Christmas tree."

When the sensors are activated by either seismic or acoustic disturbance, they transmit radio signals to a relay platform (usually an EC-211R) that flies overhead 24 hours a day. In case N.L.F. or North Vietnamese soldiers walk too quietly in a bugged area, the Pentagon has purchased millions of "button bombs," disguised as animal droppings, that snap, crackle, and pop if they are walked on. In the relay aircraft the data is processed by computer. Although it is possible to analyze the data on board and call in an air strike directly, the information is usually relayed to the Air Force's Infiltration Surveillance Center in Nakhon Phanom, Thailand.

There, in Thailand, the Air Force's huge I.B.M. 360-65 computer stores previously gathered intelligence in data banks. When new information comes into the Center, the activation patterns of the sensors in the field are immediately reproduced by high-speed printout. Up-dated target sketches of the area in which the sensors have been placed can also be called up on a TV screen and mixed with the new information. In a matter of seconds after sensor activation, analysts can watch the movement of men, bicycles, or trucks on a screen as they move down a trail. Computers determine their numbers, speed, and position regardless of weather, foliage, or time of day.

The Thai computer "nerve center" (which cost $625 million to operate during 1969-70) relays strike orders to B-52's, gunships, or fighter-bombers at their bases in Thailand, Viet Nam, or on the carriers of the 7th Fleet. According to one Air Force officer, "We wired the Ho Chi Minh Trail like a drugstore pinball machine and we plug it in every night."

The strike orders that are relayed to attack aircraft are fed into their on-board computers. This programming enables them to fly directly to the target with no need for further navigation. In fact, the pilot need not ever see the target or the ground. If it is night-time or overcast, the computers make an automatic release of weapons at the proper moment. As General Evans explained, "Using area-type ordnance (antipersonnel and fragmentation bombs), excellent results have been attained with this blind-bombing method."

An Agence France Presse correspondent who recently journeyed down the Ho Chi Minh Trail described these "excellent results." "On each side of the road," he reported, "there are heaps of scrap metal, pieces of aircraft, the containers of anti-personnel bombs, empty munitions casings, 37 mm. cannon shells, detonated antipersonnel mines... At certain points, it is impossible to walk on the sides of the roads. You sink up to your knees in an impalpable dust, the earth having become dust under the impact of the bombs and incendiary weapons... When the monsoon comes, that dust turns to mud and slides onto the roads... Nothing lives in this dust, not even crickets. Only man is resisting it."

The Army, not to be outdone by the Air Force, has developed its own electronic battlefield. The ADSAF (Automatic Data System to the Army in the Field) was described by Brigadier General Wilson R. Reed in an article called "Battlefield Data Automation," as "an integrated battlefield control system that will tie electronically the sensors to the reaction means—the 'beep' to the 'boom,' as it were—and leave the soldiers free to do what they do best: think, coordinate, control. The potential seems limitless."

I feel much better morally now that President Nixon's pulled our troops out of front-line action . . . BOMBS AWAY!

The Army has developed myriad other subsystems like STANO (Surveillance, Target Acquisition, and Night Observation) billed as the Army's "find the enemy" program, and TACFIRE (Tactical Fire Direction System) to link computers with artillery. The list of abbreviations goes on. All of them appear to be part of the Army's fantasy-land projection called I.B.C.S. (Integrated Battlefield Control System).

The new sensors and sighting devices are only half of the electronic battlefield. Once hostile forces are thought to have been detected, it is necessary to kill them. Recognition of this fact led the military into a new weapons development program. From 1967-1971, well over half a billion dollars was budgeted for those sensor-related munitions.

Hundreds of thousands of these weapons in all sizes and shapes have been "sown" across large areas of Laos, Cambodia, and Viet Nam. For instance, at a cost of $86.3 million, the military development WAAPM clusterbomb unit. The WAAPM consists of a large "mother bomb" canister that contains hundreds of smaller pellet bombs. It is designed to puncture humans, often through the intestinal wall, making wounds that are very difficult to correct even with surgery.

The BLU-31 land mine is also dropped from aircraft. It weighs 750 pounds and digs itself into the ground on impact so that it cannot be seen. It will not explode until some "heavy target" passes within its range.

This list of weapons is almost endless: the Gravel, described as an antipersonnel mine that looks like an oversized tea bag;

the BLU-52 chemical bomb, described as a "standard firebomb case...filled with 270 pounds of C.S.-2 riot control agent," used to flush people out of caves and bunkers where they can be strafed by gunships; the Grasshopper, an antipersonnel and antivehicular bomb under development.

Then there is the whole new line of "Smart Bombs," which are conventional 750-, 1000- and 2000-pound bombs with laser guidance systems or TV nose cameras fastened to them. These Smart Bombs have been developed by the U.S. in response to a situation in which almost all life in Laos and North Viet Nam has moved deep into limestone caves in surrounding mountainsides to escape the ceaseless bombing.

With such an electronic battlefield, the war in Indochina will be able to continue long after the last U.S. soldier dies and the last American leaves Viet Nam. Sensors will continue to feed data to the fighter-bombers and B-52's that will rain destruction down on the silent land below. Aircraft will take off without publicity or fanfare from U.S. bases in Thailand and the 7th fleet in the South China Sea to wage an ultimately depersonalized war of electronic machines against men. The strategy is simple, if unspoken in public, either in Washington or Saigon. Withdrawal will mean the end of death for Americans, but not for the Indochinese. Nixon's withdrawal has turned out to be what Colonel David Hackworth, the most decorated U.S. officer on active duty, has called "a public relations man's dream."

by Orville Schell
Orville Schell, editor of Pacific News Service, has in the past covered the war from Viet Nam. His articles have appeared in Saturday Review, The Nation, The New Republic, and other publications. His latest article, "Silent Viet Nam," appeared in Look. He is also author of The China Reader (Random House) and China, The Revolutionary Experiment (Alfred Knopf).

prices for consumers and higher profits for the industry. It holds regardless of whether the industry is oil, heroin or dairy products.

Just because the effect of drug laws is the same as the effect of depletion allowances or textile quotas doesn't necessarily mean that the process, lobbying, that gave us the latter also is responsible for the former, but it is easy to believe that drug laws are the effect of lobbying then of ill-informed politician lawmakers. Besides, the idea that Harry Anslinger is a lobbyist for organized crime has a certain appeal to it.

Dave Helland

Helland's law for lobbying

If I were Jack Anderson I could probably produce stolen memos to prove that organized crime has a strong lobby in not only our nation's capital but also in most of the state capitals. But since I'm not Jack Anderson I have to depend on circumstantial evidence. Of course, such evidence isn't too bad. The prosecution in the Angela Davis trial has admitted that circumstantial evidence is what they are basing their case on and if it's good enough for them it's good enough for me.

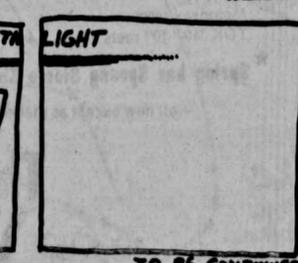

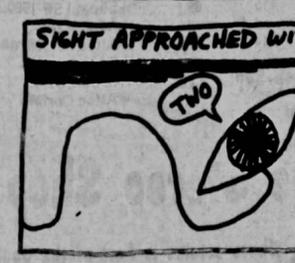

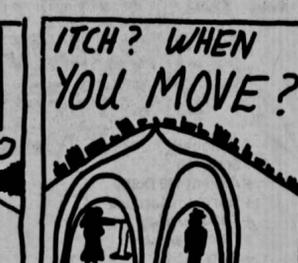

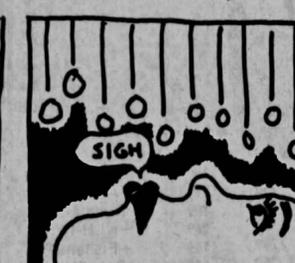

Organized crime must have a lobby, how else do you explain the federal and state drug laws. They don't control the use of narcotics, hallucinogens, and psychodetics they only forbid their use. The result if a very profitable blackmarket in such substances. Why else would lawmakers make such laws if it is not because some smooth talking lobbyist with plenty of statistics and an expense account has persuaded hundreds of law makers that it is in the interest of big business, i.e. the M++++, to have drugs outlawed?

Compare this with the actions of oil lobbyists. They persuade congress that the nation needs a 27.5 percent oil depletion allowance and that the unlimited import of foreign oil would have grave consequences for the nation's defense posture, etc. The result is high priced petroleum products and profits for the owners of oil companies.

Thus comes Helland's Law of Industrial Lobbying. The effect of a successful lobby is higher

WHY COMMUNISTS USE YOUTH

There are several hundred organizations within America plotting and working for the overthrow of our governmental, economic and social systems. Although World Communism's revolutionary strategy from the beginning was to radicalize industrial workers (the proletariat) under so-called "intellectual" leadership, international Communist tacticians have learned that in the more advanced nations youth of all classes are the easiest to reach, the easiest to seduce ideologically, the easiest to incite with propaganda and violence, and the easiest to convert into revolutionary shock troops.

In the U.S.A. and in other "advanced" countries youth has provided the manpower and the revolutionary fervor for Communist manipulation. Today in America the most powerful "thing" the Communists have going for them are young "intellectuals" in college and just out of college whose dedication to creation of a new (Communist) world is deep-seated and who are fiercely committed to whatever violent action is required. There are many thousands of these.

"Old Heads" Rule

Youth now predominates in all the secret meetings of the comrades, in all the marching parades, and wherever violence is plotted and activated as a Communist tactic. But there is always present, to keep the overall strategy clear and make the major decisions, "old heads" of the Communist international conspiracy. Sometimes these are college professors, sometimes persons from the deep underground unknown to the public.

A year ago we made a nationwide survey of governmental and police authorities to assess whatever shifts were being made in Communist strategy in the U.S. We were told then that the revolutionary power to be most feared resided in the youth "movement" in America. We were told by the subversive activities chiefs of police departments in New York, Washington, Los Angeles and San Francisco that the veteran revolutionaries such as the Black Panthers' Bobby Seale, Huey

Newton and Eldridge Cleaver, as well as Henry Winston and Herbert Aptheker of the Communist Party USA could not raise a threatening crowd for any kind of anti-social or anti-system mischief without the manpower aid of the revolutionary youth "movement."

American "Proletariat" Resists
Our current investigations lead to the conclusion that the Communist "old heads" who are calling the shots on strategy within the U.S. have about given up on inciting revolution among America's blue-collar workers and are committed to expand their work among youth; while agitating and seeking to integrate into the "movement" the Negroes, the Mexican-American, the Puerto Ricans, the American Indians and other "minority groups." They are using at least 300 separate organizations in their conspiratorial apparatus. In this series of columns we will report on plans and activities of some of the major subversive groups.

The Communist Party USA, an adjunct of the ruling Soviet Communist Party, has its hands in activities of every revolutionary group in the country. The Socialist Workers Party and its youth section, the Young Socialist Alliance, representing the Trotsky brand of Communism, also have a hand in revolutionary group planning and activities. When the chips are down, these two appear to be, on the basis of published reports, the most influential guidance forces working for the destruction of the American system. And when their masters in Moscow and Peking are ready to strike at the heart of America, they probably will be working together, although on the surface today they are constantly squabbling with each other like China's Mao and Russia's Brezhnev.

The Major Ones

In recent years in America, the most important organization for both Soviet and Chinese Communism has been the "peace" movement lead by David Dellinger, who has described himself as a "non-Soviet Communist" but who has been identified in most of the press merely as a "pacifist" leader. Dellinger's "Mobilization for Peace" outfit has been able, with Communist and non-Communist backing, to mobilize as many as 500,000 people in Washington and at time virtually monopolize television newscasts and other media. When a year ago the Communist domination of the "peace" demonstrations began to be widely recognized the Reds who pulled the strings decreed dissolution of the old "peace" apparatus and formation of a new one. The "National Peace Action Coalition" was formed, and out of this grew the "Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice." NPAC centers its activities on U.S. unconditional withdrawal from Vietnam, while PCPJ works that field as well as others.

LETTERS

Monitor plan: "trap"

To the editor:
Once again the call has gone out for faculty and staff to serve as "monitors" for the University Campus Security Committee. The letter, sent to all faculty and staff, describes the duties of "monitors" as follows:

1. Being a "presence" at strategic points when a confrontation appears probable.
2. Communications, including "rapping" with receptive groups of demonstrators off and on campus, including dormitories.
3. Helping to cool situations by quietly encouraging clusters of people (especially onlookers) to return to residences.
4. Neutral observation; i.e., as witnesses of events "not as informants against individuals."

We urge faculty and staff to refuse to participate in this program for several reasons. First of all, the inconsistency in the charge to "monitors" seems obvious. One cannot be a "neutral observer" while at the same time encouraging demonstrators to return to their residences. Despite the statement in point 4 of the letter, it seems likely that such a program could easily be used to compile evidence against persons accused of breaking rules. There is nothing to prevent "monitors" who observe a demonstration from being subpoenaed at subsequent hearings to report what they saw.

The letter calling for "monitors" also implicitly assumes that demonstrations are inherently negative by suggesting that the monitors should encourage people not to demonstrate. In the case of an anti-war demonstration, such a position will place the monitors on the side of those who support President Nixon's education in the true sense of the word. Let those responsible for the management of the students do their own police work. Let us not be misled to think that the request from the University Campus Security Committee is anything else but police work. If you wish to be a "presence" or "rap" with students this Spring, do it on your own terms and not as an agent of campus security.

Opinion survey shows Muskie is top pick of college students

While Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., may be picking up support for the Democratic presidential nomination among party members, he hasn't begun to attract much backing from the party's college students.

Less than 8 per cent of the 2,580 college Democrats interviewed by the Iowa Opinion Research Bureau (IORB)—a University of Iowa based polling organization—at 17 campuses in 15 states say they prefer Humphrey, the party's 1968 standard-bearer, for the nomination.

Overall, college support is going to the more liberal wing of the Democratic party, although Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, leads all candidates with 28 per cent of registered Democratic students backing him.

The IORB data shows liberal Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., running just behind Muskie. McGovern is preferred by nearly 24 per cent of the respondents, while Mayor John Lindsay (9.9 per cent) and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy (7.9 per cent) also have a sizeable portion of college support. New York's black congresswoman Shirley Chisholm attracted over 5 per cent in the poll.

McGovern, Lindsay, McCarthy and Ms. Chisholm have all been basing their bids primarily on appeals to the Democrats' liberal sect, which includes many students and minorities.

Here is the question asked and percentage response of registered Democrat students replying to the IORB poll:

"Which of the following candidates would you like to see selected as the Democratic nominee for the 1972 presidential election?"

Muskie	28.3
McGovern	23.9
Lindsay	9.9
McCarthy	7.9
Humphrey	7.5
Chisholm	5.4
Sen. Henry Jackson	3.9
Sam Yorty	1.4
Others	2.7
No preference	3.6
Don't know	5.6
Total per cent	100.0

Alabama Gov. George Wallace, winner in the recent Florida presidential primary, was not included in the polling, which was done prior to the nation's primaries.

Humphrey lagged behind the rest of the Democratic field on each campus, with his best finish—second—coming far behind Muskie and just ahead of Lindsay at Louisiana State University. Even there, the Minnesota senator mustered just 15 per cent of the students' preferences.

On the other hand, front-runner Muskie consistently got over 20 per cent—and as high as 39 per cent (at the University of South Carolina)—of student Democratic support. Muskie was top choice on all but six of the 17 campuses, and his weakest showing—11 per cent—at Washington State University, evidently came only because homestate Sen. Henry Jackson got a healthy portion of support that might otherwise go to the Maine senator.

McGovern, a front-runner on the campuses where Muskie isn't, suffered the worst showings where his other liberal opponents—Lindsay, McCarthy and Chisholm—had pockets of strength substantially higher than their national percentages.

For example, McGovern's support slips to under 19 per cent at Kent State University, but Lindsay (17 per cent) and Chisholm (8 per cent) make better than average showings among the Democratic students there.

The South Dakota senator has built up organizations on many of the nation's campuses. That may be one reason why McGovern fares so much better than the rest of the field on the 17 campuses where IORB conducted interviewing.

For instance, McGovern spent several days campaigning in Iowa before January Democratic caucuses were held. That resulted in strong leads over Muskie and the rest of the field at the University of Iowa and the University of Northern Iowa.

Proposes 19-point program Urge new anti-VD plan

Ponder
Dr. Merlin K. Duval, top health official in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, ponders the problems of venereal disease Tuesday at a news conference after recommending a program for VD control in the U.S. AP Wirephoto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Commission on Venereal Disease said Tuesday the government's stepped-up campaign against gonorrhea and syphilis is not enough to control what it called an epidemic striking 2.5 million Americans each year.

After a year of study, the advisory panel of 16 physicians and one osteopath recommended federal spending of $296 million over the next five years for VD control.

Specifically, it proposed a 19-point program including VD instruction down to the seventh grade in public and private schools, more research and a search for vaccines, and restored VD courses in the curriculum of medical schools.

In the fiscal year starting July 1, the commission urged that federal spending be boosted to $46.1 million compared with the $31 million President Nixon has requested.

But Dr. Merlin K. DuVal, assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said the administration request represents a 250 per cent increase over two years and questioned whether more money could be spent effectively.

Noting a historic rise in gonorrhea and a 20-year high in reported infectious syphilis cases, the commission blamed the outbreak on public and medical complacency following the introduction of penicillin in the early 1950s.

Dr. Bruce P. Webster, Cornell University professor emeritus who headed the study, said the recent breakthrough in developing the vaccine against meningitis "gives stimulus and hope that such a possibility is available" for gonorrhea. Officials from the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said, however, that it takes 7 to 10 years to institute a new vaccination program.

Untreated syphilis can lead to brain damage and blindness, and be passed on by an expectant mother to her child. Gonorrhea may cause sterility, blood infections and arthritis.

Applications for the following paid Daily Iowan editorial staff positions are now being taken:

- 1) MANAGING EDITOR — The general organizer and overseer of newsroom operations. Make-up, layout, format policy decisions and editing responsibilities. Should be capable of plugging self into a variety of differing positions but primarily the key cog in day-to-day operations of paper.
- 2) UNIVERSITY EDITOR — Assignment, scheduling of all university-oriented news coverage. Editing of all such copy. Knowledge of university structure and reliable news sources is necessary. Must be able to recruit, to deal with and to help train reporters of varying proficiency.
- 3) CITY-COUNTY EDITOR — Same general responsibilities as U-editor, but in realm of Iowa City and Johnson County. Ability to communicate freely despite age and/or political differentials with newsmakers helpful. General knowledge and interest in issues like urban renewal, local elections helpful, too.
- 4) OPINION EDITOR — Responsible for day-to-day editorial page content and makeup. Must be able to work in advance in format-oriented manner, seeking variety of different opinions and recruiting variety of writers. Socio-political views may represent any ideology, but must realize concept of fair play. Knowledge of political issues, implications helpful.
- 5) FEATURE EDITOR — Assignment, editing of feature stories. Overseeing of daily entertainment-fine arts copy and coordination of calendar of all types of events for people to do (going beyond Campus Notes). Must be able to blend personality, originality and experimentation into a lively section. Make-up responsibilities.
- 6) ENTERTAINMENT-FINE ARTS EDITOR(S) — Production of daily TV-film-radio-records-music-pop culture copy, with recruitment of specialist contributors. Also, production of fine arts (drama, music, art, dance, etc.) materials. Knowledge of subject areas and/or organizational ability to recruit "experts" essential. Must be able to help feature editor and to compile calendar of events. Job may be split into two persons.
- 7) SPORTS EDITOR — Production of daily sports section. Handling of local, area, state, national sports copy, with editing of all sports-oriented copy. Make-up skills, editing abilities necessary. Must be willing to create lively sports section with a "personality." Familiarity with players, coaches, etc. helpful. Associate position probably will also be filled.
- 8) PHOTO DIRECTOR — Knowledge or photojournalism techniques and technical photographic (darkroom, offset printing methods) abilities. Inventory management abilities helpful. Assignment of all photographers and editing of photos for publication.
- 9) ART DIRECTOR — Interest and ability in political-feature cartooning and artwork. Work on special layouts for feature editors, advisory role in make-up and general design.
- 10) SURVIVAL SERVICES DIRECTOR — New position to coordinate present Survival Line services with other "survival" features on housing, consumerism, food, etc. Knowledge of laws, techniques in cutting red tape and getting results very helpful. Should be capable of producing series on housing, etc. or knowing how to get them done. Must be willing to coordinate this position with present Survival Line and relevant journalism core workshops.

Absolutely no positions have yet been filled, and all applicants MUST submit (1) application available from Daily Iowan Business Office, 111 Communications Center, (2) stringbook of some previous articles or relevant material, (3) times at which they would be available for a personal interview. Letters of recommendation not required but very helpful. Also, a short, 1 - 3 page outline of innovative ideas, suggestions for position is strongly suggested.

All complete applications are due in 111 Communications Center by 5 p.m., Monday, April 17. Selections will be announced approximately May 1. Positions begin August 27 for the fall semester.

SUMMER POSITIONS, which are full time for 8 weeks and relatively good-paying, are open for Managing Editor—University-City Editor—Feature Entertainment Fine Arts Editor—Sports Editor. Similar application procedures apply, with the same deadline. SUMMER JOBS ARE FROM JUNE 4 TO JULY 27.

Please note: Listed positions for summer and fall may be deleted or amended, and differing positions may be created, depending on the people applying and the paper's needs. Since a newspaper is made of people, not positions, interest in a position not mentioned above should not stop someone from applying. Staff positions are flexible. Persons who can qualify for the work-study program, for instance, and have experience or interest in journalism are encouraged to file an application.

Refocus '72: Directions in Imagery

"New Directions in American Imagery" will be the theme of Refocus '72, the Midwest's largest film and still photography festival, to be held at the University of Iowa April 14 to 23 for the eighth year.

Sponsored by the Union Board, the week-long program will bring leading photographers and filmmakers to Iowa City to participate in critical discussions and evaluate films and photographs done by independent artists and students from UI and other schools.

Still photography, feature movies, videotape productions and student films, as well as several outstanding guest speakers, highlight the week.

Refocus will open with an 8mm and super-8mm film contest, with screenings of the winning films. A first prize of $50 and five $25 second prizes will be awarded. The competition as well as other media exhibitions are open to anyone.

Persons interested in contributing should contact Ray Kril, Refocus faculty adviser at the Union.

Peter Bunnell, photography curator for the Museum of Modern Art, New York City, and Gene Youngblood, filmmaker and author of "Expanded Cinema," will be the main speakers. All lectures are free.

The National Student Photography exhibit, featuring work submitted by schools across the country, will open April 15 in the Museum of Art. UI student photographs will be displayed in the Union.

More than 30 feature-length films will be shown, including Norman Mailer's "Maidstone" and films from independent film companies such as New Line Cinema and Genesis IV.

Admission will be free to most of the films.

The American Federation of Film Societies (AFFS) regional screening, "Cinema for the '70s—The Political New Wave," Kril.

Reject Miller proposal

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball owners, having rejected a proposal by striking major league players, were meeting Tuesday.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, proposed a settlement to the current strike but was rebuffed by the owners.

Miller asked that a 17 per cent increase sought by the players in their pension fund come from increased interest in the pension fund but the owners turned it down flatly.

John Gaherin, negotiating for the owners, called Miller's offer "imprudent."

In making his proposal, Miller said it wouldn't cost the owners any additional money.

After being informed of the rejection by the owners, Miller said he would tell the players that the owners are insistent that the players "bend down and kiss the shoes of the owners. The owners have now taken full responsibility for prolonging the strike right into the season."

Meanwhile, the owners will gather their forces in a meeting at a Chicago airport hotel Tuesday night. Their ultimate decision could be a major factor in the strike.

The owners wasted little time in turning down Miller's proposal for a settlement.

August A. Busch Jr., owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, said he doesn't like Miller's proposal. "I wouldn't think of accepting it," he said.

Charles Finley, owner of the Oakland A's, said "I'm tired of the players' requests and threats. They've got the best pension in sports or industry." Originally, the players demanded that a sum of $817,000 in surplus money be freed toward the pension fund. The owners have refused to release the sum on the grounds that it would be impractical.

Reds' opener cancelled

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, seeing no sign of a break in the major league baseball player strike, postponed Tuesday their 1972 National League opening game against the Houston Astros.

More than 51,000 fans had been expected Wednesday afternoon for what always had been a noisy, gala event.

Even the most avid fan appeared to realize postponement was in the cards. There was little reaction to the announcement by Francis L. Dale, the Reds' president.

No one would venture an estimate of the losses to the Reds, to the players or to concessionaires. Dale said the club itself was "willing" to take its share in withered gate receipts. Pitcher Jim Merritt, Reds' player representative, said Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, would be in Cincinnati Tuesday night for a meeting with the Reds' players.

The Reds' front office said date and details of an opening game would be announced after the strike ends. Under the original schedule Cincinnati would have been on the road after Wednesday's opener until April 10.

No decision was announced on the tickets held by fans for the season opener.

Most teams ever to play IM softball

By BOB DENNEY

Daily Iowan Sports Writer
The largest number of softball teams ever to participate in the intramural leagues will get their first chance to compete this weekend—providing the weatherman cooperates.

The Intramural and Recreation Department announced Tuesday that a record 150 teams will begin action this Saturday and will continue league play for three weeks. The All-University play-offs begin May 8. The large number of softball teams includes 25 Co-ed, 25 fast-pitch, and 100 slow-pitch outfits.

The Intramural Department also disclosed that point totals for All-University standings will only be tallied from the teams participating in the slow-pitch league.

"We were receiving complaints from players in the slow-pitch league last year that point totals should not include the small number of teams that are in fast-pitch," said Warren Slebos, Director of Intramurals, "so we will have champions in all leagues, but giving the large number of slow-pitch teams the chance to accumulate point totals."

The scheduling of games will pit most slow-pitch teams on the weekdays: Monday through Thursday, with only six slow-pitch teams falling into action on Sunday. Fast-pitch games will be held on Sundays. All co-ed teams will be scheduled for Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays.

"There will be about twelve games per day," Slebos added, "with about thirty games being crowded into the Sunday competition."

This is the first year that the softball teams will be rated, and the top competitors will be classified in two lists: a fast-pitch and slow-pitch elite group.

Canoe House Opening
The Division of Recreational Services will open the Canoe House Friday for recreational use. The facility will be available to university students, faculty, staff, and their families.

University identification is required for checking out canoes and all identification will be kept until the safe return of both canoe and equipment.

The Canoe House is located on the west bank of the Iowa River near the Hancher Auditorium foot bridge and will be open from 4:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 1:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

A fee of $1.00 per hour per canoe will be charged, with a maximum charge of $4.00 a day. Individuals interested in checking out canoes for more than one day should call The Division of Recreational Services, (353-3494), Mr. Delbert Gehrke, the Coordinator of Recreation.

Fishing Derby
The second annual Fishing Derby will be held April 4-14 as announced by the Division of Recreational Services. There will be competition in the Northern Pike, Walleye, and Catfish division.

Awards will be given by John Wilson Sporting Goods for the largest fish caught in each division. A gift certificate of $10.00 for fishing equipment redeemable at John Wilson Sporting Goods will be given for first place winners in each category. The contest is open to students, staff, faculty members and their families.

Should individuals from organizations place in the divisions, the organization will be awarded All Year Points on the following basis: First place 10 points; second, five; third, three; and fourth, one point.

Bowling
Competition is underway in the All-University Bowling championship, as 14 teams began competition Tuesday with the final match scheduled for April 18.

This week is also the beginning of the All-University volleyball playoffs with competition continuing for one and one-half weeks before an All-University champ is crowned.

Carver's dedication sets example

By KEITH GILLETT
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa fans on Sept. 23 of this year will be watching with a little more interest the Hawkeyes in their home opener with Oregon State.

The occasion that afternoon will be the first football game ever played in the state of Iowa on an artificial surface.

This afternoon will probably mean a lot to the coaches and players but it will have special meaning to Muscatine's Roy Carver. It was his gift to the University that made the whole thing possible.

His explanation for his donation of $3.5 million in Bandag, Inc. stock in November of last year is quite simple.

"I felt that these guys needed a real shot in the arm, especially after that disastrous affair with Ray Nagel and the kick in the backside from the legislature.

"I wanted some positive thinking toward the University so that people would not think of it as their enemy. I thought my gift might encourage people to give while they are living and not after they die.

"It's silly when you sit back and think about it. You should get pleasure from your wealth while you are living."

Apparently Carver's spirit is giving is beginning to catch on. According to Darrell Wyrick, UI foundation director, the number of gifts to the University have increased.

"The climate for substantial support of the University for major gifts has been enhanced by the Carver example. We now find many people interested in doing these things. Many more people are now considering that gifts can do good things for a school."

Wyrick says that total gifts since and including the Carver grant exceed $6.1 million with the Carver grant figures at $3.5 million. (Since November the Carver grant has increased in value to more than $5 million.)

Although the large grant covered many areas of need for the UI, after talking to Carver for awhile it is apparent that his support is with the athletic department.

"I guess you can put me down as a dyed in the wool type of fan, the kind that doesn't give up through thick and thin."

One of the things that has been fondly discussed for several years by Iowa athletic officials is a new basketball arena similar to ones now in use at Indiana, Illinois and Purdue.

Carver has indicated he would help finance such a project but it will not be a reality for a few more years.

"I know there has been some talk about this, but some time has got to pass before there can be serious talk on it. First we've got to get (Dick) Schultz on his feet in basketball.

"I think the guys that will put in together are just around the corner. With a more successful program will come better facilities. I think a new arena is in the cards but it will have to wait for the right psychological moment."

This past year Carver spent his spare time helping both Schultz and Head Football Coach Frank Lauterbur recruit players.

His executive Lear jet has flown Iowa coaches to all corners of the United States in quest of blue chip high school prospects, and both coaches say that Carver has been a tremendous help for recruiting.

This is not the first time that the Iowa athletic department has made use of transportation furnished by Carver.

"I got interested in Pops Harrison who was the basketball coach at the time and I used to haul the team in my plane. I've had a little more time lately to help the University," said Carver.

It was back in the early 1950s, that Carver began flying the basketball team around and it may have been the first time that Iowa athletic teams made use of air travel.

And when he says fly, Carver means it. He has been a pilot since the early 1940s and personally pilots the Lear jet on some trips.

Iowa's football team may not win the Big Ten title next season but if sheer enthusiasm could win games, Iowa, with Carver's support would probably go undefeated.

He would like that and his forecasts may be more optimistic than realistic.

"I think we're going to keep up the old fight for the University. It's going to go on and on and on..."

With boosters like Roy Carver...it just may.

Roy Carver

Cavs in NBA playoffs?

J.J. says maybe next time

By BERNIE OWENS
Associate Sports Editor

The Milwaukee Bucks meet the Los Angeles Lakers and the Knicks from New York battle the Cleveland Cavaliers tonight in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bucks and Lakers, perennial NBA powers, are deadlocked in a 1-1 tie in their best-of-seven series.

The Cavaliers, however, are the story of the NBA playoffs. Cleveland, under Coach Bill Fitch and led by former Iowa All-American John Johnson, has risen in two years from league patsie to what looks to be a serious bid for the NBA championship.

Hold it, you say, the Cavaliers aren't in the money for the NBA playoffs. You're right, Cleveland finished dead last in its division this year.

But, according to John Johnson (who actually is the Cav's star), a trade for a strong forward and one other good deal could put Cleveland right into the division title picture.

John was in Iowa City Tuesday afternoon with his wife, Marca, visiting friends on his way to Des Moines to see inlaws.

John Johnson

Two years ago the 6-foot-7 Johnson (or J.J.) was the Hawkeyes' most valuable player on Ralph Miller's 14-0 Big Ten champions.

Since then John has been playing with Cleveland and a member of the NBA All-Star team the last two years. This year he averaged 17 points, eight rebounds and five assists.

Cavs still young

"We still have a young ball club and haven't had much time to play together. In quite a few games I was the only guy starting from the first five of a year ago," John said.

"But, with a trade for a forward and possibly another good move we could be in the playoffs next year. Our division isn't the strongest in the league with Atlanta, Cincinnati and us."

"Actually we played quite a bit better this year," John said. "There weren't any runaways. Our problem though, was losing the close games."

"The whole season was set in our first three games. Two were in overtime and we lost both, one on a last second shot.

"Another time," John continued, "we led the Celtics (Boston) by 12 points for the first three quarters and lost in the fourth quarter. The important thing was that we were in all games and most went down to the wire."

Acapulco bound

"I was pleased with my play this year but after the All-Star break the season really turned into a job.

"Right now," John said grinning, "I'm unemployed and just relaxing. I'm due for a vacation—some place like Acapulco."

After visiting with Coach Dick Schultz, Iowa teammate Glenn Vidnovic and others, John took off for Des Moines last night. He then plans to stop a few days at his home in Milwaukee before returning to Cleveland.

J.J. isn't sure about what he's going to do for the summer.

"One thing I have to do is find a job and I'd like to finish school here this summer. I checked with some people in the registrar's office and I should be able to get my degree in August," John said.

Fred Brown etc.

Another of Johnson's teammates from the Big Ten championship team, Fred Brown, was a rookie with the Seattle Super-Sonics this year.

"Seattle has a couple of good guards," said John, "but from what I could see Fred should have played a great deal more than he did. In fact, Fred hardly played at all. He will play though and should have a good NBA career."

The Cavaliers aren't in the playoffs but NBA powers like Milwaukee, Los Angeles, New York and Boston still have a shot at the championship.

"The Lakers are the team I'd pick to win it all," said John. "They'll have a tough time with Milwaukee in the semifinals but they should beat the Bucks. One thing in the Lakers' favor is the home court advantage."

"Any of the teams L.A. plays in the finals will be at a disadvantage when they come up against Dipper (Wilt Chamberlain). He'll just wear down their center."

John also had an opinion on the current Major league baseball strike.

"The players deserve all they can get," J.J. commented. "Athletic careers are all too short and they can be even shorter with a serious injury."

Johnson then mentioned one last thing—he expects to have a little J.J. around the house before too long.

Campanella improving

VALHALLA, N.Y. (AP) — Roy Campanella, the 50-year old former Brooklyn Dodger who has been hospitalized since last Thursday with a blood clot on his lung, was reported improved Tuesday.

Twin bill vs. Drake here today

Iowa's baseball team, 3-4 after a trip to Arizona, plays six non-conference games at home before opening the Big Ten campaign.

The Hawkeyes are scheduled to play doubleheaders here with Drake today, Cornell Saturday and Iowa State Tuesday. The game time is 2 p.m. today.

Iowa put on an excellent offensive show in Arizona, but pitching and defense were spotty. The offense produced 56 runs—an average of eight per game—but the defense yielded 60. In two games the Hawkeyes held big leads in the ninth inning but lost both.

Eye on Iowa

Shortly before he left Iowa City, former University of Iowa grad student Lloyd Quibble constructed his latest sculpture piece entitled "Eye Ball". Quibble had originally planned to present his work of art to the UI as a small token of his appreciation, but on second thought, decided that the fish in the river would be more appreciative of this radical new art form Quibble calls "Concret Poetry". Quibble who is a native of Los Angeles recently received his MFA from the UI Writer's Workshop, and has written for several local publications including "Gum" and "Toothpaste".

RUNNING DOWN THE ROAD

By DENNIS MAHR
For The Daily Iowan

I missed a weeks newspaper reading so I'm sure I've overlooked several concerts. If you have confirmed concert dates or even a reliable rumor, send the info to 221 Communications Bldg. Many of the concerts listed below are no longer advertised in newspapers, most can be expected to sell-out with only limited radio advertising—word of mouth doing the rest. Don't save your money for the next American Rolling Stones Concert, it's undoubtedly months away.

SURVIVAL LINE

353-6210

SURVIVAL LINE answers your questions, cuts red tape, investigates your tips and all sorts of good things like that each morning in The Daily Iowan. Phone 353-6210 between 7 and 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday or write survival line, the Daily Iowan, 201 Communications Center, Iowa City. Sorry, telephone calls at other times cannot be accepted.

Now that carrels will be provided for graduate students in the Main Library, can you lobby for a policy restricting the semester-long graduate check-out policy to books kept in the carrels so that the rest of us can find them when we need them?—K.M.

It looks like you are out of a lobbying job. "All books are subject to recall on demand for public use," University Librarian Dale M. Bentz told SURVIVAL LINE. Even if a faculty member has checked out a book, you may ask for it. Also, you can put a hold on a book so you will be able to check it out again after its use by others.

By the way, the 250 carrels currently on special order will be installed in the east section of the fourth floor.

Rumor is that pets are not allowed in University approved housing. Is this so and if it is, shouldn't it be investigated?—S.T.C.

No rumor—Ted Rehder, Director of University Dormitory and Dining Services told SURVIVAL LINE that it is a recognized rule that pets are not allowed in University approved housing.

This rule has been reviewed several times and probably will not be subject to change. The Environmental Health Office has recommended that, because of health and safety standards, pets should not be allowed.

Anyway, the housing situation is already a zoo without pets.

Does President Nixon speak Chinese? Does Premier Mao or Chou En Lai speak English? Who is their interpreter?—G.W.

Chou and Dick did seem to get on quite well, didn't they? But it was with the aid of an American-born Chinese interpreter, Tang Wen-shen or Nancy Tang as she is known by friends. She received some formal education in the United States and finished school in China.

During the talks, she served as the main interpreter between Mao Tse Tung, Chou En Lai and President Nixon.

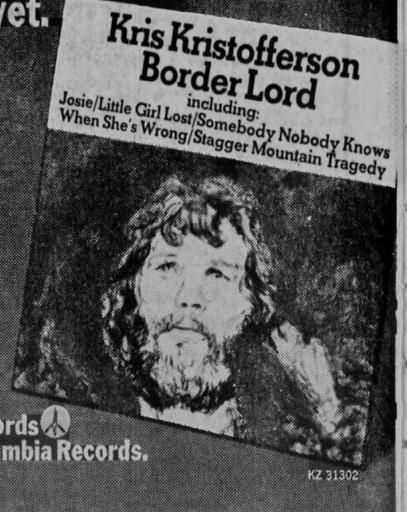

The two leaders did however exchange limited conversational phrases between themselves.

With people like Nancy to bridge the gap, who needs great walls?

Kris Kristofferson has been through Oxford University and through the dives of Nashville. He's written songs like "Me and Bobby McGee," "Help Me Make It Through the Night," "Sunday Mornin' Comin' Down," "For the Good Times," and "Loving Her Was Easier."

In Rolling Stone Ray Rezos said, "He is always totally believable; you know Kris has paid some dues."

Now Kristofferson has a classic third album, "Border Lord." Ten important new songs that tell you who he is. The critics are calling it the best Kristofferson yet.
