Debate reorganization of SDC

By JOHN HEILSEL

Matt Water

The new "service center" in the Wheel Room of the Union is running in the black and should operate effectively with local help soon, according to Matt Water, new student manager.

"We’ve never had local help on our job," Water said. "First night we had no local help, but we worked that really well, and we’ve had really good nights, with the help that’s here. We’re meeting our goals and exceeding our goals, and we have no reason to think we won’t continue to improve." Water added.

According to estimates that have studied attendance (ESA), 19,200 customers last fall. It was the first night for beer sale in the Wheel Room.

"We try to have a lot of fun, but we also see a viable means of transportation that is both enjoyable and accessible," Water said.

The proposals concern the reorganization of the Student Development Center, which folded in August. The request was made by the University Counseling Service and Planning and Placement, and the Student Programs Team (now called Office of Organizational Development, OOD), was formed to help in the reorganization of the SDC as well as to promote innovative and helpful in the "Student Development Center" (SDC).

"We just don’t know how long it will last at this point," Water said.

Shriver describes new era of justice

DENA MOORE, Iowa AP — Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver told university-age college students Wednesday that this new era of justice represented a new era of opportunity.

Shriver's speech to students at Drake University pointed out what he said was the inadequacy of justice administered by the Nixon administration and the justice system that would be called into play if it won.

"The special lawyers and judges of the Nixon administration would be able to do this," Shriver said.

Shriver concluded his address by saying that the new era of justice in this nation under Richard Nixon would never be any more modern than it was at any time in modern history," he told the assembled students.

"There is no way that the Nixon administration would fail in finding the cause of justice by "pulling a string," Shriver added.

"It is justice being delivered to "in" the same way that these citizens' literally suffer injustice," and failing to "in descend" for the sake of the "in" administrat ion of justice.

"Justice under President Nixon," Shriver said it would be "expanded to seek out new results in contrast to the sources of injustice in our society," he promised.

NIXON "I don't promise that every case would be tried, nor in every case, the other, would fail a new officer charged with the duty of expanding justice for us citizens." Nixon's audience applauded what he said to be his belief that this would be a new era in the personal history of justice.

"A nation which can devise enough multidimensional computer systems should be able to devise systems in which justice is dispensed automatically and in accordance with precedents when citizens seek exercise their rights.

"The deeper appearance and the era of the new justice epoch," Shriver said, "is the result of the National Committee of Justice that he was flabbergasted with "official injustice." Nixon was in his camp during the election period when "official injustice" was occurring at the nation's Black, Indian, and other minority groups.

The nation, he said, is "too flabbergasted" to permit his administration to continue the "official injustice." Nixon's audience applauded what he said to be his belief that this would be a new era in the personal history of justice.

Anti ISPRG

To the Editor:

The policy of recent cuts in food aid to the Palestinians by the United States government is a direct assault on human dignity. Our government is supporting the Israeli army in its illegal occupation of Palestinian territory and the displacement of thousands of Palestinians.

We are writing to support the steps taken by the Palestinian Ministry of Education to establish a Ministry of Education in the occupied territories. This ministry plays a vital role in providing education to the Palestinian children who have been denied their right to education. It is important to support this ministry and its efforts to provide education to the Palestinian children.

Blind bias

To the Editor:

I am not clear as to why 35 percent of the student body is to be refunded. Can they shy away from their allotted challenge? Can they cease publication because they simply made necessary by an immediate and urgent need to publish? The Court has not yet ruled on that.

Schools use new law to step up repression

The School of Education, supervised by the Ministry of Education, has become a weapon to consolidate the Zionist regime, and to justify its blind bias of the occupation of Palestine. The violation of the Geneva Accord of 1962, and the limited type of military equipment furnished by the United States and other countries, has prompted the School of Education to step up repression.

The school has recently included the following article in the educational curriculum:

Editor's note The following article comes from The Guardian, an Irish newspaper.

I am opposed to busi ng for the purpose of intervening in a foreign country for the purpose of intervening in a foreign country and exporting arms.

Papers seized

In the last two months because of the seizure of Slough newspapers there have been 100 cases. During a six-month period in July, newspaper reporters, and for articles appearing for the purpose of interfering with the internal security of another country, have been seized. The newspaper is being used to provide information to the public that is intended to interfere with the internal security of another country.

A. Yes, that is not the real problem. The real problem is that the conditions of "that man" exist and, if a new system is to be established, that man must be kept from interfering with the new system.

Kane rebuttal

To the Editor:

"The Kane" will pick up some of your reader's complaints that are not "all alike" which my Republican opponents have. I assure you that the Kane is a newspaper for the people, the taxpayer, and the reader. I will combat any attempts by the Kane to mislead the public.

We're not in the habit of saying that anyone is unqualified to be a candidate. We respect all the candidates who are running.

I'm not sure what your candidate means when he says "no issues of his own in the rural areas." He seems to be suggesting that I have no issues in the rural areas.

Local fiddlers picnic to be held Sunday

"Take a picnic with Middle music," is how one Friend of Old Time Music described last year's Old Time Fiddlers Picnic. The name has stuck and a number of fiddlers plan to return to the farm of Jan Foster, a member of Old Time Music. The place is called Castle Rock, and is open to the public. Local fiddlers Art Schoonhoven and Pete Delaney are now in preparation. Alan Murphy of the Blue Ribbon Union may show up with his Uncle Lee from Edmonton. A few fiddlers from Grandin county come.

The picnic is open to everyone and refreshments will be available, but people should bring their own picknic basket. Containers will be selected to support the Old Time Music concert series.

Foster is an expert in midwest old Iowa fiddlers. His house is on the right near the trailer court. People should park either in the field or all of the country road past the form, not on the highway.

The date is Oct. 6.

Hawks’ objective: contain Hufnage

BY ROBERT R. \n
The Iowa State backfield worked on all phases of the passing game yesterday in the Hawks last 40 points prior to Saturday.

For the second day in a row, the squad prac¬ ticed a straight pass play, press Penn State’s Barry Skar, along with Northwestern’s Davey "Hawk" Hawkey, will play in this season.

Head Coach Larry Engle put special emphasis on perfecting the options, routes, and speed of passing to Hufnage, quarterbacking the Hawks.

"It’s not to say we’re just going to go into our game plan and run plays down the field," Engle said. "We’ll continue to stay in our league because it is possible to have its penalties eliminated. Without a doubt, any of our five wide receivers has caught the ball extremely well in the past few days," Engle said.

Starting defensive end Roger Arkfeld and second-year back reservoirs have thrown the ball extremely well in the past few days," Engle said.

Arkfeld and Bryan Yarosh have caught the ball extremely well in the past few days," Engle said.

Marshalltown fan remembers first Kinnick name drive

BY NELSON HOEHN (Toledo Blade) - In this week's Toledo Blade, the story of how the name "Nile Kinnick" was chosen for the University of Iowa's stadium was retold. The story, by Harry M. Beardsley, provided a fascinating look into the history of the stadium.

The stadium was named after Nile Kinnick, a University of Iowa football player who died in action during World War II. The story detailed the process of selecting the name, including a contest among the students. The name "Nile Kinnick" was chosen as a tribute to Kinnick and his legacy.

The story also touched on the importance of the stadium to the university and the community, as well as the role it played in Iowa City. It was a great piece of good sportswriting, as it provided valuable context and depth to the story.

Sailors host Big Ten meet

By T.R. WENDELL HOEL, Jr.

The Iowa State University swimming and diving team hosted a Big Ten meet this weekend at the Lake Macbride Field House. The meet was hosted by the Iowa Swimming and Diving Club, which represents the University of Iowa.

The meet featured several races, including 200-yard freestyle, 200-yard backstroke, 200-yard breaststroke, and 200-yard individual medley. The team was led by Thomas Sheehan, who won the 200-yard freestyle race with a time of 1:49.94.

The meet also featured a relay race, the 400-yard medley relay. The team of Sheehan, Matt Black, Ben Streat, and Mark Rhee won the race with a time of 3:39.98.

The weekend marked the first time the Iowa State University swimming and diving team had hosted a Big Ten meet. The team hopes to continue to host more events in the future.
Kidwell: changed outlook
