Invalid

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa High School Athletic Association's controversial beer rule was held invalid in a 5-3 opinion by the Iowa Supreme Court Thursday.

The rule, which declares ineligible any high school athlete who occupies a car knowing that beer is in the vehicle, is so broad as to be unreasonable, said the opinion by Justice Harvey Uhlenhopp.

Tramples

TOKYO (AP) — China accused the United States today of escalating the Vietnam war by mining the ports of North Vietnam, cutting off land and water communications and intensifying air and naval strikes.

It said President Nixon's order Monday "seriously encroaches upon the territory and sovereignty" of North Vietnam, "grossly violates the freedom of international navigation and trade and wantonly tramples upon the charter of the United Nations and international public law."

Revealed

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Former Iowa Treasurer Paul Franzburg of Ames released the names Thursday of 370 contributors who gave $19,488 to fund his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Also listed were results of nine fund-raising events, five honorariums and 13 anonymous contributions. Franzburg also reported non-cash contributions with an estimated worth of about $4,000. Among those were meals, printing, office supplies and other items.

More

Two more anti-war rallies have been slated by an anonymous group, including the call for a statewide demonstration at noon Saturday.

The group said it is also calling for another gathering on the Pentacrest at 7:30 p.m. tonight. According to a spokesperson, the group is urging persons "from around the entire state" to converge on the Pentacrest area Saturday.

Hijack

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — Searchers have found a parachute harness and jumpsuit they believe were discarded by the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines plane after he bailed out over Honduras with $303,000 in ransom, the government said Thursday night.

Farmers in the area of northern Honduras where the articles were found told government agents they saw a man sitting on the ground counting money before he disappeared into the countryside, the National Investigation Department said.

Minimum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Thursday approved a two-step increase in the minimum wage to $2 an hour, rejecting a proposal to make the jump immediately and extend coverage to 5.8 million additional workers.

The bill passed by the House would raise the present $1.60 minimum to $1.80 within two months after enactment, and to $2 a year later. Lower rates would be set for teen-agers and farm workers.

The measure goes to the Senate where a bill raising the minimum to $2.20 an hour this year and expanding the coverage is awaiting final action by the Senate Labor Committee.

Senate

Although several changes were made Thursday night in the allocation of $50,000 in student activities fees, the entire list of allocations will be reconsidered Monday by the University of Iowa Student Senate.

Amid protests by representatives from the Black Student Union (BSU), Women's Center and Gay Liberation Front, the senate cut allocations to those groups by over $3,000 Tuesday night.

Although the senate made changes in allocations, the entire budget is subject to change by senate Monday night, according to Michael J. Pill, cooperative member.

Pill said the budget has to be approved Monday or "the senate will be in trouble." He said the senate's fiscal year starts July 1 and that the senate needs to have a workable budget by then.

Bombed

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Five bombs exploded in the headquarters complex of the U.S. Army's 5th Corps in Frankfurt today and German police reported an Army colonel was killed and five other persons were seriously injured.

Police said there might be more bombs on the premises.

The bombs exploded after normal duty hours when the huge multistoried headquarters building was not occupied by hundreds of Army personnel and German and American civilians assigned there.

Protests erupt across nation

Antiwar demonstrators forced the United Nations to close its New York headquarters to tourists and isolated the public from the historic frigate Constitution in Boston harbor Thursday, in a third day of intense but scattered protest against President Nixon's new Vietnam policy.

More than 500 arrests were logged during the day, most of them peaceful. In some cases, demonstrators were carried or dragged away, however.

Eighteen demonstrators were arrested at New Brunswick, N.J., during a vain attempt to block local trains on the main line of the Penn Central Railroad. But five Southern Pacific trains were rerouted at Davis, Calif., after University of California students there spent most of the night sitting on the tracks.

Other groups of protesters tied up auto traffic at Santa Barbara, Calif., and on Chicago's South Lake Shore drive, among a number of target areas.

In New England, the president of Amherst College, his wife, and the wife of the president of Smith College were arrested after they joined students in blocking traffic at Westover Air Force Base at Chicopee, Mass.

Seventeen students and faculty members from Columbia University and Brooklyn Community College chained themselves to seats in the visitors' gallery of the U.N. Security Council. They demanded to see U.S. Ambassador George Bush, currently president of the council.

A U.N. spokesman, William Powell, said U.N. headquarters would be closed to the public for the remainder of the day and Friday because of "the rising tide of demonstrations taking place."

Police estimated attendance at an antiwar rally on the steps of the Capitol in Washington at 1,500. The crowd heard speeches by more than a dozen congressmen, including Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

There were 119 arrests of Southwest State College students who blocked traffic at the intersection of three highways in Marshall, Minn. And about 300 Michigan State University students blocked the major street in East Lansing, Mich., most of the night.

U.S. B 52s hit An Loc

SAIGON (AP) — The United States on Friday unleashed the war's biggest concentration of B52 bombers at An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, in efforts to break the five-week-old North Vietnamese siege of the provincial capital. Field reports said more than 400 North and South Vietnamese soldiers were killed in fighting during the past two days.

Nearly 70 B52s dropped over 1,700 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese troop concentrations along a line west-northwest of An Loc to east-northeast of the city straddling Highway 13.

The provincial capital is already 85 per cent destroyed. President Nguyen Van Thieu has ordered the city held at all costs.

Meanwhile, American-laid mines armed themselves Thursday night in harbors of North Vietnam, bringing into force the latest efforts to choke off the supply of enemy war goods.

Up to nightfall, hours after the mines activated at the entrances to seven port cities, there were no reports of incidents involving shipping.

The Pentagon announced that five ships, including four flying the Soviet flag, left Haiphong harbor before activation, leaving 31 foreign vessels.

With martial law in effect in Saigon, the government ordered an earlier curfew. Effective Saturday, it will be 10 p.m. The curfew had been 1 a.m. and last month was cut back to 11 p.m. The government also ordered the closing down of night clubs, bars and race tracks.

Despite the pounding by the B52s, North Vietnamese troops heavily assaulted An Loc on Friday morning for the second consecutive day.

The enemy resumed heavy shelling of the town just before 9 a.m., Saigon time, and launched ground assaults from all sides.

Eerie

The atmosphere was bizarre Thursday night as a band of anti-war demonstrators blocked Interstate 80 for a short time at 10:30. A searchlight helicopter, flares, uniformed men and elusive protesters created a puzzling scene for passing motorists.

Protestors block I-80

By DAILY IOWAN STAFF WRITERS

Antiwar protesters in Iowa City Thursday night blocked a portion of Interstate 80 for a short time before being routed by police and tear gas, in the third evening of demonstrations in a week.

The protesters reached the Interstate after a confrontation with Iowa Highway patrolmen at Dubuque Street near City Park and after sometimes running, sometimes walking through streets, yards and pastures in the north part of the city.

Police reported about 1 a.m. Friday that 19 persons had been arrested in connection with the protests. One was charged with defacing property and the rest, arrested at the Interstate 80 skirmish, were charged with criminal trespass.

At least two persons were injured. One man suffered a head laceration and a woman was injured when she apparently ran into a barbed wire fence, police said.

In another development early Friday morning, two UI sororities reported to police that bleeding dead pigs had been dumped on their houses' steps.

The evening's activity started at the Pentacrest where about 400 demonstrators were urged to "blockade I-80 for peace."

That brought on cheers and the demonstrators walked down the west side of the Pentacrest, onto Iowa Avenue. From there, they crossed the river and marched through the Grand Avenue residence hall area to pick up support.

Then the contingent, beginning to swell up to 700 or 800, came back across the Burlington Street Bridge and swung up past the Clinton Street dorms, shouting "on to the Interstate."

Shortly after the growing group turned north onto North Dubuque Street at 9:30 p.m., the group spotted a line of about 60 police lined up at the Park Road intersection near City Park.

Nevertheless, the demonstrators—nearing 1,000 in number—continued to advance on the police, ignoring a bullhorned order by the highway patrol to get off the street.

Then the patrol activated a fogger at 9:45 p.m. and began shooting smoke into the crowd in front of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity house.

At first, crowd members thought a gas was being used, but several protesters nearly walked into the fogger to demonstrate that the smoke was harmless.

While the patrol was dispersing the smoke and stopping the crowd movement, some demonstrators hurled rocks at the riot-dressed patrol members.

Tear gas, however, was not used at this point.

At 10:00, when it looked as though the crowd would be unable to reach the Interstate on Dubuque Street because of the police, it abruptly stood up and reversed directions, heading south on Dubuque Street.

The crowd turned east on Brown Street, and then ran and walked through the dark residential streets, north on Dodge Street, then through yards and pastures heading north to reach Interstate 80 by another route.

About a block before Prairie du Chien Road overpass the crowd split into two groups as it sighted police on the overpass.

As the protesters were approaching the interstate, they ironically were guided through a thickly wooded area by a floodlight shining from a helicopter above.

About 60 persons converged on a section of Interstate 80 to the west of the overpass, and a brush fire was set in the east-bound lane.

Traffic was stopped by the protesters, some of whom sat on the Interstate for about five minutes before being routed by police.

Iowa City and Coralville policemen, wielding riot sticks, chased the group off the highway, and at least one protester was injured in the skirmish.

By 10:45, the protest on the west side of the overpass had subsided enough so that the interstate was open.

At about the same time, a slightly larger group of protesters headed toward the Interstate on the east side of the overpass. That group did not actually go on the interstate however, because it was met by a busload of highway patrolmen and tear gas.

Between 10:30 and 11:00 nearly 15 canisters of tear gas were fired into the crowd, which was in a thickly wooded valley next to the eastbound lane of the Interstate.

Between 15 and 20 young "vigilantes" helped keep the police posted as to the direction the protesters were moving, and one of them said to a patrolman, "we'll help you get those sons of bitches."

From 10:30 through 11:00, Interstate traffic was moving very slowly, and at times, not at all, because of highway patrol blockades.

By 11:05 many of the protesters had left the valley because of the tear gas, and regrouped on Prairie du Chien Road, just south of the over-pass. About 40 policemen and patrolmen began chasing the crowd south on Prairie du Chien, and more arrests were made as the crowd dispersed.

A smaller crowd, composed of some of the same people who had been involved in the Interstate protest, assembled on the steps of the Old Capitol at 11:30, and a trash can was set afire at 11:45.

Several newsmen reported problems in covering the protest and one Daily Iowan reporter said she believes police were angry at the press because of radio reports broadcast over station KXIC.

Another DI reporter was told by a lawman to keep his credentials in hand "or you'll have one of these clubs wrapped around your head." Other newsmen were told by officers to "keep out of our hair."

The radio station offered its FM listeners on-the-spot play-by-play coverage of much of Thursday night's action.

It was reported that Michael Sellar, state director of public safety, called the station three times during the night urging that its reporters "tone down" their reports.

Mayor C. L. Brandt and City Atty. Jay H. Honohan also asked that the on-the-scene broadcasts be curbed because officials feared the reports were drawing a crowd to the protests.

Just before midnight, the Pentacrest was surrounded by Highway Patrolmen, although most of them did not approach the crowd of 150 protesters, because Dickinson talked with UI Vice-Provost Phillip G. Hubbard, both of whom agreed that it would be alright for the crowd to remain on the Pentacrest.

Regents table beer-on-campus plan

AMES, Iowa (AP) — The State Board of Regents tabled, pending legal opinion, a proposal Thursday to allow sale of beer in the student unions of the University of Iowa and the University of Northern Iowa.

The matter was one of three drinking proposals considered by the regents because of the new Iowa majority rights law which becomes effective July 1.

The regents approved a parental rule to require all unmarried freshman and sophomore students, regardless of their age, at the two universities to live in university residence halls unless exempted.

Previously, any student 21 or over who was a freshman or sophomore wasn't required to live in residence halls.

The rule doesn't apply to students at Iowa State University, where there is a waiting list of students who want to live in the dormitories.

University of Iowa assistant dean Phil Hubbard said the rule will make "substantial increases" in the number of dormitory residents at the U of I.

The regents tabled the proposal to allow beer sales in the unions and two other proposed rules to allow alcohol in sororities and fraternities and one to allow students to consume alcoholic beverages in their residence hall rooms.

The latter two proposals would apply to UNI, the U of I and to Iowa State University.

Proposed sales of beer at student unions wouldn't apply to ISU, where the student union is a separate corporation and not under the jurisdiction of the regents. Beer sales aren't allowed there now.

All three proposals ran into opposition from the regents because of legal questions.

Regent Ralph Wallace of Mason City said the proposals would bring up questions concerning Iowa's dram shop law and dispensing alcoholic beverages in state-owned buildings.

"I think before I would like to act on this," said Wallace, "I would like to have the universities pursue these questions" with their legal advisers.

Other questions were raised about who would be enfranchised to sell the beer if it were allowed in the student unions, the State's tort claim law and to individual university codes of conduct.

After about 20 minutes of discussion, the regents voted 6-0 to table the matter—probably until its meeting next month. University of Iowa President Willard Boyd said the legal questions probably could be answered by that time.

AMES, Iowa (AP) — After lengthy discussion the State Board of Regents voted Thursday to send the case of a former associate professor at the University of Iowa back to the university for action.

The case involves Stephen D. Ford, who had $180 withheld from his paycheck at the end of his three-year contract with the university in 1970.

Ford was accused of being one of a group of people who broke into the university's ROTC building during a campus protest May 1, 1970.

During the protest, a door of the building was broken and Ford was arrested and charged with malicious entry to a building.

The former professor was convicted by a Johnson County District Court jury but later the conviction was overturned.

Before Ford left the university, Iowa Atty. Gen. Richard Turner ordered that triple damages—$180—be withheld from his pay for damage to the door.

Ford sued to have his money returned after his conviction was set aside, but the court ruled that the state couldn't be sued.

Turner appeared before the regents Thursday to warn them against sending the case back to the university, saying they would be liable if they returned the money.

University of Iowa President Willard Boyd countered that if the case were returned to university jurisdiction, the university and not the regents would be liable for any legal consequences.

The regents then voted 5-2, with one abstention, to accept Boyd's proposal.

Des Moines sees largest rally in years

By STEVE BAKER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
DES MOINES—There's a statue of Abe Lincoln and his son Todd near the State Capitol entrance here.

Usually, it's a pretty quiet locale. But Thursday was different.

As a crowd of 1,200 peaceful anti-war demonstrators headed back to their colleges and jobs across Iowa, Abe was left holding a placard that read "Fuck Nixon."

That was the thrust of a statewide peace rally that started with speeches and singing at Des Moines' federal building and ended with a march to the Statehouse.

There the group burned an effigy of President Nixon in a fountain and made themselves at home, climbing onto statues and tying white armbands—the Vietnamese symbol of mourning—onto stunted figures.

Amidst the singing and chanting, the group—mainly youthful in character—then converged on the State Capitol doors, under the watchful eye of security guards, highway patrolmen and Des Moines police.

The demonstrators chanted

"We want Ray," but Iowa Gov. Robert Ray wasn't in the building to listen to the crowd's opposition to the Indochinese War.

However, organizers of the rally persuaded the participants to remain peaceful and to "go knock on doors and turn out of office people like Nixon and Ray."

Marchers stretched out six blocks enroute to the statehouse and chanted "Peace Now" in echoing choruses.

"Join us," they urged bystanders.

"I've got to work...do you want to buy a Rambler?" was one salesman's reply, although many flashed peace signs at the crowd.

The demonstrators came from a flock of different schools in Iowa, although the majority appeared to be Iowa State University students. About 75 Iowa Citizens made the trip.

It was the largest anti-war march in the Iowa capital city, at least in recent years.

The protest activities got underway with speeches by several anti-war leaders, including Democratic gubernatorial candidate and State Sen. John Tapscoff, State Rep.

Arthur Small (D—Iowa City) and Iowa AFL-CIO leader Jim Winghart.

U.S. Sen. Harold Hughes (D—Ia.) also addressed the group via telephone, telling them he will help launch a 50-state campaign today to end the war by congressional action.

According to Hughes, the effort—dubbed Peace Alert USA—"is based on the conviction that people at the grassroots of all 50 states can move Congress to act."

Hughes said the most critical period for action is "the next six weeks" and that the operation must "influence members of Congress who've never voted for peace before."

Tapscoff, who greeted the crowd with a Sammy Davis, Jr.-type fist and peace sign salute, told the crowd he agreed with Small's earlier suggestion that Ray "again ground the Iowa National Guard airplanes if he's opposed to this immoral war."

Winghart called on the group to form a coalition of "workers, students, blacks and other minorities" to defeat supporters of the war effort in upcoming elections, something that was a running theme throughout most of the speeches.

Throughout the activities at the federal building, a pair of counter-demonstrators paced up and down behind the crowd. Their placards read "America—Support it or leave it" and "Commie Puppets are demonstrating."

"I'm just an ordinary American citizen," one of the two, Dale Hanson of Des Moines, said. "It's time we started backing our president."

Hanson, who said he was a Marine corporal on leave, added that "it's not for me to decide if it (activation of mines of North Vietnamese harbors) is wrong."

But the two counter-pickets attracted little attention from the banner-waving, sign-carrying peace group—many said they were attending their first demonstration. Others were veterans.

For instance, two somber, elderly men with long flowing beards seemed almost in tears when talk of a potential escalation was mentioned in speeches.

One held a sign that read "Stop Dick or we all die."

Charges J-school publishes porno

Iowa Atty. Gen. Richard C. Turner has asked the state Board of Regents to investigate a University of Iowa School of Journalism student publication containing graffiti which he says is pornographic.

"Graffiti means the writing on bathroom walls. This publication is being paid for from state funds by taxpayers, and they have the right to know what is going on," Turner told the Regents Thursday in Ames.

But journalism school Director Malcolm S. MacLean and one of the students who published the magazine "Graffiti" said Thursday no public funds are involved.

"The cost of the publication was paid for by the students involved so none of the taxpayers' money was involved," said Connie Murtha, 21, 24 North Gilbert Street.

Ms. Murtha, Alvin E. Remetch and A. Drake Busby published the magazine for journalism course credit.

Dr. MacLean said the magazine is "no more pornographic than a lot of the stuff that's in the newstands that you can get."

He said the problem involved in complaints such as Turner's is the possibility of prior censorship or other controls on students. "Pretty soon you get into something quite ridiculous," he said.

MacLean said the "Graffiti" magazine is one of the publications produced in the journalism school's laboratory course which are distributed only to students and faculty in the course, "all of whom are adults."

"All of the graffiti was actual and gathered from the walls of the U. of I. campus," Ms. Murtha said.

The eight-page magazine contained articles on the subject matter of graffiti, a discussion of the possible origins of the word "fuck" and various graffiti ranging from comments on politics and the Vietnam war to comments about sex, and even one about the journalism school.

Is the publication pornographic? "I think that's a totally irrelevant question," Ms. Murtha said.

Summit still on, Russ visitor hints

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, smiling and injecting the word "friendship" into casual conversation, met Thursday with a Soviet trade minister who later said: "We never had any doubts" about the May 22 Moscow summit.

The comment by Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev came after a surprise White House meeting, described officially as a "courtesy call" by the minister and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

However, after walking with Nixon to a helicopter which flew the President to his Camp David retreat, presidential adviser Henry Kissinger was asked by newsmen whether the summit was still on. "We just don't know," Kissinger replied.

The session, which opened in a display of cordiality, came soon after the Soviet government denounced Nixon's mining of North Vietnamese ports.

The Moscow statement was more reserved than some U.S. officials had expected and made no reference to the talks between Nixon and Soviet leaders scheduled to begin in 11 days.

This could be an indication, the officials said, that Kremlin leaders were still pondering steps to counter Nixon's stern moves intended to choke off the flow of Hanoi's war supplies.

The White House and State Department had no official comment on the Soviet statement but said they were studying it.

The Pentagon said that before the minefields became active at 6 a.m. Thursday five ships left Haiphong harbor. Four were Russian, the fifth a Hong Kong-based British vessel. This left 31 foreign merchant ships still in Haiphong, including 12 flying Soviet flags.

Asked whether Russian naval ships are en route to the Tonkin gulf area, Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim said: "I have nothing to report Thursday morning on either Chinese or Soviet fleet movements."

On Wednesday Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said only that there was no evidence of Soviet naval movements in response to the mines.

So far, Friedheim reported, there were "no mine-sweeping operations going on" in the entrances to the seven North Vietnamese ports.

The tone of the first high-level Soviet reaction to Nixon's Monday night announcement and the amiable and cordial public exchanges between the President and his Communist callers were viewed as indications that the long-planned Moscow summit talks were still on.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler refused to say whether the summit was discussed during the 50-minute meeting between Nixon, Patolichev and Dobrynin.

Afterward, NBC radio news reported that the Soviet trade minister was asked by a newsmen whether the summit was still on.

"We never had any doubts about it," the Russian was quoted as saying. "I don't know why this questions. Have you any doubts?"

The minister also told the reporter that during the meeting he and Nixon had discussed his visit to Washington for trade talks but did not talk about Vietnam or the planned summit.

Ziegler said Patolichev's White House visit had been under discussion for several days. The minister had arrived in Washington on Sunday for talks with Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson and other officials, following up on the November visit to Moscow by then-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

Although officials would not comment, it seemed unlikely that the Soviet officials would use the meeting to deliver the Kremlin statement denouncing Nixon's orders to mine North Vietnamese ports.

The statement distributed by the government news agency said Nixon's actions are "fraught with serious consequences for international peace and security."

It pledged that the Soviet Union would continue giving the North Vietnamese "the necessary support," but did not spell out how the Kremlin would deal with the mines sown in Vietnamese harbors.

The Pentagon also refused to say whether Communist ships now bottled up behind the mine barrier will be bombed. However, Pentagon spokesman Friedheim indicated they might not be attacked, saying, "Our main concern is which ships that might deliver supplies in the future."

To pay for the stepped-up naval and air operations, Friedheim said, the Pentagon will ask for supplemental appropriations for this fiscal year and the one ending in 1973.

Answers pickets

The regional manager of the Farm Bureau has responded to the picketing of the Coralville bureau office earlier this week by saying the bureau supports the right of farm workers to organize in unions.

But the manager, Vince Horst, also said the bureau believes organization should be accomplished through free elections supervised by the National Labor Relations Board.

Persons picketing the bureau office Tuesday said the Bureau is illegally using its power to crush migrant worker organizing by the United Farm Workers (UFW) under Cesar Chavez.

State of emergency?

A University of Iowa student was thrown out of the main library for not allowing guards to search his brief case as he entered the building.

Jerry North registered a complaint with Pres. Willard L. Boyd because he claimed that the search was illegal as a state of emergency had not yet been declared in Iowa City.

After arguing with the campus police, North opened his brief case and the patrolmen found nothing illegal among the contents.

Before North opened his brief case one of the patrolmen called Campus Security headquarters and was told that the requested search was illegal.

Protestors' trials set for Monday

Trials will be held Monday for 14 of the 20 persons arrested for disorderly conduct during Tuesday night's anti-war protests.

Five other persons have already pleaded guilty to that charge in Iowa City Police Court and have been fined $105.

Hearings on requests for reductions of bond will be held today for three persons arrested during recent disturbances.

The three, each being held in lieu of $10,000 bond, are Douglas D. Peterson, 20, a University of Iowa student from Davenport who was charged with malicious injury to a building Tuesday night; Mark D. Peters, 20, North Liberty, arrested Tuesday night for arson; and Christian D. Schilling, arrested May 6 for malicious injury to a building.

Preliminary hearings on the charges will be held Tuesday for Peters and Peterson.

Correction

A headline in Thursday's Daily Iowan incorrectly said a woman had been sentenced to four days in jail for damaging a building during last Thursday's trashing of downtown Iowa City.

The story itself was correct. It said that Barbara Bell, 20, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of disturbing the peace and was sentenced to four days in jail.

A charge of malicious injury to a building against Ms. Bell were dropped.

Oil pipeline approval angers environmentalists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton gave notice Thursday of his intention to permit an 800-mile oil pipeline across Alaska, but opponents of the project immediately promised a new court battle.

In his decision, Morton ruled out an alternative proposal, a route across Canada.

In Vancouver, B.C., Canada's minister of external affairs, Mitchell Sharp, called the pipeline plan "a very, very foolish move" and said Canada would oppose it.

The oil pipeline proposal has been stalled for two years by a court injunction, won by environmental groups, requiring the Interior Department to complete an environmental impact study before making a decision.

A spokesman for these groups said they will fight Morton's decision in court.

Simultaneously, a federal appeals court handed the environmentalists a procedural victory by allowing intervention in the case by a Canadian member of parliament and Canadian citizen organizations.

Supporters of the pipeline plan welcomed Morton's announcement but one of them, Alaska's lone House member, Democrat Nick Begich, said the case would be tied up in court another year.

Under the preliminary injunction issued by federal judge George L. Hart in 1970, Morton had to complete an environmental study and then give the court and the environmentalists two weeks' notice before taking action on the application of seven oil companies for a right-of-way across Alaska.

Morton issued the impact statement last March 20, allowed 45 days for written comment from the public, a deadline which ended one week ago, and gave the required two weeks notice Thursday.

He said, "The permits will be issued as soon as that can be done without violating any court order."

In explaining his decision, Morton said he considered both the proposed route from Alaska's north slope to a port at Valdez with a tanker transport link to the U.S. west coast, and an alternate all-land route through Canada.

Both routes posed some environmental problems, he said, but the Canadian route would take three to five years longer to complete.

"... We need this oil delivered to our west coast as promptly and as safely as possible," he said.

"I am convinced," Morton said, "that it is our best national interest to avoid further delays and uncertainties in planning the development of Alaska North Slope oil reserves by having a secure pipeline located under the total jurisdiction and for the exclusive use of the United States."

Irish ok European market, ending 50 years of isolation

DUBLIN (AP) — Ireland Thursday voted overwhelmingly in favor of joining the European Common Market, ending 50 years of isolation and handing a massive rebuff to political leaders of violent nationalism.

The voters were asked to give Prime Minister Jack Lynch constitutional power to take the nation into Europe. They did so with a mighty "yes."

With 35 of the 42 electoral districts counted, the vote was 838,987 in favor and 177,774 against. The "yes" vote was ahead in all remaining districts.

Lynch's Fianna Fail party, the soldiers of destiny, proclaimed "a fantastic victory—we aimed at 2 to 1 in favor but it looks closer to 4 to 1."

The result gives the government power to amend Ireland's 1937 constitution so that laws of the European community will have full force here.

A victory for entry had been expected but not on this scale. It represented a revolutionary turn away from the isolationism which dominated Irish political thought through most of the 50 years since the break with Britain.

The vote also represents a big boost for promarketeers in Denmark and Norway, two more applicants who have yet to make a referendum decision on community membership.

Britain, the fourth applicant, decides in Parliament and not by national vote.

The decisive factor in the big "yes" vote was the belief of Irish farmers that they can only benefit from access to a huge market hungry for their beef.

The government earlier indicated it would interpret a favorable vote as a sign the people are ready for a crack down on the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Through its political front, Sinn Fein, the IRA campaigned against joining Europe, contending that community membership would extend partition of Ireland for all time and wreck all claim to national sovereignty. The IRA seeks union with British-ruled Northern Ireland, by force if necessary.

Fund cut threatens UI physics profs' pay

A cut in funds to the University of Iowa Department of Nuclear Physics may result in a 25 per cent salary cut for some faculty members in that department, and the elimination of several research assistants at the end of this semester, according to Richard R. Carlson, professor of physics.

After this semester, funds will not be available to pay professors and research assistants due to the elimination of funds from The National Science Foundation (NSF), Carlson said.

Despite rumors that the cut in funds would close down the department, and prevent doctoral candidates from receiving their degrees here, Carlson said the department would continue to operate with a reduced amount of research.

Carlson said he and Assist. Prof. Raymon T. Carpenter recently talked to the administrative assistants of Congressman Neal Smith and NSF representatives in an attempt to get the funding renewed, but he expected no results.

There is a good chance, Carlson said, that the cut in funds would mean the loss of some faculty members.

Carpenter said the cut was part of a general cut in funds to all schools with nuclear physics departments the size of Iowa's.

"If you're big enough to have some political influence you get money," Carpenter said. "If you aren't you're going to lose funds."

Carpenter said there was a chance that the Department of Nuclear Physics would receive a small NSF grant to tide it over until they have a chance to submit a new proposal for funds.

The department at present employs five graduate students and three undergraduates as research assistants.

Humphrey leads, but McGovern closing in OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, who defeated Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in the presidential popularity phase of Nebraska's primary election Tuesday, also moved ahead Thursday in the competition for committed national convention delegates.

Latest vote totals, although still incomplete, showed 12 of the delegate front-runners committed to McGovern, 10 to Humphrey.

Tallies at an earlier stage had given McGovern 10, and Humphrey 12.

McGovern appeared in good position to pick up even more delegates when tabulations are completed. Current figures lack any votes from Lancaster County (Lincoln), where McGovern was favored better than two-to-one in the presidential preference voting. The county has about 10 per cent of the state's Democrats.

Voters selected 22 of 24 Democratic delegates, and 16 Republican delegates in Tuesday's primary, with each of the three congressional districts electing a share of the total delegation.

Delegates ran either committed or uncommitted, and results of the presidential preference voting were not binding on delegates.

President Nixon apparently picked up all 16 GOP delegates. Of the 142 bidders for these 16 spots, 125 were pledged to Nixon.

Rounding out the 24-member Democratic delegation will be the national committeeman and committeewoman, to be chosen at a party convention in Lincoln next month.

The Lincoln-area Democratic delegate votes would affect the outcome in the 1st District, where Thursday's figures showed six Humphrey and two McGovern delegates in the lead.

In the 2nd District, which includes the Omaha area, McGovern had six of the delegate leaders, and Humphrey two.

To promote absentee voting

The Student Senate Committee for Legislative Action is promoting voter interest through letter mailing, door to door canvassing and the use of absentee ballots.

Committee member David L. Smith said that to vote an absentee ballot Iowa Citizens must make a written request to the Johnson County Auditor.

When properly filled out both the application and the ballot must be signed in the presence of a Notary Public. Any city or county clerk will do this for no charge.

Smith stressed the importance of mailing absentee ballots on time. "If an absentee ballot doesn't get to the county auditor before election day it will not be counted," he said.

OPINIONS

Connection

Like most people I agree with President Boyd's statement last week that the trashing was not related to the cause of peace. I've since qualified my view. I don't think that the motives were related to the peace movements but the effects could be. This is the scenario, as the Pentagon puts it.

After x number of years of trashing in the business district during the spring the Board of Regents issues an ultimatum to Sandy saying in effect one more broken window and you get to resign. This action is taken in response to the backlash against the university due to the few students who take part in the actual trashing and the larger number who form the support troops. The backlash takes the form of cutbacks in funding by the legislature which in turn has driven away many key faculty members who hope to find greener and more peaceful pastures; bad mouthing by the media, and worried parents refusing to allow their children to attend this den of iniquity.

The central administration sees that both their jobs are at stake and that their professional prestige is endangered by the flight of top level faculty members. They also realize that the oppressive measures that they have taken in the past have not worked e.g. banning meetings on the Pentacrest except between 3 and 6 a.m., taking recognition away from all groups that have the words "democratic," "alliance," "coalition," "worker," or "student" in their names, etc.

Having realized all these things they then begin secret talks with Simon Piller, Bruce Johnson, Carmen Clark and Jerry Sies in an effort to negotiate the differences between the university and whomever does the trashing. The talks break down because there are essentially no political demands being made by the trashers and the people the university has picked as their spokespersons. Then in a sudden burst of inspiration someone in the administration mentions that if the symbols of the university's complicity in the war were removed so would the focal points of most of the disturbances, rallies, sit-ins and stink bomb attacks.

So, in an effort to save their jobs, prestige and the university the members of the administration go before the Regents to report that they are no longer accepting contracts with the Rock Island Arsenal, training officers for the army and air force or allowing the military to use the Placement Office. The Regents accept the idea, no more trashing takes place, confidence is restored in the university, the money starts flowing in again and the football team goes to the Rose Bowl.

So, there may be some connection between trashing the merchants and the cause of peace. Put simply, every broken window may be another step toward the day when the administration, not out of any moral commitment but out of fear for their jobs and the prestige of the school, stops being part of the government's war machine.

Debate

Tuesday night I stood on the footbridge over Riverside Drive and debated politics for a half hour with an Iowa Highway Patrolman.

"I don't have any quarrel with these people wanting to protest, I just think they should do it somewhere where they won't be disrupting other people," he said, visibly exhausted after driving in from Fort Dodge.

"I don't believe in mob rule. The majority of the people of this country have elected a man to run it, and, in November, they'll have a chance to elect somebody else."

I told him that it is unfortunate in this country that people who have something to say have to "disrupt" other persons in order to make them stop and listen. If a person were walking towards a gorge, I would physically restrain (disrupt) him from walking over the edge. Likewise, when students and other persons concerned about the rape of the world see that this country is being led into nuclear war by power-hungry kings, they will physically make other less-concerned individuals aware of what they consider a life-or-death issue.

I told him this country has evolved into a dictatorship and that Nixon long ago had stopped listening to the voices of the people he is allegedly there to represent. He wasn't awarded the kingdom for four years to do anything he wanted with it, and that, Mr. Highway Patrolman Sir, is exactly what Mr. Nixon is up to. He won't listen to us and he won't listen to Congress and he won't even listen to his own advisers. The man's become a stark raving mad dictator, and you have just driven 200 miles to defend him.

It was an interesting debate. He agreed with most of what I threw at him, but, as a protector of the highways, he personally would not stand for the blockage of an intersection. He didn't want to have to go down to the street and drag limp bodies 300 feet to a waiting bus. He had no quarrel with the protestors' assorted causes, he simply wanted the highway cleared of bodies.

He spent the night on the bridge, trying to figure out what those other patrolmen were talking about with the people they had gathered to disperse. The patrolmen below soon regrouped in a straight line, and my debating partner turned to another patrolman.

"I don't know what the hell is going on now. Let's just stay up here, and if anybody comes up here that shouldn't, we can grab them."

Nobody did. The last I saw of him, he was twirling his four-foot white ash club and staring down into the reflections off the Iowa River.

The person in this picture was hit by napalm and burned... If someone is hit by napalm, you can't go to help him. If someone went to help, he also would catch on fire. I thought about this when I was in the hills: in our lives now we didn't know which day we would be troubled or which day we would die. Every day we just stayed in the holes in the forest without seeing sunlight.

Action

To the editor:

This letter is in response to Monday's editorial (May 8), "What to Do?". As an American homemaker and mother and as an American citizen and World citizen, I urge every one in the University community to examine his or her position on the present national and international crisis and to take appropriate political action. The United States is at war without declaring war. Is this an abuse of the peacetime powers of the presidency? If you think so, write to our Senators and Congressmen and let them know. Our Constitution has a remedy for the abuse of Presidential powers.

Another possible action is writing letters to Kurt Waldheim, Sec'y General of the United Nations (New York, 10017) deploring the war-like actions of our government and asking the family of nations to rebuke and if necessary ostracize our government which is in such flagrant violation of international law and order.

In my opinion, appropriate political action at this point is far more important than flying the flag, marches and demonstrations. Can we make our democracy work in a crisis—or do we abandon participatory government for a "father (the President) knows best" dictatorship? Our leaders are eroding the basis of domestic law and order by insisting on international lawlessness and disorder.

Disruption

To the editor:

As a resident of Iowa City, I was pleased to see non-violent resistance return to the U of I campus in Tuesday night's demonstration. It certainly seems to have more of the place in the anti-war movement than the trashing actions of the preceding Thursday night. But I was certainly disappointed to find out twenty-six people were arrested for disorderly conduct while blocking traffic when only eight people were arrested for destroying $20,000-$30,000 of property the week before.

Are Iowa City's priorities so fucked up that blocking traffic is a more serious crime than wanton vandalism? Perhaps we all need a disruption of our lives and traffic patterns to bring to mind the immoral disruption of life at its most basic level which President Nixon is forcing upon thousands of innocent Vietnamese by bombing and mining their traffic patterns.

LETTERS

SOMETHING TO CONSIDER:

After yesterday's speech by the president of "our country" I was firmly convinced that we need something more than "the lesser of two evils."

So in an attempt to eliminate such a problem in the future I have come up with a new form of presidential ballot for the upcoming election: (pick one)

- A. REPUBLICAN
Richard M. Nixon— V.P. ????????
- B. DEMOCRAT
George McGovern— V.P. ????????
- C. INDEPENDENT
George Wallace— V.P. ????????
- D. NONE OF THE ABOVE
- E. (your choice)

As you can see I have at least learned in my 14 years of formal education some practical use for those idiot forms we all have to cope with. You might say that the form matches the candidates—or you might say the form is symbolic of our society—or you might say.....

In all sincerity,

Dear Mr. President,

The undersigned faculty and graduate students, a majority of the Department of Sociology, protest the actions you announced in your televised address of May 8, 1972. We feel that these actions are an unwarranted escalation of the conflict in Vietnam. We call for the repudiation of these measures and for the immediate withdrawal of American forces of all kinds from Southeast Asia.

Oppose Boyd

To the editor:

We the undersigned graduate students of American Civilization protest the prohibition of gatherings on the Pentacrest by President Boyd. The Pentacrest is the only place in the center of Iowa City that functions as a common for the students and the residents of Iowa City. Certainly the Pentacrest is technically under the control of the University, but its character as a point of assembly and a park for free public use makes it property of a different kind than say, a classroom building. Without the Pentacrest, people are denied the possibility of free assembly. But they will not be denied.

This is not to advocate violent action; but one of the motives of the allegedly "senseless" vandalism that took place several nights ago is that people feel, and feel so quite correctly, that they are denied an effective voice in the conduct of the country. Attempting to close the Pentacrest is a provocation to further outbursts because it increases the sense of being deliberately rendered ineffective. It denies people, as well as voice.

President Boyd's use of the necessity of study for final exams as the reason for his action is a transparent and ridiculous excuse for a policy that, along with the occupation of the university by police, supports the intolerable actions of Nixon.

We reject President Boyd's pronouncement and the supportive action of the faculty senate.

Supports Nixon

To the editor:

President Nixon's moves to block the flow of Soviet arms to the North Vietnamese Communists may yet prove to be the decisive step which will win the peace in Vietnam.

From this moment, on the North Vietnamese invaders are in a race against time. Their present stockpiles of Russian and Red Chinese arms cannot last them more than a few months. As soon as these stockpiles run out, they will lack the means to continue their murderous aggression. In simple terms, they have no more than six months to shoot, kill, and burn their way to conquest before their military machine collapses.

If the South Vietnamese defenders can hold out for just a few more months, the cause of freedom and national self-determination shall emerge victorious. The only way that the Communists could then succeed in their goal of conquest is if our domestic fifth column—those of us who either secretly or openly long for a Red government in South Vietnam—give them in America what they cannot win by their cold-blooded invasion in Asia.

The Iowa College Young Republican Federation will continue its all-out support of the policies of President Nixon, just as we supported those of Democratic Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, in the defense of freedom wherever in the world it may be threatened.

'Made for Each Other:' an incredibly fine film

"Made For Each Other" is an incredibly fine film. I think that in years to come it may, along with films like "The Last Picture Show" and "Five Easy Pieces," be regarded in the same light by which we see the films of Jean Renoir, Francois Truffaut, and all the best films which attempt to open windows on areas of the human condition, articulating the shape of an emotional continuum that energizes our lives, gives them as much meaning as we are able to see, and finally defeats or fulfills those lives.

What might seem brutal or callous in the portrayals of these characters finally becomes a loving touch. This is just a comedy of grotesques. For Balogna and Taylor these people aren't grotesques. They may seem so at first, but then we become familiar with them and their problems which don't seem so much farcical as they do common, typical. And it's just these sorts of "common" problems that kill people's spirits. There are no Cary Grants or Robert Redfords in this movie. These people have to struggle to "get it together." It's hard.

isn't another intellectual head trip with bravura techniques or bogging notions of minimal art. Balogna and Taylor aren't ashamed to regard life with feeling, in a light that illuminates the comic absurdities of our actions yet recognizes the desperate necessity for them. A kind of mellow sadness is developed that is finally very hopeful.

—Ted Hicks

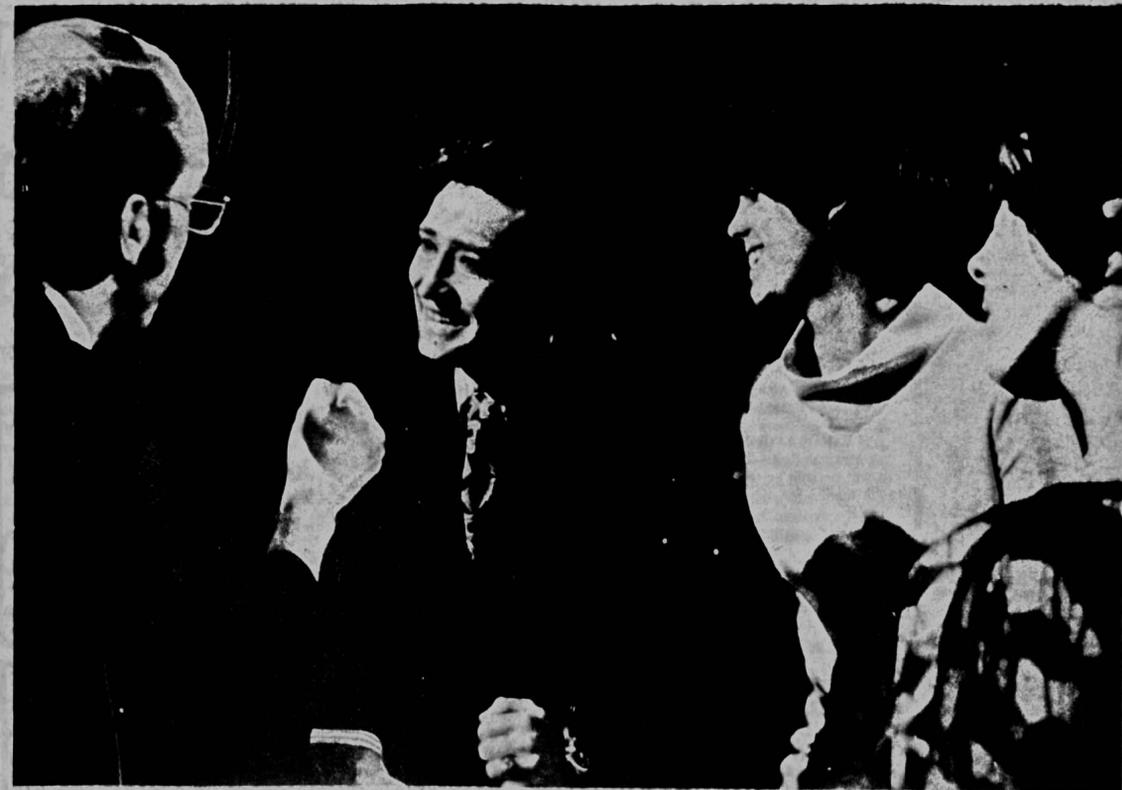

The focus of "Made For Each Other" is experience, feeling, and whatever all defines existence, which in this film is seen as nothing unless it becomes co-existence, which can only happen through communication. The desperate fear that we will remain alone in our grotesque, dying shells and the attempts to break out and make some kind of contact, to be "in touch," are seen through the struggles of two people, played by Joseph Balogna and Renee Taylor, and their efforts to understand each other in terms of themselves.

Balogna and Taylor also wrote the screenplay. The opening scene, an emergency group encounter session on Christmas Eve, seems like a pretty cheap laugh-getter in light of the final scenes, an apocalyptic New Year's Day dinner at Balogna's parents' home and a final confrontation on a New York pier. These last scenes have a suicidal drive which denies any feelings we might have had earlier that this is allowed himself a "voice." It is difficult to see the film and not be reminded (in a reverse way) of Visconti's "The Damned," which was another version of the rise of the Nazis. Not because the styles are the same (Visconti was far more dramatic and allegorical), but because each film dealt with the creation of hell in human terms. And when it is brought into that kind of focus, it works like a dagger in the mind which is far more effective than piercing the heart.

At the center is Micol, daughter of Professor Finzi-Continis, who withdraws to the family's garden estate, encourages and then rejects her lover, but who, despite the outward maintenance of what is usual behavior, knows each day that passes is a loss. Because of this, when one of the Nazi officials overturns a table, smashing a small piece of statuary, it actually conveys a sense of sacrilege and is the only time the director has allowed himself a "voice."

Mary Zielinski

In Abe Burrows' comedy "Cactus Flower," at the Community Theatre (left to right), Julian (Ron Carlson) at a nightclub with his dental patient (Dick Summerwill), who is pretending to be the date of Julian's nurse (Dulcie Sinn), who is pretending to be Julian's nymphomaniac wife, to help him woo his girlfriend (Mary Fowler), who wouldn't want to be a "homewrecker!"

Pretending

de Sica film: a dagger in the mind

Vittorio de Sica has one unique talent (and, considering its range, he doesn't need anything else): he can reduce history to where it can be contained in one human face, one human gesture.

The muted tones of "The Garden of the Finzi-Continis" form an underlying cushion that both wraps and obscures the slow horror that finally rips it apart in the film's last few minutes. And like the real horror that has continually been part of man it is without blood, without open violence—only one very elderly woman crying silently into a handkerchief. But that old woman is the essence of a people who unknowingly, unwittingly and unresistingly were to be slaughtered in the name of Aryan superiority.

Unlike many of the Academy Awards' choices, there can be little doubt that de Sica's film deserved its acclaim as the best foreign film. It is without flaws in its telling of just what the Nazi's solution of the "Jewish Problem" was like in the Italian town of Ferrana between 1938 and 1943.

Rather than try to encompass the entire of that period, de Sica cut it down to a handful of people, all centering around the wealthy, aloof and, unfortunately, blind Finzi-Continis who believed the wall around their garden could shut out hatred, prejudice and finally, death.

Yet, there is not a single act of violence in the open, confrontation terms most of us understand and might be able to con-

ter. Instead, de Sica has slowly built up the pattern that has always accompanied the human destroyers: repression, racial laws, discrimination and dispossession.

More important, he has shown how the victims themselves, because they could not believe that they would face anything worse than third-class citizenship, assisted in the destruction.

Rather than outrage, the film offers irrevocable truth, shaded subtly by the human need of maintaining some kind of daily, ordinary life. It is precisely this insistence on trying to live by old standards and by adapting values that makes every action, every simple gesture in the film painful and telling.

By making the film actually a form of love story between Micol and Giorgio, the rising Nazi tide becomes the background, but it is a background that will ultimately engulf everything in front of it.

It is a measure of de Sica's skill that he resisted any possible temptation to break the pace of the film by having any scene between those on the "list" and their "captors" proceed other than with great

The New Iowa Players receive standing ovation for production of 'Oliver'

The New Iowa Players in their production of Lionel Bart's "Oliver", directed by Cheri Russell and Lloyd Stockdale, deserve praise for their high ideals, talent and enthusiasm. "Oliver" has played to perhaps eight hundred people already, and will run three more times this weekend: tonight at 8 p.m., and Saturday, May 13, at 2 p.m. and also at 8 p.m., at the Iowa City Catholic Grade School (St. Pat's) at Dubuque and Court Streets.

Among the highlights are several superb characterizations. From the beginning, Steve Arnold, playing Mr. Bumble, captures the audience with his fine acting in a part at once pretentious, sublime and ludicrous. Opposite him is the Widow Corney, Alice Mindrum. Certainly their duet, "I Shall Scream" epitomizes their roles and displays their talents well.

One special aspect of this show is the number of young boys required in the cast. Fagin's boys and the Workhouse Gang are special audience pleasers. One wonders, also, just what glory lies ahead for such splendid talent shown by 10 year-old Rob Zanger, playing Oliver, and 14 year-old Pete Duncan, as the "Artful Dodger." Both were rather phenomenal all around.

A special degree of talent hits the stage when Rinde Eckert plays the part of the old crook, Fagin. Besides re-creating exquisitely Dickens' character, his natural talent supplementing the part, he gave those members of the audience with an ear for music well-done an added pleasure in his solo number, "Reviewing the Situation." Becky Vail most definitely also pleased musically. In the part of Nancy, her big number, "As Long As He Needs Me," combined pathos and utter beauty, and her acting talent was strongly in evidence, too. Bill Sikes, the man she loves, was done by Howard Pinhasik. This part, too, showed abundant talent. It is a villainous, cruel part, and Howard's acting impressed the audience as such. His other assets are a good singing voice and clear enunciation.

John Kelly lent comic relief to a part one may possibly have expected to be macabre, that of Mr. Sowerberry, the director of the "coffin shop" in which Oliver is apprenticed. He and his wife, played by Gina Pesses, discuss Oliver's future in the number, "That's Your Funeral," which gives him a chance to demonstrate that he sings well, too.

Other characters whose performances are credible are: Jeff Severson, the roel of Noah Claypole, Jan Mogren as Bet (Nancy's sidekick), and Janet Mullally, playing Mrs. Bedwin. For the most part the musical aspect of the show was very well done, with many outstanding and well-prepared solos. The choreography was the one aspect of the show which might have been re-done. The steps were mostly simple ones, but quite adequate, and why balk at simplicity anyway? The size of the pit orchestra was kept to a minimum. Their playing added a special important focus to the show.

Not unexpectedly, the Finale was a grand, clinching gesture that topped off this fine production. The whole cast appears in a review of the musical selections, and when Oliver appears in the reprise of "I'd Do Anything," a musical gem by any standards, the delighted audience reaction is shown by a well-deserved standing ovation.

If you like sex...

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you like sex the chances are good you'll like marijuana, a government commission reports. But it cautions that the drug is no aphrodisiac, nor does it heighten sexual enjoyment for all users.

The National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse said it found evidence that marijuana appears to intensify pleasurable experiences and heighten the senses for many users, even though parts of these effects may be psychological.

"It is this fact which probably explains why substantial proportions of marijuana users characterize their sexual experiences under the influence of the drug as particularly intense, prolonged, sensuous and pleasurable," the commission said.

It said substantial numbers of persons report they are more interested in sex after smoking pot, and found evidence that marijuana relaxes inhibitions and reduces a person's normal restraints against sex, allowing users to respond more freely to sexual desires.

But even so, marijuana isn't the aphrodisiac that many of its fans claim it to be, the commission said.

While pot makes sex more enjoyable for a lot of men and women, the commission said, it also has no such effect on a lot of others, and may even decrease sexual desire in some.

"At best, available evidence is inconclusive," the commission said. It said research indicates generally that the more a person uses marijuana and the more he or she expects it to intensify sexual pleasure, the more likely it is to do so.

Research also showed that marijuana users are more sexually active than non-users. For example, the commission said, one survey of more than 500 college undergraduates found that 72 percent of marijuana users had engaged in pre-marital sex, while only 34 percent of nonusers had done so.

But the commission said it isn't clear whether pot leads to sex or sex leads to pot. The same survey found that of those who reported having sex before age 16, only 7 percent denied trying any illegal drug, while fully 47 percent of the virgins said they stayed clear of drugs as well as sex.

The commission's findings on marijuana and sex occupy five pages of a 1,282-page appendix to its main report, released earlier this year.

That report, which found no evidence that marijuana is harmful when smoked less than once a day, omitted any mention of the sex findings. One commission official said they were left out because they're "dynamite" and would have drawn attention from the main findings.

...you'll like pot

Survival Line

We're from out of state and have been receiving mail forwarded from our former address. It has always been free in the past but today we received an alumni bulletin and were charged for it. Is this a new post office policy or just a mistake? —A.K.

According to Russel Luth, a clerk at the Post Office here in Iowa City, all forwarded first class mail is free. Anything other than first class will carry a forwarding charge with it. Evidently this particular letter was the latter.

My girlfriend (a non-student), is interested in birth control devices. Where can she get information, (and a prescription), without parental notification? —K.C.

Your girlfriend should contact the Family Planning Clinic at the University Hospital. They have no guidelines regarding age, and there is no charge for the examination. The patient is asked to pay for her own prescription unless she is financially unable to do so.

Also the Women's Center, on 3 E. Market Street, can give her some information on local doctors; who to go to, what the regulations are, etc. Their telephone number is 353-6265 or 353-6266.

I am having trouble finding a Water Safety Instructorship course. I have already taken it, but I need it renewed, for this summer. Can you help me?

Sorry, but you're out of luck now. The Water Safety Instructorship course at the Fieldhouse is just finishing up according to Bob Allen, swim coach. The Red Cross may have such a course later on this summer, but it has nothing scheduled at this time. Maybe you can hire a private instructor to prepare you for this summer, if you really need the course.

Big 10 crown on line today and Saturday

A Big Ten championship is on the line for Iowa's baseball team this weekend in doubleheaders here with Wisconsin Friday and Northwestern Saturday.

A four-game sweep would give the Hawkeyes their first outright conference title in 33 years. Iowa carries a 9-3 record and seven straight Big Ten victories into today's series.

Northwestern leads the league with an 8-2 mark and has games remaining at Minnesota, Michigan and Michigan State. The Gophers, in strong contention with an 8-4 record, finish this weekend against Northwestern and Wisconsin.

Coach Duane Banks will send his two best right handers, seniors Bill Heckroth (6-2) and Mark Tschopp (5-2), against Wisconsin, starting at 2 p.m. Jim Wise (2-1) and Dan Dalziel (2-1) will get the call in the 1 p.m. doubleheader with Northwestern.

The Hawkeyes have played exceptionally fine baseball in sweeping three straight conference twinbills on the road, getting good pitching, solid hitting and airtight defense.

Iowa collected 59 hits in the last six games (42 innings), and is led at the plate by outfielder Larry Schutzius' .344 average and 28 RBIs. Shortstop Ray Smith (.330), first baseman Tom Hurn (.312), catcher Jim Sundberg (.283) and outfielder Fred Mims (.272) are also swinging hot bats. Sundberg has cracked seven home runs and Hurn five.

The Hawkeyes, who have committed only one error in the last six games, can establish a school record of eight straight Big Ten victories by beating Wisconsin in the first game. If they sweep the Badgers, they will become the first Iowa team to win 11 conference games in a season.

Wisconsin has won four in its last five league games and is fourth in the standings with a 5-4 record. Tom Rodel (3-0) and Dan Domski (2-4) are expected to pitch for the Badgers here Friday.

Northwestern leads the Big Ten in batting with a .327 team average and is topped by shortstop John McCarthy, the league's top hitter at .519.

The Wildcats are scheduled to send their two ace pitchers—Bob Artemenko and Steve McMullen—against Minnesota today. They will come back with Lynn Lyall and either Rolf Baglien or Russ Colberg Saturday against the Hawkeyes.

Net aches gone for loop meet

Iowa's tennis team hopes to be at full strength for the Big Ten championships starting today at Madison, Wis.

The Hawkeyes, 14-6 overall and 6-3 in the conference, haven't played with their top six players in over three weeks. But Iowa Coach John Winnie thinks the injury problem is almost eliminated.

"Bruce Nagel, Ian Phillips and Rob Griswold all look pretty good at this point," said Winnie. "Phillips and Griswold will definitely play and Nagel will most likely compete."

Nagel had tendonitis in the shoulder, Phillips a groin pull and Griswold a back injury.

Iowa is fourth in the Big Ten after dual-meet competition. Michigan leads with 67 points, Indiana has 53, Illinois 50 and Iowa 47. The points indicate how many individual matches a team has won.

"We're in fourth place now but by no means out of the title picture," said Winnie. "The way the championships are structured gives a team like ours a good shot at the title providing there are a few upsets along the way."

Rod Kubat (10-8) will go at No. 1 singles, Bruce Nagel (6-7) No. 2, Lee Wright (11-6) No. 3, Ian Phillips (9-2), No. 4, Rob Griswold (8-5) No. 5 and Steven Dickinson (15-5) No. 6. In the doubles competition Nagel and Wright (7-6) will go at No. 1, Kubat and Phillips (8-3) at No. 2 and Griswold and Dickinson (4-4) at No. 3.

Bruins ice final 3-2

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Bruins won their second Stanley Cup in three years and the fifth in the team's history Thursday night with a 3-2 victory over the New York Rangers to win the best-of-seven series 4-2.

Bobby Orr, the Bruins remarkable defenseman, gave Boston its first goal in the opening period. Wayne Cashman then added a pair of final period shots to give Boston the victory.

After 21 years

Willie returns to Gotham city

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, a living legend with the Giants for two decades, returned to New York Thursday as a member of the Mets and immediately disclaimed any role as a prima donna of special status.

"The Mets have a good team—they're not going to keep me out there just because I'm Willie Mays," the 41-year-old superstar said after being dealt to the Mets by San Francisco for a promising minor league pitcher and an undisclosed sum of cash.

"I'm not going to be something on display. I have to play ball. If used in the right way, I think I can do a good job for the Mets," he added.

The announcement of the trade, on again and off again during the last week, was made following a poorly kept secret meeting among M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the Mets; Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants; Bob Scheffing, Mets' general manager, and Yogi Berra, the Mets' manager.

Mays flew down from Montreal Wednesday night. Scheffing and Berra were given a hurry-up summons shortly before noon after Grant, Stoneham and Mays had talked for approximately 1½ hours.

Scheffing was permitted to make the announcement before the grinding newsreel cameras and the flashing bulbs of the still photographers.

He revealed that to acquire the services of the colorful home-run hitting outfielder the Mets gave up Charlie Williams, a 24-year-old Met rookie right-handed pitcher last year now with the Tidewater International League farm team, and a hunk of cash. Estimates of the money involved ranged from $100,000 to $200,000.

The Mets assume May's $165,000 annual salary, part of a two-year contract which expires at the end of the current season.

After the formal midtown announcement, Mays and his new employers, Grant and Scheffing, were whisked out to Shea Stadium for additional exposure before the newest Met was to take a plane for San Francisco to clean up his personal affairs.

Class thinclads to perform here

Two world-class performers headline a Big Ten track triangular here Saturday afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock.

Iowa hosts Purdue and Minnesota in the Hawkeyes' final action before the league championship meet at Champaign May 26-27.

Purdue's Jeff Bolin is the Big Ten long jump champ, and his leap of 26-2¼ is the best in the U.S. this year. But the real story is Larry Burton, who enrolled at Purdue on a football grant and decided to give track a whirl.

Last week he ran 220 yards in 20.3 seconds, the fastest listed time in the world this spring. During the indoor season he tied the world record of 5.9 in the 60, and he has done 9.4 in the 100 twice.

Iowa's Mark Steffen, a senior from Davenport, jumped into prominence last week by running the 660 in 1:18.5—the best time in the Big Ten—in a victory at Northwestern.

The Hawkeyes' John Tefer, a Cedar Rapids senior, owns the league's best mark in the pole vault, 16 feet. Tefer won his specialty at Northwestern and also scored points in the high jump, long jump, discus and 440 relay.

Dick Eisenlauer, Hawkeye freshman from Des Moines, has the Big Ten's second best time in the 440 of 47.3 seconds. He won that event at the league's indoor meet.

Hawk golfers to test Drake, Iowa State twice

The Iowa golf team will compete against Drake and Iowa State twice this weekend. The three teams will meet in Des Moines Friday and in Ames Saturday.

The Hawkeyes go into the weekend following two impressive showings: Iowa split its team and finished 1-2 in the Iowa Invitational last Tuesday on the South Finkbine course. Last weekend the Hawkeyes finished third in the Northern Intercollegiate. The only Big Ten team to top Iowa was Indiana and all conference schools were entered.

"We've been playing some exceptionally good golf" said Coach Chuck Zwienen. "I still think we have the potential to beat anyone in the Big Ten."

Joe Heinz leads the team with a 76.4 stroke average. Brad Post is playing the best golf at this time, however. Post finished twelfth in medal play at the Northern Intercollegiate and tied for the top spot in the Iowa Invitational with a 73.
