Vietnam

SAGON (AP) U.S. fighter-bombers盆地

North Vietnam with a mixed load of ground targets, cranking fuses, hacking bridge, launching rockets and sending in a rolling barrage of gun and missile fire, military officials reported Wednesday.

Kissinger to China

WASHINGTON (AP) Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon’s national security adviser, left for the first leg of his trip to China Friday, where he will try to build on the momentum from Nixon’s historic visit to Beijing on July 15.

Desegregation

DETROIT (AP) U.S. District Judge Hubert Bell, Jr., on Wednesday, rejected the defendants’ request for a de novo re-evaluation of desegregation order in Detroit today involving

Economy

NEW YORK (AP) Industrial production, personal income, borrowing and payments all proved disappointing in May after a relatively strong showing in the previous month. Production of悲伤者, rates and utilities increased in April, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday. Industrial production is considered an indicator of economic activity.

Platform hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) The Democratic Platform Committee announced Wednesday it will draw on the energy of its founding fathers in its efforts to win more young voters and work toward some of the goals that would be incorporated in the platform.

Fair skies

Dr. Weatherman enorme cement, after a long spell of bad weather, said Wednesday’s weather was likely to improve. The good weather was expected to continue through the weekend.

IN THE NEWS briefly

DDT banned in US

Paul R. Duesenberry, economist for the University of Iowa Department of Family Practice, told the Iowa Board of Regents Wednesday that the university must develop a family practice residency program with a national reputation if it is to keep students in Iowa. Students now go out of state for some experiential training and may not want to return.

Higher rate

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) A new maximum-weekly unemployment insurance payment rate of $40 will go in effect July 1. Paul D. Weas, Iowa Employment Security Commission chairman, pointed out that the rate is just one of many factors that have increased unemployment insurance payments.

The News Briefs

BY BONITA RATER

No food vending for Main Library

By MARY BLEEBAUM

Need-3-year program

According to Rakel, UI would have to establish a three-year program if the new system as a means of supervising and controlling the library. Officials are concerned about the possibility of other food vending machines too, and would probably seek the approval of the city council for such a program.

Approve write-off

The Regents approved a student writing off a $3,000 debt. The proposal was submitted by the students’ group, which is intended to help support training programs. The proposal would allow the students to write off the debt and be agreeable to ending the program. It is not an easy task to have the students’ group agree to write off the debt. The students are involved in the decision-making process.

Two-fold effect

Rakel said the training programs will already have a two-fold effect. Not only will they help students' professional development in the community, they will also facilitate patient care in the community.

May bring Vietnam settlement

Podgorny to Hanoi

The following summary meeting with President Podgorny’s wife, Olesya, and his son, Vladimir, was likewise believed to be one of the most important of the trip.

Podgorny also stopped in India last October on his way back from Hanoi. He was welcomed with a one-hour reception at the Delhi airport, and was presented with a special calligraphic inscription by the premier. The two months were

Letter to the Editor

J. B. B. Murray, editor of the University of Iowa Library, said last year, "We have received a lot of correspondence participating in the program, but we have received some questions that approach the system as a means of supervising the library.

"The proposal to put vending machines in the library is not an easy task to have the students’ group agree to write off the debt. The students are involved in the decision-making process.

"The proposal would allow the students to write off the debt and be agreeable to ending the program. It is not an easy task to have the students’ group agree to write off the debt. The students are involved in the decision-making process.

"The proposal would allow the students to write off the debt and be agreeable to ending the program. It is not an easy task to have the students’ group agree to write off the debt. The students are involved in the decision-making process."
The Daily Iowan, Iowa City, Iowa

The budget of the Iowa University system is in a state of flux as the Board of Regents considers various options for the next biennium.

The Board is being asked by Associated Student Government President Willard Stanley to modify the budget proposal of the new chancellor, Robert H. recognize, in some areas, to meet the financial needs of the university.

The chancellor's budget proposal includes a number of recommendations, including a possible tuition increase.

The chancellor's budget proposal also includes the closure of several departments, including the Department of Health.

The chancellor's budget proposal also includes the closure of several departments, including the Department of Health.

The chancellor's budget proposal also includes the closure of several departments, including the Department of Health.

The chancellor's budget proposal also includes the closure of several departments, including the Department of Health.

The chancellor's budget proposal also includes the closure of several departments, including the Department of Health.

The chancellor's budget proposal also includes the closure of several departments, including the Department of Health.
Women charge Boyd
Job facts withheld

By MINNY HUNT
University of Iowa Press, Wilfrid L. Boyd, a journalism class at the University of Iowa, has published a bulletin for women who are interested in administrative positions. The bulletin aims to provide information about job opportunities for women within the university.

The bulletin highlights that many positions within the university have been advertised internally, with the only information provided being the job title and salary. It also notes that many positions have been filled without the involvement of women. The bulletin calls for a change in the administration's approach to recruitment and promotion opportunities.

The bulletin also includes a list of positions currently available, along with contact information for each. The list includes positions in areas such as administration, human resources, and finance.

The bulletin concludes by urging women interested in administration to consider applying for positions and providing feedback on their experiences. It also recommends that the administration be more transparent in its recruitment processes.

Denied dental lecture
Accuses UI of censorship

The University of Iowa has been accused of censorship after a dental hygiene professor was denied the opportunity to speak about fluoridation at a lecture.

The professor, who is also a member of the American Dental Association, was denied the opportunity to speak about fluoridation at a lecture due to concerns about the potential for controversy. The university has not provided a specific reason for the denial.

The professor has accused the university of censorship and has threatened legal action.

Increase in bike thefts

The Iowa City Police Department reported a significant increase in bike thefts over the past year. The greatest number of thefts occurred in the downtown area, with five-speed road bikes being targeted.

According to the police department, the best protection against bike theft is a sturdy lock. Registration of bikes is also recommended, as it may help identify the owner.

Women's back

LINDA HAGGERTY (Lancaster County) has initiated a survey for women in the community to help address their concerns. The survey is available online and can be accessed by clicking here.

The survey seeks to gather information about the needs and experiences of women in Lancaster County. It asks questions about employment, education, and community involvement.

The survey concludes with an open-ended question asking what actions the community can take to support women's needs.

Denied dental lecture

The University of Iowa has been accused of censorship after a dental hygiene professor was denied the opportunity to speak about fluoridation at a lecture.

The professor, who is also a member of the American Dental Association, was denied the opportunity to speak about fluoridation at a lecture due to concerns about the potential for controversy. The university has not provided a specific reason for the denial.

The professor has accused the university of censorship and has threatened legal action.

Increase in bike thefts

The Iowa City Police Department reported a significant increase in bike thefts over the past year. The greatest number of thefts occurred in the downtown area, with five-speed road bikes being targeted.

According to the police department, the best protection against bike theft is a sturdy lock. Registration of bikes is also recommended, as it may help identify the owner.

Women's back

LINDA HAGGERTY (Lancaster County) has initiated a survey for women in the community to help address their concerns. The survey is available online and can be accessed by clicking here.

The survey seeks to gather information about the needs and experiences of women in Lancaster County. It asks questions about employment, education, and community involvement.

The survey concludes with an open-ended question asking what actions the community can take to support women's needs.
The reaction to last week's article on the "vacanting" recycling program was predictable. Many people associated with various ecology groups contacted us. Some, such as the Citizens for Environmental Action, were succinctly embarrassed that the situation had gotten so bad as to bring forth such publicity. They got busy trying to straighten the situation out.

But others were querying about how they could go about cleaning things up in these sites and what kind of money publicly they'd get when and if they were to do the cleaning.

What is particularly odd is how this latter group of well-meaning people has anything about this situation prior to our front-page attention. Or, surely, they don't go around with blunders.

All this serves to point up how many volunteer efforts end up as exercises in futility. Recycling is too vital to our survival to be left to the queasiness or, as I say, vagaries of volunteer groups.

Perhaps the answer is to remove recycling from volunteer status. In several cities, the pick-up of bundled newspapers has been a part of regular municipal trash collection.

Citizens for Environmental Action is already circulating a petition for such municipal involvement in Iowa City, something that's at least raising the issue if not putting it onto the City Council.

What, in the shape of? We don't know at this point. Obviously, it is not a continuation of current episodic volunteer efforts. It seems inevitable that some forms of city-county administration will be necessary if the state of the current system is to be really remedied.

If the petition is to be effective, it's going to have to be backed up by facts - the alternative, suggestions from other cities and so on. The Daily Iowan, for a forum for social change, wants to undertake an exploration of the situation and see if municipal recycling would work. We're asking you for guest articles, opinions and informed comment. Let's face it, recycling is the business of survival.

More to come.

-Gerald Taucher
Survival Services Editor

Sticks and the Stones

Perhaps the biggest thing happening this summer for what used to be Woodstock Nation is the Rolling Stones' foray into the U.S. People might really like sharp sticks in the eye, though. For the Chicago concert the Rolling Stones will be a week in line from 7 to 1 a.m. in the p.m. by then the ever-lengthening line will be very sad.

The last visit to the States by the Stones was 2 yrs. ago. It was another because it happened to coincide with the Hippies person in the face of a. audience: 16-year-old Meredith Hunter, who presumably will probably cruise the Rolling Stones. The Stones, led by Mick Jagger, began their six-week tour June 3, in 34 days, they'll stop in cities beside Chicago. Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Al. Kiva, Tenn., and cities of various hue.

Gilliam said the movie was shot around, made at least one of the last place. The Stones also got an album out of it. The audience got "Jumping Jack Flash." "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Heart's and the movie was a "Dav. and" "Street Fighting Man." They also got to light the Rolls Royce. The Rolling Stones were able to make the knife go into the young black kid who pulled a gun at the Altamont concert.

The Stones survived Altamont, which is more than Brian Jones did. Brian's death is a reminder of what has been lost. Brian was found dead in the pool of his fashionable hotel. He had just dropped his head into the water and it was burned out like a marvelous candelabrum. People described it as scum, but it was not scum at all. A friend of Mick Jagger says that he had got it. No one exactly knows what Mick has this or how he's in the process of a change.

At a late concert in 1968, Jagger ripped through a number that he had written about losing his innocence or being a human being. He was a dropper, he was a chooser, he was a knifeman, and he was a troubleshooter and troublemaker. He was a artist.

Tickets for the Chicago concert were selling at $6.60, $8.60, and $10.60. So many people who wanted tickets were unable to get them that prices will undoubtedly go up. The Stones banquet will make a bagout out of any fan. Let's find a bunch at a guy, and dress like the band and run around.

-Stan Rowe
Option Staff Writer

mail

Wants better book policy

To the

For the last several years of books here the Soap Box & Book Supply has made a habit of reviewing books. They have been hopping books from all over the place and asking me to briefly write a review for them. I have sometimes been at a loss. I was not on the Register's Office what with being the Register's OFFICE. I have often been flabbergasted, though I am not alone, by the books that have been reviewed.

I cannot count them, but I have enough. I have now been into the books that have received reviews. It is only a few. But it can only be a few. The books that have been reviewed are

"I'm from Iowa." I am from Iowa. I have been in this country now for more than forty years.

Hannibal's hinting they're ready for secret talks

By Jack Anderson

Hannibal, Mo.  (May 12) - The Chinese and Soviet diplomats here have given up to the three main issues that they see as the basis of the conflict and the need for a mutual agreement. The Chinese and Soviet diplomats have reaffirmed the need for a mutual agreement as a way to settle the differences.

"The Chinese and Soviet diplomats have given up to the three main issues that they see as the basis of the conflict and the need for a mutual agreement. The Chinese and Soviet diplomats have reaffirmed the need for a mutual agreement as a way to settle the differences.

Hannibal's hinting they're ready for secret talks

By Jack Anderson

Hannibal, Mo. (May 12) - The Chinese and Soviet diplomats here have given up to the three main issues that they see as the basis of the conflict and the need for a mutual agreement. The Chinese and Soviet diplomats have reaffirmed the need for a mutual agreement as a way to settle the differences.

"The Chinese and Soviet diplomats have given up to the three main issues that they see as the basis of the conflict and the need for a mutual agreement. The Chinese and Soviet diplomats have reaffirmed the need for a mutual agreement as a way to settle the differences.

---The Register---

Hannibal's hinting they're ready for secret talks

WASHINGTO. - Hannibal's hinting they're ready for secret talks in Paris, Le Figaro, Le Figaro, Le Figaro. A diplomatic effort is under way to try to make secret talks possible, the Register of Hannibal's foreign policy police

"I'm from Iowa." I am from Iowa. I have been in this country now for more than forty years.

Protest actions deflected

The protest actions that were supposed to show support for the Vietnamese were deflected. The protest actions that were supposed to show support for the Vietnamese were deflected.

The protest actions that were supposed to show support for the Vietnamese were deflected.

WILPF's double purpose-peace and women's rights

WILPF is planning a double purpose-peace and women's rights. The organization is planning to show support for the Vietnamese and support for women's rights.

Dreams of Peace

A dream of Peace is a dream of Peace. The organization is planning to show support for the Vietnamese and support for women's rights.
Graduate accepts Asian position

By BARB YOST

Staff Writer

All of us have heard that the Vietnamese were not ready for what happened to them after the war. We were told by the people in uniform who took care of them during the partition, in an interview.

To meet three who do manage to talk about their adventures, we need to read from the morning crowd, a group of four people, from Phnom Penh, Indochina, seems for easy and faster. They have bared their thoughts in a brief look. They differ. They all look for the Vietnamese to speak English, at least if at all.

Don't see the need for that way.

"I was on Aug. 20, in the Phnom Penh airport. There were a number of people standing by the side of the runway, and I thought like the style of living, enjoyed the crowd, and knew when we arrived. after I returned that I would like to go through the other things. I'm not only coming over to get a better understanding of the Vietnamese. Two reasons for moving.

The first reason is that right now the job
after I returned that I would like to go
from the U.S., where the journalism
plays, and knew within six months
people. and knew within six months
they have some semblance of civilization. I'm not only coming over to get a better
understanding of the Vietnamese. Two
reasons for moving.

The second reason is that right now the job
after I returned that I would like to go
from the U.S., where the journalism
plays, and knew within six months
people. and knew within six months
they have some semblance of civilization. I'm not only coming over to
get a better
understanding of the Vietnamese. Two
reasons for moving.

The second reason is that right now the job
after I returned that I would like to go
from the U.S., where the journalism
plays, and knew within six months
people. and knew within six months
they have some semblance of civilization. I'm not only coming over to
get a better
understanding of the Vietnamese. Two
reasons for moving.

The second reason is that right now the job
after I returned that I would like to go
from the U.S., where the journalism
plays, and knew within six months
people. and knew within six months
they have some semblance of civilization. I'm not only coming over to
get a better
understanding of the Vietnamese. Two
reasons for moving.

The second reason is that right now the job
after I returned that I would like to go
from the U.S., where the journalism
plays, and knew within six months
people. and knew within six months
they have some semblance of civilization. I'm not only coming over to
get a better
understanding of the Vietnamese. Two
reasons for moving.

The second reason is that right now the job
after I returned that I would like to go
from the U.S., where the journalism
plays, and knew within six months
people. and knew within six months
they have some semblance of civilization. I'm not only coming over to
get a better
understanding of the Vietnamese. Two reasons for moving.