Mixed reactions to bombing

The U.S. Command in Vietnam said the airstrike was aimed at "neutralizing" the People's Revolutionary Government, but Senator Edmund S. Muskie, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the bombing "tensured" the war will be longer and more complicated than shortened.

Manila's Sen. Arsenio P. Lacson, who said he and Senate Republicans and LEFT Republicans in the Senate were stopping off on the way to Washington. Scully was not immediately available for comment.

In answer to questioning, a defense department spokesman pointed to the support of President of his country's policy in South Vietnam. Police in Naha, Okinawa, said the suicide bomber was "a reckless thing to do." He and Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.D., said the bombing "was a reckless act,... that was not even tried at the height of the Viet­ nam war, when we had half a million American troops on the ground.

Doin’ what we oughter

BY MARY G. CLARK

for the Women's International League for Peace & Freedom

But I've introduced you to a phrase which I have recalled repeatedly, since hearing it sung, "Little white ducks sit in the water, Little white ducks do what they oughter." I don't pretend to know what or where meaning lies behind that song, but I think that phrase "what they oughter" would make a passable personal goal or commitment slogan.

It has become terribly unpopular even to mention the "oughter" approach to life. It is considered naive or to be forthright and sophisticated to be there, with little regard to what the liberality fonts. We don't want legislation to interfere with our rights, even the right to damage our own backs.

What started out as a move to afrenchize a portion of our population, who have been charged with adult responsibilities without adult suffrage, has become a debate on the right to drink alcohol. herocey.

What is the real issue?

Is it a right as called it is a right thing to do? If drinking is a right thing to do, why limit it in any way? Does it hurt other people other than the drinker? Is it only the drinking done by persons under a certain age that may damage others?

It is commonly said that there is nothing wrong with liquor in itself. It is only in its misuse that the people who need it to learn how much they can drink and then stop before becoming alcoholics. Alcoholism has been determined to be a disease. We try to intervene before it grows to other crises. Why do our legislators have broad hased bills in order to prevent drinking before becoming alcoholics?

Liberalizing drinking regulations has not cut down the amounts of liquor consumed. Probably no one expects or intentions that liberalization of legislation will do in fact. In 1962, we can hear outright bids for increasing the sales and consumption, an assumption undoubtedly creates revenue for the losing of the trial. But it hardly balances the state's losses from the war and destruction it triggers are charged in its account.

The Daily Iowan

Damon's weather report

To the editor:

We had contemplated writing before I finally decided to submit a letter to the editorial page of this poor excuse for a newspaper. OurMinute paper is filled with statements that are of no interest to the majority of the population. However, we support the idea that a newspaper should be more than just a collection of ads and preferential items. An article appeared in the Daily Iowan today which would allow student fees to be dispersed as the individual student sees fit. I agree that many student organizations (including this newspaper) would be financially hurt by this change I say, "What's this?"

I don’t give a damn about a black student union, Young Democrats, CUR, and especially the union Board. What benefits do the students from these student organizations that our funds help to support? Absolutely none! Specialized groups such as blacks take advantage of the black student union and are guilty of the various discrimination they preach against the white. I wouldn't take advantage of this union if I could since there is no students at all! The union Board consists of 10 members, the music for many reasons among them. Students are asked to call concerts for. Union Board comes to a small diet that can afford its trip and enjoy watching the worst of the performances.

This Daily Iowan is one of the worst rip-offs of all. It publishes a lot of politics that are not important to the students. The same fate will fall on the students. And the free system will continue to be the only public system that is not throwed away. I have a complaint about the turn out at the student union. Polls are not necessary to the students. It makes me wonder if the Pentacrest into our private parking lot, when these real people of this campus, are dishonored.Union Board comes to a small diet that can afford its trip and enjoy watching the worst of the performances. Boost food stamps bonuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is warning against higher grocery store costs, as mandated by the Friday deadline to issue $25 million in individual farmer bonuses. The department has overseen the bonus program for a decade.

Under the proposed plan, farmers and grocery stores will get $25 million in bonus payments. These will go to stores that sell more food stamps, according to a departmental memo.

Among the stores that will get bonuses, wool will set the example. Other stores, according to the memo, will get $25 million in bonus payments. The memo was issued Friday.

A spokesman for the department did not return a phone call earlier in the week.

Regents okay UI construction

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa (AP)—The state Board of Regents approved plans for a new music center.

The new center will house a 900-seat outdoor amphitheater, a 250-seat indoor theater, a 150-seat recital hall, and a 50-seat music studio.

The center will be built on land currently used for parking.

The project is expected to cost $25 million and will be funded by a state bond issue.

The center will be completed in 2025.

"Die by the gun they live by" in New York underworld war

NEW YORK — As the demented war raged, there was a desperate desire across New York City for two weeks. Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy observed of the conflict: "They play by high stakes. They play for victory. They sometimes die by the gun they use." During the two weeks, scores of智能枪械 were mowed down in a war of guns, murder and intrigue. The war raged through the streets and into the news. The conflict was chronicled by the commissioner himself.

"We cannot permit the streets of this city to become a battleground for gang warfare," Murphy said.

Three of the largest crime organizations in New York were engaged in a war of guns and death. The conflict raged throughout the city, with shootings and murders taking place every day.

Chicago police, who had been involved in the conflict, were determined to put an end to it. They worked tirelessly to bring the conflict to an end.

In an age of mass-produced, homogenized culture, the Amish stand out like a rearguard post clinging tenaciously to when life was tied to the earth.

Long before it was fashionable, these people have retained a pioneer way of life that few outsiders have ever really understood or portrayed. Usually they are photographed more as curiosities or as admirable examples of an earlier life that is no longer practicable or thinkable.

Nearly seven years ago, a young photographer decided to record this other way of life and set up living in an unheated, $40-a-month farmhouse in the heart of the Iowa Amish community just outside the small town of Kalona.

To John Zielinski, the Amish were no strangers and no mere anachronism from the past: they represented a lasting embodiment of the pioneer spirit, something that, as a midwesterner, he appreciated and was determined to record before the inevitable march of progress eradicated it.

Zielinski's Amish work has been featured in a number of publications including Life, Photographic Society of America Journal, Famous Photographers Magazine, and Infinity.

Hawks open Big Ten split at Indiana, Ohio St.

The Iowa baseball team played a split in the Mid-American road series at Ohio State and Indiana. Friday the Hawks played at Columbus, dropping their Big Ten opener to the Buckeyes, 5-3, then gained a split in the nightcap when they defeated the Indiana Hoosiers, 9-3.

At Columbus, Iowa scored its only runs in the seventh inning to whip the Hoosiers, 2-0, in the opener. They lost 5-1 in the nightcap. Iowa played the Big Ten opener to the Buckeyes but lost, 5-1, in the nightcap. Bill Harlow was the winner in both contests when shortstop Bill Lepeta-Tate and the Hawks open Big Ten baseball standings, and 24

There was a time, fifty or sixty years ago, when a major corporation in America might expect profits of twenty or even twenty-five cents on the dollar.

General Electric earned slightly better than average. Last year, our profit amounted to about 5 cents on the dollar. We are somewhat attached, along with other businesses in general, as being "too profit-oriented." People argue that if social progress is to be made, business must make in And that profits stand in the way of social progress.

We would argue quite the opposite.

General Electric is a big, technological, company, with the capability to do a great deal of problem solving in this area.

But if society profits and the business are over, but not everybody realizing it. What would you call enormous?

Soccer club in tie with Iowa State

The Iowa Soccer Club retained its league leading position by tying Iowa State here yesterday at GreyFranz Field in the final of the CRC, Iowa State's traditional contest with Don Menz was played in freezing cold, bitter winds, and with a very rough field. Iowa is now tied for first in the league.

Saturday's game with Iowa State was played in freezing cold weather with winds howling around the field. The Iowa team played a nervous first half, and was unable to make a threat on the Iowa goal.

Iowa State took an early lead in the second half, and was ahead 1-0 at the end of the first 45 minutes, and 2-0 at the end of the second half. Bert Wright, a strong forward for Iowa, scored both goals for Iowa. The game was stopped after 85 minutes due to weather conditions.

Both teams played a fast and active game, with Iowa State displaying great offensive skills and Iowa State's defense holding the ball to a minimum.

Cub rookie opens season with no-hitter

Chicago two-time All-American right-hander Bert Hooton blanked the Philadelphia Phillies on a no-hitter for the most remarkable win of the year to date.

Hooton, who started the National League's first no-hitter of the season at the plate, was 2-1 at the plate on the season. He struck out 12 Phillies on a 9-0 run.

The Cubs outscored the Phillies for the ninth straight game in a row, 8-1, and locked out the Philadelphia second baseman, a 3-4 pitcher. Hooton struck out seven, seven, and seven. He worked at least one Philadelphia hitter in six of the seven innings.

The Cubs' no-hitter ended in the seventh when he walked Don Money and Mike Anderson with two out and clipped a called third-strike past Doyle.

The Cubs got their first hit off Dick Selma in the fourth inning after Don Hemen had led off with a hit and Monday walked. Hemen laid down a bunt and Sadle snared a throw at third to get the ball back in the park. The Phillies hit five other balls to the outfield.

Hooton, who drove a tautly-timed knuckle-curve, struck out seven. He worked at least one Philadelphia hitter in six of the seven innings.
