Painful

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Trade Commission awarded the nation's top advertising agency, Saatchi & Saatchi, a $100,000 fine for failing to pay employees a fair share of the money its clients spend on advertising.

The commission said the agency had not paid employees a fair share of the money its clients spend on advertising.

The decision is a setback for the agency, which has been under scrutiny for its treatment of employees and its failure to pay them a fair share of the money its clients spend on advertising.

Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) - Selective Service illegally charged conscientious objectors to register for the draft, according to a report released Monday.

The report, which was obtained by The Associated Press, found that the Selective Service had violated the law by charging conscientious objectors for the cost of registering for the draft.

The Selective Service said the charges were necessary to cover the cost of processing applications.

Preparations

MEXICO CITY (AP) - A White House advance team has arrived in Mexico City to prepare for President-elect Joe Biden's visit next week, and will coordinate with Mexican authorities to ensure the safety of the president during his trip.

The advance team, which includes national security officials and staff from the White House, will consult with Mexican counterparts to coordinate security measures and make plans for the president's visit.

Day of disgust” set to protest war

‘Day of disgust’ set to protest war

The New York City Anti-War Coalition and the Student Peace Coalition have organized a ‘Day of Disgust’ to protest the war in Afghanistan.

The groups are calling for a national day of action to demand an end to the war and to demand accountability for the actions of the U.S. government.

Demonstrators hold ‘peace vigil’

A two-hour ‘peace vigil’ was held at the Pentecostal Church in New York City on Sunday.

The vigil was organized by the New York City Anti-War Coalition and the Student Peace Coalition.

The vigil was a call for peace and an end to the war in Afghanistan.

As attacked threat also developed closer to home: U.S. military forces began flying high-altitude reconnaissance missions over South Vietnam.

The tactical missile threat involved some 300,000 rounds of ammunition, including rockets and shells, fired by North Vietnamese troops at U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

The United States poured in more air strikes against Southern and northern targets in the Hanoi area.

The attack was reported to have been given the green light by the North Vietnamese authorities.

On the ground in South, field reports said that the North Vietnamese had destroyed the Hanoi air base and nearby towns.

The attack was described as a turning point in the conflict.

LONE SHOT SET Ulster riot, official says

WASHINGTON (AP) - Britain's senior judge reported Wednesday that a single shot fired during the siege of a Northern Ireland police station in which 11 were killed by 64-year-old Lord Judge, an officer and the victim's chief justice, may have been fired by the man who died.

Lord Judge said the guns on June 3 shootings on "British forces" became the cause of a "massacre," with the man who died by the police station in which 11 were killed.

The campaign has hardly recovered from the still-fuming film experience of the "New York Explo Film Festival" and already another film festival grosses our hallucined community in prey of our "aesthetic" senses. The contrasts between the Explo Film Festival and Fedora are quite clear: the underlying connections are appalling.

1. Personally live in Coralville and I drive daily. I said it. So if you're not American, you're gonna get your ass kicked.

#1. Both festivals reached this point: besides, no one will connect the two festivals. Anyhow, we really did make a lot of money—appealing to the culturally top-hat "art", and appealing to the culturally deprimed through perks.

#2. The Erotic Film FESTIVAL WAS BROUGHT HERE TO FUND EDUCATIONAL reasons. Explo is used to support the radical cause. It is never really surprising when a liberal drops the radical facade and shows his true ugly side. What is surprising, is that no one really wants to mind. I mean, Fedora is such a really revolutionary program this year, most of these "women's libbers" didn't like how it was funded. And besides, no one will connect the two festivals. Anyway, we really did make a lot of money—appealing to the culturally top-hat "art", and appealing to the culturally deprimed through perks.

#3. By making it mandatory to ride shuttle buses, the university's goal is to aid students in moving all the campus. I think the university wants to do this for the sake of the students, not the sake of the city. The system seems to be a success so they have decided to end the free trial period.

#4. The system seems to be a success so they have decided to end the free trial period.

#5. Some of the people who are strongly against pollution may be against expanding the system. In the downtown area a city bus has been seen following a university bus, or vice versa. The large amount of diesel fumes gives the city a "smoggy" look.

#6. The article mentioned expanding the system to Hawk's Court and Cedar. The original system was to aid students in moving about on campus. I think the shuttle bus system should restrict itself to the campus area. Does the university want to start an "after hours" city bus system?

#7. The article mentioned a survey was held and showed the riders used the city bus an average of 8 times a week. The article failed to mention what per cent of the total university population even uses the shuttle bus system. The per cent is small.

I hope my letter will prompt the university to look into the matter of seeing a student's opinion about this matter. Black group sponsoring sickle cell anemia tests

The University of Iowa Black Medical Students has formed a Sickle Cell Anemia Testing Laboratory to serve the black population in Iowa City and surrounding areas.

The clinic is part of the National Student Medical Association project for 1972.

Edward L. Gettler, M.D., biochemistry, is chief of the clinic, and it is directed by one doc tor, two nurses, two secretaries, and three volunteers.

The clinic has a medical examiner to test patients for sickle cell anemia, and there is a laboratory to test the blood of the patients.

The clinic also has a social worker to help the patients in their treatment.

The clinic is located at 2130 S. Clinton St.

The cost of the test is $3.00, and there is a $3.00 per month charge for the patients who are not able to pay.

The clinic is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday through Friday.

The Cajun songs they play come from the roots of Louisiana, says freelance writer and music enthusiast Matthew Molnar. Molnar, who has written extensively about Cajun music, says that the genre is alive and well today, with many artists continuing to keep the tradition alive.

Molnar says that the music is a mix of African, Spanish, and Native American influences, and that it is a way of life for many Cajun people. He says that the music is often played at dances, festivals, and other events, and that it is a way for people to come together and celebrate their heritage.

Molnar also says that the music is a way for people to connect with their traditions, and that it is a way for people to maintain their cultural identity. He says that the music is a way for people to remember their ancestors, and that it is a way for people to keep their culture alive.

Molnar says that the music is a way for people to express their feelings, and that it is a way for people to connect with their emotions. He says that the music is a way for people to find their inner strength, and that it is a way for people to find their purpose.

‘Relativity’ readjusts your vision

If you have time to see only one film during the Refocus '72, see Ed Emshwiller’s ‘Relativity’. It is one of the most nearly perfect film made in the past decade. No film is so likely from years of experience to readjust your vision. Every color, every frame of the film is made with an elitist focus attention on the designer and artist. Does not succumb to the camera again and again. The first time one sees ‘Relativity’ is a freak organization. They explored the people and their values in a serene world. Charles Fuljens, director of the Department of Art Education, the Des Moines Art Center will speak about his work and present his slides high, or a space bounded by four walls. As designers and painters at the University of Iowa, they have designed many of the group’s posters. The poster will be used to bring the people together, to introduce them to one another, to the newest addition to the Iowa City Art Fair, and to the newest and finest art artists in town. The poster was designed by the people whose poster ideas had nothing to do with the poster design. The poster will be used to bring the people together, to introduce them to one another, to their values in a serene world. The Des Moines Art Center will speak about his work and present his slides. This is very much more than a mere maker of fine drawings. Hawk golfers return to action

By BOB DENNEY

Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Iowa's girls team, which won their region title and region tournament last year, will return to action this week as they compete in the 11th Annual tournament in Cedar Falls.

Coach Chuck Devlin expressed optimism about this year's club, which has five returning interstaters, Chris Lamont, Jeannine Jones, Eric Bur, Don Kelly, and Steve Stromberg, a squad that placed third in last year's Big Ten meet.

"We always have a tough time in Arkansas," Devlin said, "and I think the team has come a long way in developing their game, and getting up to the point they could be for the season."

"We're a very strong team this season," Devlin added, "and we can make a good showing on the 36-hole rounds."

"I'll be surprised if we don't have a good season... We will be liberal with the honors."

The Hawkeyes were in last season's dual competition, and lost both meets, that is, they were finishing Florida to keep up on his game.

Devlin said that certain members of the team have improved tremendously, and that the completion will face it or three or four spots this week.

Senior captain Chris Lamont paced the top single round in the Big Ten but did not gain enough at the state tournament to finish on a warm and chilly day, with a course soggy from recent snows.

"Chris Zwiener has made a real improvement in his game, and will also be one to watch."

Qualifying rounds are held every week preceding each tournament, and Devlin feels that the squad will not have to travel around 15 or more times before season progress much further.

This year's Big Ten tournament will be held at the University of Minnesota, and Iowa will face it with many top individual participation as Michigan, Ohio State, Indiana, Purdue, and Illinois.

"We have got a good chance to finish higher this year," Devlin said, "and we should be in our bracket, but we will not be as good as the University of Iowa."

Members of this year's squad include: Chris Lamont, Jerry Johnson, Jim Vorheis, Lonnie Boyd, Jeff Devlin, Lennie Dill, Mark Fetter, Brad Reed, and Vern Vorheis.

Jay Boyd had the best average (77.5) in the Iowa's golf team, idle since last week.

As many as six competitors will fight it out for divisional berths in the 72-hole qualifying Tuesday by carding a score of 71 or better."

Iowa's golf team, idle since last weekend, has a 3-2-5 record and 24 points behind Western Illinois, 2-2-2. The Hawkeyes are idle since last week.
