Dear Friends,

We invite your participation as faculty members in anti-war activities being planned in the Iowa City area. Due to President Nixon's recent order to renew bombing of Indochina, we have felt it necessary to organize the following activities and urge you to join us in protesting the Southeast Asian atrocities.

On Thursday, April 20, and Friday, April 21, we urge you to devote part or all of your class periods to a discussion of the Indochina war and how it relates to the people of Iowa.

Friday, April 21 has been labeled "Day of Disgust!"—a day to express our despair and disgust over the death and destruction in Indochina by all forces.

A rally, with planned speakers and anti-war petitions, is set for 3:30 p.m. on the Pentacrest. A silent peace vigil Clinton Street will follow the rally from 3:30 to 3:45 p.m. Teach-ins, movies and other alternative activities will be held after 3:30 p.m. with specific locations and times to be announced at the rally.

We also urge you to distribute white armbands—a symbol of mourning in Asia—and leaflets in your classes. These materials the continued mayhem in Indochina is an effort to end that war.

Participation in these activities is left up to your individual conscience. But any effort to devote attention and discussion to Indochina by all forces.

Paul Nelson, of Pittsfield, Vermont, has published his 1st book of poems, Cods, with The Snowbird Press. It is an introduction to the costumes, settings and props, as well as the actors of his production. Nelson, who is a veteran of the traveling theater, has created his own costumes and settings, and has had them become great hits. The book is a must-read for any theater lover, especially those who prefer the small, intimate productions.

New student voters back liberals, primaries reveal

By The Associated Press

A study of the first four presidential primaries shows strong support for liberal candidates while the conservative candidates have been dramatically disappointed.

The nonstudent young, who make up 20 per cent of the U.S. population, have been more influenced by the policies of the candidates than by their personal appeals.

The exception was the college student. To get more measure of how the new voters cast their ballots in the primaries, Associated Press bureaus in New Hampshire, Florida, Illinois and Wisconsin examined the ballots, talked with students and gathered opinions from campus political tendencies.

McGovern's delegations were heavily in favor of the candidates in favor of the candidates in New Hampshire, Florida, Illinois and Wisconsin, which were the first four states to vote in the primaries.

A real live movie premiere...

BY DAVID HELLAND
Daily Iowan-Iowa City

The only thing finer than the Hawks going to the Iowa Film Festival is the premiere of a movie in Iowa City. Honest, both things have happened before, but not together in the same building and they don’t happen again. The Hawks has a history. "Children of God," a documentary presented Thursday at the Iowa Theater, the film was produced by Ray Kril, a student program director at the University of Iowa and a graduate student, for the Video Tape Network, one of the Iowa City-based Films for Social Change.

Films for Social Change is trying to activate on this type of issue by understanding these people and we want to record the changes that are taking place. The Iowa Movement is causing change. This film is trying to record the effect they have on our society.

The film was shot in December at the Woodland Park, Gal, smoke of the Children of God, Kri, Rome, and common names. Common names under the sky with the Children to do the filming, in the city of Iowa City.

"Steveds tend to be ascetic, until they get to know us," Kril said. "When they see that people are trying to rip them off and take away the film, they work like hell." The film was shot and directed by the University of Iowa.
