CUE

The 1972-73 executive board of the Commission for University Entertainment (CUE) was announced Wednesday.

Don Pugsley and Bev Horton will serve as co-directors of Cue next year while Steve Stroud will act as secretary-treasurer.

CUE is the student organization that schedules major concerts throughout the year.

Greg Page, David Sitz, Jerry Showman and Mike O'Brien will be responsible for publicity and promotion.

In charge of stage and lighting for each concert will be Joe Gauthier, Dan Czolgosz and Martha Van Allen.

Don Edelbrock will serve in a new position, liaison to Hancher Auditorium, and will work to possibly schedule jazz and blues in the new auditorium.

The executive board takes office immediately.

Wounded

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three persons wounded in the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace were reported in improving condition Wednesday by hospital authorities.

Capt. E. C. Dohard, an Alabama state trooper assigned to guard the governor, has returned to Montgomery, Ala., officials said. He was treated but never hospitalized for a flesh wound of the right side.

Dora Thompson, a Wallace campaign worker, was discharged from Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md., where she was treated for a leg wound. She, too, officials said, returned to Alabama.

Nicholas Zarvos, a Secret Service agent who was wounded in the throat, was reported in satisfactory condition at Walter Reed Army Hospital Wednesday.

Zarvos underwent six hours of surgery at Eugene Leland Memorial Hospital before being transferred.

Busing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees reached final agreement early Wednesday on a landmark $18.5-billion higher-education bill which may be rejected because it is entangled in the dispute over school busing.

In breaking the deadlock on the bill in the early morning hours, the conferees watered down three antibusing riders added to the bill in the House and the compromise measure could be in trouble in that branch as a result.

They emphasized that they are counting on the great benefits it will mean for all of the nation's colleges and universities as well as the 8 million U.S. college students to generate enough support to win final passage.

Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The Atlantic Fleet carrier Saratoga joined the Indochina war for the first time Thursday and immediately sent its planes into action around besieged An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, the 7th Fleet announced.

The Saratoga's arrival in the South China Sea boosted carrier strength in the area to an all-time high of six. A seventh carrier, the Ticonderoga, is on its way from San Diego.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew made a 2½-hour visit to Saigon, flying in from Bangkok, Thailand. He conferred on the war situation with President Nguyen Van Thieu, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

Pay raises

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The 180 teachers employed by the State of Iowa — and possibly 17,000 other state employees — should know by Friday if the state will pay them increased wages they would have received last fall if the wage freeze hadn't been in effect.

The state hasn't paid the increase that would have been due between Sept. 1 and Nov. 16, but officials of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) have ruled Iowa must make the payments.

State officials contacted the federal Wage Board in Washington about the matter, and learned the board wouldn't enforce the IRS ruling.

"It's difficult to keep up with those people," Gov. Robert Ray said Wednesday.

Egypt

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat has told the United States to cut the staff of its diplomatic mission here in half within a month, American diplomats said Thursday.

They confirmed a report that first appeared in the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram.

Al-Ahram said the decision was taken to protest U.S. policy of "consolidating the continued Israeli aggression through the occupation of Arab territories."

It came four days after a speech in which Sadat reiterated an earlier statement that he had "ruptured all my relations with the United States because of deceit, delusion and lies."

L.A. faculty blocks GPA proposal

Defeat plan letting students drop up to 16 hours from grade average

The faculty of the university of Iowa College of Liberal Arts defeated Wednesday a proposal to allow students to drop a maximum of 16 semester hours credit from computation of grade point averages.

The faculty also voted down a proposal to consider courses numbered 80 and above advanced level credit in meeting the requirements for a bachelor of general studies (BGS) degree.

The first proposal the faculty defeated was proposed by the Educational Policies Committee (EPC) and would have allowed a student with at least 90 hours—but no more than 104 semester hours completed—to request that up to 16 semester hours of grades and credits not be counted in computing his G.P.A.

Instead, the faculty voted to give the Liberal Arts Advisory Office more flexibility in allowing a student to use the second grade option.

The second grade option, as it reads now, allows a student to repeat a course and have the second grade only counted in computing the grade point average.

However, a student must repeat the course the next semester that it is offered, for the same number of hours, and the course being repeated must have the same name and number as the original course.

In addition, the second grade option did not go into effect until the spring semester of the 1970-71 school year, thereby depriving students from repeating courses taken before the rule went into effect.

According to Assoc. Dean Hugh Kelso, the advisory office will now establish new rules regarding which courses a student may repeat.

Kelso added that his office will allow students to repeat courses which under the old rule they could not repeat, but no definite procedures have been set yet.

The EPC had also recommended that courses numbered 80 or above be counted the same as 100 level courses towards completion of the BGS degree.

According to the present rules, a student seeking a BGS degree must complete 60 or more hours of 100 level courses.

The EPC felt that courses numbered 80 or above were as advanced as 100 level courses and that the reason for their being below 100 was to limit enrollment in these courses to undergraduates.

However, the faculty disagreed and voted down the proposal, calling it "detrimental to scholarship."

One faculty member stated that the BGS program was started as an opportunity for scholastically-minded students to broaden their educations by not concentrating in one major.

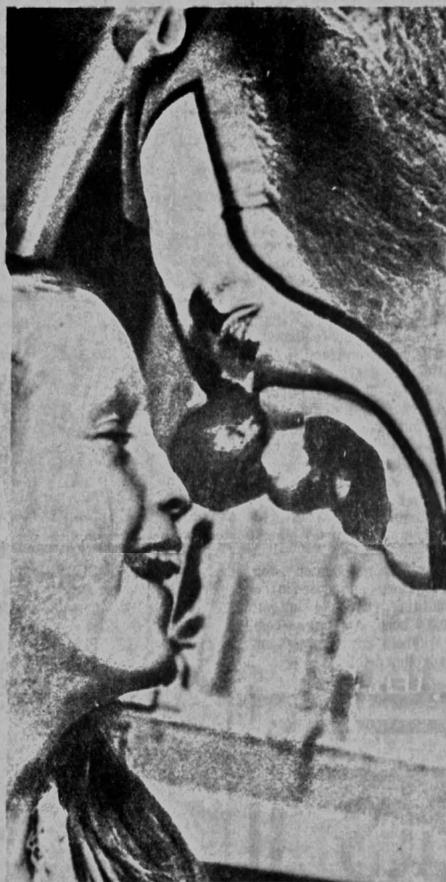

"Instead," the faculty member argued, most of those who seek a BGS degree seek to "...dilute graduation requirements."

Still one thin dime

California crucial for stumbling HHH

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign appears to be in deepening trouble as the race for the Democratic presidential nomination moves west towards California's crucial primary June 6.

Short on funds, the Minnesota senator has cut back in some states to put virtually all of his resources into California, where he hopes to halt the momentum of Sen. George McGovern's drive.

If he can't, the nomination may be McGovern's.

Humphrey and McGovern meet in a head-to-head battle in the California primary, where Gov. George C. Wallace of

Associated Press news analysis

Alabama is not on the ballot. The winner of the California primary takes away 271 national convention delegate votes.

The results in Tuesday's two primaries illustrate Humphrey's increasing problems.

In Michigan, a state he carried in the 1968 presidential election, Humphrey finished a poor third, more than 100,000 votes behind McGovern, of South Dakota. He did especially poorly in blue collar and suburban areas.

In Maryland, only an overwhelming majority in Baltimore's predominantly black 7th Congressional District enabled Humphrey to finish ahead of McGovern for second place behind Wallace.

The results were the latest in a series of weaker-than-expected performances by Humphrey in the industrial heartland that was the center of his 1968 strength and promised to be so again this year.

In Pennsylvania, though the clear winner of the preference vote, Humphrey won 55 delegates to a strong showing of 39 for McGovern. In Ohio, a bare 20,000-vote statewide majority saved Humphrey from a disaster by giving him 38 at-large delegates for a total of 74, to McGovern's 66.

Only a strong showing in a black congressional district in Cleveland saved Ohio for the Minnesota senator. Similarly, black votes were responsible for his second-place showing in Florida and for the one congressional district he won in Wisconsin.

In Michigan, even his black support began to diminish. McGovern increased his share of the black vote, and New York Rep. Shirley Chisholm won some of it, too.

Now, the Democratic primary race moves on to states which, for the most part, seem more favorable to McGovern than to Humphrey.

In Oregon, in fact, Humphrey has decided against contesting next Tuesday's primary. McGovern's only active rival is Rep. Patsy Mink of Hawaii. Humphrey plans some campaigning for Rhode Island's primary the same day. Polls there show McGovern ahead.

In New Jersey, which holds its primary the same day as California, Humphrey appears to have strong organization and labor support. But McGovern has a strong volunteer organization and appears to be in position to capture close to half of the state's delegation.

In New York, which will elect 238 of its 278 delegates on June 20, Humphrey appears in even greater difficulty. Though he once listed it along with California as a vital state, the Minnesota senator was unable to file a delegate slate and is relying on uncommitted slates of party regulars.

The result is that McGovern supporters now appear to be virtually unopposed for 92 of the New York delegates and are in good position to more than double that June 20. McGovern aides talk of winning between 200 and 240 of the New York delegates.

Gary Hart, McGovern's campaign manager, says the senator will have 1,300 delegates—just 200 short of the 1,509 needed to nominate—after the New York primary, if the South Dakota senator wins in California.

It's a crucial if, but far from an unlikely one. Polls show McGovern gaining, though still a bit behind as of early May. Humphrey aides concede McGovern will out-spend and out-organize them in California.

They count, however, on Humphrey's appeal among industrial workers, the state's substantial Jewish population and the blacks and Chicanos, who make up 25 per cent of the state's Democratic vote.

Grads recall
of U High

"I can't really put into words what I feel about University Schools closing down this year; lots of things happened there that couldn't happen at any other school."

Judy Becker, a junior at U High, said she remembered one "beautiful spring day," when a couple students sat out in the hall with guitars and recorders. Classes were being held outside and through the open windows the music could be heard.

"It was so typically U High," she said. "Everyone was together, even if you didn't know some of them you felt close to them."

The University of Iowa is closing both its grade school and high school at the end of the current academic year because of financial difficulties.

Everyone this reporter talked to felt that there was something unique about University Schools.

"The rare smallness of the school, 50 students to a class, gave everyone a chance to participate," said Rev. Thomas S. Hulme, a member of the class of '48.

William Nusser, class of '43, who once got suspended from school for leading the whole senior class on U High's first skip day, felt that the school was "terrific."

"We had such great teachers," he explained. "They were totally interested in the student."

"In my day," he continued, "U High was a permissive school, the kids were encouraged to govern themselves. The freedom was contributed to a young man of 14 to 18 who is developing his lifestyle."

William Nusser Jr., class of '71, felt, "The faculty was more lenient because it was a small school where they knew the students."

Joann Leinbaugh, who recalled hanging chairs out of the eighth floor windows by tying them to the windowshade chords, felt that the smallness of U High gave her a great opportunity to meet people.

Gary Hansen, athletic director at U High, recalled once in 1963 when the school's football team beat the West Liberty team, upsetting a 12 game winning streak.

"I always wore a hat, but I'd forgotten it this time and the kids were upset. They were really superstitious about that hat."

"Come to find out," he continued, "my wife had brought the hat to the game and left it on the bench for me. After we won the game, the superstition about that hat grew."

In the past few years, however, University Schools have had money problems.

"I do feel that the closing of the school is the right thing," said the elder Nusser. "I did oppose it, but when you see the problems involved you can understand."

"I was on the board to check out other means of financing the school," he said. "But there was no way that it could be financed."

"People got the idea that U High would soon be closing, a few years ago," he said, "and after that they ceased to care."

A wake for the University Schools is being held May 28 at noon in the school, and will feature a potluck lunch, a short program, speakers and some special secret presentations.

Each five years of students will have its own home room, said Ms. Becker, a member of the wake planning committee. The home rooms will give people a chance to talk with old friends and reminisce over displays from their era.

About 1,000 people are expected to attend the wake, Ms. Becker said. "The school has been open since 1916 and we expect people from way back then."

The wake is open to anyone who has attended or taught at University Schools and their guests.

Ms. Leinbaugh, chairman of the living memories committee, asks that anyone with memorabilia from "U High life,"—old menus from a favorite Iowa City restaurant, records, newspapers—to contact her.

Persons interested in U High athletics are invited to attend an athletic banquet May 24 at 7 p.m. in the Union.

A number of speakers will be featured, among them Jack Skien, a coach during the 1920s who will return to Iowa City from Oregon for the banquet.

Secret awards will be given, and slides of U High athletics dating from the 1920s will be shown.

U High cheerleaders have prepared a display of old homecoming buttons, posters and other memorabilia for the banquet.

Gun sales limits spurred by shooting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by the attempted assassination of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, a Senate Judiciary subcommittee approved a bill Wednesday to clamp down on sales of handguns.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief sponsor of the bill, said it would prohibit anyone except a police officer from buying the kind of weapon used to shoot Wallace. The subcommittee on juvenile delinquency met for about an hour without reaching an agreement. But then during a roll-call vote in the Senate the members got together and decided to report the measure to the full Judiciary Committee.

Bayh said this was agreed on with the understanding that he and Sen. Roman L. Hruska R-Neb., would try to work out specifics.

Bayh said he prefers to let the secretary of the treasury set the standards for what guns are covered, including barrel length, weight, caliber, and safety devices. Hruska, the ranking GOP member of the subcommittee, wants them written into law.

If they are unable to agree, the full Judiciary Committee will be asked to decide.

Women prepare bias challenge

A member of the Iowa Democratic Women's Caucus said Wednesday it is prepared to challenge Iowa's delegation to the Democratic national convention because at least one preference group in the delegation doesn't comply with guidelines.

Mary Jo Small of Iowa City, a caucus member, said the party is obliged to "overcome the effects of past discrimination with regard to women." She said the "uncommitted" group in Iowa elected eight men and no women at the district conventions "and it's hard to see how they could be found to be in compliance (with the party's guidelines), though it would obviously help their cause if any at-large delegates chosen at the State Presidential Convention in Des Moines Saturday were women."

She noted the delegation pledged to Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, is composed of eight men and three women.

"but there is no district in which they were able to elect more than one delegate in which they refused to elect a woman."

She said the Muskie caucus would be in compliance if the first three at-large delegates chosen Saturday were women.

The women's caucus leader said the group committed to Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., was already in compliance.

She said the caucus hoped "it will not be necessary for us to challenge any portion of the Iowa delegation and that adjustments can be made to equalize representation of women at the State convention Saturday."

She stressed, however, that the caucus feels "an obligation to the women of our party to see that we don't allow the reforms we have won at the national level to be lost here through our inaction."

U.S. rebuffs Communist feeler for renewal of Viet peace talks

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam told the Vietnamese Communists Wednesday of a willingness to resume peace talks, but added: "It takes two to negotiate."

At the same time, North Vietnam's Foreign Ministry issued a statement in Hanoi officially rejecting President Nixon's proposal for an internationally supervised cease-fire in Indochina. It said the question must be solved between the United States and Vietnam in Paris. The Foreign Ministry's statement was broadcast by Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency.

In their note to the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in Paris, the U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations charged: "Your actions on the battlefield ... and your words in Paris ... give no indication whatsoever that you are seriously interested in the negotiation on matters of substance in discussing the proposals of both sides."

The two allies rejected a North Vietnamese and Viet Cong proposal Tuesday to resume the peace talks this Thursday. They were indefinitely suspended by the allied side May 4 because of "lack of progress" in private and public meetings.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry's statement said Nixon's proposal—made May 8 while announcing the mining of North Vietnamese ports—"is, in essence, only aimed at forcing the Vietnamese people to lay down their arms, abandon their just fight and accept the puppet administration, stooge of the United States, and the U.S. neo-colonialist administration in South Vietnam."

The statement ruled out any U.N.-sponsored conference on peace in Asia as well as a new Geneva conference.

The United Nations "has no competence to interfere in the Vietnam issue in whatever form," it added.

HHH to 3rd

WASHINGTON (AP) — George C. Wallace's victories in Maryland and Michigan primaries jumped him into second place in delegate standing in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Wallace won 72 delegates in Michigan Tuesday and 41 in Maryland to give him 323 convention delegate votes, second only to Sen. George S. McGovern with 405.

While Wallace's 323 delegates are far short of the 1,509 it takes to win the nomination, the total surpasses his initial predictions and increases the chances of the Wallace strategy of deadlocking the convention and hoping for a late ballot breakthrough.

Despite the Wallace sweep of Tuesday's primaries, McGovern picked up 44 additional delegates. Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who dropped to third place, won 28 new delegates for a total of 271½.

Wallace to walk? 50-50

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — One of George C. Wallace's doctors said Wednesday there is "less than a 50-50 chance" the Alabama governor ever will walk again.

Even if he can walk, it will probably be only with the aid of leg braces, the doctor indicated.

Meanwhile, Wallace continued in good spirits, chatting with hospital visitors and eagerly reading newspaper accounts of his primary election victories in Maryland and Michigan.

Dr. James Galbraith, a University of Alabama neurosurgeon who has been attending Wallace, said a bullet which cut him down at a campaign rally Monday is lodged in the spine but is causing no pressure on the spinal cord.

He said the bullet wedged itself between two vertebrae, protruding into the bony canal that shields the nerve cord but not obstructing the flow of fluid that nourishes it.

Galbraith, speaking at a late afternoon news conference, said that although the bullet didn't shatter any bone in the spine, the shock of its impact caused the present paralysis and this might ease in time.

Doctors to wait 10 days to extract lodged bullet

But he said Wallace hasn't regained any feeling in his legs and the longer he goes without improvement the worse are chances for an eventual recovery. "There is less than a 50-50 chance," he said.

Galbraith said surgery will be performed to remove the bullet within another week or 10 days, and that it will be a full three months or more before Wallace can recover to whatever extent is possible.

He said none of his patients had ever recovered fully from such an injury, and that at best such patients walk with the aid of a leg brace.

Official word of his condition came in a morning medical bulletin from Dr. Joseph Schanno, his surgeon.

"The governor spent a comfortable night," Schanno said. "He is very alert and aware of his surroundings. He is reading the paper avidly. He is continuing to improve."

Schanno said also the Alabama governor's legs remain paralyzed and that "the exact nature of injury to the spinal cord cannot be determined until surgery is performed."

Galbraith said Wallace won't be able to get around, even in a wheelchair, for four to six more weeks. This probably will rule out any campaign appearances until shortly before the July 10 Democratic National Convention, if indeed it does not rule them out altogether.

Wallace aides have said he is prepared to campaign from a wheelchair, if necessary. Now it appears he will have to make an exceptionally strong recovery to do even that. Galbraith said that removing the bullet which caused the present nerve damage won't have any effect on whether Wallace recovers.

Removing the bullet is a precaution against infection, he said. Recovery depends on how badly the nerve was damaged at the moment of impact. He said recovery is in the hands of nature, not in the hands of doctors.

Galbraith also said the bullet did sever a branch nerve leading from the spinal cord. He said this nerve carries sensations from the skin in the right groin.

In another development, Dr. Edgar Berman, a retired Baltimore County surgeon who helped assemble a team of surgeons who operated on Wallace after Monday's shooting, agreed with Schanno's morning statement that it will take further surgery to tell whether Wallace will walk again. But Berman said he believes "the bulk of the indications" point to permanent paralysis.

However, Berman denied reports that there is no chance that Wallace ever will walk.

Meanwhile Arthur Bremer, the 21-year-old Milwaukeean accused in the Monday shooting remained in jail under $200,000 bond. Authorities continued to withhold any comment on motivation or other details.

For men, equipment, lodging Anti-war demonstrations cost police about $19,000

In addition to the financial loss suffered by Iowa City businesses and the University of Iowa last week in anti-war demonstrations, the cost to law enforcement agencies was about $19,000.

The demonstrations, which resulted in 55 arrests, cost the Iowa Highway Patrol (IHP), Iowa City and Coralville Police, Johnson County Sheriff's Department and the Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI), $18,700 in extra expenditures for manpower, equipment and lodging.

UI Campus Security Director William Binney said he could not give any figures on added expenses incurred by the campus police force, "but the amount of overtime involved is fairly sizeable."

The chief of the Highway Patrol, Col. Howard Miller, said that although the 200 patrolmen on duty in Iowa City last week received no overtime pay, the disturbances cost the patrol $2,000 in extra mileage, $6,000 in meal expenses and $4,000 for lodging.

A spokesman for the Johnson County Sheriff's Department said that about $1,000 in compensatory time will be paid to deputies.

Police Chief Emmitt Evans said the Iowa City Police Department will pay $4,000 in overtime, while BCI Director Robert Blair said his bureau incurred costs of about $900 for the "half dozen men" it had in Iowa City.

Earlier estimates of the damage to businesses in downtown Iowa City ranged between $10,000 and $20,000.

Nixon in Moscow: much talk, no fun

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will spend the great part of his stay in the Soviet Union in Moscow with only two official dinners on the present schedule, the White House said Wednesday.

The bulk of the schedule is being left free for meetings with Communist Party chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other leaders.

The President and Mrs. Nixon will make one quick out-and-back side trip to Leningrad on May 27, returning to Moscow for more talks before going to Kiev May 29 for an overnight stay.

The Soviet leadership will entertain the Nixons at an official dinner on the evening of their arrival and Nixon will reciprocate on May 26.

Otherwise, the announced schedule for the Soviet stay is wide open at this point.

In response to a question, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon would like to attend a performance of the Bolshoi Ballet in Moscow if time permits, "and has expressed an interest in seeing 'Swan Lake.'" However, he said such an event has yet to be firmly scheduled.

The Nixons will embark on their 16,585-mile journey from the South Lawn of the White House at 8 a.m. CDT Saturday. After a ceremony there, they will fly to nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland, where they will board the presidential jet, the Spirit of 76, for an eight-hour hop to Salzburg, Austria.

On Sunday, Nixon will meet with Austrian chancellor Bruno Kreisky.

The President and First Lady are scheduled to arrive in Moscow at 4 p.m., local time, at Vnukovo Airport.

'Confessor' free on bail

A University of Iowa student who "confessed" in a Daily Iowan article that he set fire to a camper during an anti-war demonstration here May 10 has been released from jail.

John E. Schroeder was arrested Tuesday and charged with arson following a hearing for another UI student who is also accused of setting fire to the camper.

Schroeder, 21, 111 1/2 East Washington Street, was released Wednesday after posting 10 per cent of his $10,000 bond, as allowed by District Court Judge Robert Osmundson.

A preliminary hearing on the charge against Schroeder will be held Tuesday in Iowa City Police Court.

In The Daily Iowan's article, Schroeder said he set the fire "without any assistance whatsoever" and that the other student charged, Mark D. Peters, 20, North Liberty, was an "innocent bystander."

Eases cold war hostility

W. Germany OKs pacts

BONN, Germany (AP) — Massive abstentions by the opposition permitted Chancellor Willy Brandt's treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland to pass through parliament's lower house Wednesday, clearing the way for final ratification unless the upper house objects.

The Bundestag gave 248 votes—half of its total—for Brandt's nonaggression treaties. This left Brandt with less than the strong mandate he had sought for his peace policy, but averted the lower house defeat he had feared.

The treaties, signed in 1970, renounce the use of force and recognize German territorial losses in World War II.

They are the cornerstones for Brandt's policy of swinging West Germany away from cold war hostility toward cooperation with Eastern Europe.

Clearing this major hurdle improved the East-West atmosphere for President Nixon's Moscow trip next week, and boosted chances for other moves to relax cold war tensions.

These include the Soviet go-ahead on implementing the Four Power Berlin agreement designed to remove that Communist-encircled city as a flash-point of U.S.-Soviet confrontation. The Russians say enforcement of the Berlin agreement depends on ratification of Brandt's treaties with them and the Poles.

Approval of the treaties appeared also to open the way for the biggest East-West conference since World War II. The U.S. government and some of its North Atlantic allies however, view such a prospect with little joy.

This fall representatives from about 35 countries are expected to meet in Helsinki, Finland, for the first major preparations. The Soviet Union has long urged such a meeting, possibly in 1973, to set up a European security conference.

Still open to question in Bonn is whether the Christian Democrat opposition, pressured by diehard opponents of the treaties within the party, would delay or block ratification when the treaties come before the

IC residents asked to name city parks

Iowa City residents are being asked to help name five new city parks.

The City Council approved Tuesday a contest proposed by the city Parks and Recreation Commission in which citizens will submit possible names for the parks.

Prizes for successful namers will be family season swim tickets. Other details for the contest have not yet been determined.

The parks to be named are the new Southwest Park south of West Benton Street; the old lan-drill at Highway 218 and the Highway 6 Bypass which is being converted to parkland; a new playground at Page and Dodge Streets; the city landfill at the south city limits, and park donated to the city by a private land developer, located west of Westgate Street.

'Early prevention cured UI unrest'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa Highway Patrol learned last week in Iowa City that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Patrol Chief Howard Miller said this week.

"The 'ounce of prevention' was moving in sooner than we had in earlier demonstrations," he explained in an interview, "before the trouble really got started."

Although some lawmen termed the distraction during the several days of demonstrations the worst in Iowa City history, there generally was praise for the way peace officers handled the situation.

As officers carried out a previously-decided policy of preventing formation of large groups of youthful demonstrators, one professor from the University of Iowa was heard to remark, "It seems the patrol has learned a thing or two about crowd control since the last demonstrations."

Several hundred students from the university and others caused considerable damage in demonstrations during April 1971.

Miller said the patrol, on too many occasions, has arrived at the scene of civil disorder when damage had already been done.

"We couldn't care less if they want to demonstrate," he said, "as long as it's in a peaceful manner."

Equating the April 1971 disorders with those last week, the highway patrol leader said, "Selfishly, the demonstrations this year weren't so bad. The tax upon officers was less. We didn't have the rock throwing" that characterized confrontations one year ago.

He recalled that 42 state troopers were injured by flying rocks and bricks in 1971 and only three were hurt this year.

Robert Hozet, an assistant to Public Safety Commissioner

Michael Sellers, said Miller has been handling civil disorders "since the year one."

In response to a question about whether the character of disorders seems to be changing, Miller said the demonstrators didn't seem to have changed over the years.

He said it appeared that the "eight or 10 hard core leaders" in last week's Iowa City disorders "had no defined objectives" and found it difficult to keep demonstrators interested in demonstrating.

'It seems the patrol has learned a thing or two about crowd control since the last demonstrations.'

"It was evident to me," he said, "that persons in the crowd who sympathized with the reasons for the demonstrations went away when the the rough stuff started."

He said it appeared that most people in the group of 300 or so demonstrators "agreed in principle, but not methodology."

Miller — who said he deeply respects today's youth — recalled he mingled with the demonstrators. "I was in full uniform, but I never feared for my personal safety. They've never attacked an officer individually before and they didn't do it last week."

He said he was able to carry on brief discussions with some of the young people. "I asked them, 'how do you correlate the peace and love that you say are your aims with all this destruction of privately-owned property?'"

Demonstrators smashed windows in at least 39 Iowa City business places last week.

The highway patrol colonel said he was very pleased with the outcome of an experiment in cooperative law enforcement that was conducted because of the demonstrations.

Hozet explained lawmen from the Iowa City police department, the nearby Coralville police, Johnson County sheriff's deputies, UI security officers and the patrol set up a command center two months ago to cope with the possibility of spring demonstrations.

He said officials of those governmental units had signed a formal agreement now on file with the secretary of state that established an Emergency Operations Board.

"If the governor assigns Department of Public Safety personnel to Iowa City in large numbers," Hozet said "the public safety commissioner or his designee (Miller) is in charge of law enforcement."

Hozet pointed out the arrangement in effect last week marked the first time the patrol was in complete command of officers from many different agencies.

The patrol assigned 200 officers — half the state trooper complement — to Iowa City during the demonstrations. And the move will prove costly, in an administrative sense.

The demonstrations "will screw up our operations for quite some time," Miller said. "It's going to take us at least one month to get untangled." He explained many of the officers missed days off and worked long hours. Miller noted that no overtime is paid, but it will be at least one month before the patrolmen are able to use up the days off to which they're entitled and schedules return to normal.

NEW YORK (AP) — An "alarming increase" in cancer mortality among the U.S. black population was reported Wednesday in an 18-year statistical study by researchers at Howard University.

From 1949 to 1967, the study said, cancer death rates for nonwhites rose from 138 to 182 per 100,000 population, an increase of 32 per cent.

For whites, the rates rose from 149 to 154 per 100,000, an increase of 3 per cent, the study said. In 1949, the cancer mortality rate for nonwhites was 8 per cent lower than for whites, the study said, while in 1967 it was 18 per cent higher.

"This is an astounding change for such a short period of only 18 years," the researchers said.

"There have been other references to the rapid increase of certain cancers in U.S. blacks," they added, "but the magnitude and the implications of this alarming rate of black cancer mortality has not been highlighted before."

"Greater exposure to environmental carcinogens (cancer-causing agents) must be suspected as the main cause for the faster increase of the black cancer mortality."

The study did not examine what these environmental factors might be, but called for such an investigation.

"A thorough analysis of these findings appears essential to stem the alarming rise of black cancer deaths," they said.

Nice girls get raped, too

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a three-part series on rape from the victim's point of view. The facts in the cases cited are true. Only the names of the victims have been changed.

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — "Nice girls don't get raped. Just keep your legs crossed and it won't happen to you," has been the naive admonishment of many mothers.

Nothing can be further from the truth. No woman, nor any young girl is immune. Police department records show rape doesn't have to be the result of a pickup in a bar, or a stroll down a street after dark.

It can happen in midafternoon to a young girl fishing along a well-traveled portion of a river bank, elderly women who have their doors and windows bolted, housewives alone at home or girls on their way home from school.

It was a muggy summer evening when it happened to Mary.

She was alone at home, dressed in a light-weight nightgown, preparing to retire when her assailant forced his way into the apartment and forcibly dragged her down a flight of stairs and into a waiting car.

Her 2-year old son was left behind, very much alone and frightened.

Mary is unable to accurately relate where the rape occurred. She does know she escaped from her assailant when he stopped for gas in Oelwein.

Grabbing his shirt from the front seat of the car to cover her nakedness, she bolted down an alley, fearing all the time if her assailant caught her, he would kill her.

"I never thought for one minute that I would live through the night," she says trembling. But she did, with the assistance of a truck driver who found her in the alley and put her in touch with local police.

"Can you imagine what that driver must have thought when he saw me crouched like an animal?" she asked. "It's no wonder he wanted to pass me by at first."

It happened to Kay seven years ago at home awaiting a girl friend while her husband was at work that evening.

Hearing a knock, Kay called, "Come in," expecting her girl friend. There appeared a friend of her husband.

"I trusted that guy more than any of my husband's buddies," said Kay burgeoning with a seven-month pregnancy.

Trust turned to contempt.

"He had been drinking," Kay recalls, "and I'm sure that influenced his actions."

He cornered her in the hallway of their small home and forced her into the bedroom, where he disrobed her.

Following his departure, Kay immediately called her husband at his place of employment and hysterically pleaded for him to come home. His reaction, she says, was not of anger, but rather of disappointment in his "friend."

"It's bad enough for some kook to rape a woman, but one who attacks a small girl is the vilest of all criminals," the mother of a daughter who was assaulted states emphatically.

It had been more than four years since Ann was abducted on her way home from school with her two brothers.

Forced to ride in the trunk of her kidnaper's car, she was taken to a rural area and assaulted.

Threatening Ann that he'd "get her mother," if she wasn't quiet, the assailant kept Ann in the car for nearly four hours before releasing her and giving her 50 cents to buy herself a malted milk, and telephone her mother.

In the mobile society of the 70s, sexual assaults far too often happen to female hitchhiker, while her assailant justifies his actions by remarking, "She had it coming. What did she expect, accepting a ride with a stranger. So, what's the big deal?"

The big deal is that rape, according to Iowa law, is a criminal offense.

A SURVIVAL LINE Special Feature

Beware of 'bootleg' air travel

By SURVIVAL LINE'S GERALD TAUCHNER

"I just cannot understand how all these people can give such large amounts of money to unknown persons for travel on unknown airlines, just on the basis of a newspaper ad or a notice on a college bulletin board," Richard O'Melia told the Daily Iowan.

O'Melia, the Director of the Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Enforcement is in a good position to know, as he is the top U.S. government official concerned with air travel frauds. Also interviewed was New York State's Asst. Atty. Gen. Barnet Levy, also devoting full efforts to air travel problems, who states that "when you deal with these firms, you deal at your own peril."

The type of flight that O'Melia and Levy refer to is not the kind you arrange directly, or through a legitimate travel agency to travel on a scheduled major airline. Neither are they referring to the charter flights arranged by an organization that you are actually a member of. They are talking about the offerings of promoters who advertise for people to travel, usually to Europe, at very low fares, make these people members of some phony club to meet the federal regulations, and then (hopefully) package them off to Europe on a charter flight.

These are the people who were stranded in such large numbers last summer and whose numbers will likely be much larger this summer, from advance indications.

The Daily Iowan investigation of this problem area was triggered by an inquiry to SURVIVAL LINE about a firm called Campus Air Company in New York City. The inquiring readers, who had given $100 deposits each, had become suspicious because, though their flight is scheduled for June 8, they couldn't get definite information from Campus Air about what airline they are to be traveling on, when they are to leave, or even where they are to be leaving from.

Contacting Campus Air, we were told a series of different plans for the June 8 flight by their spokesman, David Kols. He assured us that everything was in order and that space had been contracted by them on BOAC (British Overseas Airways, a major scheduled airline) for that date, with a return flight on August 8. He later named a second airline as the one with which a firm contract was allegedly in effect, TWA, followed by naming "British Midland" as the carrier (the latter is a supplemental non-scheduled operator). But, Kols said, "we don't really know for sure what is going to happen with that flight as at the moment we have only 29 signed up and we need 40 to go."

BOAC's Charter Supervisor, Ms. Terry Jaques, who also conferred with their Group Sales Manager, a Mr. White, told the Daily Iowan that not only do they not know of a contract with Campus Air for the alleged 40-passenger block, but that they doubt whether they could even accommodate them at this late date.

At TWA, investigation by public relations person Duffy

Erickson yielded similar results to those at BOAC. British Midland apparently does not maintain U.S. offices, so it was not possible to check with them.

And, according to the CAB's O'Melia, there is no way that British Midland could legally fly such a group out of the United States because of current regulations governing "affinity group" charter flights. As a non-scheduled supplemental carrier, he said, British Midland cannot fly anything other than a charter flight out of the U.S.

Referring to the overall problem of "bootleg" charters, O'Melia said, "I don't know how all these people are going to get out... We've been concerned all spring about the students blindly answering these ads, giving money for transportation to unknown people, and not having the slightest knowledge of what they are getting into... Frankly I doubt whether they will get out (of the U.S. on those flights) at all."

Attorney Levy said that "last year 98 per cent of those flights did finally go off" but he anticipates that the average this season won't be as good.

The CAB is taking those steps that it can to stop the practice of booking passengers onto "bootleg" charter flights, said O'Melia, citing the recent termination of such flights by Britain's Laker Airways and the issuance of a restraining order prohibiting similar flights by Britain's Donaldson Airways just last Friday by the Federal Court in New York's Southern District.

But O'Melia points out that "with so many legitimate ways to travel at only slightly high fares" he "cannot understand why people expose themselves to such firms' abuses." The difference in the fares is very minimal, too.

According to Rita Kottner of Red Carpet Travel, round trip youth fares from Chicago to London on regular scheduled flights of TWA and BOAC range from $255 to $275, depending on when you travel. This is only $5 to $15 more than the $250 that the SURVIVAL LINE inquirer had contracted to pay Campus Air.

And that $255 to $275 can even be beaten, Red Carpet advises, if one is willing to take a little longer travel time and take Loftheidir, a fully-certificated scheduled Icelandic airline, with a few intermediate stops en route, but in the same jet airplanes the "biggies" use.

Keep these two phone numbers in case you do have trouble with any group flight. The first, if your flight is leaving from New York, or is arranged by a New York firm, is that of Asst. Atty. Gen. Barnet Levy: 212-488-7450, who may be of some help in gaining you refunds and/or alternative transportation. And you should definitely contact Richard O'Melia, Director of the Bureau of Enforcement, Civil Aeronautics Board, 1875 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 1024, Washington D.C. 20428. O'Melia's telephone is 202-382-7695.

By the way, SURVIVAL LINE carried a "caution" on group flights way back in December—it appears that at least a few people were not listening.

Unusual doctoral thesis published by magazine

The first photographic doctoral thesis in educational administration at the University of Iowa and possibly at any other American university will be featured in the May 27 issue of Saturday Review magazine.

Michael J. Sexton, who will receive his Ph.D. degree at the UI Commencement May 26, is displaying part of his thesis of more than 3,000 photographs at the Union now until May 28. Sexton's thesis shows his experiences as a science teacher in a Denver junior high school.

Sexton's unusual alternative to a standard dissertation was encouraged and supervised by Prof. William G. Monohan of the UI College of Education, Division of Educational Administration. Another former UI student in education administration wrote his thesis in the form of a novel; other theses using a creative approach are in planning stages.

UI student awarded humanities fellowship

A University of Iowa doctoral candidate in mass communications has been selected by the National Endowment for the Humanities to receive a postdoctoral fellowship to continue his research in Afro-American studies.

Henry G. La Brie III will begin his fall appointment at Harvard University's Charles H. Warren Research Center.

La Brie will continue work on a biography of the late Robert Lee Vann, founder of the Pittsburgh Courier, a black newspaper, and former assistant to the U.S. Attorney General in the 1930s. A second project will focus on material La Brie compiled last summer when he interviewed elderly black journalists in 42 cities under a Ford Foundation grant.

The IHSAA and morality codes

By KEITH GILLETT
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

An issue we feel has broad ranging effects is once again in the news.

Apparently not content with the Iowa Supreme Court's 5-3 decision against its controversial "beer rule" the Iowa High School Athletic Association is going to appeal for a rehearing of the matter.

As far as I'm concerned the idea of a code of conduct for high school students, particularly those in high school athletics is a thorny one for enforcement.

According to the original conduct rule, if a kid was an occupant of a car in which beer was found by law enforcement officials, he could be excluded for participation in high school athletic events for up to six weeks.

To me this is a plain and simple case of double jeopardy. A similar situation would exist here if a University of Iowa student was arrested for throwing rocks through a downtown store window and then later faced suspension from the University for the act.

If a student is convicted for possession of beer, then his fine is sufficient punishment. For a school official to say that a student should be barred from participation in organized athletics is an infringement on the rights of that student.

I was quite pleased to see the Iowa Court's ruling on the matter and I will be equally pleased to see the IHSAA appeal struck down.

The control over a student's private conduct extends only as far as the walls of the institution or the control of the school activities that the student is involved in.

What a student does in his private life is of no concern to the school. It can be concern for his home, his parents, his clergy, his community. But punishment should not be handed out by the school.

Although I am not unaware of the reasons for the conception of the "beer rule" (to present a better image of high school athletes), its emphasis is in the wrong direction. It should be attempting to include those that are chronic offenders of the very rules that the agency feels should not be broken.

If high school coaches believe in athletics as a builder of character, then they should not allow the exclusion of a student convicted of something outside the realm of school control.

To do so would illustrate the hypocrisy in which high school athletics operates.

McClain takes minor league job

OAKLAND (AP) — Denny McLain, the $75,000 pitching hope of the Oakland Athletics, announced Wednesday he will remain in baseball and accept a demotion to the club's Birmingham farm team.

The 28-year-old right-hander, who will be one of the highest paid players in minor league history, will report to the double-A club Thursday in Montgomery, Ala., a club spokesman said.

McLain spent several days pondering whether to report or retire if not traded and called a news conference to announce his decision. It was cancelled and instead, his attorney, William Carpenter, made the announcement.

"Denny decided it was maybe best to go to Birmingham," said Carpenter. "You've got to realize there's a lot of money involved." McLain's salary with the A's is $75,000 a year.

He said A's Owner Charles Finley agreed to let McLain return to the Oakland area in about two weeks, when his wife is expected to give birth to twins.

A club spokesman said McLain spoke to Finley by phone Wednesday morning in Chicago.

While pondering his decision at his home in nearby Walnut Creek, McLain said, "There's no doubt I can pitch in the big leagues."

4 Hawk batters among Big 10's top 11 bitters

With the Big Ten baseball title all wrapped up now, the only race remaining is individual batting honors. Iowa's Larry Schutzius, although he slipped into a tie this week for third, is still very much in the running for the league title.

Schutzius' average is .444 with 24 hits in 54 times at bat. Northwestern's John McCarthy who was the batting leader last week slipped into the tie with Schutzius. McCarthy has 16 hits in 36 times at bat.

Another Northwestern player, third baseman Ed Grzelakowski has taken over as the league's batting leader. Grzelakowski has a .467 average with 14 hits in 30 times at bat.

Ron Pruitt of Michigan State is second with a .455 average in 33 times at bat and has 15 hits.

Schutzius is the league's runs batted in leader with 21, six more than Grzelakowski.

unbeaten record (5-0) and is third overall with an earned run average of 1.06. Mickey Elwood of Michigan is tops with a 2-2 record and a .92 ERA. Brad Van Pelt of Michigan State is second with a 3-1 record and a .93 ERA.

Mark Tschopp is listed 12th with a 4-2 record and a 3.70 ERA.

Michigan appears to have the best chance of winning the team batting title. The Wolverines are hitting at a .312 clip per game with 93 hits in 298 at bats. Northwestern is second with .301 and the Hawkeyes are third with a .300 mark, or 129 hits in 430 at bats.

The Hawkeyes moved into second place in home run hitting. Iowa's 14 round-trippers trail only Minnesota's 18. Michigan State is next with 10.

With the Hawkeye's Big Ten season completed, it looks like they also have a good chance to win the team fielding title. The Hawks lead with a .97 mark, followed by Minnesota. Northwestern, Michigan State and Michigan with .96. Iowa finished Big Ten play with just 11 errors. By contrast, last place Indiana committed 32.

Six teams will wrap up Big Ten action this week. Northwestern hosts Michigan State and Michigan in Friday and Saturday doubleheaders, while Wisconsin plays the two Michigan schools in the reverse over. In the only other scheduled games, Indiana travels to Ohio State for a Saturday twinbill.

Driver says Indy speeds have gone too high

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Race driver Wally Dallenbach said Wednesday speeds have gone too high at Indianapolis and something should be done quickly to reduce them.

"The new wings should be eliminated," he declared, "in the interest of saving engines and cars, not to mention drivers."

Dallenbach, 35, a contractor in East Brunswick, N.J., when he isn't driving, qualified his Gilmore-Lindsey Hopkins Racing Team Eagle at 178.421 miles per hour Sunday for the 56th running of America's top auto race May 27.

His speed for four laps around the 2.5-mile oval was just a bit below Pete Revson's pole speed of last year. Even so, Dallenbach isn't sure it will be good enough to get him into the 33-car lineup.

His crew already is at work on another car, which Dallenbach said he will attempt to qualify this weekend at a faster speed, if his first effort doesn't hold up.

Bobby Unser apparently clinched the pole position in the first round of trials, driving Dan Gurney's Olsonite Eagle four laps at 195.040 m.p.h. His top lap was a sizzing 196.768.

Only two drivers from the original qualifying list, McLaren pilots Revson and Mark Donohue, appear to be in position to challenge Unser's pole claim.

"I don't think we need 190 m.p.h. speeds here or anywhere else," Dallenbach said. "And I don't think the fans need them. Standing in one of the turns, only an expert can tell when a car is traveling at 160 m.p.h. or 180."

Dallenbach said the United States Auto Club's new rule governing the wings—they can be wider and higher—is mainly responsible for the speed escalation.

"We simply don't need the wings," he said emphatically. "Without them and the higher speeds they made possible, engines would live longer and I believe the cars would be safer. Looking at it from an economy standpoint, there have been at least 35 broken engines this month, and those little babies cost at least $25,000."

"Not only that, if something goes wrong, we're just going to hit the wall harder and we're just going to need more time to keep the car under control when we get in trouble."

Dallenbach didn't mention it, but driver Jim Malloy was running at 180 m.p.h. when his Eagle crashed into the wall Sunday, sending him to a hospital where he remains in critical condition.

Art Pollard, a 45-year-old veteran, hit the barrier in the same area of the track Tuesday, winding up with a broken leg. The Pollard accident was blamed on a broken wheel housing.

Dallenbach, who has made five starts at Indianapolis, with two 17th place finishes, said there had been several meetings of drivers at Indy this month but that so far the high speeds have not been brought up.

"The cars actually are about as safe as they can be at 190," Dallenbach said, adding: "But who needs that kind of speed? We have jumped 17 m.p.h. over last year and that's far, far too much. I'd like to see us go back to a formula that would allow a jump of two or three miles a year."

"As it stands now, next year we'll see 200 m.p.h. at the Speedway, and beyond that, who knows?"

Probe Illinois violation

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association and Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke each confirmed Wednesday that the University of Illinois is under investigation for "athletic practices."

The NCAA said in Kansas City that "a preliminary inquiry has been filed with Illinois" regarding an alleged violation of NCAA regulations.

The Chicago Daily News said the probe was touched off by Alvin O'Neal, former Peoria Spalding High School basketball star who last summer was declared academically ineligible at Illinois and transferred to Murray State in Kentucky.

The newspaper said O'Neal reportedly was asked by investigators if Illinois officials helped him on his entrance examination and whether he was given an automobile while on a basketball scholarship.

"We are aware of a preliminary investigation by the NCAA and we have cooperated and will continue to cooperate," Chancellor John W. Peltason said in Champaign.

Announce lineup for coaches game

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Jack Mildren, Oklahoma's star quarterback, heads a list of 21 new signees for the Coaches All-America Game scheduled June 24th in Texas Tech's Jones Stadium.

Mildren will play for his college coach, Chuck Fairbanks, who will direct the West squad.

Also, signing with Mildren were teammates Albert Qualls, a 6-foot-2, 225-pound linebacker, and John Shelley, a 6-foot, 195-pound defensive back.

Other signees include, for the West, Dave Dalby, center, UCLA; Marvin Bateman, punter, Utah; Larry Jacobson, defensive lineman, Nebraska; Ed Galigher, defensive lineman, UCLA; Jim LaClair, linebacker, North Dakota; Willie Buchanan, defensive back, San Diego State; and Ralph McGill, defensive back, Tulsa.

Signing to play for Coach Bear Bryant's East team were Glenn Doughty, flanker, Mike Taylor, linebacker, and Tom Darden, defensive back, all of Michigan; Eric Allen, flanker, and Ron Curl, defensive lineman, both of Michigan State; John Yochum, offensive tackle, Syracuse; Tom Luken, offensive guard, Purdue; Lewis Jolley, running back, North Carolina; Elmer Allen, defensive lineman, Ole Miss; Bo Davies, defensive back, USC, and Ernie Jackson, defensive back, Duke.

Liquori withdraws

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marty Liquori, one of America's top Olympic hopes at 1,500 meters, said Wednesday he was through for the season because of a painful bone spur on his left heel.

The 22-year-old Liquori, who was graduated Tuesday from Villanova University, came to Los Angeles with hopes of running in the June 9 Vons Classic.

"Another reason I came out here was to see Dr. Robert Kerlan. He simply agreed with other physicians I've seen—this will probably take an operation to cure. I'm very discouraged because I had looked forward to the Olympics for four years but there's not much I can do now."

Liquori sustained the injury last October during a cross country race. He has competed despite the pain for four months.

He said that a cast would be placed on the heel in hopes of avoiding an operation but added, "there's no rush now. I've got four more years to wait."

Exactly one year ago, Liquori defeated Jim Ryun in a classic mile run in Philadelphia. The Villanova star was timed in 3:54.6 and replaced Ryun as America's No. 1 miler.
