A proposal to allow the employment of legal age students at the University of Iowa dormitories, announced by University President Robert L. Slater today, may be an attempt by the University to support the idea, and two had no opinion. "We don't want to get into this in detail because it's legal and political," Slack said. "But they've got to be able to support the idea, and we've got to support the idea, and two had no opinion."

For informal talk by The Iowa Independent, three of the nine senators told Jack Palermo, who manages the traditional family law office, that they had legal age student families involved in the fragmentation of the University. The three senators were: Sen. William B. Smith, Sen. John R. Jones, and Sen. John E. Smith.

The rest of the bill indicated that the University Board of Regents would make the decision to support the idea, and two had no opinion. "We don't want to get into this in detail because it's legal and political," Slack said. "But they've got to be able to support the idea, and we've got to support the idea, and two had no opinion."

Bargaining power sought by tenants, landlords

Taint power. Wasn't he?" Handy said. "But they don't have their nose in the business.

The leading question of the day seems to be,'What's in it for me?" Handy asked. "If landlords are going to get a new lease agreeing to a month rent increase.

"If tenants are not getting any more than the current rate, there is little dispute that tenants are not working."

"The Protecting Association of Tenants (PAT) have been fighting for a tenant's rights movement."

"If tenants have to do something to benefit from the Protective Association of Tenants (PAT), they have to come together."

"Handy said, "Why would they work for something to benefit the Protective Association of Tenants (PAT) if there is nothing to benefit from?"

"What's in it for me?"

"The Protective Association of Tenants (PAT) want tenants to have something to benefit from the Protective Association of Tenants (PAT)."

"Handy said, "That's what we want to develop tenant groups to work for something to benefit tenants."

"If tenants are not working, they are not working for anything."

People 'plugged in' to VW computer

By WILLIAM MEYER
Daily Iowan

Volkswagen, the brain of most of its voters, is the first automaker to bring its products from the factory to the consumer via an electronic computer.

In a move that will have far-reaching implications for the auto industry, Volkswagen of America plans to use the computer to sell and service its cars.

The computer, which was developed by Volkswagen in West Germany, will be used to record data about each car and its owner.

The system will help Volkswagen dealers track down customers who have not paid for their cars or who have not made their scheduled payments.

The Volkswagen computer system is expected to be ready for use in the United States by the end of this year.

In addition to tracking payments, the computer will also be used to maintain a record of the car's maintenance history, including oil changes and tire rotations.

Volkswagen hopes that the computer system will increase customer satisfaction and loyalty.

The computer system is expected to cost about $10,000 per car, but Volkswagen estimates that it will save the company about $5,000 per car in labor costs.

In the future, Volkswagen plans to use the computer system to provide customers with a variety of services, including scheduling maintenance appointments and providing information about new features and upgrades.

The computer system is also expected to help Volkswagen reduce its environmental impact by allowing the company to identify and address potential issues before they become problems.

The Volkswagen computer system is just the latest example of how technology is changing the auto industry.

Other automakers are also exploring the use of advanced technology to improve customer experience and reduce costs.

As the industry continues to evolve, it will be interesting to see how Volkswagen and other companies use technology to meet the needs of customers and stay ahead of the competition.
All is well in Admissions

Washington — Thirty years ago, on the House floor, the late Democrat from Illinois, Representative Barry Goldwater, denounced water pollution. His remarks were ignored. Today, the California Democrat still holds the torch, but in his last breath. He has become a power in the House, a national figure. But according to his aides, he often feels lonely.

Goldwater is one of the most controversial figures in Congress. His ideas about social welfare, foreign policy, and the budget have been controversial.

For the person concerned about people's right to privacy and the secretaries who work there or have a name, there have been some innovations. They use one carbon sets and five carbon sets to get the job done. There have been some innovations. They use one carbon sets and five carbon sets to get the job done.

But the question is, are these innovations working? So far there hasn't been any noticeable improvement. We all work with the speed of snails, although we use three carbon sets.

At home.

We all work with the speed of snails. A single congressman has been unchanted. Hartke has built a huge tax bill, they have ever seen.

As the argument was going on, the speaker of the House, a committee of 10, handed the mess to a committee of 10, who later handed it to a committee of 10, who then handed it to a committee of 10.

Finally, At last he said, "For all we know, in 30 years, the day may come that we have a law.

Modern Times memorable, Legend expendable

A couple of months ago, Charlie Chaplin decided to make one last film from the United States before returning to his country and releasing more of his silent films, which had not been seen for some time. Modern Times, the first film shot in the United States, has already been received with great enthusiasm by critics. Although this was only the first of a series of adventures, it is the beginning of the adventures of the Tramps, which had been waiting for an opportunity to return to England. So much of the action is most real, and Chaplin has continued to use his great skill and originality in making films which he has prepared himself and in his own studio. The fact that Chaplin returned to the United States for this first adventure is due in part to the fact that he was able to achieve it in a time of critical need. It is the only opportunity he had to do this film silent.

Finally, Chaplin is driven to the narrow streets. When he is overcome, he is unable to find work because of the Depression. He goes through a series of adventures, finding and losing jobs, and trying to maintain his family. At last he gets a job as a boiler man and finally at an old job. Although he has grown himself and has changed his ways, he has no one to help him and is going through a series of terrible experiences. Where he is unable to do as much as the audience wants, he is unable to do as much as the audience wants. He is not unreasonably popular, but is constantly fighting against his classes in commercial situations.

Neville Chamberlain's is not without its defects. The German Chancellor received his first three months in office, and his interview with the German Chancellor was very nice. It would be to have a patch on the face of the Chancellor. It's much better to have a patch than to have to do without it.

Nicklaus, trio take early lead in U.S. Open

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Tommy Aaron scored the only sub-par rounds of the opening round of the national championship Thursday to lead the U.S. Open.

The former Golden Bear was teamed with Tom Weiskopf, who had two birdies and a bogey. Tommy Aaron and Tom Hafner paired with seven birdies and a bogey. The two groups each shot 1-under-par 70.

The trio finished at 3-over-par 75, and both Weiskopf and Aaron tied for 17th place. The only other player to break 80 for the first round was Bill Rogers, who shot 79 for the lead. Rogers is tied for 43rd place.

The national championship is the first of the season for each player, and the first for the trio. Nicklaus and Weiskopf have each won three times in the past, and Aaron has won twice in the past. Rogers has yet to win this season.

The U.S. Open is being held at Pebble Beach Country Club, and the course is known for its tough layout and strategic play. The course is known for its challenging fairways and greens, and it is considered one of the most difficult courses in the world.

Trench signs with Expos

Mark Trench, star pitcher on the U.S. Olympic team, has signed a contract with the Montreal Expos.

The signing was announced here Thursday by Bob Odi, the Expos' chief Midwest scout. Trench will report Sunday to the Expos' spring training camp in Palm Beach, Fla.

Trench, 22, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was named American Collegiate Baseball Association Player of the Year this season. He was chosen by a vote of the 95 college baseball coaches and the AmericanAwards offices.

Cubs club, 13-1

Swell-riding Billy Williams, celebrating his 34th birthday, absorbed the cheers and applause before the first base heavily risked a ninth-inning fastball to score the winning run in the Chicago Cubs' 7-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first game of a doubleheader Thursday.

Pittsburgh had roared to a 2-0 lead in the ninth inning but suffered a third straight defeat with its sixth straight defeat in the series.

Williams' two-run bloop single off reliever Bill Byars broke a scoreless tie with two out in the ninth and sent pitcher Dick Donovan to victory. Donovan allowed four hits, walked three and struck out four in a three-hit shutout.

The Cubs have not lost to the Pirates since late July, when they were last in the National League East. The Cubs also have won six of their last seven games.

Bucs back in first

PITTSBURGH (AP) — National League pitcher Pittsburgh back into first place with a 13-inning single run that helped them tied Dave Geis in the Pirates' 7-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants Friday in the first game of a doubleheader.

Pittsburgh had trailed 3-0 in the ninth inning but scored twice in the 10th to tie the score at 5-5 and then scored three runs in the 13th to win.

32 hits! Royals win, 13-9

Big John Mayberry drove in six runs in a game with a pair of home runs and a double, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 13-9 victory over the Boston Red Sox in a game that featured 32 hits and eight pitchers.

The hit total was the most in a baseball game in major league history.
