"In fact, total growth is expected to be less than $4.7 million because of higher tuition charges. The projected salary increases for the upcoming year will range from $1,066 to $1,996 in non-faculty positions, and $1,142 to $2,423 in faculty positions. The actual salary increases will depend on the amount of federal and state funds available.

Costs rise

But university officials are concerned that total cost increases for the upcoming year could range from $2 million to $3 million. The legislature's approval of a $10.5 million budget for the University of Iowa biennium will be used as the basis for salary increases.

For example, the legislature's approval of a $10.5 million budget will be used as the basis for salary increases. If the legislature's approval of a $10.5 million budget is used as the basis for salary increases, the cost of living will be higher. The university's financial picture is different from its academic picture. While the university's budget for the 1971-73 biennium will be used as the basis for salary increases, the cost of living will be higher.

Tentative budget

The budget for the University of Iowa was approved by the Board of Regents (Univ.-Iowa) on May 7, 1970. It is based on estimated federal and state funds for the biennium ending June 30, 1972.

The university has received $219 million in federal and state funds for the 1969-71 biennium. The 1971-73 budget, which is $26.8 million more than the 1969-71 budget, will be used as the basis for salary increases.

UIEA convention adopts constitution, little trouble

The constitution and bylaws of the union, the Employees Association (UIEA) were adopted by the University of Iowa Employees Association (UIEA) at its convention, held May 11-13. Members of the UIEA voted overwhelmingly in favor of the constitution. Several hundred members attended the convention. Members of the UIEA felt that the convention was a success.

The amendment meeting, held May 11-13, was an excellent opportunity for a general assembly to meet and discuss the constitution. The meeting was open to all members of the UIEA. Members of the UIEA felt that the convention was a success.

A Night at the Opera (1935). This doesn't generally rank with Garbo as a comic actress, but she did give the comedy its best chance to shine. (The film, directed by Erich von Stroheim, is on show June 21. Denzil Keaton's The Navigator (1924), which does not seem one of his best, will be presented in a program with a Kostum Short. The society now owns a British copy for its July 1 double feature: Anzuello's starts in a minute. If you've seen The Yachtsman (1928), you'll remember the spirit and atmosphere of the sea. The society's last offering is a double feature, also on the sea, but very droopy and uncheerful. But a large part of the society is showing three films on which it has worked for Hollywood credit.

Court decision termed reactionary

The full implications of the U.S. Supreme Court's right-to-counsel decision for New Haven appointments are only now beginning to be felt. The new and more aggressive publicscrutiny of the high court will, with not a day delay, let it be known that basic democratic rights are threatened.

In two decisions May 22, the Supreme Court undermined the right to a trial by counsel and its verdicts in criminal cases and sanctioned the "use" immunity provisions of the Organized Crime Control Act of 1968. The former ruling held that the Constitution does not mandate a unanimous jury verdict, saying it is sufficient that a "majority," of a 12-member jury decides the guilt or innocence of the accused.

These are the left who have seen the outcome of political and racial trials hang on the balance of the insight and conscience of a few years from full how vital is the right to a unanimous verdict has been. Analyzing the decision, George Bender writes in this week's issue of the Guardian, "It is perhaps the most open capitulation by the courts in recent years to blacks, Chicanos and other minorities, who often play a critical role for the defense in cases with political or racial implications may well be from out of the deliberation process and their votes disregarded. The consequences will be fewer hangovers, fewer compromised verdicts and, likely, an increase in the peptic process of 'use' bargaining."

It is, in fact, not all hard to believe that the Supreme Court's right-to-counsel decision will reverberate in the victories of black liberation and antiwar activists in recent political trials. More obvious, however, is the reactionary ideology guiding the Supreme Court majorities...

In another "use" case this week, the Supreme Court opened the way for a free and more extensive use by the government of the grand jury system as a 'special expedition' into the activities of the left. The "use" immunity provisions of the Organized Crime Control Act hold that a person who has fled before a grand jury may not be prosecuted on the basis of what is revealed, directly or indirectly, by testimony.

In a critical test of that immunity from prosecution for the events about which a person testifies.

"Compost,"" Bender writes, "projects not currently available through the Curriculum for this summer now includes: Bicycle Maintenance, the Educational Change Agent, The Missing and token increases in salaries do not support itself by the users of a messenger. There does not, at this time..."
